Houses in, condos out at project

By Todd Schneider
staff writer

Apartment-style condominiums are out and detached, single-family homes are apparently in for a 14.3-acre development on Cowan, east of Wildwood.

A compromise proposal presented by developers last week won backing from the Westland City Council and conditional approval from a group of neighborhood homeowners concerned about the project.

The original plan, for 80 attached condominiums, was dropped in the face of opposition from the homeowners and a recommendation to deny special development approval by the city's planning commission.

"THE NEW plan is much better," Michelle Reese, who lives across the street from the proposed development, said in a telephone interview Thursday. "There are still some concerns though."

Reese, who led a petition campaign against the original plan, said ongoing concerns included additional traffic in the area, whether existing trees will have to be cut down and whether the developer will stick to the new plan.

An estimated 220 residents signed petitions opposing the development.

The homeowners said attached condominiums or cluster-type homes would not fit in with older homes in the area, most of which are on half-acre or larger lots.

"There's still a major lack of trust (among nearby homeowners)," Reese said. "We'll have to monitor the situation and see how it goes."

THE NEW plan calls for Kime Brothers Inc. to build 60 single-family houses with sizes ranging up to 2,000 square feet, according to Ken Mehl, city council president.

"It's going to look like a regular subdivision," Mehl said.

The development will be on a site just west of Huron Valley Lutheran High School.

The revised project is scheduled to go before the planning commission again Wednesday, July 5. If the commission approves the site plan, the council will vote on it either July 17 or during the first meeting in August, Mehl said.

"I think the revised plan is about the best compromise we could have reached," Mehl said.

THE "HOMEOWNERS' first request, that the houses be built on half-acre lots, was "impractical," the council president said.

"That would mean only 28 homes in the development and financially, he (the developer) would die," he said.

The council has to balance homeowners' concerns "with the fact that a property owner has the right to develop his property," Mehl said.

Kime Brothers withdrew the original plan last month just before a public hearing on the proposal. The planning commission had voted 8-1 to deny special approval.

'There's still a major lack of trust (among nearby homeowners). We'll have to monitor the situation and see how it goes.'

Decision on schools chief due today

Finalists, employees talk, 3A

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The Livonia Board of Education is scheduled to choose a superintendent today to oversee day-to-day operations affecting nearly 16,000 students.

While the trustees will make the decision, some representatives of school employee groups who met last week with the two finalists for the job said they prefer Joseph Marinelli, associate superintendent of the Orange County, Fla., schools.

Qualities demonstrated by the two finalists — Lee Hansen and Marinelli — will be discussed by trustees at a 6 p.m. study session, open to the public, before the board selects one at its regular meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m.

Both sessions take place at the board office, on Farmington Road just south of Five Mile.

AFTER MEETING with each candidate in separate two-hour sessions, the school employee group representatives described Hansen as more businesslike and Marinelli as effective with people.

Hansen is superintendent of the Poudre School District R-1 in Fort

Homicide charge filed in crash

A Canton Township man was arraigned Thursday on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with a June 10 car-truck collision that killed a 29-year-old Westland man.

Robert Wayne Blanchard, 22, pleaded not guilty to the charge before 18th District Court Judge Gail McKnight. The charge is a high misdemeanor punishable by a maximum 2-year prison sentence.

Henry Meyers died from massive head injuries suffered in the collision, on Merriman at Steinbauer, police said.

McKnight set a $5,000 personal recognizance bond for Blanchard.

A preliminary examination was scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday, July 3, in McKnight's courtroom.

POLICE SAID Meyers was driving northbound on Merriman at 10:12 a.m. when his 1981 Dodge Omni was struck head-on by an out-of-control flatbed truck. The truck had struck another northbound car and hit a second vehicle before hitting Meyers' car, police said.

Witnesses told police the driver of the truck crossed over the center line so that the truck was on the wrong side of the road.

The driver of the second car suffered minor injuries in the accident, police said. No one was injured in the first car.

Police said tests for alcohol or drug use by the driver of the truck were negative.

School district has new plan to battle drug, alcohol abuse

Wayne-Westland school students will have their substance abuse problems handled by teachers and administrators under a new program approved last week by the school board.

The board voted unanimously to adopt the Student Assistance Program, developed over the last 2½ years by a 39-member task force of teachers, administrators, counselors and community residents.

The program addresses treatment and counseling for students with drug and alcohol problems, prevention, classroom instruction, teacher training and parent education.

The guidelines will be put into place beginning next September in all schools.

In developing this policy, we have maintained a balance between compassion for and aid to the students suffering from substance abuse and mental health problems, and the protection of the academic environment of students who wish to learn," the task force said in a statement introducing the program.

Six "core policies" form the basic outline of the program:

The district endorses and supports prevention/education programs and activities for students, staff and community.

In disciplinary cases, students must be referred for screening/assessment in addition to any punitive measures.

In cases where no school rule has been broken but staff is concerned about high risk behaviors students would not be subject to disciplinary measures.

Students who voluntarily seek help will be addressed differently than disciplinary or behavior referrals.

cop calls

A CANTON Township man was treated for a broken kneecap at University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, June 9 after he was assaulted in the parking lot of Steff's Lounge, 8831 Newburgh, police said.

The victim, who is handicapped, was a lounge employee.

Officers responding to a 2:15 a.m. call from the bar found the victim on the ground in the parking lot and called an ambulance.

Witnesses told police the victim was assaulted by an unidentified man who was apparently upset after being ejected from the bar by bouncers a few minutes earlier.

The assailant apparently recognized the employee and began to shoot at him, witnesses said.

He then kicked the man's prosthetic leg from under him and the victim fell to the ground, witnesses said.

A HOMEOWNER on the 2500 block of Affeldt told police someone broke into his house Tuesday and stole a Longines diamond watch and a .22-caliber, semi-automatic pistol.

The stolen items had a total value of $640, the homeowner said.

The break-in occurred between 8:20 a.m. and 4:10 p.m. while nobody was home, he said.

Police said the thief apparently kicked open a back door to enter the house.

A RESIDENT on the 28000 block of Annapolis reported that someone shot out her front window Monday night.

Nobody was injured in the 11:30 p.m. incident, police said.

Officers found a bullet lodged in the west living room wall of the home.

A WESTLAND boy told police an unknown man fired a weapon at him Wednesday afternoon while he was standing with a group of friends on the corner of Linville and Hazelwood.

The boy, 11, was injured slightly in the assault, police said.

Police believe the weapon was a paint gun.

The boy told police a teenager in a small blue car drove toward him and fired the weapon before driving away.

POLICE issued fireworks violations to two Westland youths outside the vacant Lowell Junior High School building, Joy at John Hix, Wednesday night.

Police were called to the school site at 9:16 p.m. by a neighbor who reported hearing loud noises, possibly gunshots.

Officers found the boys, age 15 and 14, and a bag containing two bottle rockets, a package of firecrackers and other small explosives.

Counter is named purchasing agent

Ellen Counter has been named the city's new purchasing agent, replacing Robert Wagner.

Wagner, a longtime city employee, will retire at the end of the month.

Counter's appointment was announced Thursday by Mayor Charles Griffin. She was one of 140 applicants for the job, said Finance Director Michael Gorman, who headed the committee to fill the position.

Counter has been employed by the city since 1985, most recently as a cashier in the finance department.

Previously, she worked as an insurance coordinator and office manager for Computer Alliance, Livonia.

In a statement issued by the mayor's office, Griffin said he was pleased the job went to a current city employee. "It has been the city policy, for many years, and remains my policy, to promote from within if qualified candidates are available," the statement said.

Counter is married and has two children. She is a longtime Westland resident.

'Dog police' don't get any respect

This is the second in a three-part series examining animal cruelty.

By Janice Brunson

On Mother's Day, Buster, a 7-year-old spaniel noted for his friendly nature, was brutally attacked by larger dogs and mortally injured. He died the following day.

Two Detroit youths, ages 11 and 13 years, are responsible for Buster's violent death. They stole the small dog, a family pet, from the neighbor's yard and placed him in a pen with German shepherds and Rottweilers located in another neighbor's yard.

The large dogs, trained for sale as guard dogs, immediately turned on Buster. Within minutes, "he was ripped apart," according to Tim Clements, one of five officers employed by the Michigan Humane Society to investigate charges of animal cruelty.

The 13-year-old readily admitted his participation in the incident, telling Clements this is not the first time he and his younger companion had placed a small dog in the pen for "sport," the thrill of the kill.

When Clements confronted the 11-year-old, he defiantly denied participation. He also threatened the only witness to the incident with a gun. The youth's mother, a crack addict, expresses little interest in her son and is hostile toward Clements, who says the boy should be removed from the home.

"IF HE STAYS there, he doesn't have much of a shot at making it," said Clements, who is taking legal steps to place the boy in a foster home. A former police officer who has been an animal cruelty investigator for two years, Clements is hopeful of success because of contacts made a year ago.

The situation was very different last July when Clements uncovered an unlicensed nursing home in Detroit where six elderly women and 58 dogs were living in substandard conditions. When he attempted to enlist assistance from health and other social service officials, he met with agency indifference.

"What I had to do after I made the proper complaints and nobody did anything, was contact the media," Clements said. After the case received wide publicity, the home was closed. Clements maintains touch with contacts made then and continues to nurture them for future use.

Too often, humane society officers are not viewed seriously by social and health workers, police officers and others involved in protective services.

"To them, we're dog police and animals are expendable," said Mark Kaltz, who, like Clements, investigates animal cruelty.

Part of the problem is that the mistreatment of animals, especially by the young, is dismissed as a prank or poor judgment.

Attitudes, however, are changing, according to David Wills, a Birmingham resident who since 1981 has directed the Michigan Humane Society.

"THERE IS DEFINITELY a heightened awareness, from the prosecutor to the judge. They are beginning to recognize animal abuse as signals of deviant human behavior," Wills said. Public pressure, he added, is also molding attitudes. "People are tired of crime."

Judge Daphne Means Curtis of 36th District Court considers animal cruelty a serious matter. "I take it pretty seriously, maybe less so than cruelty against humans, but

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Officer Mike Killian comes up empty as he searches an abandoned building in Highland Park for kittens. He was following up on a call to the humane society office.

not much. Whether against an animal or a human, cruelty shows a disregard for life and feeling."

Gary Vickers, a Wayne County assistant prosecutor who works the misdemeanor court in 36th District, sees many animal cruelty cases. Most are "pretty horrible," like the Detroit man who burned a Tabby kitten with cigarettes and an open stove flame, or the woman from Canton who killed her dog by taping a toy into its mouth. Unable to eat or drink, the dog died of heat stroke.

Because most are first-time offenders, "basically all we can do is place them on probation, ask they make restitution (for court costs) and deny future pet ownership," Vickers said.

The man who burned the cat, for example, was sentenced to a 30-day work release program and denied pet ownership for life.

AFTER THE SECOND grisly killing of dogs in Livonia last month, Sgt. Donald Vandersloot of the Livonia police was assigned to investigate both incidents. A 24-year veteran of the police force, this is his first case involving animals. He has conferred with the humane society's officer assigned to Livonia, after the officer contacted Vandersloot, but there has been little progress in the case.

"We don't have anything to work with. No leads. No suspects," Vandersloot said.

This is often the case in animal-cruelty investigations. Proof of ownership and cause of death is frequently impossible to determine because of the length of time between the crime and discovery of the carcass. Last year, the society had to abort 80 investigations for lack of evidence or witnesses.

And in the instance of Buster, charges against the two youths responsible for his death have been dropped because the dog's owner, a neighbor to the two boys, refuses to file charges.

Officer Clements is crestfallen. "Maybe it's intimidation. Who knows for sure."

SIENNA LARENE, an attorney for the humane society who updates the organization's handbook on animal cruelty laws, writes, "Inroads towards ending abuse of animals will be seen only when these cases are handled as a serious part of the law enforcement framework of our society.

"Humane societies and animal control officers as well as police authorities will play a vital part in that effort."

Next, animal sacrifice, perhaps the most extreme form of animal cruelty: is it on the increase?

Folk medicine not for animals

Veterinarians at the Michigan Humane Society are continually astonished by home remedies used to care for animals who, suffering from homemade cures, are brought to the clinic for professional treatment.

"At one time, maybe some of these things were all we had. But now we have safer, more certain drugs," said Dr. Shireen Cece who has been treating animals at the society for five years.

Among the more startling things she has seen:

- Motor oil applied to any fur-bearing animal to prevent mange.
- Feeding dogs raw tobacco to cure worms.

- Placing copper sulfide or copper pennies in drinking water to guard against worms in dogs and cats.
- Feeding dogs gun powder to make them mean.

- Bleeding pit bulls, teaching aggressive fighting technique by placing a dog in a fighting pen with a young German shepherd whose snout has been taped shut.

- Curing distemper by confining animals to a darkened room for one month.
- Feeding animals a mixture of grass and cough syrup to cure distemper.

- Curing distemper by placing a necklace of dried corncobs around the neck of animals.

- Placing a necklace of dead chicken parts around the neck of dogs to discourage chasing chickens or other poultry.

- Feeding animals liquor until drunk, thereby dulling pain enough to permit home surgery in the clipping of ears and tails.

CECE AND her colleagues have also treated animals who have been fed large quantities of liquor by owners who find humor in drunk pets, and last year they saw 17 dogs who needed imbedded chains removed surgically.

Cece also cautions against feeding bones of any kind to cats and dogs because they can become lodged in the intestines.

YOU ARE BEING EVICTED!

Imagine the following: You are a homeowner; you have worked hard to pay your bills; you keep your home clean and well-maintained; you work with your neighbors to keep the community safe and viable, yet your house is being taken away — you must move and leave it all behind.

That is what is happening to 30 Detroit churches. Many are self-supporting, have funds in the diocesan savings program, have well-maintained buildings, provide desperately needed services to the community, yet they are being closed and sold by the Archdiocese of Detroit.

In the four and one-half years of the existence of the task force and committees which studied the church in the city and made recommendations to the Cardinal, not one parish slated to close was visited by any committee. Repeated requests for dialogue with the Cardinal have failed.

Ten churches have already been closed. Seventeen more face a June 30 deadline. Three others must close when their pastors retire. At a time when Detroit needs more churches rather than less, we are struggling to keep them open. The churches scheduled to close are:

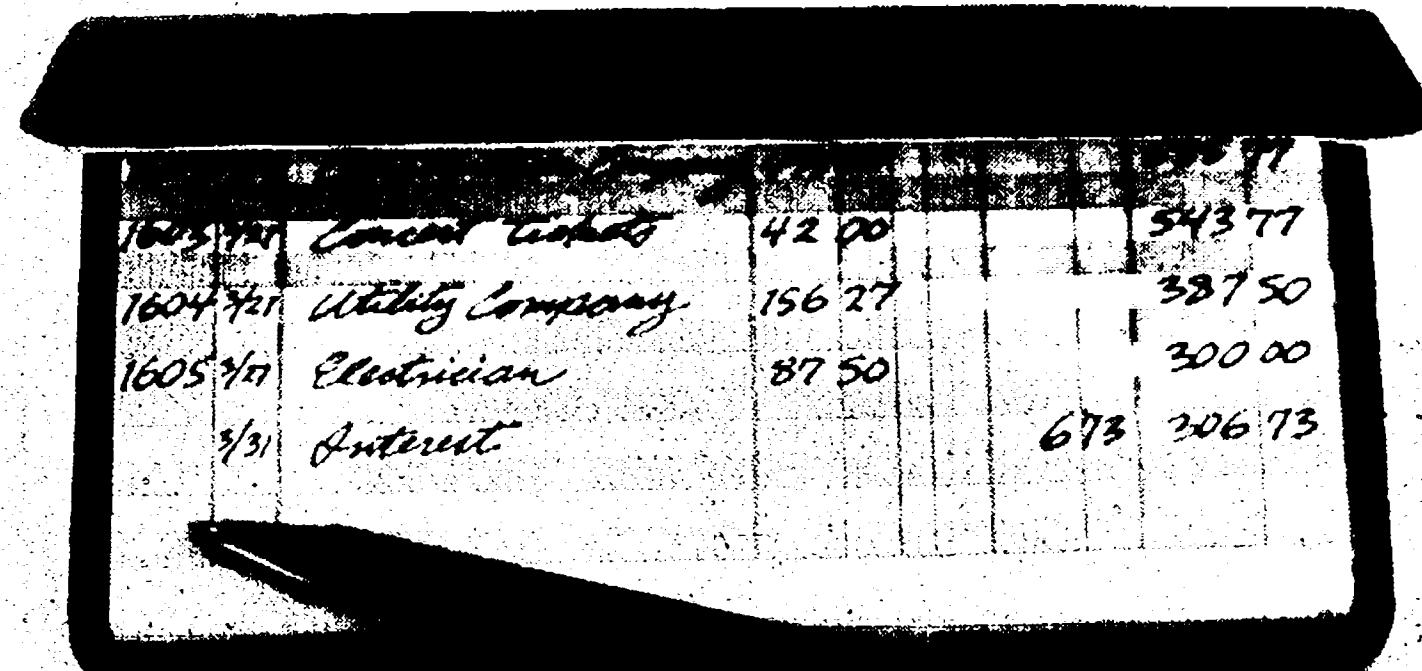

- Holy Ghost — built for and by black parishioners.
- St. Philip Neri — building will be used for an outreach center, but by order of the Archdiocese, may not be used for prayer or worship.
- St. Theresa of Avila and Stanislaus — have met Archdiocesan criteria for viability and are still scheduled to close.
- Resurrection, Mother of Consolation, St. Monica — strong, viable self-supporting communities.
- St. Boniface/St. Vincent — Historic Church, self-supporting.
- Patronage of St. Joseph and Mother of Our Savior — In excess of $50,000 in the Archdiocesan Savings Fund.
- St. Casimir, St. Brigid — schools remain open but churches must close.
- St. Rose of Lima — has managed to stay alive and strong for two years with no pastor and little Archdiocesan support. Five years ago, the Archdiocese spent over $100,000 to renovate the school basement for worship.
- St. Ignatius of Antioch — Involved in ecumenical outreach in the neighborhood.
- Visitation — strong, viable community that has already downsized to accommodate financial needs.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

- Write Cardinal Szoka at 1234 Washington Blvd., Detroit, 48226.
- Call the Cardinal at 237-5818.
- Join us on June 21, Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Stanislaus for a rally in prayerful support of these churches.
- Pray with us at the Cardinal's residence, 75 E. Boston Blvd., at 1:00 every afternoon from June 19-June 23.
- Join us at St. Anne's Church in Detroit for a Mass of Unity on June 28 at 7:30 p.m.
- Pray and fast that the children of our city have a church in their future.

Detroit must have diversity in leadership

WHETHER OR NOT Tom Barrow is the best candidate for mayor of Detroit is up for grabs. But he is on target in his conviction that "the suburbs and Detroit are inexplicably intertwined."

But how to make the people of the suburbs realize that and care for and work for Detroit as they do for their own communities is the heart of the problem.

Barrow penetrated the suburbs Monday to both physically and verbally make his point.

In an interview over lunch at Gino's Restaurant in Farmington Hills, he said that the caring is there. Much of suburbia came from Detroit. "They care about that old neighborhood," Barrow insists.

And "it's not just white people, there are tremendous numbers of blacks who have left Detroit."

BARROW SAYS:

"They may live in Birmingham, but they work at that law firm in Detroit — or they own property there."

"Even though you live in Southfield, you've got a stake in what happens a half mile away."

"Every single (suburban) mayor has a stake, whether it's the water or sewer systems. They can all think they're an island, but they're not."

As a former northwest Detroiter and Mumford High School graduate, I agree that the caring is there. It is reassuring that my old Sherwood Forest neighborhood is in tact as far as its homes.

But Livernois and Seven Mile Road, which used to be known as the Avenue of Fashion, could hardly be called that today. And people no longer move to Sherwood Forest so their children can attend Hampton and Durfee and Mumford. Those children, now parents themselves, want Lone Pine, West Hills and Andover. And those with school-age children in Sherwood Forest send them off to private and parochial schools.

All that's upsetting.

the gulf between Detroit and its suburbs.

He says he wants to bring back Washington Boulevard which once was flanked by two grand hotels, with posh stores in between. He wants not just a riverfront or a Greektown or a Fox Theatre, but a viable shopping, entertainment, business district connecting them.

But nostalgia and caring from afar is not enough. Detroit no longer reflects what suburbanites want. To change that, whites must be brought back into Detroit's political system.

Barrow understands that, although he says blacks who subscribe to this are called Uncle Toms, while whites who say it are labeled racists.

But there is no doubt that suburban Detroiters, black and white, must buy into Detroit's plight and make it their own if the city is to come back.

DETROIT MUST be made crime-free, drug-free and its schools brought up to snuff, then businesses and people will move back and there will be the press from the suburbs — not just the city — for a safe, clean, efficient public transportation system to get to this dynamic city.

Cities which are viable have diverse populations, and leadership which reflects that. And that goes for suburbs too.

Give gift of life today — blood

IT'S A BLOODY shame more people don't give when the American Red Cross calls.

Those of us at the Observer & Eccentric were called upon this week. Things had just started to slow down as I entered the "bloodmobile" set up in a conference room at our corporate offices in Livonia Monday. "All the beds have been full until now," one nurse said.

They were still not pleased about the brief relief. They would have preferred a steady flow of people — and blood.

Nurses said they were hoping for donations of 40 pints during our annual blood drive. They had to have a minimum of 30 in order to come back next year. By 1 p.m. they had 21 pints. It looked promising.

I'VE ONLY recently been able to donate blood because of a decent iron content and a few added pounds.

I tried in college and a few times thereafter — it was no go. Finally, I tried again last year and got the green light. Iron was good, weight was OK, and they told me my donation was done in "record time."

Then the ultimate fear of any first-time donor came true — just as I began to enjoy the free juice and cookies, I fainted.

"So what?" I thought this year as I made the appointment. Maybe I'll need an ice pack and more rest time than the others. Things got a little queasy, but I didn't faint and the outcome was worth it.

The Red Cross had another pint of blood for someone in need, and I was proud to give.

THE RED CROSS needs 1,000

pints of blood per day for the Detroit area. "The bottom line for any blood drive is the community," one regional representative said. "People have to realize that there's no other source for this medicine."

League offers county guide

An 84-page handbook, Wayne County Government, published by the League of Women Voters is now available free from area county commissioners.

The book, illustrated with photos and graphs, describes the history of Wayne County, its departments, intergovernmental relationships and election. An added attraction is the story of the restored historic Wayne County Building in downtown Detroit, site of the majority of county offices.

Previous editions of the book were published in 1961, 1973. Dramatic changes in county government — a new charter, and election of a county executive — prompted the third edition.

Published through the Education Fund of the League, the project began with the support of Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara, Wayne County Intermediate School Superintendent William Simmons and Art Carter, chairman of the county board of commissioners.

Copies of the book are available from county commissioners Susan Heintz, R-Northville, whose district includes Plymouth and Livonia (224-0946); Kay Beard, D-Inkster, whose district includes Garden City and Westland (224-0902); Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township (224-0944); and Richard Manning, D-Redford, (224-0930).

"This overview of county operations was made possible because many county employees with great patience and cooperation, answered questions and provided written material, charts, maps and photos," said Janice Berry, project director.

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters has published a number of handbooks dealing with government on the local and state levels. According to finance director Gloria Rottman, "This new volume is intended as a community resource and public service from the League, to promote accessible government for the people of Wayne County."

Participating League members were: editors Jeanette Katz and Henrietta Jenkins; cover design, Eleanor Denton; writers: Carolyn Buell, Cynthia Burgess, Katherine Cushman, Christine Howe, Linda Kaduk, Kay Woods and John Schoenbergen. Also Dorry Thompson, Susan Whittemore and Priscilla Chave.

The League was assisted by the Michigan Council for the Humanities, National Endowment for the Humanities, Gannett, Chrysler Corp., Detroit Edison, Ford Motor Co., Comerica, Manufacturers National Bank, National Bank of Detroit, Alfred and Betty Baume and Malcolm Denise.

County workers lobby for child care

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

Wayne County's executive and legislative branches locked horns Thursday over employee child care when 100 county workers stormed a budget hearing of the Wayne County Commission.

Group spokeswoman Valerie Steer urged the commissioners to sign a resolution in support of KidSpace, Inc., an on-site day care center proposed by County Executive Edward McNamara to operate in the Wayne County building in downtown Detroit.

Previous editions of the book were published in 1961, 1973. Dramatic changes in county government — a new charter, and election of a county executive — prompted the third edition.

Published through the Education Fund of the League, the project began with the support of Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara, Wayne County Intermediate School Superintendent William Simmons and Art Carter, chairman of the county board of commissioners.

Steer, an assistant prosecutor who expects her first child in August, said all 27 unions representing county workers support the proposed center. The Northville woman was there as a representative of the Wayne County Bar Association.

The commission took no immediate action, but scheduled a committee hearing Tuesday morning. During the commission's regular meeting which followed the budget session, Chairman Arthur Carter blasted the proposal as ill-timed and inappropriate.

"While I support the expansion of child care options, I question the use of scarce county resources to provide a new benefit to only 100 employees out of 4,500 in our work force," he said.

"They've been sitting on this thing for three months. We're trying to get them to put it on the agenda and they won't," said one county worker.

"I simply do not believe that the county can afford this program. In the first quarterly report for this fiscal year, the county executive projected a general fund deficit of nearly $1 million."

The plan calls for a center licensed for up to 90 children. The program would be operated by the Merrill Palmer Institute of Wayne State University. The program would cost the county $350,000 — from funds reserved to repair the crumbling exterior of the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice. After the start up contribution, the center would become self-sufficient.

"It may seem ironic, but the escalating cost of responding to truly desperate children — the homeless, neglected, abused and delinquent — has become a major financial impediment to the county offering day care to children in more fortunate circumstances," Carter said.

"I must recommend that this commission exercise extreme caution and refuse to approve any commitment for general fund spending not already included in the current budget."

Steer said she was shocked by Carter's statement.

"The money was sitting there for KidSpace," she said. "Further, studies done show child care problems cost the county more than (the center) due to tardiness, absenteeism and lack of productivity."

"We will have a contingent at Tuesday's meeting," she vowed.

Friday afternoon Carter said he would ask the commission to explore the possibility of entering a joint agreement with city of Detroit employees to create a child care program to benefit both employee groups.

"Murphy Hall of Justice. After the start up contribution, the center would become self-sufficient.

County to join 'Eyes and Ears' safety program

Wayne County will join the "Eyes and Ears" program initiated by the public utilities.

"Eyes and Ears" identification decals, supplied by Detroit Edison, have been affixed to more than 275 orange Wayne County Department of Public Service radio equipped vehicles.

The purpose of the logo is to alert the public, especially young people, that the vehicle is an emergency reporting station and the county employee operating the vehicle is trained to request emergency assistance.

"We must take every precaution to protect the safety of our young children, especially during the summer months," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

"Our drivers will provide a temporary refuge to a young person in trouble until the police arrive or alert authorities of any suspicious activities they may observe."

THE PRIMARY focus of the "Eyes and Ears" program will be reporting suspicious persons and situations that appear to be related to sexual assaults, abductions, and rapes. In addition, they will be on the lookout for fires, burglaries and been trained in crime reporting tech-

"Drivers who observe problems will contact their local yard dispatcher, who in turn will contact the appropriate emergency agency," said Russell Groneveld, public service director. "Our employees have been advised to observe and report, not attempt to apprehend offenders."

Chicken cooks up any style

When it comes to cooking, I can think of only one food that lends itself to just about every style of cooking.

You can bake it, fry it, stew it, char it, microwave it, barbecue it and do just about anything to it except eat it raw. You can find it on the menu at the best restaurants in the country in addition to the nation's soup kitchens. It's more popular than hamburger and, in most instances, just as inexpensive to prepare. I'm talking about chicken.

Prior to 1930, chicken meat was mainly the by-product of egg production. Birds who were no longer producing eggs at a satisfactory rate were sold for meat purposes. In 1934, almost four billion broilers were produced, 115 times as many as 45 years earlier.

Today, broiler production is so concentrated and so highly commercialized that the industry can now be classed as a poultry factory rather than a farming operation. The United States alone produced more than seven billion tons of poultry in 1980.

Today, processors sell about 54 percent of their broilers as whole birds, with 38 percent cut-up and a measly eight percent further processed into nuggets, canned products or whatever.

WHILE GROWING UP in Wyandotte, Momma usually reserved chicken as a Sunday main-course entree. It was served with the proverbial mashed potatoes and overcooked green beans that you could eat without teeth in your mouth.

Today's yuppie kitchens serve chicken as a main entree on the average of two times per week. Momma always roasted or baked the bird and usually served it whole, with Dad serving as the carver a la Thanksgiving dinner.

Today, chicken can be seen not simply as an entree by itself but also stir-fried in woks with assorted vegetables or baked in numerous casseroles with rice, vegetables and the ever-present Campbell's soups. Restaurants are serving the bird stuffed, grilled, smoked and garnished with sauces that range from sweet Vidalia onions in a light cream to a dried Michigan cherry sauce that sweetens up an otherwise too-bland-tasting product.

Prior to cooking, it's important to remember to store and handle chicken properly. You can store chicken in the refrigerator for a few days (no more than three) with temperatures between 35-40 degrees.

Keep the birds in the coldest part of the fridge, preferably in the meat keeper. Wrap poultry properly for refrigeration. The plastic wrap that is on the chicken when purchased is designed to control moisture loss in the refrigerator. Raw poultry wrapped in paper should be unwrapped, placed on a platter and then covered with plastic wrap for refrigeration.

CARE AND CLEANLINESS should always be used in the preparation, cooking and serving of chicken. Momma always reminded us to wash the poultry thoroughly before cooking. It's best to cook the chicken completely at one time rather than cook, store, and finish cooking at a later date.

Restaurants and homemakers alike should be concerned about cross-contamination when cooking any type of poultry. Simply put, never prepare chicken on cutting boards and countertops without a complete clean-up before preparing other foods. Today's mass production of the birds can literally make them a haven for bacteria and food contaminants.

Always cook chicken until the juices run clear. Period. As with any meat or fish, chicken is at its prime no matter how it is cooked when it is not overdone. Remember that the breast cooks more quickly than the dark meat, so it is often removed from the pan or the skillet first, or added later.

Tea Hostess Pauline Palazzolo serves tea to Geraldine Granfield of Birmingham (left) and Elizabeth Hartjen of Royal Oak in the charming lobby of Birmingham's Townsend Hotel. The English ritual is presented in the authentic British manner — with the proper tea service and several delightful courses. Tuesdays-Saturdays 3-5:30 p.m. are the times reserved for tea.

Tea time: A civilized custom of English floral-print pillows.

DETAILS MAKE the difference. The Townsend Hotel in downtown Birmingham across from Shain Park, attends to the multiple details that go into serving an authentic tea in the English manner.

"A lot of little things make it right," said tea hostess Pauline Palazzolo. Tea, of course, has come to mean more than the bracing brew favored by the English. It's a light meal served in the afternoon to stave off hunger until the late, English dinner hour.

Through generations, the tradition of afternoon tea has evolved into a ritual pleasure that not only satisfies the appetite but nourishes the civilized spirit as well.

PALAZZOLO SAYS before the hotel began serving tea in the lobby three months ago, the staff spent several months perfecting the details — combing English cookbooks for traditional recipes, taking tea at restaurants and hotels in Canada and Chicago, and shopping for the china, silver and linens they would need to order to serve an authentic English tea.

Besides the Townsend Hotel in downtown Birmingham, other restaurants in suburban Detroit that serve classic, English-style afternoon tea are the Sweet Afton Tea Room in Plymouth, the Ritz Carlton Hotel in Dearborn and Monchelle l'Amour Chocolate Shop in Birmingham.

The Sweet Afton Tea Room, named after the river in Scotland made famous by Bobbie Burns, serves tea Wednesdays-Sundays, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. (reservations required from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.). In the intimate, smoke-free tea room, guests may order a Cream Tea, which includes tea of their choice served with scones and Devon cream delicately flavored with fruit (hence the name Cream Tea). Tea costs $1. An à la carte menu offers other teatime favorites including Finger Sandwiches (six assortments for $3.95). Tea — choose from 11 loose teas — brewed in a bone china pot at $2, and a Scone Plate — warm scones served with Devon cream and jam at $3.95.

The Ritz Carlton Hotel, off Southfield Road at Hubbard Drive, serves tea Mondays-Thursdays, from 2:30-4:30 p.m., and Fridays-Sundays, from 2-5 p.m., in the tea room off the hotel lobby. Tea, at $9.95 per person, features savories — a selection of canapés and finger sandwiches, among them cucumber and cress cheese, smoked ham and English mustard and Scottish-smoked salmon.

Warm scones accompanied by Devonshire cream and preserves follow the savories, and sweets include a selection of tea cakes and custard and fruit tarts. Guests may choose from 11 loose teas, including low-caffeine and caffeine-free varieties.

At Monchelle l'Amour Chocolate Shop, tea is served every afternoon, from 2:30-5 p.m., and on Sundays, from noon to 3 p.m. On Thursdays, the shop stays open later and offers High Tea (heartier food more like a supper) from 6-8 p.m. The intimate shop, a few steps down from the sidewalk of Pierce Street, offers 8-10 varieties of tea freshly brewed and served in English bone china.

Guests select two finger sandwiches, including such delicacies as crab meat, egg and chives, and ham with pineapple cheese. A plate of scones is served with the required Devon cream and preserves, and Monchelle l'Amour includes fresh fruit (usually strawberries) and cream with the $8.95 tea, which is capped by a chocolate truffle because the store specializes in gourmet chocolates.

THE TOWNSEND uses large silver samovars that not only look splendid as they heat the water but eliminate the problem of water losing its heat in transit from the kitchen. Tea leaves must be loose, and the pot should be china because those who know tea say metal teapots and teabags taint the tea's pure flavor.

At the Townsend, guests choose from imported loose teas such as Earl Grey, Darjeeling, English Breakfast, Jasmine, Cinnamon, Chamomile and Ceylon.

Tea is served in bone china pots and teacups in assorted English china patterns, with their characteristic preference for roses and other cheerful blossoms found in English gardens.

Embroidered linen napkins come from Ireland, and the utensils used are all silver — down to the strainer to catch loose leaves when tea is poured. As a concession to diet-conscious guests, the Townsend provides artificial sweeteners as well as sugar. Sweetener is served in old-fashioned silver salt cellars with tiny silver spoons.

• Plan to pick in the cooler hours of the morning. Berries that are picked after it gets hot remain hot in the container and spoil quickly.

• Bear in mind that strawberry picking can be a messy affair, so stick with old, sensible clothes that will also protect you from the sun and insects.

• Select firm, dry, shapely, glossy, dark red berries that have green caps. Avoid berries that are pale in color or that have white shoulders. Immature berries such as these won't ripen after they have been picked.

• Don't wash or hull berries until you are ready to use them. Berries will stay fresh and delicious up to one week in the refrigerator.

You can be picky about strawberries

By Anne Lehmann
special writer

Whether you're a gourmand always searching for the freshest ingredients for the finest fare, a do-it-yourselfer who enjoys home canning, or a family on the lookout for a fun outing, rejoice. It's the height of Michigan's strawberry picking season.

According to John Sherman, owner and operator of the Strawberry Patch, a U-pick farm in Milford, the crop of these fragrant and robust morsels is bountiful, and the picking is great, thanks to a relatively frost-free season. Happily, the opportunity to pick your own abounds in Wayne and Oakland counties.

Besides providing a morning of outdoor fun, picking your own strawberries has definite advantages.

THE FLAVOR of this fresh-picked fruit is unquestionably superior to that of the store-bought variety. Those who have eaten berries fresh from the garden will attest to their ambrosial qualities. Sherman attributes this to the fact that the shipping berries one often finds on store shelves are usually picked 40 percent green.

If you are one to use large quantities of the fruit, it makes economic sense to pick your own. You get quality goods at reasonable prices.

Sherman said it is not uncommon for pickers to take away a hundred pounds of the fruit, many of them people with big freezers or restaurant owners hand picking for their discerning clientele.

Finally, picking your own strawberries is the ultimate in quality control, assuring that there will be no surprises at the bottom of the quart. You know what you are getting down to the very last berry.

If the taste and visual appeal of this versatile fruit hasn't yet sold you on an excursion to one of the local U-pick farms, consider this — strawberries are low in calories and rich in vitamins. Ten large, fresh strawberries contain 37 calories and a whole day's quota of vitamin C. How much better can a food get?

SOME TIPS for strawberry pickers:

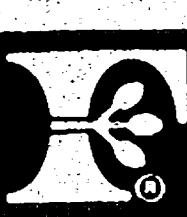

• Call ahead before going to a U-

1 pint strawberries, hulled and sliced
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 sticks unsalted butter, softened

In a food processor or blender puree the strawberries, scraping down the sides, force the puree through a fine sieve into a small saucepan scraping and pressing hard on the solids, and stir in the sugar and rind. Boil the mixture, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes and let it cool completely.

In a small bowl with an electric mixer, cream the butter, add the strawberry mixture a little at a time, beating, and beat the mixture until it is light and fluffy. Let the butter stand, covered, in a cool place for 1 hour. Serve the butter with croissants, English muffins, pancakes or waffles. The butter keeps covered and chilled, for one week.

Chicken cooks up any style

If you are one of those cooks who opens a package of chicken and only cooks one or two pieces, try cooking all the pieces at the same time and reserving a few extra cooked pieces for a cold chicken salad or pita sandwich.

Homemade cooked chicken travels great and if you are heading up North to the family cottage for a vacation, keep a few pieces in a small cooler with some refreshments for the ride. Beats the heck out of stopping for fast food around Cadillac! Bon Appétit!

ROAST CHICKEN STUFFED WITH PASTA

1 ounce dried mushrooms
1/4 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 chicken livers, trimmed and patted dry pinch thyme
pinch red pepper
2 ounces fresh mushrooms, cut into matchsticks
1 medium red bell pepper, cut into matchsticks
2 ounces baked ham, finely chopped
2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
3 ounces fresh fettuccine noodles, dried salt and pepper

one 3-pound chicken
olive oil

Soak mushrooms in boiling water until soft, about 15 minutes. Drain, reserve liquid. Rinse and drain again. Discard stems, chop caps.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in a heavy skillet over medium heat. Add livers, thyme and red pepper and cook until livers are brown for about 5 minutes. Chop well and transfer to a large bowl.

Melt remaining butter in same skillet over medium heat. Add mushrooms and red bell pepper and sauté until liquid evaporates. Add to livers with dried mushrooms, ham and parsley. Cook fettuccine in boiling salted water until al dente. Drain well. Toss with liver mixture. Season with salt and pepper.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Pat chicken dry. Rub the inside and out with salt and pepper. Fill chicken with fettuccine mixture, packing in as much as possible without compressing pasta. Truss to close the cavity. Place in a small roasting pan and brush with olive oil.

Bake at 400 degrees for 50 minutes or until juices run clear when pierced with a fork. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut chicken in half with poultry scissors or a sharp knife. Set each half on a plate, stuffing side up. Serve immediately.

This recipe can easily be doubled or tripled and done on the outside barbecue.

SALT-AND-PEPPER-CURED PAN-FRIED CHICKEN

one 3-pound chicken, cut into pieces
1/4 cup coarsely cracked peppercorns
2 cups coarse (Kosher) salt about 3 cups milk

1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup cornmeal
about 1 1/2 cups peanut oil

Arrange chicken in a single layer in a shallow dish. Sprinkle with pepper, turning pieces to coat evenly. Pack salt over and around chicken. Let stand at room temperature 2 hours. Rinse chicken in cold water, dry thoroughly. Clean dish; add chicken. Pour in milk to cover.

Chill for 23 hours in the refrigerator. Drain chicken. Combine flour and cornmeal in another dish. Coat chicken with the mixture, shaking off the excess. Arrange chicken in a single layer on a rack. Refrigerate uncovered for 4 hours. Heat 1/2 inch of oil in a heavy skillet to 375 degrees.

Add dark meat. Fry 4 minutes, then turn and fry other side for 4 minutes. Add white meat and continue frying until chicken is golden brown and cooked throughout, turning pieces 3-4 times; about 15-20 minutes. Drain on paper towels and serve immediately.

Clear juices signal bird is done

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Kathleen Perry, hostess of the syndicated TV show "The Everyday Gourmet," has traveled the country talking about chicken safety, for the National Broiler Council.

Perry said bacteria is present on the skin of any meat, fish or poultry. It's easy to eliminate bacteria from chicken by cooking it to 165 degrees (for boneless chicken) and 185 degrees (for whole chicken or cut-up parts with bone), she explained.

So you don't have a meat thermometer? "If the juices run clear instead of pink, everything's all clear," Perry said.

Thawing chicken requires care. "When you thaw, thaw it in the refrigerator the night before, or in the microwave, or under cold, running water. Bacteria loves to grow at room temperature," she said.

When you buy a whole chicken, it should be removed from the bag, rinsed and repackaged in a plastic bag. If you buy it in the supermarket package, that's fine. "It's already antiseptically done at the processor."

WASHING YOUR hands, cutting board and knives in hot soapy water is important. Also, "Keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot until serving," she said. Maximum time at room temperature should be two hours.

"The Everyday Gourmet" offered some suggestions for quick, easy meals using chicken. "When you buy chicken breasts with the tenderloin (the long, skinny strips) still attached, save the tenderloin for a separate meal," she said.

"Freeze them. When you get enough, you can do a quick stir-fry, and serve it over pasta or rice. You can also bread the tenderloins with parmesan dressing and have your own Chicken Tenders."

When cooking chicken breasts, "Tarragon is especially lovely," Perry said. She gave a recipe for "just a quick sauté, with equal parts (one tablespoon each) of butter and oil — peanut butter is nice — it has a high smoking temperature."

Don't season the chicken until after it is cooked. Otherwise, the seasoning will draw out the juices. Remove the chicken from the heat, pour off the fat and deglaze the pan on high heat, with 1/4 cup wine or chicken broth. Let it boil down, or cook down to 1/4 cup. Add spices (tarragon, pepper and salt) and a couple tablespoons of cream."

ANOTHER RECIPE, from her cookbook "The Everyday Gourmet," is for Medallions of Turkey (or chicken) with Mushroom Tarragon Sauce. "It can be served over pasta or rice," Perry said.

Other spices good with chicken include rosemary, or garlic. Her favorite recipe for chicken breasts is Chicken Rollups. "You can vary the fillings. It looks like you really fussed. Ham and cheese is chicken cordon bleu. Call it rollups, the kids will eat it. It makes its own sauce in the microwave."

Try chicken breast with herb butter (dill, tarragon or basil). "You can put a pat over the chicken, and just sauté it," Perry said.

Her cookbook, published in 1986, is available in paperback in the Warner Books Edition for $8.95.

"I used to be a real gourmet," Perry said. "It took a great deal of time and effort." She found she was doing fewer things her family enjoyed, so she "simplified the classic recipes. Everything (the ingredients) is available from the supermarket."

WITH BARBECUE season coming up, she stressed, "Don't put cooked meat on the platter that carries meat to the grill. Use a separate platter."

Wood cutting boards need to be scoured well. "Use acrylic because it goes in the dishwasher. Save the wood board for vegetables."

Milford ace sends CC to the sidelines

By Brad Emons
staff writer

They went through their post-game ritual, passing a baseball down the line from player-to-player until pitcher Matt Carter, the last link, slam-dunked it into a canvas bag.

It was only fitting that Carter, a senior left-hander, would do the honors after he outdueled Redford Catholic Central ace Leo Hutchinson, giving Milford a 2-1 victory against the Shamrocks in the state Class A semifinals Friday at Lansing's Municipal Park.

"We started doing that (routine) a few games ago and he (Carter) was the obvious choice today," said Milford coach Mike Shearer, who spent the previous 13 seasons at Livonia Clarenceville. "That's only one run that Matt has given up now in 17 innings."

The chilly 9 a.m. start may have had an effect on the lack of punch delivered from the plate.

Carter, who struck out six, while scattering four hits and five walks, ran his record to 12-2 with the victory.

And while Carter was deserving of the win, Hutchinson's performance was nearly a masterpiece, even in defeat.

THE SENIOR LEFT-HANDER, possessing an effective fastball, was the victim of two unearned runs. He finished his six-inning stint with no walks and five strikeouts, bowing out with a 15-3 personal record.

"It was a good pitching duel," said Catholic Central coach John Salter, whose team finished 25-10 overall. "We scored seven in each game last week (at the regionals), but he (Carter) was a little better pitcher today. He was able to shut us down."

"He (Carter) may not be as fast, but he moves the ball around and hits the spots. And he never walked more than one at a time."

It was a scoreless duel until the fourth when Milford struck for its only two runs.

With one out, catcher Jeff Irish, a recent seventh-round draft choice of the Toronto Blue Jays, opened the inning with a single.

Joe Gibson then hit into a potential double-play, but third baseman Keith Boyz's throw to Mark Clary at second was a little low. Clary, unable to hang onto the ball, was charged with an error, leaving both runners safe.

CATCHER KEVIN WHEELER was caught off-guard, giving up a passed, moving Irish to third base and Gibson to second.

That set the stage for right fielder Greg Wilhelm, who reached out and lined a 1-2 Hutchinson pitch to right field, scoring both runners.

Gibson beat the relay throw to the plate (Paul Pirronello to Pete Elezio to Wheeler), but not before eluding the tag with a head-first dive.

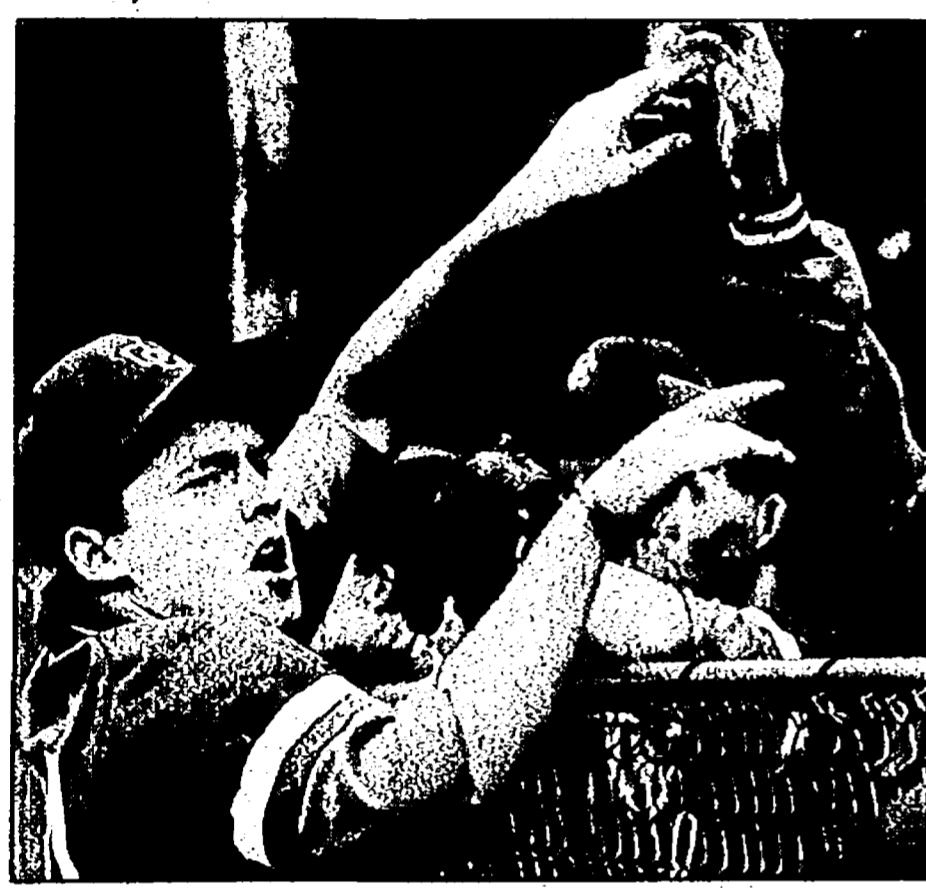

"The ball was there in time, but our catcher was too far up in front of the plate and couldn't get the tag

Milford scored a pair of runs during the inning to beat the Shamrocks, 2-1.

Belaire era ends with top boys honor

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The All-Observer boys track team is an intriguing group, one that includes strength, speed, brains and Jason Belaire — who happens to have all three qualities.

Belaire, a four-year letterman at Livonia Churchill, is Observerland's 1989 Trackman of the Year. Belaire also lettered in football and basketball, and is extremely bright in the classroom.

Belaire owns three school records and two Western Lakes Activities Association standards, and he will be remembered most for his all-around ability. This year, he finished sixth at the Class A meet in the 300-meter hurdles and won the regional high jump.

"It has really been a pleasure to have such a tough competitor and talented athlete all wrapped up in one body," Churchill coach Fred Price said. "His contributions to Churchill track have been many and we will miss him dearly."

The Coach of the Year is Richard Gordon, who guided Westland John Glenn to the WLAA meet title, as well as a regional crown.

Introducing the 1989 All-Observer boys track team:

FIELD EVENTS

Jason Gutting, Farmington, shot put: Gutting, a senior, won the Western Lakes Activities Association meet with a throw of 48 feet, 6 inches. His toss of 50-2 at the Oakland County meet gave him third place and it was Observerland's best this spring.

Gutting was fourth at the regional (47-8 1/2) and he won the Farmington City Meet.

"Jason has been extremely conscientious and a pleasure to coach," coach Jerry Young said. "When a big, talented, athlete becomes motivated to practice hard and improve technique, the result usually produces a champion. His future is going to be exciting and very rewarding."

Zaim Cunmulaj, North Farmington, discus: A three-sport star, Cunmulaj capped a brilliant high school career by placing first in the discus

all-area boys track

at the Class A meet. Cunmulaj, who also was an All-Observer football player and wrestler, had the area's best throw, 163-11.

The team captain captured the WLAA meet crown, placed first at the regional, and second in the Oakland County meet.

"Zaim's a great person and a hard worker," coach Mark Bechard said. "He works with the other discus throwers, helping them out. I do not think Zaim has reached his full potential in the discus, having thrown for two years. And if he throws in college, he should be a good one."

Wendell Smith, Wayne Memorial, long jump: The senior was Wayne's most valuable performer, and his long jump of 22-4 1/2 broke a school record.

Smith won both the high jump and 300-meter hurdles at the Wolverine A League meet. He cleared 6-7 in the high jump indoors, and this spring his best jump outdoors was 6-5. Smith also competed on occasion in the 1,600 meter relay.

"Wendell's versatility made him a key member on Wayne's co-championship (Wolverine A) team," said Joe Grasley, whose team tied Class A runner-up Monroe for the Wolverine A regular-season title.

JASON BELAIRE, Churchill, high jump: The Jason Belaire Era has ended, but his records might never be forgotten — or broken any time soon, for that matter.

The Observerland Trackman of the Year exits with school records in the 300 hurdles (39.4); 110 hurdles (14.4) and high jump (6-8). He also leaves with WLAA records in the 110 hurdles and high jump.

Among his accomplishments this spring were: regional champion, high jump; sixth place, Class A meet; 300 hurdles; titles at the WLAA meet in the high jump, 110 hurdles, and 300 hurdles; 110 hurdle champion at the Observerland Relays.

Belaire also figured in three of the Chargers' four relay events during his career. He was a three-time MVP.

Mike Blanchi, Redford Union, pole vault: Blanchi, a senior, was a Northwest Suburban League champion, and a runnerup at the regional. His best clearance of 12-6 gave him Observerland's third-best jump.

He also cleared 5-9 in the high jump and posted a time of 53.9 in the 400 run.

"Mike works hard," coach Jim Gibbons said. "He takes pride in his performance and the way he represents himself. He's a great team leader."

RUNNING EVENTS

Tiberia Patterson, Catholic Central, 110 hurdles: The Catholic League champion established a school-record in the 110 hurdles, clocking 14.2. Patterson, a senior, won the Operation Friendship championship against the Detroit Public School League, and she was a state qualifier.

"Tiberia made remarkable progress, as this was only his second year running track and first year running hurdles," coach Keylin Kavanagh said. "He became a mainstay of the team this year."

National team berths at stake

TEAM USA, the few, the best, the cream of the crop. The final selection will be determined by a series of competitive bowl-offs until the finest amateur bowlers will be chosen to represent the United States in international competition.

Last Saturday, the Michigan statewide finals were held at Super Bowl Lanes in Canton. The top four men and four best women bowlers qualified for the next step in the process which is the regionals, July 8-9 in Dayton, Ohio.

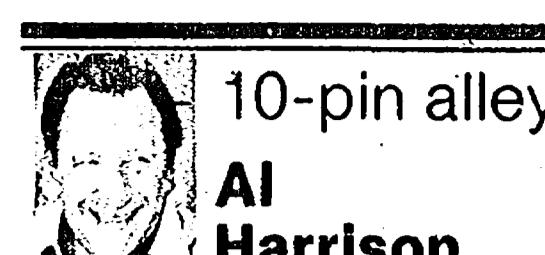

After that the national finals, it was Team USA which provided the competitors for the 1988 Summer Olympics and Pan American games in 1987.

The winners at Super Bowl were Jerry Austin of Sparta, who rolled up 1,924 pins for the nine games, averaging 214. Sid Moorin took second (1,913) and Tony Stipeak was third (1,883). Tommy Edwards finished fourth.

Although he did not make the cut, Eddie Gardag of Canton rolled the highest game with a 280. Paul Hutchinson of Garden City was second highest with a 267.

The women bowlers were led by Lisa Bishop of Belleville with a 1,796 total for the nine games. Lisa is a YABA bowler, one of the top youth league bowlers in this area. Second was Deborah Blakely of Detroit. Linda Painter was third and Jeanna Gebbia fourth. The high game among the ladies was by Paula Young of Bay City with a 250. We congratulate the winners and wish them the best of luck at the next stop in Dayton.

For those bowlers who take their game seriously and would like to improve, the summer time is ideal for getting the extra practice time. There are open lanes available most of the time and rates are usually lower.

Warning! If you do get a chance to practice, you should be sure that you are not just practicing mistakes. This is the time to consider professional instruction. Generally, an instructor will charge somewhere between $15 and $30 for a lesson. This is well worth it if they will correct whatever faults you have and get you in the "groove" so that your practice time will be of more value to you. Some of the local bowling instructors work for a pro shop, some are connected with a particular bowling center, and others are able to operate from their home and meet you by appointment. I have compiled a list for this area, and if you want to be a better bowler, give it a try.

• David Mahaz is the instructor at Cloverlanes on Schoolcraft in Livonia. The phone number is 525-5090. David is available by appointment and can help at any level of ability.

• Gini Richardson has taught bowling for more than 20 years. Her phone number is 647-8924. Gini uses "instant replay video" camera, will travel, as she will meet with you by appointment at a house of your choice. Gini enjoys working with kids and also mixed league couples.

• Ed Wright of Farmington Hills has just been honored as YABA "Coach of the Year." He can be reached at 477-5047 for an appointment. Ed is particularly good with younger kids just starting out.

• Jay Dishong is the resident pro and Mike Samardija of K&S Bowling (476-5525) works by appointment at Drakeshire Lanes. Mike is a PBA member and can work with any level of ability.

Bryan Gogolin also is on the instructors staff at K&S in Livonia.

John Bennett is the resident pro at Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield. John is a former PBA touring pro and has lots of experience and can instruct all-phases of bowling at any level of ability. He is generally available weekday afternoons, the number for an appointment is 353-6540.

Lorraine Anderson is the instructor at West Bloomfield Lanes on Orchard Lake Road at Maple. She can teach at all levels of ability and she does especially well with kids and other women bowlers. Lorraine has just won the National WIBC Championship in Bismarck, N.D., in the singles open class. The number to call at West Bloomfield is 855-9555.

John Fallows runs the pro shop at Country Lanes in Farmington, teaching by appointment at 478-1112. Also on hand at Country Lanes are Jack Treloar Jr. and Jim Hamlin who are able to instruct. The number at Country Lanes is 476-3201.

Ed Lubanski, the National Hall of Fame member is available for individual instruction at 544-4135 for an appointment.

In the King of the Hill, Daryl Rollins beat Ross Frasure in the finals.

• At Woodland Lanes in Livonia, the Tuesday Nite Trio League included a 272 game and 909 series by Gary Pinke. Chuck Dobrick had a foursome score of 896.

pro shop proprietor at Westland Bowl on Wayne Road and is available by appointment six days a week at 722-2450 or 728-0980.

Kirk Suokas is the pro shop owner and instructor at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills. Tom Shively also offers lessons at Drakeshire, the number is 478-2230. Cora Feibig can be reached at 399-6739 for an appointment. Cora is recognized as one of the finest all-star lady bowlers and is able to instruct all phases of the game at any ability level.

Randy Pierce operates the pro shop at Super Bowl in Canton and is available for lessons by appointment, at 459-4811.

• Latest results from some of the summer leagues. Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington has no instructor by maybe they don't need one as the men's Tuesday Nite Trio League featured a 721 series by Larry Franz and a 279 game by Ross Frasure. In the second game, the No. 2 team had each bowler scoring a 247 game. The threesome included Lynn Lewis, Daryl Rollins and Larry Franz.

In the King of the Hill, Daryl Rollins beat Ross Frasure in the finals.

• At Woodland Lanes in Livonia, the Tuesday Nite Trio League included a 272 game and 909 series by Gary Pinke. Chuck Dobrick had a foursome score of 896.

Gymnast has sights set high

By C.J. Rieak
staff writer

While most teenagers are rejoicing at the end of another school year, Jason Whitfield gets little time to celebrate.

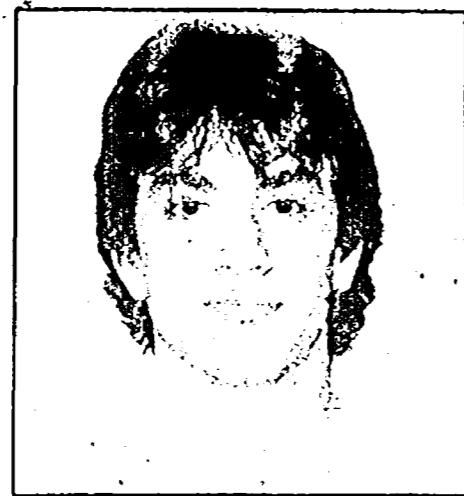

The sophomore at Livonia Franklin has a busy daily schedule, whether school's in or out. He travels an hour a day, four days a week, for 3½ workouts in Flint, then drives to Dearborn twice a week for 90-minute workouts.

All in pursuit of an 11-year-old quest: "It's been my dream to be in the Olympics since I was 4."

That was how old Whitfield, now 15, was when his mother took him to Westland's Bailey Center for a recreational gymnastics class. He's been enthralled by the sport ever since — or at least since watching Kurt Thomas compete for the U.S. a decade ago.

At the U.S. Gymnastics Federation Region 5 meet May 6-7 in Miamisburg, Ohio, Whitfield finished third in the Class II (13-15-year-olds) all-around with 101.00 points. His score qualified him for the USGF Junior Olympic National Gymnastics Championships June 30 to July 1 at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

AT STAKE at the national meet is a berth on the national junior team, which includes a training session at the U.S. Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, followed by two weeks of meets in Europe.

'I thought I could have done better (at the regional). At the state meet I scored 105. But the judging gets tougher as the meets get better.'

— Jason Whitfield

It's the kind of opportunity Whitfield has been striving for, the kind that would put him on course for a 1992 Olympic team berth.

It would also avenge last year's narrow miss. The top 10 finishers at the Junior Olympic meet make the national team; Whitfield was 12th in '88 by just four-tenths of a point in the all-around, which consists of six events (floor exercise, pommel horse, rings, vault, parallel bars and horizontal bar).

This is Whitfield's final year in Class II. Class I is for 15-17-year-olds, but Whitfield's plans are to bypass it and go directly into the elite division, which is open to anyone who can perform the elite routines.

"They're much more difficult," said Whitfield of the elite routines.

"I plan on working on them all summer."

AT THE REGION 5 meet, Whitfield — who described his performance as "pretty good; I messed up on a couple of things" — was inconsistent. He used to struggle in the floor exercise; at the region, he finished first with a combined score (compulsory and optional rounds) of 18.50.

However, in the rings — which Whitfield called "my best event. It's been my favorite since I started gymnastics. I feel real confident in it, I know what I'm doing" — he stumbled, scoring 17.10.

"I usually do real well (on the rings)," he noted, "but my equipment slipped and that made me fall off."

Whitfield's lowest scoring event at the regional was the pommel horse, in which he totaled 15.15. "The pommel horse is my worst event," he said. "I spend twice as much practice time on it. It's the kind of event you need to spend time on. It takes a lot of experience."

Since Whitfield's work ethic has paid off before ("I wasn't all that good in the floor exercise before I started getting the hang of it"), it seems his extra attention will again earn him success on the pommel horse.

BUT THAT'S only one of his goals, a part of his immediate plan to make the national team. The two gymnasts who finished ahead of him at the regional, Drew Durbin and Blaine Wilson, both members of the Columbus (Ohio) Gymnastics Academy, will be his biggest rivals at the Junior Olympic meet.

"There were competitions during the year where I beat both of them," said Whitfield. "I thought I could have done better (at the regional). At the state meet I scored 105. But the judging gets tougher as the meets get better."

If Whitfield does indeed finish among the top 10 and qualifies for the national team, he will begin pursuit of his second goal — mastering the elite routines and moving up.

"That's probably what I'm going to do," he said. Why? "Because I have to start getting ready for the 1992 Olympics."

Which remains the ultimate destination on Whitfield's gymnastics goal ladder.

Redford chooses 6 from Livonia

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

The North American Junior Hockey League held its player draft earlier this month and six of the 45 players selected by the Redford Nace Hockey Club are from Livonia.

Nace, formerly the Redford Royals, drafted four stars off the 1988-89 Livonia Franklin High team — wingers Brian Stover and Charlie Olschanski, defenseman Mike Zajdel and goalie Dan Murray.

Also taken by first-year coach Kyle Krug was Bryan Riedel of Churchill, who played for the Michigan National AAA midget team last winter. Jason Weber, a 16-year-old from Livonia Stevenson, was picked up as a free agent, because he was not old enough to be eligible for the draft.

Krug said less than half of the 45 players will make Nace's playing roster. He is particularly high on Stover and Olschanski, as well as Weber, who played bantam hockey for Little Caesars last year as a 15-year-old.

"JASON'S DEFINITELY made the team," Krug said. "He's a great puck handler and very good skater. He's one of the smarter players aged 16. I'm looking for a lot of good things from him in the next two years."

"I heard a lot of good things about Olschanski. Bill Trisch, who scouts the area, thinks he's a very good player. They all have a very good chance. It's pretty much a rebuilding year."

Joe Condino, a 17-year-old goalie from St. Clair Shores, was Nace's No. 1 pick, 13th overall. Nace didn't have a first round pick in the nine-team draft because the selection was traded away a year ago, Krug said.

Krug also believes he got a steal in the league's re-entry draft, when he selected Clawson's Bobby Haskins, who is coveted by the Quebec Hockey League. The left winger also was drafted by the Hull Hockey Club in the Quebec League, a team principally owned by Wayne Gretzky.

"We've got a lot of work ahead of us to keep him here," Krug said. "It's tough trying to keep players in their own backyard."

Tragedy points up need for group homes

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Three weeks ago, Brad Garvelink, 24, the son of Birmingham school Superintendent Roger Garvelink, sustained permanent brain damage after being hit by a truck in front of the group home for the mentally ill in Grand Rapids, where he was living.

The accident was the latest tragedy in the life of the young Garvelink, the middle of three sons; a Groves High School graduate whom his father said was "Mr. Personality, very bright, quite athletic and a real leader" until struck with mental illness at the age of 17 in 1982.

In the agonizing years since, nearly half a million dollars has been spent on Brad's medical care and living accommodations, including nearly three years in a private psychiatric hospital for adolescents in Minnesota called the Wilson Center.

Last August, he transferred to the group home in Grand Rapids, a private facility called Hope Rehabilitation Network that cost the Garvelinks anywhere from $1,100 to $2,500 monthly, depending upon Brad's condition and the services he requires each month.

Located 150 miles from the family home in Birmingham, the facility was selected because similar housing was not available in Oakland County.

"IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE. One of the wealthiest counties in the country and unable to help its mentally ill. We're much more generous to our troubled-well (patients suffering from temporary conditions who are expected to regain mental health) than to our chronically ill. It's really a crime," Roger Garvelink said in frustration.

The only local alternative for Brad was hospitalization at Clinton Valley Center, a public psychiatric hospital in Pontiac, at a cost of $300 daily.

"It's a ridiculous expenditure, especially since what he needed cost much less. Michigan is centuries behind in caring for its mentally ill," Garvelink added.

In fact, for every Oakland County resident suffering from mental illness who is adequately housed, it is estimated another two are not.

Last June, for example, there were 2,105 beds in foster and group homes, offering varying levels of supervision, rehabilitation and support services. Another 75 or so beds provide independent living arrangements for those requiring minimal supervision. Of the total number of beds, three-fourths were allocated to the mentally retarded and the elderly.

Three weeks ago, Brad Garvelink, 24, the son of Birmingham school Superintendent Roger Garvelink, sustained permanent brain damage after being hit by a truck in front of the group home for the mentally ill in Grand Rapids, where he was living.

shame, resulting in a chaotic housing situation," Tomlinson said.

He blames the situation as the primary reason his 35-year-old sister, diagnosed a schizophrenic 15 years ago, has been hospitalized the past nine years. Had there been adequate housing, "she definitely would have been released earlier."

In an effort to spur county action, the alliance has filed a class action suit calling for "adequate and appropriate" mental health care in Oakland County. "We hope to improve the situation" by compelling the (mental health) board to spend money on adequate housing and staffing," Tomlinson said.

Presently, the number of patients seeking release from Oakland County's only psychiatric hospital, Clinton Valley, numbers 65 to 70 at any given time, according to Michele Utterson of the center.

"If a person is fairly high functioning and is reasonably cooperative, placement is not much of a problem. But those with specialized needs could remain here indefinitely," Utterson said.

"A LIFETIME OF GRIEF" is how Dorothy McQueen of Southfield describes watching a loved one slip from family embrace into the horror of mental illness. In 1975 her son, then 25, was diagnosed a paranoid schizophrenic. In 1979 she helped found the alliance.

Two years ago, members of the alliance purchased Grayling House in Farmington, a six-bed living facility licensed and operated by the state. The group's efforts to purchase a second house were rebuffed by state officials, who said there was no funding to operate a second home.

In addition to licensing such facilities, the state is also responsible for all, but a very few placements, based on exacting formulas. Two beds at Grayling House, for example, are reserved for patients discharged from psychiatric hospitals in the "catchment" area, which includes the Clinton Valley Center, Lafayette Clinic in Detroit and the Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Brad Garvelink was not eligible for such a placement because he was discharged from a hospital in Minnesota.

"They couldn't help us in any way, except to say put him in Clinton Valley, even though we were told his condition would probably regress there," Roger Garvelink said.

"It's ironic. When Brad needed help for his mental problems, we couldn't find it. But when he was struck by a truck and lay dying, he received the finest medical care money could buy. But it's too late."

County board will get 2, maybe 4 new members

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

The makeup of the 15 member Wayne County Board of Commissioners is changing rapidly.

Definitely two and possibly four commissioners will be leaving for new appointments.

Commissioner Edward J. Pawecki, Jr., a Democrat who represents Dearborn and Dearborn Heights, resigned June 15 to become a district court judge in Dearborn.

The commission's administration and rules committee meets today to begin the process of naming an interim replacement. At least three candidates are lobbying for consideration.

That appointment is valid for 60 days, after which time a special election will be called to elect a candidate to finish the unexpired term, which ends in December 1990.

Also leaving to become a district court judge is veteran commissioner Richard E. Manning, a Democrat who represents Redford Township and a portion of northwest Detroit. Manning was not at last Thursday's commission meeting and has not yet officially resigned. He will be leaving the commission post and closing a law practice to assume judicial duties for retiring Redford Township district court Judge Robert Brang.

Deputy Commission Chairwoman Susan Heintz, a Republican whose district includes Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township, has received a letter from Kevin Kelley expressing interest in Manning's seat. Kelley is an aid to Redford Superintendent James Kelly, who is no relation.

Commissioner Milton Mack, a Democrat representing Canton Township and several southern Wayne communities, is rumored to be in consideration for a circuit court judgeship. He was unavailable for comment Friday.

Commission Chairman Arthur M. Carter, a Democrat representing northwest Detroit, is being considered to fill the position of deputy superintendent of Detroit Public Schools.

Carter said Friday that talks with Detroit Schools personnel are still under way.

"Nothing has transpired yet," he said Friday from his commission office. "I'm still going along here without looking for an immediate change."

Floating: De-stress your life in a tube

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Floating, an emerging idea aimed at stress reduction, relaxation and entertainment, is alive and well in metropolitan Detroit.

In a small salon located above an optometrist's shop off Woodward Avenue, a dozen or so enthusiasts float daily in water heavily laced with Epsom salts that has been heated to precisely 93.5 degrees, the body's exterior skin temperature.

Enclosed in an enclosed tube simulating mother's womb, the worry, anxiety and concern of daily life virtually floats away as one bobs about in the privacy of their own miniature sea.

"It's the total mini-vacation, a complete get-away. It isolates you from the outside world," said Peter Panelli of Birmingham who owns and manages the flotation center, named FlotationEntertainment.

Floating on a sea of salt water is the ultimate in stress reduction, according to Panelli, who first became interested in the concept during the 1980s while recovering from a painful football injury suffered while attending Central Michigan University.

"It's the art of doing nothing," said Panelli's assistant, Ed Vetort who is in the process of opening a second center in Ann Arbor. Vetort has been "floating" for a year, originally drawn to the "art" out of curiosity and now a genuine devotee. Vetort's experience is typical.

"I THOUGHT it was wonderful," said attorney Andrew Broder of Birmingham of his first flotation experience. Broder, who legally represents FlotationEntertainment, wanted to satisfy a natural curiosity and end skepticism about floating.

"I was suspect going into this; I thought of it as bizarre, a fad," he said. "I wasn't certain it was something people would or ought to take seriously."

In fact, the average person knows little about flotation therapy. Many of those who are familiar have seen the cult film, "Altered States," in which a scientist who floats and takes psychedelic drugs is transformed into an ape.

The movie is based on a book that loosely portrays studies conducted by Dr. John Lilly on sensory deprivation in the 1940s and '50s. Using a tank constructed by the U.S. Navy during World War II, Lilly discovered floating in warm salt water with few distractions was relaxing and conducive to learning.

"It's diving deep into one's own mind," Lilly said of floating.

In the years since, floating has gained a certain measure of popularity. Such celebrities as Kris Kristofferson and Robin Williams own float tanks and tanks have been installed in training rooms for the Philadelphia Eagles and Philadelphia Phillies.

"WE WANT TO mainstream floating into corporate America," said Joe Dandy, who, as vice president for FlotationEntertainment, has assisted in designing and manufacturing a state-of-the-art floating tank.

The new tank, constructed entirely in Michigan, debuted at the Home and Builders Show at Cobo Hall in March where Dandy sold four models at $7,000 each. It is a streamlined version of yesterday's tank, visually much more attractive and featuring quadra-sound stereo and hi-fidelity video. It also doubles as a Jacuzzi with room enough for four.

Yo, 'roadrunners,' start your training

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Listen up, couch potatoes. Have we got a deal for you. Follow our six-week training program, and we'll give you a great Saturday night.

This is Street Scene, right?

Well, one of the better street scenes you'll see in Observer and Eccentric land is the finish line of the Redford Roadrunner Classic in Livonia Saturday, July 29. But we don't just want you to see it, we want you to be it.

First, more than 1,000 participants run five miles through the streets, then they dance for hours in the parking lot at Veteran's Park, adjacent to the Livonia YMCA on Stark Road, just north of I-96 and west of Farmington.

We can't work miracles with this six-week program. If you live an absolutely sedentary life — if your idea of fitness is twisting off your beer tops instead of using the opener — then six weeks probably isn't long enough to get you halfway in shape.

But if you own a pair of running shoes and once in a while you go out for a mile or so — even if it's a jog that turtles laugh at — then this is for you.

Why race? Believe it or not, it's fun.

Most entrants at road races are not flat-bellied former track stars. Most, in fact, carry an extra layer of insulation around their waists, and they don't exactly trail smoke off their shoes when they hit the road.

LET'S FACE IT. Running around the neighborhood can get pretty boring, even in the nicest neighborhoods. Racing occasionally is the reward for the training.

You're out there with other people, there's water along the way to keep you going, and there's food, music and beer at the finish line.

MOVING PICTURES

No more sequels, please!!!

Last month, they threatened to release "Signs of Life" (D, PG-13, 85 minutes), a choppy, episodic soap opera which jumps from subplot to subplot abruptly — and with maddening regularity. But they caught the writing stuff like that and kept it in the can.

Too bad that they're not doing for June what they did for May, so you may want to avoid the Maple until this sad little story about Owen Coughlin (Arthur Kennedy) goes away.

Coughlin is in the process of closing down his New England boat-building company and his workers have obvious problems with that move. The screenwriters had some problems, too.

The film is self-consciously arty with acute camera angles, intentional obscurity early on and a slow-paced blandness in acting and editing that you won't believe — if you stay awake.

Another recent distribution threat rescheduled for this week is "Miracle Mile" (*) (R), a film whose moral appears to be: "Don't fall in love just before a nuclear holocaust."

The summer sequel sickness is upon us. "Indiana Jones III," "Star Trek V," and now "Ghostbusters II" (C, PG, 102 minutes). And frankly, Scarlet, I didn't care for "GBI" and "II" doesn't do it for me either.

With a basic premise, a bunch of odd characters — Dr. Peter Venkman (Bill Murray), Dr. Raymond Staniz (Dan Aykroyd), Dr. Egon Spengler (Harold Ramis) and Winston Zeddemore (Ernie Hudson) along with their attorney/accountant (Rick Moranis) — dress up in combat fatigues and zap ghosts with their electronic backpacks.

So what? It's all rather simple-minded fun with very little character development or clever repartee except for Bill Murray. Every time he begins to energize the proceedings, scenarists Ramis and Aykroyd lay down a truly deadly and dumb joke. A dock worker observes a ghost disembarking from the Titanic and notes, "Better late than never."

The real problem is there's no point to be sustained for 1½ hours, so they mixed in a moral about modern urban living, a positive aura of the Statue of Liberty, a ghost story, two romances and some rock music sequences. Quite naturally, all that stuff is jumbled together and surprisingly slow-paced, as if the scriptwriters had trouble shifting from one element to another.

But "Ghostbusters" has mythical popularity and the film will be successful. Many people will giggle uncontrollably at the mention of slime despite the fact that the slime sequence under Manhattan looks suspiciously like an "Indiana Jones" reject.

No more "Ghostbusters," please. How about some sequel busters instead?

STREET BEATS

Static Alphabet knows its 'ABCs'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Static Alphabet is like the kid in the sixth grade who was always in the principal's office. You never expected them to make much of their life.

Then later, they end up being vice president.

Well, anyone who might have caught Static Alphabet's act in the early days — two years ago — wouldn't have deemed the group for the cover of Rolling Stone. Instead, they were more likely to be victims of a stoning.

"We did get complacent for awhile," said Paul Einhaus of Farmington, guitarist and vocalist with the band. "It was the summer of doom in '87. I remember sitting on the curb thinking, 'We'll never get to play again.'"

Things didn't look good for the group, especially after one nightclub owner told them flat out they stunk. He relegated Static Alphabet to jam nights, when any Joe Shmoe can try his craft.

But, ah, what a difference a few nights of jamming can make. Static Alphabet has rebounded, all culminated with a rather endearing five-song cassette demo tape.

The band is no longer a four-man. Original member Ken Faulkner left the group due to creative differences.

AS A RESULT, Static Alphabet has a stripped-down sound. There is no clutter, just some guitar-flavored songs in a bare-bones form. Their biography likens the sound to a cross between The Buzzcocks and The Beatles. Einhaus said not to put much stock in such descriptions.

Static Alphabet has a stripped down sound. There is no clutter, just some guitar flavored songs in a barebones form.

And its major 'turning points'

November 1986 — Static Alphabet forms from the remains of Acid Puppies. "Are you sure it was in November?" asks Bill Long to Paul Einhaus. "I thought it was later than that."

February 1987 — Static Alphabet performs its first gig at Michigan State University. "It was awful," Einhaus said. "We thought we would be an old-time, acoustic band. These people were expecting Simon and Garfunkel and by the end of the night they were screaming for us to leave."

March 1987 — Static Alphabet performs the first of several shows at the Hamtramck Pub. "At the time, I thought we were the greatest band ever," Einhaus said. "I was surprised when nobody was rushing the stage."

"It was a major turning point for the band," Long added.

June 1987 through April 1988 — Static Alphabet heeds Cole's advice and performs with regularity on the circuit at Rerun's in Dearborn, Paycheck's in Hamtramck and at a Tremor Revue. "We started to have some good shows," Einhaus said.

"It was a major turning point for the band," Long added.

April 1988 — Static Alphabet enters the studio to record 10 songs at Tempermill Studio in Livonia. "Dave" (Feeny) was great," Long said. "He told us, 'You might want to tune your guitars before you record.'"

August 1988 — Static Alphabet guitarist and vocalist Ken Faulkner leaves the band because of artistic differences. "Ken is the first one we stepped on in the bloody coup in our climb to get to the top," Long said.

"It was a major turning point in the band," Einhaus added.

August 1988 — Static Alphabet goes into studio — this time White Room Studio in Grosse Pointe — to record a four-song demo tape. The band is treated to Greek food. "That's when Bill said (singing), 'We don't need another gyro,'" Einhaus said.

"It was a major turning point in the band," Long said.

October 1988 — Static Alphabet goes outstate and performs at the Nubeat Club in Grand Rapids with True Blue Hearts and Inside Out. "I remember that because that's where I met my girlfriend," Einhaus said.

November 1988 — Static Alphabet members Bill Long and Mike Fraser move from Farmington to Ferndale. "My parents moved to Daytona Beach, Fla.," Long said. "We lost our place to practice."

January 1989 — Static Alphabet sends out demo tapes to clubs and their parents. "My dad hates my voice," Einhaus said. "He's a choir singer. My mom loves it. But your mom loves anything you do."

"My parents said they were genuinely surprised," Fraser added.

Today — "We're older, We're wiser," Einhaus said.

"And hungover," Long added.

REVIEWS

FULL MOON FEVER

— Tom Petty

Solo but not alone.

This could not be more true with the release of the Gainesville Gator's first LP that doesn't share the billing with his more-than-competent backup ensemble, The Heartbreakers. However, it's not a great shock that all The Heartbreakers expect drummer Stan Lynch make appearances on the LP, proof of how tight the group actually is. It's even less of a shock that T.P.'s buddies from his most recent project, The Traveling Wilburys, also show up for the ride.

"Full Moon River" is produced by Wilbury Jeff Lynne, with help from Petty and right hand Heartbreaker Mike Campbell. Six of the dozen songs were written by the Petty-Lynne combo, and fellow travelers George Harrison and the late Roy Orbison also provide some guitars, vocals and advice.

Some people may accuse this album of masquerading as "Traveling Wilburys, Volume II," but it is distinctly Southern — distinctly Petty. "Free Fallin'" is a strong opener, a stirring ballad about leaving a love behind — a frequent T.P. theme.

The initial single, "I Won't Back Down," features strong vocals

BIG DADDY

— John Cougar Mellencamp

From the time he added his real last name to the rock'n'roll persona he was, John Cougar Mellencamp has been trying to go back to his roots. And, to overuse another cliche, Mellencamp has also sought to do it "his way."

With his 1985 tour de force "Scarecrow" (the first LP where the Mellencamp name was displayed), the winds of change began to blow. The arrangements were stark, almost course, and the lyrics had a new bite to them (particularly in reference to the plight of the American farmer). It was by far Mellencamp's best work.

Then "Lonesome Jubilee" followed in 1987 with a lot of the same provocative lyrics, but the music had taken a distinct turn from the rock'n'roll of Mellencamp's younger, rebellious days. The "back to the roots" bit had surfaced in a big "I'm at home in rural Indiana" way. Accordions, violins and steel guitars were used to bring it all home. The LP had its moments, but was laced with inconsistency.

Now, "Big Daddy" arrives in 1989 with the roots firmly entrenched and the John Cougar we knew and loved with the backing barnyard noises provided by himself, Lynne and Del Shannon.

With all this fun going on, "Full Moon Fever" is worth catching.

camp to the world, especially if they're record company execs, that he's moving in his own chosen direction.

For confirmation of this statement, just listen for the single "Pop Singer." Seemingly oblivious to the days when he used to write songs like "Play Guitar," now we have a series of down home yarns about life with folks like "Theo and Weird Henry" and "Jackie Brown." And all the accordions, violins and steel guitars just start to wear thin after awhile.

The only real song with a socially conscious bent to it is "J.M.'s Question."

"Big Daddy" borders on the self-indulgent at times, and that's a tough thing to say about a man like Mellencamp. He basically is saying to his fans, this is who I am — like it or leave it.

That decision is up to you.

BRAIN DRAIN

— The Ramones

Yep. They're back. The band whose primary aim is to get to the end of a song as quickly as possible and fit as many power bar chords as they can into the process. The slams-dance kings.

Anybody familiar with the Ramones already knows what this album sounds like. As you may suspect, there is no radical change in sound.

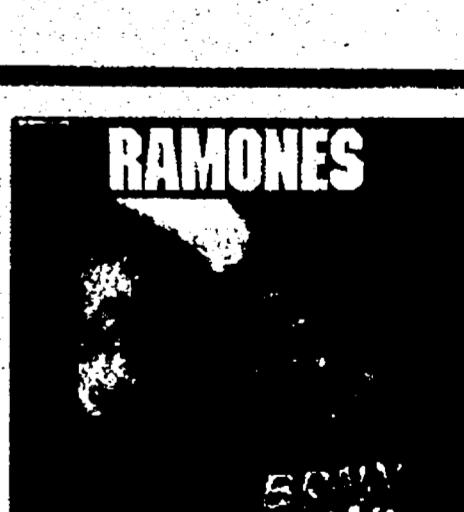

The Ramones sound the same today as they did 10 years ago but somehow this is not to their detriment. Other bands would be accused of not progressing but the Ramones are such a cartoon band institution, it would be akin to asking Disney to change Mickey Mouse's voice.

The Ramones have always had a problem producing a consistently good album, although their singles fall into the realm of classics. This LP is no exception. This single is "Pet Sematary" from the Stephen King movie and damned fine it is, too. Pure Ramones kitch.

The songs that work on this LP all involve Joey Ramone in the composition. His voice is the one most easily identifiable with classic Ramones and again his song on "Brain Drain" hold true to the surfer-punk trash.

— Cormac Wright

Songs like "Don't Bust My Chops" has him verbally abusing a girl friend in a display of Ramones manismo: "You're a style queen and an alley cat/ too many chocolates has you fat, fat, fat, /you're always wearing that cheap perfume. I can always tell when you're in the room."

When Dee Dee Ramone sings, it seems as if he wants to give the Ramones a social conscience, e.g. "Punishment Fits the Crime," or "Learn to Listen."

Thankfully, Joey gets the majority and jumps right back with his simple love song, e.g. "I miss your body laying pert to mine, ooh ooh baby, yeah it would sure feel fine, I said baby baby I'm all screwed up" or "I want you and all of your charms, I found out a little bit too late, I said come back baby come back."

Moron rock rules. OK.

STREET SENSENeed vs. independence: Your choice

Dear Barbara,

I am writing to you because I am concerned about my future regarding relationships. I am the product of two alcoholic parents and part of a very dysfunctional family. I am a nurse, and I have a need to be needed. In other words, I attract those who need me.

I was in hopes you could expound on the topic of children of alcoholics and give me some advice on how to break the pattern of becoming involved in unhealthy relationships.

Although I am an adult and live independently of my family, the pattern repeats itself, making it hard for me to recognize that healthy relationship, even if it was staring me in the face!

Love your column and you, too.

Sincerely yours,
Needing Advice

Dear Needing Advice,

Thanks for your letter. The topic, adult children of alcoholics, is very current right now, and a lot of information has been written about it. However, I am not comfortable expounding on generalizations and prefer to concentrate on individuals.

Within dysfunctional families, some children are not permanently damaged. Those who have some facility (such as high IQ, physical attractiveness or art ability) have a much higher chance of breaking free than those who are, unfortunately, not as gifted.

Even within one family, not all the children react the same. Suzanne Sommers is just one excellent example of those who have overcome their upbringing.

Your letter indicates that you have some of the qualities and talents that would allow you to rise above your background. You say in your letter, "I attract those who need me." It is probably more correct to say that you are attracted to those who need you.

Must you have closeness of another person, even if it is false? Is that because you feel that only users could be attracted to you?

Make up your mind that it is more important to be truly independent, even if alone, than it is to be allowing a user to take advantage of you so you won't be alone.

Dear B.S.,

Thank you for sending your letter. It was too lengthy for me to publish and had I extracted a small part, it would have been out of context with your presentation.

The only thing that I can comment on is that I, too, wish that more men would write in with their feelings and where they like to meet women.

Sincerely,

To the uninitiated, stereo and video are puzzling components in a floating tank.

Based on Lilly's research, learning is enhanced when there is little outside stimulation. Floating provides an ideal opportunity for learning. "People attempting to quite smoking, lose weight or gain self-confidence have a higher incidence of success if they attempt such things while floating," said Dandy, who is busy compiling results for presentation to corporate America.

A seven-year-old girl, described by her mother as hyperactive, systematically tore up Panelli's office while her mother floated. Then it was the girl's turn. She floated 30 minutes, half the time allotted for an adult float.

WHEN THE girl emerged from the tank, the change in behavior was astonishing, Panelli said. She was quieter, more peaceful.

Floating is very therapeutic; it produces a sense of well being," he added.

It is also therapeutic in relieving chronic pain. Panelli originally started floating to ease pain from the football injury to his shoulder. Broder, the Birmingham attorney, found relief from a minor back injury after floating a single time.

Cindy Caperton, 29, a recently divorced mother of two from Redford Township who works and attends night school, recently found herself "terribly uptight. My muscles were going into spasms."

Both are sold on floating as a viable form of relaxing and unwinding.

Walkoe: Fast talk pays off

By Bob Sadler
special writer

The first thing you notice about Tim Walkoe is that he talks very fast.

More than very fast. This guy talks really fast.

He talks as fast as he thinks Michigan people drive. "Two hundred miles an hour," he said.

"I keep a good clip," Walkoe said in what could one of the year's biggest understatements. "That's just my rhythm. I have to go with what my rhythm is. If I slowed down, my hour show would take 90 minutes."

What about his audience? Do their ears work as quickly as his mouth?

"If they can't keep up with me, I don't need them," he said with more than a note of sarcasm. "They're supposed to be paying attention."

Reached at his hotel room in Bloomington, Ind., where he was doing still another one-night stand, Walkoe, 40, is another in the long list of comics who have made the transition to comedy from other show business careers.

A musician by trade, he played bass guitar and sang lead vocals in a rock group known as the Eddie Boy Band, which recorded for MCA before breaking up in the late '70s.

A COUPLE of Walkoe's bandmates stayed in the music business, one playing lead guitar with Jimmy Buffet and another writing songs for artists like Linda Ronstadt and the Pointer Sisters.

So in 1978, Walkoe decided to look into comedy — back when it was starting to come to the forefront again.

"THERE REALLY was no humor in the late '60s when I grew up," Walkoe said. "Except for maybe (George) Carlin. Everyone was more serious, and they wanted to rock out. Rock'n'roll was just the thing to do back then. Now, it's comedy."

Walkoe joined an improvisational ensemble in Los Angeles known as the "L.A. Connection" for about a year. From 1979 to 1981, he joined Dick Monday to form the touring comedy duo of Walkoe & Monday. Then Walkoe went solo.

"It took awhile before I finally had the guts to try it myself," he said.

Moving from Los Angeles back to his hometown of Chicago in 1983, Walkoe fine-tuned his material and delivery in the Windy City's many clubs until another unique opportunity came his way — morning radio.

He worked as a comedic co-host at WRXR, a classic rock station, before it got hit by "The Wave." That format change moved Walkoe up to Minnesota, where he co-hosted a morning show at KDWB, a Top-40 outlet.

"I learned a lot from it," Walkoe said of the latter job, "but I just ran out of Debbie Gibson and Tiffany jokes."

Morning radio was a tough transition for a guy used to performing in clubs. "Get up at four in the morning?" Walkoe lamented. "I used to get home at four. How am I going to get up?"

Walkoe doesn't plan on doing any morning shows soon, but is currently working on a comedy talk show pilot for Chicago's WGN radio. He plans to combine interviews with comedy records from the past and present for the show, which he is priming for national syndication.

IN THE future, Walkoe would like to see how his latest radio project pans out, do some more television (he has appeared on HBO, Showtime and George Schlatter's syndicated "Comedy Club" show) and hit the road a few times a month.

Reflecting on his diverse experiences in show business, Walkoe put his past 20 years into perspective.

"It's been a major attempt to go through life and not hold a real job."

The immortal words of George Kell — "This one looks like it's out of here" — ringing in his ears, Jim Radebaugh leveled a home run swing at a batting cage fast ball.

By James Radebaugh
staff writer

The top of my thumb where the skin wore off is beginning to dry up into a scab and though my right shoulder is still sore, I can raise my arm above my head without wincing, which I couldn't do yesterday.

It's spring, the Tigers are already in last place, a new season is beginning for area softball leagues and the editor wanted a first-person account of a trip to a mechanical batting cage.

Is hitting a hardball flying past you at 70 miles an hour, she wondered, as easy as it looks?

I went to the Grand Slam Baseball Training Center Inc. in Royal Oak the other day to find out.

For $1.25, you get an aluminum bat and a token good for 22 pitches. The cages are arranged in a semicircle around the pitching machines, which are positioned over a funnel-shaped depression that collects loose balls. Somehow, the pitching machines suck up the balls and shoot them toward home plate in the cages.

AT GRAND Slam, the machines are adjusted to pitch an underhanded softball toss, a slow-pitch lob they call the candyman, and a fast-pitch hardball from 30 to 70 miles an hour. A warning sign tells you the pitches will come in both balls and strikes "to reflect actual game conditions." No beanballs, at least.

True to the assignment, I headed straight for the 70-miles-an-hour cage.

The first two pitches whipped past and slammed into the rubber mat at the back of the cage before I had gripped the bat and struck a stance in the batter's box.

I swung at the third pitch, though, and again at the fourth and the fifth, and eventually I hit something other than air. A foul tip popped behind the plate. I could hear George Kell saying I got a piece of it.

I swung again and connected. A solid line drive right up the middle.

"That's gonna drop in for a base hit, Al."

I wanted to scream — not in joy, in pain. A shock wave that would have registered on the Richter scale shot through my forearms. Hitting a ball traveling 70 miles an hour hurts. The truth is, I've never been much of an athlete and I haven't played any hardball since junior high, when in the entire eighth-grade season I got to play twice, both times as a pinch runner.

But standing in the batter's box at Grand Slam reminded me of how much fun getting to bat is. As a kid I spent my time frustrated, waiting for my chance at the plate. So what could be better than ups that last for as long as you have cash in your pocket?

I put another token in and took another 22 swings, with little more success. Each time I watched a little more skin on my thumb disappear. Other people, I noticed, were wearing gloves.

AND A GOOD crowd had come out on this particular afternoon. Some men were dressed as though they had come from work, and there were more than a few parents with several kids in tow. What was most interesting, perhaps, is that there were at least as many women and girls as there were men and boys, maybe more.

Tired of whiffing, I moved down to the 55-miles-an-hour cage. The pitches came slowly enough to focus on and I was able to hit at least as many as I missed. I sent a few into the net at far end of the enclosure.

I'm not sure I honed my technique any, and I'm pretty sure I don't care. Just standing there smacking baseballs was a great time. (The balls, by the way, aren't real baseballs. They're shaped like oversized golf balls and they're green. I bought some tokens and stayed a while longer.

Hitch a ride on a wagon train to see the Wild West tourist information on South Dakota, including their 160-page tourism guide, call the tourist department toll-free at 1-800-843-1930.

When you join the wagon train, somewhere along its route, ask for

Q: Our son is really into buffaloes, Indians, wagon trains and the whole wild west thing. What can we do in a two week driving trip? We don't have time to drive all over the west.

J.P.,
Westland

A: You'll find it all in and around the Black Hills and the Badlands of South Dakota, 1,200 miles due west of Detroit. Spend two or three days exploring the landscape in either direction and you will still have plenty of time to see the wild west.

South Dakota is celebrating its centennial this year, so there are many special events. You can ride a wagon train, ride a Jeep right into a buffalo herd, explore Indian lore and have fun in old west towns like Deadwood.

Rapid City, at the foot of the Black Hills, is the logical home base. The Centennial Wagon Train retraces pioneer trails. There is an Eastern and a Western division, each with at least 100 wagons. They are already on the trail and you can climb aboard anywhere along the route until Aug. 29, when they reach the state fair in Huron.

You can join a train before it starts for the day, during breaks (mid-morning, noon and mid-afternoon) or when they set up camp for the evening, but not while the train is actually moving.

Stay for part of a day or camp overnight with your own provisions. Many communities will hold barbecues and potlucks when the train arrives in town. Sleep in your own wagon, tent, RV, sleeping bag, or in a motel.

HERE'S HOW you do it. Write to the South Dakota Centennial Commission, 600 East Capital Ave., Pierre, S.D. 57501, or call (605) 773-4036 for a wagon train map and other centennial information. For the train secretary, who will sell you an identification button — $5 for adults, $2 for those under 18. The Western Division also charges $25 per wagon or $10 per horseback. There's no extra charge on the Eastern Division train.

When in South Dakota, you must stop at Mount Rushmore, where sculptor Gutzon Borglum carved presidents Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt into the mountain side.

That should get you into the mood of the old wild west!

Now you must plan the rest of your trip. The Badlands are an hour's drive east of Rapid City. Take the 38-mile Badlands Loop off I-90. Enjoy the red saw-toothed skyline of this lunar landscape and introduce your son to the Oglala Indians who operate the Cedar Pass Lodge. Order the "Indian tacos" for lunch.

Continue west to the town of Wall. Wall Drug Store, with all its mechanical bands and other fun things, is one of the biggest tourist attractions in the state. It was just a drug store in a small town until its owner put signs out on the highway — "Free ice water in Wall, South Dakota." Now, it has tourist attractions galore.

It's a straight run from Wall into Rapid City. Don't miss mammoths, dinosaurs, Tyrannosaurus Rex, and other giant mammals in the Museum of Geology at the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology. Both you and the kids will love it.

OF COURSE, you must stop at Mount Rushmore (average stop 80 minutes), where sculptor Gutzon Borglum carved presidents Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt into the mountain side.

But the real destination for buffalo lovers should be Custer State Park, with its wild buffalo herds.

There were once 60 million buffaloes on the Great Plains. After George Custer discovered the gold that lured the prospectors to the hills in 1874, driving the Sioux from their sacred hills, there were only about 100 of the great bison left.

Local ranchers saved the buffaloes, donated them to the park and sands of upright sun-sniffing prairie dogs, sleek little underground "critters" that look like wet squirrels and bark like dogs.

Keep going south to the visitor center at the Mammoth Site in Hot Springs, where 26,000-year-old mammoths have been unearthed. You can wash the dust off at Evans Plunge, a natural spring-cum-swimming pool, also in Hot Springs.

State Highway 87, the Needles Highway, will take you past eerie stone spires, the granite cores of long dead volcanoes. Stop for lunch or overnight at Sylvan Lake Lodge and then go on to the Crazy Horse Memorial.

Some people say sculptor Korczak Ziolkowski was the crazy one, when he agreed to carve the horse and Indian that ride forever in stone across a mountain face. He started decades ago and the work continues after his death.

The hills are full of tourist attractions. I recommend the Black Hills Petrified Forest, where you can get a graduate course in geology in 10 minutes. Spend an afternoon and an evening in Deadwood, where Wild Bill Hickock was shot dead in Saloon #10 and is buried next to Calamity Jane in Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

IF YOU'VE got more time, see the Passion Play at Spearfish, and the sacred mountain, Bear Butte, near Sturgis. The Sundance Kid was named after the town of Sundance, half an hour west on US-14 in the Wyoming end of the Black Hills.

Fearless climbers still scale the sheer walls of nearby Devil's Tower, which you may have seen in the movie Close Encounters of the Third Kind.

The Devil's Tower is a sacred mountain, too. The Indians called it Mateo Tepee or Bear Lodge because legend says a bear chased seven girls up to the top of the Tower, where Wakantonka, the Great Mystery, changed them into the seven stars of the Big Dipper.

Q: My wife spends so much time doing everything perfectly that she's exhausted all the time. How can I convince her to slow down a little?

A: Perfectionism covers a broad spectrum of habits. At one extreme are perfectionists who are flawlessly neat and well organized. Every hair is in place, their children are immaculate, desks are clear, cars impeccable — as are their garages, filing folders and fingernails. Even their pets always smell nice.

At the opposite end of this spectrum are the perfectionists who live amid chaos. Their work is piled high — in their offices, laundry and basements. Their personal appearance may be disheveled and their tax papers are still laying out. It's almost incomprehensible how people so different have perfectionist in common, but they do.

What polarizes these groups is their fear of failure. The Perfect Perfectionists are confident about how to approach their work. They are unafraid of hard work and have learned to do things well. They may be exhausted half the time, but all their work is always caught up. (They cannot rest until it is.) One woman proudly proclaimed that she had all the suggested tools to set up a reminder system and that she was prepared to get started — just as soon as she bought a calligraphy pen to write notes to herself.

The procrastinators believe "if you can't do it well, then don't do it at all" — so they don't. Believing they are incapable of doing things well enough — or overestimating the time or effort to do it — they procrastinate, telling themselves they will do it "later." Their tax papers aren't put away yet because they are waiting until they have time to do it "right." During class discussion I have seen many people almost in tears as they deal with these mental blocks that immobilize them.

The saddest part of perfectionism is that some Perfect Perfectionists still carry a burden of guilt and failure — believing they are not doing things well enough and that they "should" do better. In other words, they live with unrealistic ideals for themselves and consequently never realize an inner sense of peace.

Like all perfectionists, your wife needs to lower her standards a bit, to forgive herself for doing some things half well, and to learn to relax in the process.

condo queries

Q: We are a family looking for an apartment. A landlord has told us that a particular section of the complex in which we are interested is located near a playground where children play and the landlord or manager has informed us that this section close to the playground, may be more comfortable for us. Is this legal?

A: The Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988 provides that it is unlawful to discriminate in the rental of any dwelling by exaggerating drawbacks or failing to inform any person of desirable features of a dwelling or of a community, neighborhood or development because of a person's familial status.

It is also unlawful to communicate to any prospective resident that he or she would not be comfortable or compatible with the existing residents' community, neighborhood or development because of the person's familial status. The conduct of steering a prospective resident with children away from a particular section of a complex and toward another section because of a person's familial status would be a violation of the act.

Although it may seem innocent on the surface, the regulations indicate that this practice is discriminatory, although it has been commonly followed by many landlords in the state and has, in effect, been encouraged by a Michigan Supreme Court ruling several years ago, which may now be deemed and superseded by the new act.

Q: Our landlord has a "no pets" policy, but can a landlord restrict a blind resident from keeping a seeing eye dog in his unit?

A: Under the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, the act provides that it is unlawful to refuse to make reasonable accommodations, rules, policies, practices or services when such accommodations may be necessary to afford a handicapped person equal opportunity to use and enjoy a unit, including the public and common use areas.

It is expressly stated in the regulations that it is a violation of the act for the owner or manager of an apartment complex to refuse to permit a blind applicant to live in the apartment with a seeing eye dog. The rationale used in the regulations is that a blind person will not have an equal opportunity to use and enjoy a dwelling if a seeing eye dog is not allowed in the unit. Presumably, this would also apply to condominiums and cooperatives.

Mow 'em down

Rain is prompting new rules for lawn cutting

Weeder's guide

Earl Aronson

Consider mulching as an alternative to bagging. Mulching mowers cut grass clippings to a fine mulch and disperse them into the lawn, providing it with additional nutrients.

The drawback of mulching is that you will have to mow more often. Expect to mow more than once a week in late spring. Also, using a mulching mower to cut tall, lush grass tends to leave unsightly clippings in your lawn. One way around the mulching problem is to use a rear-bagging mower that easily converts from bagging to mulching.

6. Choose a good time of day to mow. Avoid mowing during early morning, when heavy dew is on the grass. Dry grass is easier to cut, appears better groomed and requires less mowing time. If you must mow when the dew remains, you can partially dissipate it by dragging a garden hose or rope over the turf surface.

7. For the best cut, make sure the mower blades are sharp. Dull blades or improperly adjusted cutting heights can damage turf.

8. For aesthetic purposes, alter cutting patterns with each mowing.

9. Wear proper clothing while mowing. For safety, wear long pants that will protect your skin; avoid loose clothing or dangling jewelry that can snag on mower controls. Wear sturdy, non-slip shoes that provide good traction and protection.

10. Properly maintain your mower. To save yourself from the headache of a mower that won't run when you want it to, use fresh gasoline and thoroughly clean the underside of the deck and external engine components after each mowing. Periodically, clean the air filter, service the spark plug, change the oil and lubricate all mower parts.
