Assailant sought in Hines slashing

Driver battles few — police

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Local police departments don't feel that traffic altercations — which sometimes involve drivers stopping their cars and trading punches after a disagreement or an accident — are a problem.

That was the conclusion of acting lead commander Roger Wilkes of the Garden City police department and Officer Steve Frazer of the Westland department's traffic bureau.

In separate telephone interviews, each said he hasn't seen any evidence of a problem of traffic violence.

But neighboring departments are reporting an increase.

The departments were surveyed Tuesday after an incident on the Hines Drive in which a motorist was run off the road and then attacked with a knife.

That incident occurred Sunday, when an apparently angry driver slashed a Livonia man with a knife on Hines Drive near Levan Knoll in Livonia.

The man's wounds required 70 stitches.

The incidents usually begin, said Livonia Police Sgt. Jesse Bartlett, "When one guy cuts another guy off."

Next comes an obscene gesture. Then both drivers pull over to the side of the road, and one driver might try to open the other driver's door.

Bleeding from numerous cuts on his body, a Livonia man walked 1 1/2 miles Sunday to get help after being slashed with a knife on Edward Hines Drive near Levan.

The slashing followed a 12:30 a.m. traffic altercation in which a dark-colored Camaro forced the 24-year-old victim off the road and into some trees.

Police said on Wednesday that they had identified "about a dozen" cars registered in the area that match the Camaro's description. Sgt. Jesse Bartlett said an investigation of the car's owners would take at least through Friday.

After receiving 70 stitches, the victim, who police declined to identify, was released Monday from St. Mary Hospital.

He had cuts on his forehead, neck, cheek, hand and stomach, said Bartlett. The deepest wound was on the victim's hand, which he had held up to defend himself, Bartlett said.

"He walked a long distance to get help," Bartlett said. "He passed houses but was afraid to knock on doors because he was so bloody. He was afraid they wouldn't help him."

After an hour-long interview with the victim Wednesday, a Michigan State Police artist compiled a composite drawing of the knife-wielding attacker.

POLICE ARE seeking a man who was a passenger in a dark blue or black 1980 or 1981 Camaro. The victim said the Camaro was in poor condition.

Bartlett said the passenger jumped out of the Camaro, pulled a six-inch, non-collapsible knife out of

Schnarr named as acting chief for city police

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Inspector Paul A. Schnarr, a 22-year Westland police veteran, was named acting police chief Tuesday by Mayor Charles Griffin.

Schnarr temporarily replaces Fred Dansby, who announced his retirement last month to accept a job as public safety director in Romulus. Schnarr was the department's second highest ranking officer under Dansby.

Griffin said Tuesday he hopes to fill the chief's job by March, following the promotional testing procedure set by the city's civil service commission.

The commission administers written and oral exams to candidates and certifies results. The mayor is obligated to promote the candidate with the top score, unless he chooses to leave the permanent job vacant.

Schnarr is expected to be a candidate, along with as many as four qualifying lieutenants currently serving the department. To qualify for a promotion, police officers must have served at least two years at their current grade.

"There's no question that until we find a permanent replacement Inspector Schnarr is fully qualified to run the department," Griffin said.

"As second in command, he's had the experience of filling in for the chief on a day-to-day basis in the past."

The job is expected to be filled by March, after civil service testing by a city commission.

SCHNARR SERVED for eight years as a public safety officer in Oak Park before becoming a charter member of the new Westland police force in the fall of 1986.

He finished a close second to Dansby in written and oral examinations for the chief's job two years ago.

Griffin said the city's next police chief would be someone who would "not only interact well with department personnel, but will also relate well to the public."

"He (the new chief) has got to be a communicator," Griffin said. Griffin also said the ability to work within a budget would be a priority and that he would consider previous experience in that area a plus in any candidate.

Dansby, the third police chief in the department's 22-year history, surprised many with his retirement announcement. He had been the chief for less than two years after being named in February 1987 to replace William Rechlin.

Mother of murdered teenager files lawsuit

$10 million sought from 5 in case

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

The mother of a 13-year-old Stevenson Junior High School girl murdered two years ago filed a lawsuit Wednesday seeking $10 million from the assailants, their families and a friend of the victim.

The lawsuit was filed almost two years to the day after Mary Anne Hulbert was shot seven times in a Superior Township field. Christopher Machacek and Steven Stamper, both 18, were convicted last fall in connection with the killing.

"I know I'm not going to get anything out of it," said Debbie Hulbert, mother of the girl who attended the Westland school on Palmer west of Newburgh.

Mrs. Hulbert is pursuing it "so people know what is involved and what the legal battles are," she said.

HULBERT'S ATTORNEY, James Tanelian, said in addition to the two defendants, the suit names Tudie Braddam, Stamper's natural grandmother and adoptive mother; Diana McKenzie, Machacek's guardian with whom he lived at the time of the murder, and Machacek's mother, Mary Ann Schelm.

The suit also names Marla Karch, a neighbor and close friend of Mary Anne Hulbert's, "on a conspiracy charge," Tanelian said.

Karch testified at the trials, held separately in Washtenaw County Circuit Court in September, that on the day of the murder she drove Hulbert to the entrance of the mobile home park in which they lived. Machacek and Stamper were waiting to pick her up there, testimony indicated.

JEFFREY STROUSS, the court-appointed attorney who defended Stamper at the trial, has been retained to defend Braddam and Stamper.

The suit "looks like a ploy for publicity," he said.

"Where's the money? It's just blowing smoke, is what he's doing," Strouss said Thursday.

Strouss said that based on the evidence presented at trial he doesn't believe Braddam can be held liable for Stamper's actions.

"I was there and I don't understand it," he said.

Mary Anne Hulbert

Braddam said she "figured" Hulbert would sue.

"There's nothing I can do about it. What can she get?" Braddam said.

Richard Digon, Machacek's court-appointed attorney, said he has not been asked to become involved in the civil suit.

HULBERT HAD dated both defendants, and at the time of her death she believed she was pregnant by Machacek. An autopsy indicated she was not pregnant.

parole. Stamper was found guilty of second-degree murder. He, too, was sentenced to life in prison, but could be paroled.

THERE IS "only a remote chance" that Hulbert could recover any money from the assailants, Tanelian said.

He said he wants to be sure that if anyone named in the suit comes into "some kind of windfall," such as an inheritance, lottery winnings or profits from selling the story of the crime, they will not profit.

"It's to protect my daughter's rights," Hulbert said. "I don't want the story used for somebody to make money."

Laws are in place that prohibit convicts from profiting from selling the rights to a story about a crime in which they were involved.

The Hulbert case was featured on the television show "A Current Affair," and in Young Miss magazine. Hulbert said she cooperated with representatives of the magazine "because they are helping young kids."

Hulbert was killed Dec. 30, 1986. Her body was found by two hunters eight days later.

Man assaulted along Hines; assailant free

his jacket and attacked the victim as he tried to run away.

Bartlett described the assailant as white, about 23, 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 10 inches, medium build, brown hair, with a light mustache and a few days growth of beard. He was wearing a brown leather jacket and a blue shirt. Anyone with information should call Bartlett at 421-2141.

The victim gave police the following account of the incident:

HE WAS westbound on Hines Drive near Levan Knoll when he saw a car coming toward him in the same westbound lane. He swerved to avoid hitting the car and crashed into some trees.

Because of the damage to his car, he couldn't get his car started, nor could he immediately open the door.

In the meantime, the car that had forced him off the road turned around and pulled up behind him. Shouting obscenities, the passenger got out, pulled a knife and came toward him.

The victim finally got his car door open and started to run. But the driver of the Camaro pulled up in front of him and blocked his escape.

His assailant slashed him with the knife and then got back into the Camaro, which headed east on Hines Drive.

The victim walked 1 1/4 miles to a pizzeria at Newburgh Road and Ann Arbor Trail, where he called police.

On Monday, police released a man picked up 10 minutes after the attack who was in a dark car near Hines Drive.

The man passed a polygraph exam and his photo was not identified by the victim, Bartlett said.

Driver battles few — police

"Before, they'd yell at one another," Bartlett said. "Now the amount of physical contact we see is on the upswing."

REDFORD Township Police Officer John Mazzoni said his department often handles incidents where drivers are on the verge of duking it out with one another after a traffic mishap.

"We have our fair share," said Mazzoni. "It's picked up. We get a lot of altercations at accidents. They exchange heated words."

Neither officer could give a reason for the increase in combative drivers.

Bartlett said he's investigated some traffic altercations where one driver threatens another with a gun.

He urged drivers who are threatened by other drivers to "back off. Back away from them if they can, get to the police station and file a report. Don't push the incident any farther than it's gone."

MAZZONI agreed.

"The safest way is to come in and file a report if somebody purposely cuts you off," he said.

Drivers who are involved in traffic altercations "are usually younger, with a temper that's a little bit out of control," Bartlett said.

Drivers who stop their cars and trade punches can face charges ranging from simple assault to felonious assault, he said.

Contributing to the story was staff reporter Leonard Poger.

Elderly get free tests

Free health tests will be given to elderly people at the Westland Friendship Center, on Newburgh north of Marquette, Wednesday.

The tests are for people 60 and older through a Discover Good Health program sponsored by the Peoples Community Hospital Authority. Staffing the tests will be employees from Annapolis Hospital, Wayne, one of five PCHA units.

Appointments are urged for the screenings with people directed to call 467-4638.

The screenings will include vision, glaucoma, cataract, hearing and blood chemistry tests, blood pressure check, lung check, breast exam, TB skin test, oral exam, health information and counseling.

While some test results will be available at the Friendship Center, the full screening results will be mailed to the person about two weeks later, said Michael Thomas, PCHA spokesman.

"If test results fall outside the normal range and the person doesn't have a personal physician, referrals can be made to the appropriate health care organizations," Thomas said.

Winter in Wayne

From skating to VCR hibernating, county has it all

By Tedd Schneider and Brian Lybaught
staff writers

Now is the winter of our discontent?

Sorry, Bill (Shakespeare). Not this year. Not in western Wayne County.

With a dizzying array of winter-time recreation activities available to them, residents should be anything but morose during the next three months.

From traditional activities such as ice skating and skiing, to the offbeat like snowboarding and winter golf, there's enough to please even the most ardent outdoor types.

And when the thermometer drops below zero — making it too cold for many outdoor activities — there's always the bowling alley or (for couch potatoes) the good old videocassette recorder to turn to.

For local rink rats, there are winter hockey leagues and figure skating clubs in most communities.

HOCKEY PARENTS should this winter expect to pay $260-$350 to equip young players. The world's fastest sport never claimed to be the world's cheapest.

The equipment has improved greatly in recent years, said Bob Griffin, owner of Griffin's Sport Shop in Livonia, which features hockey equipment prominently among its wares each winter. The equipment gets lighter, more durable and more protective each year, he said.

Griffin, whose son played college hockey in Wisconsin, said the biggest growth may be among older players, in the 25-30 year old range. The hockey generation has grown up. There are fewer kids playing, he said.

"Back in the early 1970s, it just exploded when they built all the rinks," Griffin said. But, he said, the success in recent years of the Red Wings has contributed to the popularity of the sport among locals.

The cost of a pair of figure skates is $55-$275, and a pair of hockey skates is about $200.

Figure skating, he said, seems to be continually growing, especially in Olympic years, and among men and boys.

"FROM WHAT I've read, every year that the Olympics are on television, on those years you see the number of people interested in the sport increases," said Michael Keyanchuk, president of the Garden City Figure Skating Club.

He said the club, which has a number of top-rated skaters, began about 10 years ago with 18-20 skaters. There are now 70 skaters, 140 total, including parental members, and growing each year, Keyanchuk said. Most are under 18.

The club hosts a competition this February for skaters from around Michigan and Ohio. The club's major function is to allow members to compete in the United States Figure Skating Association meets.

Competitive skating, he said, is a demanding sport. "If your a competitive skater you have to on the ice a lot because you know other skaters are on the ice a lot."

STEVE JONES/staff photographer

Keyanchuk said his daughter skates 20 hours a week. The club home is Garden City Civic Arena.

There is cross country skiing in Hines Park and on some public golf courses, including both Idyl Wyld and Whispering Willows in Livonia.

Despite a mild December, the downhill ski season is in full swing at area resorts.

But downhill skiers are sharing the slopes this year with a relatively new wintertime activity — snowboarding.

THE SPORT is a hybrid of skiing, skateboarding and surfing and is "a lot of fun," said Brian Sherman of Canton Township.

Sherman, 16, has been an avid snowboarder for a couple of years and says adults in their 20s and 30s are beginning to pick up on the sport in addition to teenagers.

Alpine Valley and Mount Brighton are among the local resorts which welcome snowboarders. But Sherman said any local sledding hill can be used as well.

Snowboarders launch themselves down a hill or ski slope and "ride" the snow to the bottom. Hills are often equipped with half-pipes, a man-made series of banks that allow snowboarders to do flips and other tricks.

"It looks scary, but it's really safer than skiing because your feet are together on one board, instead of on two separate skis," Sherman said.

Snowboards — which look like surfboards (no bottom fin though) with boot bindings attached — are available at sporting goods stores and ski shops. They range in price from $50 to $500, Sherman said.

Some of the cheaper models that don't feature hard, plastic-coated bottoms aren't allowed at ski resorts, Sherman said.

A snowboarder will also have to wear good, insulated boots with heavy soles. Sorell or other brands popular among snowmobilers are good, Sherman said.

All that is fine and dandy if you're a true winter sports enthusiast. But what about golf fanatics? Where do they go when the greens turn white. To Redford.

THE GLENHURST Golf Club, on Six Mile at Telegraph is open 10 a.m.-5 p.m. weekends all winter long, weather permitting.

Club manager Bill Everman said the number of winter golfers is on the upswing.

"If it (the weather) isn't too bad, we might have 40 people out on the course at one time," he said. The club runs a scrambles competition if there are enough players.

Everman said players use orange balls for easier spotting and play continues even with an inch or two of snow on the ground. Anything more than that and the course will probably be closed though.

Fees are $4 for nine holes and $7 for 18. Golfers should call in advance (592-8758) to make sure the course is open.

For the golfer who isn't quite ready to forsake comfort in order to hone his or her craft, there's the indoor golf dome at Oasis Golf Center, 1-275 at Six Mile in Livonia.

The dome features a computerized indoor driving range that automatically figures the distance of any ball hit into the net.

The golf dome is open seven days a week. Fees range between $8 and $8 per half-hour, depending on day and time. For information call Oasis,

The last time you laced up a pair of skates was eighth-grade gym class. It was either that or explain an "F" in gym to your parents.

Skiing? On snow? Ha! That's for people who have a death wish, or at least a gold card when it comes to their health insurance coverage.

Just because the traditional, outdoor winter sports aren't your forte doesn't mean you have to sit around and vegetate.

You can always go bowling.

In fact, fall and winter are the height of the bowling season. Local lanes have leagues and tournaments by the score.

Even if you're a novice, there are programs designed just for you.

Take the "3-6-9 Tournament," held every other Sunday at the Super Bowl in Canton Township. Bowlers mark their score sheets with a strike in every third, sixth and ninth frame — even if they throw a gutter ball.

THE SUNDAY night tourney,

which begins at 8:30 p.m., is open to all bowlers. For $9 a person, bowlers get four games, a mystery game and shoe rental.

The Super Bowl also features league bowling on Monday, Thursday and Sunday nights, said manager Sandy Combs.

Bowlers can be in leagues that meet once a month, every third week or every other week. The $4.95 per session fee includes three games and shoe rental.

You can form a team with three friends, or just show up and you'll be placed on a team.

There is a bumper bowling league (the gutters are filled with rubber stoppers) for children age 2-8, weekly adult youth tournaments and a Saturday Night no-tap mixed doubles league as well.

For information, call the Super Bowl, 459-6070.

For information call 453-1620.

If you'd rather just hibernate between January and April, well, there's always your VCR.

NEW RELEASES this winter include "Red Heat" (just released), "Bull Durham" and "Die Hard" (Jan. 26), and "A Fish Called Wanda" (Feb. 26), said Regina Cobb, assistant manager of the Blockbuster Video store on Ford at Wayne Road, Westland.

The store also rents videocassette recorders ($9.95 for two days) on an availability basis.

Area Ice Spectacular taking shape

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Local residents are hoping for winter weather to enjoy the seventh annual Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular — played in past years by balmy spring temperatures.

The event opens today and runs through Jan. 15.

Here are some questions and answers on the event, which attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors.

How did the extravaganza get started?

As Scott Lorenz, co-chairman of the event and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel, tells it:

"Seven years ago, I saw a story on '60 Minutes' about the Sapporo (Japan) Ice Show. I got hold of Mr. (Henry) Graper (city manager) and my father (Ralph Lorenz) and said: 'If they can do it there, why can't we do it here?'"

"We contacted Schoolcraft College and put it on in 45 days. It was modest, in Kellogg Park. It was received exceptionally well."

A couple hundred thousand are expected during the run of this year's extravaganza.

So when is the best time to show up to avoid the throngs?

"Avoid Sunday afternoons at all cost," Lorenz said. "The best time . . . to not get caught up in traffic is mornings before 11 o'clock and after 9, 10 o'clock at night."

"The best photos are at night and the first thing in the morning at sunrise," he said.

Keep in mind that traffic will be rerouted around Kellogg Park Saturdays and Sundays. The Main-Ann Arbor, Trill and Main-Penniman intersections will be closed to motorists both weekends of the show.

What about other amenities? Portable toilets will be placed behind The Gathering on Penniman.

"I recommend people park in the central city lot parking deck," Lorenz said. "They can get in off Ann Arbor Trail. It's unbelievable. People never find it there."

Additional parking will be available at the CSX Railroad Yard at Starkweather and Pearl. Horse-drawn carriages and shuttles, arranged by the Old Village Association, will transport people downtown from there for a nominal fee.

Who carves the ice sculptures and what does it involve?

Professional and student chefs, mostly.

But see for yourself. Student chefs will compete in The Gathering at 9 a.m. Saturday. Professionals will compete at the same time, same place the following Saturday, Jan. 14.

A new three-person competition will take place at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13, in Kellogg Park.

Most of the individual statues initially displayed were carved by Jim Nadeau and an associate from Chicago, plus local professional and student chefs at Midwest Ice Corp. in Detroit, Lorenz said.

How long it takes to develop a statue from a 400-pound block of ice depends on the experience of the carver and attention to detail.

"You can spend a half hour or all day. Typically, it's two or three hours," Lorenz said.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Many ice carvings show great detail.

What's all this cost and who pays for it?

Spectators pay nothing to meander along the public walks on Main, Ann Arbor Trail, Penniman and Forest and in Kellogg Park to view the displays.

Lorenz pegged the budget of the non-profit corporation headed by himself and Graper at $50,000-$60,000.

"We raise it through individual contributions, merchants, businesses located in the community," he said.

Lorenz identified major sponsors as Midwest Ice, Ford Motor Co., Central Distributors, Highland Appliance, Classic Container and British Airways.

Nursing home guide prompts controversy

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Despite publication of the largest, most comprehensive nursing home guide in history, health care professionals still say the best way to choose a facility is by personal inspection.

Release of a state-by-state nursing home guide last month, with homes rated for 32 areas of service, gave consumers the ability to shop at home for long-term-care facilities for themselves or loved ones.

But health care professionals say the Federal Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) report can be as confusing as it is enlightening.

On the plus side, the report provides a wealth of information about individual homes. Items such as total number of residents, number of wheelchair-bound residents and number of confused or disoriented residents are provided at consumer fingertips.

"The area's 15 nursing homes were among those evaluated. (For more information on western Wayne homes, see the accompanying article.)

Health professionals, however, say cold hard facts alone aren't enough.

"THERE'S SO many other intangibles that can make it the right or wrong place for a given person," Cheryl Robinson of the Health Care Association of Michigan said. "It's not all just facts."

Even facts can be misleading, professionals said. While homes are also evaluated on items ranging from cleanliness to the amount of privacy given each resident, grading is on a pass/fail scale. Type and degree of abuses are unrecorded. Nor is there any follow-up on whether problems were corrected.

Raw numbers could also be misleading, professionals said.

"We provide a lot of in-service staff training on how to care for Alzheimer's patients," Westland Convalescent Center spokesperson Sally Levay said. "Yet, you won't see that reflected in the report. What you will see is that we have confused or disoriented residents."

Another problem: some of the material is up to 18 months old.

"It's not current and it doesn't tell the public enough," said Lillian Schuyler, director of the Middlebelt Nursing Center, Livonia.

Even the HCFA itself said the report was a "snapshot" of conditions at particular nursing homes on the day surveyed — a guide to be used when visiting homes rather than as a substitute for visits.

"The information does not describe the home's success or failure in taking prompt corrective action to remedy problems. Similarly, there is no guarantee that those items in compliance with federal requirements at the time of the survey remained in compliance," HCFA administrator Dr. William Roper wrote in the report's preface.

ALMOST ALL nursing homes arrange tours for prospective clients. Many also allow visitors to drop in for less formal walk-throughs.

Citizens for Better Care, a national agency advocating improvements in nursing home care, lists these criteria for selecting a home:

- Be sure to tour the entire home.

For types of problems found at area nursing homes, see page 11A.

The group suggests questioning management about areas kept off limits.

- Observe how staff treats residents. Citizens for Better Care suggests potential clients pay careful attention to how much respect and privacy patients receive.

- Ask what services the home provides. Whether the home has a resident council, where patients can air grievances, could be a determining factor in whether it should be selected.

- Ask about nursing staff's orientation, training. The group recommends asking when and where staff members were trained and how much training they received.

- Ask about levels of care delivered at the home. Whether the home is equipped for basic care or the more specialized care known as skilled care among professionals, could determine whether the home is right for you, Citizens for Better Care said.

An expanded lists of Citizens for Better Care guidelines is available by calling 1-800-833-9548 or by writing 1553 Woodward, Suite 525, Detroit 48226.

The HCFA report, entitled Medicare/Medicaid Nursing Home Information, can be ordered through the Government Printing Office in Washington, D.C., 202-783-3238. A fee is involved. Copies are also expected to soon be available at area libraries.

HEALTH PROFESSIONALS agree the process is difficult and often emotionally wrenching, no matter how a home is selected.

Professionals suggest home selection should be undertaken even before it is necessary.

"What's best is for people to begin looking around while they or their loved ones can still make those decisions themselves," Levay said. "Obviously, there's a tremendous amount of guilt involved. But people need to know they're doing what's best for their loved ones."

Staff writer Tom Henderson contributed to this story.

Problems corrected — home directors

Directors of area nursing homes with three or more violations recorded against them in the guidebook say their homes evaluations are no longer valid.

Problems, they said, have been corrected.

A combined 31 violations were found at the area's 15 nursing home facilities by federal Health Care Financing Administration inspectors.

Canton Care Center was judged in violation in eight of the 32 areas presented for public review in the HCFA report, "Medicare/Medicaid Nursing Home Information."

Administrator Beverly Sciberras said home conditions were "100 percent improved," since the home's May 1987 evaluation.

The Canton Township-based home was also taken off the state of Michigan decertification list.

"We have lifted litigation because of improved performance," said Michigan Department of Public Health Licensing officer Dalphine Shott.

According to the HCFA report, Canton Care Center failed to assure each resident was free from mental and physical abuse, to provide nursing services at all times to meet the needs of residents, to provide daily personal hygiene for each resident and to provide necessary care for each resident with bowel or bladder problems.

In addition, the report cited the home for failing to provide rehabilitative nursing care for each resident, a written health care plan for each resident, clean toilet and bathroom facilities and sanitary common use areas.

Livonia Convalescent Home was found to have five violations in its December 1987 evaluation.

The home was found deficient in providing daily personal hygiene, skin care, necessary bed sore care and adequate bowel and bladder care for each resident as well as in administering drugs according to the written orders of the attending physician.

A spokeswoman for the home said she was unaware of any current problems.

Nightingale West Nursing Home, Westland and University Convalescent Nursing Home, Livonia were found to have three violations each.

"There's been another survey and it will show we've corrected all problems," Livonia Convalescent Home administrator Kay Kerndt said. "I think the public has a right to know, but you have to realize the person doing the survey is in the home for a day or two at most; it's difficult to get a true picture. We're always open for people to see for themselves." The facility was evaluated in February 1988.

Problems at Nightingale have also been corrected, according to administrator Norman Burger.

"Everything has been corrected," he said. "We're glad to have the inspections but often the inspectors aren't uniform in making their evaluations. You could pass for 18 years and another inspector could come in and see something differently." The facility was evaluated in October 1987.

University Convalescent was found deficient in assuring that patients received proper care for injection.

Congress wrestles over deficit, raise

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Seasonal spirit and politically pleasing-cabinet picks by President-elect George Bush made for a happy holiday season in Washington.

But area congressmen warn a grinch, the massive federal deficit, could put an end to the festivities shortly after the new administration takes office.

"Everything revolves around the deficit," Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, said. "Everybody is waiting to see who'll be first to come forth with the hard, bitter pills needed to eliminate the deficit." Ford's district includes southern Livonia, Westland, Garden City and Canton Township.

Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, agreed the deficit was the nation's biggest issue at the start of the Bush presidency.

"I THINK he (Bush) has to look at his campaign promises," Levin said. "On one hand, he wants more programs but on the other he's not coming up with a way to pay for them. He's going to have to be an acrobat on a tightrope to pull it off." Levin's district includes Redford Township.

Congress and the new chief executive should expect to quickly get down to work, Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, said.

"The issues facing the 101st Congress most likely will mean a very short honeymoon for President Bush and that's assuming there's going to be a honeymoon," said Pursell, whose district includes northern Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

While Democrats are complaining about the budget deficit, they've been fairly pleased by Bush's cabinet appointees.

"THUS FAR, we're not complaining about the kind of people he's been picking," Ford said. "It's a lot different from Reagan. Reagan picked his cronies and, in a lot of cases, you had people at odds with the departments they were supposed to be heading."

"The issues facing the 101st Congress most likely will mean a very short honeymoon for President Bush."

— Rep. Carl Pursell
R-Plymouth

Pursell criticized his colleagues for favoring a pay increase, saying it sends the wrong message at a time when the government may have to seek cutbacks in other areas to balance the budget.

Ford, however, said the congressional pay increase would have almost no effect on the deficit.

"You're talking about 535 people out of 3 million federal employees," Ford said.

The increase would also benefit federal judges.

Levin said the increase, while necessary, could be pared.

"There's a need, but maybe not for an increase as large as proposed," he said.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

State Senate fails to act on day care

Those who perform day care services at home will have to wait until sometime later this year for state protection from zoning ordinances.

The state Senate on Thursday adjourned for the year without taking up a bill by Sen. Jack Faxon to exempt day care homes for children from city ordinances that would allow them only in commercial zones.

"The Senate leadership was unwilling to suspend the rules" to allow a vote, said Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who came within one vote of getting his measure through both chambers last month.

IN THE gallery were some 80 women who do day care work. Faxon took the Senate floor to let them know, "The leadership assured me they'll put them through early next year."

Faxon sponsored three bills to rescue such women from a "Catch-22" situation: If they registered their day care operations with the state, they found themselves running afoul of local zoning ordinances.

His Senate Bills 687-689 would have prohibited local units from zoning them out. State law takes precedence over local ordinances.

The latter two bills, 688-689, affecting townships and counties, were passed and will become law.

BUT THE House amended Faxon's SB 687, governing cities, and returned it to the Senate for concurrence in the amendments.

The Senate vote came during its 21-hour session of Dec. 7-8, and SB 687 was a vote short.

"The votes were there," Faxon said. "But somebody was off the floor."

A new House of Representatives takes office in 1989, and Faxon's bill will have to be reintroduced and passed all over again.

Shock waves smash dog's kidney stones

By Jackie Klein
staff writer

Polly went home, just two days after going through surgery for kidney stones. The 5-year-old English bulldog is recovering nicely.

Kidney stones are very rare in dogs, said Dr. Eric Heitman of the Pearce Veterinary Hospital in Southfield, where Polly stayed after undergoing a procedure called lithotripsy at the Ohio Kidney Stone Center in Columbus late last month.

Lithotripsy is performed on humans to fragment the stones so the particles can pass through the urine. Polly is the first dog to have the procedure, though it has been performed on laboratory animals. In fact she is the first pet with kidney stones Dr. Richard Pearce has seen in his 35 years of veterinary practice.

Polly's owners, George Cramer and Julie Garcia of Southfield, brought Polly to the veterinary hospital this summer because the dog was getting urinary infections and had blood in her urine, Heitman said.

"ANTIBIOTICS weren't helping the chronic condition," Heitman said. "So we ran a series of tests and X-rays and the diagnosis was kidney stones. The two modes of therapy are diet modification or surgery to dissolve the stones."

"We tried a prescription diet for four months and met with little success. English bulldogs are a high risk for anesthetics in conventional surgery because they have inadequate respiratory systems. So we decided to search for a lithotripsy procedure."

Four hospitals in Michigan use the ultrasound machine, which costs about $1.5 million, Heitman said. He talked to urologists in each hospital, and they were excited about the prospect of taking care of Polly. But hospital administrators wouldn't admit the four-legged patient.

Heitman called several other sources and was finally referred to the Ohio Kidney Stone Center, which has a lithotripsy unit owned by urologists and surgeons.

The center not only agreed to use the procedure on Polly but donated time and services, Heitman said.

"I went to the center with Polly and her owners so I could administer the anesthetic," Heitman said. "I brought our own anesthetics and monitoring equipment along."

"The procedure took 45 minutes. Polly was strapped to a chair and immersed in water because ultrasound waves don't travel in the air. Water transmits the beams, which hit the kidney stones."

Veterinarians at Pearce are taking particles from Polly's urine and analyzing them to determine how to prevent the stones from coming back.

Through it all, Polly was a real trooper, Heitman said. She's also quite a ham and seems to enjoy having her picture taken. And she's making quite a name for herself.

Sen. Geake takes credit for smooth session

"I want you to notice," said Sen. R. Robert Geake, "how smoothly it went today."

In two hours, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, the Michigan Senate last Thursday cleaned up its work for the year without a single word of rancor or parliamentary slip.

Geake, R-Northville, was proud because he was acting floor leader — the chamber's traffic cop who decides which bill and resolutions will be brought up.

Geake, as assistant majority floor leader, acted in the absence of floor leader Phil Arthurhultz, R-Whitethall. Geake's district includes Plymouth Township, Livonia, Canton Township and Redford Township.

THE SENATE didn't have to go through a special session, as threatened by Gov. James J. Blanchard, because it cleaned up the tax bill in its two-hour final session (see other story).

But Geake said Blanchard's Dec. 22 call for a special had "no effect. He issued the call for a special session while the Legislature was still in session."

It was a fine procedural point. The state constitution gives the governor power to convene the Legislature into special sessions for specific purposes.

The last such special session was more than 20 years ago, when Republican George W. Romney was governor.

SINCE THEN, Democratic leaders in the Legislature have prevented governors from calling special sessions by keeping the Legislature technically in session, even when Lansing was empty of lawmakers. They would close shop until Dec.

31, then return for a half-hour session, with seven or eight senators, to do nothing but adjourn sine die (permanently).

As Geake explained it, Blanchard would have had to wait until 12:01 p.m. last Thursday to call a special session. Geake said the Dec. 22 date was premature.

Kosteva's recycling bills are law

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Two bills sponsored by state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, are part of an eight-bill package promoting recycling that Gov. James J. Blanchard has signed into law.

The new laws and an executive order will make state government a leader in the effort to reduce the nearly 12 million tons of trash generated in Michigan every year, the governor said.

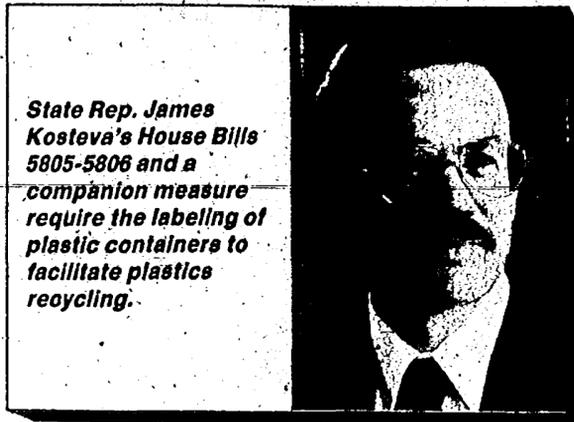

Kosteva's House Bills 5805-5806 and a companion measure require the labeling of plastic containers to facilitate plastics recycling.

They establish a government-industry plastics recycling consortium to do research on recycling technologies.

And they create a recycling target enterprise advisory committee within the state Department of Natural Resources to promote creation of jobs in the recycling industry.

A former township planner, Kosteva, 36, will start his third term in the Legislature this year.

"THE STATE can lead the way in promoting waste reduction and recycling as alternatives to landfills, in order to protect our health and to maintain the quality of Michigan's environment," Blanchard said.

State Rep. James Kosteva's House Bills 5805-5806 and a companion measure require the labeling of plastic containers to facilitate plastics recycling.

A policy adopted by the state Natural Resources Commission last year sets a goal of reducing landfilling of trash from 85 percent to 15 percent over the next 15 years, he said.

Proposal C, the $660 million bond issue approved by voters Nov. 8, contains $150 million to implement solid waste policy.

OTHER BILLS signed by Blanchard will:

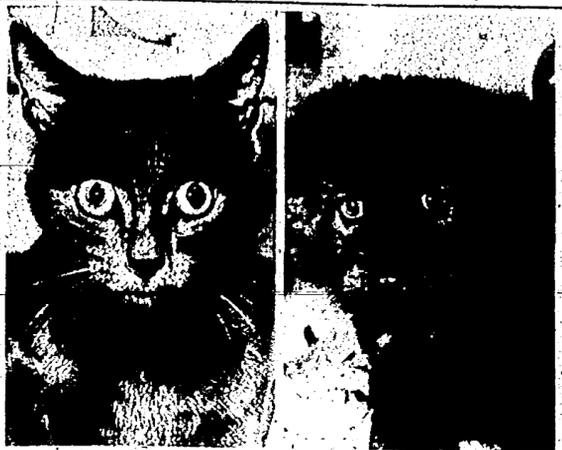

- Require 50 percent of state paper purchases to be recycled paper and 20 percent of product purchases to be recycled products by 1991. The three Senate bills also seek to expand the state's paper recovery program. The goal is to recover 12,000 tons of paper each year, saving an estimated 42,000 cubic yards of dump space. Sponsors were Sen. Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, and Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo.

- Clarify the state requirement that all counties must consider recycling in solid waste plans. The DNR is authorized to establish a pilot program to collect used motor oil for recycling at state facilities. Sponsors were Ehlers and Connie Binsfeld, R-Maple City.

BY EXECUTIVE order, Blanchard told state departments to:

- Undertake at least one project in 1989 to demonstrate the usefulness of recycled products.
- Create a "Recycling State Park," at which facilities and equipment would be largely made from recycled materials.
- Set up dropoff facilities at some commuter lots operated by the state Department of Transportation to promote awareness of recycling.
- Revise state purchasing policies to eliminate barriers to purchase of recycled products.
- Ban state purchase of materials that generate excessive amounts of trash or contain chemicals that deplete the ozone layer.

Winter blues: hibernation for humans?

Some people call it the winter doldrums, but researchers who studied the behavior have termed the desire to slow down and burrow for the winter the hibernation response.

Furry creatures in the wild head for shelter to sleep out the winter, and the authors of a new book called "The Hibernation Response" said people feel the same need.

"Everyone thought that human beings might be different, that we're immune to all that," said Dr. Peter Whybrow, chairman of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

But, he pointed out, "we are animals."

In their book, Whybrow and co-author Robert Bahr included explanations of "Why You Feel Fat, Miserable and Depressed from October through March" and offered tips on how to survive another nasty winter.

Whybrow said nearly everyone is affected to some degree by the changing of the seasons. With the coming of winter, physical and psychological changes are triggered by the diminishing light and colder temperatures.

"THERE IS a universal slowdown

'There is a universal slowdown in the winter and a rev-up in the summer.'

— Dr. Peter Whybrow
University of Pennsylvania

in the winter and a rev-up in the summer," he said.

Donald Brown, director of counseling at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, agreed with that analysis.

"I think it's even more complex than that," Brown said. "There have been studies on the effect of sunlight that show people are more depressed in areas like Michigan, that don't get much sunlight in winter."

Brown agreed there are seasonal changes in behavior.

"It's easy to feel good when it's spring and the flowers are blooming," he said.

For some people, the changes brought on by the dark days of winter are profound, marked by depression, sadness, fatigue, social withdrawal, a craving for carbohydrates and lack of interest in sex.

Doctors have pegged that condition as a "seasonal affective disorder," or SAD.

In a 15-month study that began in 1983, Whybrow looked at the influence of the seasons on behavior. He had 100 people keep detailed daily records of their sleep, energy, appetite and mood.

"We discovered that just about everyone slept more in the winter, they all ate more, gained weight, they became more irritable and had less energy" — all classic symptoms of the hibernation responses, Whybrow said.

"They'd rather sit home and eat potato chips and watch TV," he said.

The response would not be a problem, except that most people have obligations that will not allow sleeping the day away, he said.

Whybrow suggested the more practical solution is to adapt. He said people could dramatically change their wintertime mood by starting the day in bright light — such as beginning the day facing a panel of eight 36-inch fluorescent bulbs.

"WITHIN HALF an hour, you feel you've been up for three or four hours," he explained.

Getting outdoors into daylight as quickly as possible in the morning also boosts spirits, he said.

Whybrow also suggest acclimating by launching a walking program in the fall, dressing in as little clothing as possible. After a while, the body will become accustomed to the temperature change, said Whybrow, who wears a raincoat without a liner through Philadelphia winters.

He also recommended maintaining an exercise program throughout the winter and eating sensibly.

Whybrow said there is no sense in dieting during late fall and early winter because research has shown the body becomes more efficient in its use of calories as winter approaches, using fewer calories to do the same work.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Inheritance tax is '89 priority for lawmakers

By Tim Richard
staff writer

'You can't separate the inheritance tax from the gift tax issue. Michigan has no gift tax. Any review of the inheritance tax should contain a look at a gift tax.'

—Robert Bowman
state treasurer

State Senate Republicans vow cutting the inheritance tax will be a 1989 priority — whether the Blanchard administration likes it or not.

"We have a good commitment from the House leadership to give this fair consideration next year," said Sen. Nick Smith, R-Hillsdale, as the Michigan Legislature met for two hours before adjourning for the year.

"The inheritance tax jeopardizes the middle-income group," said Smith, author of a Senate-passed bill (SB 1) to cut that tax virtually to zero and halt the drain of retirees to Florida. He noted many Democratic legislators support that reform, even if their leaders wouldn't let it come to a vote.

Democratic Gov. James Blanchard's top economic spokesman, state treasurer Robert Bowman, said in the lobby afterwards, "The inheritance tax should have a review. But I'm not convinced it has to be changed."

BOTH HOUSES Thursday gave near-unanimous approval to a tax bill (SB 279) after removing a Republican provision tying it to Smith's SB 1.

As passed and sent to the governor, the tax bill will:

- Extend the so-called "circuit breaker" another two years. That provision gives many suburban homeowners an income tax rebate if property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of income. Average rebate payments are $480.
- Ease the "kiddle tax," by allowing young show shovelers and babysitters to avoid filing state income tax returns if they earned less than $1,600 a year, and then granting a $600 exemption above that.
- Tax lottery winnings to pay for the "kiddle tax" loss.
- Authorize low-income senior citizens a prescription drug credit of up to $600, at a cost to the treasury of $20 million in income taxes.
- Prevents the loss of home heating credits to 250,000 households — senior citizens, handicappers and low-income families.

The Senate re-passed SB 279 on a 30-1 vote with support from all area senators except Doug Cruce, R-Troy, and William Faust, D-Westland, both absent.

Without debate, the House concurred on an 85-0 vote with 25 absent, including John Bennett, D-Redford, Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, Gordon Sparks, R-Troy, and Wilfred Webb, D-Hazel Park.

BOTH PARTIES in both chambers had agreed to most of the provisions, but the Senate GOP last month sought to "tie-bar" SB 1 to the general tax bill — the general bill couldn't become law unless SB 1 were passed, too.

Blanchard called it "game-playing."

"This chamber (Senate) said to do away with the inheritance tax," Smith said.

"The House had over 60 votes on the board agreeing with us, but they (House Democratic leaders) wiped the board clean. The leaders persuaded some members to take a walk. There were 52 votes to pass SB 1 (with 58 needed) and 40 votes to break the tie-bar," he said.

Smith said that when retirees shift residences to Florida to Florida,

"they take their finances with them." Smith said Michigan economic strength would be improved by giving them an inducement to stay here.

SEN. JACK FAXON, D-Farmington Hills, supported SB 1 when it passed in 1987 and said, "I don't think there's any question of making changes. But there is a question of what revenue sources we're going to use to replace it."

Estimates of the revenue loss due to repealing the inheritance tax range from $60 million to $80 million.

BUT TREASURER Bowman was cooler to inheritance tax repeal, although he insisted he is still "a fiscally conservative Democrat."

"You can't separate the inheritance tax from the gift tax issue," Bowman said. "Michigan has no gift tax. Any review of the inheritance tax should contain a look at a gift tax."

Many elderly parents before death give large, tax-free gifts to their heirs to avoid the inheritance tax.

Supporters of SB 1 had noted that the late industrialist Henry Ford II was a tax resident of Florida at the time of his death, thus beating Michigan's inheritance tax. That argument failed to impress Bowman.

The total cost of health care is related to two factors, the unit price for each medical service multiplied by the number of times the service is provided, according to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan. Officials said total costs will continue to increase as the number of claims for benefits increases. Although Blue Cross/Blue Shield enrollment has dropped from 5 million in 1980 to 4.7 million in 1987, the number of claims filed has increased. The dollar amount for benefits paid by Blue Cross and Blue Shield in 1987 was $4.2 billion, almost double the $2.3 billion in benefits paid in 1980.

Employers struggling with health care costs

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

If Joe Dokes, a typical K mart employee, goes to the hospital for an appendectomy next week, he will suffer twice. First from appendicitis, second from bad timing.

If Dokes had surgery before Jan. 1, he would have had to pay very little, if any, of the doctors' fees, hospital expenses or related costs. His health care insurance would have paid most necessary and customary procedures.

But after Dec. 31, Dokes has to pay a $200 deductible plus 20 percent of the remaining expenses.

The Troy-based corporation has gone from having what one executive termed the "Cadillac" of health care coverage to the "Pontiac." The changes were analyzed and provided employees with the option of traditional pay-for-service coverage or membership in a health maintenance organization, or HMO. But with either option, Dokes is now obligated for a deductible and co-pay.

"We still provide excellent benefits for employees and their dependents," said Donald L. Morford, K mart assistant director of benefits. "But we could no longer provide first dollar coverage."

He said the high cost of providing health care benefits forced the corporation to take a hard look at its insurance program and to make adjustments.

K mart isn't alone. Faced with the prospect of premiums doubling over the next five years, companies are being forced to look for ways to provide good health insurance coverage while containing costs.

THE WORD "containing" is significant because employers no longer talk about cutting or maintaining costs. Health care expenses increase so rapidly, most would be happy to, as one company executive put it, "get our arms around costs."

Switching to some kind of deductible — along with a co-pay for remaining costs — is the most common way companies try to contain costs. And probably the most effective, according to most analysts.

The Big Three automakers — Michigan's standard-setters for benefits and compensation — switched to a deductible and co-pay years ago. Even so, their expenses have increased dramatically.

The General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. reported paying nearly $5 billion for employee health care in 1988. And costs are rising nearly three or four times the normal rate of inflation.

"We expect costs to increase between 18 and 20 percent per year," said Jack K. Shelton, manager of employee insurance at Ford. "That means existing costs (already staggering) could double within six years."

While this seems bothersome for workers at the auto companies, it is more ominous for those with less bountiful coverage. Trends are bothersome for employees with "Pontiac" health care benefits. But they are more worrisome for those with "Model T" coverage.

SPIRALING HEALTH care costs are even worse for the estimated 37 million Americans who have no health care benefits, either because they are unemployed or work at jobs that don't provide health care benefits.

Reasons for the increase in health care costs are as complicated as they are nebulous. Some experts blame overutilization; that is, employees seem to be using health benefits more frequently.

Sometimes physicians are involved in the overuse, ordering what some believe are unnecessary tests and diagnostic procedures because they are unsure of their own capacities or feel obligated to protect themselves against malpractice litigation.

But good doctors don't do that, according to Laurence M. Gelman, principal with Mercer Meldinger Hansen, a Detroit management consulting firm. "Doctors who know what they are doing and have confidence in their own ability don't order needless tests," he said. "And they don't need extra procedures because they are afraid somebody will sue them."

Others say overcapacity is the culprit — too many doctors, too many hospital beds, too many expensive diagnostic tests for demanding, health-conscious patients.

The United States had 40 percent more doctors in 1988 than in 1975, according to John Marakas, chairman of the Health Insurance Association of America (HIAA), "all of whom need to make a living one way or another."

"In most areas and in most specialties physicians are able to increase both the demand for their services by encouraging return visits and their income by raising their fees," Marakas said in a speech on cost containment delivered Oct. 31.

"Since physician earnings account for about 20 percent of total health care costs and are responsible for about 70 percent of total health care outlays, close scrutiny is in order," Marakas said.

ONE STATISTIC the HIAA said seems suspicious is that U.S. women undergo three times as many hysterectomies as women in other parts of the world.

Many cancer patients will elect to undergo chemotherapy — despite debilitating side effects — even though the treatment is rarely successful.

But it's wrong to point to any single factor as the major cause of skyrocketing health care costs, said Jack Shelton, manager of employee insurance at Ford. "So many factors enter into it."

Society may, in fact, be the victim of its own success by prolonging life and life expectancy, he said. Illnesses or complications that were usually fatal years ago are now considered treatable, if not preventable.

Polio is an example, but by no means the most dramatic. A health scourge in the 1950s, polio has been virtually wiped out by a vaccine.

"We are living longer and demanding more medical attention," Shelton noted. "It's a very complicated and perplexing problem."

While experts have varying opinions about the cause of increasing health care, there seems to be a growing consensus about what companies will be forced to do as a consequence.

More and more companies, like K mart, are switching to "Pontiac" coverage with the deductible and co-payments. If the company is employee-conscious, however, the deductible and co-pay will be reasonable.

The new K mart coverage, for example, requires a $200 deductible with the employee also paying 20 percent of expenses thereafter. Some experts say deductibles and co-pays could range much higher as companies try to reduce their expenses.

"There is a direct relationship between the amount of the deductible and use of benefits," said Franklin J. Eilias, health care benefits consultant. "People think twice about going to the doctor when they have to pay part of the cost."

THE OPPOSITE occurs when the employer simply increases the workers' share of the premium, Eilias said. "When the employer increases the amount of money somebody must pay, the general reaction is to use the benefits more often to make sure they get their money's worth."

Perhaps more significant than deductibles and co-pays are the new buzzwords, "medical case management," according to Eilias and other experts who say that will be the health care trend of the 1990s.

In its simplest form, medical case management boils down to the patient getting approval before surgery, before going into the hospital or even before undergoing certain diagnostic tests, explained Gelman of consultants Mercer Meldinger Hansen.

"It's generally between the physician and the health care provider," he said. "But it means the doctor must check with the insurance company before he obligates the patient. The doctor must pre-certify that the surgery or the hospitalization is necessary."

Contractors, unions sign pact

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

Evaluating anything by its goals is risky business.

But in the absence of a track record or anything more concrete, goals are perhaps the most convenient way of trying to assess the pact signed last month between unionized contractors in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and the building trades.

Supporters, like Michael R. Haller, senior vice president of the Walbridge Aldinger Co. of Livonia, use terms like "historic" to describe the pact that was formalized Dec. 12 during ceremonies at the Detroit Chapter of the Associated General Contractors.

The agreement will "help area contractors be more competitive," said Raymond T. Glowski, secretary-treasurer of the Greater Detroit Building Trades Council.

The pact is known by the acronym MUST, or Management and Union Serving Together and was negotiated between the Associated General Contractors, with hundreds of member companies, and the Detroit Building Trades representing more than 30,000 tradesmen.

Haller and Glowski are co-chairmen on the MUST executive committee and said the agreement has enormous importance and potential.

"We didn't go into this lightly," said Haller. Both parties discussed the need for a cooperative agreement for months before it was signed. Each side contributed $70,000 for expenses like hiring an executive director for MUST and related administrative costs.

"That's commitment," Haller said.

MUST'S MISSION, according to Haller and Glowski, is to maintain or increase market share for unionized contractors. That, of course, is the traditional, bread-and-butter goal of labor-management agreements: "more business to provide more jobs."

Haller said that will entail some specific goals such as: 1) Dispelling some myths about unionized contractors, 2) communicating with the users of construction services — the developers, companies or public entities that build shopping centers, libraries, etc. — and 3) joining in the effort to attract or expand business in metropolitan Detroit.

"I can see two MUST members (one union and one management) going to another state or area of the country to help economic development agencies attract business to this area," said Haller.

None of those goals can be accomplished overnight, Haller acknowledged. "But they are important to the continued success of our industry."

One of the biggest problems is the general impression that southeast Michigan has a bad labor and business climate with overpriced union workers who frequently do shoddy work.

"That's simply not true," Haller said emphatically. "And we must communicate that to the general public as well as the people looking to build."

HALLER ACKNOWLEDGED that compared with their non-union counterparts, union workers are frequently paid higher wages and enjoy greater fringe benefits, expenses that are generally passed along in the form of higher prices by unionized contractors.

"But they (union workers) earn them," said Haller, a civil engineer. "I've worked on projects around the country and seen workers from different areas. I know that union workers here are skilled and productive."

Cost and productivity are more than hours on the job, he said. Efficiency also involves the number of units produced within a time frame and the quality of those units.

MUST offices are at 14801 W. Eight Mile Road, Detroit. Its phone number is 341-2629.

Auto Show raises city's image — for some

Up to now, the Detroit Auto Show has been scheduled too late after New Year's Eve to let you wear your tux twice before you give it back to the rental company, and was mainly a kind of cross between a midwinter tent sale and a casting call for a remake of "Chorus Line."

This year, however, Detroit hosts the North American International Auto Show, which might explain why I got one invitation to a press conference that offered a chance to see the "Famous Detroit River," — the sort of thing that might appeal to a visiting group of international motoring journalists.

Frankly, I've become a little sensitive to the image the old hometown conjures up in the far corners of the world. Maybe it is time we did something about it.

I still remember having breakfast in a Japanese hotel when the Tigers won the World Series and having our host burst into the room, obviously panicked, saying, "There's a riot in Detroit!"

"What do you mean, a riot?" I said, still struggling with the fish flakes on rice. "Everybody's going like this," he says, and starts doing a dance that resembled the Twist, while holding his index fingers in the air.

SOME OF THIS kind of thing might be our own fault, of course. Like when they discovered the stolen auto talk

squad cars pressed into service as taxis during the Republican National Convention. Or figured the Grand Prix cars ought to be able to take a couple of potholes like everybody else.

On the other hand, sometimes I find the old hometown's civic image kind of handy, having chased off a potential mugger in London by snarling, "I'm from Detroit."

Mainly, though, I take this image-building thing seriously. In the company of the international motoring press I'm careful to use the correct pronunciation of our local landmarks (da-twaaw, bell eel, cad-joe, etc.). No more raised French eyebrows for me.

I also make up stories about the tire on the expressway and mention Greenfield Village as something you really should see sometime, which I've found is a nice safe thing to recommend to out-of-towners, since they can never find the place, and it grows in their imagination every year.

I try not to snicker when they talk about taking a cab anywhere.

But I digress. The new, expanded, international auto show is getting off to a good start, even before the black-tie affair on Friday.

CHEVROLET'S Bob Burger managed to get a little misty-eyed at Chevrolet's fete, while snarling a bit at Ford. Chrysler's Tom Gale brought out six new styling exercises, including a particularly weird rumble-seat pickup truck.

The international motoring press is being shown the launch of two new Japanese luxury carlines, a four-wheel drive Porsche and a new two-seat roadster. Toyota even managed to create something of a stir by losing a lawsuit and title to the name for its Lexus luxury-car division.

The new Detroit show thus sets some kind of record for new-car introductions and events of potential newsworthiness at a single auto show.

But will it do much for civic pride?

An old friend from Norway, in town for the show, shrugs aside the new auto news, and gets to the point. "Tell me," he says. "Is Detroit safe?"

"Don't worry," I tell him. "If anybody looks at you the wrong way, just tell him you're from Oslo."

Dan McCosh is the automotive editor of Popular Science.

Rising health care costs have employers struggling

Such pre-certification has a "sentinel effect," said Elias. Pre-certification makes the physician aware that a knowledgeable party is overseeing the process and is not likely to allow payment for unnecessary procedures.

But medical case management is more than getting prior approval,

Ellias said. "In many cases, case management provides an advocate for the patient, somebody who will challenge the doctor, if necessary."

With case management, for example, the company health care benefits may require — and pay for — the services of a visiting nurse rather than allowing longer stays in the hospital where average costs are approaching $700 per day.

There are many specifics to case management, said Elias. But they boil down to having an objective party looking for ways to contain costs without sacrificing patient care.

WHILE SOME companies are looking for ways to cut costs, others hope to save money by encouraging healthy living.

Those are the so-called "wellness" plans under which employees are encouraged to quit smoking, lose weight, reduce stress or otherwise modify behavior so they lead healthier lifestyles, said Gelman.

"If a company can encourage employees to quit smoking," he said, "they can save enormous medical bills later on."

While people point to the possibility of AIDS causing financial difficulty for a health care system (the "average" AIDS case costs about $150,000, according to some experts), there are other preventable problems that can be equally expensive, Gelman said.

The cost of treating a premature baby, for example — or one born with birth defects — can be very high, Gelman said. "Some wellness plans recognize that possibility by encouraging good prenatal care among pregnant women," he said.

Such programs are worth well more than their costs if they persuade expectant mothers to curtail drug or alcohol consumption during pregnancy, Gelman said. "Not only does that give their baby a better shot at a healthier life, such programs reduce the need for very expensive medical care," he said.

Climbs walls Dancer's stunt lands in movies

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

TWENTY-FIVE-YEAR-OLD old tap dancer Bill Anagnos made a video of himself a few years ago. It shows him running up the side of the wall at his parents' home in Birmingham and doing a back flip dressed in a suit and tie.

Last April, Nick Castle, director and writer of a soon-to-be-released film, "Tap" with Sammy Davis Jr. and Gregory Hines, saw the video. He wanted that trick in his film. At midnight they called Anagnos at his Los Angeles home and told him to be at Universal Studios the next morning to start rehearsals.

"That stunt has taken me a long ways," Anagnos said with a smile, over dinner at a local restaurant while he was home for the holidays. "I remember the first time I ever did it was on the west wall of the old Will-O-Way Theatre. I was choreographing the production of 'West Side Story' and dancing the part of Bernardo."

In the film "Tap," which is due to be released in early February, during a free form street dance in New York, the camera focuses in on Anagnos as he runs up the side of a building.

"IT IS HARD to describe the storyline when you are making a film," explained Anagnos. "They film all out of sequence."

Basically the story takes place in New York City and centers around a tap dancer Max Washington (Gregory Hines) who is now in prison. Washington's father had been considered the greatest of all hoofers, a Bill "Bojangles" Robinson figure. Big Mo (Sammy Davis, Jr.) tries to get him interested in dancing again. Anagnos is one of 10 featured dancers throughout the film.

"You can spend your whole life waiting for the right opportunity to come around," said Anagnos, who is dressed in a suit and staying in condition eating a salad. "I am writing my own vehicle for success. I have written a screenplay for myself which I am now in the process of marketing."

In the film "Tap," a famous tap dancer, the now 66-year-old Harold Nicholas, is featured doing the splits. Anagnos has become a personal friend of Nicholas' 74 year-old brother, Fayard, and it is for Fayard that Anagnos has written his first script, "Keep Dancing, Kid." A secondary role was written for himself.

With the careful, anticipatory success scheme that seems to mark his life and personality, Anagnos has managed to place the script in the hands of no less than six director/producers — Ted Lang ("Love Boat"), Debbie Allen ("Fame"), Jack Haley (Nicholas' son), Nick Castle ("Tap"), Telly Savalas, and Sylvester Stallone. Anagnos does not need a literary agent.

"I HAVE ONE ambition — to bring back the finesse and class of the musical movies of the 1930s and '40s," Anagnos said. "I want to have the audience leave the theater happy. Perhaps I am a bit old-fashioned, but I don't think Gene Kelly needed a nude scene to make him sexy. You can achieve a greater effect leaving more to the imagination."

Anagnos has been dancing since he was 2 but while he was in school at Way Elementary and Lahser High he played sports. It was not masculine to tap dance, so he and his friends thought. When he was 18, he began dancing with his sister Elaine at the Bouzouki Lounge in Greektown and at Greek festivals around Detroit. With his typical confidence and optimism, he made his way on to "PM Magazine" and "Kelly & Company" at 18 and 19. In his two years at Wayne State University, Anagnos was a theater arts major but dropped out to help his father run their Kelly's Cafe in Pontiac.

"Did I ever learn a lot during those two years," remarked Anagnos.

At 22, Anagnos wanted to pursue a career and school in Los Angeles. His restaurant experience paid off for two years as a waiter for a Greek restaurant in L.A. The one hitch was that customers found out about his back flips off the wall and came in to see for themselves.

"This stunt may be my curse," Anagnos said. "I had to do that stunt sometimes three times a night for nearly two years."

Last year Anagnos got his first break in a national Michelob Lite commercial. In April, though, he quit his restaurant life and became a full-time dancer and actor. Now during the day he trains to keep himself in shape and works on his writing. He spends his evenings reading literature and biographies that will be useful in his new career.

"LAUREN BACALL once said, 'I owe my audience only one thing — a good performance.'" Anagnos said. "I don't believe that. I guess it was the way I was raised. I am in the business of meeting people."

Anagnos' big dream is to see himself in a film at the Showcase Cinema where he used to go when he was in high school. He has to return to Los Angeles before "Tap" is scheduled for release.

Perhaps while there he will catch his next film, "The Purple People Eater" with Ned Beatty and Shelley Long. It is due to be released in April of 1989. He does a Fred Astaire dance routine.

Our loss

Jim Carli touched many lives

IT WAS a sad holiday season this year in the Livonia school district community, which includes the northern section of Westland.

The reason is that school Superintendent Jim Carli died of complications after surgery in St. Mary Hospital Dec. 20, his 48th birthday.

The school community mourns the loss of this kind and sensitive man who was so very dedicated to the schools and community in which he lived and which he served.

He touched the lives of many and he will be sorely missed.

Although superintendent for only 2½ years, he enjoyed a long and fruitful professional career in the schools — starting as a teacher at Whittier Junior High in Westland 25 years ago after earning his bachelor of science degree that year from Northern Michigan University in Marquette. Twelve years later, he was promoted to principal of Churchill High School, which serves the northwest corner of Westland.

ALONG THE way he earned the respect and love of many students, his colleagues and parents.

Westland's community leaders appreciated the way Carli quietly and quickly made sure he and other administrators and board members were visible at local community events, such as the Mayor's Ball and Chamber of Commerce lunchees. In past years, Livonia school officials were markedly absent from similar events.

The presence of Carli and other school administrators and board members improved substantially the relationships of the district and Westland city officials.

Mr. Carli was a man who commanded respect because he respected others. He led by example. It was his personal credo. He was never too busy for personal contact. His wide smile and friendly hello were trademarks of his tenure as school chief.

Jim Carli did a lot to improve relations between the Livonia school district and the Westland community.

When he was appointed superintendent, he confided to a friend that his greatest fear was being cut off from students and teachers. Because of that, he worked harder than ever visiting schools, talking to teachers, students, other staff members and parents on an informal basis. And he listened — intently and sincerely.

Jim Carli's personal warmth and honesty played a big part in helping heal the wounds of the Bentley High School closing.

HIS EFFECTIVENESS as a superintendent was strengthened by the fact that he also was active at the parental level. His two children attended the Livonia schools, and he and his wife were involved at the local school level, giving him added insight into the problems that parents faced.

Although his job as superintendent was time consuming, Jim Carli took the time to be active in other community organizations.

The school community has lost a good man and fine educator. He took the time and spent the energy to make a difference. And for that we remember him and we mourn our loss.

Deposit law

Earmark funds for conservation

MICHIGAN RESIDENTS have been paying nickel and dime deposits on beverage bottles and cans for 10 years now.

The successful practice contributes to cleaner roadways and also provides a major message: Despite big money attempts to deceive and distort, the public is willing to put up with minor costs and inconvenience in order to protect the environment.

Think back to the campaign to put a deposit on Michigan cans and bottles. From the reaction of some union and manufacturing spokesmen, you would have thought that environmentalists had conspired to ruin the state's economy for all future generations.

Even though 400,000 voters in only six weeks signed a petition to put the question on the ballot, bottle bill opponents asked the courts to keep the issue away from voters.

When that failed, bottle bill opponents swung into overdrive with an expensive, distorted and misleading campaign. Opponents said the deposits would cost jobs, increase the cost of beverages and limit the variety of beverages available to Michigan consumers.

They also said such a deposit would make life miserable for Michigan consumers who would have to drag cans and bottles back to the store and, finally, they concluded that a bottle deposit would have little effect on roadside litter.

THE ARGUMENTS were patently ridiculous. But there was some concern that the onslaught of publicity churned out by a $1.3 million campaign might carry the day. Supporters were spending only $130,000.

Not to worry. Michigan voters, many of whom had grown up in an era when all cans and bottles had deposits, easily recognized the fraudulent nature of the opposition arguments.

Groups such as the Michigan United Conservation Clubs say unclaimed deposits should be earmarked for conservation and environmental protection projects. We agree, and we support the petition drive to this effect planned for this summer.

On Nov. 2, 1978, voters approved the deposit — 2.1 million in favor to 1.2 million against. The law went into effect two years later.

Since then the Michigan Department of Transportation estimates that roadside litter has decreased by 41 percent, largely due to more than 90 percent drops of cans and bottles.

"Problems caused by the random throwaway of these containers have virtually disappeared," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Equally important is the fact that bottles and cans returned for deposits do not get thrown into trash bags destined for increasingly rare landfill space. It is estimated that each year the deposit bill is responsible for removing 600,000 tons of bottle and can litter from Michigan's waste stream.

"The Legislature shouldn't be so reluctant to ask Michigan citizens to do their part in addressing environmental problems," added Alex Sagady, former executive director of the Michigan Student Environmental Coalition.

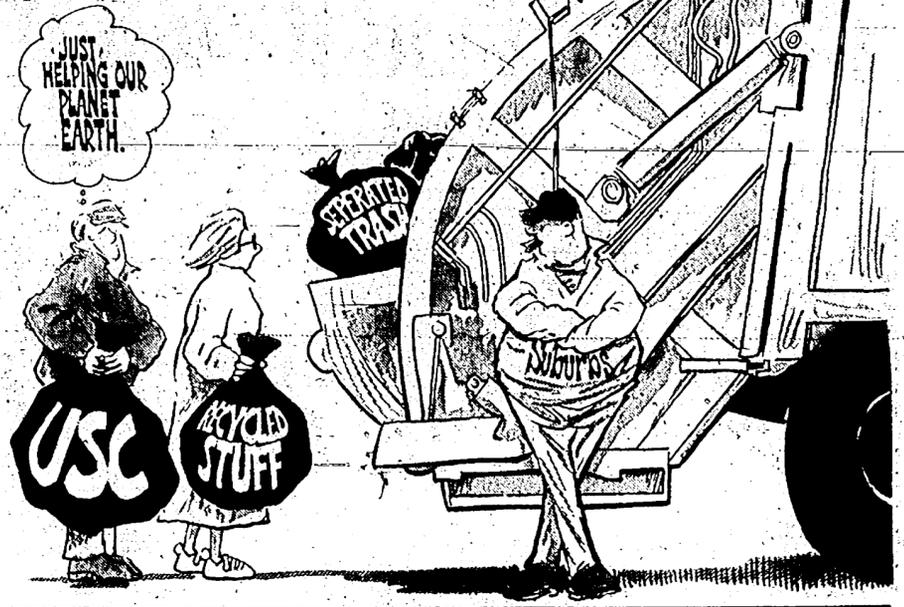

That's a lesson that lawmakers seem loathe to hear. It took another petition drive to browbeat Lansing lawmakers into requiring deposits for containers for wine coolers and so-called cocktails in a can. That goes into effect June 1 of this year.

Next on the agenda is an apparently sizable amount of money representing cans and bottles that consumers never return for the deposit. The figure is estimated to be as high as $48 million, although bottling spokespeople say the amount is considerably less.

Groups such as the Michigan United Conservation Clubs say these unclaimed deposits should be earmarked for conservation and environmental protection projects. We couldn't agree more. And we support the petition drive to this effect planned for this summer.

The environment, a big issue of the '60s, has taken a back seat for too long. Belatedly, our beleaguered ecology is coming to the attention of public policy makers. When gauging public interest, they should look first at the support for and effect of the deposit bill. It works and it was the right thing to do.

THINKINS

Ribbons remind us to save ourselves

AT FIRST they kind of annoyed me. I don't know why. They just did.

I'm talking about the red ribbons you may have seen tied to door handles and car antennas.

Frivolous, I thought. But I was wrong. People need symbols. They help make sense out of this slightly mad world.

The ribbons you've seen this holiday season were the idea of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), the group representing families who have had children killed in alcohol-related accidents.

Those with ribbons committed themselves to not drink and drive during the holiday season.

LOTS OF folks are killed every year because of alcohol abuse — as one person said the other day, enough to make up several passenger-loads of 747s.

For years now, America has been committing this act of terrorism against itself. And very honestly, before MADD came along, not many said anything about it.

The general attitude was flippant, even among those in authority who could do something about it — judges and police officials. Drunk drivers involved in fatal accidents were given light sentences, if sentenced at all.

Finally, we have become aware of this tragedy that has lingered in the shadows of this country's psyche for so many years.

Steve Barnaby

And every year 50,000 people would be killed for no other reason than abuse and neglect.

The names from alcohol-related deaths in the last 20 years would fill 20 Vietnam Memorial walls.

It boggles the mind. The good-old-boy attitude scoffed at MADD initially. "After all," the thinking went, "the boy was just out having some fun."

BUT MADD just wouldn't let up. Members monitored trials and judges' sentencing practices. They lobbied legislatures to see that stricter laws were put on the books.

Now MADD is a group for more than just families who have been victimized by alcohol-related deaths. Many people across the country support its goals. Finally, we have become aware of this tragedy that has lingered in the shadows of this country's psyche for so many years.

Certainly, more, too many more, people will be victimized by drunken drivers.

But finally, at least, there is widespread recognition that alcohol abuse isn't a joke. It's a crime.

The ribbons on the sides of those cars, they got me to thinking about all this. Hopefully, they've made you stop and think before climbing behind the wheel after socking down too many drinks.

It could save you a lot of misery and somebody else's life.

Have a happy, safe and sober New Year.

Schools need celebration of Christmas

To the editor: As a lifelong resident of Bloomfield Hills and alumna of the public school system, I was one of the interested residents who recently toured the elementary schools in our district.

I was surprised by the lack of observance of Christmas, a national holiday, in the classrooms as well as the lack of a Christmas program. I must say that I am personally embarrassed that I had not previously made it my business to find out what the policy of this board has been regarding the Christmas issue.

For this reason, I attended the board of education meeting, Tuesday, Dec. 20. It was very interesting that those who were called to speak first were all in favor of the current board policy. Many comments were made after the meeting that the order of speakers appeared to be planned, perhaps to discourage opposing opinions. In addition, the behavior of those members of the audience who were opposed to the issue of bringing Christmas back into the schools was discourteous.

IT TOOK a great deal of courage for those who spoke in favor of changing the Christmas policy to come forth in this hostile atmosphere. Mrs. Toby Jones, as well as the others who gave their opinions in favor of the Christmas issue, were not given the respect due them. This was not an atmosphere conducive to freedom of expression. In fact, the tone of the meeting was intimidating, so much so, that it was no wonder that some declined to speak when their turn came.

The courage of young Tara Lindsey was impressive. She spoke so eloquently about what Christmas meant to her and dared to request to read the story of Christmas to interested classmates at lunch.

The words of Vasile Cocariu, who had lived in a communist country where freedom of expression is forbidden, reminds us of our precious liberty as Americans. There were many other pro-Christmas speakers who called her for continuing the celebration of our American traditions in the classroom. I hope that their plea will not be forgotten by this board.

IN CONTRAST, many of those who spoke in favor of the present policy expressed the intolerance prevalent in our community. I am particularly disturbed by the young man who said Christmas offends him. I can only surmise that this attitude of prejudice and intolerance not only exists in many homes but is encouraged. This kind of attitude underscores the necessity for children to be exposed to many religions and cultures.

If it is truly an atmosphere of sensitivity which the schools wish to project, this meeting of the board of education on Dec. 20 has made apparent the necessity to re-examine the message sent to the children and parents alike. This is not a religious issue. Christmas is a national holiday which has been celebrated traditionally in schools and municipalities across the country. Even the president of the United States lights the national Christmas tree.

In order for the board to truly be sensitive to this issue is to adopt a policy whereby Christmas is allowed back in the schools. The present state of ambiguity has many undertones of intolerance relative to the Christmas issue. Let us remember, Christmas is very much a part of our cultural heritage in America. Favorable disposition regarding this matter is of great importance to future generations in our community.

Environment needs support

To the editor:

It certainly is encouraging to see "the environment" getting the attention it deserves — with the passage of proposals "C" and "D" Nov. 8.

Hopefully, the leaders you call upon in your Nov. 24 editorial ("Environment — voters want it clean and green") will step forward with innovative solutions.

What disturbs me is the tone of your editorial. A "clean" environment, a "green" environment, is made out to be something like a rack of lamb, or choice cut of prime rib. You order it, it comes on a platter a few minutes later and you pay the check on your way out the door.

What's really needed is a reaffirmation of the fact that "the environment" is everyone's responsibility. What's needed is a little attention to the fact that this is one problem that mushrooms in cost, unless everybody chips in a little.

Mustang Ranch has investment chance

BEFORE I left Nevada this week, hopefully for less wintry weather in southern California, I expanded my short term investment portfolio with two legal wagers on the Detroit Red Wings and Pistons to win the 1989 Stanley Cup and National Basketball Association championship respectively. Both are judgments of the heart rather than inside trader manipulations.

Documentation has been turned over to a blood relative who will act as my designated agent to collect the winnings and forward them to me when the proper time comes. Now I am weighing the wisdom of a long term investment in another venture which this state's laws makes perfectly legal, a brothel. But more of that later.

Shortly after my own arrival in the Lake Tahoe/Reno area, another visitor dropped in for the holidays. It was what the U.S. Weather Service called "the largest storm to hit the area since 1971."

SAMPLE headlines in the North Lake Tahoe Bonanza and Reno Gazette-Journal carried messages such as "Snow Blankets Area; Storm Blamed for 170 Traffic Accidents," "Major Winter Storm Blasts the Sierra," "High Winds, Heavy Snow Expected Today," "Reno-Sparks Buried."

Then another headline said, "Big Snowfall Hits at Wrong Time for Ski Operators." The ski industry, headed by famed Squaw Valley, is a winter giant in northern Nevada and California, and as you may know the boundary between those two states runs straight through Lake Tahoe. The biggest ski crowds of the season are expected during the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

"There's such a thing as too much through bifocals

Fred DeLano

snow," the Gazette-Journal quoted one resort marketing coordinator as saying, "when it gets tough to drive here and people would feel safer staying home, that scares people away."

That's exactly what happened. At 7,000 feet winds were whistling at 50 to 70 miles an hour, temperatures fell to near zero, and tire chains were mandatory for driving. Some highways, including I-80 through Donner Pass, were closed for long periods. We even were snowed in on Christmas Eve. Only Santa got through.

But of course you're asking about that other financial possibility which I mentioned. It was given a big play in the Nevada press, and probably some back home, that the Securities and Exchange Commission has been petitioned for permission to sell $23.3 million in Mustang Ranch public stock. It is proposed that 1.165 million common shares be sold for $20 each, according to a 136-page prospectus.

QUOTING again from a Reno newspaper, "The Mustang is the nation's largest and most famous legal 'house of ill-fame,' as the local ordinance puts it."

Let me quote further, but briefly, and at random:

"Like any well-run company, it's business before pleasure at Mustang Ranch where prostitutes receive 'consideration' from customers, before services are rendered, according to the prospectus. Translation: Money before sex.

"Fifty to 90 'independent contractors' live at the two-building bordello 10 miles east of Reno, according to the SEC filing. The prostitutes rent a room at Mustang, usually for $10 a day and the promise to share with management 50-50 what they earn from customers.

"Upon settlement (on a price), the prostitute takes the man's money or credit card, gives it to a cashier who accepts payment and records in a book what the customer's money is buying. 'logging in,' according to the SEC filing. The book is not public record.

"The prostitutes generally work three weeks in a row, then get one week off. The women have their comforts, too, like a fully equipped kitchen and services for hair-dressing, manicures, pedicures, facials and other beauty treatments. The prospectus notes it's good for business to keep the women happy."

If the stock offering is allowed, it would be the first time a bordello has become a publicly traded corporation. I guarantee that ownership of a share would be a sure-fire conversational stimulant back in Michigan.

The Mustang currently is owned by Joe and Sally Conforte who have been trying to sell, so I read, since 1985 when Joe was released from prison after serving 18 months on charges involving $2 million in unpaid income taxes. He says he wants to retire because more than 30 years in the prostitution business is enough. I wonder if the girls think so, too.

Cut inheritance tax

JIM BLANCHARD is missing something when he dismisses the state Legislature's flap over the inheritance tax as "game playing." The governor used that term on the Senate's effort to tie a general tax bill to another bill repealing the state inheritance tax.

John Engler, the Senate Republican chief and Blanchard's probable 1990 rival, is a mile ahead of Blanchard in recognizing the need to reduce the inheritance tax. For that matter, a number of Democrats in the "graying suburbs" also grasp the issue.

The issue is more than merely reducing state taxes by $60 million and finding replacement revenue. It's part of the long-term planning for Michigan's reindustrialization and preserving our natural and human resources.

DURING THE 1985 year-end holiday break, Engler unveiled a visionary report he had commissioned from the Hudson Institute, an Indianapolis think tank. I saved my copy. Engler has used that report as a blueprint for many programs — including cutting the inheritance tax.

Besides attracting industry, a policy Blanchard has emphasized, Hudson Institute says Michigan should "consciously seek to attract and hold those people with the greatest choice of where to live — college students, young professionals and retirees."

Let's concentrate here on the retirees.

"Between 1980 and 2000, the number of Michigan residents over the age of 65 will increase by 23 percent," the institute found. In a chapter on Traverse City, it notes:

"Many of these older residents will pick Michigan's lakefront areas as the place for their retirement. They may be joined by large numbers of somewhat younger Michigan residents who will choose — or be forced — to retire in their mid or late 50s."

The retirees' Social Security, pension and dividend checks help fuel Traverse City's boom in service, retailing and construction industries. That has already happened in Florida and Arizona.

TO KEEP retirees and attract tourists, Michigan should "bend all its policies to the task," the institute report said.

There are blistering comments on the high percentage of state income Michigan devotes to welfare. The institute says Michigan should promote its lake country areas with spending on highways, airports, parks, recreation and tourism advertising. In this key sentence, it suggests:

"Taxes that discourage visitors (e.g., levies on hotel rooms), or that make it expensive to die in Michigan (inheritance taxes), could be reduced."

Essentially the plan is to cut the Michigan inheritance tax to Florida's level — virtually nothing.

Now we have the inheritance tax question in context. Engler grasps that context. Blanchard doesn't yet.

LOTS OF people go to Florida for their health or other reasons and stay there. Nothing but a hurricane could induce two retirees near and dear to me to travel north of Sarasota voluntarily.

Others I know maintain two residences. They can choose between Michigan and Florida as their "tax home."

The issue is complicated by Michigan's lack of a gift tax and other details, state treasurer Bob Bowman tells me.

But as the 1989 Legislature again takes up the inheritance tax question, Blanchard needs to understand that it's more than "game playing."

Saving money is important to people who lived through the Great Depression and worked darn hard for their wages. They prefer to leave that money to their kids, even if the kids are rotten, instead of the state treasury, even if Bowman is a lovable and clean cut guy.

The inheritance tax cut bill deserves a better hearing than it got in 1987-88.

Team planning good for middle school students

Q: Our child is in grade 7. On the front of the school it says middle school, yet when I look at my child's schedule it looks like a high school schedule, six periods, six different classes. How does one recognize a real middle school?

A: A classic middle school program is different than your child is experiencing. There are three or four criteria to determine if it is a middle school. The first criteria is usually a sixth, seventh, eighth grade configuration as opposed to a seventh, eighth and ninth grade configuration.

The "transition grade" from a K-5 elementary setting or the sixth grade would most likely have students in a two-hour block of time in an interdisciplinary approach with math and science taught together and social studies and English taught in a team (two teachers) teaching situation. Another middle school criterion would be that six or seven teachers and possibly a counselor would be on a larger team and have a team planning period where they meet, discuss and plan the academic, social and emotional needs of each student. This team planning period is in addition to the teacher's regular planning period.

In my opinion, the team planning component where all the students' teachers meet together is a major criteria for implementing a successful middle school concept. Some districts are innovative enough to bring together many of the above elements without a team planning period, but that takes commitment by administration and staff.

Retailer caters to working women

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Sure, a woman who works has all day to shop . . . just like a farmer has time to count every piece of straw in the barn.

Martin Weiss knows quite well that is not the case.

The president and chief executive officer of Hadley Arden Inc., a Livonia-based women's clothing chain, realized that in the early 1980s. He could see with his own employees — most of whom were women — that shopping was done out of necessity and not as a pastime.

With that in mind, Hadley Arden has made a nice dime because working women don't have time.

"I think they're successful in attracting a certain type of customer," said Mark Rosenfeld, president of Jacobson's. "I don't know how many stores they have now, but they have grown steadily through the years and have carved their own niche in the market."

The market Weiss caters to is quite clear in his mind. The working women of today has special needs.

"There were a lot of working women who didn't have time for a shopping day," said Weiss, whose clothing chain has 20 locations in the area including Westland, Garden City, Farmington and Livonia. "Their day was Saturday or Sunday and they didn't want to spend it all day shopping."

How does one cater to the working woman of today?

A specialty store, Hadley Arden usually can be found in neighborhood shopping centers. They are the kind of place a woman can go on her lunch hour or on her way home from work. Walk in, buy what she wants, and walk out.

The stores tend to be small. The average Hadley Arden runs about 4,000 square feet.

SINCE THERE isn't an abundance of space, fashion merchandise is pre-edited for the best quality for the least expensive price. Hadley Arden buyers only buy clothing with the best value, so the customer doesn't have to spend time figuring that out what is best for the dollar herself, Weiss said.

Judging by sales — $15 million in 1987 alone — Weiss has figured out a way to make being small, yet large in terms, numbers of outlets, pay off. Along with 20 outlets in the Detroit area, plans include adding two or three new stores a year and eventually expanding to other states.

Success has followed Weiss since he merged his family business, Arden, with Hadley stores in 1982. He was indoctrinated into the clothing business at age 12 at the Arden clothing store his father owned in Port Huron.

Weiss would work after school in the children's department, sorting coat hangers and cleaning

She savors work with patients

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Nurses . . . the ones who supply the bandages and care . . . the ones who play an integral part in a patient's recovery yet watch as the doctor gets the credit.

Nurses . . . the ones who are forced to work long hours and for poor pay . . . the ones who burn out quickly.

You don't have to tell Mary Killeen of Livonia about the negative aspects of nursing. She's heard them all.

Except the clinical nurse specialist at Sinai Hospital hasn't let those things drive her out. She will be the first to tell you nursing is tough. But in the same breath, she'll tell you how challenging and rewarding it can be.

Killeen, herself, is a prime example. She was recently selected as "Nurse of the Year" by the March of Dimes.

Each year the March of Dimes cites the nurse judged to be the outstanding maternal and child health nurse by a committee of peer nurses. This year the criteria included a focus on administrative nursing.

"I always got a real high taking care of patients," said Killeen, who was presented with a plaque and a check for $500 at the recent annual meeting of the Perinatal Association of Michigan. "I love meeting moms and dads and bringing babies into the world."

HER ENTHUSIASM for nursing is only matched by her accomplishments. She has had roles in promoting perinatal nursing as an administrator, educator and researcher along with her current position of clinical nurse specialist at Sinai Hospital.

As a director of Providence Hospital's Maternity Nursing Department from 1974 to 1981, she saw the initiation of the Family Birthing Center through all stages of development.

She spent time as an instructor and lecturer at Wayne State University (she has both her bachelor's and master's degrees in nursing from there) and was a supervisor at Metropolitan Hospital in Westland.

She has been a clinical nurse specialist at Sinai Hospital since 1988.

Killeen has been involved in extensive research projects designed to bridge the gap between nurses and new technology. She's also been a moderator, a speaker and adviser in the field of nursing.

And she certainly has come a long way from the time when she was a student nurse at the old Providence Hospital in Detroit. She was in the delivery room with other young nurses when newborns were coming left and right.

A nervous Killeen was asked to help one mother who was delivering her baby. She remembers that night like it happened two minutes ago.

COME TO QUALITY, VALUE & SERVICE

With a smile that literally went from ear to ear, Miss Junior Teen North America for 1987-88, Marci Urbanak, tapped up a storm for "That's Entertainment."

These queens do a 'royal' shuffle

ROYALTY, SO TO speak, was in the limelight at Wonderland Mall recently as queens of all ages shimmered and shined the day away.

The "body English" was part of "That's Entertainment," a pre-holiday show featuring state and national North American Pageant Systems title holders.

The youngsters performed their award-winning routines for shoppers as part of pre-holiday festivities at the mall.

Marci Urbanak of Westland tapped her heart out, while Brianne Wilde, also of Westland, brought down the house with her clogging routine.

The show stopper, however, was Lellani Thorn of Detroit. NAPS Tiny Miss North America, she stole the show with her "Little Egyptian" routine.

NAPS is headquartered in Ypsilanti, but its pageant contestants come from throughout the United States and Canada, with more than 20 states represented.

Young men and women vie for talent and modeling awards at state and local levels throughout the year to qualify for the national competition, held every year in July.

Brianne Wilde, also of Westland, was a hit with the crowd with her clogging routine.

"Little Egyptian" Lellani Thorn, NAPS Tiny Miss North America and Tiny Miss Michigan Talent, stole the show with her routine.

Hadley Arden tunes in to fashion trends

up at the end of business day. After graduating from Albion College, he worked 2½ years in Jacobson's retail management program. He eventually took over the family business in Port Huron, which had grown to eight stores.

The retail business has changed considerably from when his father operated Arden. Today, computers register every sale instantly, allowing for management to spot instant trends in sales. In his father's time, they would simply take a pencil and put a check in a black book after every sale.

Some things haven't changed. Weiss learned that from his father. "It's still a people business," said Weiss, who makes the 1½ commute from Port Huron to Livonia every day. "You have to be able to work at it in order to be successful. I think my father was a people person."

THOSE WHO work closely with Weiss refer to him as a rather modest individual. Unlike some entrepreneurs of his ilk, he doesn't espouse any grand philosophies about life. Married and the father of two children, he is an avid boater and exercises regularly by walking.

Sharply dressed in a navy blue suit and standing erect with both hands tucked in his pockets, Weiss is more comfortable talking about the clientele he serves and knows rather well. Hadley Arden has done two professional customer surveys to find out if the store chain was in tune with those it serves.

The woman who shops at Hadley Arden usually doesn't go with avant-garde trends. She is practical and discriminating when it comes to buying clothes.

"She doesn't accept any dramatic changes in style," he said. "She's updating her wardrobe, she's constantly reworking her old wardrobe into a new wardrobe. We understand she can't afford to discard her wardrobe every season."

Weiss understands that because he also serves as the firm's general merchandise manager and as a buyer of outerwear. He's often flying to New York, Dallas and Los Angeles to find the latest trends.

He is assisted in the day-to-day operations by Jim Thistlethwaite, who is merchandise manager, and Dave Goldfarb, who is director of operations.

"The advantage in a specialty store is that we can move a lot faster," Weiss said. "Hopefully, neither we nor our customers will be stuck with a trend going the opposite way. We normally spot it fast... it could be as simple as a color change."

STEVE JONES/staff photographer
Success has followed Martin Weiss since he merged his family business, Arden, with Hadley stores in 1982.

"It was a girl," said Killeen, the memory bringing a smile.

That girl is a woman of 28 today. And likewise, nursing has changed considerably since then. Technology has revolutionized medicine, and as a result, nurses have had to keep up with the pace. That has helped contribute to the nursing shortage facing many hospitals today.

ALSO, WOMEN have more career options today. When Killeen started out in the early 1960s, nursing and teaching were the only professions filled by women. Pay and long hours are other factors.

"Also nursing has suffered through a poor image portrayed in the media," Killeen said. "It doesn't have the status that it once did."

Although it certainly hasn't from a lack of effort on Killeen's part. She has spoken before many student nurses, including those at Madonna College. She has been involved with accreditation of those entering the profession.

Of those who are taking on the challenge, Killeen sees a change. She said nurses today are more career minded. The numbers are lacking, but the dedication certainly is there.

She found that out for herself. With the advances in medicine, she went back to the day-to-day rigors of nursing for awhile in 1982. She worked regular nurse's hours (which are quite irregular to most people) in the neonatal intensive care unit at Henry Ford Hospital. The hectic pace didn't deter her enthusiasm a bit.

"I loved it," she said. "And that should come as no surprise."

Dear Ms. Green,

I saw your response to a handwriting sample in the Garden City Observer. And I am very interested to hear what my handwriting reveals about me.

I am 27 years old. My hobbies include counted cross stitch, reading and racquetball. I am a paralegal for a law firm. And I am anxious to hear how others perceive me through my handwriting.

L.M.

Dear L.M.,

This handwriting tells me that you are perceived by those around you as a very poised young woman. Your outer facade is one of calm and control.

A good intellect can be found here. You are independent and realistic in your thinking. With facts and concrete data, you are most comfortable. And you tend to mistrust mental embroidery and subjective thinking.

Creativity and imagination also characterize your thinking. On the job, you are self-motivated and probably can work well without close supervision. Your mind is ever working ahead, alert to new and efficient ways to handle the job. And you are quite capable of separating the important from the less important.

Although you are open-minded and receptive to the opinions of others, you are inclined to remain loyal to your beliefs. And speaking of loyalty, you are faithful in friendships.

In matters of importance to you, you are disinclined to be impulsive. Your first consideration is usually how will this affect me personally.

You have an aversion to unpleasant scenes. To avoid them, you have learned the art of compromise. Your feminine intuition, coupled with a fine sense of timing, is also helpful in promoting harmony.

There is early life disappointment, probably with a male authority figure, which has not been resolved totally. You may also be feeling unfulfilled in some area of your life.

A little humor here tells me you also enjoy fun and laughter.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 38251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. ## HOW TO FIGHT THE FAT THAT DIET AND EXERCISE CAN'T CONQUER.

You've dieted and exercised and dieted some more. You've even lost weight. But still you can't get rid of certain areas of fat—on your chin and neck, stomach, waist, hips, buttocks or thighs.

Don't let this hold you back in your quest for a better body, because you may be a candidate for liposuction—now recognized as a safe and effective means of removing fat from many areas of the body.

COSMETIC SURGEONS OF MICHIGAN—one of the areas leading cosmetic surgery practices—is now offering safe, effective liposuction, as well as breast reconstruction and all forms of facial and nose cosmetic surgery procedures.

Don't let fat hold you back! Call today—(313) 645-0844 for more information. Free literature and initial consultation are available for selected procedures.

A recent addition to Cosmetic Surgeons of Michigan, Dr. Michael F. Milan, M.D., F.A.C.S., is certified by the American Board of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery. He specializes in the newest techniques of liposuction, as well as breast reconstruction and body contouring.

Bahai Faith

Religion strives for oneness of mankind

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

People of the Bahai Faith believe that all religions come from the same God and mankind should strive to become one.

Of course, Muslims and Christians fighting in Beirut might differ as would Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland.

But 4.5 million people worldwide subscribe to that theory, including 21 members in Canton and other areas. And the number is growing.

Haven't heard of the Bahai Faith? Chances are you're not alone. Members say the group doesn't proselytize or solicit money from outside sources. They meet regularly in member's homes.

The premise of the Bahai Faith is simple. They believe that their faith is the most recent stage in the evolution of one Divinely ordained process, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Judaism, Christianity, Islam along with others.

Like Allah, Buddha, Christ and Mohammad are to their respective followers, Bahauallah is considered the divine messenger of the Bahai Faith.

"So we have much in common with a lot of religions," said Barbara LaFrier, chairwoman of the Canton Bahai Faith group. "What is new about us is that we believe that Bahauallah has given us some new laws to live by in this age."

SOME BASIC principles of the Bahai Faith include:

- Independent search for truth.
- Elimination of all forms of prejudice.
- Universal auxiliary language.
- Equality of men and women.

'We're in the spiritual business of breaking down barriers between people.'

— Mary Olson
Canton Bahai public relations chairwoman

- Agreement between science and religion.
- Elimination of extremes of wealth and poverty.
- Universal peace upheld by a world government.

Obviously, those are easier said than done. But in the process of striving for oneness with mankind, Bahais learn a great deal about religion and other cultures of the world.

"We're in the spiritual business of breaking down barriers between people," said Mary Olson, public relations chairwoman of the Canton Bahai group. "We're interested in bringing cultures together for better understanding of one another."

The Canton group is diverse and includes a woman from Iran. The Bahai Faith has a strong following in that country, despite reported persecution for their beliefs.

In Canton, the group has been around for 15 years. Members meet every 19 days for the 19 Day Feast. Except they don't bring forks. The feast is not of the food variety but of a spiritual one. Matters of devotional, social and administrative are dealt with as is the reading of spiritual materials. The Bahauallah had written more than 250 books, some have yet to be translated.

"WE ENJOY reading those along with the Bible, the Koran and all the writings of great religions," Olson said. "They all have one source — God."

The group also is involved with a youth group for the greater Detroit area and sponsors a Bahai chapter at Eastern Michigan University.

The Bahai's also have public meetings at various places in Canton. Usually, discussions center on issues of world peace or the elimination of prejudice racial, religious and otherwise. They're issues with difficult answers.

Unanswered questions, though, are what have led many people to the Bahai Faith. Olson was raised as a Catholic but remembers being intrigued by Buddhism, figuring all those people "couldn't be wrong."

Bob Smith, vice-chairman of the Canton Bahai's, echoes similar reasons for joining the group in 1976. Raised a Christian, Smith had converted to Judaism and then found the Bahai Faith.

"The principle thing that attracted me was the acceptance of other religions as valid," said Smith, who belongs to the Bahai Faith along with his wife Gloria. "I thought, 'Here's someone who doesn't condemn other religions'... People didn't have to say, 'Gee, I was wrong.'"

The Bahai Faith has its roots tied to Persia. On May 23, 1844, a young man known as The Bab is said to have announced the coming of a messenger from God.

FOR HIS announcement, the Bab was arrested, beaten and executed. Some 20,000 of his people were killed in massacres that followed in Persia.

Bahauallah, a member of one of the great patrician families of Persia, later announced himself as the messenger promised by Bab. He, too, was imprisoned and tortured. He died in 1892.

Bahauallah addressed a series of letters to the rulers, proclaiming the coming unification of humanity and the emergence of world civilization.

Followers come true to make that message come true today. Except, they try to do it in a low-key manner. Preaching of any type is not allowed. The faith is also self-supporting, and refuses contributions from outside sources.

"We do not proselytize," Olson said. "We believe in the independent search for truth. If you believe in that premise, you're not likely to try and get people to join your religion through any means."

Rev. Lloyd Buss

A nursing home visit gives a warm feeling

Nursing/convalescent home visits have been a regular part of my life for more than three decades. During college and seminary years, the visits were more group activities, with singing, games, general conversation and worship.

My visits as a parish pastor have been with specific members and friends of the parish. Holiday visits in past years with uncles and aunts, family friends, et al, have added another dimension to my experiences with nursing/convalescent homes.

Three weeks ago, my wife's father was transferred from the hospital to a nursing/convalescent home. The art of medical diagnosis had failed to identify the causes of his deteriorating condition, and the hospital would no longer care for him. In less than four weeks, Grandpa V. had changed from a healthy and very active 88-year-old to a man unable to care for himself.

Nursing/convalescent homes come in all different sizes and shapes. Grandpa V's home is one level and less than three years old. Owned and operated by a religious institution, it presents the kind of care facility we consider representative of our regard and esteem for life.

MOST OF my nursing/convalescent home visits have been relatively brief. Seldom have they been more than an hour, and more frequently they are a half-hour or less. Rarely did they include visits during the noon evening meals, and never at times when patients were being put to bed. My visits had basic agendas... to visit, read Scripture, pray, share moments of memory, laughter, sadness, insight, delight, hope and mercy. Almost always, I would come and leave according to my schedule for that day.

We live more than 400 miles from my wife's parents. Our holiday visit this year was spent in the convalescent home. We joined Grandma V. in her daylong visits with Grandpa V. It unfolded features of care I had previously taken for granted.

Good nursing/convalescent home care is good, basic care for flesh and bone. It has to do with the way people are helped in going to bed at night and getting up in the morning. It has to do with the number of times they are taken to the bathroom. It has to do with the way they are fed at breakfast, lunch and dinner. It has to do with the way the call-light is answered and how the people are dressed and bathed.

Good nursing/convalescent home care will also take seriously the primary care provider and coordinator. For all that the nursing/convalescent home is doing for Grandpa V. and for all that his medical doctor is expected to do, it is still Grandpa V. who is the primary care provider and coordinator for Grandpa V. Good nursing/convalescent care staff will work carefully and deliberately with the primary care provider and coordinator.

CURRENT statistics suggest an increasing number of nursing/convalescent homes in the years ahead. Hopefully, there will also be an increasing number of people visiting them. Visits of brief duration do bring moments of joy and delight to those who live and work in nursing/convalescent homes, but for every moment that one visits to establish a personal agenda, there should be another moment that one spends to allow the one being visited that opportunity to unfold their personal agenda. It will take a lot more time, but it will be time that unfolds the love you wanted to bring in the first place.

The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor at Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

Shamrocks handle Borgess with ease

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The shiner over Scott Hauncher's eye proved that Redford Catholic Central's basketball team can dish out, as well as take punishment.

Meanwhile, Shawn Respert was back in the lineup Tuesday for Redford Bishop Borgess, but it didn't matter as the host Shamrocks opened the Central Division portion of their schedule with a convincing 67-54 basketball victory.

Respert, the Spartans' top scorer who sat two games last week (losses to Saginaw and Flint Central) due to facial injuries suffered in an auto accident, continued to take his lumps.

The 6-2 junior finished with only 11 points and spent the early stages of the fourth quarter wearing an ice pack on his head after colliding with Hauncher.

It was that kind of night for the Spartans, and CC made it possible.

"Our guys are smaller, but they waged war," said CC coach Bernie Holowicki. "We really battled them on the boards."

"We were ready to play and we were attacking."

CC's TRAPPING ZONE defense was effective, particularly in the first quarter. The Spartans fell behind 9-0 before they knew what had hit them.

But Borgess stayed relatively close at the half, trailing by only six, 32-26, thanks to the inside play of 6-foot-4 junior Kareem Carpenter, who scored 13 of his team-high 21 points.

The start of the second half was all CC as Jeff Schaner's basket made it 34-26. Senior point-guard Terry Boykin, who led everybody with 23 points, nailed a three-pointer as Shamrocks were off and running, eventually leading by 15 at the close of three quarters and by as many as 22 in the final quarter.

And the Shamrocks did it with center Ray Richards (18 points) on the bench part of the time in foul trouble. The 6-5 senior picked up his third foul midway through the second quarter and his fourth early in the third.

To compensate for Richards' absence, CC sprinkled in an effective four-corner delay game as Boykin, the 6-foot senior, directed traffic.

"TERRY'S JOB is to set the table," Holowicki said. "He handled the pressure, and they (Borgess) gave us a lot of pressure. He's developing into an excellent point guard."

The CC coach expected Borgess would come out and press.

"We knew we had to use the delay sometime," he said. "But we had hoped to get the lead."

Borgess coach Mike Fusco, whose team slipped to 2-4 overall, knew the Shamrocks would be ready to play.

"They came out with a world of confidence after the first quarter and they also got the first five points to start the second half, which really hurt us," said the Borgess coach. "Our kids were not aggressive or attacking as much as we should have. Emotionally, I think we were ready to play, but we weren't mentally ready. I don't know if we have enough confidence yet because we're basically a young team."

Respert had taken part in three practice sessions (including a scrimmage) in preparation for the game, but he managed only two free throws in the first half.

doesn't play with the flow and he becomes tentative," Fusco said. "He may have been thinking a little bit too much instead of playing. Within the structure, he just needed to play."

The only player to score in double figures for Borgess, other than Carpenter and Respert, was senior guard Charles North, who added 14 (North hit four shots from three-point range).

Meanwhile, CC had a more balanced attack.

Schaner, the left-handed sharpshooter, contributed eight second-half points. Hauncher and sophomore Jon Barbara (off the bench) also added eight each.

"This is a good morale win for our school, we needed it badly," said Holowicki, whose team is a deceiving 2-4 overall. "I think this division is wide open now, but (Birmingham) Brother Rice is big and talented."

"And Borgess isn't to be taken lightly. You could see at the end of the game that they're a quality team."

But in Fusco's eyes, the quality was lacking, at least on this night.

"This is something where we've got to sit back and re-evaluate," he said. "Maybe it's time to try some other things."

Time is now to look into '89 crystal ball

THE FIRST LADY was gracious enough to have one last conversation with me before she leaves the White House.

Forget Joyce Jillson or Jean Dixon, when I want to consult somebody about the stars, I call direct to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

As a Pisces, Nancy advised me in our last conversation, "Do whatever you can to get caught up in your responsibilities."

Sounds reasonable enough, considering I've been delinquent in forecasting the Year in Sports — 1989.

But it's never too late, so here is your Observerland horoscope:

Basketball: Little Livonia Clarenceville stuns state-ranked Farmington Harrison in the Class B districts.

"Those guys from Alaska — the Seawolves — spurred us on," said coach Clarenceville coach Paul Clough. "After they beat U-M, I knew we had a chance."

Laments Harrison coach Mike Teachman, chewing a towel: "We didn't take them lightly, I swear."

Farmington High wins Class A district after going 0-20 during the regular season.

"This team seems to be peaking at the right time," said Falcons coach Bob Kaump.

Livonia's Stevenson's 6-foot-6, 270-pound Mike Vrooman shatters backboard at Westland John Glenn.

"I warned him about hanging on the rim," said coach Jim McIntyre.

Canton beats Salem for district title when Brian Paupore, fouled at midcourt, sinks a pair of free throws with no time left on the clock.

"What's good for the goose is good for the gander," said the referee, who made the controversial call.

Baseball: Syd Finch reports to Garden City High for spring training. He strikes out 21 straight batters on opening day and has the Cougars thinking state title.

Brad Emons

"This must be an April Fool's joke," says Cougars coach Bob Dropp.

Snow, sleet and rain force cancellation of high school baseball season for many Observerland teams.

"It must be football season," says Harrison coach John Herrington.

"I've seen worse weather," says Thurston coach Emil Majeski, whose team wins the Tri-River League.

New Stevenson coach Dick DeVries gets thrown out of the first three games for arguing with umpires.

"When I was the debate coach at Churchill I never got tossed," says a bewildered DeVries.

Michigan High School Athletic Association director Jack Roberts warns about suspensions for players and coaches caught chewing tobacco.

"Steve Irwin is gone; we're innocent," said Glenn coach Norm Hoenes. "All my players chew gum now."

"If you thought we were wild and crazy last year, wait until this year," proclaims Mach.

"When Wayne Fontes let him go, I pounced on Mouse like a cat."

Glenn beats Harrison for Western Lakes title, 45-7, as quarterback Mill Coleman is sacked 11 times.

"Every one of our defensive players wanted to make sure he (Coleman) was graduating," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon.

"Mill couldn't find any of his receivers, it was too foggy," complained John Herrington, the Harrison coach.

U-M's Tony Boles accepts the Heisman Trophy after beating out Oklahoma State's Barry Sanders by one vote.

"I'd like to thank Barry's line for not blocking as well as mine," said Boles.

Jim Gibbons, who moved up as athletic director at Redford Union, on his possible replacement as coach: "All I can tell you is that the guy lives in South Bend, Ind., does magic tricks for fun and has a better sense of humor than me."

Hockey: Westland's Mike Modano comes out of the juniors to lead the Minnesota North Stars to an upset playoff series win over the Red Wings.

"I couldn't do it alone, a lot of the credit goes to my linemates Joe Murphy and Tim Higgins," said Modano.

Al Iafate surprisingly appears on the CBC television show, "Cherry's Grapevine." (Commentator and former Boston coach Don Cherry is Iafate's biggest critic.)

"I don't much care for Don," said the Toronto defenseman. "But anyways, 'Blue' (Cherry's dog and co-host) is the star and one who makes the show go."

Tennis: Carrie Cunningham turns pro after losing to Steffi Graf in the finals at Wimbledon.

"This amateur stuff is for the birds," said the 16-year-old Livonian. "By now I could have already paid for my college education at Stanford."

Golf: Little known PGA tour player Bob Proben a surprise winner at the Masters.

Proben accepts the Green Jacket from last year's winner Curtis Strange: "This fits well, but how about the other green stuff?"

Soccer: Stevenson coach Pete Scerri leads his team to another state championship and squashes rumors about retirement.

"I'll be here at least until 1992," Scerri said.

"Don't forget, the World Cup is coming here."

Class A volleyball champs open season tonight

Livonia Ladywood, the Class A volleyball champion last winter, opens its 1988-89 campaign tonight at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher. The Blazers lost middle blocker Corrine McNamara and setter Mary Kelley to graduation, but return enough letter winners to be a contender again this winter.

Ladywood coach Tom Teeters welcomes back five seniors, including outside hitter Sarah Adzima and defensive specialist Dana Domanski. Also back for their senior years are hitters Shannon White, Katie Farkas and Stacey Glirard. Still, it might take the Blazers some time to get used to being without McNamara and Kelley. "Our team had good senior leaders last year," Teeters said. "The team had the gumption and didn't get rattled easily. "But we have a very strong team this year and a good nucleus with Adzima and Kari Domanski."

The Blazers' junior class is led by Kari Domanski and Peggy Knittel. Other juniors on Ladywood's roster are Kim Belcher, Krista Campeau and Janice Konczal. Three sophomores made the 13-player roster, and they are Rebecca Willey, Kell Haeger and Julie Wilson.

Free throw practice benefits Temple effort

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Instead of watching bowl games Monday on television, Redford Temple Christian practiced its free throw shooting.

Coach Dave Gilliam wouldn't let his players leave practice until they shot a combined 1,000 free throws.

Gilliam's persistence in practice paid off Tuesday at Livonia Clarenceville, where Temple whipped the Trojans in a non-conference game, 60-46.

Temple, which made about half its free throws coming into Tuesday's game, converted 15 of 20 at the line against Clarenceville, including six in a row to end the game.

The bowl games were boring anyway.

MAYBE CLARENCEVILLE coach Paul Clough should have followed Gilliam's lead. The Trojans made only 11 of their 20 shots at the line.

"We've been losing games at the free throw line," said Gilliam. "So every kid had to shoot 125 free throws until we ran out of time Monday. If we beat anybody it's going to be close."

Not Tuesday.

The Class D Patriots (3-6 overall) jumped out to a commanding 14-4 lead after one quarter and led 32-15 at halftime. Class B Clarenceville (1-3) missed 12 of its first 14 shots and for the game shot a paltry 25 percent (13-53).

The Trojans didn't have much luck

basketball

holding onto the ball either, committing 31 turnovers, including 13 during the second quarter.

Clarenceville outscored Temple 9-2 at the start of the second half and pulled to within six, 44-38, on a basket by Derrick Herr early in the fourth quarter, but got no closer. Herr led the Trojans with 17 points and Kendrick Harrington added 13.

"If we wouldn't have put ourselves in such a hole, we could have done something," said Clough, who was reminded of his team's futile shooting. "Every game we've had quarters where we've gone one-for-something or two-for-something at the max."

"WE HAVEN'T been scoring that well. We've been somewhat inconsistent. And today we had bad passes, turnovers. We put ourselves in a hole we couldn't get out of."

Temple's balanced attack had five players in double figures, led by senior Maurice Little with 15 points and nine rebounds. Roy Neal scored 13 points, followed by Marlon Reed with 12. Brenden Figurski and Jeff Weiss finished with 10 points each.

Little dominated the second quarter, making all five of his shot attempts and scoring 10 points. As a team, Temple was 22-of-50 (44 percent) from the floor for the game.

Gilliam praised Little, but knows it takes a team effort for the Patriots to win.

"Mo is quick as a cat," Gilliam said. "I didn't even know he had that many in the second quarter until I looked at the clipboard at halftime. When he squares up to the basket he's tough."

"WE HAVE NO stars. Everyone has to work hard. This is a hard working team with a lot of good people."

Clough said he had hoped to play some zone defense, but Clarenceville got so far behind so early, the Trojans couldn't afford to.

"If the game had been closer we would have gone to the zone to stop Little," he said. "The had five pretty good players and Little took our shorter guards down inside and he can really get up in the air."

Temple plays 10 teams above the Class D level, this year, and last weekend split games to Class A opponents at the Taylor Baptist Park Holiday Tournament.

The Patriots defeated Wyandotte Roosevelt, 50-48, in the opening round before falling to Taylor Kennedy in the title game, 49-38.

Figurski and Weiss led Temple with 18 and 13 points, respectively, against Roosevelt.

In the championship game, Reed was the only Patriot in double figures, scoring 12 points. Temple made only 12 of 27 free throws against Kennedy.

No wonder the Patriots were in the gym so long Monday.

STEVE JONES/staff photographer

Derrick Herr of Livonia Clarenceville looks for the open man in Tuesday's 60-46 loss to Redford Temple Christian. Herr led the Trojans

Thurston, Aggies gain victories

Fernando Merida led three Redford Thurston players in double figures Tuesday, scoring 21 points in the Eagles' 82-70 Tri-River League triumph over visiting Allen Park.

Thurston is 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the Tri-River League. Allen Park fell to 3-3 overall, 1-3 in league play.

Junior guard Jason Muller and senior guard Keith Wojkowski were the other Eagle players in double figures, scoring 18 and 15 points, respectively.

Merida also grabbed 10 rebounds and teammate B.J. Kellogg contributed eight.

basketball

The Eagles led 20-11 after one quarter and held a commanding, 43-24 lead at halftime. Thurston made 17-of-24 free throws.

"We played real well," Thurston coach Mike Schuette said. "We played three quarters of real solid basketball."

ST. AGATHA 66, O.L. OF LAKES 47: State-ranked Redford St. Agatha kept its record untarnished for the season Tuesday, winning its fifth straight over visiting Waterford Our Lady of Lakes.

Senior Guard Matt Haran led the Aggies with 23 points. Seniors Galen Walker and Matt Boyle also had big games for St. Agatha. Walker scored 16 points and pulled down 15 rebounds, and Boyle chipped in with 15 points and 11 rebounds.

Agatha last played before Christmas and the time off hurt the Aggies.

"We didn't play with the sharpness we would have if the game was played last week," coach Jim Murphy said. "We can't make mistakes like that Friday against (Flint) Holy Rosary."

Big 1st half carries Salem Rocks past Ypsilanti

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

When the time clock malfunctioned early in the third quarter Tuesday night, Plymouth Salem got the wrong idea.

The basketball game wasn't over yet. Time hadn't expired.

After all but burying Ypsilanti in the first half, the host Rocks fought off a second-half comeback by the Braves to begin 1989 with a 58-46 victory.

Salem improved to 5-1 overall, with its only loss being to Plymouth Canton prior to the holiday break. Ypsilanti is going the other way at 1-5.

"You know they're going to make runs at you, and you have to be able to weather the storm," Salem coach Bob Brodie said, referring to the harried fourth quarter in which the Braves cut Salem's 33-15 halftime lead to seven.

"WE SAT ON it a little bit — not on purpose. We played rather passively and let Ypsilanti have control of the tempo for eight minutes."

With the Rocks leading 36-19, the clock went on the fritz with less than two minutes gone in the second half.

Salem managed to keep its third quarter lead at 18, thanks to three late baskets by Jeff Elliott, the 6-foot-2 senior who had another superb outing with a game-high 26 points.

But the wheels came off the Salem machine in the finale. The Braves were pressing — literally and figuratively — and took over with more aggressive defense.

Elliott's hook provided the only Salem points in the first 6:15 of the period, and the Rocks saw a 48-30 lead dwindle to 50-43 when Ivan Davis put back a rebound, capping a run of seven unanswered points.

Salem guards Craig Marshall and Jeff Gold, both of whom played solid, all-round games, made two free throws apiece to break Ypsilanti's momentum and give the Rocks some breathing room, 54-43, with 41 seconds left.

THEN, MIKE Albertson and Elliott got loose for easy layups to lock up the victory before David Webb hit a triple for the Braves.

"It's hard, when you get a big lead, to maintain it the whole game," Brodie said.

"We haven't had a close game with the exception of the Canton game. After losing that game, people said, 'Can you win a close one?' The kids began to wonder, too.

"This one was close near the end, and I think it gave the kids some confidence," he added.

Salem's victory was especially sweet since the Rocks were trounced 63-49 by Ypsilanti last January.

"We've got some things we have to get back from last year," Brodie said. "We lost a lot of ball games due to injury and illness. Some of these guys are seniors, and they want to show they can play the game."

Spartan walk-on earns plaudits

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Michigan State's Walt Bartels may be the ultimate role player. The sophomore walk-on from Redford Catholic Central High, has forged a place on the nation's No. 1-ranked hockey team.

And despite a disappointing homecoming last weekend in the Great Lakes Invitational Hockey Tournament (the Spartans were upset by North Dakota), it appears the right-winger, who took a regular shift on the third line, is becoming a fixture with the Spartans.

MSU coach Ron Mason has taken walk-ons in the past, but he made it tough for the 5-foot-11, 185-pound Bartels to make the team.

"He's such a quality kid that we had to take a closer look even though I didn't give him much of a chance at first," Mason said. "I thought we were going to make him the student manager to tell you the truth."

MASON KNEW that Bartels wasn't quite the caliber of another walk-on, Livonian Mike Donnelly, who on eventually worked his way up the ladder to become an All-American with the Spartans, leading MSU to the 1986 NCAA crown. (He is now a member of the Buffalo Sabres.)

But the Spartan coach liked what he saw in Bartels.

"We gave Mike Donnelly more of a chance because he led his Junior A League in scoring," recalls Mason. "The difference between Mike and Walt was that Walt was coming right out of high school, and there's a big difference."

"But Walt worked hard and improved the physical aspects of his game, which helped him out a great deal."

Bartels, who has scored four goals and added two assists in the Spartans' first 22 games, admitted, "I just hung on."

"I GUESS YOU could say I got very lucky my first year," he said. "I went to Michigan State because of the school. I thought I was done playing hockey."

hockey

Bartels credits his high school coach at Redford CC, Jack Gumbleton, for establishing a work ethic.

"What he (Gumbleton) instilled in me was discipline," Bartels said. "And I also learned what hard work was all about."

Before his freshman year, Bartels "lifted weights vigorously and skated throughout the summer."

"Going from high school to college is a big jump," Bartels said. "I learned from the older guys by just watching them. Many of those guys I'm in awe of and still am. A lot of those guys are now playing in the NHL."

Bartels spent a majority of his freshman season on the sidelines, but avoided the ax.

AN HONORS STUDENT at MSU's James Madison College,

Bartels spent eight weeks studying in Cambridge, England, focusing on international politics and economics.

But eight weeks in England set his off-season conditioning program back.

"I ran and did pushups every day, but I was off the ice eight weeks," he said. "I was skinny and I was afraid I wouldn't make the team."

But Mason said Bartels had "right temperament and personality to do a good job."

"He's a plunger who doesn't make any mistakes," said the MSU coach. "And I'm not afraid to put him out there in crucial situations because he never makes mistakes. He also has a great sense of humor."

Bartels is doing his part and has gladly accepted his role.

"Mason has a system and I try to follow what he says," said the right winger. "Basically I'm a grinder. I don't have many skills, but all I can do is go out and try my best."

THE SPARTANS, minus one of their top scorers, Rod Brind'Amor, away playing in the World Junior Tournament, tried their best in the Great Lakes Tournament, but it wasn't enough to beat North Dakota and a hot goaltender named Norm Dickson.

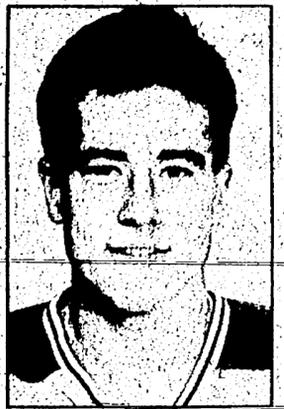

After the stunning 7-3 loss to the Fighting Sioux, MSU rebounded in the consolation game to beat Michigan Tech, 7-1.

"Not to make excuses, but we had just come off a long break and we hadn't played in awhile," Bartels said. "North Dakota had come off playing a Russian team and their tempo was faster than we expected. And their goalie (Dickson) played great."

"Against Tech we tried to show that we had a talented team and could play better. There was no vendetta. We just knew we could play better than the first night."

The MSU coaching staff hasn't talked yet with Bartels about putting him on scholarship, but the Plymouth native believes that will take care of itself.

"IT WOULD BE nice because I'm paying a lot of money to go to school right now," he said. "But I can't complain. My job is to go to school and study. And one of my favorite things is hockey. Each day I look forward to spending those two hours on the ice."

Walt Bartels doing his part

With that type of attitude, Bartels is willing to sacrifice in order for the Spartans to win a Central Collegiate Hockey Association crown and a trip to the NCAA Tournament.

Livonia teams are expected to finish 1-2-3 against in the Suburban Prep Hockey League this season.

January showdowns will determine league titles

All four Observerland prep hockey teams took breaks over the Christmas holidays, but all will be back in action by next week. See standings.

Redford Catholic Central, which has lost only once in 10 games, has a pair of pivotal games in a six-game span, meeting rival Livonia Franklin (the only team to beat the Chargers) on Wednesday, Jan. 18, against Livonia Stevenson. Both games are scheduled for Livonia's Edgar Arena.

The Shamrocks have four big dates this month including games against state-ranked Southgate Ander, Birmingham Brother Rice (home) and Trenton (home).

Meanwhile, Suburban Prep League leader Livonia Churchill, which has lost only once in 10 games, has a pair of pivotal games in a six-game span, meeting rival Livonia Franklin (the only team to beat the Chargers) on Wednesday, Jan. 18, against Livonia Stevenson. Both games are scheduled for Livonia's Edgar Arena.

FRANKLIN AND CC played each other in a scrimmage last week.

Stevenson, meanwhile, is off to the slowest start among area teams, but the Spartans have yet to lose in the SPHL.

Franklin and Stevenson tied last month in their first meeting, 2-2.

Stevenson and Redford CC will square off for the second time this season on Saturday, Jan. 28, at the Redford Ice Arena.

Albert Scaglioni, professor of engineering turned art dealer, says all of his engineering skills have served him well as he built one of the largest art galleries in the country. Being born into a family of art collectors didn't hurt either.

20 years later

Engineer turns art into bigtime operation

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

AS ALBERT SCAGLIONI, FOUNDER of Park West Gallery of Southfield, spoke of his 20 years of selling art, his thoughts moved quickly from past to future.

In two decades he made the leap from owner of a small gallery on Nine Mile near Telegraph to president of the corporation which operates one of the largest, if not the largest gallery in the country.

The current gallery, 29469 Northwestern, is 5,000 square feet of display space; counting warehouse and offices it hits a rather astounding 40,000 square feet.

"I've been around a lot, and I haven't seen anything remotely this size," said Scaglioni as he stood in the main floor gallery looking down to the huge gallery below with its 27 foot ceiling. Instead of the usual one or two works per wall, there were many on each wall by a variety of artists. It is a 20th anniversary show of works by artists whom the gallery regularly shows such as Andras Markos, Agam, Laszlo Dus, Picasso, Erte, Chagall, Rembrandt, Manuel Robbe and Harold Altman.

"It's incredible we ended up with 500 pictures plus sculpture and ancient documents," said Scaglioni, adding that he was skeptical at first of the mixture and using so much at one time.

"It's gone over so well, we may keep several gallery that way all the time . . . people stay longer. People say this is the way it should be hung. Instead of 30 minutes, they may stay three hours. It was a surprise to me. It's a real change for Park West Gallery. I'm gonna go with it."

HE SAID THE eclectic taste level of the gallery's clients has been influential in the change as well. Clients enjoy seeing a contemporary abstract expressionist painting by Markos hanging beside a French Impressionist work, a Chagall or a Rembrandt.

"This," he said, "also allows the client's own taste to dominate. They gravitate to things they like and are less inhibited and less intimidated."

Scaglioni, who has been pouring all of his efforts and extensive talents into this gallery business for two decades and, in particular, whipping this larger than life gallery operation into shape, said he plans to turn the day-to-day operation over to his staff. He will continue to head the corporation and make the exhibition and acquisition decisions.

"It will be a slow withdrawal, but the image of the company will never change as long as I'm alive," he said.

He said, "This is a place for me to display and sell things that have taken me 30 years to collect. I was an avid collector for 10 years while I was teaching and very recently I've come to grips with the enormity of our collections . . . I can give you the history and circumstances of each piece of art I bought."

Before becoming a gallery owner, Scaglioni, who has a doctorate in mechanical engineering taught at Michigan State University and Wayne State. He grew up in New York City in the midst of a family who loved classical music, opera and especially art. Art collecting came as naturally as walking or talking.

And it didn't surprise him at all (possibly everybody else) that his engineering and mathematical skills translated immediately and well to the art business.

For instance, the gallery is now in the final stages on cataloging everything about each work of art and each artist on an IBM AS 400 computer. Each work of art is marked with a bar code. Using this system, the gallery can produce a catalogue for a major exhibition in a few hours. The corporation has a printing business which will open soon a few doors from the gallery in Park West Plaza.

A COMPUTER THIS SIZE is an invaluable tool in a business which is so international in scope and so dependent upon the fine details about hundreds-of-thousands of different items.

Scaglioni said he and his wife will spend more time in their home near Puerta Vallarta, Mexico. When there he loves to swim in the ocean and go horse back riding. Still, one of the major attractions, in addition to the setting, 700 feet on top of the mountain "with 500 miles of jungle at my back" and the climate, is the telescope which he has on the roof of his home. Astronomy is another all-consuming interest.

Between them they have two daughters and two sons and while the young women aren't interested in the gallery, Scaglioni's son Mark, 19, and his stepson, John, 24, are. Both work there parttime.

Scaglioni said he has had many lucrative offers for alternative uses for the building, but he isn't interested. The location is highly desirable.

"If I wanted to pick a tougher place to build a big gallery (than metropolitan Detroit), I don't know where it would have been. New York would have been easier. Chicago would have been easier . . . But, I couldn't have picked an easier place than Northwestern Highway."

TO ANALYZE HOW he went from a small gallery with a few employees to 5,000 square feet of display space and 40 employees is another story. But, as he looks back Scaglioni is certain about one thing, "People began to buy when I started to talk about the art and the artist." And still today, he said, "We know a lot about the objects we offer."

And his personal collection? What does he have on the walls of his house? It looks a lot like the gallery, he said, he buys what he likes for both.

Experience counts

Make progress by setting goals

TIS THE season for resolutions, fa la la la la... la la la la. Me? Well, I'm going to lose weight and get my cholesterol level down. I'm going to sculpt and paint more. I'm going to travel more. Take better photographs. I'm even going to brush Tiffany, my standard poodle, every week at least until February.

I believe in goals. I must always have a goal. Did you ever hear the saying, "If you aim at nothing, you'll hit it every time." I even need a deadline for artwork and writing. If I receive a commission and the customer says, "When you find the time," I interrupt and say, "No, I'm sorry, but I have to work on a deadline or pickup date." Why? Because I know me and "me" will never find the time.

So I know "me," but do you know "you?" Are you the artist who has for 10 years only worked a black and white or one-color medium? Are you one who sells paintings but lacks background in the drawing media? Are you secretly afraid that you will be asked to draw people? Do you fear the commercial commission? Have you ever wondered about sculpture or anatomy but feared you weren't good enough?

Well, come on then, make some resolutions. Set some goals and then make the commitment. Remember the word commitment means "no alternatives" or otherwise stated: Go for it!

What if all you need is a start? Maybe just finding a spot of your own somewhere in the house to do your art. Perhaps your talent is apparent but you lack the technical know-how. Perhaps all you may need is some encouragement from your family or friends. Artists are usually sensitive and their art is dependent on the maintenance of that condition. So the push to begin or change subject/media often comes from loved ones.

artifacts
David Messing

By the way, I said "sensitive" and not touchy. Touchy artists may just as well hang a sign around their necks that reads: "Hi, I'm a touchy artist. I am insecure and will never improve in my ability or attitude." You see, you never know until you are exposed to a learning situation.

Honestly, I would be the most miserable of all men if I thought I had to pretend to myself or others that I knew it all. I learned early on the very good feelings of the phrase, "I don't know," and the challenge of the following phrase, "but I will find out."

It is true that this year many of the circumstances and situations in which you will find yourself are out of your control. It is also true that many of this year's situations and circumstances are a result of your decisions and commitments. So make this the year you decide to expand your art.

In the meantime, from all of us at the Art Store & More, have a happy and healthy New Year.

David Messing has been an area art teacher for more than 10 years. He is also the owner of the Art Store & More in Livonia.

Art show coincides with ice spectacular

In conjunction with the 1989 Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular, the Plymouth Community Arts Council invites the viewing public to look at another art form.

The exhibit, "Michigan Art '89" is open to the public during the two weeks of the ice show. There is no admission charge. The exhibit is housed at Growthworks, 271 S. Main.

Winners of the statewide competition were honored at a reception yesterday. During the reception, cash awards by the contest sponsor Michigan National Bank were presented to nine artists selected by art show judge Carol Ann Carter, an associate professor at the University of Michigan.

Exhibit hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Many of the works will be available for purchase. For more information, call 455-5260.

designing ways

Eve Garvin

Nothing warms a room visually like the rich grain of a wood floor. If you are considering wood vis-a-vis carpet, the flooring will be a bit more. The wood, however, will pay back with lifelong service as well as beauty.

New polyurethane finishes and woods that are impregnated with plastic to ensure easy maintenance should dispel any concern for costly care.

If you are in a home with strip flooring, what you have is probably oak. If you should decide to show your floor, any number of finishes are available, from light to dark.

Area rugs are the most versatile and eye-catching of all floor coverings. Used atop wood or any hard surface, they can make your color statement. Area rugs should not be used over carpeting as they will ride. You can use a rug under a table where there is carpet.

AN AREA RUG CAN be more than an attention getter. It's also the easiest floor covering to use when you want to visually separate one part of your house from another. For example, if you have a living-dining room combination, the area rug used in the conversation grouping will separate it from the dining area.

If you are interested in purchasing the best quality possible but are concerned about your budget, area rugs give you an excellent way to invest in top-of-the-line floor covering.

Antique Orientals are the aristocrats of area rugs and command prices in the tens of thousands of dollars. Why are they so expensive? Rarity and craftsmanship command the price. An Oriental is a one-of-a-kind work of art. Buying one is a truly wise investment.

Orientals are by definition handmade, either knotted or flat woven. Understanding how an Oriental is made lets you recognize the difference between an authentic Oriental rug or a machine-made rug with an Oriental design. One good way to distinguish is to examine the fringe. In a genuine Oriental, it's an extension of the warp threads. In machine-made rugs, the fringe is sewn on and is not an integral part of the rug's body.

Your best source for Orientals is a reputable, established dealer. One of those is Azar's in Birmingham. They have a wonderful collection from Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and China. They will let you take a rug home for a trial period, and you should take advantage of this. In that way, you will be able to see how the rug looks in your room and have plenty of time to examine it.

Eve Garvin has been an interior designer in the area for many years.

● VAAL CLASSES

Day and evening classes and workshops are being offered by the Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL). Classes begin the week of Jan. 23. Classes offered will include: drawing, oil, watercolor and monoprinting. Classes are held in the Jefferson Center, 9501 Henry Ruff, Livonia. For more information, call 464-6772.

● SISSON GALLERY

"To Draw" is the theme of the visual art statements to be on exhibit in the Sisson Gallery at Henry Ford Community College, featuring work by artists John Hegarty, Jim Nawara and Peter Williams.

The show will close Jan. 13. Hegarty treats the figure as a metaphor for man's confrontation with himself. The figures are nude, which strips them of their source of camouflage. Hegarty chooses to present the figures straight on and almost life-size.

Nawara explores the nuances of the landscape, which seem to hold the mystery of nature for him. The landscape is sometimes viewed from above and sometimes straight on.

Williams, through the flight of his imagination, conveys in robust drawings a dialogue about his experiences as a black, as an artist and as a person in the urban environment of Detroit and his responsibilities to this environment.

All three teach at Wayne State University.

The gallery is on the campus of Henry Ford Community College, 5101 Evergreen. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with additional hours 6-8 p.m. Tuesdays.

● BRIDAL FASHIONS

The Hyatt-Regency in Dearborn will be the scene Sunday of a bridal fashion show featuring fashions from several area bridal shops, including Creations by Pollack of Farmington and Lina's Bridal and Imports of Plymouth. Others include Dior Bridal Salon, L'Elite Bridal Salon, First Lady and Fashions, and President Tuxedo.

Orin Jewelers of Garden City City and Northville will also participate. Tickets are $5 for the event from 12:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Call 574-1900 for reservations.

Theme miniconcert offered

Tickets are now on sale for the all-new Friday Night miniconcert series by a chamber group of the Livonia Symphony (formerly the Oakway Symphony) which will be held in the Livonia Civic Center Library auditorium beginning in this month.

Three concerts — all with special themes — will be featured. Opening the series will be Italian Night on Jan. 13; Viennese Night on Feb. 10; and American Night on March 10.

The symphony/chamber group is under the direction of Francesco DiBlasi.

The Italian Night selections will include Rossini's Overture to "The Barber of Seville," "Concerto Grosso" by Vivaldi, "Dances Sacred and Profane" by Debussy. Also featured will be a special arrangement of "Italian Spectacular."

The Viennese Night will honor the late DSO conductor Antal Dorati's

"La Vie Parisienne." Other selections will be "Ein Klilence Nach Musik" by Mozart; Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," and a singalong of tunes from the Rodgers-Hammerstein production, "Sound of Music."

Among the selections to be featured at the March 10 All-American concert will be "Outdoor Overture" by Copland; "Adagio for Strings" by Barber; Scott Joplin's "Ragtime for Brass;" and selections from the musical "West Side Story."

Tickets are priced at $24 for the series, or $8.50 individually. Special series rate of $12 is offered students and seniors, with $5 for individual tickets. Tickets are now on sale at the Civic Center Library, Hammell Music Store on Middlebelt Road, Madonna College. Tickets may also be purchased by sending a check to LSO, 30449 Plymouth Road, Livonia 48154.

INSIDE THE AUTO SHOW

IN DETROIT

DETROIT'S stature as host of North America's only truly international auto show was further underscored by the Society of Automotive Analysts (SAA), with the announcement that the group will hold an international conference in conjunction with the show.

But it will be the show itself that will demonstrate to the world the global significance of the show. Here's a little of what show-goers can expect:

- Chevrolet and Pontiac will introduce their new line of all-purpose vehicles. Chevrolet will introduce its Lumina coupe and sedan, its new mid-size lineup for the 1990s. Pontiac will display for the first time a new concept car. Pictures can be found elsewhere in this special section.

- Mazda will introduce a new vehicle yet to be announced.

- Porsche will show for the first time in North America three new models — the 911 Carrera 4, the 911 Speedster and the 944 S2 Cabriolet.

- Lincoln-Mercury Division of the Ford Motor Co. may introduce the 1990 version of its Lincoln Town Car.

- Nissan Motor Company's Infiniti Division will introduce its new line of luxury cars.

- Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. will introduce a new concept car and show other concept vehicles.

- Buick Division of General Motors Cop. will introduce a new concept car and its new Ultra model.

- Cadillac Division of General Motors Corp. will introduce a new concept car. GM's Oldsmobile Division also plans to introduce at least one new concept car.

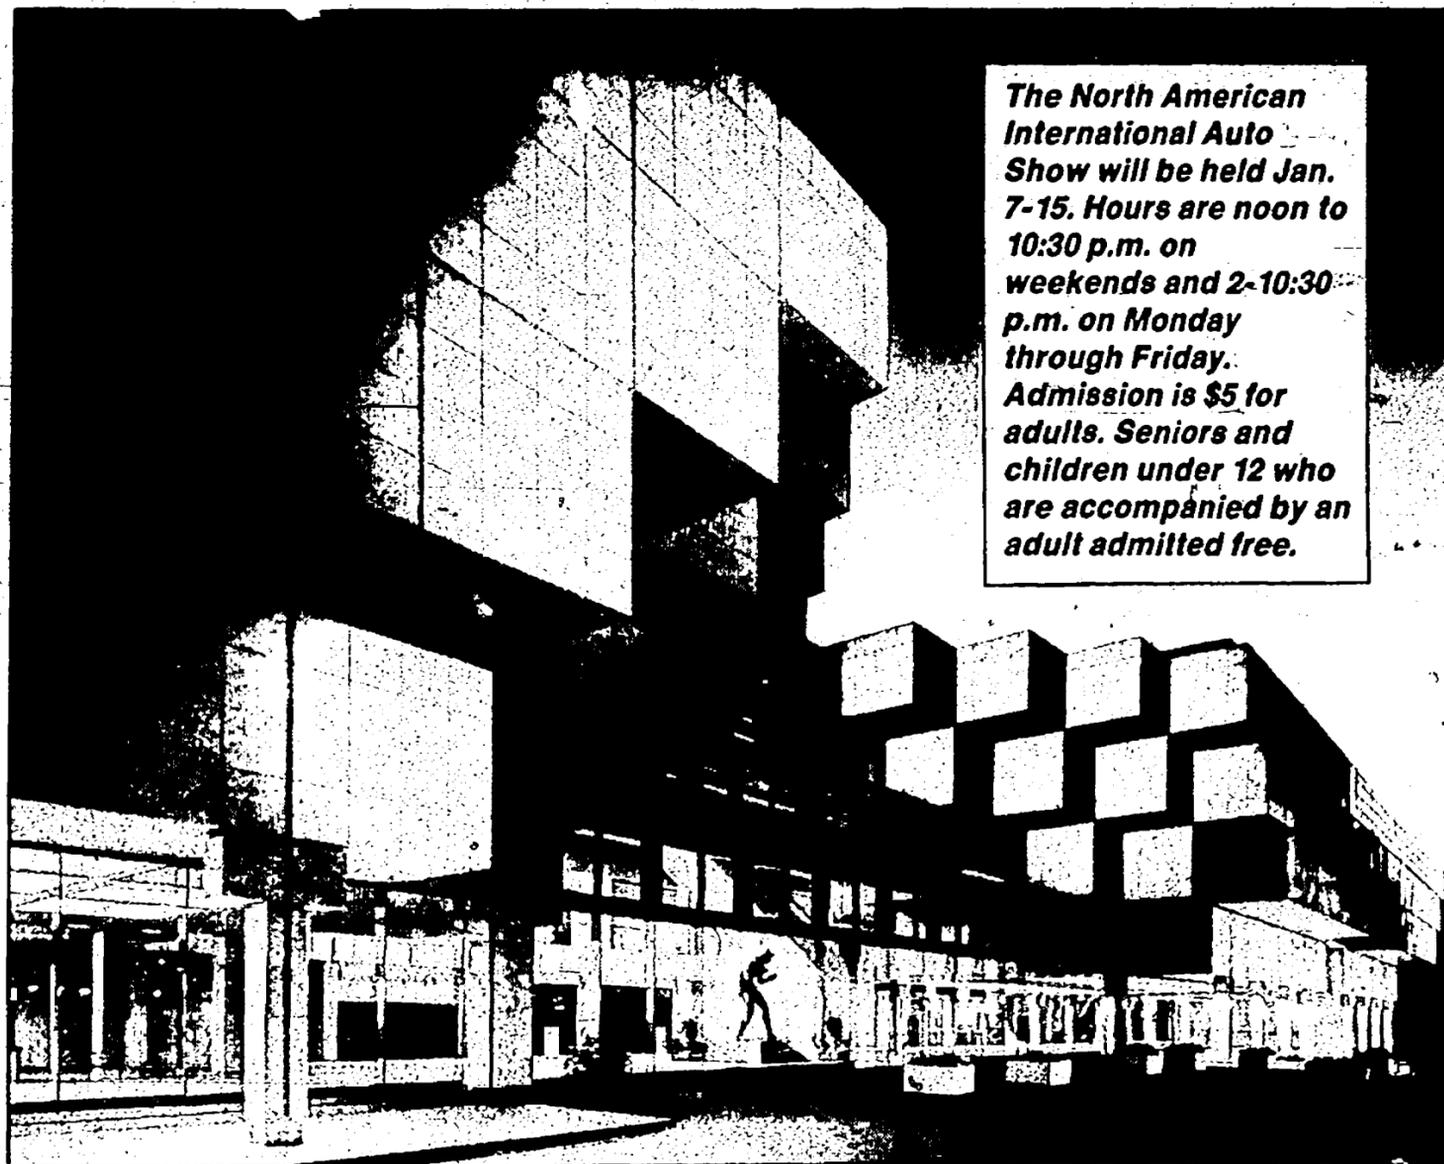

- Peugeot will display for the only time in the United States its Oxia concept car.

- The Lexus Division of Toyota Motor Co. will introduce for the first time in the world its new line of luxury cars.

- Chrysler-Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corp. plans to introduce at least six new concept vehicles. The Dodge Division plans to introduce at least one new concept car.

- Volkswagen will introduce its new Corrado sports car.

- Audi will introduce its new V-8 model.

The North American International Auto Show will be held Jan. 7-15. Hours are noon to 10:30 p.m. on weekends and 2-10:30 p.m. on Monday through Friday. Admission is $5 for adults. Seniors and children under 12 who are accompanied by an adult admitted free.

An expanded and renovated Cobo Hall will be auto show headquarters.

An expanded auto show opens

INTERNATIONALIZATION of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association's annual Auto Show coincides with completion of a $225 million expansion and renovation of Cobo Hall.

"Mayor Coleman A. Young deserves credit for the vision and leadership he displayed in orchestrating this impressive project," said auto show co-chairmen David Fischer and Kenneth Meade. "Without the mayor's foresight, our association's dream of bringing to Detroit the kind of world-class auto show that it truly deserves would never have become reality."

This year's charity preview will mark the grand opening of the new Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center, now one of the nation's largest and most flexible trade show and convention sites.

COBO'S EXPANSION enabled this year's show to increase its display space by 60 percent and add 17 exhibitors to the 24 that displayed cars and trucks in 1988. And the 1990 show promises to be even bigger and better yet.

Autos in spotlight, but charities shine

TWO ADDITIONAL children's charities will benefit from this year's charity preview, the traditional black-tie party that opens the Detroit Auto Dealers Association's annual auto show.

This year's preview also marks the grand opening of the expanded and renovated Cobo Hall.

The March of Dimes and the Detroit Institute for Children join four other children's charities as financial beneficiaries of Detroit's International Auto Show.

Last year's charity preview generated more than $200,000 for Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit, The Children's Center, the Easter Seals societies of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center.

"THE DADA'S CHARITY preview is one of the best things that ever happened to us," said Joe Kozo, executive director of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs.

The charity preview is a major so-

Powered to charge

The first supercharged engine to power a domestically built car in more than 30 years is standard equipment in the 1989 Ford Thunderbird Super Coupe. The 3.8-liter V-6 (inset) develops 210 horsepower. Ford last offered a supercharger in 1957 when a limited number of blown Thunderbirds were built. However, there is little resemblance between the supercharger technology on the 1989 models and that used three decades ago.

New Infiniti line launched

Infiniti, the luxury car division of Nissan Motor Corporation in USA, will be introduced at the Detroit Auto Show in Cobo Hall Jan. 7-15. Offered in the new line are a V-8 four-door luxury sedan, a V-6 sports coupe and a V-6 convertible based on the coupe. A four-door sedan will also be added to the Infiniti line in the second model year. Shown here is the Infiniti Q45 with a 4.5-liter, 32-valve, high-performance V-8 engine. Among the first new dealers will be Marvin Tamaroff of Southfield and Hoot McInerney of Bloomfield Hills.

Mid-size Hyundai rolling into U.S.

The mid-size Hyundai Sonata, new for 1989, is being launched at Hyundai dealerships around the nation. Included in the Sonata's long list of standard features are a 2.4 liter four-cylinder engine with electronic fuel injection, power rack and pinion steering, power-assisted ventilated front disc brakes, a tilt steering column, tachometer, digital quarter clock and more. Suggested retail price is $9,695. The Sonata follows by nearly three years the introduction of the Excel subcompact.

Power boost for Allante

Cadillac Allante, the two-passenger flagship of one of America's luxury cars, receives a major power increase for 1989. A new 4.5-liter V-8 engine developing 200 horsepower propels Allante from 0-60 mph in less than 8.5 seconds and to a top speed of 135 mph. Additional refinements include softer leather seating and door panels, new standard interior trim color (charcoal) and a new exterior color (light blue metallic).

Olds making a bid for new generation

"It's the New Generation of Olds." With those words and a new advertising campaign to back them up, Oldsmobile will attack the 1989 model year. On display at the Detroit Auto Show will be some of its new weaponry: the Cutlass Supreme (above), Oldsmobile's freshest expression of automotive distinction. At the right, Cutlass Calais, the car that introduced Oldsmobile's Quad 4 engine to American buyers; and at right above, the International Series coupe.

when an additional 100,000 square feet becomes available on the building's west side.

As impressive as Cobo's sheer size is, its majestic new granite and marble block facade with four, three-story glass atriums overlooking downtown Detroit.

Cobo's physical attributes now include:

- 84 meeting rooms ranging in size from 600 square feet to 33,000 square feet.
- A 27,000 square foot grand ballroom.
- A completely carpeted concourse area stretching the length of two city blocks.
- Four elevators to roof parking and 26 escalators connecting halls, meeting rooms and registration areas.
- Shuttle bus service from 18,000 hotel rooms in 10 metro Detroit locations within 30 minutes of downtown.
- A 12-foot bronze sculpture of Detroit boxing great Joe Louis.
- An oil portrait of Mayor Coleman A. Young.

- A wall mosaic in Venetian glass at Cobo's new People Mover station, the 13th along the city's 2.9 mile elevated downtown transportation route.

"WE'RE DELIGHTED with the way our expansion has shaped up," said Cobo director June Roselle. "The convention and trade show industry is growing so fast that we were in danger of losing several long-time customers because we simply did not have enough room to accommodate their events."

"Within a few years, we expect to pump nearly $225 million annually in convention-related revenue into this region compared with about $100 million prior to the expansion. We expect the number of conventions and trade shows to double to 90 in the next five years, doubling our current annual attendance to nearly 800,000 people," Roselle said.

Originally opened in 1960, the Cobo expansion project began in October 1985.

Tickets cost $50, with each charity receiving whatever amount it sells in tickets.

"These additional funds will enable us to expand our volunteer educational program, which is crucial to our success," said Georgia Olson of the March of Dimes, which funds research and provides medical services aimed at preventing birth defects.

The Detroit Institute for Children specializes in treating infants, children and young adults who suffer from sensory and perceptual disabilities. Proceeds from this year's preview will be used for the Institute's Cerebral Palsy Clinic.

The Easter Seal societies of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties became recipients of funds generated by the preview in 1976, when the DADA broadened the number of charitable organizations associated with its annual event.

Trans Sport on its way

Pontiac Division will show off its new multi-purpose vehicle, Trans Sport, at the North American International Auto Show at Detroit's Cobo Hall, Jan. 7-15. The Trans Sport, a 1990 model, signals Pontiac's entry into this growing segment of the auto industry.

"The funds we receive from the auto show are very important to our operations because most of our budget is assigned by the government, whereas preview contributions can be used where they are needed most. We are delighted to be associated with the preview. The dealers really do a super job," said Ted Lewis, executive director of the Children's Center.

The Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center directs preview donations to its school dropout prevention program. The league identifies students in the first through fourth grades who are chronically tardy or absent from school. By counseling these youngsters at an early age, the league tries to prevent potential dropout problems.

"Each of these charities provides important services to needy children," said DADA President Robert L. Thibodeau. "Our dealers are very proud that our annual Auto Show has been able to make significant contributions to the welfare of the entire Greater Detroit community."

Three new Geo models that offer buyers a wide selection of imported vehicles under a single nameplate are being introduced during the 1989 model year. Geo Prizm (front) is a sophisticated family sedan; Geo

Metro is the most fuel-efficient vehicle sold in America; and Geo Tracker convertible (rear) is an all-new 4-wheel-drive sport utility vehicle.

Chevrolet's Lumina sedan and Lumina APV are 1990 models that begin appearing in showrooms in fall 1989 as part of the lineup making its debut at the auto show in Detroit.

Geo — of the world — makes that kind of an auto show entrance

AS PART of the most massive product launch in its history, Chevrolet unveils six new vehicles at the North American International Auto Show.

The six — the three-member Lumina family of vehicles, the Corvette ZR-1, a high-style Geo Prizm and a sporty Geo Storm — will reach dealer showrooms during 1989.

The Indy 500-winning Chevy-powered Penske PC-17 will be on display along with the new Lumina NASCAR vehicle representing Chevrolet motorsports — the most successful in the industry — at the exhibit. Chevrolet's XT-2 experimental truck will be featured in the truck area.

The "Heartbeat Dancers," a magician, hoola-hoop trickster and the "Rappers" dance group will entertain the auto show audience.

Lumina — the bright new name in transportation — has three members: a sedan that is sleek yet roomy, a sporty yet spacious coupe and a multi-purpose passenger vehicle unlike anything before it.

Prizm, the Geo flagship family sedan, and Storm, the sporty 2<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> coupe, will round out the Geo lineup and are shown with the other Geo family members: the fuel-efficient "Metro," the economical "Spectrum," and "Tracker," a new four-wheel-drive sport utility vehicle.

Geo — signifying "of the world" — gives an international flavor to this vehicle line and distinguishes it from the rest of Chevrolet, a move designed to increase sales to import buyers.

Introducing Geo.

Geo Metro

Geo Tracker

Introducing Geo... Geo's a full line of Ideas.

Like the economical Geo Metro, Geo Spectrum and the sporty Geo Tracker 4x4. And coming soon, the 1990 Geo Prizm sedan.

 It's stingy. Geo Metro has the highest mileage in America... EPA estimated MPG city 53/highway 58.

 It's surefooted. Geo Tracker doesn't miss a step. A solid 86.6-inch wheelbase, short overall length and wide stance afford this 4x4 excellent stability.

 It's smart. Geo understands the true value of the dollar, taking your money very seriously... by not taking much at all. With a price range from $5,995 to $12,495* A financial wizard? Indeed.

 It's protected. A Bumper to Bumper Plus Warranty protects Geo for 3 years/50,000 miles! Simply, we stand behind what we sell. Enough said.

It's 1-800-DIAL-GEO. Questions? Comments? Call. Because whatever it is you're looking for in a car... it's a Geo. No matter what.
