JUST 'CAUSE it's rusty doesn't mean your car has to be dusty.

And it won't be if you frequent Wayne Road in the city's north end or Middlebelt in the south end.

The Westland City Council last week granted site plan approval to two new car washes.

Key West Car Wash, which will be automated, will be built on the West side of Wayne Road, just south of Ford. Attendants will dress in tropical attire to help carry out the Key West theme, said owner Owen Lintford.

Meanwhile, Five-Bay Auto Wash, a self-service operation, will be built on the west side of Middlebelt, north of Van Born.

One note of caution to wash users. Left turns out of both car washes will be prohibited.

SOME OF Detroit's top sports personalities will be in Westland Thursday, Sept. 21 at the Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church.

The "Tribute to Excellence" dinner, sponsored by the church men's club, will feature Pistons Dennis Rodman, John Salley and coach Chuck Daly; Tigers Alan Trammell, Jack Morris, Frank Tanana, Mike Henneman and coach Alex Grammas; and Detroit Lions head coach Wayne Fontes.

Radio personality Dick Purtan will serve as emcee and a celebrity auction will be held in conjunction with the dinner at the church's Hellenic Cultural Center, Joy between Wayne and Newburgh.

Cocktails are set for 6 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are a $125 donation per person. For reservations, call the church, 525-3550.

NOW'S YOUR chance to get in some extra golf while the weather's still cooperating and help out a good cause at the same time.

The Westland Police Officers Association is sponsoring its fourth annual Charity Golf Tournament Monday, Sept. 11 at the Faulkwood Shores Golf Club in Livingston County.

For a $50 entry fee you get 18 holes of scramble-style golf, a golf cart, a steak dinner, refreshments and door prizes.

For tickets or information, call Dave Rozenbaum or Derek Delacourt (7 a.m. to 3 p.m.) or Jay Deschenes (11 p.m. to 7 a.m.), 722-9600.

STATE REP. Justine Barns, D-Westland, will hold her annual Family Picnic in Central City Park 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10.

This year's bash features plenty of hot dogs, corn on the cob, refreshments, games, live entertainment and a dance contest. Admission is $5 per family and $2 for senior citizens.

DR. ALBERT Ward was honored last week by city officials.

Aug. 21 was declared Albert Ward Day in the city of Westland to recognize the chairman of the Wayne-Westland Library Board. In a proclamation praising Ward's contributions, Mayor Charles Griffin said he "has worked long and hard towards many activities that have enhanced the quality of life for so many people in the community."

In addition to his work on the Library Board, Ward has been a teacher and administrator in Wayne-Westland Community Schools and a leader in the Boy Scout program.

Livonia on MEA 'critical' list

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Teachers will meet Labor Day

A possible teachers strike looms in the Livonia school district; as teachers and administrators have yet to reach a contract settlement.

"Where we're getting to now is away from what reasonable people want," teachers union president Steve Naumcheff said last week.

Sam LaMonica, director of employee relations for the district, said: "There's been some movement," after a negotiation session on Friday. I think we've got plenty of time to do it (settle). I have to be positive."

The Livonia school district includes the northern section of Westland. In Wayne-Westland, teachers are in the middle of a contract and school begins there on Tuesday.

NEGOTIATION SESSIONS have been scheduled for today, Wednesday and Thursday.

As the two sides negotiated last week, the Michigan Education Association included the Livonia district on its list of "critical" districts — those that could experience strikes that would delay the opening of school.

But while Naumcheff said the district qualifies for designation as a critical district, he's asked the MEA to remove the district from that list.

Still, with nine days remaining before the start of classes, "We have activated a crisis committee; they're getting all the processes in place," he said, in case the union membership votes to strike.

The contract between the district and its 1,050 teachers expired Aug.

15. Following that expiration date, the union leadership urged teachers, counselors and coaches to fulfill responsibilities to the schools between now and the start of school.

A general union membership meeting is scheduled for Labor Day to discuss options, including a strike.

At that meeting, "We would like to take a tentative agreement to our membership, then Thursday or Friday (Sept. 7 or 8) hold a membership vote," Naumcheff said.

BEFORE FRIDAY'S bargaining session, Naumcheff said, "We feel the board team has slowed them (talks) to a crawl."

He added both sides were considering asking a mediator to join talks.

Among other economic concerns, teachers say they seek pay raises on a par with those being paid in other area districts.

In the Detroit region, teachers have been averaging pay raises of 6 to 8 percent, according to the Metro Bureau of School Studies.

Naumcheff said the union is disappointed that the school board negotiating team hasn't upped its initial offer of a 3 percent pay raise since talks opened in April.

Road test? Tougher driver ed proposed by state

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Students who pass Wayne-Westland Community Schools' driver's education course — which has less instruction time than state guidelines suggest and doesn't include a formal road test — are capable drivers, school officials said last week.

"I think our program is as efficient, if not more so than those that have a road test," said Bill Richardson, executive director of the Cherry Hill Adult Education Center, where the driver education program is taught each summer.

"What we do is zeroes in on competency," Richardson said. "It certifies that a kid is capable enough to drive with a parent or guardian."

A Michigan Board of Education task force last week recommended that public schools be required to implement road tests, a requirement that was dropped in 1980 to save money.

The road test requirement is part of several bills proposed by the task force that would improve driver education. Auto accidents are the leading cause of death among people 18-24, according to a new study commissioned by the educators' group.

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND driver's education program includes 22½ hours of class time and three hours of behind-the-wheel instruction, Richardson said. Students also spend 2-3 hours in a driving simulator.

Students who don't perform well can "make up" part or all of the program, Richardson said.

State guidelines call for at least 30 hours of classroom instruction and six hours on the road. But only two of three public school students receive training that meets or exceeds those guidelines, according to the task force.

Council candidates profiled for primary

By Tedd Schneider

This is the first of three articles profiling Westland mayor and city council candidates on the Sept. 12 primary ballot. Voters will select eight from a field of 13 council candidates to run for four seats and two from a field of four candidates to run for mayor. The runoff is the November general election. Responses were gained from mailed questionnaires and, in some cases, follow-up telephone interviews.

A tax abatement policy that he sees as unfair to local homeowners and overdevelopment of apartment and condominium complexes are the main reasons why Lewis Beaver is running for the Westland City Council.

"I see the (industrial) growth but business will come to this town without abatements," said Beaver, 54. "You don't have to give away the store, especially when a business isn't going to give a damn about the thousands of homeowners in this community."

Under Michigan law, Westland and other cities are allowed to offer property tax breaks of up to 12 years to manufacturing companies as a way to lure industry to their communities.

Beaver also said city officials

At 6 sites Latch-key program expanding

Parents of school-aged children in the Wayne-Westland district will have an expanded latch-key program for the new school year.

The program is being held by the Wayne-Westland Family Y.

Registration is being held now at the Y office, 827 S. Wayne Road, south of Cherry Hill, Westland, said Mary Rose Cartwright, YMCA program director.

She said the program is open to the public with registration urged as soon as possible.

Cartwright said the service is being expanded into six elementary school buildings, as opposed to being in the Y.

The six sites, all in Westland, are Elliott Elementary, 30800 Bennington, north of Palmer and east of Merrillman; Edison Elementary, Wildwood and Hunter; Schwelzer Elementary, 2801 Treadwell, just north of Glenwood, east of Newburgh; Patchin Elementary, on Newburgh north of Ford; Hamilton Elementary, 1031 S. Schuman, south of Cherry Hill and west of Venoy; and

The latch-key program, held in cooperation with the Wayne-Westland school system, is designed to provide comprehensive, supervised child care before and after the school day.

Wildwood Elementary, on the north side of Cherry Hill at Wildwood.

All kindergartners will be located at Elliott School, said Cartwright.

Parents must drop off their children at the site as early as 7 a.m. and pick them no later than 6:30 p.m.

Children enrolled at other schools may still use the program, Cartwright said, with the youngsters transported to their home elementary.

When schools are closed on a non-holiday weekday, Cartwright said, children will be cared for at the Y program center in Westland.

The director said 80 youngsters were registered in the past school year's latch key program but the Y expects a "tremendous increase" this year because of the large number of instances where both parents work or working single parents.

THE COST is $2.50 per hour for before- and after-school care with kindergarten care fee being $12 a day or $48 a week.

There is a $25 non-refundable registration fee which will be applied toward the first week's bill if the child enters the program, Cartwright said.

The program, held in cooperation with the Wayne-Westland school system, is designed to provide comprehensive, supervised child care before and after the school day.

Goals of the program, said Cartwright, are to provide a safe and

New use found for Bentley School will house adult ed

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Goodbye Bentley High School, hello Bentley Center.

That's the name bestowed on the former high school, now home for Livonia Public Schools adult education classes.

The center will serve the northern section of Westland which is in the Livonia school district.

"We're going to try and find a way to my office," said principal James Newman on a recent weekday morning, as he leads a visitor through a maze of stacked, labeled boxes filling adjoining rooms.

All summer, school employees Georgi Damaski and Russ Justice have been packing and moving materials from the former Whitman Junior High, the adult education program home for 11 years.

"There were a lot of maintenance problems" at Whitman, said Newman.

Due partly to an over-zealous use of skylights and large windows in the design of the Whitman building, "It was very hot in the summer and very cold in the winter."

The building also was notorious for ceiling leaks, continuing weeks after a rainfall.

SO LAST year, a citizens committee charged to examine future uses for Bentley and Whitman recommended moving adult education operations to Bentley, and demolishing Whitman.

Jack Kirksey, community education director, said the board in the fall may consider scheduling demolition for Whitman. "There is not any timetable."

Newman and Kirksey say that relocating adult education to Bentley has other advantages besides escaping maintenance problems.

"When I tell people we're moving to Bentley, they say, 'Oh really,'" Newman said, explaining the former high school has a certain prestige.

Also, "Many of the students in that building perceive themselves to be in a high school setting," Kirksey said. And that creates a better atmosphere for students, compared to the former junior high setting, he said.

BOTH ADD Bentley is more centrally located and easier to find, at Five Mile and Hubbard.

Whitman is on the edge of a residential neighborhood on W. Chicago at Hubbard.

"The location is a great advantage," said Newman. "We're within the range of the core of the city. Bentley will be the largest (K-12) public school center in the city of Livonia," as up to 2,000 students enroll in adult education.

During the summer, "We went to every single room and made a list of what needs to be done," Newman said, from replacing bulletin boards to fixing ceiling tiles and light fixtures.

He chose to use a former conference room as his office, last used as a principal's office by Don Friedrichs, who Newman admires.

"There's spirits here," he said, smiling.

Kirksey said some rooms on the building's second floor will remain unused when adult education begins in late September.

Space in the building also is being leased by the Michigan Heart Association, Junior Achievement and an alcohol-highway safety class.

Agency offering free classes for job training

New courses will be offered free to people who want to learn how to start their own business or become a computer-aided design technician.

Those are two of six new programs offered free to qualified people or to companies that want to train new employees, said the director of the Metropolitan Education Commission, which is offering the classes.

The commission is a public agency formed two years ago by suburban school districts to offer job training programs through their adult education departments.

Among the MEC member districts are Garden City, Wayne-Westland, Redford Union and South Redford.

John Graves, MEC executive director, said there are still many people who qualify for the programs but don't believe they can enroll for free.

The programs are funded by the state through local schools' adult education departments, Graves said.

The programs are free to those without a high school diploma, those with a diploma but under 20 years of age, or those with a high school equivalency certificate. Others may register but will be required to pay for the courses.

GRAVES STRESSED that the commission offers classes only if there is a demand for the skills taught.

In announcing the new classes Friday, Graves said he knows, through high school dropout figures and personal contacts with youngsters, that there are many people eligible for the classes.

"They don't believe that the classes are free," Graves said.

Other classes to be offered this fall are refrigeration and cooling.

office equipment repair, safe asbestos removal, and corrections.

In the CAD classes, there is a high demand for people to use computers for the designing of auto layouts, parts and detailing, Graves said.

He was told that the Buick, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet division of General Motors want to hire 300 CAD detailers immediately.

IN THE asbestos removal field, students completing the MEC course will be certified by the state. Employees are paid $10.75 an hour.

Graves said there is a need for 3,000 asbestos removal employees in Michigan.

In the corrections area, for people who want to be prison or jail guards, students who complete the courses will have their credits accepted by Schoolcraft College.

For the people who want to start their own business, MEC has gained approval from five banks to give a top priority for handling business loan applications from those who pass the course.

Those banks are National Bank of Detroit, First of America, Manufacturers National Bank, Comerica and the Warren Bank.

Graves said the business curriculum includes employee training, business planning and accounting.

Other ongoing classes offered by MEC are data entry, word processing, computerized accounting and computer programming.

The six-month programs also include job placement with classes held mornings, afternoons and evenings.

Individuals or companies interested in the new classes should contact Graves at 425-4275.

On a day-to-day basis, children will be involved in arts/crafts, recreation and games, quiet/study time, and creative activities, Cartwright said.

The Y will maintain one staff member for each 20 children.

With minimum and maximum enrollments set at each site, children will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis, said the director.

Interested parents may contact Cartwright at the Y, 721-7044.

finance, said the district program "focuses on 18 competency areas."

"Although there isn't a formal road test per se, the students are graded in these areas during their time behind the wheel," he said.

"And our written test is more stringent than the one given by the Secretary of State (required, along with a road test, to receive a Michigan driver's license)," he said.

While Svitekovich called the current Wayne-Westland program adequate, he said he agreed with a task force recommendation that would require students who pass the school course and receive permits to spend at least 30 hours practicing in the company of a parent or guardian.

The time would have to be logged by parents and the written log would be presented to the Secretary of State's office before the student took his state road test.

THE DISTRICT offers driver's training through the adult/community education program during three-week sessions each summer. Richardson said the number of students enrolled in the courses has decreased from the 1970s, when they were offered after school on a year-round basis.

"You have more kids enrolling in private, commercial courses," he said.

Requirements for commercial courses aren't as stringent, Richardson said. He said the classes are generally one week long and cost about $100.

Westland residents enjoy Boblo moonlight cruise

MORNING thunderstorms may have scared a few potential passengers away, but the 750 people who climbed aboard the Ste. Claire Tuesday night weren't about to let the weather dampen their spirits.

In fact, the conditions turned out to be just right for the city's third annual Boblo moonlight cruise. No rain clouds, lots of moonlight and a nice breeze.

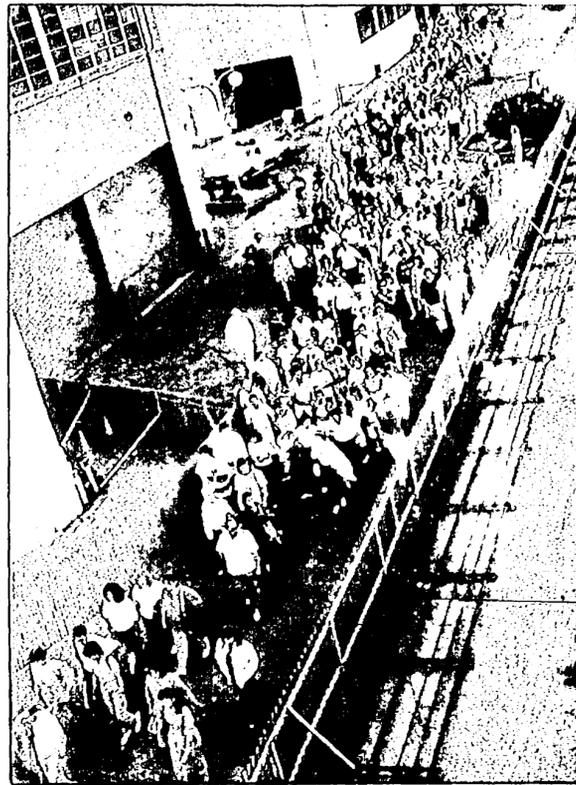

And plenty of fun. Diane Abbott, office manager for Cable Management Associates, said the crowd was "off just a little" from 1988, when 800 people made the trip. CMA organized the cruise for the city.

Tuesday's three-hour cruise offered Westland residents the chance to eat, drink, dance and enjoy the Detroit and Windsor skylines.

While Steve King and the Dittilies played '50s and '80s hits on the second deck, a disc jockey was spinning contemporary dance tunes one floor up.

There were also door prizes and a twist contest, won by Lisa Osborne.

Westland cruisers make their way along the Boblo dock before Tuesday's excursion.

Businesswoman picked for Rotary trip to Brazil

Terri Reighard Johnson, a businesswoman and Wayne-Westland school board vice president, will spend four weeks in Brazil next week as part of a Rotary International group study program.

Johnson is one of four women from southeast Michigan and southwest Ontario picked from 35 candidates interviewed by Rotary District 640 officials.

During the month-long stay, Johnson and the other three women will spend their time talking to persons in the same business or profession and living with Brazilian families.

Johnson, 31, is leasing and rental manager for Idealease of Farmington, handling heavy duty trucks' leases, rentals, and sales. She has been in that position for six years.

In her application, Johnson said she is only one of five women managers in that field in the country.

Two years ago, Johnson was named one of the outstanding young women in Michigan and earlier this year won a volunteer award from the First Step organization, a private, non-profit group which provides shelter and counseling services for abused women and their children.

The program is designed for women between 25 and 35 and who represent a cross-section of professions and businesses.

A GRADUATE of Western Michigan University with a business administration degree, she is a member of the Truck Rental Association of America and the Michigan Association of Improved School Legislation, a school lobbying group.

Thomas Svitkoyich, Westland Rotary Club president, said the basic purpose of the group study exchange is to promote better understanding and friendly relations of persons from different countries.

The program provides grants for travel and living expenses for eligible business and professional women, enabling them to study the institutions and cultures of their hosts and to develop personal contacts.

The program is designed for women between 25 and 35 and who represent a cross-section of professions and businesses.

A team of Brazilians is scheduled to visit Westland and nearby communities in September.

In next spring's trip to Brazil, Johnson will be accompanied by a tax manager, computer programmer/analyst, and a speech pathologist.

cop calls

POLICE arrested a 33-year-old Canton Township woman for armed robbery Tuesday after she allegedly held up a K mart pharmacy with a toy gun to get perscription drugs.

The woman came into the store at 165 S. Wayne Road at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday and asked a pharmacist about cough syrup, police said. While she was talking to him, she reached into her purse and pulled out what looked like a white and silver pistol, the pharmacist told police.

She demanded that the pharmacist give her all the percocet on hand, police said.

The pharmacist told police she left the store with three bottles containing approximately 100 tablets each. The generic pills were valued at less than $30 by the pharmacist.

When police arrived at the store, witnesses said a woman matching the culprit's description had walked into the Hardee's restaurant down the street.

Officers arrested the woman inside the restaurant.

Police searched her purse and found the pills and a plastic gun.

A JULIUS Street resident told police that two men assaulted him and stole his wallet early Wednesday as he was walking southbound on Middlebelt, near Annapolis.

The victim, 28, said he was walking home about 3 a.m. when the men approached, one on foot and the other on a 10-speed bicycle. One man punched him while the other grabbed his wallet, the victim said. The two then fled.

The victim said he searched the neighborhood for his assailants, eventually finding them on a nearby street. They exchanged threats before one of the men pulled a gun and the victim left, police said.

A RESIDENT on the 36500 block of Joy told police someone broke into his house Tuesday and stole a stereo set and a portable radio/cassette player.

The stolen merchandise was valued at $425 by the resident.

The break-in occurred between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., police said.

The burglar entered the house by prying open a screen on a partially-opened bathroom window, police said.

Wages, part-timers — key issues in S'craft talks

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Negotiations continue between Schoolcraft College representatives and clerical workers who have worked since July 1 without a contract.

Major issues include the use of non-union labor, wages, probation period and length of contract.

"Quite frankly, we can't seem to agree on anything," said Belinda Elson, new president of the Schoolcraft Clerical Association that is represented by the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

Betty Gilbert, Schoolcraft's director of labor relations, insists "things are going along relatively well, in view of when we started negotiations."

Since April, negotiators have met 15 times. Despite rumors of work slowdowns, union officials said members continue to perform their jobs. No strike vote has been taken by the membership.

Negotiations are also under way for custodians and maintenance workers whose contract expired June 30. Food workers, whose contract had also expired June 30, settled last week for salary increases of up to 5.7 percent each of the next three years.

Of primary concern to union employees is Schoolcraft's increasing use of non-union labor, part-time employees whose hourly wages are sometimes higher than those of full-time union workers, and a sharp increase in the use of "classified" employees who are non-union.

"THE MAJOR issue is the college's direction toward a part-time, non-union work force," said Bob Thomas, MEA negotiator for clerical and custodial employees.

Presently, Schoolcraft employs 53 full-time clerical workers who are members of the union. Thomas estimated that some 16 part-time workers are non-union, however, college officials were unavailable to confirm his figure.

Another 55 non-union positions are designated as classified — computer and lab technicians — whose duties, union officials argue, are primarily clerical in nature.

The claim is "a sham," according to Conway Jeffress, vice president of instruction at Schoolcraft. "It's not true that we are replacing union jobs with non-union jobs. We are extending our use of technical classified personnel who do not fall into any of the union categories."

Custodians and maintenance personnel also perceive the use of non-union labor "a real trouble spot," according to David Stabley, president of the school's Support Personnel Association that has 39 members. Only one person in the department is employed part-time and is not a member of the union. Several others are on-call.

"THERE HAS BEEN a significant reduction the past eight years in full time positions among union groups on campus, among instructors, clerical people and food workers," Stabley said, adding that the number of classified employees during the same period of time has doubled.

Stabley is also concerned about the college's Absence Control Program, in which employees may be terminated after missing 16 days of work in one year. While there are exceptions to dismissal, verified illness by a physician is "not automatically one of them."

Other issues of concern to clerical workers include length of contract, wages and probationary periods. Clerical workers presently earn weekly salaries of $275 to $424, with $361 the average salary.

College negotiators have offered a one-year contract and a 3 percent annual salary increase, according to Thomas, who said both offers are "totally inadequate." Thomas' offer of an extended probation period of 60 working days has been rejected as "not long enough," he added.

"Negotiations are not going well at all and I'll tell you, people are pretty frustrated," Thomas said.

Gilbert, negotiating for the college, declined comment on specific issues. "We're not negotiating through the newspaper," she said.

Elson, too, is frustrated.

"WE PLAN TO EXHAUST" all resources in trying to resolve this matter in a friendly manner but we're just not getting anywhere.

"The stumbling block is apparent-ly money," she said.

Schoolcraft's current economic position is "comfortable," according to Butch Raby, vice president of business services. Fall enrollment is up by some 10 percent and tuition fees have been increased, from $32 to $33.50 per credit unit for residents and $45 to $47 for non-residents.

"Between a tuition increase of 4 percent, an enrollment increase budgeted at 2 percent, property taxes that are up 6.5 percent in actual dollars and a 4 percent increase in state aid, we are meeting inflation of 5.5 to 6 percent," Raby said.

But economics is only one facet of the issue, according to Jeffress.

"Part of the problem is maintaining a sense of equity, making settlements as even as possible.

"Faculty settlements wag everything. They constitute the maximum settlement and set standards for everyone else. But the union looks at it as the place to start, not the top. They want that much as a given and more (for other labor groups).

"That's where the gnashing of teeth comes from."

Registration for the fall semester continues. Classes begin Thursday at Schoolcraft.

Commission postpones landing fees for small planes

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Responding to opposition voiced by the operators of small aircraft, Wayne County commissioners tabled a recommendation calling for landing fees at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Members of the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services unanimously voted Thursday to postpone action until more information is available.

Commissioner Susan Heintz, a member of the committee whose district includes Livonia, opposed the recommendation. "I want the record to show I oppose landing fees."

Under a proposed schedule, aircraft operators would be charged fees of $7 to $169 for each landing at Metro, depending upon weight of the aircraft. Most of those expressing opposition at Thursday's meeting operate aircraft subject to fees of $7.

"This is a thinly veiled attempt to eradicate general aviation from Metro," said Larry White of Canton, president of the Mang Aero Club whose members rely on Metro to gas their planes.

Bill Bottle of Farmington Hills, chairman of the Tenant Association of Metropolitan Airport, said landing fees were a way of forcing small aircraft owners into paying for airport expansion.

"LIGHT AIRCRAFT doesn't need 10 to 12,000 foot runways or new terminals. The scheduled airlines need them. So let them pay for it," Bottle said.

White maintains small aircraft operators already "pay their fair share" by purchasing gasoline from a self-service pump at Metro. Four cents of each gallon sold goes to Wayne County.

In June, 5,642 gallons were sold and in July, another 4,355 gallons. Many members purchase an estimated 1,000 gallons monthly, according to White, who said an additional 1 cent charge on each gallon of gasoline that is sold would generate enough additional income for the county.

The issue of landing fees first arose two years ago, according to Wayne County Commission clerk Al Montgomery, who told members of the roads and airport committee that scheduled airlines at Metro asked he investigate use fees paid by others.

"When we looked at general aviation, we found many small aircraft operators are not purchasing their fuel at Metro. They are not contributing their fair share," Montgomery said.

Under the current proposal, operators who do purchase gas at Metro would receive credit towards landing fees.

ITEM 20 of a Commission Action Plan for Metro Airport calls for relocating a portion of general aviation traffic. The report said the goal is "achievable," something that should "start in the near term and continue."

Landing fees will certainly result in "relocation," according to White, citing the experience at Lambert International Airport in St. Louis. Landing fees of $7.50 each were recently initiated. "There is (now) only one general aircraft located on this field, a Cessna 172 with one private owner."

Most airports of similar capacity to Detroit Metro, including Houston Intercontinental, Memphis International, Phoenix Sky Harbor and Pittsburgh International, charge no landing fees, White said. Chicago's Midway charges $4.36 per landing and the Minneapolis-St. Paul airport, charges $5.

LYME ARTHRITIS

If you have joint or muscle aches, you want to know if the cause is Lyme disease, since antibiotics cures the condition.

However, it is not practical for doctors to test everyone with arthritis for Lyme disease as it accounts for less than one percent of all arthritis in the United States. The expense of testing would add a huge amount to a health bill already under criticism for its enormity. Test candidates are those individuals whose arthritis is in keeping with Lyme disease.

Initial findings include exposure to the wood tick followed by a rash, fever, cough, and muscle aches. Days to weeks later severe headache or a facial paralysis develops, possibly accompanied by an irregular heart beat. Months later, knee or ankle arthritis appears; the hands, wrists, and shoulders are spared.

If your arthritis does not have these associations, it is unlikely that you have Lyme arthritis, and testing is not in order. You may hear of a person, otherwise healthy except for arthritis, in whom testing supposedly uncovered Lyme disease. Remember that the unusual case is not the basis for sound medical decisions and does not dictate a change in testing policy.

City council candidates profiled for primary are making a mistake by allowing construction of multi-unit housing at the current pace. He said an overabundance of apartments and condominiums encourages "transient" residents who aren't as concerned about the city.

BEAVER SAID the role served by public officials should be as a link between the local government and residents' concerns. If elected, he said he would advocate an "open door" policy where council members spend one afternoon per week, on a rotating basis, being available to personally listen to residents.

"It's not enough to tell people you're listed in the phone book," Beaver said.

Beaver has owned Beaver Bulldozing of Westland for 30 years. He lived in the city from 1939 until 1977, before moving to northern Michigan. He returned last year.

He is a high school graduate. Beaver and his wife, Pauline, have four adult children.

He belongs to Divine Savior Church and is a former member of the Westland Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne-Ford Civic League.

MICHAEL BRADLEY said leadership, collection and spending tax dollars and the physical condition of the city are the top issues facing residents in the next decade.

"Leadership of the city must provide stability and fiscal integrity," Bradley said. "The city must receive full value for each tax dollar spent."

If elected, Bradley said he would place a high priority on the city's physical condition, paying particular attention to the environment and working for more controlled development. He also said water and sewer lines, roads and the city's parks and recreation areas should be upgraded.

"The role of an elected official is to provide leadership for the community," Bradley said. "As an elected councilman, I will use my vote and leadership powers to guarantee the placement and retention of, educated, experienced and qualified persons (in appointed jobs)."

He also said city employees, elected officials and residents should work "in harmony."

Deborah Carman

Bradley is a former 18th District Court judge. He left the bench in 1976.

Currently, he practices law with an office in Westland.

His last public office was chairman of the Wayne County Board of Institutions (Eloise Hospital) in 1986.

He has bachelor's and law degrees from the University of Detroit and is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School.

Bradley has been a member or served on boards of the Westland Breakfast Lions Club, Wayne-Westland YMCA, Knights of Columbus Notre Dame Council Number 3021, Westland Moose Lodge Number 2143 and the Parish Council of St. Theodore Catholic Church.

DEBORAH CARMAN wants city services "restored to the level (recent) economic development has made necessary, especially in the police and fire departments and the department of public service."

Carman also said elected officials should make decisions with an eye toward people's needs in the next 10 years or more, not just the immediate future.

She proposed a program to provide housing inspection for rental properties as a way of protecting property values and a study that would review economic trends in Westland with relation to overall development in the metropolitan Detroit area.

On city spending priorities, Carman said "the first step is to see where the shortages have the most impact on the citizens and the city, then we have to reassess where our tax money is going now."

Carman said she sees the role of the mayor as a manager responsible for the daily operation of the city and council members as a way to provide checks and balances to the administration and pass fair legislation aimed at improving residents' quality of life.

Carman, who has lived in Westland since 1981, has worked for Detroit area labor unions and also the Macomb County Friend of the Court.

She is the vice chair of the Westland Community Development Block Grant Advisory Committee, a member of the Westland Board of Canvassers and an alternate delegate for the 15th District Michigan Democratic Central Committee.

She is married and has three children.

"AS THE CITY moves into the 1990s, the most important issues it faces are working within a defined budget, public safety and controlled growth," said Sandra Cicirelli.

Cicirelli said that because Westland residents are "clearly against increased taxes, it will be important for the council to work within its budget by setting priorities."

She said many residents feel the city has been overdeveloped, leaving vacant strip shopping centers and creating other problems. "A councilman is a representative of the people and his or her role is to act in the best interest of those residents," Cicirelli said.

Cicirelli also said public safety should be a high priority for council members and she supports the administration's effort to develop the former county hospital site at Michigan Avenue and Merriman.

A Westland resident for 18 years, Cicirelli is a partner in the law firm of Ference, Ference and Cicirelli.

She has been a member of the city's Zoning Board of Appeals since 1986 and currently serves as vice chairwoman of the board. She is also a member of the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

She earned her law degree from Wayne State University in 1985 and has a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

She has been a substitute teacher in the Garden City and Wayne-Westland school districts.

Cicirelli is married and has two children.

BEN DEHART, who is seeking a fourth term on the council, said the most important issues confronting Westland residents and their elected officials are development, public safety and service and creating a drug free environment in the city.

On development, DeHart said the focus should be quality, not quantity. "Once all of our land is used up, there will be little chance to change the structure of our city," he said.

DeHart also favors upgrading public safety by training more EMS specialists.

He said additional cooperation between school officials and the Westland police department is needed to address the drug abuse issue.

DeHart said one of the key "responsibilities" of a councilman is adopting a balanced budget and keeping programs within the realm of that budget.

"As our taxes for schools, county services (and other services) continue to rise, I feel it is increasingly important that we learn to live within our means," he said.

DeHart, a Westland resident for 43 years, has served on the council since 1979.

He is the legislative liaison for AFSCME Council 23-25.

DeHart has also served as a precinct delegate for the 15th Congressional District and held various posts in its Democratic Party Organization. He is a former member of the city's planning commission.

DeHart and his wife, Eileen, have five adult children.

YUSEF EADEH is also concerned about uncontrolled development and substance abuse.

"The seemingly uncontrolled growth of commercial development in our city is becoming a greater threat each year," Eadeh said. "There must be a long term systems management approach to planning and zoning with emphasis on the overall impact that expanded developments will have on our city over the next decade."

Eadeh favors adopting a "uniform approach" to first-time drug offenders and drunk drivers.

If elected, he said he will also work for improved city parks.

He said council members should be advocates for residents and that requires "open communications" between them.

"Communication between city officials and residents is the most effective means of maintaining individual citizen involvement in Westland," he said.

Eadeh owns a local gun shop.

She helps inmates channel their talents behind bars

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Mary Armstrong, Schoolcraft College's new coordinator of prison education, said she unwittingly spent nearly 20 years preparing for the job by returning to college and earning three degrees in education and then spending three years writing research papers for a team of psychologists.

"Everything I've done has prepared me for all the issues I now have to deal with, non-readers, behavioral problems" and the like, Armstrong said during a recent interview at Schoolcraft's Livonia campus.

A family tragedy, however, prompted involvement with prisoners. Following the suicide of a son six years ago, Armstrong first volunteered to work with female prisoners and then was hired by Schoolcraft College to teach male prisoners at three area correctional facilities.

"Working with prisoners was a chance to turn a personal tragedy into a positive use of my energies," Armstrong said, adding she is "truly energized" by the work.

"It's so rewarding. I'm amazed at the intelligence and potential of men in prison, when they put their mind to it. It's exciting to see the talent and be instrumental in channeling it."

IN HER NEW JOB, Armstrong coordinates Schoolcraft College Centers Services, including designing and implementing classes at Scott Regional, Western Wayne and Phoenix correctional facilities in Plymouth and Northville townships.

Some 200 prisoners are expected to enroll in 17 classes offered by the college this fall and, for the first time ever, students may now work toward an associate of arts degree. Based on state law, all education or training offered in a prison setting must "aid in employability upon release."

Armstrong, who has been acting coordinator of the Schoolcraft program since February, expanded business courses, making it possible to meet college requirements for graduation. The first graduates are expected later this school year, two prisoners who must complete only two or three more classes to be eligible.

Armstrong, who spends three days a week at the prisons, hopes to further expand existing services by including tutoring and study-skill programs, manned by prisoners who have already successfully completed classes.

She also hopes to implement employment referral, "finding meaningful work" for prisoners who will eventually be released or "lifers" who will likely never leave but who could fill "meaningful" jobs within the prison.

"WHEN THESE MEN get turned on to education, it's amazing to watch the increase in their self-esteem," Armstrong said of students participating in the program.

Curiously, she knows little of a personal nature about the majority of them — ages, crimes or prison sentences. She does not know, for example, the age of either man who is expected to earn an associate's degree this school year. Nor does she know either's release date.

Relationships, Armstrong said, are based on educational needs and goals. Though many prisoners want to discuss daily problems, few speak of former crimes or sentences.

They do, however, talk about home. Armstrong, a native Detroit, is familiar with many of the streets and neighborhoods they name. Some have also attended her alma mater, Redford High School.

A former Schoolcraft College student, Armstrong holds an education degree from the University of Michigan-Dearborn, and master's degrees in curriculum and English from Eastern Michigan University.

She has taught in Northville Public Schools and at Eastern Michigan University. She has taught in Schoolcraft's prison program since 1985 and served on College's Correctional Science Advisory Board since 1987.

Zucchini, zucchini, zucchini

It's that time of year again. Any day now, I'm expecting to see zucchini squash at the produce stands piled as high as an elephant's eye with a big sign proclaiming: Free! Please take one.

The absolutely gorgeous weather we've been enjoying has created a bumper crop of zucchini again this year in the Janes Gang garden. So far, I've sauteed it, grilled it, steamed it, fried it, frozen it, baked it, stuffed it and have given more away to friends than I care to remember. And every morning, when I venture out to check, I've got more.

Certainly, zucchini must be related to rabbits and mosquitoes. Just letting it sit in the garden after a three-day soiree at Cedar Point, I returned to find sizes and shapes that easily could be listed as assault weapons. So, now that the freezer is full and the family echoes in unison, "Zucchini, again!" at dinnertime, I feel that it's my public duty to pass along still other unique ways to serve the vegetable that plagues many gardens during this time of year.

The wild ancestors of the zuchinis appear to have originated in the vicinity of the border between Mexico and Guatemala. From there, they spread to North and South America. First use of these vegetables as food appears to have originated around 8000 B.C. in Mexico.

AT THAT TIME, the Indians gathered the wild plants mainly for seeds because the fruits contained only small amounts of bitter-tasting flesh. Over the centuries, mutant plants with more fleshy, milder-flavored fruits appeared and were grown along with beans and corn by the Aztec, Inca and Mayan Indian civilizations of Latin America.

Blame Christopher Columbus for first noticing and transporting the wily vegetable. Shortly after the discovery of America, squashes were brought back to the Old World, where the production eventually surpassed that of the New World. Statistics on the total United States production of zucchini are not readily available, but it is estimated that more than 50,000 metric tons of these vegetables are frozen and that the same amount are canned by processors.

And if you think we have more than what we can deal with, China, the main producer of zucchini and other summer squash, sells a remarkable one million metric tons. (Probably most of it ends up as a filler in chop suey, right?)

Anyone with a vegetable garden is always looking for new ways to prepare such a prolific vegetable. Even if you don't have a garden but live close to someone who does, there is a very good chance that zuchinis have

Lowly pastry can be high art

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

THE TART, likely of humble origin and elevated to culinary distinction by the French, normally contains a flaky crust as light as the breath of an angel, plump, handpicked fruit of the season and a mouth-watering custard of fresh milk and eggs.

But not always. "The tart has about a hundred definitions," explained Sheila Foley, a foods expert who has taught cuisine and related subjects for 22 years to Livonia school students and, more recently, to adults expressing a belated interest in cookery.

"By definition, a tart is a pie, except one is deeper than the other," said Foley, attempting again to explain a tart.

This much is certain. The tart is a European pastry of common origin, probably a culinary creation of the peasants.

"Most things with fruit were considered common because anybody could pick fruit, royalty and the like enjoyed things like lamb stuffed with boar, stuffed with pheasant, stuffed with whatever. Things not everyone could have," Foley said.

THE FRENCH ARE credited with transforming the lowly pastry into a "high art" now savored by gourmets the world over. The American-styled tart is patterned after that favored by the French and English.

Foley has made it her business to become an expert in its preparation, for a series of cooking demonstrations she will teach next month for Kitchen Glamour in Redford Township, West Bloomfield and Rochester Hills.

"The best thing," Foley said in still another explanation of the tart, "is to always say generally. You can't describe it by hard rules."

In Eastern Europe, for example, the traditional tart of Yugoslavia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia is folded, with fruit rolled directly into the pastry.

This is Foley's third year of classes for Kitchen Glamour. Tarts is one of five subjects she will teach, topics suggested by Foley and agreed to by the shop. Foley delves deeply into each new subject, emerging as a specialist in that form of cooking.

"Working with adults is wonderful. They pay money, and they really want to learn," she said, adding after a pause, "You know, a shocking number of people don't know how to cook." During one demonstration last year, a student in her late 30s confided that the pot roast Foley had just readied and cooked was the first the woman had ever seen prepared.

"THE ALL-TIME favorite 'tart' is the flan, a type of tart styled and named by the French, Foley said.

Consisting of a sweet cookie crust, rich custard, cream filling and garnishes of fruit arranged artistically, the flan is always "a certain hit" in culinary circles.

Due to its popularity, it is also terribly overpriced when sold by the slice, according to Foley, who said it is relatively inexpensive to prepare.

She favors garnishing flan with slices of fresh strawberry, wedges of mandarin orange and kiwi, the New Zealand wonder that is available year-round to American consumers.

The flan exemplifies the tart's favored status. A visual delight, its showy nature is particularly fitting on any restaurant dessert cart.

"People can turn down cake but it's not that easy to turn down the tart. People think it's the best thing they've ever in their lives seen," Foley said.

Volcano inspires Italian 'stramboli' bread

By Arlene Funke
special writer

The name is "stramboli" — layers of ham, pepperoni and mozzarella cheese baked into a fresh loaf of bread. "It's almost like a rolled-up pizza," said 27-year-old Joe Mainella of Joe's Deli and Bakery in Livonia, where stramboli has been holding forth during the last five years.

"It's a one-of-a-kind taste," Mainella added.

Hefty, fragrant loaves of fresh-baked stramboli may be sliced and served as a hearty sandwich, snack or full meal. It is available in full loaf, three-pound sizes (10-12 slices) at $7.49, or half-loaf portions at $3.99.

A vegetarian stramboli, with broccoli and cheddar cheese sprinkled with Italian seasonings, also is popular.

Mainella and other family members in 1989 came from their native central Italy to the United States. Five years ago, after working at several other local Italian bakeries, Joe Mainella and his mother, Filomena, opened their own shop at Five Mile and Merriman roads.

"WE SAW the business grow, and one year later we had to bring in the whole family," Mainella said. Father Luigi and brother Phillip, who had been in construction work, joined the bakery. Joe's wife, Anita, and Phillip's wife, Nina, also help out.

The Mainellas, who all live in Livonia, work in the shop baking and selling bread, preparing trays of unbaked pizza, rolling out loaves of stramboli and preparing fancy Italian desserts such as the cream-filled cannoli.

The bakery throbs with the honey, yeast-filled fragrance of dough and the tangy aroma of Filomena Mainella's special spaghetti sauce simmering on a stove in back.

Each week, the bakery sells approximately 60 quarts of the sauce, which contains fresh oregano, basil, parsley, finely chopped onions and tiny nuggets of fresh Italian sausage.

"Everything is made by us," Joe Mainella said.

Mainella owes the introduction of the stramboli to his mother-in-law,

Teresa Coppola of Novi, soon after the bakery opened. Coppola went to New York and, while there, she sampled a similar layered sandwich featuring salami and a sweet-and-sour sauce.

"I didn't particularly like the taste of it," Mainella said.

But he did like the concept, and developed his own variation featuring slices of boiled ham, thin strips of pepperoni and mozzarella cheese sprinkled with green pepper.

"I GOT the name from my mother-in-law," Mainella said. "I think it's the name of a volcano." Mainella makes stramboli by placing the meats and cheese, in layers, on a piece of pizza dough, which has been flattened.

Each end of the dough is moistened slightly with water. Mainella rolls the dough firmly over the ingredients. When finished, it forms an oblong. The ends are tucked in.

The stramboli is brushed with an egg wash and sprinkled with poppy seeds, then placed in a loaf pan lined with baking paper. Poked the dough with a fork to eliminate air bubbles.

Bake at 380 degrees for one hour. Stramboli may be eaten cold. But warming enhances the flavors, brings out the cheese and softens the bread to a deliciously chewy consistency.

The ham, pepperoni and mozzarella variety is mildly spicy. — not overwhelmed by the pepperoni. The vegetarian-style stramboli is jazzed up slightly with a sprinkling of Italian spices.

THE SHOP sells dry pastas, wine and lunch meat. It makes up party trays and caters weddings and parties. The Mainellas also put out several varieties of bread, dinner rolls and doughnuts.

Some of their special, rich, baked-on-the-premises desserts are small eclairs, napoleons and lemon horns. The slender, cream-filled tubes of pastries called cannoli are light and flaky.

These confections are priced at 45 cents each or $4.80 a dozen for a small pastry, or 69 cents each or $7.80 a dozen for the larger.

Another interesting dessert is a Sicilian peach. This round, sweet shell is filled with rich cream and decorated with frosting and a cherry. It costs 99 cents each.

Joe's Bakery and Deli at Five Mile and Merriman is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday-Saturday. Closed Sunday. Phone 261-5668.

Zucchini, zucchini, zucchini, zucchini appeared on your doorstep mysteriously throughout the night. If you're tired of making them the same old way, here are a few different ideas that will help you get through the remainder of the summer.

For a truly culinarian delight, pick the blossoms first thing in the morning so that the bees won't be trapped inside. Then prepare a simple batter using beer, eggs, water and baking soda. Dip the flowers in the batter and lightly fry in hot oil until golden.

IN ADDITION, you can use the seeds the same way you use pumpkin seeds. Take the big monsters, split them and remove the seeds. A fast dip in boiling salted water and then pat dry, followed by a little frying in oil or dry roasting in the oven will produce a munchy treat the whole family will enjoy while watching TV. One of the most ingenious methods to utilize a great number with minimal fuss is to make a soup stock. After cooking the cubed squash in a slow, rolling boil until tender, the zucchini can then be pureed and made into a cold or warm cream soup. A dash of salt and a sprinkling of fresh, ground pepper, in addition to a cup of cream with an egg beaten in, will turn the mixture into a frothy appetizer that will surely be welcome on a hot, humid afternoon or early evening.

If all else fails and the kids are tired of using zucchini for baseball bats or blow-dart guns, may I suggest donating them to a shelter, group home or soup kitchen? It wouldn't hurt to give the old kitchen cupboard a thorough cleaning while preparing for this, so the inclusion of other canned goods and edibles will be greatly appreciated.

So if summer has brought with it an overabundance of zucchini to your household, try these recipes. You won't be disappointed. Bon Appetit!

CREAM OF ZUCCHINI SOUP WITH CRABMEAT

6 tablespoons butter/margarine
1 1/2 pounds zucchini, grated
3/4 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
3 cups rich chicken stock bouquet garni (bay leaf, thyme sprig, 5 fresh basil leaves and 2 peppercorns tied in a small cheesecloth bag)
1/2 cup flour
3 cups whipping cream
salt and pepper to taste
1/4 cup flaked crabmeat

Melt 2 tablespoons butter/margarine in a large saucepan over medium-low heat. Add zucchini, celery and onion and cook until vegetables are very tender, about 15 minutes. Add stock and bouquet garni, increase heat, bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in another heavy saucepan. Whisk in flour and cook for 3 minutes, making a roux. Gradually whisk in soup and continue to simmer for 3 minutes. Remove bouquet garni. Puree soup in a blender or processor with 2 cups whipping cream. Pour into a bowl. Season with salt and pepper. Chill. Just before serving, whip remaining one cup of cream to stiff peaks. Ladle soup into bowls. Garnish each with whipped cream and a little crabmeat. Enjoy.

ZUCCHINI FETTUCCINE

makes about 1 pound 8 ounces zucchini, shredded about 3 cups all-purpose flour
4 extra large eggs

dash salt
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Cook zucchini in boiling salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Squeeze dry. Place in a processor or blender and chop fine. Squeeze dry to remove any remaining water. Arrange 2 1/2 cups of flour on a working surface and make a well in the center. Add zucchini, eggs and salt to well and blend with fork. Gradually draw flour from inner edge of well to center to incorporate all the flour. Add more flour if necessary. Knead dough until smooth and elastic, about 8 minutes. Wrap dough in plastic and let rest for 30 minutes.

Run dough through a pasta machine 3 times to thin and stretch out. Then, using fettuccine cutter, cut dough into desired lengths. Cook pasta in a large amount of rapidly boiling, lightly salted water until just firm but almost tender, about 1 1/2 minutes. Drain well and toss with vegetable oil.

FRIED ZUCCHINI BLOSSOMS

12 fresh zucchini blossoms
2 eggs
1 cup cheese cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons margarine
salt and pepper to taste

Dip fresh zucchini blossoms in beaten eggs. Then roll to coat in crushed crackers, coating thoroughly. Heat butter and margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Add blossoms to butter mixture and fry in batches until golden, turning once. Drain thoroughly, sprinkle with salt and pepper or parmesan cheese.

Update gives facts on canning

AP — Enjoy summer's bountiful harvest next winter, too, by canning or preserving part of the crop. Here's an update on the latest recommendations:

PECTIN

Several types of pectin are available: powdered, natural powdered, light powdered (which requires less sugar and now includes directions for making freezer jam), powdered with sugar added, and liquid.

For best results, liquid pectin must be very fresh. Look for the "use by" date on the package. Powdered pectin is more shelf stable than liquid pectin, but any held-over packages that are lumpy or caked should be discarded.

The most important thing to remember about preserving with pectin: follow package or recipe directions exactly. Never use directions for one type of pectin with another type.

Never make double batches of jellies, jams or preserves.

PROCESSING JELLY

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends that you process all jellies, jams and preserves in a boiling water bath. This prevents molding during storage.

Do not use paraffin to seal jellies, jams or preserves.

Use only standard jelly jars for jellies, jams or preserves.

Look for the new 4-ounce jelly jars; they're great for gift foods or special fruit combinations. Seal with standard lids and process them like the larger sizes.

ACID IN TOMATOES

For optimum food safety, the USDA recommends increasing the acidity of tomatoes by adding 2 tablespoons of lemon juice to each quart of tomatoes; 1 tablespoon to each pint.

IF JARS DON'T SEAL

Remove the lid and check the rim of the jar. If it is undamaged, top with a new lid and reprocess at once. Or, store the jar in the refrigerator and eat within a week.

LESS SALT, LESS SUGAR

You can safely reduce or eliminate the salt in any canned vegetable; it's the processing, not the salt, that destroys spoilage organisms.

Don't reduce or omit salt in pickle recipes, or pickles will be mushy.

Fruits can be frozen or canned without adding sugar. Sprinkle fruits that tend to darken with ascorbic acid color-keeper solution.

To make jelly, jam or preserves with less sugar, use light pectin, following the package directions.

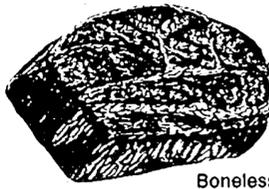

MORE INFORMATION

For more information on preserving foods, contact your local county extension service.

For optimum food safety, the USDA recommends increasing the acidity of tomatoes by adding 2 tablespoons of lemon juice to each quart of tomatoes; 1 tablespoon to each pint.

Lowly pastry can be high art

Another Foley favorite is Frantipan, a tart of minced almond nut and egg yolk that Foley said in good conscience she can not recommend. "Too many yolks, seven or eight in the filling and more in the crust."

The Frantipan seems to defy standard definitions of the tart with its absence of fruit.

"GENERALLY, A TART is a shallow pie with fruit. But there are many variations and deviations. Some are very heavy and rich. Others are light and airy," Foley explained yet again.

For variety, she might substitute a cream cheese custard for the standard custard filling. When she is pressed for time, Foley said she is not above using an instant packaged pudding in place of custard prepared from scratch. She also occasionally substitutes prepared puff pastry in lieu of cookie or almond crust.

Tarts come in a variety of sizes, from bite-sized offerings cooked in special miniature pans to delightful heart shapes to wedge-shaped slices cut from a large round.

The tart is easy enough to prepare, providing a good recipe is followed. Foley tests any she recommends. "I've tried some horrible recipes, cockamamie things from magazines that have not been tested."

The best available are by Martha Stewart, in her "Pies and Tarts" cookbook.

"The most important thing of all," Foley concluded, "is fresh ingredients. Nothing substitutes for fresh ingredients."

Foley will demonstrate tarts Saturdays, Sept. 23 and 30, at Kitchen Glamour in West Bloomfield and Rochester. For more information and cost, call 855-4466 in West Bloomfield, 537-1300 in Redford Township and 652-0402 in Rochester.

MINIATURE PECAN TARTS WITH COOKIE CRUST

Cookie crust
1/2 cup margarine
4 cups sugar
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups flour

Blend margarine and sugar and beat well. Blend in egg yolks one at a time. Blend in almond extract and flour. Press dough into miniature tart pans. Bake at 400 degrees 8-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Set aside.

Filling
1/2 cup margarine
1/3 cup dark Karo syrup
1 cup confectioner's sugar
1 cup chopped pecans

Combine margarine, Karo syrup and confectioner's sugar in a saucepan and bring to a gentle boil. Stir in pecans. Spoon into baked miniature tarts and top with half a pecan. Bake again for 54 minutes at 350 degrees.

ALMOND-RASPBERRY TART

Almond crust
1 1/2 cups ground almonds
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 1/2 teaspoons fresh, grated lemon rind
2 cups flour
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolks, almonds, lemon rind and blend. Add flour and spices. Mix into dough until firm and holds together. Press half the dough into a 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Spoon in 1 cup raspberry jam. Roll remaining dough, cut into strips, and weave lattice top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes.

FLAN WITH SEASONAL FRUIT

Make cookie or almond crust. Press 1/2 thick into a 10-inch flan pan with removable bottom. Prick with fork and bake at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes. Set aside.

Custard filling
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 egg yolks

1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon vanilla

Blend flour, cornstarch and sugar in saucepan. Heat milk in separate saucepan and blend with flour mixture. In separate bowl, beat yolks. Add 1/2 cup of hot mixture to yolks and beat well. Add yolk mixture to remaining flour and milk, mix well and heat to boiling until sauce thickens. Be careful to avoid scorching. When thickened, add vanilla. Spoon into cooled crust and chill.

Decorate with sliced strawberries, peeled and sliced kiwi and mandarin wedges, arranging fruit artistically. If the tart is not to be served for several hours, brush fruit with heated apple or apricot jelly.

Bob Mounsey makes Cheater's Trifle, his version of English trifle, with ingredients quickly put together.

Gourmet picnic easy to prepare

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Just to demonstrate the kinds of gourmet picnic foods that may be brought to Meadow Brook's Glyndebourn Picnic, Bob Mounsey of Jacobson's whipped up a few of his own specialties on a recent afternoon in the Kitchen Shop of the Birmingham store.

There was cold salmon with scallop mousse to sample, along with salad nicoise and gazpacho aspic. For dessert, Mounsey prepared his easy-to-do Cheater's Trifle.

The full, beautiful fish-shaped main dish was covered with paper-thin slices of cucumber. Each wedge of the offering revealed tasty salmon side by side with salmon mousse, and was topped with a cucumber sour cream.

Brightly colored salad nicoise combined potatoes, green beans and tomatoes as well as tuna fish, hard-boiled eggs, Greek olives and anchovies. French dressing was served with the salad.

Cheater's Trifle took short cuts, with ready-made pound cake, vanilla pudding, cherries and walnuts among the ingredients.

THE GLYNDEBOURNE Picnic will be held Saturday, Sept. 9, at the Shotwell-Gustafson Pavilion on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. The black-tie event is a benefit for the Kresge Library collections.

J.T. Battenberg III, GM vice president and group executive, and his wife, Luann, are chairmen of this year's picnic. Battenberg, who attended Mounsey's food sampling, said he and his wife lived six years in Europe. "We spent three years in London and attended the Glyndebourn Picnic (the original, after which the Meadow Brook picnic is patterned) there. We have an affinity for British and European food."

For the local picnic, Battenberg and his wife are among six couples who will each bring a specialty dish to share. All the Meadow Brook guests provide their own picnic fare, some having chefs doing the preparation.

The picnic is $100 per couple, $250 patron and $500 benefactor. For more information call 370-24896 or 370-2481.

Here's Mounsey's recipe for Gazpacho Aspic, a rosy ring of the more familiar cold, Spanish summer soup.

GAZPACHO ASPIC

Combine 4 cups V-8; 1 green pepper, 3 celery stalks, 1 red onion, 2 cups cucumber and 2 tomatoes, all chopped fine; 2 cloves garlic, crushed; 1 cup hot salsa, juice of 2 limes, 1/4 cup olive oil and 1 teaspoon salt.

Dissolve gelatin in 1 cup V-8, bring to boil. Add the other 3 cups of V-8 and mix with all other ingredients. Put in a mold and chill overnight. Unmold and decorate.

The yogurt has 60-70 calories per 3.5-ounce serving. Flavors available are Dutch chocolate, vanilla, strawberry and black cherry.

Engler criticizes MET board for underpricing

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State Sen. John Engler, the probable Republican candidate for governor next year, criticized the Michigan Education Trust board for raising prepaid college tuition 13 percent.

But not all of the increase was too high. "What was underpriced was that it was held to 13 percent. We were underpriced a year ago," Engler said on his Oakland County campaign visit.

It was the cost of a newborn infant $7,664 — up $908 from a year ago — to invest in the MET fund, which would pay the youngster four years of state university tuition from now.

Engler said the MET price must cover this year's tuition increases of 9 percent but last year's increases of 9.6 per-

John Engler criticizes MET

THE CAREER lawmaker said "I'm steamed" at Gov. James J. Blanchard's refusal to appoint Engler's designee to the MET board.

As Senate majority leader Engler 40, of Mount Pleasant, is allowed by law to designate one member of the board. He said he nominated Gary Wolfram, Hillsdale College professor, former Senate Fiscal Agency budget analyst and former University of Michigan-Dearborn faculty member.

They (Blanchard administration) rejected him. They don't want anybody knowledgeable on the board," Engler said.

In an Oakland County Building news conference Thursday, Engler said, "I fear for the future obligations" of the MET fund because of the underpricing.

And he repeated his general theme: that Democrat Blanchard and House Democrats place too low a budget priority on education, including universities.

Engler said it's a major reason tuitions are rising faster than consumer price inflation.

DR. C. GARY Artinian, Bloomfield Township physician and member of the Wayne State University board, agreed.

"We (15 state universities) are underfunded. I'm the Lone Ranger against it (9.6 percent tuition increase approved in July by the WSU board)," said Artinian, a Republican who supports Engler.

"The state budgets about $1 billion for all colleges and universities. That doesn't even match Medicaid, which is $1.5 billion to $2 billion."

"Engler has always pushed for more," said Artinian, one of two dozen Oakland and Wayne GOP leaders joining the senator's "exploratory" committee. That committee has 1,500 members, including all GOP legislative leaders and top party officials of the last decade.

"We (Michigan) are at the top in providing social services, but we're 38th among the 50 states in funding higher education."

"Wayne State is still in the top 10 or 15 public universities in the country in tuition. Michigan and Michigan State are in the top 10. We can't afford that," Artinian said.

THE MET BOARD, chaired by state treasurer Robert Bowman, had based its plans on annual tuition increases averaging 7.3 percent and trust fund earnings of 9.5 percent compounded.

But when most major university boards hiked tuition more than 9 percent earlier this summer, the MET board last week raised entry prices into the trust fund.

Bowman, the former Wall Street financier who is Blanchard's economic guru, said:

"If people think this is expensive, they're in for a real shocker when they find out how expensive college is. If people are priced out of MET, they're priced out of college."

Last year parents and grandparents enrolled 40,409 students as MET beneficiaries. "I'll bet we don't see 40,000 people getting into MET this time," predicted Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron.

Pets of the week

These pets are available through the Southeastern Michigan Humane Society. Morris, an 8-week-old orange-colored male kitten, is described as very playful. Smokie is a 6-week-old tortoise-colored female. Wendy, a black-and-tan beagle mix, and Stevie, a spaniel mix, are 6 weeks old. To adopt these pets or others, call the Kershaw Animal Clinic at 421-7878.

Bowman holds meeting on trust

The public can learn about the Michigan Education Trust straight from the founder's mouth next week in Royal Oak.

State treasurer Robert Bowman will hold a community forum at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, in Kimball High School, 1500 Lexington.

It's one of five being held around the state and the only one in southeastern Michigan. Others will be in Marquette, Traverse City, Haslett (near Lansing) and Grand Rapids.

"The intent of the MET forums is to answer any questions people might have about MET before the Oct. 2-6 open application period," Bowman said.

Parents, grandparents and even employers may invest $7,664 to guarantee a newborn child four years of state university tuition in 18 years. Cost are lower for fewer years and for community colleges.

To make a reservation or for further information, call the state's toll-free hot line at 1-800-MET-4-KID.

Wayne County guide available

Suburban Wayne County's population exceeded that of the city of Detroit in 1988, the first time that has happened in the post-World War II period.

A mid-term census showed there were 1,088,780 residents in Wayne County suburbs, compared with 1,086,220 Detroit residents.

That information and other tidbits about Wayne County and its government is contained in a newly-published League of Women Voters county guidebook.

It is the first time the league has published a county guide since 1974.

County history, government, finance, courts, social programs, public services, regional governmental authorities and elections are discussed in successive chapters. The history of the newly-refurbished Wayne County building is described in the book's appendix.

All county government departments and their functions are described.

The guide also includes maps of state, federal and county commission election districts.

Copies of the guide can be reserved by calling the Livonia League of Women Voters chapter, 476-8846, or the Northville-Canton-Plymouth- Novi chapter, 349-3555.

The project was financed, in part, through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

Bo says Boles must earn position

IT SEEMS a lot of football coaches are never happy unless they're mad at somebody. Case in point, University of Michigan coach Bo Schembechler, who gave a less than flattering endorsement of his current crop of tailbacks during Thursday's media day.

Without mentioning names, Schembechler was pointing the finger in particular at Westland John Glenn's Tony Boles and his running mate, Leroy Hoard.

"We have a lot of guys who can run the football, but none have demonstrated they can carry the ball 25 to 30 times a game," said Bo. "They haven't demonstrated they can carry the ball like a (Anthony) Thompson of Indiana, not like a (Carlos) Snow of Ohio State, a (Darrell) Thompson of Minnesota, or even an (Blake) Ezor from Michigan State."

By naming Jarrod Bunch as starting fullback and promising to give him the ball more, it seems Schembechler has decided to drum up some friendly competition at the tailback spot this season between Hoard and Boles.

It appears that Bo was not pleased with either tailback's summer training schedule. The Michigan coach apparently feels the two are lazy.

IT DOESN'T MATTER to Schembechler that Hoard, after moving from fullback to tailback, gained 437 yards in the last three games.

And it's ancient history that Boles returns as the Big Ten's second leading rusher (1,408 yards), top all-purpose runner (1,816 yards) and sporting the No. 1 yards per carry average (5.4).

At least at this time, Bo feels there are no Rob Lyles, no Butch Woolfolks, or even a Jamie Morris on this Michigan team.

Bo's memory, however, is short. Remember when Boles carried 25 times vs. Notre Dame; 33 vs. Miami; 33 vs. Wake Forest; 23 vs. Michigan State; 22 vs. Iowa; 24 vs. Indiana; 27 vs. Northwestern and 32 against Minnesota.

But according to Bo, you're only as good as your last game.

So Boles must prove himself all over again during training camp and before Notre Dame rolls into Ann Arbor on Saturday, Sept. 16.

Brad Emons

The quiet Boles admitted that Bo is ticked off at the tailbacks.

"Bo's kind of disappointed, he's upset because we didn't work out like we had in the past," said Boles. "I was kind of hurt this summer (a groin pull) and Leroy had an appendectomy. He (Schembechler) thought we weren't putting forth the effort for the team. He thought we were trying to achieve our own goals instead."

BUT BOLES, who has been in Bo's doghouse before, does not seem to be ruffled by the latest scenario.

"I've always been pushed by somebody," he said. "Every year you have to prove yourself. Every day you have to prove yourself. I like the situation because it will make everybody better at fullback and tailback."

Bo also said he's leaving the door open for some of the "other" tailbacks including Allen Jefferson, Tracy Williams, Levettus Johnson and Jon Vaughn.

Of course, we remember when Williams, subbing for Boles, crucially fumbled away the game-winning touchdown down at the goal line during last year's 17-17 tie against Iowa.

And then there's Vaughn, who Schembechler proclaimed "is our fastest player" during Thursday's media gathering, even though Boles reportedly clocked the fastest 40-yard dash time ever (4.29 seconds) by a Michigan football player.

"I REALLY haven't pushed myself this summer, so in two-a-days (practices) I'm really going to have to strive," Boles said. "But I'm really looking forward a lot to camp because it's going to make Leroy and I improve.

"I'm really not looking back to last year. I'll just do whatever I can. I'm not looking to start every game because we have so many weapons."

Michigan's backfield will also change at quarterback, where Michael Taylor returns as the starter, replacing Rose Bowl signal caller Demetrius Brown (declared academically ineligible).

Taylor's return could be good news for Boles and Hoard.

A runner first and passer second, Taylor will likely change Michigan's offensive scope.

"Basically it's going to be a different backfield," Boles said. "We're not to go to change that much, but we could be going to more split-backs (formation)."

BY THE SOUND of Thursday's press conference, Schembechler wouldn't dare play Boles and Hoard together in the same backfield (or would he?)

But wasn't it in the Big Ten clinching 34-31 victory over Ohio State last year when Hoard and Boles each rushed for over 100 yards?

Schembechler grudgingly admitted on Thursday "that we'll just have to go with the guy that's hot."

Look for Boles and Hoard to burn their fannies a little bit.

Don't worry, Bo, it's OK to be mad.

Dave Owens (left) will be carrying the load this season for the Redford Catholic Central High Shamrocks. Owens, a senior tailback, rushed for 716 yards last season.

CC pondering offensive styles

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Tom Mach is going through his own personal tug-of-war.

The Redford Catholic Central High football coach is torn between using his familiar ball-control style offensive attack, but is tempted to implement a more wide-open passing game.

Last year the Shamrocks went unbeaten in 12 games before losing the state Class A championship game to Traverse City at the Pontiac Silverdome (24-14).

Mach, 101-28 in 13 seasons with the Shamrocks, finds himself saddled with a speedy group that could be his most explosive team ever.

"I think we have some good backs and receivers," he said. "But right now I'm caught between if we're going to run or we're going to pass. We have the capabilities of doing both."

The big question will be answered when Mach makes his decision about who will succeed All-Observer and All-Catholic League quarterback Scott Hauncher, who was a two-year starter. (He passed for 1,245 yards last year.)

Two juniors, 6-1, 180-pound Jason Carr, and 5-10, 170-pound Jack Davidson are battling for the starting job with a leg up on Joel Mussat.

football

Carr is the better passer, while Davidson is better runner, according to Mach.

"THERE'S A POSSIBILITY we'll use two, but I'd like to settle on one," said the CC coach. "I'm not afraid to use either at this time of the season. I'll make my decision based on how practice goes along."

Redford CC traveled last Wednesday to scrimmage Monroe, but Carr and Davidson came out virtually even.

"They both did some positive things and then some things that were not as positive," said the CC coach. "But it's a good situation to be in because both are good prospects."

Mach's situation is even better at tailback with the return of senior Dave Owens (5-7, 165) and junior Brian Chaney (6-1, 180) as his backup.

As a junior, Owens gained 716 yards and could double that number this season. (His brother Fred, who graduated from Redford Bishop Borgess High, is a running back at the University of Wisconsin.)

"He's a stronger and we expect him to break a few more tackles," Mach said of Owens. "With a whole year's experience, he should be able to read holes better. He'll be a much-improved back."

CONTESTING AT fullback is Jon Barbara (6-1, 195), noted for his blocking, and speedy Arshon Stewart (5-11, 176), a breakaway threat.

The split ends will be junior Mike Thomas (6-1, 183) and senior Dave Baucus (6-2, 175). The flankers include returnee Mike Mathis (6-1, 190), a deep threat, along with Dan Bradley (5-9, 175) and Erik Burton (6-2, 175 — all seniors).

"Last year we were pretty good at the skill positions," Mach said. "This year we have more speed, but less experience."

Three players are in the running at tight end, led by senior Tim Jackson (6-1, 180), junior Mike Grimes (6-4, 210) and junior Leo Kowalyk (6-1, 185).

The offensive line boasts a pair of outstanding returnees in tackle Ryan Bell (6-3, 245) and guard Chris Czernia (5-9, 205).

Bell, a second-team All-Observer pick, is a major college prospect who will go both ways.

"Right now he's our best lineman," Mach said.

Junior Gary Gurgold (6-2, 240)

The Big Apple Cunningham in 3rd U.S. Open tourney

By Jim Toth
staff writer

THE SIMILARITIES can go on and on between teenage tennis phenoms Amy Frazier of Rochester and Carrie Cunningham of Livonia. Both will enter their final years at their respective high schools, both managed one victory at Wimbledon earlier this year and both will be making their third trip out East to take part in the 108th United States Open Tennis Tournament that gets under way today in Flushing Meadow, New York.

"This is my favorite tournament of the year," said Cunningham, 17, who will be making her second straight appearance in the women's main draw. "Everyone in tennis is there. You have the best players in the world trying to win."

"I just love going to New York and experiencing everything that goes on," added Cunningham. "It's a great tournament and one I look forward to playing in."

"I have had a good year so far and I want to be able to win some more matches," explained Frazier, who will turn 17 next month. "I love to play tournaments and I think I feel more comfortable this time than I did the other two times."

tennis

WITH ONE YEAR of high school remaining, both Frazier and Cunningham have already enjoyed their share of success on the tennis courts. In its 1989 U.S. Open preview, World Tennis magazine includes both players in the Future Tennis Stars Under 20 Club.

Frazier is ranked No. 40 on the latest Women's International Tennis Association chart and Cunningham holds down the No. 90 spot. Despite their constant improvement, both players agree they have a long way to go before legitimately contending for a Grand Slam title.

"I'm always working on my serves," began Frazier, who, for the past five years has worked under the watchful eye of coach John Trump of West Bloomfield. "I'm just in the process of changing my backhand," countered Cunningham, coached by Joe Fodell for the past seven years. "It's not exactly a great time to do it, but it's something that had to be done. I was using the wrong grip and wasn't effective hitting the ball."

Frazier's talents were solid enough to enable her to capture the Virginia Slims of Kansas in February. She defeated Barbara Potter in three sets for the title.

At Wimbledon, Frazier, downed Anne Simplin in straight sets before being ousted in round two.

"I WON'T prepare myself any differently this time, I just have to go out and concentrate and, hopefully, I'll play well," Frazier said. "I have had a good year and I hope it can continue."

Cunningham, who won the U.S. Open Junior Singles in 1988, turned back Debbie Graham in straight sets in her opening-round contest at Wimbledon before dropping her second match.

"I think there is less pressure in a tournament like the Open on a player like myself because it is such a big tournament," explained Cunningham. "At this level all the players are pretty physically fit; the difference comes mentally. There is a lot of pressure as you move through a tournament and you have to be able to handle it to be successful."

Following the Open, both Frazier and Cunningham will entertain thoughts of which direction to go.

Frazier has ideas of pursuing a professional career in the sport while Cunningham appears headed first for a college career.

ARN SPECTER

Carrie Cunningham of Livonia will be making her third appearance in the main draw of the U.S. Open tennis tournament, which begins today in New York.

Girls cage outlook Thursday

Brian Kutch is a mainstay for Redford St. Agatha. The junior quarterback led the Aggies to a C-Section Division title last season.

Returnees spark Aggies' hopes

By Bob Stebbins
staff writer

Last season's Redford St. Agatha football team — the 13th coached by John Goddard — was far from unlucky, and the veteran Aggies are hoping for more of the same this year.

The Aggies won the C-Section of the C-D Division of the Catholic League in 1988 and are one of the favorites again with six starters returning on offense and seven on defense. Agatha finished the season at 5-0, 6-3 overall.

Agatha will find out right away how good it is outside the conference, when it opens the season at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Detroit Country Day. DCD has qualified for the state playoffs the past four seasons.

Offensively, St. Agatha's pro-set offense will be led by returning quarterback Brian Kutch, a 6-foot-3, 190-pound junior.

GODDARD GAVE Kutch the call in the first game of his sophomore year and is looking for continued improvement from his signal caller.

"Kutch is a great athlete, possibly the best athlete in our league," he said. Also returning to spark the offense are two of

football

Kutch's favorite receivers, senior wide outs Fred Schick (5-7, 150) and Kevin Smith (5-8, 160).

Another top returnee from a year ago is senior fullback Ken Prokes (5-9, 180). Prokes broke his leg last year in the season opener against DCD and missed the remainder of the season.

At the tailback position, juniors Derwin Henderson (5-10, 165) and Bryan Wilson (5-9, 170), are slated to split time.

In the trenches, where the holes are made, two big offensive linemen return for their senior seasons. Tackle Scott Maher (6-2, 220) and guard Pat Wagner (6-3, 225) will key the blocking for Kutch and company.

OTHER PROBABLE starters up front for the Aggies are senior guard John DiPonio (5-8, 170), senior tackle Brian Rich (5-10, 215) and junior center Mark Sievers (5-8, 155).

Senior Ken Kroll (5-9, 160) will be the starting tight end.

If the offense is struggling, an experienced defense ought to be able to keep the Aggies in the football game.

St. Agatha's 5-2 defense is keyed by the return of their three down-linemen from a year ago.

Wagner and Maher are back to man the tackle positions, while DiPonio, last season's starting noseman, has moved to the defensive end spot. Sievers will start at noseman in place of DiPonio.

Kroll, a returning starter, will man one of the linebacker positions, while the other spot will be filled by Wilson or senior Shannon Tonti (5-8, 160). Tonti is also the back-up quarterback.

THE SECONDARY is a strong suit for the Aggies, with three starters returning.

Smith and Schick return at the cornerback positions, and Prokes is back at strong safety. The free safety will be Kutch.

The kicking game for St. Agatha is a question mark. Kutch returns to do the punting, but no one has emerged as a reliable placekicker.

With a bevy of returnees at key positions, however, Goddard has reason to be optimistic about this year's team.

"We have good skill people and an excellent front line of linemen," said Goddard. "The question is depth. The 11 that we put on field are as good as anybody we will play in our league. If we receive no injuries, we could be right there."

Double-duty pressures will provide Zebras a challenge

By Ray Sellock
staff writer

If the Wayne Memorial football team is sweating a little more than most teams in the middle of pre-season workouts, it's not because of the weather, but rather Coach Chuck Howton's desire to get his team in the best shape possible.

Many of the Zebra starters will be asked to play both offensive and defensive positions this season, but thanks to the grueling workouts, Howton doesn't see it as a problem.

"Because of our lack of depth we will be forced to play some of our players a lot of minutes," said Howton. "It will be a great challenge to these players, but they'll be ready."

Senior quarterback Brent Tapp will make the offensive calls for the Zebras. A 5-foot-8, 145-pounds, Tapp will rely on his quickness to steer Wayne Memorial to the Wolverine A crown.

"IF THE OFFENSIVE line can come through with good blocking than my job will be much easier and this will be a good football team," said Tapp. "We've had good momentum in practice. I'm sure it will carry over."

Howton shares the same enthusiasm toward not just the team, but his prize quarterback, as well.

"Tapp is just an electrifying athlete," boasts Howton. "I am going to guard his talent. He's the man."

Tapp and a host of teammates will try and improve on last year's 4-5 record.

"The key for us is defense," said Howton. "And we have a lot of talented players playing defense on this football team."

Led by All-League defensive back Pierre Hixon (5-11, 165), the Zebra defense will try and keep the opposition from putting points on the board.

Hickson, a senior, is gifted with speed and possesses the ability to alarm opposing players with his hard hitting.

"HIXON IS ONE of our players who is not afraid to put a little leather in you," said Howton. "He's just a heck of a hitter."

Hixon talents will be complimented with those of senior linebacker Brad Wellman (6-3, 200).

Wellman, like Hixon, is an excellent hitter according to Howton.

"He (Wellman) explodes off the ball so well," said Howton. "He's always a step up on you."

Senior Don Toth, a defensive end on defense and a guard on offense is thought of highly by Howton. At 6-0, 180, Toth will use his stamina to help the Zebras on both sides of the football.

"He's just an excellent football player," said Howton. "He's really playing well right now."

The Zebras open the season Friday (Sept. 1) at Garden City A victory says Howton would really, "boost the team's moral and give them confidence."

"Everyday in practice, we set our sights on Garden City," he said. "I've seen tapes of their games and they have a lot of good hitters. It should be a close game."

THE CLOSE GAMES are what hurt the Zebras last season, losing to Dearborn Fordson 14-7 and Trenton 13-6.

Howton hopes by getting his team in prime condition, they can scrap together a few touchdowns and win these close affairs.

"We're running real hard right now and come the Garden City game we'll be ready," said Howton. "This season is going to be fun."

The smile on Howton's face told the story of an anxious man with big dreams for himself and his football squad.

Warriors banking on their experience

By Bob Stebbins
staff writer

Because of a number of returning starters, Lutheran Westland High football coach Dennis Tuomi believes his team can improve on their 2-6 record of a year ago.

Offensively, the Warriors will employ a flexible slot offense, which features variations out of the T-formation.

The offense will be run by quarterback Steve Aumann, 5-foot-9, 151-pound senior and three-year starter.

Playing behind Aumann in the T-scheme will be halfbacks Jason Zielinski (5-10, 153) and David Gielow (5-11, 152), along with fullback Erik Smith (5-8, 160). (Smith, a returning starter, is a senior, while Zielinski is a sophomore and Gielow is a junior.)

The receiver positions should be a strength for the Warriors with the return of four-year starter Mike Hardies (5-10, 151) at one tight end spot. Hardies was the team's leading receiver and scorer a year ago.

football

SOPHOMORE MATT GRAMS (5-10, 144) will man the other end position, and senior Jon Dean will back up the starters.

The offensive line should be a strong suit with four starters returning.

Junior Ben Maton (5-11, 172) and senior Tim Hardy (5-11, 229) will start at the tackle spots, while seniors Mark Curlew (5-9, 163) and Jeff Noechel (6-0, 161) return at the guard positions.

The only newcomer in the front line will be sophomore center Jamie Hardy (6-1, 267).

On the defensive side of the ball, the Warriors will line up in a 5-2 formation.

One of the strengths of the defense should be at linebacker, where veterans Gielow and Maton are scheduled to start.

The down linemen are also experienced with the return of Curlew and Hardy at the tackle spots. Sophomore Mace Mattieson (5-6, 142) will be the nose guard.

SOPHOMORE JASON LEIM-BACH (5-10, 154) returns at one of the defensive end positions, while Noechel will start at the other spot.

The defense secondary is inexperienced, with only Hardies returning at strong safety.

Zielinski will play at the free safety spot, and Aumann and junior Bill Wargo (5-11, 140) will patrol the cornerback positions.

Another plus for the Warrior defense will be the excellent punting of Hardies, who averaged just shy of 40 yards per boot last year.

Meanwhile, the kickoff duties will be handled by Aumann.

Tuomi believes the large number of experienced players translates into more victories this season.

"We have improved," he said. "We just hope we're competitive."

The Warriors, in their second varsity season, open at 1 p.m. Saturday at home against Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney.

Shamrocks still figure in the state title picture and senior Dave Taylor (6-1, 245) are vying at the other tackle slot. Joe Laskowski (6-0, 230) will be at the other guard, with either Don Janda (6-0, 216) or Dorie Hlecks (5-10, 210), both seniors, at center.

"OUR PASS BLOCKING needs improvement, but I saw some good signs at our scrimmage," said the CC coach. "We scored more points last year than we had in the past. Our goal will be to score 21 points per game. With 21 points, you should be able to win a high school game."

"I think they'll develop into a fine unit."

Always a "fine unit" for the Shamrocks has been the defense, which is coordinated by long-time Mach assistant Rick Coratti. Last year CC allowed only seven points and 170 yards per game.

Kowalyk returns at defensive end with Bell, backed by Laskowski, at one tackle.

Junior Rob Sylvester (6-2, 220) will contest Taylor at other tackle, with senior Terry Licht (5-7, 197) replacing all-stater Lee Krueger (University of Wisconsin) at nose guard. Jackson will be the other defensive end.

Junior Karl Kowalyk, will be at one-linebacker, with senior Rich Walsh (6-0, 190) battling Barbara at the other spot.

Mathis, one of the Shamrocks' top players, leads a tough secondary, which also includes Davidson, Thomas, Chaney, Burton and Stewart.

"We look pretty good back there because we're fast," Mach said. "They can chase down a lot of people and cover a lot of mistakes."

AND MAKE no mistake about it, CC should make another—serious run at the state crown.

"The big thing is that our quarterbacks must develop," Mach reiterated. "Last year Haucher was coming in with a year's experience."

"The key on offense is development of our line, our quarterback and our fullback. We've got our running backs and receivers. We have a lot of people we can get the ball to."

Another key is the kicking game where All-Observer pick Pete Elezovic is gone.

"That was a big loss," said Mach. Sophomore Kerry Zavagnin, a refugee from the soccer team, hopes to fill the void. He has the inside track as the extra-point and kickoff man over Pete Lombardi and Brent Jenkins. Burton, meanwhile, will be the punter.

IMAGINE DYING FROM A DISEASE YOU NEVER KNEW YOU HAD.

Eleven million people in the U.S. have diabetes. But almost half of them don't know it.

Untreated, diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, blindness and gangrene.

And for 150,000 people each year, it leads to death.

That's why you should be aware of the symptoms of diabetes: blurred vision, excessive thirst and frequent urination are just some of the warning signs. Because the sooner you find out if you have diabetes, the more likely you are to get it under control, before complications set in.

Finding out you have diabetes can be scary. But not finding out can be fatal.

'King' bringing his court to town

By Dan O'Meara
Staff writer

Eddie Feigner is as much showman as he is softball pitcher. On both counts, he's pretty amazing and quite successful.

Feigner has combined the two into one of the greatest shows in sports entertainment, and area fans can see his act on Friday, Sept. 8, at Canton Softball Center.

The King and His Court, as Feigner's world-famous four-man team is known, will play Pat Boyle Chevrolet, the Livonia modified fast-pitch champion, at 7:30 p.m.

It will be the second meeting in four years. Boyle Chevrolet, playing under the FGS Radiator name, was on the losing end of a 7-6 score in 1986.

"It's a tremendous opportunity to play against a guy who has struck out some of the greatest names in baseball," Boyle Chevrolet's Dave Brubaker said.

"I'M PLANNING to have a good time, because (Feigner) is quite a clown around. He's into having fun, and he puts on quite a show. It's not every day you brush elbows with a legend."

Proceeds from the game will benefit Caring Athletes Team for Children's and Henry Ford Hospitals. Charity is always a key part of the Feigner program, and he estimates his team has helped raised $4.5 million over the years.

But that wouldn't be possible without the show, the love of which has kept the 65-year-old Feigner going for 44 years. His longevity is virtually unequaled in sports, and his travels have taken him to six continents and nearly 100 countries.

"I'm interested in doing the show as long as the crowds continue to enjoy it," said Feigner via the telephone from Boston. "When you're a ham, you feed off the show and keep enjoying it."

Feigner and his crew began the current season in March with a stop in Hawaii. Along the way, they played 15 games in Korea against the U.S. Army and gave a demonstration on the flight deck of an aircraft carrier in the Pacific.

"You could play a game up there all right — as long right field is a ground-rule double," Feigner said.

Being a ham is part of the show, though Feigner calls it horse play. During a game, he'll pitch behind his back, through his legs and from second base. It's never to embarrass the opponent, Feigner adds, and it's an expected part of the act by now.

FEIGNER WILL pitch to a couple of Boyle Chevrolet batters while blindfolded, too. He does that every game. It's something he started in the 1940s when he was looking for a gimmick.

softball

"It's not dangerous — if you don't mind being hit with a line drive now and then," said Feigner, who was hit in the eye while doing that in 1984.

Feigner believes most sports events are too serious. In fact, he thinks there ought to be more comedy in sports.

"(The fans) would like to see that in regular games," he said. "Baseball and football have become so austere if a guy does any showing off they call him a hot dog."

While Feigner is the King, the court includes catcher Dave Booth, a former body builder and aspiring TV actor and stunt man, first baseman Gary West, the team comedian who lost his left eye to cancer three years ago, and shortstop/relief pitcher Craig Van Prooyan.

The four-man concept stemmed from a dare in the mid-40s. In that initial, seven-inning game, Feigner struck out 19, and The Court won 7-0. One ball was hit to the shortstop, the other to first base.

SINCE THEN, 30 players have come and gone as members of The Court, but success has been a constant for Feigner and his troupe.

"We never have any weak hitters, and everybody knows how to bat," Feigner said. "We bat 3,700 times a summer."

Feigner, who was given the Victory Award for lifetime achievement by the Sporting News this year, has cut down on his plate appearances, however.

Pitching, after all, is what made him famous, and one of his most talked about feats occurred in the mid-60s during an NBC Sports Special when he struck out six Major League players — Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Maury Wills, Harmon Killebrew, Roberto Clemente and Brooks Robinson — with the bases loaded in back-to-back innings.

While the public best remembers that incident, Feigner plays down its significance.

"It's like ping pong and tennis," he said. "It's two different games. If they played fast-pitch softball, they'd hit me just like they would a baseball. It makes good copy, but it doesn't mean anything."

Feigner came of age at a time when softball was the popular sport, not baseball. The sport should have gone pro, he said, but the advent of television was a factor in it never doing so.

"I PLAYED baseball on Sunday

like anybody else who grew up in the '40s and '50s," Feigner said, adding softball was the game of choice during the week.

"Baseball was not the desirable thing to do, because it didn't pay any money. (Softball) started to die out after the war. After dinner, people went out and played softball. When TV came along, they had something else to do."

Feigner enjoys his work but likes a chance to get away from it, too.

"I enjoy striking out the last hitter and going golfing," he said. "I enjoy it like you enjoy your job."

THE BOYLE Chevrolet roster Feigner will face includes pitcher Curtis Richards, Rick and Don Dreher, Keith McManaway, Jeff Campbell, Dan Pierce, Scott Collins, Jim Stoitsiadis, Curt White, Kevin Dial, Mike Kessin and Tim Bowden.

Tickets for the game are $4 for adults, $2 for students and $12 for a family package (two adults, two children). At the gate, the cost will be $5, $3 and $12, respectively.

Complimentary tickets are available at Boyle Chevrolet, 9700 Belleville Road, Belleville. The phone number is 697-6700. Call 422-4391 for more ticket information.

Elsley piles up 10K wins

Terry Elsey is becoming a familiar area name.

A 36-year-old Farmington Hills resident, Elsey raced to his second straight Heart of the Hills 10K triumph Saturday, Aug. 5, in Bloomfield Hills. He also captured top honors in the annual back to Birmingham 10K run held last month.

"And he ran in Allen Park the night before and won that race," said Heart of the Hills race organizer Tony Sakorafis.

The third annual race attracted nearly 300 runners for the 2-mile run/walk, plus the 10K race. Sakorafis said everything went well despite a heavy morning thunderstorm.

ELSEY'S TIME was 32:25 as he outprinted John Springer to the finish line by 16 seconds. Springer's second-place time was 32:41.

Race proceeds benefit Special Olympics and Baldwin Avenue Community Center. It is sponsored by the Andover Soccer Boosters and the Bloomfield Hills Optimists Club.

Labor Day signals start for fall league seasons

THIS IS KICK-OFF time for the fall/winter league season as Labor Day approaches.

Some of the league action already has begun, while many start after the holiday weekend. Although many of the teams are set, there are openings for individuals and whole teams to join many of the bowling leagues around town. With the recent closings of Strikes & Spare in Bloomfield Township and Southlanes, it has become necessary for some bowlers to find a new house.

This also has an effect, as there may be some re-alignments of time slots in order to accommodate more teams in a few of the houses where the displaced bowlers have moved. The same scenario happens every year. There are always some leagues that need a few more bowlers and some bowlers looking for a place to go. There are some very competitive classic leagues and senior house leagues where the best shooters can lock horns weekly.

Some of the action in the top leagues is similar to what you can see watching the pro bowlers on television on Saturday afternoons. Caution: Do not join the leagues unless you are really good.

There are daytime leagues for the ladies who are fortunate enough to have the time and the inclination to join a morning or afternoon league. Some bowling centers even have free baby-sitting. There are all kinds of kids bowling, with most houses set up for Saturdays and some offering weekdays after school. The little ones can start out with bumper bowling for ages 2-7 and go on to bigger and better things like the youth traveling leagues. Some of the inequalities of bowling are the variety of competition at all levels of skill for both sexes.

There are plenty of very good mixed leagues in this area and most will welcome new couples either as regulars or to just come in and sub. Mixed leagues are usually more fun and yet they can still be very competitive. There are some mixed leagues which meet every other week and this makes it easier for those couples who still like to be able to get away for an occasional mini-vacation.

Many organizations have their own bowling leagues. I know of some people who have joined the organization just so they could bowl with them. Many companies have their own leagues. Check it out, this could be your next big promotion. The senior citizens are a very active and significant part of the bowling scene, and their numbers are constantly growing as people are living longer and healthier lives.

I would like to think the sport of bowling also has an effect on longevity, as it can help keep the seniors active and competitive. There are some amazing men and women in their 70s and 80s rolling up those scores. There are even organized leagues for the blind, the physically impaired and the retarded. Some of the local communities and the high schools are now starting to get organized for open tournament competition. Last season more than 40 high schools competed in the high school tournament and it will be bigger this season as interest grows.

10-pin alley

Woodland Lanes on Plymouth Road in Livonia offers a wide variety of competition with several openings available. For men bowlers, the Monday night junior house starts Sept. 11 with a 9:30 p.m. time slot. The senior house league bowls each Thursday at 9:30 p.m., starting Aug. 31. There are also openings for the women in the Monday 9:30 p.m. Keglerettes, with any average welcome, Tuesday, 9:30 p.m. Alley Cats with four girls to a team, and the Wednesday, 9:30 p.m. Starlights. The mixed league offerings are Wednesday Mixers at 9:30 p.m., two couples to a team; and there is a Sunday, 8:30 p.m. mixed foursome which bowls every other week. There is a family foursome bowling every other Sunday at 1 p.m. with a format of two adults, two children. For further details, call Woodland Lanes at 522-4515.

Beech Lanes on Beech Daly in Redford has openings for the ladies in the Football Widows league which goes into action Monday nights at 8:30 p.m. Beech Lanes is also running a special deal all this week: one free game of bowling to anyone who comes in, doors open at noon each day. If you are not yet a bowler and want to try, remember, balls and shoes are right there for you. For further information, call Beech Lanes at 531-3800.

The Over-50 mixed league invites you to join its 9:30 a.m. Tuesday league starting Sept. 5 at Plymouth Bowl. To join the established 22-team league, contact Dick Deeley at 427-9454.

Super Bowl on Ford Road in Canton has openings in the Monday men's league at 9:30 p.m. This is a five-man team format with team averages at 775-9000. Ladies are invited to come in for a 12:45 Monday Ladies trio league. The ladies' Tuesday 9:30 p.m. trio league also has a need for a few bowlers. The mixed leagues have openings on Fridays at 6:30 p.m. with five to a team and Sundays at 3:30 p.m., for foursomes.

Westland Bowl on Wayne Road has openings for two teams in the westside senior house league on Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m., with five-man teams averaging between 950 and 1,025. The Sunday sleepers needs teams for Sundays at 10 a.m. with an 850 to 950 team average, nobody over a 201 average the past three years. The league starts Aug. 27.

The Battle of the Sexes at a Tuesday 9:30 p.m. time slot needs men's and women's teams, four on a team. The Sunday mixed league bowls at 6 p.m. and has openings for all levels of ability with a wide-range in age groupings. What kind of a kid do you suppose Thomas Edison was?

Bet he looked at problems and saw solutions. Like Maurice Scales who invented Baby No-Mash to prevent doors from closing on little fingers.

Bet he saw how things were done, and imagined better ways to do them. Like Lillian Lukas who invented the Puddle Detecting Cane for the blind.

Bet he watched how things work and thought of ways to avoid wasting time or effort. Like Caitlin McCracken who invented the Orphan Kitten Feeder for Three.

Maurice, Lillian and Caitlin were three of the thousands of winners in the Invent America! education program.

And you know that small genius can grow up to become big genius—with the capacity to make America number one again.

To participate, just write Invent America!, 510 King Street, Suite 420, Alexandria, VA 22314, or call 703/684-1836.

If you're wondering if it's all worthwhile, just imagine what Edison would have said.

Invent America! For now—as never before—our country needs an inventive spark.

Whether it's Madison Square Garden or Wayne County Fairgrounds, professional wrestling draws the same reaction.

small time WRESTLING

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

No Hulkster or Andre the Giant. No multi-colored light shows. This can't be professional wrestling as seen on television, can it?

Heck no. This is "rassling." Sorry, no Piper's Pit, but there is a Porta John. No smokey haze, either. Just the dust from the dirt of field. Putrid cigar smell is replaced by the fragrance of cow manure.

Where there's no Mean Gene or Jessie the Body, there's Ken from Zak's Video. ("Could you mention us in your story?," asked Ken, holding a camera at ringside.)

Wayne County Fairgrounds is not exactly Madison Square Garden, more like Farmer Fred's Garden. But when the bell rings, it's no holds barred.

On this night, Midwest All-Pro Wrestling is presenting a card with the likes of the Flying Tigers, the Riot Squad, Rick O'Toole, Cowboy Woody Lee, Irish Mickey Doyle and, yes, the legend from Benton Harbor, the man who chased the original Ayatollah of the Motorola, The Sheik, across the country — Bobo Brazil.

The crowd is a mixture of hardcore wrestling fans and fairgoers who took a wrong turn from the midway.

"BITE-EM, bite 'em!" screams a young girl as Cowboy Woody Lee seems to have his hands full with Rick O'Toole.

"Everytime they see it on TV, they get like this," said her mother, shaking her head.

This is a scaled down version from the World Wrestling Federation (WWF) or the National Wrestling Alliance (NWA). The reaction, though, it draws from the audience is apparently the same.

Otherwise the guy who emerges from the van in his dark red trunks and boots would hang up the wrestling trunks. But Bobo Brazil is still going strong.

Through the '50s, '60s, '70s and early '80s, Bobo Brazil chased a Middle East nemesis through the East, South, Midwest and West. Bouts between The Sheik and Bobo used to regularly draw sellout crowds at Cobo Arena.

"The Sheik was a very, very mean man," said Bobo, with a furrowed brow of seriousness. "You had to keep your eyes on him at all time."

The Sheik has since folded his turban, but Bobo goes "Cocobutting" along. He limits his wrestling to three nights a week, recently turning down a trip to Japan.

"I'm afraid of those planes; the damn things keep crashing," he said.

Those from Bobo's era seem to be either dead or retired.

• Pampero Firpo: "He's retired and living in San Jose."

• Johnny Valentine: "He's living in Texas. He was badly hurt in a plane crash."

• BULL CURRY: "He passed away about two years ago. I'm not sure what he died from. I think it was a heart attack."

• Cowboy Tex McKenzie: "He's retired and living in Wyoming."

• The Mighty Igor: "I think he's retired."

• Luis Martinez: "I don't know what Louie's been up to."

• Lord Athal Layton: "He passed away, too."

• The Sheik: "I don't know where the hell he's living."

OK, so much for old acquaintances. The recent boom in professional wrestling, especially on television, has given guys like Bobo Brazil "a piece of the action."

In his prime, he made around $250,000 a year. The take is considerably less, today.

"I wrestled all my life. I saved some money," he said. "Wrestling has been very good to me. I love it. I wrestle just as hard at places like this as I did at Madison Square Garden, Joe Louis Arena or Cobo Arena."

Behind Bobo is a man who was once on the receiving end of one of his "Cocobutts" (a "Cocobutt" is performed when Bobo smashes his forehead into an opponent's melon). Johnny Storm, who makes up one-half of the tag-team The Flying Tigers, went against Brazil in only the third match of his career.

MMA has tradition and great location

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: My Dad was in the Marines and he wants me to go to military school. He says it's my choice, so I want to look into it. I am a good student, entering 11th grade this fall, and I have a year to make up my mind. Since you've written about south Texas, maybe you know something about the Marine Military Academy there?

A: I met a couple of Michigan students when I visited the Marine Military Academy (MMA) on a tour of the Rio Grande Valley last winter. It's in Harlingen, Texas, on the border of Mexico. Tourists go to Harlingen to visit the Confederate Air Force Museum and to see the daily noon parade at the academy.

The Academy's landmark is the Iwo Jima Monument, a 90-foot-high Marine memorial, showing four Marines raising the U.S. flag over Iwo Jima during World War II. The original bronze statue is in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C.

Sculptor Felix de Weldon gave his original molds to the Marine Academy because MMA is apparently the only private non-profit school in the world that is patterned after the spirit and tradition of the U.S. Marines. And for another good reason that might interest you — a nice warm climate.

There are 380 cadets in grades nine through 12 and in one post-graduate year at the academy. A high percentage go on to either the U.S. Naval Academy or another good college of their choice.

Those are just statistics. For the real scoop, listen to Chad McComb of Battle Creek, who left Penfield High School at the end of his sophomore year to go to the Marine Military Academy in Harlingen.

"My parents read an article about the academy and I decided to try a two-week summer school program here. It was pretty rough, all discipline. I decided to sign up anyway, and found the regular school year was not as tough as summer school."

MOVING PICTURES

Gene Hackman plays Sgt. Johnny Gallagher and Joanna Cassidy his ex-wife Eileen in Orion Pictures new release, "The Package."

Summer season winds down with 'Package,' 'Millenium'

As the summer season winds down, film openings slack off. There's just two new movies this week, Gene Hackman in "The Package" and Kris Kristofferson in "Millenium." The coming weeks don't promise much more as distributors hold back new products, rightfully figuring that everyone's caught up in the back-to-school rush.

"Millenium" is a sci-fi thriller featuring Kris Kristofferson as a government investigator at the site of an airline crash. He discovers a number of unusual clues. "Millenium" also stars Cheryl Ladd and Daniel J. Travanti. The scenario was adapted by John Varley from his book of the same title. Michael Anderson directed for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Gene Hackman, Hollywood's busiest male lead, is back again, this time as a career military man escorting a prisoner back to the States from Russia in "The Package." Look what glasnost has done for us.

Of course it's not that simple and Hackman gets caught up in all sorts of shady goings-on. Joanna Cassidy and Tommy Lee Jones also appear in this Orion release directed by Andrew Davis.

STILL PLAYING:

"The Abyss" (D-) (PG-13) 135 minutes. Despite excellent underwater sequences, this muddled and murky sci-fi sea saga sinks.

the movies

Dan Greenberg

- "Babar: The Movie" (G). Delightful animation of Babar stories. "Batman" (C+) (PG-13) 120 minutes. Michael Keaton is a dud in the title role but Jack Nicholson's Joker is terrific.
- "Casualties of War" (B+) (R) 105 minutes. Grim, gripping and graphically violent story of Vietnam war.
- "Cheetah" (D-) (G) 75 minutes. Slow, cliched Disney in Africa epic that left its excitement at the airport.
- "Dead Poets Society" (A+) (PG) 124 minutes. Robin Williams' sensitive portrait of a fine teacher is complimented by excellent young actors as his students.
- "Do the Right Thing" (B+) (R) 120 minutes. Sharp, incisive and entertaining commentary on today's urban America.
- "Eddie and the Cruisers II: Eddie Lives" (PG-13). They're still looking for Eddie's body.
- "Field of Dreams" (B+) (PG) 111 minutes. Fanciful baseball story as Iowa farmer builds diamond so Shoeless Joe Jackson can play again.

'The Diz' does it in Cuba

By John Monaghan special writer

In the mid-1940s, jazz trumpeter Dizzy Gillespie, along with Charlie Parker and Thelonius Monk, ushered in a bright new form of music - bebop. While his contemporaries were plagued by problems, Diz never seemed to take the world too seriously - and lived to talk about it.

Diz, "the clown prince of jazz," is up to his old tricks in a few documentary, "A Night in Havana: Dizzy Gillespie in Cuba." It screens this weekend and next at the downtown Tele-Arts Theatre.

The jazz film coincides with the Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival, happening this Labor Day weekend.

"A Night in Havana" begins with Dizzy recounting for the 1,000th time well-worn anecdotes about Charlie Parker, his curved trumpet and the trademark that his cheeks puff out when he plays.

The Diz blows through Cuba for the 1985 Havana Jazz Festival. Afro-Cuban drummer Chano Pozo was a vital part of his sound in the late '40s. Despite Poz's untimely death after just two years with the band, the Latin influence has remained strong in Dizzy Gillespie's sound.

Dizzy Gillespie is the star of a new documentary, "A Night in Havana: Dizzy Gillespie in Cuba," screening at the Tele-Arts Theatre.

Now, he teams with a group of excellent Cuban musicians, including trumpeter Arturo Sandoval and pianist Gonzalo Rubalcaba. The finale includes a solo-filled version of "A Night in Tunisia."

SCATTERED IN between. Dizzy surveys the crumbling beauty of Havana, smokes large stogies, mugs for the camera with Cuban children and even schmoozes with dictator Fidel Castor.

Some have criticized the film for glorifying a fascist regime that has rarely looked favorably on self-expression, including that practiced by jazz musicians.

But "A Night in Havana" isn't about politics. Dizzy Gillespie, the musical ambassador, brings to this party only his decades-spanning love affair with the jazz trumpet.

"The trumpet just sits there, surrounded in luxury," he says slowly, eyeing the red velvet-lined horn case. "It just sits there, waiting to mess someone up."

As the title suggests, "Saxophone Colossus" is a worshipful look at saxophonist Sonny Rollins. He will be playing at the jazz festival this weekend.

Though unavailable for screening, the 1986 concert film, recorded in New York and Japan, has at least one amazing sequence. Rollins falls off a tiny stage, injures his back but still wails from a prostrate position for almost a half hour.

Foreign films fans are in for a major treat Thursday, Aug. 31, when Orion Home Video releases their "International 4 Star Film Festival" - four noted titles by renowned filmmakers Eric Rohmer, Wim Wenders, Jovan Acin and Marco Bellocchio.

In common, all four have yellow English sub-titles with each letter effectively bordered in black for easy reading. They don't, however, have any common ground in the ratings. Of course, there's no G rating, but Rohmer's "Boyfriends and Girlfriends" is PG. Wender's "Wings of Desire" PG-13. Acin's "Hey Babu Riba" R and Bellocchio's "Devil in the Flesh" available in both R and X-rated versions.

All are in color although "Wings of Desire" has some black and white sequences.

"Hey Babu Riba" wasn't available for screening. It's a Serbo-Croatian film about four teens from Belgrade who love American movies, jazz and a girl called Esther.

X-rated films have the reputation of being either very violent or very sexy - usually the latter - but often that's just in the advertisements, particularly the sexuality "Devil in the Flesh" is billed as the "sizzling erotic thriller based on the classic novel that shocked Paris."

IT'S HARD TO imagine anything in this film was considered erotic or shocking. There's a good deal of frontal nudity as the heroine tires of waiting for her terrorist boyfriend's trial to finish. To alleviate her boredom, she takes up with a nice young student. Hardly erotic, just frontal nudity with some suggestions of love-making.

David Hirsch, as the new host of USA Network's "American Bandstand," has come a long way for the 11-year-old, would-be disc jockey in the homemade deejay studio of a friend's basement.

He 'tunes in' to teens as the new Dick Clark

By Connie Bodi special writer

Ever wondered what it would be like to step into the shoes of a legend? Former Birmingham and West Bloomfield resident David Hirsch knows, and the shoes he's filling happen to be "something in a Dick Clark."

After 33 years on the American Bandstand stage, Clark, known as the "world's oldest living teenager," has chosen his successor.

As the new host of USA Network's "American Bandstand," Hirsch made what seems to be a natural progression, starting as an 11-year-old, would-be disc jockey in the homemade deejay studio of a friend's basement. Now 26, Hirsch has been handed the microphone off of America's foremost rock'n'roll podium. Quite literally, that's how it happened.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Hirsch worked at Ross Roy Advertising, bidding his time on his road to California.

"All my friends were slowly moving out there, and I knew I wanted to go," Hirsch said. "I took a job with a small sales training company that needed to open an office on the West Coast, and it was just great timing."

Timing, according to Hirsch, plays a major role for anyone trying to make it big in L.A.

"There's people with true talent who just never get anywhere," Hirsch said. "It has a lot to do with timing. It's not just that you go out, and you're the best at something, and you get the job because you're the best."

"You can be poised for greatness, but it's not going to happen unless you know the right people."

While merely admiring the limelight in L.A., Hirsch studied improvisational comedy with a group known as The Groundling and struggled as a copywriting freelancer to pay the bills.

ALTHOUGH HIRSCH was interested in being in front of the camera rather than behind the scenes, he felt he was falling into the Hollywood-bred insecurity of "nothing's happening."

Hirsch said he went through four months of waking up and making a list of "meaningful things" to do each day, waiting for that first break.

"In the meantime," Hirsch said, "I started writing a screenplay for a friend. She had done a first draft on it and wanted me to inject some humor into it."

"A good friend of hers worked at Dick Clark Productions in Burbank and knew that I was interested in comedy and that I wanted to perform," he added.

And so the winning combination of timing and knowing the right people started spinning into play.

"They were hiring four young writers to be segment producers on this new show that Dick Clark was producing called 'Camp Midnight,'" Hirsch said. "They wanted young people to get their first break and write this late-night show."

That break came in the form of the "Camp Midnight" job for Hirsch, as it did for three other up-and-comers — Tim Malle, Warren Bell and Tim Conway Jr.

Content for the time being, Hirsch felt that this was the ultimate job.

"The four of us would sit around in this big office with basketball nets and dart boards, and crazy stuff over the walls, and we'd just laugh all day," he said. "We'd think up funny ideas, and we'd just keep laughing."

"But this was a real job. We earned everything. We edited pieces, we wrote pieces, produced pieces. We even did the talent interviews. It was our show; we did it all."

HIRSCH WAS having too much fun to stop and consider what his next progression should — or could — be.

After 26 weeks, however, "Camp Midnite's" option was not renewed, and the show was canceled. And that's when the big break came in, according to Hirsch.

Dick Clark, meanwhile, had decided that he would retire as host of "American Bandstand" before 1990. With the timing factor on Hirsch's side, he felt he was approached for the audition simply because he already worked at Dick Clark Productions, a company that has been very successful in putting a lot of stock in fresh talent and young energy.

While most of the comedy writers and talent from "Camp Midnite" spun off to new or replacement shows, "American Bandstand" executive producer Larry Kline asked Hirsch to audition as Clark's replacement.

Within one week, Hirsch heard about, auditioned for and landed the opening at the top of Dick Clark's rock'n'roll empire. Hirsch's career took off faster than a record played at 78 rpm.

The producers at Dick Clark Productions felt it was time to revamp the format of the show. Along with the move from network to cable television came the move outside the studio.

David Hirsch's "American Bandstand" is taped outdoors on the Universal Studios Tour, giving the show more of a "club feel." The classic podium Dick Clark used to stand behind is in the Smithsonian Institute. As if to invite his audience to stroll with him in and around the crowds, Hirsch interacts more with the dancers and talks with people on the tour.

"IT'S GREAT for people to see an actual show being taped, especially Bandstand," he said. "It's fun because everybody, some way or another, has watched Bandstand or danced on it at sometime in their life."

But you don't mess with something that's worked for 33 years, according to Hirsch. In keeping with tradition, "American Bandstand" can still be seen in its Saturday noon timeslot. Viewers can also tune in to see regular features such as Rate-A-Record, Roll Call and Spotlight Dance.

So now Hirsch's Orchard Lake Middle School pals get to see him seated next to Joan Rivers on "Hollywood Squares" or watch him on "Phil Donahue," remembering the sometimes funny, always well-liked guy who played the drums with his KISS-influenced band at an eighth grade dance.

Complete with the trademark KISS makeup, the band's music wasn't very tight, but Hirsch and the rest of the novice musicians still gave their audience what they wanted to hear.

Hanging on to this memory, Hirsch feels, is the basis of what has made Dick Clark successful.

"He's timeless," Hirsch said. "I believe the way he stays young is by keeping in touch with young people. That's totally the key. He keeps himself on a level with teenagers, because there's nothing like being a teenager. That's when everything kind of happens."

How does he handle the fame that comes along with receiving his first big, Hollywood break at 26? Hirsch said he just has to laugh it all off.

"Some people say, 'Hey, aren't you the new Dick Clark?' And I say, 'No, I'm the old David Hirsch.'"

REVIEWS

RIGHTEOUS BROTHERS ANTHOLOGY (1962-74)

— Righteous Brothers

As the title implies, the Righteous Brothers recording career was rather lengthy — but their days as a first rate rock attraction were brief. The blue-eyed soul of Bill Medley and Bobby Hatfield reigned only from the end of 1964 to mid-1966.

With this anthology, re-issue master Rhino Records puts the duo's entire oeuvre out for public display. It's clearly more than the public needs — or even wants — to hear. But there are a few nice surprises.

Those who believe the cream of the duo's musical crop came during their mid-1960s association with mad genius producer Phil Spector might be surprised to find that earlier work — from a number of albums recorded for tiny Moonglow Records — holds up surprisingly well.

Their version of "Little Latin Lupe Lu," for instance, inspired local hero Mitch Ryder to get his Detroit Wheels a-rolling. Even better is "Justine," a wild raver that sounds like a duet between Ray Charles and Little Richard. This is derivative stuff to be sure, but enjoyable nonetheless.

These non-relatives found their voice, however, during their 1964-5 stay on Spector's Philles Records. "You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling" needs no introduction, but the semi-obscure "Just Once in My Life" packs at least an equal emotional punch. "(You're My) Soul and Inspiration," a hit produced without Spector, is also here.

The Brothers' melodramatic style, however, too often drifted toward banality. This is apparent even on some of the early material — "White Cliffs of Dover" is an example — but it mars almost all the material they released after parting company with Spector.

"Lovin' Feeling" is a taste of heaven. "Rock and Roll Heaven," their 1974 "comeback," on the other hand, is contrived as hell.

— Wayne Peal

LOST — Died Pretty

"Lost" is the debut release on RCA-distributed Beggar's Banquet from this Australian band and it's the band's second LP. The first was released in 1986 on the Citadel Label called "Free Dirt."

The founding members, vocalist Ronald S. Peno and guitarist Brett Myers, prefer their mutual interest in 1970s New York music such as The Feelies, Suicide and Television, and claim that this interest brought them together.

Well, they are still cultivating the music and sound of that period but unfortunately, at a stand far below those bands named as their influences.

The first noticeable feature of this LP is the quality, or lack thereof, of the recording. They may have deliberately attempted to re-created the feel of the "do-it-yourself" ethic of those garage-band days. But these days it is possible to control that spirit and record in a studio of some quality.

The sound on this LP approximates that of a band starting out, with a very limited budget, trying to make do with what they can. Either Beggar's Banquet is very cheap or the band was misled by their producer.

The second noticeable feature of "lost" is the extremely busy and distracting drumming of Chris Welsh and the cheap sound of the K mart keyboards. It is only after they tone down the drummer and turn the keyboards way down in the mix do they produce anything of interest.

Vocalist Ronald S. Peno sings in the style of a Dylan or a Petty, with his nasal aggressive attack, but only on one occasion does the quality of the songwriting approach anything above mediocre. This is on the gentle, acoustic, bass-driven, "One Day," where, for once, they produce a melody strong enough to stand by itself.

On the song, "Free Dirt," they get some help from the female vocals of "Astrid Munday" and this provides a necessary distraction worthy of mention.

But that's it. — Cormac Wright

BAD ENGLISH — Bad English

Guitarist Neal Schon and keyboardist Jonathon Cain have put their Journey days behind them — and Cain has brought John Waite along for the ride (they've been friends since they were Babys). Add newcomers Ricky Phillips on bass and Deen Castonovo on drums and you have Bad English.

Given the underwhelming qualities of Waite's last few solo releases (the last dog aptly titled "Rover's Return") and Journey's finale "Raised on Radio," this album may not have arrived with much in the way of expectations.

However, all inconsistencies aside, the group's self-titled debut is a highly listenable effort on the majority of tracks (and infinitely more listenable than any of the aforementioned releases).

Things get off to a questionable start on "Best of What I Got," a farce that's similar in more than a few spots to Van Hagar's "Best of Both Worlds" (off "5150"). And to top it off, Waite opens the track with a trademark "Oh Yeah."

Things get better on "Heaven Is a 4 Letter Word," and they leave the mysterious word to the listeners' collective imaginations (can't you hear Tipper Gore and the PMRC breathing a sigh of relief?). "Possession" is the best of the album's three ballads and could have potential as a future single.

"Forget Me Not," the current single, is a rollicking piece that displays Schon at his finger-pickin' good, better and best, with Cain not far behind.

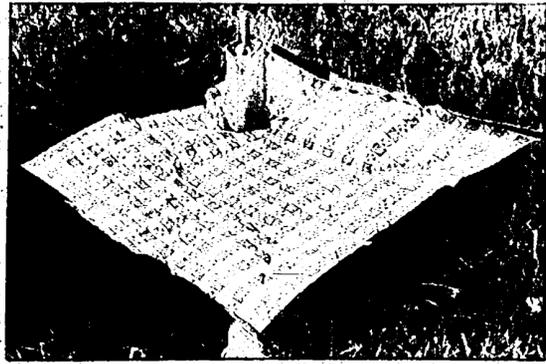

By the time the listeners reaches side two, most of this album's best moments are already past, and inconsistent filler makes a welcome (but not totally unexpected) appearance. It's a scary thought when you realize a song like "The Rainbow Ones" is as substantial lyrically as these guys get.

All in all, Waite fans will rejoice that he's fronting a band again, and Journey fans will find out what became of its musical core. Beyond the fans, it ain't clear whether Bad English will fly.

Clubs: A singles' option

Dear Barbara,
As an active single person, I read your column with great interest as to alternative ways that single men and women can meet.

It's true when many people are out of school or having gone through a divorce, they find it difficult to meet new people.

You mentioned a dating service as a good alternative way for people to meet, but unfortunately, these services do not come cheap and there is no guarantee of finding Mr./Miss Right. However, there are a great number of ways for single people to meet other than these services or going to the single bars.

One of the better ways is a singles group. Many groups are active and have a good balance of activities, such as volleyball, softball, lectures, field trips, concerts, etc. The big advantage is you can get to know someone at your own pace and you don't feel like you're in a "pick-up joint." Ward Church in Livonia has two excellent singles groups that are highly recommended.

Also there is a very large amount of singles dances that take place on a weekly basis. The Observer has a nice listing of the various organizations holding a dance. This gives the single person a chance for a night out that is inexpensive.

The cover to most of the dances is around $4, with a drink around $2, and there is a good opportunity to meet and socialize with people from all walks of life without the high pressure that you might feel in a bar.

So, if the single person has the motivation, there are some good alternatives to meet Mr./Miss Right.
Thanks,
D.L.K.

Dear D.L.K.,

Thanks for your time in answering my request to singles for more ideas about meeting each other. I have seen listings of singles events and wondered how successful they were.

During a recent talk show on this subject, I asked four single people if they had attended events listed in singles columns. I was disappointed to hear that none had.

I am happy to hear from you that others are taking advantage of community services that can help them.

The four singles in the discussion did agree that being open to new experiences is a most important attribute in being a successful single. They stressed the importance of being "out there." They said that although it seems obvious that you cannot meet people at home, many complaining singles do just that.

Thank you again for your upbeat, optimistic comments.

When wrestling is really 'rassling

"I couldn't believe I was in the ring with the guy I grew up watching on TV," said Storm, who added that he and his partner, Leaping Larry Wilson, come from non-existent place called "Little Chicago."

"I forgot all my moves. He gave me the cocobutt and I was out."

THE FLYING Tigers are similar to other independent wrestlers. They would like to latch on with WWF or NWA. The tag-team already has made the first step, adding their own version of Elizabeth, a black spandex-clad woman named Ilena the Wasp. That is in Wasp the bee, not white, Anglo-Saxon, Protestant.

The Flying Tigers said they make roughly $500-$600 a week. But they can log anywhere from 500 to 2,000 miles a week in their car. Their travel itinerary includes stops in such less than bustling metropolises as Corunna, Belleville and Bad Axe.

"I like the sound of that," Storm said, "Bad Axe."

The guy running the show is smoking a cigar. He takes the stogie out long enough to talk about his duties with Midwest All-Pro Wrestling, which is based in New Baltimore.

"I'm the founder, president, promoter and secretary . . . You name it, I'm it," said bald-headed guy with a Fu Manchu mustache, who is known as Iron Mike Anthony.

Anthony said his organization specializes in fund-raisers. The venues for the bouts include high school gymnasiums, small auditoriums, or in this case, a fairground.

Wherever, whatever the cause, wrestling fans flock. Tom Altschuler of Redford stands by the wrestler's entrance with a yellow folder. He asks he could speak to one of the wrestlers.

"I want to ask him about Dino Bravo," he said. "I want to know if this is the same Dino Bravo."

He opens the folder to reveal a wrestling program from a card in Minneapolis. The date on the program is Oct. 27, 1957. The action in the ring distracts his attention.

DENNY KASS and Irish Mickey Doyle are suddenly rolling around in the dirt outside the ring. Doyle picks up a "No Trespassing" sign (we interrupt this story for an observational question: Why in the heck would a "No Trespassing" sign by lying near ringside? Just asking.) and smacks Kass across the back with it.

Undone, Doyle finds a chair (there always seems to be one handy at a wrestling match) and promptly brings it over Kass' head. A mere mortal would be dead, but Kass keeps on scrapping. The two pound one another all the way back behind the fence where other wrestlers are congregated. Match over.

"If items continue to fly into the ring, we'll have to discontinue the matches," says the ring announcer in a crackling noise that sounds more like a toaster being dropped into the bathtub than a P.A. system.

Undaunted, the fans begin to chant "Bald Headed Geeks!" as Iron Mike Anthony and Mad Max enter the ring. If they put their heads together, they'd be able to moon the crowd.

Ilena the Wasp carries on the chant as The Flying Tigers leap into the ring. The action is furious, perhaps providing the best match of the night.

Jeanette and Jennifer Hill, both 15, think so. Wrestling fans, the identical twins coo in unison when asked about their favorite: "Ultimate Warrior."

Asked to assess this night's wrestlers, they come to agreement. "Not bad," said one. "I think some of them are pretty good."

Rio Grande Valley has plenty to see

"THERE'S A seven-week plebe system when the discipline is really strict — no radio, television or liberty. All you do is study, march, shine your shoes and your brass. You start gaining rank by performance and then you get all those things back."

"A person has to have a lot of motivation, has to really want to come here, or it doesn't work. If parents send you here against your will it has exactly the opposite effect to what they want."

McComb went to the academy for one year and went on to university. Chris Mann of Marshall went to the Marine Military Academy because it would help him to get into the naval academy at Annapolis, Md. His day was literally programmed from the moment he got up until the moment he went to bed at night.

"In some ways classes are easier at the academy because they make you study a certain time every night. I don't know whether I'd like it for several years, but it's good for me for one year."

"You learn to live by the clock."

There's absolutely no free time. You squeeze time in between getting your uniform ready and cleaning your room. You learn how to deal with different people, how you can be popular without being nice about everything."

Only you can decide whether a military school is right for you. It sounds like your father was wise to leave the decision up to you, instead of following the too-popular idea that "military school will whip my son into shape."

All MMA seniors take the Scholastic Aptitude Test and their scores are higher than the national average.

The students I talked to made this suggestion: Ask your parents to let you go and visit the school before you decide. Sounds like a great way to get a couple of days in the sun.

WHAT ELSE IS there to do in the area? There are three or four towns strung along the Rio Grande Valley, and most of them have bridges across the river to Mexico. Locals spend a lot of time eating, shopping and playing in the Mexican border cities.

It's probably heresy in some quarters, but Wim Wenders "Wings of Desire" didn't do it for me. In fact, even at fast forward, I was bored. But what do I know, it won best director honors at the 40th Cannes Film Festival.

It does have an interesting premise, an angel wants to be human in order to experience meaning, but the ways in which Wenders works out that idea lack cinematic force. For the most part, "Wings of Desire" is poetic meditation on existence and what it means to be human.

NOT ALL TALKY films, however, suffer from dullness. Eric Rohmer's latest parable on love, "Boyfriends and Girlfriends," is a delightful discussion of human foibles and the problems and process of love.

Despite the relative lack of physical action in this charming film, there are many nice touches, warm feelings about the nature of being human. These are, indeed, rich images that last.

"Boyfriends and Girlfriend" is surprisingly engaging given its lack of physical action.

Lazer takes his act to radio

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Comedian Gary Lazer is an early riser these days.

Lazer, 32, recently started working as a radio personality at WPLR-FM in New Haven, Conn. He and another stand-up comic do the morning drive time show.

Lazer has been on the job there for less than two months. He has no other experience in radio.

"None whatsoever, that's what's so exciting," he said. "So it's really kind of an interesting experience."

Rather than taking radio personalities and trying to make them funny, station staffers are having comedians work as radio personalities.

His radio program airs 6 to 10 a.m., "which is quite a change for me." He and the other comic do pre-recorded bits on a variety of subjects.

Lazer and his partner do some talking on the air and play rock and roll music — "It's very, very light and funny." They did a piece on what would happen at a Woodstock get-together in 1989. Such a gathering would include, for example, regular financial updates from the stage.

Lazer's originally from Florida, and moved to New York to attend New York University. He earned a bachelor's degree in fine arts with a concentration in theater.

Acting is part of Lazer's professional background. He stayed in New York City after graduation and did some work "off-off-off Broadway."

He started auditioning for comedy performances and has worked for about seven years in stand-up comedy, including three or four years as a full-time profession.

BEFORE THAT, Lazer waited on tables, sold shoes, "the stereotypical kind of stuff in New York."

He's found that stage time is the key to perfecting his craft. Whether there are three people in the audience or 100, stage time is what counts.

Lazer's done work for MTV, including "Gary's Guide to Comedy." He's noticed that at parties, partygoers who make others laugh are encouraged to pursue careers in comedy. The work is often seen as being easier than it is.

"There's just been such a saturation of comedy everywhere," he said.

And that's had an impact on audiences. Audiences used to be more receptive, but now there's more of a "make me laugh" attitude, Lazer said. He recommends that audience members pick and choose carefully. There are so many people working in comedy now, and some material is stolen.

"I think that's a danger in the business," he said.

Lazer writes his own material, a job he finds both rewarding and difficult.

"That's the hardest part of the whole job. Performing is great."

He bases his material in part on what he reads in newspapers. Personal observations form the basis of much of his work.

He writes about things that affect all of us, "dealing with everyday life. There's so much going on in the world right now. I think laughter is a way to release that."

CRIME, THE weather and other subjects appear in Lazer's performances. He's found audiences are receptive to his approach.

His job at the radio station includes doing the news. Lazer's getting a bit more topical in his comedy work, incorporating some of that news material.

His comedy work takes him throughout the country. On week-ends, he must fly out Friday night and return Sunday.

"I like the Midwest area... Chicago, Michigan." He also enjoys audiences in New York and Los Angeles.

Lazer's found audiences in the South are the least receptive. He sensed hostility there, as if those people still held a grudge over having lost the Civil War.

He's getting used to working early morning hours at the radio station.

"My body clock is just getting adjusted. Now I'm getting into the groove," he said. "Actually, it's been a pleasant change for me."

He plans to stay at WPLR-FM, if ratings for the show are good. It's too early to know that just yet, but Lazer has no regrets about working in radio.

Q. I am disorganized at the office and it is affecting my work. I am very good at tackling the big projects and excel at them. However, the little items and paperwork keep piling up and start getting in the way. Can you help me?

A. A key to your problem may be the way you refer to "big" versus "little" work. You seem to assign more importance to "big projects" while you view the "little items and paperwork" as unimportant pests that have no right to be there.

In fact, those little items are the cogs on the wheels that keep your job moving smoothly. If you don't maintain the vital components of machinery it won't function properly and neither will your job. Those little bits are integral to your career's survival and should be viewed as equally important as the "big" stuff.

Imagine a large contractor who is only concerned with moving hundreds of tons of dirt. If he ignores the oil, tires and other maintenance of his equipment, he could suddenly find his expensive machinery and workers idled. Or imagine a home where everything else is considered more important than cleaning up the kitchen. Those dishes pile up ever so quickly; they don't take long when they are fresh, but if they are left... the same is true at work. It is imperative that you schedule maintenance time every working day to handle what you consider the pesky stuff.

One reason paper accumulates is a lack of on-the-spot decision making. Rather than procrastinating and then having to shuffle through stacks repeatedly, learn the rule "touch it once." Perhaps half the papers on your desk should have been tossed immediately upon receipt and the rest handled right away.

At least place papers in an appropriate slot for action later - a dictation file, filing box or route to others. Take appropriate action as it arrives and then schedule time to do your filing, dictation and reading at specific times daily. Leaving it in a jumble is self-defeating.

One advantage of touching it once is maintaining a clear desk. This frees your mind to concentrate on the "big projects" without feeling weighed down by mountains of papers. The other reward is the time-saving ability to find what you need when you need it instead of having to dig through piles of debris several times a day.

Interior design seminar planned

Michigan Design Center of Troy, normally closed to the public, will serve as a backdrop for Schoolcraft College's "Design Directions '89," a comprehensive seminar on interiors to be held 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13.

Four prominent designers will share their expertise and offer advice on subjects all interior design enthusiasts can relate to, whether their taste is traditional, contemporary, country or eclectic. The cost is $55, including luncheon.

An additional feature of "Design Directions '89" is a specially guided tour of the Design Center for all participants. The facility annually serves a buying market of more than eight million professionals from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Ontario. The Center is open to the public only when accompanied by a designer, architect, furnishings retailer or contract specifier.

The three separate hour-long sessions with professional designers are: "How to Work with a Designer," Sheldon J. Scott; "Terrific Trends in Home Furnishings and Decorating," Sandra Sellgman and Kevin McManamon; and "How to Use Color, Light, Texture and Fabric Effectively," with Brian Killian.

Scott is a 25-year veteran consultant in the field who has been written about nationally for his award-winning work. He will discuss how to choose the right designer to fit the client's need, personality and budget. Scott's session is 9-10 a.m.

Sellgman and McManamon have a combination of 30 years of experience as professional designers. During their presentation, they show what works that's old, what's good that's new in the design market and what's best to bring out an individual's style.

Killian has more than a decade of design experience. His designs have recently been in the national spotlight and have been featured in local publications. His presentation of slides will show examples of how to use color, light, fabric and texture effectively. He will discuss their importance as keys to successful interior design.

Following luncheon will be the tour of the Design Center. Each group of 12 will be led by a professional from the International Furnishings and Design Association. For descriptive brochure and registration information, call Schoolcraft College Continuing Education Services, 462-4448.

condo queries Robert M. Meisner

Q. I am living in a two-story town house condominium on the first floor. My upstairs neighbor, who is a nice enough guy, unfortunately creates a terrible noise when he walks over my unit, a noise that is driving me crazy. I have met with the developer, who had previously promised that there was noise conditioning in the unit and that I would not experience any unreasonable noise problems from upstairs. I'm wondering if I'm going crazy or am unreasonable being concerned about this thud and am wondering what you would suggest I can do.

A. There are acoustical engineers who can define exactly whether or not adequate materials were used, by way of sound insulation, to deal with this noise problem. For example, the degree of impact being made by the upstairs person as it relates to your unit can be measured and qualified. There are standards to which developers should comply so as to maximize the use and enjoyment of a unit by a co-owner.

After you have considered and discussed this matter with an acoustical engineer, you should confront your developer with the results, assuming it shows that there is some liability on the part of the developer. You may also wish to consult with legal counsel to determine what rights you may have concerning representations made to you by the developer as well as the express or implied warranties that may go to the question of sound conditioning and sound transmission.

Q. I have basically a domestic relations and real estate question for you. My ex-wife and I jointly own the marital home, although she is residing in it. I am not happy with the way she is keeping it up, but it is not to be sold until our youngest son reaches the age of 18, three years from now. To make things worse, my ex-wife's lawyer encouraged her to insist that no clause forbidding cohabitation clause be inserted in the divorce decree. She has allowed some beatnik-type flower salesman to move in the house with the kids, operate a business out of the house and store cartons of seeds and other sundry items in one of the rooms on the first floor. I think the idea of cohabitation stinks and am worried about the property values. What can

I do?

A. I can certainly empathize with your plight regarding your concern of not only your real estate investment, but the welfare of your child. Perhaps the most expedient way of resolving the problem, assuming that you cannot get your ex-wife to agree to removing her "live-in" and otherwise to maintain the house more decently, is to seek protection through the courts in regard to the proper upbringing of your child in an effort to attempt to get the flower man out of the house together with his belongings.

It may also be that the flower man is violating the restrictions of the homeowners association in the neighborhood in which your ex-wife is residing, and since you are a co-owner of the premises, you may have standing in that regard.

You should consult with your divorce lawyer to determine what efforts you can take including change of custody.

A virus named Abby going after the gypsy moths

By Earl Aronson
AP Newsfeatures

Will Abby prove to be a potent new weapon against the gypsy moths that devastate trees in many parts of the country?

Abby is an improved biochemical virus strain that kills gypsy moth caterpillars but doesn't harm anything else, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture entomologist Martin Shapiro.

Abby is an NPV — nuclear polyhedrosis virus — that Shapiro named after the town of its origin, Abington, Mass. It has been studied for seven years among 19 different virus strains from all over the world. NPV strains produce a systemic infection in gypsy caterpillars. With Abby, reports Shapiro, "there's a higher kill early in the game."

Once applied, the new Abby could run its own moth-control program from year to year, often with no need to reapply, claims Shapiro. Abby could serve as an alternative to Bacillus thuringiensis bacteria or to Dimilin, a chemical that keeps gypsy moth caterpillars from reaching adulthood. The virus, unlike chemicals, is transmitted from generation to generation and is capable of self-perpetuation within the gypsy moth population, says Shapiro.

The Agricultural Research Service and Forest Service will conduct a joint dose-and-mortality field test with Abby. They will count the number of dead moth larvae and measure the amount of foliage protected by the virus. In field tests at the Beltsville, Md., lab, the new strain performed five times better than the lab's standard virus.

Gypsy moth populations have been exploding in recent years, and federal officials anticipate that this year and the next two years will be worse. All states east of Ohio and north of Virginia are infested with the moths, the officials reported. Pockets of infestation also have been found in California, Oregon, Wisconsin, Michigan, South Carolina and North Carolina.

The caterpillar eats the foliage of more than 500 species of trees, shrubs and ornamentals, but does most harm to American oaks and alders in forests and parks, along roadsides and in back yards.

The gypsy moth was brought to Massachusetts in 1869 by French biologist Louis Trouvelot as part of a silkworm-breeding experiment and escaped from the laboratory. The worst infestation was in 1982,

weeder's guide

Earl

when moth caterpillars defoliated about 8 million acres.

Work at the Beltsville Insect Reproduction Laboratory led to a way to rear moths to mass-produce the biochemical virus.

You can help fight gypsy moths by seeking out and destroying their eggs. Your Agricultural Extension Service office has educational information. Check for eggs on tree trunks, lawn furniture and stone walls, and under brush piles. Scrape egg masses into a can of kerosene, bleach or "tree wound" paint and destroy them.

Spray trees or shrubs with an insecticide, preferably a biological one that won't kill bees or other beneficial insects. Recommended is Bacillus thuringiensis, sold under various trade names such as Dipel, Thuricide and Bactospeine, or as "Organic Caterpillar Killer."

Biological controls — beneficial bugs, bacteria, fungi and even viruses — give chemical-free control in food production or require the use of much less chemical pesticide.

"Even where chemicals may not be suspected of polluting water or leaving residues on foods, they simply may no longer control a pest," says the USDA Agricultural Research Service. "Biocontrol can be a large part of the solution to these problems."

ARS biocontrol efforts include: negotiating two five-year agreements on research and exploration with the Soviet Union; sending scientists, starting in May, to China to explore for biocontrols of range weeds and water weeds, such as hydrilla; the gypsy moth virus project; and aiding eggplant growers, "who have seen proof that tiny wasps control Colorado potato beetles better than 15 spray applications of insecticides."
