3 arrested in heroin bust at mall

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A drug bust in which undercover officers nabbed three men trying to sell them five ounces of heroin at the Westland Center mall Thursday is more proof to police that the drug is making a comeback.

"Five ounces is not a street dealer," said Det. Lt. Jack Gruska of the Western Wayne Drug Enforcement undercover team, which includes officers from the city of Westland.

"It would be considered a supplier," Gruska said. "This is one of our biggest heroin busts."

Arrested were a 22-year-old Livonia man, a 22-year-old Dearborn man and a 19-year-old Dearborn Heights man.

They were charged with possession with intent to deliver more than 50 grams of heroin, which carries a term of between five and 20 years in prison.

A Westland Center security officer said she isn't allowed to comment on the arrest, saying that all comments must come from the management office, which was closed when the Observer tried to call it at 5:30 p.m. Friday.

The investigation began in a Canton apartment where an arrest was made involving four ounces of cocaine valued at $3,000. Through that arrest, introductions were made to the men dealing heroin, Gruska said.

UNDERCOVER OFFICERS initially met the suspects inside the mall at Warren and Wayne roads. Two were arrested in the parking lot and the other was arrested inside the mall.

At first, the undercover team

'Five ounces is not a street dealer . . . It would be considered a supplier. This is one of our biggest heroin busts.'

— Lt. Jack Gruska

planned to pay $32,000 for eight ounces of heroin, Gruska said.

Police thought that price was a very cheap buy, considering heroin normally sells for $700 a gram and $10,000-$12,000 an ounce.

FOR ONE weekend anyway, local residents won't have to make the trek to Tiger Stadium for fresh peanuts. And the way our boys of summer have been playing, that's probably a blessing in disguise.

The Kiwanis Club of Westland will take to the streets Sept. 8-10 selling bags of peanuts as a fundraiser.

Kiwanians will be selling the peanuts at the Wayne-Ford and Wayne-Warren intersections.

WINNERS OF the Beautification Awards for July were announced last week by Westland City Council president Ken Mehl.

Honored for their landscaping prowess were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hannah of the 30400 block of Julius and the Hot 'n Now drive-through restaurant on Wayne Road south of Ford.

The awards are given by the council in June, July and August, and at Christmastime for the house with the best decorations.

Raffle prizes include a trip for two to Nashville, donated by Mickey Redmond Travel; a Toronto weekend for two, courtesy of Royal Oak Ford; and jewelry from LeRoy's jewelers.

The Landings is off Warren Road, west of Wayne Road.

The public is welcome. Teams interested in competing in the volleyball tournament should contact Beverly Holcomb, complex social director, 729-5650.

Water hazard

Choosing the right club and staying dry were top priorities for Dick Honaker Thursday at the annual Wayne-Westland YMCA golf benefit. The weather may have dampened the play, but it failed to dent the spirits of nearly 100 participants. For the story and pictures of the outing, turn to Page 3A.

Students work in no-frills summer session

Anxious to get credits, teens turn serious

By Todd Schneider
staff writer

The rain, falling to a slow but steady beat outside the classroom window at the Cherry Hill Center, is almost drowning out Don Halley's introduction to "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Nearly all of Halley's American history students are paying attention as their teacher tells them that the pacifist views expressed in the 1930 film classic about World War I — shown here on videotape — won't be repeated on American screens until long after Vietnam.

The insistent drizzle seems to have a limiting effect on students who might otherwise be daydreaming about heading for the beach or the softball field.

WELCOME TO Wayne-Westland school district's summer school circa 1989, where both the attitudes and the humidity are a world apart from where they were during homecoming week last fall.

"It's kind of a drag, but not as bad as I thought it would be," said Doug Wood, who is taking the same political science class he failed at John Glenn last year.

Wood, like many summer school students, needs the credit to get his high school diploma.

"I don't know why I couldn't pass this class (earlier)," Wood said.

"Maybe it's because of the teacher or something."

MOST LIKELY, though, for Wood and other students, it's because they had trouble showing up, according to Wayne-Westland summer school supervisor Roger Cromwell.

During the compacted summer term — 30 days for ninth-12th graders, 24 for seventh and eighth graders — pushing students to develop better attendance patterns carries the same educational weight as teaching the material.

The district uses an elaborate "check-in, check-out" system to make sure students are where they are supposed to be.

New manager takes over Humane Society branch

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

Sue Gates is one manager who doesn't mind taking her work home with her — figuratively.

Gates is the new manager of the Michigan Humane Society shelter in Westland, which takes in 15,000 animals a year.

But when she leaves her office for her home in Dexter, she comes home to five cats and two dogs.

The shelter on Marquette near Newburgh handles unclaimed dogs and adoptions of pets for people in Westland, Livonia, Redford, Canton and Dearborn Heights.

Gates, 39, replaced Kathy Blauet in early April. Blauet, shelter manager for many years, resigned in the spring to start her own pet-sitting business.

THE NEW manager comes to her new position with several strong priorities.

One is to give away as many pets as possible through adoption. Another is to be fair and flexible with people at the shelter who want to adopt pets.

"While we have guidelines, we can be flexible," Gates said.

She started an educational training program for approximately 50 people this spring on how to handle wildlife animals for temporary periods.

An ongoing goal is to educate people on how to be responsible pet owners and have their dogs neutered or cats spayed. She also advised dog owners to avoid keeping their pets outside.

3 announce plans for city council race

Ziemba to seek 2nd term

William Ziemba will run for re-election to the Westland City Council.

Ziemba, who has been council president pro-tem since 1987, formally announced his re-election campaign and filed nominating petitions last week.

He was first elected in 1985.

If re-elected, Ziemba said he plans to continue his "efforts to enhance the quality of life in Westland and to balance the needs of our residents along with the necessity to develop the community."

William Ziemba seeking re-election

THE COUNCILMAN said he tried to foster "a spirit of cooperation" with Mayor Charles Griffin's administration.

He also said he worked for stronger ordinance enforcement and singled out the city's strengthened junk car ordinance, passed by the council in 1987.

Ziemba has served as the council's Nankin Transit Commission representative for two years and has also been a member of the city's zoning board of appeals, planning commission, Central City Park commission and council liaison to the library commission.

A 20-year Westland resident, Ziemba is married and has one child.

The filing deadline for candidates in the council race is 4 p.m. Tuesday. A primary election — if there are more than eight candidates for the four available seats — would be Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The general election is Nov. 7.

Active lawyer makes bid

Sandra Cicirelli is a candidate for the Westland City Council.

Cicirelli, an attorney, formally announced her candidacy last week.

The general election is Nov. 7.

"As a practicing attorney and local business person, I would bring to the council the perspective of a Westland business person as well as that of a Westland homeowner," Cicirelli said.

Cicirelli is a partner in the Westland law firm of Ference, Ference and Cicirelli.

Sandra Cicirelli joins council race

A RESIDENT for 18 years, she has been a member of the city's Zoning Board of Appeals since 1986 and currently serves as vice chairwoman of the board.

She is also a member of the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

IN ADDITION to her law practice, Cicirelli serves as a mediator in 21st District Court, small claims division.

Candidate questions several city policies

Deborah Carman is seeking a seat on the Westland City Council.

Carman, an eight-year Westland resident, formally announced her candidacy and filed nominating petitions last week.

The filing deadline for both the city council and mayoral races is 4 p.m. Tuesday. A primary — if there are more than eight council candidates — would be held Tuesday, Sept. 12.

THE CANDIDATE also said she is concerned with what she feels is a lack of ordinance enforcement in the city.

"I want Westland to look better and be a better place to live," she said.

"A beautification award program with politicians on cable TV is not my idea of making an impact."

If elected, Carman said she would push for an ordinance requiring mandatory city inspection of rental properties every four years.

"I BELIEVE there is a need on the council for an independent viewpoint on the issues that face the city today and foresight to see what impact today's actions will have on the city 20 years from now," Carman said.

Carman said her campaign will focus on whether the city has sufficient public safety officers in the face of continued economic development.

She questioned the periodic closing of one of the city's four fire stations, a practice that was started in April 1988 following a contract agreement between the city and the firefighters' union.

CARMAN HAS worked for Detroit area labor unions and also the Macomb County Friend of the Court.

She is the vice chair of the Westland Community Development Block Grant Advisory Committee, a member of the Westland Board of Canvassers and an alternate delegate for the 15th District Michigan Democratic Central Committee.

She is married and has three children.

3 men arrested in drug bust

However, the purity of the heroin bought in Westland was unknown late last week, Gruska said.

After the arrests, police seized five ounces of heroin and a late model Toyota Supra. The men were arrested before officers made the buy.

Gruska said he has never seen local undercover drug officers buy that much heroin during one bust. A search warrant was conducted on a Dearborn home. No drugs were found.

The arrests were made by the enforcement team and the men were taken to the Westland police station. Arraignment was planned for noon Saturday.

In the past five years, Gruska said, the popularity of heroin seems to have made a resurgence.

"Heroin disappeared in the late '70s and early '80s and cocaine took its place," he said, adding that heroin was still available, but it wasn't as popular.

Cocaine became the drug of choice, because it was believed to be non-addictive and it was considered a jet-setter's high.

An extremely addictive mixture of crack and smokable heroin is growing in popularity in New York, city and state officials reportedly told the New York Times.

"Heroin is 30 times more expensive than cocaine," Gruska said.

A kilo of cocaine is priced between $17,000 and $18,000. And a kilo of heroin sells for $175,000 to $220,000. Heroin can be snorted or injected.

The drug team is supported financially by Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Belleville. Police departments supplying officers to the team include Canton, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Van Buren Township, Wayne and the Michigan State Police.

Council OKs condo site plan

Development in Westland's downtown district continued last week as the Westland City Council unanimously approved the site plan for a second phase of the Castle Woods condominiums at Hunter, west of Yale.

Phase II will be adjacent to Phase I and will consist of 90 two-bedroom ranch and townhouse-style units each 1,120-1,220 square feet.

The project, to be built on 9.55 acres, is one of several residential complexes that complement the expanded retail development and opening of Central City Parkway. Other recent projects include the Liberty Park senior citizens development.

Several council members expressed concern about growing traffic congestion in the area however and an amendment calling for the developer to add deceleration and acceleration lanes in front of the entrance on Hunter was added to the plan.

"Without that roadwork you're going to create traffic problems not only for the people who live there, but for other residents and everybody who uses (Hunter) in the business district," said Council member Thomas Artley.

Council members Kent Herbert and Charles Pickering agreed with Artley.

But Mayor Charles Griffin said the additional work may not be necessary. He cited the width of Hunter — which at 37 feet is 9 feet wider than most residential streets.

New industrial park

Canton Township ($2.25), Livonia ($2.75-$3) and Plymouth Township ($3.25-$3.50).

Lease rates for the speculative buildings are about $4 per square foot.

Kauff said a number of companies have come to Westland from industrial parks in other communities. Bob Evans, for example, is moving to Commerce Park from Livonia.

"Cost is the major factor," he said. "The availability of tax abatements and the cooperation of the city's economic development department tends to attract clients who are expanding, downsizing, diversifying or just looking for a satellite plant."

He also credited the city's improved image in attracting clients.

Golfers raise $4,500 for Y program

THE RAINS didn't dampen the spirits of golfers who took part in a benefit for the Wayne-Westland Family Y's Invest in Youth program for needy youngsters.

An estimated $4,500 was raised Thursday, with more pledges expected to be received, said Janet Lockman, Y executive director.

The Y's goal was $5,000. But the Thursday benefit helped the Y meet its $17,000 goal for the year.

THE Invest in Youth program provides money for memberships for needy families and sponsorships in the day care, day camp and swim programs.

Besides the golf outing at Fellows Creek Golf Course, money is raised from solicitations and donations.

A record 92 people registered, said Tom Taylor, one of three co-chairpeople for the third annual golf benefit.

Lockman credited co-chairpeople Taylor, Bob Kenyon and Tom Brown for making the benefit a success, and Sam Corrado for soliciting numerous prizes.

WINNING PRIZES for the lowest gross score was Rob West and Georgina Goss in their men's and women's categories.

Bob Fields and Jim Macurly tied for having a ball closest to the pin and won prizes.

Macurly and West also tied for the longest drive among men.

In the women's category, Goss had the longest drive — which was longer than the men's effort, Lockman said.

cop calls

TWO MEN escaped with several hundred dollars and an undetermined number of cigarette cartons in a robbery at the Marathon gasoline station, 37401 Joy, early Tuesday, police said.

A station employee told police the men entered the station at 1 a.m. just as she was preparing to close for the night.

One man punched her in the head and then pushed her into the back room while the other locked the front door from the inside, the woman told police.

She said the two men began stuffing the cigarettes into a bag and took the money from the open cash register where she had been totaling receipts.

The men fled on foot and warned her not to call the police, the employee said.

The bandits were described as white males, with one in his late 30s and the other in his 20s.

The employee said the older man was 6 feet tall with a medium build, short brown hair, a mustache and a small diamond-shaped tattoo on one of his hands. He was wearing a black, leather sport coat, blue jeans and black boots, she said.

The younger man was 5 feet 9 inches tall with a medium build and shoulder-length sandy blond hair. He was wearing a white, sleeveless undershirt, blue jeans that were torn at the knees and dirty black and white tennis shoes.

A HOMEOWNER on the 39100 block of Palmer reported that someone stole a $600 pearl necklace and a purse containing $60 cash, several credit cards and personal identification from her kitchen table late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

Summer session is serious

"If somebody's not in class we know in about 10 minutes and we can call a parent," Cromwell said.

THIS YEAR, 355 students, or approximately 2 percent of the district's entire enrollment, are attending summer classes. Most are in the high school program. Some come from other districts where there are no summer classes.

Enrollment is split evenly between boys and girls.

Approximately 5 percent of those enrolled are involved in a summer enrichment program for high school students. These students can take required courses such as algebra during July and then are able to take more electives during the regular school year.

BUT CROMWELL said most of the students are enrolled for "traditional" reasons, much the same as it was in 1986 when he first got involved in the program.

Going to school in the summertime, when friends are working at the mall, going to concerts or just hanging out is difficult, Miko Guel said.

"I was really disappointed when I found out this is where I'd be spending (part of) the summer," said Guel, who was one credit short of graduating from Wayne Memorial last June.

"You feel kind of stupid at first," he said. "But I know that it's really important for me to graduate."

"Otherwise, it's like I worked for 12 years and wound up with nothing."

A SUDDENLY more serious attitude about school work is typical for someone who failed to graduate with the class, Cromwell said. The realization that this could be a last chance often sets in by the second week or so, he said.

Geno Cranshaw agrees. "There's no lunch, no track team, no nothing — it's just school," Cranshaw said.

Cranshaw, 19, is taking physical science and political science classes and hopes to get his diploma at the end of the month, before he enlists in the Army.

He said he misses the camaraderie of his buddies on the John Glenn track team (he ran the 200 yard dash at the state meet last spring) and regrets not being able to spend more time with his fiancée.

HIGH SCHOOL students are in session 7:30-11:30 a.m., with a 20-minute break between the two-hour classes. Junior high classes meet 9:30-11:30 a.m. in a separate wing of the building.

Cromwell has instituted things like a free-throw shooting contest and a doughnut breakfast to help build some spirit among the students.

"It helps," he said, noting that 70 students entered the free-throw contest.

Also helping this year is the weather, which is considerably cooler than it was during last summer's drought and makes life almost tolerable in the non-air-conditioned school.

"When it got up in the 90s nearly every day tempers tended to run short," Cromwell said. "We were breaking up fights every day."

MOST OF the high school students head to work right after school lets out.

"There's not much time during the week for doing stuff with friends," said Wood, who puts in 20-40 hours each week at the McDonald's restaurant on Wayne at Warren.

"I just have to catch up with them on the weekends."

New manager at animal shelter

GATES IS in the animal care profession because "I enjoy being around animals and had a need to work with them," she said.

A native of Detroit, she worked at numerous positions, such as managing a leather goods store and being a nurse's aide in a rehabilitation hospital, as well as running her own antique business, before becoming a volunteer at the Huron Valley Humano Society in Washtenaw County in 1985.

She was soon hired as an employee and later promoted to shelter manager.

THE MICHIGAN Humano Society hired her approximately 16 months ago to run the Auburn Hills shelter in Oakland County.

CITY OF GARDEN CITY PROPOSED SPECIAL USE REGULATIONS

161.022—SPECIAL USE REGULATIONS

(A) Intent. The procedures and standards in this Section are intended to provide a consistent and uniform method for review of Special Use proposals. Special Use is a use, either public or private, which possesses unique characteristics and therefore cannot be properly classified as permitted uses in a particular zoning district.

These review procedures and standards are intended to accomplish the following purposes:

- Ensure full compliance with the standards contained in this Ordinance and other applicable local ordinances, and state and Federal laws.
- Achieve efficient use of the land.
- Prevent adverse impact adjoining or nearby properties.
- Protect natural resources.
- Facilitate development in accordance with the City's land use objectives.

(B) Procedures and Requirements. Special Use applications shall be submitted in accordance with the following procedures and requirements, which provide for review and action by the Planning Commission, followed by optional review by the City Council. Although a site plan must be submitted with a Special Use application, approval of the Special Use is required prior to site plan approval.

(1) Applicant Eligibility. The application shall be submitted by the owner of an interest in land for which Special Use approval is sought, or by the owner's designated agent. The applicant or a designated representative shall be present at all scheduled review meetings or consideration of the proposal may be tabled.

(2) Application Forms and Documentation. The application for Special Use shall be made on the forms and according to the guidelines provided by the Building Department.

(3) Application Data Requirements. A site plan shall be submitted with the Special Use application. In addition, the applicant shall complete any forms and supply any other data that may be required by the Planning Commission, City Council, or City staff to make the determination required, herein. The applicant shall provide all necessary written or graphic materials to document compliance with the standards set forth in Section 161.022, sub-section (C), and other regulatory guidelines specified for particular Special Uses elsewhere in this Ordinance.

(4) Site Plan Preparation. The site plan shall be prepared in the manner specified in Section 161.010 and on the Special Use application form. A site plan which does not meet the stipulated requirements shall be considered incomplete and shall therefore not be subject to formal review. At any time during the course of preparation of a site plan, the City staff shall upon request provide information concerning the Zoning Ordinance procedures and standards.

(5) Submission of a Completed Plan. The Special Use application materials, required fees, and sufficient copies of the completed site plan shall be submitted to the Building Department for review.

(6) Review by the Building Official. The Building Official shall review the site plan and application materials, and prepare a written review, which shall specify any deficiencies in the site plan and application and make recommendations as appropriate.

(7) Submission of a Revised Plan and Special Use Application. The applicant shall revise the site plan and application materials, based on the recommendations set forth in the Building Official's review. The applicant shall then submit sufficient copies of the revised plan for further review by the Planning Commission.

(8) Planning Commission Consideration. After all application materials have been received and review fees paid, the application shall be reviewed in accordance with the following procedures:

(a) Acceptance for Processing. The application shall be placed on the agenda of the next scheduled Planning Commission meeting. Upon accepting the application for processing, the Planning Commission shall schedule a public hearing.

(b) Public Hearing. Notice of the public hearing shall be published in a newspaper which circulates in the City, and sent by mail or personal delivery to the owners of property for which approval is being considered. The Building Official shall review the site plan and application materials within 100 feet of the boundary of the property in question, and to the occupants of all structures within 200 feet. Such notification shall be made in accordance with the provisions in Section 44(3) of the City or Village Zoning Act, Michigan Public Act 207 of 1921, as amended.

(c) Planning Commission Review. Following the public hearing, the Special Use proposal and plan shall be reviewed by the Planning Commission in relation to applicable standards and regulations and consistency with the intent of the Special Use regulations.

(d) Plan Review. If the Planning Commission determines that revisions are necessary to bring the Special Use proposal into compliance with applicable standards and regulations, the applicant shall be given the opportunity to submit a revised application and site plan. Following submission of revised application materials, the Special Use proposal shall be placed on the agenda of the next scheduled meeting of the Planning Commission for further review and possible action.

(9) Planning Commission Determination. The Planning Commission shall review the application for Special Use, together with the public hearing findings and reports and recommendations from the Building Official, City Planner, City Engineer, Public Safety Officials, and other reviewing agencies. The Planning Commission shall then make a determination on the Special Use application, based on the requirements and standards of this Ordinance. The Planning Commission may approve, approve with conditions, or deny a Special Use request as follows:

(a) Approval. Upon determination by the Planning Commission that the final plan for Special Use is in compliance with the standards and requirements of this Ordinance and other applicable ordinances and laws, approval shall be granted.

(b) Approval with Conditions. The Planning Commission may impose reasonable conditions with the approval of a Special Use proposal, to the extent authorized by law. Conditions imposed shall meet all the following requirements:

- Conditions shall be designed to protect natural resources, the health, safety, and welfare and the social and economic well-being of those who will use the land use or activity under consideration, residents and landowners immediately adjacent to the proposed land use or activity, and the community as a whole.
- Conditions shall be related to the valid exercise of the police power and purposes which are affected by the proposed use or activity.
- Conditions shall be necessary to meet the intent and purpose of the Zoning Ordinance, related to the standards established in the Ordinance for the land use or activity under consideration, and necessary to insure compliance with those standards.

(c) Denial. Upon determination by the Planning Commission that a Special Use proposal does not comply with the standards and regulations set forth in this Ordinance, or otherwise would be injurious to the public health, safety, welfare, and orderly development of the City, the Special Use proposal shall be denied.

The Planning Commission shall prepare and transmit a report to the City Council stating its conclusions and decision, the basis for its decision, and any conditions relating to an affirmative decision.

(10) Submission of Plans for City Council Review. After the Planning Commission makes its determination, the Special Use application materials, the Special Use application and site plan shall be formally tabled to the City Council for possible consideration. The City Council shall have ten (10) days to formally take the application under consideration in a public meeting or to tentatively decide that they will consider the application at a future public meeting.

If the City Council decides not to take the application under consideration, the decision by the Planning Commission shall become final. If the City Council does consider and act on the application, then the Planning Commission's decision shall be considered a recommendation and the decision by the City Council shall become final.

(11) Public Hearing. If the City Council chooses to consider a Special Use application, it may first schedule a public hearing, in accordance with sub-section (B)(8), above.

(12) City Council Determination. The City Council shall make a determination based on review of the application and site plan together with the findings of the Planning Commission, and the reports and recommendation from the Building Official, City Planner, City Engineer, Public Safety Officials, and other reviewing agencies. Following completion of its review, the City Council shall approve, approve with conditions, or deny a Special Use proposal in accordance with the guidelines described previously in sub-section (B)(9).

(13) Recording of Planning Commission and City Council Action. Each action taken with respect to a Special Use shall be duly recorded in the minutes of the Planning Commission or City Council, as appropriate. The minutes shall record the findings of fact relative to each Special Use proposal, the grounds for the action taken, and any conditions imposed in conjunction with approval.

(14) Effect of Approval. Upon approval, a Special Use shall be deemed a conforming use permitted in the district in which it is proposed, subject to any conditions imposed and final approval of the site plan. Such approval shall affect only the lot or portion thereof on which the proposed use is located.

(15) Application for a Building Permit. Prior to issuance of a building permit, the applicant shall submit proof of the following:

- Final approval of the Special Use application.
- Final approval of the site plan.
- Final approval of the engineering plans.
- Acquisition of all other applicable City, County, or State permits.

(16) Expiration of Special Use Approval. If construction has not commenced within twenty-four (24) months of final approval, the approval becomes null and void and a new application for Special Use shall be required. Upon written request from the applicant, a twelve (12) month extension may be granted by the body which made the final decision on the initial request, if it finds that the approved Special Use application and site plan adequately represent current conditions on and surrounding the site. The written request for extension must be received prior to the site plan expiration date or a new application for Special Use review will be required.

(17) Revocation of Special Use Approval. Approval of a Special Use proposal and site plan may be revoked by the body which made the final decision on the request if construction is not in conformance with the approved plans. In such a case, the Building Official shall ask that the Special Use proposal be placed on the agenda of the Planning Commission or City Council, as appropriate. Written notice shall be provided to the applicant at least five (5) days prior to the meeting at which the proposal will be considered. The applicant shall be given the opportunity to present information and to answer questions. The Planning Commission or City Council, as appropriate, may revoke approval if it finds that a violation exists and has not been remedied prior to the hearing.

(a) Form. The performance guarantee shall be in the form of a cash bond, irrevocable letter of credit, certified check, or similar instrument acceptable to the Building Official, which names the property owner as the obligor and the City as the obligee.

(b) Time when Required. The performance guarantee shall be submitted at the time of issuance of the permit authorizing the activity of the project. If appropriate based on the type of performance guarantee submitted, the City shall deposit the funds in an interest-bearing account in a financial institution with which the City regularly conducts business.

(c) Amount. The amount of the performance guarantee shall be sufficient to cover the estimated cost of the sidewalk installation or improvements.

(d) Return of Performance Guarantee. The entire performance guarantee shall be returned to the applicant upon satisfactory completion of the required improvements.

(e) Completion of Improvements. If required improvements are not installed or maintained within the time stipulated or in accordance with the standards set forth in this Ordinance, the City may complete the necessary improvements itself or by contract to an independent developer, and assess all costs of completing the improvements against the performance guarantee, including any interest accrued on said guarantee.

(C) Standards for Granting Special Use Approval. Cool customers Stadium attendance, hot dog sales down

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The Detroit Tigers, with the worst record in baseball, are lagging in home attendance.

And that means they're selling fewer Livonia-made Ball Park Franks.

"We've sold 505,644 Ball Park Franks" to Tiger Stadium as of Monday, said Chris Haller, brand manager for the Hygrade Food Products Co. plant in Livonia.

"That's down about 15 percent from this point in the 1988 season."

THE PLANT, on Plymouth Road west of Newburgh, makes the Ball Park Franks sold at Tiger Stadium.

"Obviously it's a function of attendance," Haller said.

Greg Shea, Tigers assistant public relations director, said attendance through 45 home dates (Sunday) is down from just over 1 million last year to 890,041 this year — about 11 percent.

BUT Carl Gylfe, vice president of marketing for the company, said slower stadium sales doesn't have much impact on overall sales.

"The volume is not excessive compared to the amount of hot dogs we make and sell nationally."

That's because the company sells more than 140 million pounds of hot dogs each year.

Hygrade makes eight hot dogs to the pound, or package, for regular customers. Ball Park Franks sold at Tiger Stadium are slightly bigger, at six to the pound.

"We sold a little over 300,000 pounds in the championship year, 1984," Gylfe said.

IF HOT dogs keep selling at the current pace, they'll sell only half that amount at Tiger Stadium in 1989.

"Obviously, this is a weird year," Gylfe said.

While ballpark sales make up only a small part of total sales, Gylfe said the company values its association with the Tigers.

Ball Park Franks have been the only vendor at Tiger Stadium since 1957.

"That's a long-distance record," Gylfe said. "I don't know of any other vendor who's been with a team that long."

Hygrade estimated that on the average, each fan attending a game eats eight-tenths of a hot dog.

While sales are greater in colder months than warmer months at the ballpark, the opposite is true of general sales during the year, company officials said.

Kaz Zojac of Detroit feeds the hot dogs into a machine that removes the wrapping.

161.166—STANDARDS AND REQUIREMENTS WITH RESPECT TO REVIEW AND APPROVAL In considering any application for approval of a Planned Development proposal, the Planning Commission and City Council shall make their determinations on the basis of standards set forth for site plan review in Section 161.020, as well as the following standards and requirements:

(A) Conformance with the Planned Development Concept. The overall design and all uses proposed in connection with a Planned Development shall be consistent with and promote the intent of the Planned Development concept as described in Section 161.161, as well as with the specific project design standards set forth herein. (B) Compatibility with Adjacent Uses. The proposed Planned Development shall set forth specifications with respect to height, setbacks, density, parking, circulation, landscaping, views, and other design and layout features which exhibit due regard for the relationship of the development to surrounding properties and the uses thereon. In determining whether this requirement has been met, consideration shall be given to the following: (1) The height, placement, and materials of construction of proposed structures. (2) The location and screening of vehicular circulation and parking areas in relation to surrounding development. (3) The location and screening of outdoor storage, outdoor activity or work areas, and mechanical equipment in relation to surrounding development. (4) The hours of operation of the proposed uses. (5) The provision of landscaping and other site amenities. (C) Public Services. The proposed Planned Development shall not exceed the capacity of existing and available public services, including but not necessarily limited to utilities, public roads, police and fire protection services, and educational services, unless the project proposal contains an acceptable plan for providing necessary services or evidence that such services shall be available by the time the Planned Development is completed. (D) Impact of Traffic. The Planned Development shall be designed to minimize the impact of traffic generated by the proposed development on surrounding uses. In determining whether this requirement has been met, consideration shall be given to the issues required in the traffic impact analysis in Section 161.165, sub-section (C). (E) Accommodations for Pedestrian Traffic. The Planned Development shall be designed with a sidewalk network to accommodate safe pedestrian circulation throughout and along the perimeter of the site, without interference from vehicular traffic. (F) Compatibility with the Master Plan. The proposed Planned Development shall be consistent with the overall objectives of the adopted Garden City Master Plan. (G) Compliance with Applicable Regulations. The proposed Planned Development shall be in compliance with all applicable Federal, state, and local laws and ordinances.

161.167—PHASING AND COMMENCEMENT OF CONSTRUCTION (A) Integrity of Each Phase. Where a project is proposed for construction in phases, the project shall be so designed that each phase, when completed, shall be capable of standing on its own in terms of the presence of services, facilities, and open space, and shall contain the necessary components to insure protection of natural resources and the health, safety and welfare of the users of the Planned Development and residents of the community. (B) Rate of Completion of Residential and Non-Residential Components. (1) Purpose. The purpose of the following provisions is to ensure that Planned Developments are constructed in an orderly manner and, further, to ensure that the Planned Development approach is not used as a means of circumventing restrictions on the location or quantity of certain types of land use. (2) General Standards. In developments which include residential and non-residential components, the phasing plan shall provide for completion of at least thirty-five percent (35%) of all proposed residential units concurrent with the first phase of any non-residential construction, completion of at least seventy-five percent (75%) of all proposed residential construction concurrent with the second phase of non-residential construction, and completion of one hundred percent (100%) of all residential construction prior to the third phase of non-residential construction. For purposes of carrying out this provision, the percentages shall be approximations as determined by the Planning Commission based on the floor area and land area allocated to each use. (3) Modifications to General Standards. Such percentages may be modified should the Planning Commission determine that the applicant has presented a reasonable assurance that the residential component of the project will be completed within the specified time period. (4) Completion of Each Phase. Each phase of the project shall be commenced within twenty-four (24) months of the schedule set forth on the approved plans. If construction is not commenced within the required time period, approval of the plan shall become null and void, subject to the provisions in Section 161.164, sub-section (15).

161.168—REVISION TO APPROVED PLANS (A) General Revisions. An approved Planned Development proposal and plan may be revised in accordance with the procedures set forth for approval of a new proposal, Section 161.164. (B) Minor Changes. Notwithstanding sub-section (A), above, minor changes may be permitted by the Planning Commission following normal site plan review procedures outlined in Section 161.020 subject to the Planning Commission finding that: (1) The proposed changes will not affect the initial basis on which initial approval was granted. (2) The proposed minor changes will not adversely affect the overall Planned Development in light of the intent and purpose of such development as stated in Section 161.161. (3) The proposed changes will not affect the character or intensity of use, the general configuration of buildings and uses on the site, vehicular or pedestrian circulation, drainage patterns, or the demand for public services. Examples of minor changes include: - additions or alteration to the landscape plan of landscape materials. - alterations to the internal parking layout of an off-street lot, provided that the total number of spaces does not change. - relocation of a trash receptacle. - an increase in floor area of less than twenty percent (20%) of the initial total floor area up to 5,000 square feet.

161.169—REVISION TO APPROVED PLANS (A) General Revisions. An approved Planned Development proposal and plan may be revised in accordance with the procedures set forth for approval of a new proposal, Section 161.164. (B) Minor Changes. Notwithstanding sub-section (A), above, minor changes may be permitted by the Planning Commission following normal site plan review procedures outlined in Section 161.020 subject to the Planning Commission finding that: (1) The proposed changes will not affect the initial basis on which initial approval was granted. (2) The proposed minor changes will not adversely affect the overall Planned Development in light of the intent and purpose of such development as stated in Section 161.161. (3) The proposed changes will not affect the character or intensity of use, the general configuration of buildings and uses on the site, vehicular or pedestrian circulation, drainage patterns, or the demand for public services. Examples of minor changes include: - additions or alteration to the landscape plan of landscape materials. - alterations to the internal parking layout of an off-street lot, provided that the total number of spaces does not change. - relocation of a trash receptacle. - an increase in floor area of less than twenty percent (20%) of the initial total floor area up to 5,000 square feet. Stop treating symptoms; start treating the disease

staff writers

AS REPRESENTATIVES of the Michigan Hospital Association and the Michigan State Medical Society, we know a few things about dealing with illness, particularly the danger of judging a disease by its symptoms.

To see how misleading such a diagnostic procedure can be, consider the Michigan Insurance Bureau's recently released report on the state of Michigan's medical liability climate three years after reform legislation.

The insurance bureau report strives to find encouraging vital signs in Michigan's medical liability system, and, to be sure, there have been changes since 1986. We've seen malpractice claims and insurance rate increases moderating in Michigan — a trend that is happening nationwide.

There are other symptoms, however, some difficult to detect, some ignored by the report. Moderating insurance rate hikes mean little since we already have the highest hospital liability rates and among the highest for physicians in the nation.

FALLING numbers of claims filed give a misleading message when the size of claims payments by the largest hospital insurer rose 40 percent during the same period.

The average indemnity payment of one of the largest physicians' insurers has steadily risen from $21,600 in 1978 to $57,000 in 1988. Also, during this same period the average cost per claim per doctor for attorney fees and other expenses rose from $700 to $10,700.

A more accurate look at the data suggests that, while the 1986 reforms treated a few of the symptoms, they did little to effect a cure.

Not only is the report overly optimistic, but, at times it is inaccurate.

Take for example, the finding that hospitals' liability premiums have dropped. In 1988, the MHA Mutual Insurance Co. (MHAMIC) changed its method of calculating insurance costs for its client hospital by moving high risk, newborn care beds into their own, more expensive category, which shifted some of the cost from general purpose beds.

The Michigan Insurance Bureau Report, however, only states that MHAMIC lowered its bed acute care rate 10 to 20 percent for 1988. But when the newborn beds are added back into the total, we find an actual increase of 11 percent.

LET'S LOOK at the facts: Currently, our state's smaller, rural hospitals pay more per bed for liability coverage than the largest hospitals in Los Angeles and Chicago.

A major nationwide insurer offers a Michigan rate more than three times the national average.

The percentage of Michigan hospital expenditures that goes to liability insurance is more than double the U.S. average. The rates for physicians are also far higher. A Detroit area obstetrician pays twice as much as fellow practitioners in other Midwest urban areas.

A general surgeon in Michigan pays $60,000 for $500,000 coverage while in California, where significant tort reform was passed 10 years ago, a general surgeon pays $30,000 for a million-dollar policy; half the premium for twice the coverage.

Increases in Michigan liability problems are finally moderating, but, given their already high levels, this offers only slight comfort.

If our liability problems are cured, why haven't insurance rates dropped to competitive levels? Don't blame the insurers. The majority of medical liability policies are written in Michigan by physician and hospital-owned insurance companies.

This began in the 1970s when many other insurance companies stopped writing new medical liability policies in Michigan. Hospital and doctors aren't going to gouge themselves. Rates stay high to keep up with claims.

ENOUGH symptoms are present to make our diagnosis clear: Michigan's medical liability crisis remains severe.

The 1986 reforms offer a good basis for the thorough, systematic changes needed to create a tort system that is just for all. Hospital and physicians are improving the liability environment by emphasizing quality assurance and risk prevention.

Our groups have also released a joint report offering an agenda of needed state initiatives. These include improved litigation and court procedures, development of fair compensation funds, a limit on lawyer's fees and further research on solving the liability problem.

Curing the ailments of our system is not just a concern for doctors, hospitals, lawyers and insurers. When doctors find it too expensive to practice in Michigan, and when high-risk or low-income areas like our inner cities and rural areas lost access to health care, every person in the state is in danger.

Our medical liability system is in poor health, and enough time has passed to know that the care given in 1986 was not enough. Isn't it time we stop treating the symptoms, and start curing the disease?

Flag burners spit on graves

To the editor:

The Supreme Court ruling regarding the right to burn the American Flag as a protected right of free speech and free expression probably touches the heart of what is happening in our courts today as the courts interpret accountability and responsibility in a free society.

This touches us all when we find that through the courts the drunk can blame someone else and get away with it; those in the state and national legislative branches whom we call "The Honorable" can steal us blind and get away with it, the crus in our society can spit and burn and desecrate all that we hold dear and get away with it. All in the name of freedom, free speech and free expression with the condiment mixtures of no accountability and no responsibility.

The highest court in the land is not above being somewhat confused. It has not come to grips yet with the fact that the First Amendment does not exist in a vacuum. That no amendment to our Constitution is an entity unto itself. That all the amendments were laced and intertwined into the strong fabric which embodied all the moral, ethical and social values which we have cherished and which fashioned the foundation of the greatest and strongest democracy ever known since the beginning of recorded human history.

To carry the ruling of the Supreme Court to its ultimate idiosyncrasy is to say that to keep a person from running a red light is imposing upon his freedom of action. To keep a person from driving on the other side of the road is to still his freedom of self expression. To quiet the loud one in a movie theater is an imposition to his basic First Amendment rights. To yell fire at a crowded gathering is the essence of a fun-filled life.

Thus, when you peer in depth to the contents of all the amendments to our Constitution you will note that alone they are meaningless but together they form the fabric which comprises the high standards of a nation to which people from every section of the globe seek entrance.

To burn without retribution this proud symbol, the American Flag, is to spit upon the graves of all those in our history who gave their lives that it may forever be the guiding light to the hopeless and the helpless throughout the world.

Magazine doesn't favor advertisers

To the editor:

In his July 6, 1989, "Auto Talk" column, your Mr. Dan McCosh made a statement about "Car and Driver" magazine that is not only unsupported, but also is absolutely unacceptable to us. He wrote:

"There are just three domestic auto companies buying magazine ads compared to (sic) 20 import automakers, which is one reason why auto enthusiast magazines traditionally favor foreign cars."

Mr. McCosh's implication that auto enthusiast magazines tailor their editorial commentary to the size of an automaker's advertising budget may be true of some magazines. It is not true of this one.

Mr. McCosh has lied in print. Whether from ignorance or malice, I don't know. Nor would I care if I did not respect your readership as much as I respect our own. We tell our readers the truth about cars. Thank you for this opportunity to tell your readers the truth about our magazine.

'Sacred flag' repulsive term

Let's keep the flag flying over the Capitol, but please, let's not let the politicians wrap themselves in it for too long, lest we lose sight of their hands and our wallets.

I have heard a lot in the last weeks about the "sacred flag." What's this? What happened to separation of church and state? To be against the "sacred flag" is to be against God? Talk about totalitarianism! Is our flag worthy of honor and respect? I say yes! But sacred? No. If you insist, then to whose God? Desecrate is an emotionally loaded, inappropriate term.

To take a symbol that, to me, is the embodiment of freedom and honor and make it a symbol of "divine-right" is as repugnant to its meaning as burning it. It's simply the other extreme.

I am reminded of the late president Theodore Roosevelt's comment that the difference between a boss and a leader is that you follow a leader freely, but you follow a boss out of fear. These days there are too many who want to boss with laws, or clubs, or fountain pens. But when was the last time a leader has inspired you?

Let's not spend a lot of national time or effort on this.

Could we all pledge our allegiance, even pick a time, say July 4, 1990, or Flag Day at noon, from "sea-to-shining sea" and do it in unison with the President? Now that would be a worthy answer to a million flag-burners. It would renew our allegiance and cost nothing except a presidential proclamation and a bit of leadership inspiration.

Then, let's continue to demonstrate leadership in freedom and tolerance, yes, even for dissent that's stupid, naive, and boorishly tasteless. We can shake our heads, walk on, and leave the flag-burners alone with their pathetic ashes.

Salt seeps into diet many ways

DON'T procrastinate when the doctor gives the ultimatum "Cut out the salt." Just stop using it. Sounds easier said than done, eh?

Reducing or even eliminating salt from our daily routine can be as traumatic for some as quitting smoking is for others. We've all heard many times that the desire for salt is a learned one and luckily, can be unlearned, but not without a major change in culinary habits.

While flying to Chicago last month to visit the National Restaurant Show, I sat next to a nutritionist who was commenting on the three-packets of salt she received with her luncheon tray consisting of a minuscule sandwich and about two tablespoons of potato salad. She commented on the three packets, served in addition to the salted peanuts and the high sodium tomato juice that accompanied her Bloody Mary.

I commented that she was beginning to sound like Euell Gibbons' daughter when she asked "How much salt do you use in one day?" I slid under the seat, somewhere between my briefcase and duffel bag, trying to pretend that I didn't hear the question. She repeated it. I sank a little further.

While the trays were being collected and I felt the landing gear being lowered, she suggested that the next time I spend a day in the kitchen, I cover everything first with a small sheet of waxed paper, then salt the dish as I would if it contained food. OK, we shook on it, I forgot about it (as usual) and went on with my life.

Until yesterday. Now you have to understand that I seldom indulge in a big breakfast, mainly because in the past I have indulged too much on other things. It was a cool morning and I decided to make a small omelette. As I added the butter (salted) to the frypan and beat the eggs, my conscience resurfaced with the remembrance of that handshake and promise. It just so happened that I would be spending a great part of the day in the kitchen so, "let's experiment" was my response to my conscience.

Out came the waxed paper and an empty small yogurt container to hold the forbidden substance. By the time breakfast was over, I tallied not only the table salt that was shook on but decided to go one step further and include the individual serving amounts from the food I ate during the course of the day.

Add another 45 milligrams of sodium from the butter.

After doing the breakfast dishes, I made a batch of muffins from the blueberries that were beginning to soften in the fridge. And while the muffins were baking, I started a batch of tabouli. Oh, oh, better get out the old calculator. Heck, it wasn't even lunch yet and I had accumulated 1/2 teaspoon, not to mention the additional 125 milligrams in the processed food I use, already totalling more than 250 milligrams, more than what the USDA recommends that most adults need in ONE DAY!

What really surprised this writer was the amount of salt that I used to use while cooking pasta, (for my tuna noodle lunch salad) and the salt contained in the tortilla chips, cheese, salsa and condiments used for my dinner "Grande Nachos." Then I made some homemade noodles and sauce for this weekend's lasagne and by the time I had my usual bowl of unsweetened cereal before bed, tallied a whopping 4,300 milligrams of salt that I alone had consumed in just ONE DAY!

This total is from someone who also uses fresh (and dried) herbs and spices and thought he used less salt, including the salt-free substitutes available on the market. By the way, the Janes Gang does not have a salt shaker on the table.

So what can the average foodie do to help decrease salt consumption at home?

MUSICAL FEASTS

Fine music, cuisine on DSO menu

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

A Midsummer Night's Feast is amid a setting of bountiful woods in an architectural wonder, complete with a royal throne from Africa and other works of art, all maintained under the benevolent gaze of a ferocious Ball mask meant to ward off evil spirits.

The event, billed as an evening of "un diner memorable" by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's League, promises a tasteful blend of fine music and fine cuisine hosted by Mary Jane and William "Bill" Bostick of Bingham Farms.

The evening is one in a series of Musical Feasts II, the League's annual fund-raising festival of dining and musical entertainment from early spring to late summer in which area League members host select guests who have paid $35 to $200 each for the memorable experience. The events for the current season are sold out.

The Bosticks will host 28 guests in their house which, according to a League teaser, is "a one-of-a-kind architectural gem," complete with collections of art, heirlooms and exotic souvenirs.

The brochure also describes Mary Jane as a lifelong gourmand.

"I WOULD RATHER say I have always enjoyed good cooking. The word gourmet is so broad," she said.

Husband Bill said he also "enjoys good cooking," the result of "being married to her."

To plan the sumptuous meal, the couple is drawing on professional experience and world travels. Mary Jane is a retired professor of food science from Wayne State University. Bill, also retired, served 30 years as administrator and secretary to the Detroit Institute of Arts, a position that required extensive travel.

They are also members of long-standing in the Michigan chapter of Le Chaine des Rotisseurs, a wine and food society first founded in France in 1248 and revived anew following World War II.

MIDSUMMER'S MENU is decidedly French, revealing the Bosticks' fondness for the country and its language. Quenelles de Fruits de Mer or seafood dumpling, Gigot d'agneau Roulade aux Epinards or boned leg

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Mary Jane Bostick displays some of the dishes planned for an upcoming Musical Feast to benefit the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Guests will dine on seafood dumpling, leg of lamb and an assortment of desserts.

of lamb, stuffed with spinach, wild rice and mushrooms, and Les Desserts Assorti are among the offerings.

The meal has been planned in detail well ahead of time. It includes hors d'oeuvres served outdoors, the quenelle served buffet style, the entree served tableside with vegetables of the season and salad, topped with a medley of desserts following a performance by the Detroit Symphony's brass trio.

The key to success, Mary Jane

Bostick said, "is early planning and organization, lots of organization."

FAVORED BOSTICK recipes hail from various sources.

Mary Jane Bostick—oftentimes "adjusts" existing recipes "because most are derivatives anyway. A stew in each country is simply a stew by another name," she said, illustrating the point: beef burgundy from France, Hungarian goulash and beef stroganoff from Russia.

The smoked salmon roll, one of a variety of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, has been adjusted from the expected roll to a fish mold. The rolled leg of lamb, traditionally seasoned according to Greek tastes, has been transformed into a roulade of garlic, rosemary, thyme and onion, the result "of my own idea because I like Greek seasoning."

Recipes also include old favorites that are tried and true. The Coffee Mousse Coronet, one of four desserts for the evening (the others are chocolate torte, lemon yogurt cheesecake and strawberry cake) is a recipe from Maximes in Paris, acquired approximately 20 years ago.

RECIPES ALSO call for last-minute improvisation. The lamb entree includes a pair of vegetables, a carrot flan and green vegetables as yet undecided.

Mary Jane Bostick offers some recipes on Page 3B

"It depends on what I find in season."

Fresh greens for the salad, with a dressing of chevre goat cheese and yogurt, will also be bought the day of the meal, unless Bill Bostick is able to sow and harvest a new crop between now and then.

"It's a sad thing, our (present) garden greens will be gone" by the scheduled date of Aug. 5.

Torte de Chocolat, a rich, creamy recipe culled from the New York Times some years back, has been redubbed for the affair to Torte de Chocolat Debussy, in honor of the 19th century Impressionist composer.

THE EVENING'S fare is formally announced in menus designed by Bill Bostwick, depicting festive scenes from woodblock prints of dining from antiquity to the early 20th century. A quote from Escoffier, "Good cuisine is the basis of true happiness," adorns each menu.

The musical theme is also carried out in floral arrangements, contributed by Parmenter Florist in Birmingham, and table decor, each named after a musical term or a great musician or composer.

Guests will be seated in the living-dining room and studio of the architecturally unusual home. The two areas flow one into the other, broken only by an open, second-story library that overlooks both the living and studio areas.

THE SYMPHONY'S brass trio will be positioned here while performing after dinner and before dessert is served.

The home, a wonder of woods, glass, textures and objets d'art, was designed and built by son Christopher Bostick.

To complement the meal, a champagne from Domaine Chandon, a white Burgundy called La Foret, a muscadet from Sevre-Et-Maine, a red Burgundy from Chateau Loudenne and a dessert chardonnay from Chateau St. Jean will be served. The spirits are compliments of Viviano Wine Importers in Royal Oak.

Home cookin' amid steel and glass

You won't find Mary Ann's Kitchen in Troy by the sign out front. There isn't one.

But if you're partial to fresh and "different" salads, homemade soups, and baked-from-scratch desserts, you'll find it. Especially if you're tired of the same old sandwiches for lunch.

The Troy breakfast-and-lunch restaurant is tucked quietly into the imposing Liberty Center ("glass wall of Troy") building at Big Beaver and Livernois. A nice little cafeteria-style restaurant reminiscent of the little cafes once familiar in downtown Detroit office buildings.

It's actually the second of Mary Ann Pereny's ventures. Her first Kitchen is two years old on Woodward south of Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills. The Bloomfield menu extends through dinner time with a limited but innovative selection of meals. Both sites offer carry-out and catering.

And both offer a sparkling clean, airy environment with an art-deco-ish black, grey and pink interiors designed by Pereny herself. Great spots for quick, refreshingly good meals.

The lunch menu is diverse enough to keep you coming back — which is probably why Mary Ann Pereny doesn't need a sign out front to keep her Troy operation bustling.

The chicken tarragon salad is our favorite. It's not your average bland mayo-and-chicken dish. This one has grapes for sweetness, celery and walnuts for crunch and tarragon for flavor. You can choose the salad ($3.25), a whole ($3.95) or half ($2.75) sandwich — or buy it by the pound $8.

Other refreshingly different salads include the potato salad nicoise, made with marinated redskins, tuna, tomatoes, green beans, olives and eggs; the shrimp seashell salad, with artichoke hearts and a wonderful dill dressing; and the pasta primavera, with fresh veges and an herb vinaigrette.

If you tire of salads, there's always a selection of specials, including a quiche. A recent special of shrimp fettuccine was a bargain at $4.25, lots of little shrimp, fresh noodles and a nice white sauce.

For those who prefer sandwiches, there is the popular "citrus honey-marinated" grilled chicken breast ($4.50) which is served on a toasted sesame bun and is accompanied by a deliciously tangy dijon mustard sauce. This sandwich is terrific, and we found the chicken to be fresh, tender and minus any unpleasant boney surprises, if you know what we mean.

Mary Ann's homemade muffins, cookies, and carrot cake are reason enough to stop in. The carrot cake is wonderfully moist and topped with a creamier-than-thou cream cheese icing, and can be purchased by the slice ($2) or the cake ($22.50). As with everything else, the desserts are free of preservatives — though not of calories.

The breakfast menu is spare, but has basic egg dishes, including "big bad wolf" omelettes in which you can choose to have egg whites only. The real breakfast treats are the baked goods, like the sinfully delicious caramel pecan rolls or the fruit muffins.

The Bloomfield restaurant switches from cafeteria to a service format at 5 p.m. The evening menu has seven entrees, including a fresh fish or seafood of the day. A popular item is Mary Ann's fried chicken ($5.95), served with macaroni and cheese and braised cabbage.

Whatever you do, don't miss out. This is one place you can return to time and again for a good, inexpensive meal — complete with friendly service and light, cheery atmosphere.

Value: Terrific and diverse menu, reasonably priced.

Recipes for a summer feast

FLAN DE CAROTTES (Carrot Pie)

- 1 1/2 lb. new carrots
- 1/2 cup cream
- 2 cups of rich pastry dough (ready made pie dough may be used)
- 1 cup butter
- 1/2 cup sugar
- salt and pepper

Using your own chilled pastry dough, line a 12-inch buttered pie pan, pressing down firmly, trimming edges and pricking in several places with a fork to avoid bubbles. Line with wax paper and spread with dried beans or uncooked rice so that crust will keep its shape. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, until golden. Remove paper and beans or rice and return to the oven for a few minutes.

Peel and wash carrots, cut into thin slices. Cook 1 1/2 cup of carrots in boiling, salted water until tender. Stew remaining slices in small amount of water containing a pinch of salt, a pinch of sugar and half the butter. When tender, the juice should be completely reduced. Make a puree by pressing stewed carrots through a strainer, adding remaining butter bit by bit. Add cream, mix thoroughly, reheat and pour puree into pastry shell. Decorate with slices of boiled carrots. Sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 20 minutes.

CORONET MOUSSE AU CAFE (Coffee Mousse Coronet)

- 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup strong cold coffee
- 1 1/2 cup strong hot coffee
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon vanilla or rum flavoring
- 1 cup broken pecans (optional)
- 1 dozen lady fingers
- 3 ounces or 1/2 package semi-sweet chocolate bits, melted
- 2 cups heavy cream

Sprinkle gelatin on cold coffee to soften. Add sugar to hot coffee, dissolve. Then add to softened gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white or honey.

Split nine or 10 lady fingers. Dip one end of each into melted chocolate. Stand chocolate side up along sides of a 9-inch spring form pan. To aid them in standing upright, fasten each to side of pan with dab of light corn syrup.

Whip chilled gelatin mixture until light and fluffy. Whip cream and fold into gelatin mixture. Add pecans and flavoring.

Pour 1/2 of mixture into mold and layer with half of the remaining plain lady fingers that are split. Add another layer, one-third of the gelatin mixture. Layer with remaining split lady fingers. Add remaining gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. Remove outer ring from spring form. Just before serving, sprinkle with a mixture of 2 teaspoons of instant coffee and 2 teaspoons sugar. Garnish with additional whipped cream. Serves 12.

MOUSSE DE SAUMON FUME (Smoked Salmon Roll)

- 1 16-ounce can salmon or 1 pound fresh salmon, boned and skinned (cold)
- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
- 1 tablespoon horseradish
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon liquid smoke
- 4 tablespoon grated onion

Gently incorporate cream cheese and salmon. Add other ingredients. Reserve lemon juice until last to adjust liquid. Roll into 1 large and 2 small rolls. Refrigerate. Before serving, roll in chopped parsley and nuts. Rolls can be frozen.

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Mary Jane Bostick, a retired professor of food service at Wayne State University, has a lifelong interest in good cooking.

Separate facts from fiction in dietary habits

Since the ancient days, people have wanted to believe that certain foods hold special curative properties and powers. At one time, it was believed that garlic would give you added strength and that eating chocolate would prolong life. Wouldn't it be great if that were the truth? No more steroids for athletes, and we'd all live forever!

More and more scientific studies show there is a relationship between the diet people consume and the incidence of the leading diseases. Take care about products with health claims when choosing a particular breakfast cereal to avoid cancer, or eating a certain oat bran to lower cholesterol; or fish-oil capsules to protect you against heart disease and on and on. Be wise enough to distinguish between popular, current hype and reality.

Oat bran therapy just may be a low cost way of lowering cholesterol levels. If you add oats to your daily diet but continue to follow a high fat, high cholesterol diet your cholesterol level will probably increase. To the degree that low fat oat products replace fatty items in a healthy diet the value increases. Oat bran is only as good as your entire dietary pattern. Eating quantities of oat muffins will add to the fiber in your diet, however it also will add lots of unwanted calories.

Having a "fiber fest" everyday by eating a high fiber breakfast cereal

Lois Thieleke

home economist, Cooperative Extension Service will prevent cancer. If it were only that simple! Increase consumption of breads, cereals, fruits, vegetables and legumes, these complex carbohydrates tend to decrease consumption of foods that contain lots of fat. Also eating complex carbohydrates automatically increases your intake of fiber. Look for the words, whole wheat or whole grain on ingredient lists for breads, and cereals.

time, gel formation leads to slower digestion and absorption rate.

Preliminary research has shown that eating two carrots a day will also lower cholesterol levels significantly. Just as with the oat products, it's the soluble fiber in carrots that is believed to be responsible for the benefits. Here again, two carrots a day is not helpful if you have eggs and croissants for breakfast, a fatty luncheon meat sandwich for lunch and fried chicken for dinner.

Chances are that by increasing fiber you'll also increase consumption of beta-carotene. Broccoli, carrots, apricots, cantaloupe, pumpkin, squash (butternut especially), sweet potatoes and spinach are all excellent sources of beta-carotene. The best way to ensure you're getting beta-carotene daily is to eat an orange or yellow colored fruit or vegetable or a dark green vegetable.

Adding fish to the diet can also be beneficial to one's health. Fish are lower in fat than foods that come from animals and they contain a wide-variety of nutrients. Inexpensive fish that contain the now famous Omega-3 fatty acids include canned mackerel, sardines and herring. Canned salmon and white meat albacore tuna are also good sources. Some studies have suggested that two fish meals a week may decrease the risk of developing heart disease. However don't binge on fish to the exclusion of other healthful foods.

While not all the answers are available of which foods may truly protect us against or contribute to the development of various kinds of diseases, there is sufficient evidence to make some personal food habit changes. Make sure you "glean" fact from fiction in balancing nutrients to maintain good health. We keep our cars in good running order but sometimes neglect the preventive maintenance that can keep our bodies running smoothly.

Shake the salt

Start the "cut out the salt" regime by removing the salt shaker from the table.

Do not put salt in the water in which vegetables, cereals, pastas and rice are cooked.

Read labels and be aware of sodium amounts in foods. Buy no-salt or sodium-reduced foods whenever possible.

Build up a supply of herbs, spices and no-sodium flavor substitutes. Use onion and garlic powders (not salts) Lawrey's No-salt 17 is a great flavor enhancer.

Make your own salad dressings and use unsalted butter and margarine when cooking.

If you are big soft drink consumer, taste the sodium-free equivalents.

Give the salt shaker (and box) to a friend for a week.

SAVORY SPAGHETTI SAUCE

- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/2 cup finely chopped carrot

- 1 teaspoon crushed oregano

- 1 teaspoon crushed basil
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 16 ounces no-salt added tomato sauce
- 1 large can, no-salt added stewed tomatoes

Saute onion and garlic in oil until onion is soft. Add carrot, celery, oregano, basil and pepper. Saute 5 minutes. Add tomato sauce and stewed tomatoes with a spoon. Simmer, uncovered, 30 minutes. Makes 1 quart.

CHICKEN PAPRIKA

- 3 pounds chicken, cut into serving pieces
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh-squeezed lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed

Place chicken pieces on a rack in a shallow baking dish. Brush lightly with oil. Sprinkle with lemon juice, paprika, pepper and tarragon. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 45-50 minutes or until chicken is tender.

Fruit, vodka blend for summer drinks

AP — From the Baja Bullet to The Hollywood, summer drinks are taking on unusual colors, shapes and flavors.

"People are always looking for new, trendy drinks, especially in the summer," said Stephen Boyd, bartender, at Bay Street in the Hamptons, a summer hot spot for New Yorkers. "There's a constant demand for bartender creativity."

This summer, bartenders are mixing fruit juices, liqueurs and liquors — with winning results.

The Baja Beach Club in Chicago is doing a booming business with the fizzy Baja Bullet. In Coconut Grove, Fla., the Who's Special? Is flavored with melon, blackberry, banana, cranberry and pineapple. From Cricket's in Boston: a vodka, raspberry- and pineapple-flavored concoction called The Hollywood.

According to industry figures, vodka accounts for more than 20 percent of the distilled spirit market and is particularly popular during the summer.

"Vodka is the fastest-growing spirit in the industry," said Edward Minning, president of Monsieur Henri Wines, importer of Stolichnaya.

Since vodka has no taste, bartenders can mix it with almost anything — even fruit-flavored gelatin. The Blue Star in New York City serves Jello Shots, made with strawberry, orange- and lime-flavored gelatin and vodka, and served in miniature paper cups.

Of course, it's not all fruit and swizzle sticks out there. Some prefer more traditional drinks.

Said Johnny Burke, bartender at Fulton Street Cafe at New York City's South Street Seaport, "Martinis are making a big comeback this summer."

Mike McSweeney of Fynn's in Boston agrees. "The trend in drinking this summer is toward the more traditional drinks. The way to go is the dry Stoli Martini. We like to call it the Sahara."

He adds, "When we're making the Stoli martini, about the closest we let the vermouth get to our Stoli is 10 feet away — on the bar shelf. This is a martini for the purist."

BAJA BULLET

¾ ounce vodka
¾ ounce almond-flavored liqueur
4 ounces 7-Up

Pour vodka and almond-flavored liqueur into a shot glass, then pour into a small glass filled with 4 ounces of 7-Up. Serve.

(Nick Huber, bartender, Baja Beach Club, Chicago)

THE HOLLYWOOD

2 ounces vodka

1 ounce raspberry-flavored liqueur
Splash of pineapple

Pour the vodka and raspberry-flavored liqueur into a shot glass. Fill the shot glass with pineapple juice. Shake with ice, strain and serve.

(Donnie Raimon, bartender, Cricket's, Boston)

WHO'S SPECIAL?

1½ ounces vodka
1½ ounces almond-flavored liqueur
1½ ounces melon-flavored liqueur
1½ ounces banana liqueur
1½ ounces blackberry liqueur

Dash of cranberry and pineapple juices

Mix all ingredients in a cup of ice to chill. Stir. Strain into shot glasses. Serve straight.

(James Cass, bartender, Who's In The Grove, Coconut Grove, Fla.)

STRAWBERRY JELLO SHOTS

¾ cup 100-proof vodka
¼ cup strawberry schnapps
1 box strawberry-flavored gelatin

Follow instructions on gelatin package, but replace 1 cup of cold water with ¾ cup vodka and ¼ cup strawberry schnapps. Place mixture in 1-ounce miniature paper soufflé cups. Place cups in refrigerator until the gelatin sets. Serve.

Make grill cleanup faster

AP — Better Homes and Gardens Magazine offers these plan ahead and grill clean-up tips to make the job faster, less messy.

BEFORE GRILLING

• Line the inside of the firebox with heavy foil. After the ashes have cooled, just pick up the foil — ashes and all — and throw away.

• Spray the cold grill rack with non-stick spray coating before grilling. Never spray coating on a hot surface.

• Use a grill basket for fish and hamburgers. That way they won't stick to the rack, making both turning and clean-up easier.

AFTER COOKING

• Cover both sides of the grill rack with wet paper towels or newspapers; let rack cool while you eat. The steam created loosens cooked-on food so it will wash right off later.

• For stubborn spots, sprinkle a damp sponge with dry baking soda and scour the grill lightly. Or scrub the grill with a scouring or abrasive-type pad, crumbled foil or a stiff grill brush.

GAS GRILLS

• After each use, turn the gas burners to HIGH. Lower the hood and let burn about 15 minutes. After cooling, simply brush charred particles from the grill rack.

• Once a year, gas grills need more thorough cleaning. To do this, remove the grill rack, briquettes and briquette rack. Then brush out the bottom of the grill.

• Read the cleaning and care directions that accompany your grill equipment before using any cleaning products or abrasives.

TRIAL AND error has taught many good outdoor cooks how many briquettes are needed for grilling. Here are some guidelines from our Test Kitchen home economists, who test recipes outdoors year round.

• As a rule of thumb, plan on 30 briquettes to grill 1 pound of meat. For instance, to grill six 4-ounce hamburgers (1½ pounds of meat), you'll need 45 briquettes. For best results, never use fewer than 30 briquettes.

• Strong winds, very cold temperatures or moist air increase the number of briquettes needed.

• If your recipe calls for more than 45 minutes cooking time, you'll need to add more briquettes. After 30 minutes, place 10-12 briquettes around the edge of the fire. When they're coated with gray ash, move to the center, using long-handled tongs.

• Store charcoal in a cool, dry place in a tightly closed bag or covered container.

Rice is nice on side

AP — Better Homes and Gardens Magazine offers this easy and tasty summer side dish. It goes well with everything from extravagant steak to budget burgers.

SPANISH-RICE SKILLET

1 cup mild salsa
1 small green pepper, coarsely chopped (about ½ cup)
½ cup hot water

1 cup quick-cooking rice
One 8-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
¾ of a 4-ounce package

In a medium skillet stir together salsa, green pepper and water. Bring to boiling. Stir in rice and drained corn. Sprinkle with cheese. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Conference races tighten up

The Spartans could boast the Metro Summer Hockey League's best record entering Tuesday's game with the Falcons at the Plymouth Ice Arena. And after two periods of play, it looked as if their lead would be extended.

But things got tough for the Spartans from that point on. First, the Falcons — who entered the game with a 3-2 mark — rallied to score five third-period goals and nip the Spartans 8-7.

Then in Thursday's game at the Wayne Ice Arena with the Bulldogs, it was the Spartans who were forced to rally in the third period to escape with an 8-7 win.

The Spartans had entered the week with a 5-1 mark. The split still left them comfortably atop the Bakes Conference with a 6-2 mark; the Lakers are second at 3-2-2, while the Bulldogs lost twice. The Wildcats occupy the basement.

IN THE EAGLE Conference, the Falcons surged into first place by following Tuesday's comeback win over the Spartans with a 12-5 thumping of the Wildcats Wednesday in Plymouth. The victories improved the Falcons' record to 5-2 and pushed them past the idle Broncos (4-2). The Huskies blasted the Bulldogs 14-5 Wednesday.

day in Plymouth to tie the Broncos at 4-2. And the Wolverines got their second win of the season, knocking off the winless Wildcats 9-7 Thursday in Wayne.

In the Falcons' win over the Spartans Tuesday, Vic Decina helped spark the third-period rally with two goals. Aaron Pietilla, who had two goals and two assists in the game, got the game-winning score with just 38 seconds left. Ron Storm and Ron Pietilla also netted goals for the Falcons in the third period.

Bonejarring hits: Is that any way to spend the summer?

AH, SUMMERTIME. Hot and lazy and relaxed. No worries, no cares, no problems. Just fun in the sun. That's how I remember summer. The rest of the year was always work, work, work. But summer ... that was vacation.

Who planted those thoughts in my mind? Summer's half gone and I'm working just like I do the rest of the year. (Really, I am.)

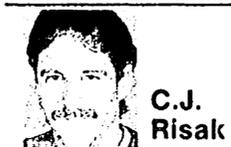

What makes us think of summer as described above is our youth, of course. In fall, winter and spring, we were forced to labor over books and learn such important things as the square root of 64 (I still know the answer to that one, ma).

But in summer we didn't have to learn anything, except how to absorb as much sun as possible, play as much baseball as possible, swim as much as possible, party as much as possible — and all on the same day. Every day.

When senior year in high school ended, it marked the end of such trouble-free times. Decisions had to be made, and none of the alternatives — go to college, go to work, or go to the army — were attractive. But in that final summer after high school, before being forced-into adulthood, there was still time to enjoy. One last time.

ENJOYMENT COMES in many forms, of course. Movies, malls, mayhem ... I can accept those as enjoyable pursuits. Sweating, straining, socking ... those I have trouble with.

And yet, 80 just-graduated athletes plan on spending 10 days of their precious last summer of total freedom in just such a manner. They are not doing it for money; they are not doing it for fame and recognition; they are not doing it because they were threatened.

C.J. Risak

They are doing it by choice. For fun.

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Eric Ruth, a 6-foot-2, 223-pounder from Livonia Stevenson who will line up with 79 others at 1:20 p.m. Saturday at Michigan State's Spartan Stadium for the ninth annual Michigan High School East-West All-Star Football Game. "This is the biggest thing in my life so far."

I know what you're thinking: This kid must not have had much of a life so far, if working his tail off for 10 days to play a meaningless football game is the highlight.

THINK AGAIN. And listen to what a few of his teammates have to say:

Eric Beatty, linebacker, Detroit Country Day: "I wouldn't miss this for anything."

Mike Ostrander, guard, Troy: "It's a chance to be one of 80 players from all over the state to be playing in this game."

Houghtby's shutout ruins Marauders' title hopes

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Every time Hines Park Lincoln Mercury met Walter's Appliance this summer on the baseball diamond, the coaches placed a gentlemen's bet on the outcome.

"(Walter's coach) Mike Keller and I play for beers," said Hines Park coach Dave Racer. "We beat him four or five times during the season, so he bought most of the time. But I told Mike tonight 'If you beat (Livonia Little) Caesars, start the tab, I'm buying.'"

David Houghtby (Livonia Stevenson) responded by pitching a three-hitter, leading Walter's to a 1-0 win over Caesars at Livonia's Ford Field.

Less than three hours later, the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League title belonged to Hines Park (22-5-1) after it edged a pesky Duffy's Plumbing team, 3-2.

Racer might have gone home broke Friday, but he didn't mind.

The win, combined with the Caesars loss gave Hines Park the first seed in the four-team LCBL playoffs that began Sunday. Hines Park met Duffy's, the fourth-place team in the first round, and defending champion Caesars, the second-place team with a 20-6-1 record, played third-place Walter's.

"WALTER'S HELPED our confidence," said pitcher Brett Loomis, who earned the save in Hines Park's title-clinching game. "We were real psyched to prove we're the best in the league, because Caesars was the reigning champion the last couple years."

The double-header action was highlighted by superb pitching, so maybe it was fitting that Loomis ended the long evening with a clutch performance on the mound.

Leading 3-2 in the top of the seventh, Racer called on Loomis after starter Bob Files walked Duffy's first two batters, Chris Mussat and Mike Kaczmarek.

Steve Michelz, the first batter to face Loomis, attempted to sacrifice bunt the runners up a base, but Loomis raced off the mound and threw out Mussat, the lead runner, leaving men on first and second with one out.

With two outs, Loomis walked cleanup hitter Mike Siwajek to load the bases, but he got Lee Tappy to end the threat, bouncing a slow grounder to shortstop on a 3-and-1 pitch.

"I WAS just happy to get the chance," said Loomis, who pitched a no-hitter against Walter's in his previous start. "It was real tense. They were trying to rattle me, but I was just trying to do my best."

"I was warming up three different times in the game, so I didn't even need to get loose before he called me in. I was waiting in the dugout."

Hines Park only picked up four hits off Duffy's starter Jason Hicks and reliever Joe Jentzer, but Hicks was his own enemy in the third when lead-off man Joel Riggs scored the go-ahead run.

Riggs, who had two hits, led off the third with a single he went to third base on a wild pick-off attempt at first base by Hicks. With one out and Chris Sisler, the LCBL's hottest hitter, at the plate, Riggs stole home, surprising a lot of people, evch Racer.

"He said 'Race, I can do it because he's going from the windup,'" Racer said. "So I said 'Pick your pitch.'" baseball

(The only thing) is we had the left-handed stick (Sisler) up, leaving the third-base line open."

DUFFY'S TOOK the game's first lead, scoring on an RBI single by Siwajek in the first. Sisler's one-out double drove in Riggs to tie the score at 1-1 in the first, and Sisler later scored in the inning on a passed ball to give Hines Park a 2-1 lead.

Four of Duffy's first five batters in the third reached base, but an RBI single by Siwajek produced the inning's only run to tie the score at 2-2. Mussat led off the inning with a single and Files walked Kaczmarek to put runners on first and second with no outs.

Files struck out Michelz and was fortunate when Kaczmarek was thrown out rounding third base for the second out after Todd Fracassi's short fly ball fell in for a hit to right field.

Siwajek followed with his RBI single, but Files got Tappy to fan to end the inning.

"I think we got enough pitching to do the job," Duffy's coach Ray Fracassi said. "We're just a very young team. We'll be all right. We have a lot of 18-year-olds, and they have a lot to learn."

IN THE day's first game, Houghtby baffled Caesars' hitters, who couldn't remember the last time they had such a rough time of it at the plate.

An RBI single by Randy Buchler which scored Joe Sturtz from second base in the second is all Houghtby needed to win his first game of the year against four losses.

"Finally," said a relieved Houghtby, when asked about the win. "I wasn't nervous until the middle of the sixth. I wanted to keep them under two runs, because whenever I pitch we don't score runs. I threw a lot of junk to their first four or five hitters. They're good fast-ball hitters, but they were getting in front of it and hitting it on the ground."

Keller wasn't counting on a shutout until "after the seventh inning was complete. I just told David to throw every pitch like it's your last. 'Don't think about seven innings, think about each batter.'"

CAESARS HAD a player reach third base in the fifth inning and again in the seventh, but both times Houghtby settled down and retired the next batter to end the rallies.

Caesars right-hander Jim Miller suffered the loss, although he allowed only four hits and fanned three. On most nights, Miller would have gone home victorious.

"We beat them up all year, and we lose at the most opportune time," Caesars coach John Morallis said. "We've had two or three games this year where we didn't hit, but I didn't think this kid (Houghtby) would shut us down. Houghtby pitched good today."

"He got his curve over; that's why we hit grounders. I can't believe we didn't get one by third base. Their third basemen (John Gotts and Eric Opalach) were playing in the whole game."

Summer is fix-up time

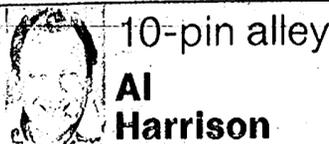

Each season takes its toll on the wood surfaces of bowling lanes.

Every ball rolled causes a little more wear and tear, which adds up to either a total resurfacing job every two or three years, or a "Screening and re-coating" in the years between refinishing jobs. All this, of course, takes place during the summer when there is much less bowling going on and the establishment can close for a few days if necessary. There are specialists who send their crews out to perform this critical task, as the lane conditions we love to bowl on depend heavily upon the skills of the refinishing companies.

The summertime, almost without exception, means fix-up, paint-up and reconditioning of the lane surfaces at the local bowling center. Some houses add new equipment and replace worn-out or out-dated items, while some, like Country Lanes in Farmington Hills have added new ceiling smoke eliminators to filter out cigarette smoke and its odor.

The importance of proper lane conditioning cannot be over-emphasized at any of the centers, and they go to considerable expense to see the job is done right. Total resurfacing is a complex process, usually done every two or three years. The first step is to remove all the old oil and residue with a strong detergent. This is followed by the first sanding steps, which involve using a "Drum" with coarse sanding to take the maple surfaces at the "heads" or first 15 feet or so down to a smooth surface.

The approaches, the first boards, the heads and the pin deck are constructed of Rock Maple and the rest of the lane is made of pine. At this point, the lanes are inspected for loose boards or fibre inserts at the dots and arrows and replacements are made as necessary. If the lanes are in bad shape, it is necessary to drill holes and inject epoxy under high pressure in order to re-seal and firm up the foundation of the wood itself. The entire lane surface is sanded with a special screen with a fine grit which smooths out the wood. This operation is done by a special machine which is driven down the lanes by an expert who is constantly monitoring the process assuring a precisely level job.

After the sanding is complete, the lanes are ready for the new finish. The most popular finish in use today is a two-coat system in which an inflammable water-based solution used to seal the base. This stays pliable so it can compensate for the changes in temperature and humidity. The second coat is applied after the first coat has again been screened. The topcoat is usually urethane, very heavy-duty stuff. It sets to an extremely hard finish and this is the critical application for your shot, as how the topcoat is applied can affect the hooking characteristics of your ball.

A second coat assures the durability to last through the season. The approaches are surfaced with a water based coating which set up hard to give you the proper slide and avoid "sticky" approaches.

All this work is performed by a three or four man crew who can do the resurfacing job in three or four days or the screen and coating in just a few hours. Bowlers might take the lanes for granted, but there is a lot of work and expense involved in getting the bowling conditions just based on points won in league competition, May and June tournaments, classroom-standings, merit awards, and for youth coaching of other youth bowlers. There are also points awarded for essays pertaining to the sport of bowling. Scholarship winners from recent action included: Novella White of Detroit in Division 2, $400; Rich Lowhorn of Belleville in Division 2; Robbie McDonald of Farmington Hills for Division 2; and 14-year-old Jeff Mendoza of Livonia with a $250 award in Division 1. Overall, the scholarship fund has given out $7,500 the first year.

On Monday, Aug. 6, there will be a state certification for youth instructors taking place at Drakeshire. This is for any bowlers who wish to teach the youngsters ages 3 and up. For further information, call Drakeshire Pro Tour next week.

The Ladies Professional Bowlers Tour will be coming to this area in August with competition taking place at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn. I will have more information in this column regarding the ladies Pro Tour next week.

Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills is the scene of the Wednesday Classic Trio League which boasts some of the highest scoring bowlers among the 40 teams. Last Wednesday, Ed Grace, Sr., rolled his first 300 game in his long and illustrious career. In this instance, Ed out-bowled his son Eddie Grace Jr., which is quite a feat itself. Also going strong at Drakeshire is the Monday Youth Classic League in which Jason Tillman shot a 255 last week, along with Dave Girolamo at 264 and Ryan Lovelace, who rolled a 246. A week earlier, the same league had Eleanor Korzec with a 696 block on games of 213-224-259, John Chouinard, a 708 on 254-259-195, while southpaw Tamika Glenn scored a 268 game in a 624 series.

Drakeshire bowlers Eric Tulley of Livonia and Eleanor Korzec of Hamtramck were selected to the first-team all-state YABA which was in the major seniors division. Drakeshire's Youth League ties in with their student athletic scholarship fund in which awards are given out at Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington, the Tuesday Nite Trio League was led by Ross Frasure with a 244 game and 637 series. Following the league, King of the Hill Eliminations saw Jim McPhail, Jr., beat out Bob Parker for the prize money of $105.

The Friday Retirees League had a new high series for the ladies as Grace Diamos scored a 514 set. In the Family Twosome League, Jason Brown set a new high for the kids with a 171 game, which was 82 pins over average. In the Wednesday Un-mixed Mixed League, Alvin Leff scored a 606 series and 222 game. The Maccabees League saw Ira Smith hit a 615-total with games-of 214 and 206.

Woodland Lanes in Livonia saw Ron Spicer score a 268 game in the Family Foursome League. In the Men's Doubles competition, Gordy DeMeh had a 718 series on a scoring block of 267-247-204, while in the Men's Trio League, bowling a four-game block, Chuck Dobrick had an 889, Pat Burger, 876, and Ken Kubit, 874.

Mike Boyle, guard, Redford St. Agatha; "This is something to be proud of. It's something I'll remember all my life."

Marc Milia, offensive tackle, Birmingham Brother Rice; "I'm excited to see the competition. I'm glad I'm doing this. It should get me ready for double-sessions at (University of) Michigan."

And last but certainly not least, Lee Krueger, defensive lineman, Redford Catholic Central; "I just wanted to come here and hit."

Uh, thanks Lee.

ACTUALLY, THERE were some good reasons given when the players were asked why give up your summer for this.

Beatty, a top prospect headed for Purdue, had visions of grandeur. "You get to see the crowd yelling and stuff, and then walking down that tunnel (to the locker rooms)

"It'll get me in better shape for Eastern (Michigan), it'll get me started for college," was Ostrander's reasoning, while Milia said, "You hear and read in the paper about these guys all during the season. Now I get a chance to see the paper on the field."

Boyle (also headed to EMU) was looking forward to the week of hard training — which includes a few days of double-sessions, in pads —

because, finally, he'd "get to hit against guys my own size."

Ruth's reasons were more personally focused because he's headed to Wayne State and Division II football. "This is the only chance I'll get to play against guys who will be playing at Michigan State and Michigan."

And the Wisconsin-bound Krueger? "I love football. And I just wanted to come here and hit."

JUST KIDDING. Krueger only mentioned hitting once. Maybe twice. Meeting, and getting the opportunity to play with and against the other top-rated players in the state, were high on all five players' lists. For many, it may be their last chance in the spotlight. Big-time college football has a way of humbling the best high school player.

But the umbilical cord that connects player with his prep days must be severed. It's time to move ahead, to discover where you fit in and what the world has to offer. The steps can be difficult and painful, but they must be taken.

Not right now, though. There's still time for summer fun — if wearing 30 pounds of equipment in 90-degree heat and attacking a bunch of other guys dressed the same way can be called fun.

Joining the six players mentioned above from the Observer & Eccentric coverage area are defensive back Dennis Edwards, from Rochester Adams; tailback Robert Johnson, from Southfield; split end Ulric King, from Southfield-Lathrup; fullback Bryant Satterlee, from Westland John Glenn; and split end Bryan Wauldron, from Farmington Harrison. All 11 will play for the East team.

Changing sports proves fortunate

By Bill Parker staff writer

What started out as a tough break turned into a lucky break for Marty Clary.

The son of Troy High School boys basketball coach Jim Clary and brother to former Troy Athens boys basketball coach Monty Clary, Marty Clary received a full scholarship to play basketball at Northwestern University after earning All-State honors in basketball during his junior and senior seasons at Clawson High School. But disaster apparently struck early in his freshman season at Northwestern when "Clary fractured a bone in his foot."

"It was a big disappointment," explained the 1980 Clawson grad. "I missed the whole first season and it put me way behind. There were two other freshman guards that year and (after falling behind) I basically played behind them for the next two years."

But Clary is a tough competitor. He knew he needed extra work to get back in top shape so he went out for the Wildcats baseball team.

"IT WAS SOMETHING to do to help me get back in shape," explained Clary. "It turned out to be my best avenue."

Clary pitched on Clawson's baseball team during his freshman, sophomore and junior seasons (he gave up his senior eligibility to sign a basketball scholarship).

"I had pretty poor seasons during my freshman and sophomore years (at Northwestern) since I had only played a little summer ball prior to that," Clary said. "But I had a pretty strong arm so they let me throw."

In his junior season, Clary compiled a 10-1 won-loss mark and earned instant notoriety. He was drafted by the Atlanta Braves of the National League as the first selection in the third round of the 1983 amateur baseball draft.

Clary has been with the Braves' minor league teams ever since and was recently called up to Atlanta from its Class AAA International League affiliate in Richmond.

"IT'S A REAL thrill. I'm really excited," said the 27-year-old right hander, after being called up to the major leagues. "Sometimes you start to wonder if it's just a dream. It's really a neat experience."

Some of the opposing batters probably wish Clary was dreaming. As of July 20, Clary was 3-0 for the Braves with an impressive 2.89 ERA. In 28 innings of work, Clary has allowed 24 hits, struck out seven and walked six. Before being called up from Richmond, Clary was 7-5 and led the AAA International League with a 2.04 ERA.

This is Clary's second glimpse of the major leagues. He was called up late in the 1987 season on Atlanta's expanded roster. He went 0-1 that time and finished with a 6.14 ERA.

"They were just giving me a look (in 1987). I had a pretty good year and it was kind of a reward," explained Clary. "I had one start and a few relief appearances. The stats are kind of deceiving. I had one bad outing (against San Francisco) and gave up all the runs, then I did pretty well in several relief appearances."

"I wasn't really in awe or shock (when I was called up) this time," Clary continued. "I think the last time I was up was a plus for me. Now, I'm a little more concentrated on what I have to do."

ALTHOUGH CLARY is certainly off to a good start with Atlanta, his future with the Braves remains uncertain.

"They've got a lot of young talent here, pitching-wise," Clary explained. "I've showed them I can pitch here, I just don't know if they have plans for me in their future with all of the young talent."

"I hope I can stay with Atlanta. They gave me my first chance and I feel comfortable with the organization," Clary added. "I think, most likely, I'll be involved in a trade. But I'll just leave that in the Lord's hands."

So, does a major league baseball player still miss the basketball court?

"Sure," said Clary. "I still miss basketball. I wonder, sometimes, if I wouldn't have gotten hurt what would have happened, but I figure God had his reasons."

Squash vet forges national rep

By Mike Rosenbaum staff writer

Squash is still a more familiar name to vegetarians than to sports fans. But for Jess Berline, squash is a competitive game of speed, finesse and strategy.

Introduced to the game approximately five years ago by his father, Jim, a longtime squash enthusiast, and friend Graham Shullman, Berline took to the sport far more quickly than most pre-teens will take to a vegetable.

Squash is similar to racquetball. It's played on a four-walled court. Players hit the ball over a tin strip on the bottom of the front wall. Like other racquet sports, the ball is allowed to bounce in the court once. Squash rackets are longer, the balls smaller and less active than those used in racquetball.

That, Berline said, makes movement and strategy more important to a squash match than raw power.

Berline enjoys the game because it is "real active," and "you've got to be fast."

people In sports

Berline became a nationally ranked junior at age 12. He was ranked again at age 14 and expects to achieve another high ranking as a 16-year-old this season, playing in the 16-and-under age group.

AS A 15-YEAR-OLD in the 15-16 division last season, Berline did not win on the junior circuit, although he placed second in a tournament in Cincinnati.

Berline did win the Michigan state men's "C" championship, becoming the youngest ever to do so. The win qualified him for the national men's Class C championships, played in Chicago. Berline was the only junior among the 32 state champs at the event.

Berline won four matches to earn a spot in the national final. In the quarterfinal, he trailed the best-of-five series, two games to none, and was down 8-1 in the third game. He came back to win the game and the match, but lost a close final, 3-1 in games of 14-15, 14-15, 15-12, 13-15.

Berline plays squash daily during the season, which runs from mid-fall until spring. He plays two or three times a week in the summer.

Berline, a sophomore, also plays on the Birmingham Seaholm junior varsity tennis team, although he says tennis does not help his squash game.

"It's supposed to make it worse," he said. "It's the exact opposite stroke."

But Berline enjoys tennis, so he'll keep playing. "I can pick up any racquet sport and not be too bad at it."

Still, squash remains his best and favorite sport.

"You've got to be real quick and you've got to keep wanting to play a lot," he said, so that the moves become automatic — reactions rather than planned movements.

BERLINE IS looking forward to his season at the top of the 15-16 age group. Beyond that his squash future is less certain. Berline will go to the U.S. squash training center next month at Princeton University, along with 20 other junior players.

Squash is "really big in college in the Ivy League," he said.

Attending an Ivy League school and playing collegiate squash is on Berline's mind. No matter what, Berline said he will play the game for life "for fun."

Berline's other possibilities, if his game continues to improve, may include the North American professional squash circuit or the Olympics. Squash will be a demonstration sport at the 1992 Games and a medal sport in 1996.

"I want to maybe be a pro at a club, a rackets pro," said Berline, who works at the Birmingham Athletic Club, stringing rackets for members.

Local fans interested in watching Berline in action can see him at the Athletic Club's annual junior tournament in January.

Falcons soar to Eagle Conference lead

The Spartans, who led 5-3 entering the final period, got two goals and an assist from Darin Young and a goal and two assists from Ed Shepler.

In Thursday's Bulldogs-Spartans game, the Bulldogs led 5-4 after two periods, but four Spartan scores got them the win. Young, who had a hat trick in the game, scored twice in the third period, including the game-winner with three minutes left that broke a 7-7 tie.

GARY SCOTT had two goals for the Spartans, one coming in the third. Mike Raymond also had a third-period goal. Shepler contributed three assists. Mark Beaufait's two goals and two assists paced the Bulldogs; Chris Slocum pitched in with two goals and an assist.

Aaron Pietila's three goals and an assist led the Falcons' 12-5 rout of the Wildcats. Dennis Ryan added two goals and an assist. Bryan Krygler topped the Wildcat effort with a goal and two assists.

The Wolverines' second victory of the season Thursday came courtesy of three players: Matt Wiljanen punched in three goals, and Chris Nickerson and Matt Peal got two goals apiece. Joe Ahmet recorded a hat trick for the Wildcats, while Mike Krygier collected a goal and three assists.

On Wednesday, the Huskies improved their record by blasting the Bulldogs 14-5, thanks to five goals and two assists from Rob McDonald.

Bill Baffy added two goals and Matt Joelson had a goal and five assists.

Scott Lock was best for the Bulldogs with a goal and three assists.

THE STANDINGS, through last Thursday: Bakes Conference — 1. Spartans, 6-2; 2. Lakes, 3-2-2; 3. Bulldogs, 2-4-1; 4. Wildcats, 0-6-1.

Eagle Conference — 1. Falcons, 5-2; 2. Broncos and Huskies, 4-2; 4. Wolverines, 2-6.

DRUMMOND ISLAND

Nature's northwoods gem

Close to Domino's Lodge, visitors can now watch the antics of Chip, Champ and Crusty, the three wild black bear cubs Tom Monaghan adopted after a poacher killed their mother near Grayling.

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

DRUMMOND ISLANDERS are smack in the middle of an identity crisis, a crisis that began in 1985 when megamillionaire Tom Monaghan bought a rundown estate on Potagannissing Bay and began rebuilding it into a 1,800-acre corporate retreat.

The retreat occupies only a tiny part of the 72,000-acre island in Lake Huron; it sits well beyond the string of resorts lining Tourist Road and the bay.

But in the notoriety that followed Monaghan's island extravaganzas — from a lavish weekend party for the well-heeled to a controversial 168-schooner called the Domino Effect to the building of special cabins for some of Michigan's top sports figures — it began to sound like the owner of the Detroit Tigers had taken over the whole island as well.

"We're Drummond Island, not Domino Island," is the new cry of beleaguered islanders who fear they are losing their 175-year-old identity to a pizza king.

Yet how do the islanders, who depend on the dollars tourists bring, fight the misinformation and misconceptions that flow in Monaghan's wake?

For example, how can they correct a story printed in June in a national publication that said Monaghan's holdings include Drummond Island, a 72,000-acre private island off Michigan's Upper Peninsula?

Monaghan neither owns the island, nor is it private. In fact, more than half of Drummond Island is spruce and cedar forest owned by the state.

And what can they say to those sportsmen who think Monaghan has changed the face of the island so much he has ruined it for hunting and fishing?

THE CURRENT flap about Monaghan's plan to dredge 40,000 cubic yards from a bay popular for its perch fishing and spawning doesn't help the islanders' cause at all.

The Drummond Island Chamber of Commerce now works overtime to soft pedal the Monaghan hype.

"The notoriety that the island has suddenly gained because of Monaghan's influence should not be misinterpreted," said chamber president Charles Krahank. "Mr. Monaghan has no great desire to change the atmosphere, nor could he undo what nature has done."

Most islanders agree that what nature has done on Drummond Island is not for everyone.

"People either hate it or love it," said Steve Gilbert, who runs Four Seasons Resort and also works as director of wildlife, land management and operations for Domino's Lodge, Monaghan's retreat. "You can walk 50 yards into the woods and get lost."

Visitors who expect the manicured stylishness of Mackinaw Island won't like it. With its abundance of road signs (4 miles to Josie's place) and its rustic, rural setting, the view does get tacky at times from the car window.

Those who like their Saturday nights wild won't like it. Bill Burton, owner of Streamline Sporting Goods, said that "bear watching at the dump at dusk" is popular any night of the week, including Saturday.

Folks who like to bounce from one tourist attraction to another won't like it. In fact, with the coming of Monaghan, the island now has its first bona fide, Irish Hills-type tourist attraction — a small zoo where Monaghan keeps the three wild black bear cubs he adopted after a poacher killed their mother near Grayling.

CLOSE TO DOMINO'S Lodge, visitors can now watch the antics of no-longer-cub-size Chip, Champ and Crusty from behind the safety of a high chain link fence.

Folks who like their activities planned and programmed won't like Drummond Island.

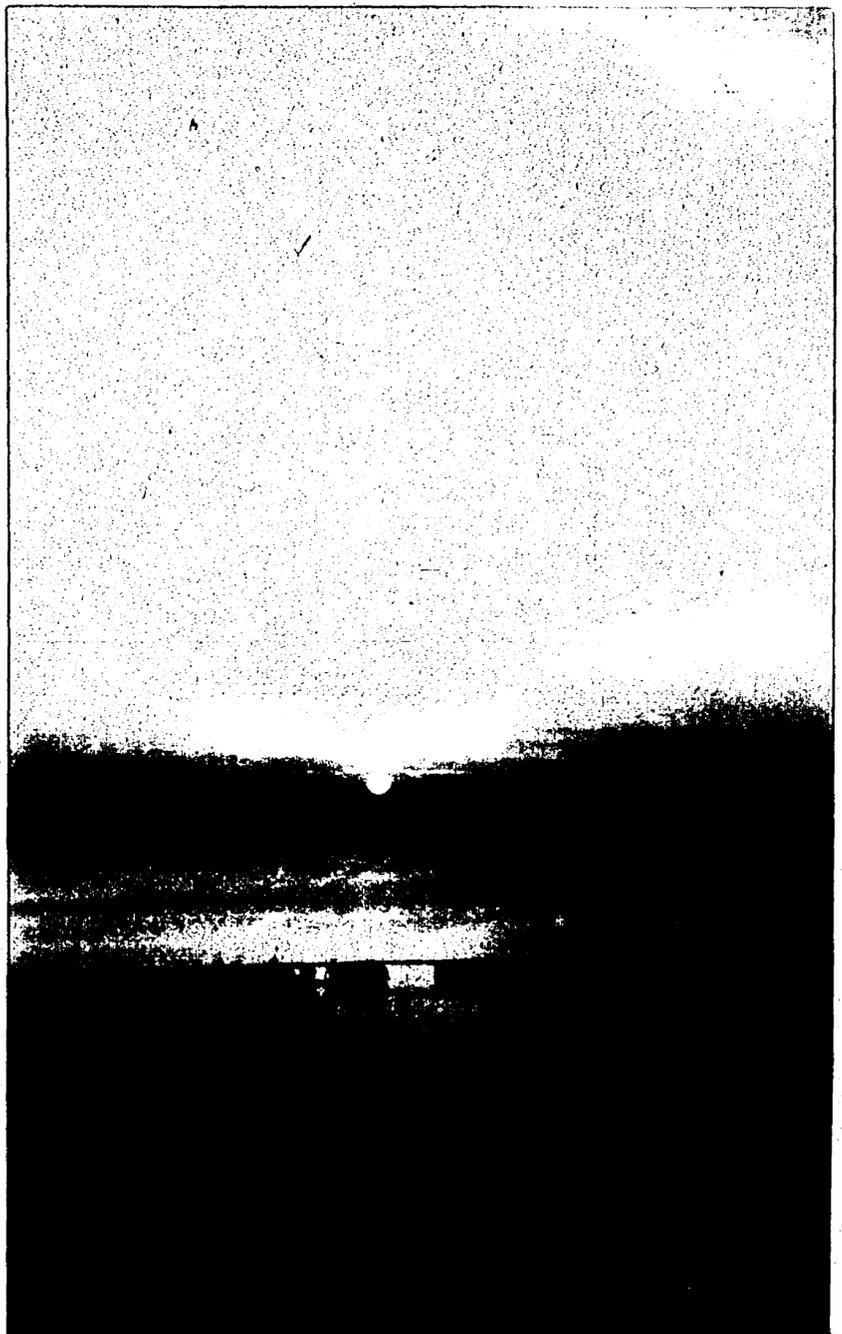

"This is a great place to come if you're into something quiet," Burton said. "People who want constant excitement would get bored here. But there's always something to do, if you like to do the things they do here."

What nature did on Drummond Island was create a northwoods and water paradise for hunting, fishing, boating, sailing, rockhounding, birdwatching, hiking, canoeing and water skiing, as well as cross-country skiing and snowmobiling in the wintertime.

The islanders have added the extras — tennis courts, bike rentals, golf, historical museum, airport, marinas, churches, medical facilities, restaurants, stores and a library.

Visitors generally rent a cabin at any one of the 20 or so small resorts that line Tourist Road and overlook Potagannissing or Sturgeon bays. A typical rate for a two-bedroom cabin or cottage for four is $230 a week. Fishing boats can be rented for an extra $50 a week. There also are campgrounds for campers.

Visitors can spend their time exploring the land and waters of an island once called "Potaganniply" by the Indians, "High Island" by the British and now called "Gem of the Huron" by those who love its forests, inlets, lakes and island-studded bays.

Visitors who generally rent cabins at any of the small resorts that line Tourist Road and overlook Potagannissing or Sturgeon bays are treated to spectacular summer sunsets.

TUCKED BETWEEN Canada's North Channel, the mouth of the St. Mary's River and the waters of Lake Huron, Drummond Island also sits in the middle of one of the busiest waterways in the world, with ships coming to and from Lake Superior.

Its high limestone cliffs, its sky blue bays, its primeval forests and the bounty of its woods and waters are so stunning that some who visit America's largest freshwater island on vacation come back to stay.

Twenty years ago, that's what happened to Tom and Ellen Mossing, who then lived in Livonia.

"Tom was exhausted, working overtime as a commercial artist," Mossing said. "We came here on vacations and loved the area. Finally, we had our fill of the hubbub of city life and moved here when our kids were 2 and 3."

The Mossings run a nine-cottage resort on Tourist Road.

"The scenery is beautiful. We have some of the most gorgeous sunsets in the world," Mossing said.

Karen Kemppainen returned to her family's roots when she moved from Southfield to Drummond Island in 1969. Both sets of her grandparents had once lived on the island.

"My mother hated it and left," she said. "But those were hard times, when this was not a resort area, but

Pleasure Island: Pleasure to visit

By Irl Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: Three of us are going to Walt Disney World in August. My girlfriend and I graduated from college this year, and my brother graduated from high school, so we're all celebrating. We've all been to the Magic Kingdom and EPCOT as kids, so we know our way around. We've heard about the new MGM Studio park. But what do we do at night. And how do we avoid the summer crush of kids?

J.S.
Westland

A: Two new attractions opened at the World this summer. Pleasure Island has seven nightclubs plus street parties, restaurants, shops and lots of music but very few young kids. There are families at Typhoon Lagoon, but not nearly as many as in the Magic Kingdom.

Both the Island and the Lagoon were open, but not finished, when I saw them this spring. They're both booming now. I filled in the gap by interviewing Chris Carradine, vice president of design development for Walt Disney Imagineering and the guy who helped design Pleasure Island. (Yes, he's the son of the famous John Carradine and the brother of the infamous Keith Carradine.)

For overall tips on the best times to go where in Walt Disney World (WDW), buy Stephen Birnbaum's official guide (under $10) at a bookstore or borrow it from a library. Hard to believe but Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday are the busiest days at WDW. Saturdays are fairly busy; Sundays, Thursdays and Fridays least busy. Hit the theme parks early, take a midday break and go back early evening when the kids are fewer.

The main tips are: Reserve for on-property meals early in the day, and tour in the opposite direction from the main crowds. For example, morning hordes get off the monorail in EPCOT and stand in line at nearby Future World pavilions. You should walk around the lagoon to World Showcase and go back to Future World in the afternoon.

MOVING PICTURES

Reiner, Crystal, Ryan make 'Harry' a winner

When he's good, he's very, very good and at his best Rob Reiner is excellent. His latest, "When Harry Met Sally . . ." (A+, R, 90 minutes), is without doubt his best, an excellent comic look at marriage and urban singles life in the '80s.

After college graduation, the open, out-spoken, earthy but pessimistic Harry (Billy Crystal) shares a Chicago-New York ride with conservative, over-organized, rigid Sally (Meg Ryan). He's so relaxed, if he didn't have style and intelligence, he'd be a slob while she clearly is the queen of fussy budgetary with a surface coating of false optimism.

An unlikely couple, true, but this saga of their lengthy courtship carefully develops those two personalities, for all their foibles, as warm, loving folks troubled by life and by the pressures of the contemporary urban scene.

Reiner directed Nora Ephron's witty and literate script with fine touch, while keeping the entire production firmly in hand. Taken with superb performances by Crystal and Ryan — plus Carrie Fisher and Bruno Kirby as their best friends — the result is a densely packed 90 minutes. There are no dull spots, no slow-moving moments, just a constantly engaging play of wit, comedy and romance, images flowing swiftly so that the film's experience is intense. There's a lot more than 90 minutes in this 90 minutes.

Reiner's episodic structure — bits and pieces of Harry and Sally's relationship spread over 12 years — are tied neatly together with vignettes of various, unrelated couples posing for golden wedding anniversary portraits while commenting on their marital experience.

IT REALLY is one of the funniest movies in a long time with Crystal and Ryan's superb performances making this Reiner-Ephron collaboration work so well. Billy Crystal is at his very best creating a specific character while doing his familiar and well-regarded routines.

Meg Ryan is in control of Sally's character all the way. It's the kind of role that could easily get out of hand and turn into a burlesqued sham. Ryan avoids that trap and underplays Sally just right. Despite her quirks, Sally is appealing, humorous and lovable. More important, Ryan holds her own and is never overwhelmed by the strength of Crystal's performance.

You guessed it, a great movie. Which is not the case with "Shag"

(F, PG, 98 minutes), an infantile, poorly-paced, boring exercise in dis-tilling the worst of "Beach Party" and "Spring Break" movies.

Scenarists Robin Swicord, Lanier Laney and Terry Sweeney, with the connivance of Director Zeldia Barron, would have us believe that there were, even among the most conservative elements of the South in 1963, four such silly, naive and cliched characters as the girls who star in "Shag." Maybe there were, but they sure aren't entertaining. Neither is this film.

Carson (Phoebe Cates), Melaina (Bridget Fonda), Pudge (Annabeth Gish) and Luanne (Page Hannah) lie to their parents about a trip to Fort Sumpter in order to sneak off to the Myrtle Beach Sun Festival for their last high school filing.

This alleged satire of social mores and talent contests is heavy-handed and totally unfunny, while the "Shag" dance contest sequences — supposedly the spark to excite audiences — are pretty lame, too.

WEAK CHOREOGRAPHY and weaker still camera work detracts by constantly cutting away from full-shots of the dancers to relatively meaningless close-ups of faces and feet. Of course, their dancing isn't all that terrific either so maybe it's just as well.

The dancing, the writing, the acting — everything in fact — is lacking vivacity, humor and entertainment.

"Scenes from the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills" (F, R, 100 minutes) is in the same class. It's also pretentious.

Paul Bartel and Mary Woronov have such a heavy-hand with satire that they are able to take clever ideas — remember "Eating Raoul" — and turn them into dull and embarrassing productions that start well and meander to tiresome conclusions.

This time they didn't start with a very clever idea and they relied heavily on crude and infantile material supposedly to comment on the idle rich on the lower west coast. All they accomplished was filming 100 minutes of embarrassingly slow-paced, ridiculous meanderings of a group of unappealing people.

The story-line has two houseboys betting that they can seduce each other's employers, the recent divorcee (Mary Woronov) and the recent widow (Jacqueline Bisset). The seductions have all the grace and appeal of baseball bats and take place on a weekend filled with various family crises, strange family members and adolescent, incredible dialogue. There may very well be people like these in the world, but let's not advertise it.

Satire should be funny and deal with important and engaging human characteristics. It also helps if it is entertaining. "Scenes from the Class Struggle . . ." is none of those.

"WARM NIGHTS on a Slow Moving Train" (B, R, 90 minutes) is about the choices we make in the face of the choices that are made for us. It's also about hope in spite of hopelessness, despair in the light of loneliness and the sexual manipulations inherent in human nature.

This Australian film features Wendy Hughes as an art teacher who becomes a weekend prostitute and is drawn into espionage and murder. The film is largely successful because of her talents. "Warm Nights . . ." offers just enough curiosity and intrigue to make a thoughtful diversion for the grown-ups this summer. Reviewed by Susan Finckham

"Wierd Al" Yankovic has a good sense of satire, particularly when it comes to the media and "UHF" (B, PG-13, 90 minutes), his first motion picture, lets television programming have it with both barrels.

There's some very funny stuff in "UHF" as George Newman (Yankovic) assumes management of Channel 62, a broken-down UHF television station on the verge of bankruptcy. It's also on the edge of town. George's innovative programming — weird is a better description — captures audience enthusiasm and a major market share.

Michael Richards is especially good as Stanley Spadowski, born to be a janitor but successful as a TV star. "UHF" starts slow, includes some gross gags and is a bit broad and farcical at times. On the whole, it's enjoyable with excellent comic routines.

STILL PLAYING:

"Batman" (C+) (PG-13) 120 minutes.

Michael Keaton is a dud in the title role but Jack Nicholson's Joker is terrific.

"Dead Poets Society" (A+) (PG) 124 minutes.

Robin Williams' sensitive portrait of a fine teacher is complimented by excellent young actors as his students.

"Do the Right Thing" (B+) (R) 120 minutes.

Sharp, incisive and entertaining commentary on today's urban America.

"Field of Dreams" (B+) (PG) 111 minutes.

Fanciful baseball story as Iowa farmer builds diamond so Shoeless Joe Jackson can play again.

"Ghostbusters II" (C-) (PG) 102 minutes.

It's less funny the second time.

"Great Balls of Fire" (C) (PG-13) 105 minutes.

Jerry Lee Lewis is energetic and entertaining but biography is hokey whitewash of a decadent life.

"Honey, I Shrank the Kids" (B+) (PG) 105 minutes.

It's fun but it ain't easy to be small.

"Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade" (B+) (PG-13) 120 minutes.

Good entertainment, but enough already.

"Karate Kid III" (D-) (PG) 105 minutes.

Boring, cliched sequel.

"Lethal Weapon II" (B+) (R) 115 minutes.

Glover and Gibson do it again in high, albeit violent, style.

If you're looking around for summer entertainment on videotape, try some of Vestron's four new tapes, available July 26. As always, it's a good news/bad news scene.

On the bright side is a delightful hour-long comedy special, first cable-cast in 1985, starring one very funny woman. "Elayne Boosler: Party of One" is a tape worth watching several times.

Although there are a few opening vignettes featuring David Letterman, Bill Cosby, Dr. Ruth, Larry "Bud" Melman and Brother Theodore, the show belongs to Boosler whose stand-up comedy fills most of this tape with laughter.

Quite frankly the "name" draws featured in those vignettes set in a nice urban design may be necessary to sell tapes, but Boosler easily sustains this hour on her own.

As Boosler covers a wide range of topics — dating, food, being single in the '80s, pets, shopping, Ronald Reagan — she draws a clever and appealing view of life in the big city. Her outspoken routines, although deserving of an R-rating, are not offensive as much night-club material is and they offer a light-hearted view of sex, the sexes and sexuality, as well as all those other urban topics.

Don't miss this fun with Elayne Boosler or, for another happy 70 minutes, try "Leo Buscaglia: Give Love." Buscaglia's offers dozens of humorous stories, inspirational messages and incisive views on how to celebrate the joy of life.

ON THE downside, however, is "The Tunnel," billed as a twist on the "Fatal Attraction" scenario. It never fails to amaze me when talented people consent to appear in boring, unpleasant films that are not at all entertaining.

Nonetheless Peter Weller ("Robocop," "Buckaroo Banzai," "Leviathan"), Jane Seymour ("Live and Let Die," the TV mini series "War and Remembrance") and the noted European actor Fernando Rey ("The French Connection I and II") are in "The Tunnel." Weller and Seymour are on screen for most of the film. It's their baby and not a very good one either.

Weller is an artist who becomes obsessed with his lover, Jane Seymour, who is married to Fernando Rey. He was first attracted to her because she was intently staring at one of his paintings in a gallery. From her intent gaze he knew she understood him. Give me a break.

A look at different worlds

By John Monaghan

Worlds apart in both content and design, China's "Red Sorghum" and the '50s musical "An American in Paris" still have some similarities. Aside from their striking use of color, both screen at area theaters this week.

"Red Sorghum" (1987), which premiered at the Detroit Film Theatre last season, begins a week-long run tonight at the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor. The epic story examines a woman's life and the plight of her native China during the Japanese invasion in the '40s.

As the film opens, a bride prepares for her arranged marriage to a rich sorghum distiller stricken with leprosy. Brilliant details highlight her red dress and the velvet sedan chair which her bearers jostle while delivering snide remarks about the sinister groom. The husband never appears on screen nor does the narrator, who we discover is the woman's grandson. The film has the mythic quality of a story handed down for generations as the woman's relationship with a man of the fields takes more than one strange turn. The second half focuses on brutal war and resistance.

Zhang Yimou directed this first feature after great acclaim as a cinematographer. His style draws comparison to Akira Kurosawa and Sergio Leone, who also knew how to use wide screen to both open up a story and close in on a character's psyche.

"RED SORGHUM" has won several awards, including the Golden Bear at the 1988 Berlin Film Festival, where it was hailed as the film that "puts Chinese cinema on the map." More than a glimpse of another culture, it's like a view into an alien world.

The world presented in Vincente Minelli's "An American in Paris" (1951) is a far cheerier one. Candy colors greet Gene Kelly when he takes up residence in the City of Lights. The film screens this Friday and Saturday at the Redford Theatre.

"I'll Build a Stairway to Heaven," "I've Got Rhythm" and "Love Is Here to Stay" just scratch the surface of George and Ira Gershwin tunes covered.

The highlight remains the 18-minute dream ballet. Here, painter Kelly searches for the woman he loves in various Paris locations, each inspired by Impressionist and Post-Impressionist canvases. The sequence reportedly took six months of rehearsal and a month to actually film, with a price tag of more than $450,000.

For MGM, it was a landmark, paving the way for other inspired musicals of the '50s. And while the film as a whole may not have deserved all the attention it received at the Academy Awards (best screenplay), it continues to charm audiences, especially on the big screen.

Band has hand in success

By Larry O'Connor

A simple equation in the music business: Simple lyrics plus idealism equals snickers from critics.

Show of Hands, a California based three-person acoustical outfit, is no exception. Their self-titled debut album on I.R.S. Records has been on the receiving end of both positive and negative reviews.

The reasons for liking the LP are many, including nice harmonies and skillful musicianship. On the other side, the rose-colored views presented on the album might be considered somewhat naive.

"I think one of the reasons it sparks cynicism is that some of the lyrics are so direct," said Randell Kirsch, whose group will perform Tuesday at The Ark in Ann Arbor. "They're easy to make fun of because they are so idealistic. Some of the reviewers said it sounded like we are trying to save the world."

"We're a band that believes anything you do changes the world."

"I think cynicism is part of the problem," added band member LuAnn Olson. "It's something to hide behind. I know because I was cynical at one time."

Oh really? There isn't a cynical syllable uttered on the Show of Hands LP. Songs directly address things like love ("Real Love"), war ("Another War") and God ("God Made the World").

Like the song titles suggest, there is no underlying message or surreal imagery. What we have here, folks, is a band that tells like it really is.

AND THAT has its pluses and minuses. Some people already know war is bad, love is good. People usually don't need a musical group to tell them as such.

Also, there is always the drawback of being automatically labelled as a political band, which Show of Chris Hickey (left), Randell Kirsch and LuAnn Olson of Show of Hands don't beat around the musical bush on their views of the world.

Hands turns a thumbs down to. They also disdain any comparisons to Peter, Paul and Mary.

Yet the musical clarity is what helps sell the package. David Kershenbaum produced "Show of Hands." He helped bring a sparse sound that didn't allow the lyrics to become echoes but actual statements.

Kershenbaum's had experience in this area before, working with Tracy Chapman on her stunning debut LP on Elektra records last year.

"I think the best thing David did was allow us to let go of it," Olson said.

That was difficult, especially since each member of the group is a songwriter. With three people with separate ideas, the normally chaotic state of recording would have been heightened. Kershenbaum provided the serenity to make it work.

Members found they do have similar world views that puts everything into focus.

And every member of the group was upset to see the footage of the recent crackdown in China. Show of Hands spent three weeks there, even performing as street musicians in Tiananmen Square.

Show of Hands went as part of a cultural exchange program, performing before crowds of 13,000 each night.

"IT BREAKS my heart," Olson said. "When we were there, they were just beginning the peaceful protests. They were going about it in such rational manner. I thought they were making great strides... and then it seems they went backward 1,000 years."

"We've been hesitant to get in touch with any friends we had made there," Kirsch said. "They're arresting anyone associated with Western culture. I did promise to write a song for someone over there. So one song will come from our experience."

Show of Hands will open for Indigo Girls at 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tuesday, July 25, at The Ark, 637 S. Main, Ann Arbor. Tickets are $12.50 in advance. For information, call 99-MUSIC.

MUSIC VIEWS

Tour sparks question: Who cares?

Here's some advice for all you rock and rollers: Skip The Who's mammoth tour, which comes to town Tuesday.

Save $25. Stay home. Watch reruns. Read Sartre. Give blood. Talk to your parents. Anything.

Let's face it, who goes to the Silverdome anymore? Nobody. Pistons fans don't. Lions fans don't. Only tractor pull devotees hang out in that inflatable cavern these days. It's just not the place to be seen. It's so big and empty. It's so '70s.

Admittedly, the Who is likely to attract enough fans to fill the place. After 25 years, the last few offering nothing but an occasional mediocre recording, The Who is still a big draw.

It doesn't hurt to fit the classic rock format. The Who, Led Zeppelin and The Rolling Stones are rock bands that no longer exist or come to life only once in awhile. But they are as popular now as they have ever been.

This sustained popularity is due in part to the classic rock format, which has breathed new life into old songs and old bands, at the expense of new music.

This Who tour is reaping big benefits from classic rock stations. Locally, the stations and advertising clients are offering plenty of ticket give-aways. The stations are giving the band plenty of airplay as well.

SOME MIGHT argue whether the band's 25th is worth celebrating. It may well be, but the band is likely to get rich celebrating regardless of the occasion's worth.

Pete Townshend, the band's songwriter/philosopher, told Rolling Stone magazine that generous Americans are going to insist on sending the band home from its tour very wealthy.

Very generous of us isn't it?

Bassist John Entwistle has sold some of his massive bass guitar collection but said it isn't because he's broke. He still has a mansion, he said.

Singer Roger Daltrey has tried acting, but without notable success.

Townshend, Daltrey and Entwistle have never enjoyed the success, commercially or financially, in solo pursuits as they have as members of the band.

The band hadn't had much success on the record charts in recent years either. When they broke up several years ago and we were told we'd never be hearing from them again.

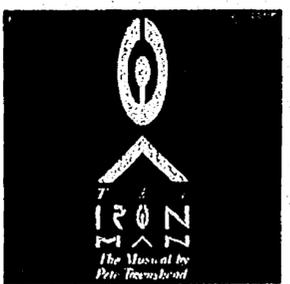

But the pressures to re-form in time to commemorate this anniversary must have been too great, and the money too tempting. They launched a stadium tour with a huge band.

This doesn't offer much for the fan. There is plenty of good rock and roll to go around in this town, but it won't be found in the Silverdome this week.

REVIEWS

THE IRON MAN — Pete Townshend

One of the best things to come out of the demise of The Who has been Pete Townshend's solo career.

Other members of the band have not exactly set the recording world on fire with their own work. Yet we've seen Mr. Townshend evolve from a guitar smashing hero of mods to one of the most thoughtful and accomplished artists of our time.

Even from the self-destructive nature presented on his second solo LP, "Empty Glass" (ATCO), Townshend has grown as he's come to grips with himself as an artist, and as a person. Pete Townshend doesn't need music (despite this out-for-the-money tour), music needs Pete Townshend.

This latest LP, "The Iron Man," (Atlantic) is certainly his most ambitious to date along the lines of "Tommy" and "Quadrophonia."

"The Iron Man" is the musical adaptation of a children's book by Poet Laureate Ted Hughes. Townshend takes on the role of the main character, "Hogarth," who is a 10-year-old boy. Other performers on the album include blues great John Lee Hooker as "The Iron Man" and Who vocalist Roger Daltrey "Hogarth's Father."

It's Daltrey who provides the most aggressive moment on the album, doing a remake of Arthur Brown's "Fire." Otherwise, this is a very musically serene album.

Part of the reason lies in that Townshend did most of the writing for "The Iron Man" on an acoustic guitar. He disdains the use of an electric one due to his well-publicized hearing loss.

This conceptual work definitely has an easy feel to it, which makes it endearing and enjoyable. No longer is Townshend compelled to write anthems or conform to the pop world.

In a children's book, he's found inner-peace and, as a result, we've found a great piece of music.

HOME — BoDeans

This is the BoDeans first LP since their 1987 release, "Outside Looking In," and a lot has happened to the band in the interim.

It shows on many levels.

BoDeans are a very hard working band and they have been touring quite extensively since 1987, which explains the large gap between LPs. The difference between this LP, "Home" (Slash Records), and "Outside Looking In" is akin to the difference in their live shows in Traxx in 1986 and Ann Arbor in 1988.

At the earlier show, the BoDeans were fresh, exciting, just good guys having a good time playing what they liked most. At the Ann Arbor show, they were sharp, "professional," impersonal, going through the motions.

The things that have happened to them have obviously affected them, sometimes not to their advantage. They toured six weeks with U2, and while that is a major step for exposure, I think guitarist Kurt Neumann (Beau BoDean), spent too many nights checking out The Edge's equipment. This is most evident on "Brand New" and "You Don't Get Much" when even the drums are U2-ish.

They also performed on the Robble Robertson LP and his influence is notable lyrically, especially on "Red River," which coincidentally was written between shows with Robertson (according to the sleeve notes). Their lyrics betray the fact that they've been touring for awhile. From "When the Love is Good" — "And I get so tired of love on the phone/I'm standing here when I should be at home." — or, as offered in "Far Far Away From My Heart" — "I'm so tired of fighting with myself, as I curse the telephone along these lines."

Musically, they range from the melancholy Springsteen-esque "No One," "Don't Get Much" and "Far Far Away From My Heart" to the sanitized good time rock'n'roll of "Good Work." The latter is dedicated to Jerry Lee Lewis and is also mentioned on the sleeve notes as having been performed in Hampton, Va., with members of U2!!! This prompts one question. Who cares?

These songs are not strong enough to overcome the "glossy" feel of the new BoDeans.

HILLBILLY MUSIC — various artists

Country music gets a bad rap, and that just ain't right.

You'll know what I mean. Just get a group of folks together, mention country music, and listen to the snickers.

So go ahead and laugh. But for every dippy country song, there's plenty that will make your spirits soar.

Merle Haggard has written some of the finest lyrics in American music, but he's dismissed as a yahoo for singing "Okie from Muskogee." In the '60s, Buck Owens assembled a hot recording and touring band, the Buckaroos, and recorded a string of great country hits, before his career languished as a co-star on TV's "Hee Haw."

The great soul and rock music of the '60s has been rediscovered in recent years, but vintage country is mostly unappreciated.

But that could change. Capitol Records has just released a 24-song compilation of its country hits from the late '40s and '50s, "Hillbilly Music... Thank God! Volume 1."

Many songs in the collection demonstrate a playfulness country music can capture like no other music. In this category are Hank Thompson's "How Cold Hearted Can You Get," "Stratosphere Boogie" by Jimmy Bryant with Speedy West, and "Live Fast, Love Hard, Die Young," by Faron Young.

The Thompson and Bryant numbers feature hot electric and steel guitar work unadorned by modern effects — a clean, fresh sound.

Other standouts include Buck Owens and Rose Maddox' duet on "Mental Cruelty," and "Flash, Crash and Thunder" by the Farmer Boys.

Three songs by the great country duet team the Louvin Brothers are included, along with Merle Travis' "Nine Pound Hammer" and "Merle's Boogie Woogie" which features more hot guitar playing.

So some will laugh and pass on this collection. Go ahead — that makes it easier for the rest of us to find it in the stores.

Feelings aren't unusual

Dear Barbara,
I have been divorced for three years. My husband wanted a divorce because he had found another woman, whom he has since married. I was replaced by someone younger who is more successful in the business world. I was a homemaker before my divorce.

Since then, I have found work but still consider my main job to be raising my children. As the cost of living goes up, I will need to work more.

The problem is that I feel envious of my husband and his new wife's ability to apparently raise their standard of living while I struggle to make ends meet.

They have recently bought a new larger house that my kids are excited about and I feel terrible about. I can't seem to find a way to work through these feelings.

The adult in me says "grow up, worry about your own life." Nevertheless, I feel left behind. That was supposed to be me in that new house. Can you offer any suggestions on how I might stop feeling such anguish?

Dear L.L.,

Your letter has pertinence for an ever growing segment of our society. I thank you for the opportunity to discuss how divorce feels to those who have been "left behind."

You ask for suggestions on how you might stop feeling "such anguish." Research shows that women, after divorce, go through a period of bereavement typical to all serious losses. So how you feel can be expected and is normal. The problem is the length of time it takes to complete the mourning process. If extended for too long, it then becomes abnormal.

From the reading I have done, I would place two years as the upper limit of normal.

Do you have family and/or friends who could serve as support systems during this painful period? Change happens to everyone and we are responsible to adapt.

Barbara

Dear Barbara,

I'm writing after reading your column for the first time. I was very impressed. It seems you are providing a very much needed forum for you readers.

I feel lost in trying to come up with a solution as to where I can find the kind of man accepting of my particular circumstances. I'm an attractive, intelligent, successfully career-oriented woman of 33 years. I've been married 10 years, now divided with two children. So what is my problem, right?

It seems many men in my age group seem to be suffering from a "Biological Clock Syndrome" more than any women I've known. I've had my children already, so the issue of babies in my future is out of the question. I would like to find someone who can appreciate this.

I have the ability because of my unique position to wait for a very, very long time to find the right companion in my life; it's just I'd rather not if it can be avoided. Do I have to keep looking for an eight plus-year spread to have common ground?

Mature Beyond My Years

Dear M.B.M.Y.,

Thank you for your kind words and interesting letter. You very clearly present the problem of your age group, even if they don't have children.

In our current culture, women of your age group are at a disadvantage. There are not enough men to go around for female "baby boomers." Many older men are dating and marrying younger women in their early 20s.

It would seem clear that maturity is not what they are looking for. In a letter that I recently received, one of the women in your age group described the search for an adequate man as a "crap shoot." She was one of the rare ones who got lucky and found what she wanted. Many others settle for safety in a marriage without getting what they want. Others are often willing to overlook an eight plus-year spread, if they find common ground otherwise.

I wish I were wise enough to tell you what to do. Fortunately, you sound mature enough to work it out for yourself.

an area of farms, where people had to scratch out a living."

Now Kemppainen and her husband, Steve, operate Lakeview Resort, also on Potagannissing Bay.

"When we bought the resort, we had no idea what we were getting into," she said. "But it turned out to be a great life."

THE ISLAND, 18 miles long and nine miles wide, has 150 miles of rugged scenic shoreline, 30 sheltered bays and coves and 34 inland lakes.

Much of its southern shore is lined with privately owned cottages. Most of the forested state-owned land is without roads and cannot be toured by car. But hikers can walk the land's rutted dirt roads — if they're not afraid of meeting up with a bear.

Last year, the Department of Natural Resources allowed bear hunting on the island for the first time since 1983.

"Thousands sought a permit," said

Burton of Stream Line Sports. "Twenty-three bears were killed."

The most hectic time on Drummond Island is "when the ice goes out" in the spring. That's when the ice melts and perch, walleye and smelt all begin their annual runs. Resort owners scurry to get their cottages ready for the hordes of fishermen who descend on Potagannissing Bay. Most of the resorts offer places to clean and freeze the fish.

Summer is taken over by sailors, boaters and tourists seeking the island's sheltered coves and quiet solitude.

In the fall, fishermen return once again for the fish runs. And hunting for deer, ruffed grouse, woodcock, rabbits, fox, coyote, bobcat, bear, geese and ducks also begins.

Most of the resorts now keep one or two cabins heated in the winter for visitors who come to cross-country ski or snowmobile. The 10-minute ferry from De Tour Village runs all winter.

GETTING OFF the ferry, visitors are reminded by the replica of a fort that Drummond Island back in the early 1800s was a British fort, the last outpost of the British Empire on U.S. soil. The island is named after Sir Gordon Drummond, a British commander.

The first permanent white settlers, the Seaman family, arrived in the 1850s. A memorial park in the old settlement of Drummond memorializes the wife in the family, Betsy Seaman.

Many islanders today can trace their roots to two of the original families, the Seamans and the Baileys.

Before Monaghan brought jobs and prosperity to the island, the chief employer on the island was a limestone quarry. Now, joblessness on the island is a memory from the past.

"Some of the smaller resorts now have a problem getting extra help during the busiest times," said Mossing.

Those planning a vacation on the island can contact the Drummond Island Chamber of Commerce, Box 206, Drummond Island, Mich. 49726, or call (906) 493-5245.

The chamber mails out a seven-page brochure, listing all the facilities and services the island offers.

a European production with portions of the sound track dubbed. There is a certain distance and awkwardness in such productions.

The main problem, however, is the script which is so badly structured that Weller and Seymour stare at one another for long periods with nothing to say. This is love? Obsession? How about bad filming?

Then, after these dull moments, with apparent embarrassment, they recite surrealistic, disconnected lines that presumably have philosophical meaning. Most of Weller and Seymour's delivery has the impact of a first reading. Rey has personality and character although he's on screen for a very short time.

VISUALLY, the film has some attractive moments but, for the most part, it is a sophistic exercise, "Symbolism 101." However he did it, Ernesto Sabato managed to adapt what is billed as his "best-selling novel" into one of the most leaden, unentertaining films available in a long time.

Another part of the problem is the gigantic VCR market. There is so much money to be made selling and renting videotapes for home use that none of the players in the video business need to worry about market acceptance. Apparently, anything and everything breaks even or makes money so anything and everything is acquired, packaged and distributed.

If you're just whistling in the dark, then "The Tunnel" may be all right. If you want some dramatic excitement and entertainment, move quickly along the shelves of your favorite video store.

"Dead Aim" is another Vestron offering this month, although I didn't have time to screen it. It's billed as an exciting detective thriller with exotic dancers, drugs, the FBI and the KGB.

It also got a name cast — Ed Marinaro, Corbin Bernsen, William Sanderson, Darrell Larson, Isaac Hayes and William Windom — but dramatic quality is not the question press agents deal with.

STREET CRACKS

Gottfried gives new meaning to zaniness

By Bob Sadler
special writer

Gilbert Gottfried is more at home on stage than he is staying in the countless hotel rooms on the road. And he certainly doesn't seem very comfortable talking to reporters.

"I give terrible interviews," he said, when reached at still another hotel before a show — this one in Tucson, Ariz. "A lot of times I'll be in a city and not see anything but the hotel and the club."

Once he hits the stage, however, you haven't seen anyone quite like Gilbert Gottfried.

Touted in some circles as the "most inventive comic since Robin Williams," Gottfried constantly comes at you from off-the-wall angles, with a variety of characters and impressions.

But if you ask him to describe his act, you'll find him at a loss for words.

"That's a tough question," Gottfried said. "I have no idea. I try not to listen to my act. It's somewhere between Pat Boone and the Hillside Strangler."

"All the bits that I do every night are things that I actually started on stage."

GOTTFRIED grew up in Brooklyn and admits that his childhood was somewhat of a blur. But basically, he was inconspicuous in life and in school.

"I always thought that the class clowns ended up as shipping clerks," he said.

While still in his teens, he started playing in the various clubs around Greenwhich Village.

"It didn't pay anything," Gottfried said. "I was there with 500 people with guitars trying to sing like Bob Dylan."

Eventually, Gottfried moved on to comedy gigs that paid, and things started to happen. His zaniness was spotted by MTV, which hired him to do a series of commercials. Most notable of these was a spot on how he helped The Who get its name.

The MTV commercials were the first real national opportunity for Gottfried, and through his success there, he landed more jobs, pitching items like O Henry! candy bars and Banquet chicken. You may have also noticed him during a very brief appearance in a VISA commercial filmed at The Improv in Los Angeles — where they don't take American Express.

In addition to his TV work, Gottfried also made an appearance in "Beverly Hills Cop II," which he considered a major break. Recently, he has done work with comedy's latest bad boy Brooklyn's Andrew "Dice" Clay, in the yet-to-be-released film "Ford Fairlane." He has also made frequent appearances on "Late Night with David Letterman."

Gottfried responds to the fame and accolades he has earned by not taking himself very seriously.

"IF I WAS doing comedy for myself, I'd probably walk out and ask the manager for my money back."

He's won the Charlie Award as Best Male Comedian in New York

three times — and doesn't care.

"I refer to it as the 'Best Comedian Who Happened to be in Town That Night Award,'" he said. "I don't place that much importance in it. It does make a good paperweight, though."

Gottfried became philosophical when discussing the state of comedy in 1989, however. With the phenomenal growth of the comedy club circuit and the number of comics fighting for breaks in the '80s, he wonders what the next decade will bring.

"I think comedy will become the McDonald's of the '90s, with all the chains of clubs," he said. "I kind of wonder if the audiences will ever get tired of it. They could be tired of me already."

"I'd like to be known as the man who killed stand-up."

Gilbert Gottfried's zaniness led to a series of commercials for MTV and more jobs, pitching items like O Henry! candy bars and Banquet chicken.

What makes Mike run?

By Brad Emons
staff writer

It started innocently and gradually became a passion for triathlete Michael Webster.

"I was into a variety of sports," recalls the 29-year-old product design engineer from Plymouth. "I was a bike racer, mediocre at best, but I tried hard. I had done some running and I knew how to swim when I was in grade school and high school. I played basketball, tennis, and was a golfer, too."

While attending the University of Illinois, Webster and his roommate decided to train for a local triathlon — a half-mile swim at an outdoor community pool, followed by a 20-mile bike ride and 10-kilometer run.

"It was in Kankakee, Illinois — the two of us trained the whole summer and had one heck of a time," he said.

Webster was hooked. By 1987 he was in triathlon heaven. With over 4,000 applicants, Webster's name was one of 1,200 drawn to compete in the Ironman Triathlon World Championship in Kona, an island in Hawaii.

THE TASK was an arduous one. Within 17 hours he would be required to complete a grueling 2.4-mile open-ocean swim, a 112-mile bike race, and a 26.2-mile marathon through the vast lava fields and sun-drenched coastline of the largest of the Hawaiian Islands.

A well-prepared Webster was up to the challenge, finishing the event in 10 hours and 24 minutes.

"He participated in a master's swim program in Ann Arbor and it really helped," said Webster's wife, Vickie, an avid runner who competed in this year's Boston Marathon. "Michael took a month off (from his job) before the race. We were dating at the time and he didn't see me much, but I was happy for him because he said the experience was fantastic. He said he enjoyed it. It never bothered him one bit."

Some may view his Ironman endeavor as masochistic, but for Webster it was like a walk in the park.

"I always dreamed of the Ironman. It was always one of my goals," he said. "I was able to get in good shape and when I got done, I felt good."

"But before that I had visions of stumbling around. There were horrible visions. I was real tired as I crossed the finish line and I was beat up."

BUT WITH THE beautiful surroundings and proper training, Webster was able to come away with an even greater yearning to compete another Ironman someday. (His name has been passed over in the lottery now for two straight years.)

"You train in relative isolation, but once you get over there (Kona), the environment is so great because there are so many people just like you. You talk to each other about training techniques and it's exciting. It's real upbeat atmosphere."

Webster's advice to any first-time triathlete is simple.

"Try not to get caught up in the competition right away," he said. "Enjoy your first triathlon. Don't try to squeeze out every last second."

"One of my goals at the Ironman was just to finish. I didn't push myself to the edge. I wasn't racing. I held back a little and stayed within my abilities."

Naturally, Webster idolizes the king of triathletes, Dave Scott of Davis, California, who completed the 1986 Ironman course in a record eight hours, 28 minutes and 37 seconds.

"HE'S THE GUY I look up to, he's truly remarkable," Webster said. "He's not only gifted and talented, but he's often an underdog who always comes from behind. And he's humble, something I think we should all strive to be."

While Webster awaits another chance to compete in Hawaii, he spends his leisure hours running with the Redford Roadrunners Club or competing in local triathlons. In April he ran his third Boston Marathon, finishing in an impressive two hours and 49 minutes.

"When I was single, I could get away with staying out until 10 p.m. training, but now it's more difficult," he said. "I have added demands to my wife and it takes away from training, but my wife is very encouraging and supportive."

Vickie Webster said she wouldn't mind another trip to Hawaii.

"He's dying to do it again, I'd be glad to go," she laughed. "It wouldn't take much to get him motivated. All he needs more time to train."

But even with the demands of his marriage, a full-time job with Ford Motor Co. and night school (Wayne State's master's program), Webster is itching for another opportunity at the Ironman.

"I FOUND MYSELF often dreaming about it," he said. "After a challenge like that, you feel you've reached the ultimate. But there's also quite a letdown. That's why my ambition is to go back and maybe go a little faster."

"The people who work the Ironman take every precaution and they make it enjoyable and safe. You come away feeling good."

Michael Webster got hooked on triathlons when he and his college roommate decided to train for a local triathlon in Kankakee, Ill.

Into the wild blue yonder

'Angel' flies way to fame

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

So you want to be Naval jet pilot, eh?

Well, like in the films "An Officer and a Gentleman" and "Top Gun," first you have to go to flight school. Nothing strenuous, mind you.

First, let's take a dip. You have to swim a mile — in 25 pounds full flight gear. But before you dry off, you have to dive off a platform and swim another 25 yards underwater wearing the same outfit.

We aren't even talking about the obstacle course or the loads of work in the classroom or trying to land a jet at night on an aircraft carrier in the middle of the ocean.

Indeed, to be jet fighter pilot, a person has to want it.

Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain did. As a result, he flies as No. 3 pilot, left wing for the prestigious Blue Angels Naval flight team.

"It's pretty similar (to the movies)," said McClain, 32, whose Blue Angels will fly this weekend at the Wayne County Air Show. "It's Hollywood, so they dramatize things a bit. But as far as the physical demands and the flight footage, it's very realistic."

Except in the movies, the ride is only two hours long. In the Blue Angels, there's some 80 shows a year with 300 days on the road. For an hour of performing in an air show, there is at least four hours of practice.

FOR THAT reason, Blue Angel pilots usually only serve two or three years on the team. This is McClain's second year, performing as a narrator last season.

As the No. 3 pilot, McClain's job is to balance the flight formation. The No. 2 pilot on the right wing sets the formation, McClain follows it.

That takes practice. McClain has had plenty.

His debut in the Blue Angels has been preceded by an honored career in the U.S. Navy. He served aboard the aircraft carrier USS Midway as a member of the VA-115 Eagles. As a member of the Eagles, he was awarded "Top Tailhooker" and "Pilot of the Year" in 1984. He was also honored with the Navy Achievement Medal for overall performance.

McClain has accumulated more

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain said Hollywood isn't offbase when it comes to being a top-notch pilot. He flies as No. 3 pilot, left wing for the prestigious Blue Angels Naval flight team.

'Each show is different. The accomplishment you feel by performing a safe and enjoyable show makes it worthwhile. . . . The only thing is you can't get too excited. It's a lot like a football player playing 60 minutes of football. Both are physically and mentally demanding.'

— Lt. Cmdr. Doug McClain

than 2,650 flight hours and 379 carrier landings. He earned the Norden Pickle Barrell Award for bombing accuracy and is a three-time nominee for the Commander, Naval Air Pacific's Landing Signal Officer of the Year.

All of which culminates a personal dream of McClain's since he was 14. His dad was a fighter pilot in the Air Force. Like father, son wanted to follow.

McClain attended the University of Colorado for two years, playing on the Buffalo's 1977 Big Eight Championship team that went to the Orange Bowl. He transferred to the University of Oklahoma, where he graduated with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

All of which helped prepare him for the rigors of basic and advanced jet training in Kingsville, Texas. He received his gold wings in 1981.

"EACH SHOW is different," McClain said. "The accomplishment you feel by performing a safe and enjoyable show makes it worthwhile. Obviously, we don't hear the fans clapping on the ground."

"The only thing is you can't get too excited. It's a lot like a football player playing 60 minutes of football. Both are physically and mentally demanding."

Before a show, members of the Blue Angels sit down to map out each detail. They can spend up to two hours debriefing after a performance.

"Each time we go out — we call it a show — but it's really a practice," he said.

The winter months are spent preparing for the upcoming air show season. The Blue Angels spend January through March, flying twice a day six times a week.

Each maneuver is carefully gauged and practiced. For that reason, the Blue Angels have performed for 43 years before more than 2 million spectators without incident. The air show disaster in West Germany last summer has brought closer scrutiny to such exhibitions.

But as McClain added, "We've never so much as harmed a hair on their head."

Usually, the heads the Blue Angels turn at air shows look upon the pilot's life as a glamorous one. But it can be grueling.

The amount of time spent away from home is difficult, especially for a guy like McClain who has a wife and three children. McClain said he lifts weights and exercises during down time.

"We're depicted as being glamorous and stuff," he said. "What people don't understand is the work that goes into each show."

The Blue Angels will perform on Saturday and Sunday, July 29-30, at the Wayne County Air Show at Willow Run Airport. Advance tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children. A portion of the proceeds benefit the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County. For information, call 482-8888.

DO THE 11 p.m. Instead of the 9 p.m. Electrical Parade at the Kingdom. Watch daytime parades from the back of the Kingdom (for example, Frontierland or Liberty Square). Get to the Disney-MGM Studios Theme Park early and go straight to the Backstage Tour while others are finding their way down Hollywood Boulevard. You won't beat the crowds but it helps.

You will probably want to spend some of your night time doing the fireworks and electrical parade at the Kingdom and the new Laser-Phonic Fantasy show at EPCOT. Spend a night in Orlando at the clubs and cafes of Church St. Station.

And definitely plan a night or two at Pleasure Island, which connects by three footbridges to the WDW Village Marketplace on the opposite side of the property from the theme parks. If you remember the Empress Lilly, a riverboat-restaurant, it anchors one end of the island.

This entertainment complex is quite different from other Disney attractions. It's designed for adults and older teens. You can eat, shop, enjoy the ongoing street parties and wandering musicians free, but a $14.95 flat fee gives you admission to any and all of the seven themed nightclubs.

You must be 21 to go to Mannequins Dance Palace. You should probably have a teen-aged escort, if you're over 21 at Videopolis East. Each place is unique — XZFR Rockin' RollerDrome, Adventurers Club, Neon Armadillo, Comedy Warehouse, and the more traditional Empress Lilly.

"It's like one big night club with seven different rooms," Carradine said. "Pleasure Island is a new form of entertainment with its roots going back before the days of sound films."

"DISNEYLAND and the Magic Kingdom were based on the movies, but Pleasure Island is based on the ideas that led to Disneyland in the first place. The whole island has the texture of a night-time arena. It's not like a cinema, it's more like a theater, only the visitors are the actors and the script changes every night."

Carradine gets really excited when he talks about designing XZFR or Mannequins, both of which are entered from the top floor.

"XZFR, pronounced zephyr, is an atrium and you follow a path, from the bar on the top, to the roller skating on the second floor to the dance floor at the bottom. The rooms get bigger as you go down, so you feel safe and in the company of friends when you get there."

In real life, the whole of the outside and the inside of the Rockin' RollerDrome is pulsating action and light. Crowds are dancing on the street. The building is an atrium, a vessel of light. The live band is in a futuristic vehicle above the dance floor. Roller skaters circle on a mezzanine above it.

Mannequins is more like a live dance theater. You listen to intercom conversations between show technicians as you ride the elevator to the third floor. From a catwalk you look down on a revolving dance floor and a crowd of real and live mannequins dancing in a world that never stands still. Sets move. Lights change; the floor turns.

If you prefer country and western, you find it across the plaza at the Neon Armadillo. Disney wouldn't be Disney, if it didn't have a little cornball, so there is an elaborate fiction to explain the island.

A FABLED sailmaking magazine, Merriweather Adam Pleasure, disappeared at sea and left all these abandoned lofts, warehouses and factories for rehabilitation by the Imagineering group a century later.

The Neon Armadillo is in "Adam Pleasure's quirky greenhouse," but you can ignore all that. Focus on the featured country bands — The Vigilantes July 30 and Aug. 6 and Southern Rail July 24-29 and July 31-Aug. 5.

The Adventurers Club, "once a retreat for Pleasure's yachting clientele," is where you join live performers on a mystery tour, following the great explorers into the unknown, or breaking off at the bar, as you wish.

Videopolis East was designed for your brother, but you will love it if you can stand 125 decibels. You walk into a huge video arcade, which is illuminated by 169 video monitors. It looks like the inside of a spacecraft, with the latest music videos and two cameras shooting images of the dancers onto some of the screens. You even dance on video monitors.

"Each of the clubs express their entertainment form by conventional means, but Videopolis East is quite different from the others," Carradine said. "It's all light. Imagine 169 30-inch monitors controlled by a computer system. Six locations have monitors that ask you to play games, difficult games, but if you win you can take over the whole club temporarily."

UNLIKE THE other clubs, Videopolis East doesn't serve alcohol. Like most of the clubs, they serve food. Other restaurants and bars are scattered around the island.

You may want to spend the next day stretched out at Typhoon Lagoon, but stay the day because its $17.50 plus tax and is not covered in your three- or four-day pass. (That covers the Magic Kingdom, EPCOT and the Disney-MGM Studios.)

Q. I work for a software company, doing direct marketing as well as many sales seminars. I enjoy my work but get frustrated when I see companies looking at specific needs, such as one new program, rather than seeing their bigger picture. They often need to learn how their departments can work together better, etc. but I'm not paid to help them in that way. What can I do?

A. In our phone conversation, we agreed that you could begin teaching team-building seminars on your own, and that joining the National Speakers Association would be an excellent way to network and learn to market yourself.

Like you, all too many people have burning messages in them, but don't know how to go about spreading their word. Others have had different goals in the backs of their heads for years, but haven't acted upon them because they don't know how to go about implementing their ideas. Perhaps they want to hire a bookkeeper, be more fashionable, make friends easier, be a better decision maker, write a book or overcome shyness. Still others suffer miserable relationships because of poor communications skills but don't know where to turn for help.

Lack of information and support is their greatest problem. People often procrastinate because locating exactly the right resource is extremely difficult. Finding the precise support needed could change your life, so don't be afraid to ask for information. People are usually wonderful about helping.

The key is to get started looking. Ask friends, relatives, business associates, consultants or college counselors. Check out associations in the reference section of the library. Look in the phone book and start calling anyone even vaguely related to what you want. If you face a blind alley, just back out and start in another direction. Don't get discouraged.

Outlays of money can also impede pet projects. It may seem that $500 or $1,000 is too much to spend for help. As you point out, look at the bigger picture. If your plan won't reimburse you either financially or emotionally, or if it will continue to bleed you, then it is too much to spend. If you are convinced your project will repay you many times over financially, change your life dramatically or give you great personal satisfaction, then it could be the best investment of your life.

You obviously have what it takes to do what you want, you just have to do what it takes to get what you want.

Condo queries Robert M. Meisner

Q. Our management company has recently gotten involved in our condo project and suggested that we terminate the contract with our landscaping contractor. The management company has suggested that we come up with someone else because he doesn't like our landscaping contractor. There are some on the board that are concerned because we are in the middle of a two or three year contract with the landscaping contractor. We just hired the management company over the last year or so and are wondering what to do. There is a difference of opinion on the board as to whether or not we can terminate the landscaping contractor. What do we do?

A. You are best advised to check out why the management company wants to terminate the landscaping contractor, particularly if you are satisfied with his work. Find out who the management company has in mind to replace it and find out whether that replacement is an affiliated company of the management company. If so, you may be getting an indication of how your management company is. Find out from your lawyer, in writing, whether or not you can even terminate your landscaping contractor before you go any further. If you are satisfied with your landscaping contractor presumably even if you're paying a little more, you are well advised to stay with him.

The management company, if it is not acting properly, may be subjecting itself to a suit by the landscaping contractor for wrongful interference with the contractual relations between the association and the landscaping contractor. In short, a personality dispute or self-aggrandizement by the management company may be leading the association into hot water. Check your legal rights.

Shredded paper good garden mulch

By Earl Aronson
special writer

weeder's guide

Earl
Aronson

OLD newspapers create a problem when they fill up landfills and clutter basements and garages. But there is a good use for old newspapers that helps bring about a more productive, weed-free garden.

A mulch of shredded newspapers conserves moisture, moderates temperatures and discourages weed growth. It can also shelter seedlings on exposed soil from sun, wind and rain. The paper generally decomposes gradually into soil-enriching humus by the end of the season.

Newspaper strips mixed with grass clippings soak up excess moisture to encourage an airy, open texture in compost piles. The high-carbon newsprint rots readily in combination with the high-nitrogen clippings, and household wastes such as fruit and vegetable peelings, egg shells, coffee grounds and tea leaves.

Newspapers generally contain 75 percent ground wood pulp and 25 percent purified fiber or cellulose. Wood pulp contains the nutrients and trace elements that were in the trees originally. Newsprint ink is made from carbon black and mineral oil and is not harmful to plants or microbial soil life. Newspapers are said to be rich in carbohydrate energy and have been successfully fed to cattle by agricultural researchers at several university experiment stations.

But researchers advise against using color newspaper inserts and magazines in gardens.

Newspaper shredders are available. One that reportedly quickly slices newspapers — up to 12 thicknesses at once — into half-inch ribbons features self-sharpening circular blades. For information, write to: The Kinsman Co., River Road, Point Pleasant, PA 18950.

NEW EMPRESS APPLE: A new apple, described as "semi-firm and snappy, with good color, texture and size," has been named Empress by Cornell University's New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

The apple, with a pedigree dating back two and a half centuries, is reported similar in appearance and some characteristics to Empire, named in 1966. However, Empress ripens a month earlier, which is "a real plus," says Dr. Roger D. Way, professor emeritus. "It means that quality New York State apples will be available to consumers well before many other varieties."

The parents of Empress are Jonamac and the New Jersey-bred Vista Bella. Jonamac is a cross of McIntosh and Jonathan.

Way said: "Unlike many varieties that produce well every other year, Empress is an annual cropper with consistently good yield. And the apple is the product of a relatively small tree, enabling growers to plant more trees per acre, thus increasing profits."

NO-TILL EVALUATION: Because of the severe 1988 drought, No-Till, a popular conservation method in which a new crop is planted in the residue of the previous crop, is facing increased evaluation.

"Farmers should not be in a hurry to abandon No-Till on its showing during the serious 1988 drought," said Wilson Scaling, chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

"In average and limited drought years," he said, "No-Till generally results in better yields than conventional tillage, and we have those conditions more often than we have extended drought conditions." He said it was too early to tell about 1989, but field reports indicate conditions "seem to vary, depending on soils, cropping patterns, time of spring planting and spotty rainfall."

Illinois reported that fields No-Tilled for several years looked better this season than did those in their first or second year of No-Till.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

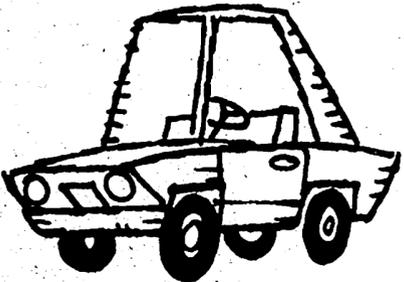

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
