City ads designed to attract industry

By Leonard Poger
editor

The city of Westland is preparing to toot its own horn starting today in a series of magazine ads aimed at attracting industrial developments.

The ads will start today in Crain's Detroit Business and continue through March. Other ads will appear in Michigan Business magazine.

The city hopes the promotion campaign, which will cost $18,000, will generate new industrial developments and bring in more tax money and create jobs, said Scott Veldhuis, the city's economic development director.

Many industrialists who live in Oakland County are not aware of what's available in Westland and western Wayne County, said Doris DeDeckere, president of Jade Associates, a public relations company developing the ads.

There are industrial sites close to Detroit Metro Airport, the I-275 freeway and a state highway, in addition to subdivisions and apartments developments, some with ponds and swans, golf courses and attractive housing.

Jade Associates created the community brochure about two years ago, plus some promotional materials for industrial companies, DeDeckere said.

The four ads prepared for Crain's weekly magazine touch four topics:

• Retail stores, which have built 1.5 million square feet in the city in the past two years;

• Westland being the southeastern Michigan leader in residential building permits;

• Advantages for industries locating in the city; and,

• What the city government is doing for existing businesses.

THE AD campaign is focused on industrial growth since the city does not have any problems attracting commercial developments, Veldhuis said.

Some of the work on the ads began earlier this year when the department was headed by Timothy Schroeder, he said.

The city advertised in a national magazine earlier. This generated interest from companies in the preliminary stages of locating facilities in EFFORTS are under way once again in the Michitech Industrial Park along the Westland-Canton Township boundary.

The Westland City Council this month re-approved preliminary platting for the city's portion of the park, bounded by Ford, Cherry Hill, John Hix and Lotz. The re-approval was required since the original platting was more than a year old.

City officials expect to begin filling the park once a north-south road is built. However, road construction has been slowed due to a portion of the park being declared a wetland by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The park, which is owned by Carlo Galuppi, has a long, troubled development history. It has been the slowest development among Westland's six industrial parks.

THE DYER Center Seniors were all dressed up with someplace to go — the center's annual Halloween Bash, held earlier this month.

Some 139 attended the dinner and party at the Dyer Westland school district's senior center.

Receiving prizes for their costumes were: Marge Goodall (gypsy), Chuck Gideau (witch), Mary Omar (Miss Liberty), Helen and Bill Cruickshank (Cabbage Patch Kids) and Betty Stroud (hunchback).

IN OTHER center news, members are invited to a farewell party for Polly Malaney, supervisor of the senior adult program, 2-5 p.m. Friday at the center, Marquette, east of Newburgh.

Advance registration is required.

FISCHER SCHOOL student Cherie Moore was the first-place winner of the Westland Fire Department's Fire Prevention Week poster contest.

Moore received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond for her poster, which used "Big Fires Start Small: Keep matches and lighters in the right hands" as its theme.

Runners up Claudia Flack (Kettering School), Courtney Sak (Hamilton), Melissa Hinken (Edison) and Kristina Colangelo (Fischer) received $50 savings bonds.

SOME $2,000 was raised for the Westland Junior Miss Scholarship Fund during an Oct. 7 bowl-a-thon.

The annual Junior Miss Pageant will be held Saturday, Nov. 11, in the Wayne Memorial High School auditorium.

THE WAYNE-WESTLAND Girl Scout Area Association will hold its fall meeting 7 p.m. Thursday at the Wayne County Intermediate School District office in the city of Wayne.

A slide presentation will focus on area events during 1989.

LOCAL AUTHORS Patricia Ellis ("Sweet Protection") and Linda Lang Bartoli ("Homes" and others) will be the featured speakers Saturday afternoon at Paperbacks N' Things, 9044 Wayne Road, between Joy and Cowan.

CANTON HILL has been named one of the most beautiful communities in the Westland-Canton area. The award was presented by the Westland-Canton Chamber of Commerce.

For psychic, election is in the stars

Forget the political controversies about retail development, fire hall closings and public safety.

Elizabeth would rather skip the conventional political debate and look at the Zodiac signs under which the candidates were born.

The Westland psychic and astrologer, who doesn't use her last name professionally, was reluctant to offer a specific prediction in the Nov. 7 mayoral and city council election.

But she did comment in an interview that the race between Mayor Charles Griffin and challenger Robert

Elizabeth, a psychic and astrologer who doesn't use her last name professionally, would rather skip the conventional political debate and look at the Zodiac signs under which the candidates were born.

Thomas "will be closer than expected."

In the fight among eight council candidates for four seats, "I see a close race," Elizabeth said.

On specific candidates, she analyzed council president Kenneth Mehl's Zodiac sign and said "I have him in question" for the election, just eight days away.

ELIZABETH, who occasionally hosts a radio psychic and astrology show and is seen on television, said she looks at the Westland candidates and their birth dates and where the planets were in relation to each other on those dates.

She said the two Virgos, Thomas (born Sept. 2, 1950) and Mehl, (Sept. 20, 1948), are "very analytical persons and good heads for business." Thomas is a municipal public services employee former union president, while Mehl is a transmission engineer for General Motors.

Westland youngsters can have their Halloween treats inspected Tuesday night by a metal detector for potential tampering, thanks to the Westland police department.

POLICE ISSUED a violation for the illegal discharge of a firearm Thursday to a 26-year-old Westland man after he allegedly pumped seven shots from two weapons into a bedroom wall. Nobody was injured in the incident in the 2100 block of Stalber, police said.

Officers responded to a call of shots fired at the home shortly after 1 a.m.

They were greeted by the man's wife, who told police she had been arguing with her husband, who was intoxicated.

She told police her husband went into the bedroom and that a short time later she heard three shots, followed a moment later by four additional shots. The woman told police she took their child and left the house.

When questioned by police, the man admitted he fired the shots into a bedroom wall because he was angry.

Officers observed seven bullet holes in the wall.

Police confiscated five spent shells, 27 live rounds of ammunition and two guns, a 12-gauge shotgun and a rifle, from the home.

A WOMAN in the 30800 block of Mackenzie told police someone broke into her house early Wednesday and stole a purse from the kitchen table.

The purse contained $45 cash, a credit card, a checkbook and personal identification, the woman told police.

The woman said she was awakened at 4:30 a.m. by the sound of dishes clanking in the kitchen.

When her husband went to investigate, he found a window over the kitchen sink open and the purse missing, the woman said.

THE OWNER of the Celebration party supply store told police a thief made off with $150 during a break-in late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

Officers responding to an alarm at 8:07 a.m. Wednesday found one of the store's doors open. The front part of the store, on Warren Road east of Venoy, had been ransacked and the telephone lines had been cut, police said.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry into the store.

candidates is Griffin; (born May 14, 1940) who was described by Elizabeth as "very loyal, trustworthy, but one who resists change."

The two Scorpios on the ballot are councilman Ben DeHart (born Nov. 22, 1939) and challenger Dorothy Smith (Nov. 4, 1920), who are "very intense and good in doing detail work in depth." DeHart is a union negotiator, while Smith is a humanities professor at Wayne State University.

Council member William Ziemia (born Jan. 2, 1952) and challenger Sandy Cicirelli (Jan. 1, 1952) are Capricorns who are "very hard working and the Rock of Gibraltar of the Zodiacs," Elizabeth said. Ziemia is a Ford Motor Co. engineer. Cicirelli is an attorney.

THE TWO candidates born under the sign of Cancer are council challengers Terri Reighard Johnson (born June 27, 1958) and Ethel Bollinger (July 16, 1938), who were viewed as "the teachers of the Zodiacs" and persons who want to treat people like family," Elizabeth said. Johnson is a member of the Wayne-Westland school board. Bollinger is a Wayne County Intermediate School District teacher's aide.

Council challenger Michael Bradley (born Jan. 21, 1929), the only Aquarius on the ballot, was described as very intelligent and sensitive.

HERE IS HOW Elizabeth views the candidates from a Zodiac perspective:

• Griffin: "Trustworthy, loyal, honest, very concerned, good family, and with a good balance of energies."

• Thomas: "Very much a politician-type personality, one who is out to save the world; one (who) would be a psychologist."

• Bollinger: "Can really speak out in a caring way; a good head for business; someone who wants to help everyone; a hard worker." (Bollinger and her husband have their own business.)

• Bradley: "Very intelligent, very sensitive, a great humanitarian. I see a very busy year coming up for him." (Bradley is a former Westland municipal judge and is now an attorney in private practice.)

• Cicirelli: "One who would very definitely speak out, very honest, one with open arms to people."

• DeHart: "People see him the way he is; an open and honest person, one who wants to get to the root of problems; a desire in life to help other people, and one who would have done well in a supervisory position."

• Johnson: "She is definitely in the right field (referring to her role as a school board member); people can learn a lot from her; this next year will be one in which she will speak out more; and one who treats people like family." (Johnson's full-time job is managing a truck leasing business.)

• Mehl: "One who weighs decisions carefully; very creative; very analytical and practical. But I have in question" his election chances next week. In the Sept. 12 primary, Mehl finished fourth among 13 candidates seeking eight nominations.

Friends of Nankin Mill plan yule event

Debbie Rea enjoyed the wine and cheese reception by the Friends of Nankin Mill.

HISTORY buffs combined wine, cheese and crackers with nostalgia Oct. 19 in raising money for a 125-year-old building.

Besides the food, the Friends of Nankin Mill helped raise nearly $1,100 for the building's restoration.

John Stewart, Wayne County historian, led tours of the building.

The mill is owned by Wayne County and occupied by the county's parks and recreation department.

The friends group was formed a year ago to help renovate the building on Ann Arbor Trail at Farmington Road. Beverly Melasi is the organization's president.

The organization is planning another major public event at the mill: The second annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony is scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 1.

Santa Claus is scheduled to make an appearance. Gov. James Blanchard has been invited.

At the lighting ceremony, there will be Christmas caroling and free refreshments.

Christmas tree ornaments will be available for $10. The ornaments will have a drawing of the Westland Helen C. Brown Historical Museum. Groups and individuals can buy them and place them on the Nankin Mill tree at the ceremony. The buyer's name will be written on the ornament.

Westland man to head suburban hospital group

George Brannen has been named executive vice president and chief operating officer for United Care Inc., which replaced the former Peoples Community Hospital Authority, owner of Annapolis and four other suburban hospitals.

Fred Blair, United Care president and chief executive officer, in announcing the appointment, said Brannen, a Westland resident, will be responsible for the operation of all United Care facilities.

Besides Annapolis in Wayne, United Care owns Beyer in Ypsilanti, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park, Balmoral Nursing Home in Trenton, the corporate office in Wayne, several outpatient clinics and other health related centers in Downriver and western Wayne County and eastern Washtenaw County.

In addition, Brannen will be responsible for implementing an agreement between United Care and the newly formed corporation called Oakwood United Hospitals Inc. that calls for United Care to provide a number of support services to Annapolis, Heritage and Seaway Hospitals through a purchase agreement.

Annapolis, Heritage and Seaway are owned by United Care, but the facilities will be leased to the new corporation, which was formed as a joint venture with Oakwood Health Services.

BRANNEN JOINED United Care last March as vice president of administrative and support services. A native of West Virginia, he was chief operating officer, Ohio Valley Medical Center in Wheeling, W. Va. He holds a bachelor of science degree from Capital University.

"The management team at United Care, guided by our board of directors, faces an exciting and unique opportunity during the next several years," Blair said.

"Our plan is to take a long hard look at the needs of the people we serve, then establish accessible and affordable programs to meet those needs. Health care includes not only the hospital care we already provide, but home health services, long term care, ambulatory services and behavioral medicine programs."

City ads aimed at industry

southeast Michigan, Veldhuis said. "There are some things that companies aren't aware that are going on in Westland."

His comments were echoed by DeDeckere, who said that the city is a "desirable place to live." This is shown by the community's leading the seven-county region in two-family and multi-family housing permits in the past year. Westland was also first in Wayne County in the number of all residential unit permits issued last year.

Westland officials are doing some things that are in sharp contrast with other cities, DeDeckere said.

FOR EXAMPLE, she said, the city has a process for quick review and approval of developments. In one case she knows of, a developer in an eastern Wayne County suburb has been waiting six months for a decision from the city.

She also praised the large number of residential developments in Westland, while "some cities haven't picked up a shovel (for that type of work) in a long time."

Residential growth is an important factor for attracting new industrial companies, she said, because the companies know that their employees like to live in or near the cities they work.

The series of four ads in Crain's and some in Michigan Business create a "circle of commitment" by Westland and should impress prospective developers, DeDeckere said.

One of the ads focuses on what services the city provides for existing industries such as road-widening projects and installation of new landscaping and utilities.

Another ad tells that the city has six industrial parks, is close to a freeway, has available land and buildings and gives quick review of building plans.

A third one tells of the retail growth in the past two years with the opening of Pace Warehouse, Art Van Furniture, Highland Appliance, Target, Mervyn's and others. Under construction is an eight-screen Showcase Cinema theater complex, scheduled to open next month, and a large Meijer store, expected to open next spring.

The fourth ad focuses on the volume of residential developments in the city.

AAA scares up fun for children

Spooks, witches, goblins and treats were the order of the day when costumed employees of AAA-Michigan's Livonia office brought Halloween fun to students at Webster School in Livonia.

AAA-Michigan hosted the party last Friday as part of its 10th annual "Light Up A Life" Halloween safety campaign.

The Livonia School District includes the northern section of Westland.

In addition to bringing Halloween magic, the campaign lets youngsters know how to go on their trick-or-treat rounds without mishap.

"Every year, children are injured in motor vehicle accidents and falls on Halloween," said Debra Jones, AAA-Michigan Livonia manager.

"We want to alert children to the possible dangers of trick-or-treating so that they enjoy harm-free fun on this special evening."

AS PART of the "Light Up A Life" campaign, AAA-Michigan has developed safety cards that include the following tips:

- Trick-or-treat while it is still light outside.
- Wear bright costumes with reflective paint or tape.

- Use makeup instead of a face mask. Masks obscure safe vision.

- Wear costumes short enough to prevent falling and shoes that provide good support.

- Carry a flashlight to light the way and to alert motorists.

- Cross streets at corners and look both ways before stepping off a curb. Never cross between parked cars or in the middle of the block.

- If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic.

- Adults should inspect treats before children eat them.

Computer in check?

Eerie overtones for human race

HUMAN 2, COMPUTER 0.
That was the score Sunday when Gary Kasparov, the world human chess champion, took on Deep Thought, the world computer chess champion, in a two-game match. Kasparov won easily enough, as was expected. But the fact that the match even took place has, to me, certain eerie overtones.

I keep hearing the voice of "HAL," the soft-spoken but inflexible computer in "2001: A Space Odyssey," Stanley Kubrick's big-screen version of Arthur C. Clarke's novel about men pitted against machines of their own making.

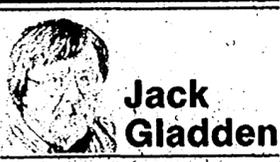

Deep Thought lost this match. But last Thanksgiving, at a competition that mixed human players with computers, it (he?) defeated a grandmaster and tied for first place in the competition. It was the first time a computer had shared the top prize in a chess match.

Many chess experts, including Kasparov, doubt that a computer can ever play chess with the imagination of a human.

But Deep Thought's creators figure that with more power and more efficient chips (Deep Thought's brain, if you will), their silicon-headed competitor can perform even better at some point in the future.

Even Kasparov acknowledges that the "next generation" of computer competitors might have some surprises.

We'll have to wait and see.

Jack Gladden

planted in some software programs and set to wreak havoc any time Friday the 13th rolls around.

Some computer owners did report problems that day, but, so far as I know, no massive attacks occurred.

Several months earlier, however, a virus had caused considerable problems when it showed up in university and military computer systems across the country.

And the New York Post reported Monday that a sex game has been entered in the computer controlling that city's fleet of EMS ambulances.

Officials would neither confirm nor deny that the game was in the system, but some people worried that if the report were true, ambulance response time could be affected by dispatchers who might be involved in other activities.

The fact is that computers have become an integral part of our society. School and university officials worry that students will graduate without being "computer literate." That concern, while quite legitimate today, smacks of the "missile gap" that we heard so much about in the early '60s.

And the "home computer market" has finally become a reality. More and more individuals are operating computers out of their homes. Some have jobs that allow them to work from home.

As more on-line services become available, an individual with a computer and a telephone modem can send mail, do banking, look up information in reference libraries and even shop for the groceries without ever leaving the house.

I love it. I love computers. But Deep Thought worries me a little bit. He reminds me of a joke I heard back in the 1950s, when silicon chips and home computers were still unknown.

The story was that a group of scientists hooked every computer in the world up to a single network, thus putting all of the world's knowledge into a single data bank.

When the system was ready to run, the scientists could think of only one question that would test it properly. An operator sat at the keyboard and typed: "Is there a God?"

After a few seconds the answer appeared on the screen: "There is now."

I hope Deep Thought doesn't know that story.

Need to invest in people

By Lyn Bankes special writer

(The following guest column was written by state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, concerning her impressions after recently attending a conference at Harvard on issues of the future.)

Our nation's economy is going to change — perhaps radically — by the year 2000.

The workforce of the future will not be the same as today's employees; global competition for jobs will replace regional competition, and U.S. markets may shrink drastically as early as 1992. To meet these challenges, state legislatures must be willing to make hard decisions.

These facts were underscored at a recent seminar I attended at Harvard University. The Washington, D.C.-based Women's Campaign Research Fund chose one woman leader from each state to participate in the conference on issues of the future

WE ARE changing in quiet ways. The gap between the haves and the have-nots is widening. No longer can most households live on just one income. Due to the high cost of raising children, our families have become much smaller. Home ownership has decreased.

These social and economic changes will be further affected by the change in global competition.

The 1992 trade pact among European countries, along with the ever-increasing Japanese presence, will tighten markets for U.S. products. Our nation will face an even greater export balance, which will affect the number of jobs in America.

Government has to make some hard decisions regarding the future of the United States. That means citizens have to become more involved in the election process and choose people who are willing to enact those decisions.

THE U.S. must make a greater public investment in our people. Education, job training, adequate work environments, quality child care — all these will help keep us competitive in the world market.

We do not want U.S. manufacturers moving to other countries because our workforce lacks the skills needed for quality design and production. We want to remain a viable, respected and competitive nation.

Our economy is only one of several global concerns to change in the years ahead.

The intense five-day seminar at Harvard also concentrated on the topics of crime, the environment, health, education and the drug problem.

The decisions state legislators make on each of these issues will determine how we measure the quality of life in the United States and Michigan in the next century.

Am shocked by coverage

To the Editor:
I was shocked and outraged at the photograph and article on the front page of the "Street Scene" section on Sept. 25, 1989, about bar bouncers. I used to look forward to reading the Observer every Monday and Thursday, but lately I have lost a lot of respect for the Observer's contents.

Taxpayer rights detailed

"Your Rights As A Taxpayer" is a six page overview, written in clear language, of all rights and responsibilities of taxpayers in dealing with the Internal Revenue Service.

"This publication not only informs Michigan taxpayers about those rights and responsibilities, but it also includes telephone numbers and addresses for additional free information and help on tax matters," said John Hummel, IRS district director in Detroit.

"Existing, more detailed publications on examination, collection and appeal rights and procedures continue to be available, but publication number one provides a good summary and overview of all taxpayer rights in one document."

Publication 1 is available at local IRS offices around the state or by calling the toll free forms order number, 1-800-424-3676.

NEA chief blasts 'assembly line' schools

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Newly-elected NEA president Keith Geiger admitted a room full of lawyers and school board members was an unusual place to find a union leader — especially one making his first official visit to his home state.

But, contract talks aside, the head of the nation's largest teacher's union said there should be no difference between faculty, administration and community goals.

"We all want the same thing," said Geiger, a former teacher in the Livonia district and past Michigan Education Association president.

He's clear as to what that should be.

"New, decentralized decision-making is needed, Geiger said, if America's schools are to prepare students for the 1990s and beyond.

"OUR NATION long ago entered the information age — but many of our schools remain trapped in the industrial age, or, even worse, the agricultural age," Geiger said Thursday in an address to the Michigan Council of School Attorneys.

Speaking at Cobo Hall, less than 1,000 feet from the spot where the Ford Motor Co. was chartered, the National Education Association chief said school districts need to change their "assembly line approach."

"The assembly line keeps churning students toward graduation," Geiger said. "Teachers have little or no voice in curriculum and precious little say in educational materials. Students, whether round, square, or triangular, are all forced into the same mold."

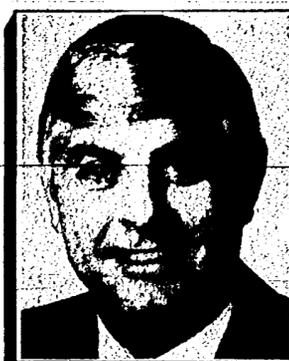

"Site-based decision making, giving greater authority to principals and teachers, is the best solution to America's education crisis, Geiger said.

Parents, he added, must be included in school decisions.

"I taught high school in the 1960s," he said. "And one of the worst things to come out of that era was that teachers and parents drifted very far apart. We need to correct that."

Geiger received polite, if not overwhelming applause from his audience, apparently winning their respect.

"He's a brave man for even being here," said council-of-school attorneys board member Barbara Ruga of Grand Rapids. The attorney group is an offshoot of the Michigan Association of School Boards.

'The assembly line keeps churning students toward graduation. Students, whether round, square, or triangular, are all forced into the same mold.'

— Keith Geiger
NEA president

Geiger will bring his beliefs to a presidential education advisory committee. He was recently appointed by President George Bush.

Schools aren't immune to problems in the family or in the local economy, he said, adding he will stress that point to government leaders.

"The federal government must take on increased responsibility for getting children to school at age 5, ready to learn," he said.

Geiger, 48, taught mathematics and science in the Livonia Schools. He was chosen NEA president in July, after spending six years as a vice president of the 1.98 million member union.

As NEA president, Geiger crosses the country speaking on education issues. More than half his appearances are before corporations and other non-union audiences.

Geiger and his wife, Janet, a third grade teacher, live in Fairfax, Virginia, a Washington D.C. suburb. The couple has two sons.

And Kitchen Glamor with stores in Redford, Rochester and West Bloomfield is considered to be the grandfather of them all. This family-owned operation has always maintained a full line of quality cookware, cookbooks and kitchen accessories. Throughout the '70s, it brought the greats of the American kitchen, such as Julia Child, James Beard and Richard Olney, to their demonstration kitchen. They shared with us their expertise in a way that has never been duplicated. Today, Kitchen Glamor is probably Williams-Sonoma's strongest competitor in Michigan.

Founded in the wine country of California in 1956, Williams-Sonoma is now the largest retail distributor of kitchenware today.

The Somerset store was the 60th store, just a year ago when it opened. By now, the chain has grown to 75 stores. Although there have been rumors of other Williams-Sonoma shops opening in Michigan, the Somerset store is the only one in the state.

Founder Chuck Williams has been involved with cooking and shopping for cooking equipment throughout Europe for much of his life. When he opened his first store in Sonoma, it was stocked with wares from Spain, Portugal, France, Denmark, Germany and Italy.

By the early '60s his reputation as a purveyor of fine European cookware was known to all the great American cooks. James Beard, Helen Evans Brown and Julia Child would stop by his store every time they came to San Francisco. In 1973, the catalog business was started with the help of Ed Marcus of Neiman-Marcus. Within a few years, Williams was regarded as a master in the kitchen-shop business.

FOR THOSE of us who were addicted to collecting gourmet kitchen gadgets then, the Williams-Sonoma catalog was an oasis filled with specialized kitchen items and gourmet foods unavailable in the Detroit area.

Gadgets such as fresh truffle slicers, French banneton bread molds and Italian balsamic vinegar could be discovered by reading the "Catalog for Cooks," long before these items could be found in the retail shops.

In 1978, Williams sold the company to Howard Lester for $100,000. Although Williams is no longer the owner, he is very much involved with the day-to-day operations as director and vice chairman of the board.

What's the secret for such success? When I posed that question to David Smith, manager of the Somerset store, he replied, "The thing which the company stresses is that we give legendary customer service. We will do whatever is necessary to please the customer. Our customers expect quality. Everything we sell Chuck Williams approves. He still goes on buying trips all over the world, and that's what made it the store it is today."

JIM RIDER/staff photographer

So what's hot for the holidays? According to Smith, what Williams-Sonoma, Somerset, is expecting to be hot are espresso makers, coffee grinders, coffee beans and all the accessories to go with them. The traditional Christmas imported foods such as panettone (an egg bread with raisins, orange and citron from Milan), Italian panforte (a rich confection made with almonds, hazelnuts, candied fruit and spices) or Christmas plum pudding are consistently popular year after year.

Three years ago, Chuck Williams published, what else — the Williams-Sonoma Cookbook and Guide to Kitchenware (1986, Random House, New York). Many of the recipes that have been printed in the company's catalog over the years can be found in the book. In the introduction the author describes his career and how he built the Williams-Sonoma business.

As you would expect, there is a significant chapter entitled "Equipment." Here in good detail Williams discusses the purpose and care of 400 specialized pans, pans, knives, tools and electric machines. Most of his recipes I've tested have worked out successfully and pleasantly. Most of them are traditional dishes such as chocolate angel cake, scampi, or steak and kidney pie. Others are more creative.

These recipes are from "The Williams-Sonoma Cookbook and Guide to Kitchenware."

French onion soup enhanced with beef

There's nothing tastier than French onion soup, unless it's that same soup with beef added. The meat makes it satisfying enough to be a main dish. In just 10 minutes preparation and cooking time you will have a delicious dinner for 2.

FRENCH ONION BEEF SOUP
two 1-inch thick slices French bread

1 1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese (1 ounce)
1 small onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
one 10 1/4-ounce can condensed French onion soup
1 soup can (1 1/2 cups) hot water
4 ounces cubed cooked beef

Place the bread slices on the unheated rack of a broiler pan. Broil 4 inches from the heat about 1 minute or until toasted. Top bread with Swiss cheese and broil about 1 minute more or until cheese melts.

Meanwhile, in a medium skillet cook onion rings in margarine about 5 minutes or until very tender. Stir in condensed soup, hot water and beef. Bring to boiling, stirring occasionally. To serve, ladle soup into serving bowl. Top with bread. Makes 2 servings.

Spooky Stew is great for goblins

Halloween was my favorite day of the year when I was growing up — except for Christmas day, of course. Even now as an adult, I look forward to it almost as much as my boys do.

I still take great delight in coming up with wonderful, creative ideas for their costumes, even though they are usually summarily rejected with cries of, "Oh, Mom, get real!" We muddle through and eventually compromise so that they are happy with their costumes and I'm not totally mortified by their appearance.

For me, Halloween is the turning point of the autumn season, signaled by the pungent smell of burning leaves and the sight of carved pumpkins on doorsteps. The changing color of the leaves against a deep blue October sky and a nip in the air make me look forward to being warm and cozy.

With the change in temperature comes the desire to have heartier meals that fill the house with fragrant aromas.

Thus, when I received a recipe for Spooky Stew, submitted by Tsch Hunter, shortly before she moved from Bloomfield Township to Lake Forest, Ill., I was most excited to try it.

Hunter's husband, Tom, grew up on this stew, which was a favorite and frequent meal during the hockey season he participated in during high school.

HAVING FIRST-HAND experience of the excitement and confusion that most families go through at dinner on Halloween, I understand the importance of having a dinner that can be quickly and easily served.

Taking a little poetic license, I offer you this week's Winner Dinner, Spooky Stew, a.k.a. Hockey Stew, as a filling and nutritious meal for your little ghosts and goblins. Because the colors orange and black are so symbolic of Halloween, a grated carrot and raisin salad is a most appropriate choice and will, you might remind your trick or treaters, enhance their ability to see better in the darkness. Slices of freshly baked pumpkin bread help round out this fun and festive dinner.

Wishing all the best to Hunter and her family as they begin a new life in Illinois, with thanks for sharing this recipe, and congratulations on being our Winner Dinner Winner of the week.

Have a safe and happy Halloween. Here's hoping that this week's Winner Dinner will light up your pumpkin.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. Please include a complete dinner, with recipes as needed. All submissions become the property of the publisher.

Each week's recipes are printed the same size, so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder. Use a paper punch to make holes in the clipping, or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper. Another option is to simply file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

SPOOKY STEW

This hearty beef stew takes about 20 minutes to prepare. It can be made in the morning, covered and refrigerated until placed in the oven. If it overcooks, just add more wine, water or beef broth. It is delicious reheated and amply feeds 4-6 people.

- 3 cups sliced carrots
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar

- 1 teaspoon basil or marjoram (dry)
- 1 can (16-ounce) tomatoes
- 1 1/4 cups hearty Burgundy wine
- 1 can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
- 4 potatoes, peeled and cooked separately

Spray a large, covered casserole dish or ovenproof Dutch oven with a non-stick spray and combine the following ingredients: Meat, carrots, celery and onions. Mix flour, sugar, salt and basil and stir into meat mixture. Add the canned tomatoes and 1 cup of wine. Cover tightly and bake at 300 degrees for 3 1/2 hours. Cook the quartered potatoes separately. Notes

Dish has apricot stuffing

The tenderloin is the leanest pork cut; start with it for this elegant stuffed entree. Each serving contains only 5 grams of fat out of the 67 that's the recommended maximum for most of us. Tenderloin costs more per pound than some cuts, but there's no waste and you can plan on 6 servings from a pound.

PORK PINWHEELS WITH APRICOT STUFFING

- one 1-pound pork tenderloin
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon granules
- 3/4 cup hot water
- 1/2 cup snipped dried apricots
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- dash pepper
- 2 cups whole-wheat bread cubes
- 1 1/4 teaspoons cornstarch
- dash ground nutmeg
- 1 cup apricot nectar

Split tenderloin lengthwise, cutting to, but not through, opposite side; open out flat. Pound tenderloin lightly with meat mallet to a 10-by-6-inch rectangle.

For filling, dissolve bouillon granules in hot water; pour over apricots. Let stand 5 minutes. In a small skillet cook onion and celery in margarine until tender but not brown. Remove from heat; stir in cinnamon and pepper. In a large mixing bowl combine bread cubes, onion mixture and apricot mixture; toss lightly to moisten.

Spread filling evenly over tenderloin. Roll up jelly-roll style, starting from short side. Secure meat roll with wooden toothpicks or tie with string at 1-inch intervals beginning 1 1/4 inch from end. Cut meat roll into six 1-inch slices.

Place meat slices on rack of unheated broiler pan, cut side down. Broil 4 inches from heat 12 minutes. Turn; broil 11-13 minutes more or until done. Remove toothpicks or string; transfer meat to a serving platter.

Meanwhile, for sauce, combine cornstarch and nutmeg. Stir in apricot nectar. Cook and stir until mixture is bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more. Serve with meat slices. Makes 6 servings.

Andre Dawson's most devoted fan couldn't remember his name.

"My grandmother was like a mother to me. I turned to her for motivation and inspiration. But with Alzheimer's Disease, she gradually forgot the people around her. She couldn't even recognize me. All I could do was witness a very long, slow death...and suffer watching."

Andre Dawson knows first-hand the isolation and loneliness of caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease. Now for the millions of family members who stand by a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease... there's someone to stand by you. The Alzheimer's Association.

At the Alzheimer's Association, we have support groups where you can get in touch with your feelings. And community services that can put you in touch with the facts. And, we are leading the way in funding medical research that hopefully, one day, will put us all in touch with the cure.

SC nears agreement on staffing

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

An agreement on staffing levels at Schoolcraft College could be near.

Faculty members, as long ago as last spring, expressed a concern that part-time, non-union instructors were taking on an increasing classroom load.

Since then, college staff and representatives of the Schoolcraft Faculty Forum teachers union have discussed staffing alternatives.

Though neither side has reached agreement, a preliminary proposal received generally favorable comments when presented to trustees Wednesday night.

Under the draft, full-time staff numbers would be reviewed by the board each February, with staff levels adjusted according to student enrollment and "historical staffing patterns" — the base number of full-time teachers employed during the years 1984-88.

Schoolcraft Faculty Forum President Lowell Cook said he believed the proposal wouldn't overly restrict college hiring or eliminate the use of part-time instructors.

"THIS DOESN'T tie anyone's hands," Cook said.

But not everyone agreed.

Trustee Michael Burley said the proposal would leave both faculty members and college administrators dissatisfied.

"I've never seen it work," Burley said.

Other trustees, however, said they believed the proposal could work.

"There might not always be total agreement, but it will serve a useful purpose," said Trustee Jack Kirksey.

Trustee Jeanne Stempfen likened the proposed agreement to the U.S. Constitution—a general guide, open to interpretation over specific details.

Fellow Trustee Thaddeus McCotter praised faculty and administrators for "approaching this in a rational manner."

Veteran Trustee Harry Greenleaf, however, said it would take faculty cooperation to make any agreement a success.

"As we look at programs that are no longer viable, we need to look at redirecting faculty," Greenleaf said. "But the motivation (to retrain) has to be there, too."

The agreement would also determine staffing for counselors and librarians by student enrollment and credit hours, as well as by work load. Staffing for other employees would be maintained at "appropriate levels."

Faculty members raised the issue prior to last spring's trustee election, though they said the issue had been "simmering for a long time."

Faculty forum members have said they were concerned, in part, because veteran faculty members — some of whom have been with the college since its early 1960s beginning — have been steadily retiring in recent years. New, full-time instructors, they said, are needed to take their place.

An agreement could be ratified by trustees during their December meeting, Cook said. Faculty members could vote on the agreement in early January, he added.

High school contest marks anniversary of copyright law

Michigan high school students are encouraged to enter a national creativity contest sponsored by the U.S. Copyright Office and the National School Boards Association to honor the 200th anniversary of the Federal Copyright Law.

The Young Creator's Contest is designed to provide young people with an education about the relationship between copyright and creativity and an incentive to make a creative contribution to society. The seven categories are short story, poem, musical work, dramatic work, videotape or audio visual work, photograph or computer program.

The individual winner in each category will receive an all expense paid four day trip to Washington, D.C. in May 1990 to participate in the Copyright Law Bicentennial activities. There will be an exhibit of many of the best works at the Library of Congress; this exhibit will then go on tour.

Deadline for entries is Jan. 15, 1990. For more information, call (202) 707-6800.

Candy lady to collect excess Halloween treats for boys home

Parents looking to unload some of the sweet treats their little goblins will collect Halloween night can take the excess goodies to the Candy Lady of Oak Park.

The candy lady, also known as Joy Landau, again this year will collect candy for distribution at the Maxey Boys Home where about 750 kids who otherwise would receive no treats will be the recipients.

"This project helps mom and dad by getting unwanted candy out of your house," Landau said. "And it comes into the hands of kids who get very little in the way of sweet treats.

"Most importantly we give our kids a chance to learn to share. Sharing candy is just about the hardest thing a child can do."

Landau will receive the candy at her house until Nov. 20. She lives at 24231 Gardner, Oak Park, between Coolidge and Greenfield, a block south of 10 Mile.

"Talk with your PTA, clubs, neighbors, and see if they too can send candy for the kids," she said.

Halloween safety tips offered for trick-or-treaters

Halloween, one of the most festive occasions, will soon be here. While many parents' trick-or-treat worries concern child abductions and candy tampering, such easily overlooked dangers as pedestrian accidents and falls are much more commonplace, according to the National Safety Council.

To help ensure a safe Halloween for parents and children, the council offers these safety guidelines:

- Children's costumes should be large enough so that warm clothing can be worn underneath, yet short enough so the child won't trip. Avoid shoes that make walking difficult.

- For visibility, use light colors in costumes and attach retro-reflective tape to them. Have trick-or-treaters use retro-reflective tape, according to the National Safety Council.

- Attach a small child's name, address and phone number inside his sleeve, in case he gets lost. Do not, however, openly display this personal information on the child's costume.

- Masks can obscure a child's vision. Use non-toxic makeup instead.

- Be sure kids travel only in familiar neighborhoods and that they don't enter strange homes or apartments. They should follow a designated travel route with a definite return time, and not trick-or-treat past dark. Give them coins to call home if problems arise.

- Remind kids not to eat any treat before you have inspected it. Give trick-or-treaters a snack before they start to curb their appetites.

- Teach kids pedestrian safety: walk on sidewalks, not in the streets. In areas with no sidewalks, walk on the left side, facing traffic, as far off the roadway as possible. When crossing, stop at the curb or corner, and look left, right, then left again. Keep looking until you have crossed the street safely.

- Motorists should slow down in residential areas and watch for children.

CHANGING ARTHRITIS MEDICATIONS

If a medicine for arthritis isn't working, why not drop it and try another?

That advice seems sensible, but your doctor may be reluctant to follow such a course. The reasons are two-fold.

First, arthritis medications have side effects, and you incur a risk with each change you make. Such untoward reactions include stomach ulcers, damage to liver cells, and possible loss of the kidney's ability to function. There is no guarantee that having used one anti-inflammatory medication with no ill effects, that you can start another with impunity. In addition, if you have other medical problems, you run the risk of possible interaction between your new arthritis medication and your other drugs.

Second, your conclusion that the present medication is ineffective may be incorrect. Cases abound where an individual stops a medicine because of its supposed lack of effect, only to develop pain far beyond what was imagined possible.

Arthritis can flare so that no change in medication suffices. Rather than starting a new regimen with its risks of failure and side effects, such times most often call for heat, rest, joint injections and reliance on current medication.

Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. Spartans stun Churchill in district

Smolenski blocks Chargers; Stevenson's Scerri to resign

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Thanks to a spectacular effort from goalie Jerry Smolenski, defending Class A boys soccer champion Livonia Stevenson is still alive in the state tournament.

The Spartans defeated top-ranked and unbeaten city rival Livonia Churchill, 3-2, in a shootout to claim an unprecedented eighth straight district title Saturday at Northville.

But lost in all the euphoria of the thrilling come-from-behind victory was word that Stevenson's Pete Scerri, the state's all-time winningest coach (with four state crowns), will step down after the season ends.

Reportedly tired of confrontations and pressures put on him by parents, Scerri has informed Stevenson athletic director Roger Frayer of his intentions, but has not formally submitted a letter of resignation.

"I thought this was my last game," Scerri said. "But I don't know, I guess I believe in miracles. I'm really proud of these guys. They're all heart. I think this is going to put stars in our eyes."

Stevenson, now 13-2-2 overall, travels Wednesday to Plymouth Salem (14-3-1) for a regional semifinal. (Game time is 7 p.m.)

SMOLENSKI, the starting goalie on last year's state championship team, survived a rough first half to spark the Spartan victory.

In the first overtime he stopped a penalty kick by the Chargers' high-scoring John Gentile.

And in the shootout, where each team is given five penalty shots, he saved two more.

Stevenson outscored the Chargers in the shootout, 4-2, on goals by

Jason Flynn, Doug Morrell, Chris Pinta and Scott Ceru (the clincher).

"My God, didn't he (Smolenski) prove something out there today by saving those two?" said Scerri. "I don't care what they say, he's the best goalkeeper around."

The loss may haunt Churchill, which bowed out with a 15-1-1 overall record, for quite some time.

The Chargers, who had beaten Stevenson once in a regular season game and tied the Spartans in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship game on Oct. 18, seemed to have everything going their way, jumping out to a 2-0 first-half lead as Brady Ericson scored twice.

BUT CHURCHILL COACH John Neff, who had no comment after the heartbreaking defeat, made a curious strategic move after the second goal.

He moved Ericson to the backline as a stopper. The Chargers suddenly went into a defensive shell. "We had to push up, we had to gamble with a man up, we needed a goal to get back in the game," Scerri said.

And led by the tireless play of set-up man Brian Mitchell, the Spartans began to apply the pressure, scoring a pair of goals to tie it at 2-2. The first came on a header by Shane Millner at 28:05; the other, on a Flynn penalty kick with 14:26 left in regulation play.

But, the momentum quickly swayed back to Churchill in the final minutes of regulation.

Millner, Stevenson's top scoring threat, was banished with a red-card with 2:17 to go, leaving the Spartans a man short.

But Stevenson persevered through 20 minutes of overtime and 10 more minutes of sudden death to force the shootout where Smolenski came up big.

"YOU NEVER really practice it, you just have to learn a few tricks," said the Stevenson goalie on stopping penalty kicks. "You look for something, maybe the shooter's eyes, or the way he moves his hips and shoulders. It's really a psychological thing between you and the shooter."

Churchill can only kick itself for not capitalizing with a man-advantage for nearly 33 minutes.

"You just have to have two men in front, not leave any gaps in the mid-field, and just play kickball," Scerri said. "To beat a team like that with only 10 men is really something."

"If they had scored (on Gentile's OT penalty kick) I don't think we could have come back and won," Smolenski added. "It's total confusion when you have people playing one short. You just have to keep talking and make sure somebody is always marked on a man."

The two quick Churchill first-half goals, however, coming at 38:35 and 20:47, couldn't stand up.

"We came out flat and I don't know why," said Smolenski. "But we didn't panic. We showed a lot of character."

John Glenn finishes off Zebras, 30-6

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Wayne Memorial literally heard the sound of Tapps from the opening kickoff Friday.

Westland John Glenn's Shannon Layne handed the ball to teammate Mark Wetmore on a nifty reverse play, sprinting 53 yards before being caught by kicker Brent Tapp, who paid the price for his touchdown-saving tackle.

Tapp, who also happens to be Wayne's starting quarterback, was lost for the night with a separated right shoulder and the Zebras were never the same in his absence, absorbing a 30-6 drubbing at the hands of the state-playoff bound Rockets.

Glenn intercepted Tapp's replacement, Todd Florn, five times. The Rockets, who finished the season at 8-1, converted two of those turnovers into early touchdowns.

"We've had that reverse play in for about six weeks," explained Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, whose team led 30-0 at the half. "We got out on them fast, but that injury really hurt them. Wayne's a different team with Tapp in there."

GLENN WASTED little time in capitalizing on Wayne's misfortune. The Rockets took the opening possession 42 yards in eight plays with Layne, the senior tailback, going in from 3 yards out. He lined up in the backfield behind "elephant backs" Garnett Woody, a 6-foot-3, 203-pound light end, and Alex Kaye, 6-2, 208-pound offensive tackle.

After Layne's score with 6:58 to play in the opening quarter, the Rockets' Ken Oliver intercepted a Wayne pass and returned it to the Zebras' 12.

At the 5:02 mark, fullback Alonzo Jackson busted through the Zebras' line and crashed into the end zone from 12 yards out. Wes Taylor added the extra point to make it 14-0.

On Wayne's next possession, nose guard Sam Weddington of Glenn gobbled up a deflected pass and raced in from 13 yards out for another Rockets' TD with 3:10 left in the period.

"We got field position and the breaks early," Gordon said, "and we were able to take advantage of them."

Leading 21-0 after one quarter, Glenn continued its assault, scoring with 7:44 left before intermission when Eric Stover hurled a 31-yard strike to Wetmore, who made a sprawling catch between two Wayne defenders.

"THE KIDS were reeling and kind of shocked when Tapp went down," said Wayne coach Chuck Howton. "Our level of intensity dropped. They got the ball a number of times inside our 20 and took advantage. Glenn is too good a team to let that happen to you."

The Rockets, who have excelled this season at running the "hurry-up" offense, marched down 92 yards in less than four minutes, resulting in a 20-yard field goal by Taylor, who made up for missing an extra point and a 44-yard field goal attempt.

"Eric (Stover) is very smart and we have a lot of confidence in him as our quarterback," Gordon said. "He can read coverages and he puts us in good position a lot of times because of the way he thinks out there."

With a 30-0 Glenn halftime lead, the second half became almost academic.

Wayne averted the shutout when Florn, who starts at defensive cornerback, connected with Larry

Encore effort Garden City stalls Edsel in NSL race

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Garden City Cougars proved to be the "Ready for Prime Time Players" Thursday night.

They turned in a masterful performance in handing visiting Dearborn Edsel Ford its first Northwest Suburban League basketball loss of the year, 50-43.

Junior point-guard Carolyn Shanks, who has been on a tear of late, poured in a game-high 20 points to pull the Cougars even with the Thunderbirds in the loss column for first place in the NSL.

Garden City is now 10-7 overall and 6-1 in the league, while Edsel, which had a 14-game winning streak snapped, fell to 14-2 overall and 6-1 in the NSL.

"It's always a war with Edsel Ford and I'm just tickled pink because this is a big win for us," said GC coach Marshall Henry. "We've beaten our brains out with some tough non-league opponents and lost some close games, but it helps us in the league."

The win couldn't have come at a better time for the Cougars, who got the royal treatment from their backers. They played before a bolstered pep band and cable TV cameras, not to mention a performance at halftime by the school's flag girls. The pre-game introductions were blared to the tune of "Eye of the Tiger."

"IT'S THE KIND of atmosphere we wanted," Henry said. "It's kind of been our tradition here

girls basketball

over the years at Garden City."

Ironically, the Cougars got off to one of their traditional slow starts.

Edsel led 14-9 after the first period and as many as eight in the second quarter before GC rallied to within one at intermission, 26-25, thanks to a free throw by Michele Tyree with only tick of the clock left.

In the third quarter the Cougars slowed the fast-breaking T-Birds down to a walk, befuddling the league leaders with a 2-1-2 zone defense.

Shanks, who is quick as a cat, scored eight points as the Cougars stunned Edsel with a 14-0 run, taking a 38-26 advantage after three quarters.

"We wanted to slow it down and play half-court basketball because when Edsel starts running, they're tough to beat," Henry said.

Edsel, which had gone scoreless for 10 minutes and 49 seconds, broke the drought on a free throw by Janet Lewandowski with 7:11 remaining in the final quarter.

And before the Cougars knew it, their 13-point four-quarter lead had diminished to just two, 41-39, on a free throw by Jenny Hopp with 3:30 to go.

baskets from Krystal Matesic (11 points) to seal the victory.

Lynn Gowen and Karla Matesic each added six points for the Cougars.

Dawn Woods led Edsel with 18 points and 5-foot-11 center Nicole Dapprich added 12.

But Julie Sawicki, who blistered the nets for 24 points in Edsel's 64-38 victory over the Cougars earlier this season, was held scoreless.

"After we jumped out on them, they (Edsel) made a run at us, but then we held tough — that's what I'm proud of," Henry said. "We didn't let Sawicki go wild like she did the last time. We shut her down. That was one of the keys."

Shanks, who scored a school-record 31 points in an double overtime loss Oct. 19 to Temperance-Bedford, has emerged as force for the Cougars.

After being knocked flat to the floor on a take-down move by Edsel's Hopp with only 20 seconds remaining in the game (it was called an intentional foul), Shanks calmly dusted her self off, drilling her second free throw.

"THE LAST six or eight games Carolyn has really come into her own," Henry said. "She's maturing and keeping her head. When she gets it going, because she's so fast, nobody is the league is going to catch her."

Nobody thought over a month ago that Edsel Ford was catchable, especially after GC suffered its worst NSL defeat ever.

But the Cougars are now in position to claim at least a share of the league title. All they need is a victory Thursday at home over Redford Union and a win Tuesday, Nov. 7, at Dearborn.

Redford St. Agatha close, but East Catholic wins title

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Redford St. Agatha knocked on the door of a Catholic League C-D Division football title Sunday at the Pontiac Silverdome, but the Aggies couldn't kick it in, falling to Detroit East Catholic, 14-12.

Agatha, denied the coveted title for the second consecutive year, finished the season at 7-2.

The Chargers, meanwhile, advance to this weekend's state Class D playoffs with an 8-0 mark. (They forfeited a victory because of an illegal transfer).

Uncharacteristically, turnovers led to the Aggies' undoing, particularly in the first half when they coughed the ball up three times.

"We haven't had three in a game all year," said Agatha coach John Goddard. "But I'm not blaming anybody. Maybe we were nervous or uptight, but I'm proud of the way we came back in the second half."

Two fumbles and an interception contributed to the Aggies' measly 59 yards total offense in the first half.

But the Aggies were not alone in making mistakes. East Catholic also committed three turnovers during the first two periods of play.

THE ONLY OFFENSE generated in the first half came by East Catholic.

Near the end of the second quarter, the Chargers drove 69 yards in 15 plays, capped by Ireesh Gray's 7-yard TD pass to James Ware.

East Catholic also made the two-point conversion with 56 seconds left on a run by Floyd Collins to make it 8-0 at intermission.

The score stayed that way until early in the fourth quarter when Agatha senior fullback Ken Prokes scored on a 3-yard run at the 10:55 mark.

The touchdown was set up when junior quarterback Brian Kutch tossed a 47-yard pass to tight end Joe Boards.

The Aggies, however, still trailed by two, 8-6, after missing the two-point conversion on a faked extra point try.

Only two plays after the Aggies had scored, East Catholic struck again when Gray hurled a 76-yard TD pass to Chris Prather, who slipped through a pair of Agatha defenders before dashing into the end zone.

was going 'sprint-right' and it was his option to pass it or run it in. He never had a chance."

Holmes, an impressive 6-foot-2, 185-pound sophomore, led all rushers with 96 yards in 13 carries. He also happens to be the son of the East Catholic coach (also named Leonard).

"Our defensive coach, Louls Allison, told us to watch the quarterback (Kutch) on the snap to see if he was dropping his foot back," said the senior Holmes, the East Catholic coach. "It was kind of a tip-off to what he was going to do. We picked it up right off the ball."

Kutch accounted for 169 yards of Agatha's 237 in total offense. Prokes added 68 yards rushing in 20 carries. (East Catholic had 217 overall.)

"I don't know what happened in the first half," Goddard said. "But if we had played like we did in the second half, I thought we could have and should have won the game."

"But in the 14 years I've been in coaching, this is the best group and the best football team I've ever been associated with. And it doesn't have anything the hell to do with winning or losing. This is just a great group of kids."

Kutch then hit Smith with a first-down pass, a 14-yarder all the way down the East Catholic 30, but that was as far as the Aggies could penetrate.

Kutch threw three straight incompletions before Liam Shivers' 47-yard field goal attempt fell short with only 33 seconds left, as East Catholic was able to hang on for the win.

"We made a couple of mistakes, but defensively we played well enough to win," said Holmes. "God just smiled on East Catholic today. Agatha played very hard and they're a very good team."

Kutch accounted for 169 yards of Agatha's 237 in total offense. Prokes added 68 yards rushing in 20 carries. (East Catholic had 217 overall.)

"I don't know what happened in the first half," Goddard said. "But if we had played like we did in the second half, I thought we could have and should have won the game."

Kevin Smith (No. 22) catches the ball in the end zone during the fourth quarter to pull Redford St. Agatha within two points, 14-12. Detroit

East Catholic's Chris Prather watches helplessly.

All-purpose back Brooks shines in Churchill win

By Bob Stebbins
staff writer

Mike Brooks was a one-man show Friday, leading host Churchill to a 13-0 football win over arch-rival Stevenson.

The victory also gives Churchill the mythical Livonia city championship (with all due respect to Livonia Clarenceville).

Brooks played quarterback, tailback and free safety during the evening, and he had a strong night at all three positions. The junior rushed for 123 yards and a touchdown, threw for 56 yards, and defensively, intercepted three passes.

Churchill coach Herb Osterland thinks highly of Brooks' talents.

"He is an outstanding football player," he said. "Whenever he touches the football, good things happen."

Things went well for the Chargers right from the start of the game.

On Stevenson's first possession, tailback Brian Piergentilli fumbled after catching a screen pass, and the ball was recovered by Churchill's Andy Sapienza at the Spartans' 49 yard line.

THE CHARGERS then drove the entire 49 yards to get on the scoreboard first. The march was capped when Sapienza, a 220-pound fullback, scored on a 2-yard plunge. Mike Spaccarotella added the extra point to make it 7-0.

Churchill completed a pair of big conversions to keep the march alive.

On third and 11 from the Chargers' 40, Brooks hit Dennis Leahy for 22 yards on an in-pattern to move the ball down to the Spartans' 38.

Four plays later, Brooks picked up 8 yards on fourth and 2 from the Spartans' 30. A facemask penalty on the run moved the ball down to the 12, and Sapienza scored three plays later.

The seven points were all the Chargers would need, as their defense never allowed the Spartans to penetrate the Churchill 40.

However, a gutsy Stevenson defense and a bunch of ill-timed Churchill penalties (the Chargers had 120 yards in penalties) combined to keep the visitors in the ball game until late in the final quarter.

THE CHARGERS watched numerous good scoring opportunities wasted.

Early in the second quarter, the Chargers drove the ball down to the Stevenson 22, where they faced a second and 9 situation. On second down, Brooks picked up 12 yards on a sweep play, but a clipping penalty on the run moved the ball back to the 33-yard line to stymie the drive.

Churchill threatened again midway through the third quarter.

The Chargers moved the ball all the way to the Stevenson 12, where facing fourth and 4, they sent Spaccarotella in to try a 29-yard field goal.

The kick was true, but Churchill was penalized for having 12 players on the field. After the 15-yard penalty was walked off, Spaccarotella attempted a 44-yarder, but the kick was short and to the right.

In the opening minutes of the fourth period, the Spartans' defense made its best stand yet.

From the Stevenson 38, Sapienza rambled for 28 yards on a fourth-and-inches play to put the Chargers on the doorstep again.

THREE PLAYS LATER, Churchill was faced with fourth and goal from the 2. Brooks attempted to sneak the ball across, but he was stopped at the 1, giving the Spartans new life with 6:50 left to play. Alas, Stevenson was unable to move the football and was forced to punt it back to the Chargers.

After a 58-yard punt by Paul Rockwood put the ball at Churchill 29, the Chargers put the game away with a 71-yard scoring march.

Trent Naumcheff had two big third-down conversions to help keep the drive alive. He caught a half-back-option pass from Brooks for 9 yards on a third-and-8 play before bolting 11 yards on a reverse on a third-and-6 situation from the Chargers 49.

Five plays later, Brooks capped the march with a 24-yard scamper off left tackle. Spaccarotella's extra point was blocked, thus completing the scoring.

IN ADDITION to his offensive heroics, Naumcheff also had a record-setting game on defense from his linebacker position. He had 94 first hits, breaking Andy Fabian's school record by five.

Stevenson coach Jack Reardon was impressed by the skilled players on the Churchill team, calling them "a very good backfield."

But the Stevenson mentor also had kind words for his own team.

"I'm kind of proud of our kids. We played a good game defensively. When you have a 6-2, 220-pound fullback and you hold them down on the 1... well, I'm kind of proud of them. They did a nice job."

Offensively, the Spartans totaled 81 yards on the ground and 79 in the air. Randy Mcallef and Ryan Furkas combined at the quarterback position for Stevenson, completing seven of 18 passes with three interceptions. Piergentilli led the ground attack, gaining 38 tough yards on 18 carries. The senior also had a strong game on the defensive side of the ball at the safety position.

THE CHARGERS' offense picked up 246 rushing yards on 23 attempts. Brooks gained his 123 yards on 23 carries (putting him over 700 yards for the season), while Sapienza added 74 more on 15 attempts.

Through the air, Churchill gained 56 yards, with Brooks picking up all of it on four completions.

With their fourth straight victory, the Chargers finish at 4-5 overall. All five of Churchill's losses came against teams with winning records.

The Spartans end the year at 3-6 with the defeat.

Rockets orbiting toward post-season playoff action

Johnson on a 38-yard TD early in the fourth quarter.

"We had worked with Todd the past week and we were confident he could do the job," Howton said. "But we got into situations where we had to throw the ball against a defense that was really coming at us."

"HE DIDN'T perform as well as we had liked, but he was kind of forced into it. He's a kid who sat out last year with reconstructive knee surgery, but he came back and did a great job for us this season. He was the best available, but he was really playing out of position."

Glenn outgained the Zebras in total yardage, 253-189.

The Rockets' running game was solid, led by Layne, who gained 98 yards in 21 carries. Jackson added 66 yards in 14 carries.

Stover passed for 95 yards (seven of 12).

By the final numbers, it was evident the Rockets had bounced back from their 23-15 defeat to unbeaten Farmington Harrison a week earlier.

"We had a great week of practice," Gordon said. "They're very hard workers. They practice hard and they play hard. It's a very enjoyable bunch to be around. It's an unselfish group, very team-oriented."

Despite the bad break to Tapp, Wayne still finished with a respectable 6-3 record.

"I KNEW RIGHT away Brent was hurt," Howton said. "His shoulder was down. Normally he doesn't have to make that tackle because we tell him to hang back. It's only the second time he's had to make the tackle on a kickoff. Glenn just set up a wall and he (Tapp) was the only one left, and being the gutsy kid that he is, he made a nice tackle, but it certainly hurt us.

"It was not a pleasurable experience, but the season was very enjoyable. And I think the kids enjoyed the season."

The season could get even more enjoyable for Glenn, which helped its cause by winning. The Rockets were waiting for weekend results from their playoff competitors in Region III of Class A.

The prospects looked good for Glenn to gain one of the four post-season berths.

Observerland striking chords for popularity

It's no secret the Metropolitan Detroit area is the bowling capital of the world. The 1989 yearbook, which is produced by the Greater Detroit Bowling Association, supports this statement with some interesting figures.

There were 126,195 male bowlers last season and 93,177 women. If you were to go a step further into the wizardry of computers and factor in the population figures, you would see there are about a quarter of a million bowlers in this area. This includes the 16,000 youth bowlers and numerous unsanctioned bowlers.

Judging by the demographic density of bowling centers, Observerland accounts for one fourth of all area bowlers. Based on these figures — and this is only a guess — one third of this newspaper's readers are bowlers.

According to the computers, 10,564 of all men bowlers pitch from their left side. The average for righties was 161.21, for lefties 165.50.

The women reflected the same characteristics, as southpaws averaged 137.97 and righties carried a mean average of 135.47.

Of the males, 1,728 managed to average 200 or better, while for the women just 26 bowlers were in the 200 class.

The everlasting controversy of left-handers continues. Are the conditions better for southpaws?

The yearbook is a masterpiece for bowling information. It is available to all league secretaries. It tells you everything you need to know about a sanctioned bowler, including average and number of games bowled. The book is also available at your local bowling center.

When the chips were down for the Wayne Memorial girls basketball team Thursday, senior center Dorris Bathwell came through with an spectacular effort.

Her 36 points and 33 rebounds led the way in the Zebras' 61-49 win over host Lincoln Park.

"Dorris kept banging away," Wayne coach Jack Furlong said. "And her totals showed that."

Bathwell had a good supporting cast in teammate Maya Lewis, whose triple-double (18 points, 10 rebounds and 12 assists) helped bring the Zebras back from a 26-20 halftime deficit.

"We were down at halftime," Furlong said. "But the girls came out in the second half and played with a lot of intensity."

Favorites hold true in WLAA gathering

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Farmington and Plymouth Canton are accustomed to winning Western Lakes Activities Association cross country championships.

Until last week, it was the Farmington boys and Canton girls who won in recent years. But that was turned around Wednesday when the opposite gender at each school took its turn winning.

The transfer of power saw the Chiefs end Farmington's streak of five consecutive WLAA boys titles, and the Falcons reclaimed the girls trophy after Canton held it for two years.

"We didn't have the team to do it this year; it wasn't our year," Farmington boys coach Jerry Young said. "The girls are the ones who shined today."

Farmington's Jennifer Kiel, who was third last year, led the Falcons to the championship, winning the girls race with a personal-best time of 19:28 for the Cass Benton course. That was three seconds better than her previous best.

KIEL SAID she was pleased Farmington could win the title for coach John Barrett, who has coached the girls team for seven years but may relinquish those duties after this season.

"He's a very busy man; he's gone back to school to get a higher degree," Kiel said. "He's been coaching me since I've been running, and I was happy we could do it for him. If this is his last year, this would be very nice for him."

Kiel won her duel with city rival Lisa Rives of North Farmington, who finished 18 seconds behind in second place.

Walled Lake Western didn't have enough runners to compete as a team, but the duo of Jennifer Ray and Wendy Proos represented their school well, taking third and fourth places.

The top seven runners in each race are recognized as all-league performers, and the Nos. 8-21 finishers are considered all-division athletes.

Farmington put a lock on the girls crown when its Nos. 2-5 runners placed among the top 16. Jenny Derwinski was 10th, Allison Davis 11th, Margaret Martin 13th and Cheryl Casaroli 16th.

"The girls were determined to do it from the start of the season," Barrett said. "They were very diligent in their attention to the team and individual goals."

THEY WERE constantly reading individual goals, and that's why the team got as far as it did.

Kiel, naturally, gets most of the publicity, but the others played key roles, too, Barrett said. He added the Falcons were helped by the internal competition that came from eight girls always competing for the top spots.

"Derwinski doesn't get any of the publicity," he said, "but she worked hard to improve her time and move up to get the spots we needed."

The same is true of the third and fourth runners, usually Martin and Davis, Barrett said. Martin also plays a lot of soccer but never let the cross country team down in favor of that sport, according to Barrett. Casaroli also did well replacing Gretchen Clappison as the No. 5 runner when the latter got hurt.

"Martin made sure we won the big meets," Barrett said. "She jockeyed her schedule around and made sure soccer was second on those weekends."

"In that way, I think it's an individual sport and everybody is out to get their best times; but we made sure the team reached its goals."

Canton had been the premier girls team in the area the last two years and, though the Chiefs were unbeaten in their division again, it was clear Farmington was the league favorite this year.

"IT'S NOT THE same feeling (as winning)," Canton coach George Przygodski said, "but I'm not disappointed. I don't think we lost today. We did as well as we could."

"We attempted to break up their second, third and fourth runners, but we just couldn't get there. (The Falcons) ran an outstanding race, and they're a great team."

Coaches were saying the same about Canton's boys team. Four schools had a runner in front of its No. 1, but no other team ran in as tight a pack as the Chiefs, who were third a year ago.

Farmington junior Ben Goba, who was fourth last year, captured individual honors with a 16:27 time. Brian Beach paced the Chiefs with a fifth-place finish, and 30 seconds was all that separated Canton's top five.

"Our kids ran a good race," Canton coach Jim Hayes said. "The times were slow, but the places were very good. We competed very well."

"We always say our fifth, sixth and seventh guys are the most important. It's nice to have a Brian Beach, but you also need a Mike Ream (seventh), Matt Boland (12th), Matt Hall (14th) and Jason Napolitano (16th)."

Hayes added Chris Nelson and Jim Carnes, who rounded out the Canton contingent, didn't contribute to the scoring directly but pushed back runners from other teams.

"OUR MAIN goal is to be together at the mile mark," Beach said, "and whoever is going the strongest takes over. He keeps the guys together and gets some talk going out there. That's how we won the (Schoolcraft and Redford Union) invitationals."

Western, runner-up to Farmington last year and Canton in the Western Division this year, made a fine showing with a second-place finish.

The Warriors had a great start behind the efforts of Bill Crosby (third) and Jeff Grosso (sixth), and freshman Brandon Keeney (13th) ran his best race. The next two fared well but were six places behind Canton's fifth man.

"We were going for first," Western coach Dennis Keeney said, "but we knew it would take a lot because Canton has run so well all year. We had our fingers crossed that maybe they would come out flat."

"It was nice to catch (Plymouth) Salem, but the guys were a little disappointed because they were trying to win the meet. But they came out feeling they had run a respectable race."

Salem won the Lakes Division title and was runner-up to Canton at Schoolcraft and RU, but the Rocks had to settle for third place in the WLAA.

Brendon Masterson, the team's ace who had competed well with Goba in other races, was sick the previous week and hadn't been able to practice. Almost certain to be in the top five if healthy, he finished 21st.

"IT WASN'T that he was sick (Wednesday) but that we were still recovering," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "I think (the others) saw Brendon, our No. 1 guy all year, back so far and let down mentally. They all said they felt heavy-legged. I don't know if it was the heat or if I didn't have them prepared."

"We knew all along Western would be there," he added. "Dennis always has them ready, and Canton ran superbly."

CC could see a state title this 'C'-son

Confident and competent. That best describes Redford Catholic Central's soccer team.

On Saturday, the Shamrocks added control in blitzing University of Detroit Jesuit 6-0 in a Class A district final at Redford's Pearson Junior High. And by now, CC's players know if they continue to play with the same confidence, competence and control, they could soon "C" a state title.

But don't start getting carried away. Not yet. The Shamrocks aren't.

"When you get to the top level, every game gets tough," said CC assistant coach Dan O'Shea. "Now you've got to play well every time to go on."

THERE'S A LOT to what O'Shea says. The talent CC coach John Boots has to work with has been acknowledged by several coaches as perhaps the best in the state. But, as O'Shea pointed out, the Shamrocks still must prove it.

"A lot of teams have great players. But this team has no weak spots," said O'Shea. "Not even on the bench."

"When we keep it simple... There was no need to finish the thought. Let other teams beat you; don't beat yourself."

CC didn't make any mistakes against U-D. From the outset, the Shamrocks controlled play, and it didn't take long for them to control the scoreboard, too. Even Boots' absence — he was out of town on business, a problem he knew about at the start of the season — had little effect.

— Dan O'Shea
CC assistant coach

JOE NORA scored the first two goals. The opener came before the game was 10 minutes old as Nora took a pass, eluded U-D's stopper and put it past keeper Steve McFee.

Nora made it 2-0 a few minutes later as CC dominated the center part of the field, in front of U-D's goal. A Jim Bernthal header following a chip pass increased the Shamrock advantage to 3-0 at the half.

"We knew if we played our game we could win," said O'Shea, who is now 3-0 as a coach (he subbed twice early this season when Boots was on his honeymoon, guiding CC to a 2-0 win over Northville and a 3-1 victory over Harper Woods Notre Dame). "And it helped that their best player was out."

U-D's best player is junior midfielder Doh Orlandoni. He was red-carded in the Cubs' 2-0 shutout of Redford Union Wednesday in the district semifinal, which meant he was forced to miss the next game — Saturday's district final.

Whether Orlandoni's presence could have made a difference in the outcome is doubtful. Once the second half was 10 minutes old, his absence was academic. U-D midfielder Andrew Beamah and CC's Bernthal tangled just outside the Cubs' penalty area, and Beamah threw a punch — resulting in an automatic ejection for "striking."

AT THE TIME CC was ahead 4-0, thanks to Jon Petoskey's pinball goal. His shot bounced straight down off the crossbar and ricocheted off a defender's back, just crossing over the goal line.

By this time, O'Shea's main concern was making sure none of his players were red-carded. Sean Gibbons got a gift of a goal to make it 5-0 when McFee let a bouncing shot get behind him to Gibbons for the tap-in.

U-D's Scott Leadbetter was red-carded for a take-down in the penalty area with 10 minutes remaining, giving Bill Tarnacki a penalty shot — which he converted to make it 6-0 — and forcing the Cubs to play the remainder of the game short two men.

The win improved CC's record to 16-2-1 and put them into Wednesday's regional opener against Dearborn Edsel Ford at Schoolcraft College, at 3:30 p.m.

Last Wednesday, the Shamrocks crushed Ferndale 8-2 at Schoolcraft in the district semifinal. Petoskey and Dana Orsucci each scored twice and Dominie Seclena had a goal and three assists to lead CC.

Ocelots survive U-M loss; SC spikers still atop league

It wasn't a win, but it was satisfying to Van Dimitriou nonetheless.

Dimitriou's Schoolcraft College mens soccer team lost 1-0 to University of Michigan's club team Wednesday, with U-M scoring the game's only goal with 15 minutes left. By that time, many of SC's starters were on the sidelines watching.

"We tried to play real hard without getting anyone hurt," said Dimitriou. "We got what we wanted out of it, a little conditioning and a lot of pride."

Starters Dave Dingile and Rick Menary both played sparingly because of slight injuries. Dimitriou wanted to be certain both would be ready for last Saturday's match with Cuyahoga CC. A victory over Cuyahoga would clinch the Region 12 title for SC and propel the

Schoolcraft sports

Ocelots into the National Junior College Athletic Association Inter-regional tournament.

SC'S VOLLEYBALL team also experienced success last week, defeating Eastern Conference rival Macomb CC 15-6, 15-7, 15-5 Thursday.

JoAnn Koinlity and Kirsten Stelzer controlled play at the net for SC, while Allsha Love was superb defensively with 13 digs. Cathy Cook's serving kept Macomb off-balance most of the match.

Lion players take role seriously

ERIC WILLIAMS IS serious about his role as an advocate of drug and alcohol abuse prevention.

How do we know? The test is what the individual does and not merely says.

Williams, a huge defensive lineman for the Detroit Lions, likes to get involved in the nitty-gritty details of combating illegal substances.

Instead of living the easy life we imagine professional athletes do in the off season, Williams not only works on behalf of the police department's anti-drug program in his native Stockton, Calif., but participates in drug raids with officers, also.

That's what you call being involved.

Williams, of course, was along for the ride as an observer, officially. But you have to think the 6-foot-5, 280-pound Williams would relish the chance to sack a drug dealer, and I'm sure the police appreciate the intimidation factor his size provides.

Williams downplayed the danger but did wear a bullet-proof vest as a precaution and "had to sign a release in case I got shot," he said.

By the way, if you're wondering as I was, what the Lions thought of his off-the-field adventures, Williams said: "I didn't tell them." He said: "They'd be more worried about me riding a motorcycle around town."

The danger was not of the immediate sort Wednesday when Williams and Lions teammate John Miller returned to Miller's old stomping grounds, Harrison High School, to caution students about the danger of doing drugs and drinking alcohol to excess.

Unfortunately, less than 50 people turned out to hear them. The majority in attendance were female high school students, but many were adults who didn't need to be convinced as to the truth of their message. Farmington Families in Action and the Harrison chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk sponsored the program.

Williams, however, enjoyed and even preferred the smaller group. The night produced a relaxed atmosphere and a meaningful give-and-take discussion.

"If we had 100 people here, I don't think I'd like that as much," Williams said. "I like an intimate group, because I know I reached some people. I could see it in their eyes. If we had 500 to 1,000, it would be like talking into space."

The 27-year-old Williams emphasized he was old enough to discuss the matter from a position of knowledge and authority but close enough in age to the students to relate to their circumstances.

The heart of his message, and that of Miller, urged students to learn from the mistakes of other people. Don't wait until you make the same mistake to learn, they said. At that point, it could be too late.

"The ultimate way to learn is from your own mistakes," Miller said, "but you don't want to do that because it's much too serious."

Williams used the sad cases of Len Bias and brothers Don and Reggie Rogers to illustrate his point. Bias and Don Rogers died of cocaine overdoses within a month of each other several years ago, and Reggie, a former No. 1 draft pick of the Lions and teammate of Williams, is awaiting trial for allegedly killing three teenagers while driving drunk.

Many will learn that lesson with minimal hurt to themselves. An unfortunate few won't.

But that is only half the tragedy people like Williams, Miller and members of SADD are trying to avoid. The real heartache occurs when impaired persons injure and kill others.

"When Reggie walked on the field, I almost cried," said Williams, recalling how Rogers, who suffered a broken neck in the accident, looked with the large brace called a halo attached to his upper body.

"But Reggie is alive! What about the people who died?"

Neither Williams nor Miller suggest the country return to prohibition, however. Both said they like to socialize and have a drink, but doing things legally and intelligently is what matters.

"I have a couple beers; that's not the problem," Williams said. "The problem is abuse and drinking when it's not legal for you to drink. And, in football, drinking too much hurts your performance on the field."

Some other points covered by Williams and Miller:

• Good grades are important. Williams said he was "one of those who always figured 'I'll get by; I'll get by.'" While on a recruiting trip in high school, a college assistant coach asked to see his transcript and was not impressed.

"When I flew home that afternoon I cried," he said. "I never had a grown man laugh at me."

Miller, the former All-Big Ten defensive back from Michigan State, said a high school sophomore told him he wanted to play football at MSU but was afraid he didn't have the grades.

"It's not too late," Miller told the aspiring athlete, "but if you want to go to college you'd better start doing it now."

• The temptation for pro athletes to abuse drugs and alcohol stems from "a combination of a young kid coming into a lot of money and being in a new town where he doesn't know anybody," Williams said. "The only thing he owns is the bar at night."

Williams said the high-profile life of pro athletes contributes to the problem, because the inherent media exposure draws attention to their failures, too. "Because of the adulation they receive, they often end up disappointing their youthful admirers."

"I think there's too much emphasis on being a superstar and not being a human," Williams said. "I don't know if it's the media's responsibility or the parents to tell (kids) these are just humans doing a different job."

Williams, however, added: "As a pro athlete with a public image, I have a responsibility, and that is to act responsibly."

• Both said use of steroids is on the decline in the National Football League but believe the opposite is true among high school athletes, who are very impressionable, Miller said. Both advocate drug testing and a stronger drug/steroids policy for high school athletes than the one used by the NFL.

There's no need to be out of sorts because you look frumpy. Forget those stretch panels on pants and skirts and voluminous tops. Today's mother-to-be feels chic and looks chic whether at work, at play or out for the evening. We like to call it Baby Boomer Chic, and it's on Page 6D.

Curling: A cut above the average sport

Peggy Hawke of West Bloomfield shows her curling style as she sends the stone sliding down the icy lane.

Members of the Detroit Curling Club are gearing up for a new season beginning Nov. 1 and, based on last year's activity, the arena in West Bloomfield is expected to hum.

Not ho-hum, as in a sport that purportedly puts observers to sleep with its exacting precision and slow, methodical play.

But hum, as in more members than ever before who enjoy the fitness and finesse of curling and the camaradery it affords.

"We got more new members last season than in the entire history of the club," said arena manager Pam Bonfoey of the 30 new members who joined in 1988-89, upping club membership to some 230.

Founded in 1885, membership in the Detroit Curling Club remained exclusive and by invitation only for many years. But when the club moved into its new suburban arena in 1979, one of the first goals was an expanded membership. Efforts received a substantial boost during the 1988 winter Olympics when curling received worldwide attention as a demonstration sport.

New members are also younger than in years past, according to Bonfoey.

"I needed a new winter sport," said Mike Psarouthakis, 28, in explaining why he took up curling at the West Bloomfield arena last winter.

Psarouthakis, a proficient luge sledder, was headed for Olympic competition in the 1988 winter games when an injury prematurely ended his sledding career.

NOW HE'S AN

avid curler. Like the Scots who are credited with inventing the game during the 1500s, Psarouthakis wanted a physical activity during the long months of winter.

Craig Koss and wife Autumn, both in their 20s, also enjoy the sport of curling. In addition, they enjoy the socializing it provides.

"Curlers are unbelievably friendly and cordial; they take strangers in," said Craig who, after watching curling for years on WBET-Channel-9, broadcast by Canadian TV, decided three years ago to try it himself.

Autumn, a dance instructor at the American Dance Academy in Garden City, joined him, acquiring game technique more easily than Craig. Dancing requires similar agility, balance and endurance necessary in curling, according to Autumn, who said the sport requires "tremendous physical flexibility."

Curling is played by shooting a granite stone over a 146-foot ice field into a round target. The shot is delivered by a graceful, elongated stretch that demands a partial leg split of the player.

Sweepers, balanced precariously on a single foot encased in a special "slide" shoe, guide the stone along its icy course. A game typically lasts 2-1 1/4 hours, a "bonspiel" or tournament anywhere from 1 to 3 days.

Christmas shopping on the road

By Iris Sanderson Jones
contributing travel editor

Q: I will be traveling a lot for the next two months, either on business or on vacation. I won't have much time to buy Christmas gifts at home, very little time to do it on the road and no inclination at all to drag big boxes home on the plane. What's the best way to shop for gifts when you travel?

A: I have a laundry basket full of gifts I have collected on various trips during the year — a tea cozy from Ireland, several charms, a bottle of special mustard from an inn in Ontario, a few hand-made Christmas tree ornaments, a small, soft toy.

All of these gifts are small and lightweight, so they pack easily in my suitcase. Occasionally, I buy an awkward piece of cut glass, but it has to be very good to be worth the trouble.

- My rules are:
- I buy only what I can carry in my purse or suitcase.
 - I buy something I can't buy at home.
 - I never stoop to buying souvenir ash trays, except for one specific friend — we compete for the ugliest trash gifts available.

MICKY JONES

Gift shops like the one in the Wayside Inn in Middletown, Va., can offer a selection of quality items perfect for Christmas giving and portable enough to fit into a traveler's suitcase.

The first step in your shopping spree is to ask the flight attendant for a drink and make a list of your victims. Beside each name list hobbies and special interests. If you can't be specific, close your eyes and think of your friend or relative in a home setting, so that you can add words like art, books, cooking, liquor.

I ONCE carried dozens of trinkets home from India, put them in a basket and invited friends for Sunday lunch. I asked them to choose one trinket they liked. Almost every hand went past the small carved elephant to the first-edition Gandhi stamp. I should have remembered that stamp lovers would rather have a first-edition stamp than a live Tahitian dancing girl. Every country has special stamps and they are very easy to carry.

Apply this logic to other tiny gifts — coins, small bottles of local liquor, recipe books. Don't forget rocks. I have a relative, a rock collector, who would walk, head down past Mount Fuji, if she thought there was a collectible rock at her feet. Kids love shells. Not expensive enough? Wrap it in a $3 bill.

MOVING PICTURES

'The Bear' pleasant, but lacks continuity

"The Bear" (B, PG, 93 minutes) may very well be the major motion picture achievement its press materials claim it to be. In general, it is a pleasant story of an orphaned grizzly bear cub in late 19th century British Columbia. However, the film often lacks continuity and sometimes gets pretty sappy.

Exceptional cinematography by Philippe Rousselot ("Diva," "Dangerous Liaisons" and "Hop and Glory") is the saving grace of "The Bear" and its best feature, although pretty scenery and excellent, natural images only go so far.

Among the problems with "The Bear" are human voices gurgling to represent baby bear's emotional crises. Up to a point that's cute, but the heavy breathing when momma and poppa bear are messing around in the bushes — well, that gets rather tacky.

Continuity suffers because different bears were used in the filming. While necessary, the net result is that Kaar and Youk (Bart and Douce — their bears, folks) grow, shrink and change their coloration as the film progresses. It is not at all smooth nor is the shifting relationship between the two hunters, Bill (Jack Wallace) and Tom (Tcheky Karyo).

Least credible is the moment of truth when Tom, the hunter, and poppa grizzly, Kaar, reject their inherent aggressive natures and neither bite nor shoot. While it may be touching and beautiful, it just doesn't strike a credible note.

Despite all these complaints, "The Bear" is a nice movie and many will enjoy its photography and cute animals.

AMC's LAUREL Park Theaters opened in Livonia Wednesday with a pretty slick press preview, attended by numerous civic dignitaries. After the delightful refreshments, five films were screened.

One of the better ones, "Immediate Family" (B+, PG-13, 95 minutes) is well worth your time and money.

Whereas years ago the only solution to childless couples was adoption, today's newspapers carry stories of other answers: surrogate parenting, in vitro fertilization and artificial insemination.

When none of these modern strategies are successful, Linda (Glen Close) and Michael Spector (James Woods) revert to old-fashioned adoption procedures, with a modern twist — they meet the natural mother, Lucy Moore (Mary Stuart Master-son), through their adoption lawyer.

"Immediate Family" is a poignant comedy about the trials and tribulations a midlife couple face when they are unable to conceive a child. Their dilemma is a bittersweet counterpoint to the young couple who conceive a child they cannot support.

The instant rapport between the two couples creates the dramatic tension that is at the core of the appeal of "Immediate Family." In particular, Close develops a warm, maternal relationship with Master-son that goes far beyond what one might expect of a woman who is adopting another woman's child. That relationship is the real family in this "Immediate Family."

BY NOW YOU'VE heard the rumbly about "Dad" (B, PG, 119 minutes) — how Jack Lemmon will get an Academy Award nomination, how he endured three hours of makeup daily, how he had his head shaved for this role so he looks 20 years older than his actual sixty-something. Rest assured that the nomination will be deserved and that the makeup people will win.

Lemmon may also win. His characterization is the cornerstone of this emotional portrait of contemporary familial values. Olympia Dukakis is wonderful as Bette Tremont, Dad's well-meaning, overly controlled and controlling spouse. In fact, all the acting is first-rate and Ted Danson projects an unexpected emotional depth and a gently moving portrayal of a son's internal life.

Zakes Mokae is particularly effective as the medical specialist who helps Dad in his final days. There is a lot about this movie that is wonderful, but it loses its edge and focus just when it has the opportunity to say something new about the nature of aging and its effect on the interrelationships between children and parents. Gary David Goldberg who adapted William Wharton's book and directed wisely infuses the film with humor and warmth.

GOLDBERG STRETCHES believability into incredulity with several plot contrivances which only serve as stumbling blocks in an otherwise fine script. Perhaps the most telling line of "Dad" comes near the conclusion when Lemmon says with deep wisdom: "Dying is not a sin, not living is."

Hours of makeup and his acting talents turn Jack Lemmon into 78-year-old Jake Tremont who rediscovers a zest for life with the help of his son in "Dad."

True enough, but the trouble here is that that's the kind of trite clichés that would be accepted, even expected, in a television movie of the week. But it just doesn't cut it in a multi-million-dollar motion picture with such a talented cast. (Reviewed by Susan Finckham.)

Try as it might, "Worth Winning" (C+, PG-13, 95 minutes) can't overcome the fact that its script hinges on a wager predicated on the most adolescent male fantasies.

Taylor Worth (Mark Harmon) bets he can get three women to accept his marriage proposals and, of course, the women just happen to be beautiful, shapely and impossibly sexy.

The embarrassing fact is that this film was written by two women. And despite some witty moments, it is incredibly predictable.

Taylor woos all three successfully and, in the process, falls in love with the most prickly and accomplished of them, Veronica (Madeline Stowe). Of course, Eleanor (Leslie Ann Warren) and Veronica discover they share the same Taylor with Erin (Maria Holvov).

Naturally, the three women then get together to plot revenge. Yawn, yawn, yawn. Yet, one keeps hoping that "Worth Winning" will offer some surprises because so many of the characters are likeable in spite of themselves. The saving grace is that in spite of poor writing and meandering direction, the performances are interesting.

All in all, "Worth Winning" is kind of like Rock Hudson with three Doris Days and a yuppie Tony Randall in 1989. That means they get to do more than just talk about sex and have incredibly glamorous careers. Welcome to the '90s. (Reviewed by Susan Finckham.)

STILL PLAYING:

"Batman" (C+, PG-13) 120 minutes. Michael Keaton is a dud in the title role but Jack Nicholson's Joker is terrific.

"Black Rain" (D-) (R) 120 minutes. Unpleasant, trite detective story stars Michael Douglas.

"Breaking In" (R). Burt Reynolds is an older, "professional" burglar teaming up with larcenous newcomer Casey Siemaszko.

"Dead Poets Society" (A+) (PG) 124 minutes.

Robb Williams' sensitive portrait of a fine teacher is complemented by excellent young actors as his students.

"A Dry White Season" (A+) (R) 100 minutes.

The worst of South African apartheid and the best of human sacrifice for brotherhood in this excellent story of one man coming to grips with government terror.

"The Fabulous Baker Boys" (R). Two brothers — Jeff and Beau Bridges — add Michelle Pfeiffer to their cocktail lounge piano playing act.

"Fat Man and Little Boy" (A-) (PG-13) 120 minutes. Well-crafted, superbly acted film about the Manhattan Project during World War II.

"Gross Anatomy" (C-) (PG-13) 106 minutes. Bland, slow, weakly structured romantic comedy about five, first-year med students.

"Halloween 5". Donald Pleasence and others in more of the same.

"Honey, I Shrunk the Kids" (B+) (PG) 105 minutes.

It's fun, but it ain't easy to be small. "In Country" (B+) (R) 110 minutes. Often poignant, sometimes maudlin story of a young girl searching for an image of her father, a casualty in Vietnam.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Petting': Not too heavy

By John Monaghan
Special writer

Whether the subject is sex, drugs or communism, vintage "educational" films have long appealed to fans of camp and kitsch.

"Heavy Petting" edits archival footage and recently recorded interviews into a hilarious look at acceptable behavior with the opposite sex. The entertaining new documentary plays for the full weekend at the Detroit Film Theatre.

Filmmakers Obie Benz and Josh Walezky have worked on other documentaries, including the similarly goofy "Atomic Cafe" (1982) and the deadly serious "Partisans of Vilna" (1988). They get big laughs from the material combined in "Heavy Petting," most of it dating from the 1940s and '50s.

A 1951 epic, called "What to Do on a Date," shows teenagers engaged in weenie roasts and taffy pulls. In another, a stern narrator warns: "Controlled, the sexual impulse, like a horse, may be a source of power and service."

IN "THE DO'S and Don'ts of Dating," a young teenager named Woody embarks on his first date. The film sets up situations — from asking a girl out to saying good night — and gives you choices of the right and wrong ways to handle those situations.

At the conclusion, our young Beaver Cleaver-type hero escorts his date to her door. You guess the acceptable behavior — lunging, simply walking away without a word or saying what a nice time you had and how you'd like to do it again.

Even the filmmakers were surprised that beyond the bad acting and corny messages, there's poignancy and sincerity. Most of the films were produced on extremely low budgets. They employed non-actors — faces that kids could relate to more than Hollywood products (though this was probably more for financial than artistic reasons).

Interviews, interspersed throughout, discuss people's first experiences with the mysteries of sex. An occasional mechanic is interviewed, but most of the insights come from hip, out-of-the-mainstream actors, musicians, authors and political types.

PERFORMANCE artist Spalding Gray talks about messing around with his girlfriend and drinking vanilla Cokes. David Byrne shares his early fear of French kissing. The late Abbie Hoffman discusses group masturbation. William Burroughs, seated next to Allen Ginsberg, stays characteristically evasive.

Meanwhile, we also see footage from '50s drive-in movies like "Invasion of the Saucer Men" and "High School Hellcats." Even Elvis appears, defending the controversial movement of his pelvis.

"This isn't the story of actually having sex," the filmmakers summarize. "It's the story of getting there through adolescence and all the images associated with it."

BoDeans: At the crossroads

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

BoDeans are a band at the crossroads. A group that will be either heard from in the future or become merely an asterisk in the record collection.

Lead singer Sammy Llanas is the first to acknowledge it. "I know the record company was expecting more sales," said Llanas, whose band performs Wednesday at the Royal Oak Music Theatre. "I know they're behind us. They say we're a top priority right now, but I don't know how long that will last, if this album doesn't sell well. "If any pressure comes, it will be after this tour."

The BoDeans' latest effort "Home" (Slash) has sold roughly 175,000 copies, the group's best start yet. Llanas said the record company was hoping for 400,000.

Those expectations were hardly unrealistic. The band was voted as the "Best New American Band" in Rolling Stone, garnered rave reviews on a six-week tour with U2 and had a guest spot on "Late Night With David Letterman."

All of the above would be considered enough to put a band firm footing. Yet, it is all the more reason a slip at this point could prove costly.

Album members apparently already have band members checking the sales of their shoes.

Then again, records have always been a source of frustration for a group whose accolades have been generated mainly by live performances.

The BoDeans has been voted as the "Best New American Band" in Rolling Stone and gained rave reviews on a six-week tour with U2.

FOR THAT reason, the BoDeans forsake the sterile studio setting on "Home" and recorded the LP in a Milwaukee warehouse. The sparse location served the band well. Some of the tracks contain the rawness the group has had difficulty capturing on previous albums.

Most noticeable on "Home" is "Beautiful Rain," a song about the drought of 1988. Llanas' voice is as graveled and dry as the dusty cornfields he sings about, but his vocals pour with emotion.

"When that song was written we were going through a drought in Wisconsin for five or six weeks," said Llanas, who is native of Milwaukee. "It was at a stage where it was emotionally affecting everybody. People were getting ornery and short with one another. I was happy to be able to document it."

Jim Scott produced "Home." Originally, the BoDeans sought the technical wizardry of Daniel Lanois (Bob Dylan, U2, the Neville Brothers). Although Lanois reportedly liked the spirit of BoDeans' music, he didn't have a vision for it.

Llanas and guitarist Kurt Neumann met Scott while working on Robbie Robertson's LP. The three immediately hit it off.

For the first time, though, the band was able to make the creative decisions... before the shots were called by producers. Scott served as a mediator of ideas.

One idea the BoDeans have sought to get away from as being a voice from the heartland. "Love & Hope & Sex & Dreams" was released in 1988, right in the middle of the roots rock movement.

SOME MISTOOK the band's hometown and raw rock and labeled them as such.

"We feel we're much more than that," Llanas said. "We don't deny we do come from the heartland and it is heard in our music. We've never been out to wave a banner."

Another banner the group has had to avoid is the Too U2 tag. "You Don't Get Much" draws comparisons to the Irish supergroup, mainly due to the guitar playing of Neumann.

"All I know is Kurt used those type of delays on his guitar for as long as I've known him," said Llanas, who's known Neumann since high school. "So in my mind, he's been doing it longer than the Edge. That's where we're coming from."

"The Edge was in awe in Kurt's guitar setup and his sound. I think the Edge learned from Kurt in that instance."

But much like U2 and other bands like R.E.M. the BoDeans have displayed a willingness to be patient.

"We're willing to wait for radio to come to us," Llanas said.

MUSIC NOTES

Figure 4 has split up, according to a recent press release. But the band will carry on.

Bass guitarist Mike Bisch and drummer Robert Dotto have left the band to join forces with an undisclosed songwriting tandem in Los Angeles.

As a result, the group cancelled the remaining dates on its latest tour. The press release issued by Bisch goes on to state there are no more copies of the group's "Blind Justice" EP available and no further copies will be pressed.

Not so says Jefferson Shoemaker, who founded the group three years ago. Shoemaker said more copies are available and Figure 4 will continue as a group.

"Fred (Schaller) and I started this thing three years ago," Shoemaker said. "We're going to the wall with this."

Bisch, who had been with the band for a little more than six months, said it was a question of song credits and a lack of bookings.

"We were trying to go beyond the local club scene," said Bisch, who has also performed briefly with Strange Bedfellows, Scott Campbell and Twiggy Barbus within the past year. "But we didn't have the means to do it," Bisch added he felt no more copies of the album should be issued because "To be issuing copies of the EPs . . . you wouldn't be buying Figure 4 now. You'd be buying Figure 4 then."

Dotto performed on the recording of "Blind Justice"; Bisch did not. Bisch said the split is amicable, adding he hopes Figure 4 continues on because "they have great songs."

"There have been 14 people in this band," Shoemaker said. "They're just two members who decided to take a hike."

"Then I hear, 'Jeff Shoemaker is a difficult guy to work with.' That's ridiculous. I'm a nice guy. I just didn't want to turn this band into a jazz fusion outfit."

Shoemaker said the group has already found a replacement drummer, Mark Trupkovich. He adds, though, he plans to take some time off from touring. Instead, he'll focus on the ever-elusive record deal.

The break-up is a downward turn after what otherwise has been a stellar year for Figure 4. The group's EP was well-received by critics and the band enjoyed further exposure as an opening act for Rhythm Corps.

A pair of Ann Arbor bands, The Difference and Frank Allison & the Odd Sox performed this weekend at the College Music Journal's annual seminar in New York. The event is attended by arts and repertoire people and other record industry types.

The Orange Roughies were set to embark on a trip to San Francisco the night the earthquake hit. The group was to perform with Michelle Shocked in the Bay City. Dave Feeny said the band's album on Nocturnal Records has hit another snag and probably won't be out for another month.

REVIEWS

CHANGE — The Alarm

The Alarm have always had a difficult time of it. Their sound has always been somewhat of a surrogate Clash sound, but without the strength of the songwriting. They're not pretty or "show-businessy" enough to be major MTV stars, with only one of their videos, "The Stand," receiving any regular airtime.

But they do try. God, they are very trying.

They write anthemic songs with calls to "the people" to bond together and right the world's wrongs. They are "very serious people." Their latest LP, "Change" (IRS), doesn't do anything to change this impression.

The album starts off with "Sold Me Down the River," a straightforward guitar rock'n'roll song, the type that takes them from being anemic Clash imitators to being anemic Georgia Satellites imitators. Side one continues with further rabble-rousing, anthem-type songs with singer Mike Peters giving his best Bonoesque dramatic vocals.

There does seem to be an effort to steer in the direction of good ol' boy rock'n'roll. Especially with the inclusion of "Working Man's Blues," which is more than standard southern bar rock'n'roll.

Also prominently evident are the extremely banal lyrics like this sample from "Love Don't Come Easy": "Love don't come easy/Sometimes love don't come at all/It ain't over 'til it's over." Or this from "The Rock": "Like a rock, waves crash over me/The rock will never let you down."

Where the hell did they get these, Rock'n'Roll Lyric Writing 101?

I keep waiting for a song, dramatically sung, of course, about life on the road, and, maaaaan. Wait, wait. . . could this be it? . . . "A thousand miles before us, long is the road, the mountain high and the valley low." Yes, "Frontier" is our token road song.

And just when you thought it was safe to listen to records again. All very dramatic and touching. Don't call us.

THE STONE ROSES — The Stone Roses

All hail the latest guitar heroes of British psychedelic pop.

The Stone Roses' self-titled debut LP topped the U.K. independent charts for months, and is currently the target of praise from U.S. new music moguls. College radio is spinning the record, and MTV is rolling the video for the single, "She Bangs the Drum."

The band is a brash quartet of Brits with Beatlecuts and all the psychedelia staples — cryptic, colorful designs on the album sleeve, flowery print attire, aloof expressions.

"The Stone Roses" is an album full of overtly paisley sounds with dreamy, droning images and happily reverberating guitars. A decided Liverpoolian influence is heard, from both sets of Liverpool's favorite sons, Echo & the Bunnymen and the Fab Four themselves — a few of the tracks, particularly "Waterfall" and "Don't Stop," could have been taken right from "Revolver." Hints of the Cure and Jesus and Mary Chain also pepper the record.

The driving force behind the upbeat music is John Squire's forthright guitar playing. His gitbox is turned up loud, and he is obviously not afraid to make seemingly unnatural sounds while his strong rhythm section hammers away. Gary Mounfield's bass is exceptionally active.

Vocalist Ian Brown excels throughout, sounding ominous even on the acoustic "Elizabeth, My Dear," a brief one-verse number set to the traditional tune of "Scarborough Fair/Canticle."

Other highlights include "(Song for My) Sugar Spun Sister," the whimsical "Shoot You Down," and the anthemic "This is the One." Although it's a little too pop for its own good in a few spots, the record is a strong debut effort.

In an overcrowded musical genre, the Stone Roses have established themselves with catchiness and confidence.

THE ICEBERG/FREEDOM OF SPEECH . . . JUST WATCH WHAT YOU SAY — Ice-T

The warning sticker on this record reads "X-rated . . . Parents Strongly Cautioned . . . some material may be X-tra hype and inappropriate for squares and suckers."

Ice-T earns every implication of that sticker on the record's second cut, "The Iceberg," which graphically documents the interaction of men, women and appliances. It's enough to make one gladly accept being labeled a square or sucker.

The music is ever languid. And because the first cut is nothing more than a snatch of Jello Biafra's previously released spoken-word efforts set to music, this record gets off to a very poor start.

But from the third cut on, Ice-T lays down an angry, thoughtful and potent message that reaches out from the speakers and yanks the listener in.

"Lethal Weapon" features a wild, pulsing bassline bouncing off a hot horn riff while Ice-T raps about how his mind is his weapon.

"This One's for Me" has Ice-T lacking radio dee jays too timid to air his records, the Bush administration and critics of the allegedly racist group Public Enemy.

"Now they've got static and you run like punka/I haven't heard an MC stand up for 'em once." Ice-T charges, before proceeding to align himself with Chuck D. Flavor Flav and Professor Griff. It is a gesture that exemplifies Ice-T's characteristic boldness and honesty.

On "Freedom of Speech," Ice-T hurls an amazing litany of profane invective at Tipper Gore and her brand of censorship. And the listener is forced to acknowledge Ice-T's correctness. A song like "The Iceberg" is just the type of thing that Mrs. Gore sought to suppress.

But if Ice-T's political and social commentary was also suppressed, the children that Gore was supposedly trying to protect would be in greater danger than they are in if they hear this record.

FEAR AND LOAFING

Rolling in dough

By Karl Nilsson
Special writer

They say war is hell. But you can't possibly know the full meaning of that statement unless you've worked at a fast food pizzeria.

It all started with a few clever ads and cute slogans. Soon, the once peaceful suburbs were caught up in the spicy crossfire of an all out feud.

The good-natured rivalry for your discretionary food budget began innocently enough with a simple promise: "We deliver to your home within 15 minutes or the pizza's free." Going one better, the competition countered with "Home delivery within 15 minutes or your next two pizzas free."

As the see-saw battle heated up, so did the advertising claims. "We deliver within 15 minutes or you get free pizza for the rest of your life." Each month, more perks were added: "If we're late, you get unlimited free pizza plus a free trip to Hawaii."

Marketing incentives escalated to new heights. "Free pizza served on the beach of your very own Polynesian island kingdom, named after you by the U.S. State Department and populated by fun-loving natives who worship you as a god."

Consumers love the free vacations and special offers. What they didn't know was the awful toll it was taking on the troops. At first, the delivery boys were slapped with a financial penalty for late deliveries. Later, they were slapped with a stale breadstick.

As the stakes went up, so did the punishment. A first offense meant slapping your fingers in the pizza oven. A second offense meant strapping a dumpster on your back and crawling six city blocks on your hands and knees, shouting "unclean, unclean." A third offense meant eating anchovies.

AS CUSTOMERS grew bored with strips around the world, different incentives were tried. "If we don't deliver within 15 minutes, the pizza's free, the car's yours and the delivery boy is your slave for life."

With the increased pressure for faster delivery times, frightened pizza drivers careened through neighborhood streets. Soon, race fans and bookies lined the curbs to bet on the action. Block clubs set up grandstands and began charging admission.

Karl Nilsson

"Cut off from their favorite doughnut shops by the crowds of spectators, local police bravely decided to take action. Any car with a pizza sign on the roof was automatically targeted for a ticket. To avoid arrest, pizza jockeys began hijacking ambulances, but later switched to "stealth" cars — innocent looking jalopies with high-performance engines crammed under their battered hoods.

Signs were removed and radar detectors, CB radios and police scanners were installed. Finally, with company helicopters scouting out speed traps, the delivery fleet was once again under the 15-minute deadline.

Unfortunately, there was no way to cover the cost of this high-tech, covert delivery system. Prices couldn't be raised or customers would switch brands. The answer? Cut back on size.

The original extra-large was reduced to fit on a saucer. A large shrunk to the size of a biscuit. To cushion the blow of this down-sizing, euphemistic new names were invented.

To get what used to be a medium now required ordering a "king size, super colossal, big butt special." The old large was now called the "gigantic, stupendous, humungous, international mega meal." Space limitations prevent me from listing the replacement title for extra-larges.

IN RETALIATION, the competition fired back with a three-for-one price special. The predictable response was a four-for-one plan, the inevitable buy one-get five free deal.

Offers and counter-offers filled the airwaves and profits dwindled. The only option left was to ration ingredients. Cheese was applied with an eyedropper. Watered-down sauce was misted on with a spray bottle. Pepperoni dots were cut out with a paper punch. Crusts were pressed so thin that diners complained of paper cuts.

STREET SENSE

Have a reason to search

Dear Barbara,

I am 39 years old and was adopted at birth. Both of my adoptive parents have recently died. I think I may be interested in trying to find my birth parents, but I am not sure. Do you know anything about the success of such reunions?

Also, do you know anything about how I might go about this job? I have always suppressed any curiosity I might have felt about my natural parents, but since my adoptive parents have died, I feel that I need no longer suppress it.

Although I am not generally unhappy, I have been since my parents' death.

"Joe"

Dear "Joe,"

I sense in your letter that in your quest for your natural parents, you may be anticipating relationships that will provide the same love and warmth that you shared with your adoptive parents. If it is true, the outcome could be disappointing.

Your search is into the unknown and as such, could have unexpected outcomes. However, if I am wrong and you are without preconceived fantasies, then finding your natural parents could be exciting and enlightening.

There are many disparate views on the emotional impact of such reunions. At one extreme, there are those who believe that one's security is threatened by opening new doors. At the other extreme, there are those who believe that reunions are good even when they cause anger and confusion.

Additionally, there are the feelings of your natural parents to consider. Might they feel infringed upon, if you were to find them.

The subject is controversial as you can see. The right answer can only be known with hindsight. If you enter the process realistically, you will learn something no matter what the emotional impact is.

Should you decide to pursue this quest, a group that might help is the International Soundex Reunion Registry in Carson City, Nev. Call (707) 882-7755. They can match you with your birth parents, if they are registered with them. If they are not, they will make a referral to a social service or search agency that could aid you.

I would like to address the sadness you mentioned that resulted from your parents' deaths. Mourning generally is considered normal when it lasts about a year. If your mourning has far surpassed that time, you may want to find competent help or support.

Stone 'throwing' for fun, fitness

"To join the family, he had to curl," said Kathy Frankowiak, 26, of husband Bob, 28. Kathy learned to curl as a child, taught by her father and grandfather who were lifelong curlers.

When the Rochester couple wed four years ago, Bob took up the sport. Like many curlers, they golf in the summer.

THE TWO sports are similar. During play, each requires intense concentration and absolute stillness. In the 18 or so countries where there are clubs, curling and golfing are often combined into a single club, like the Roseland Golf and Curling Club in Windsor. Curling is the national sport of Canada.

In addition to the Detroit club, there are four other curling clubs in Michigan, including Lewiston and Sault Ste. Marie. The Jackson Cascade Club has an outdoor arena and the Midland Granite Club has the only other indoor arena.

Competition between clubs is intense, according to Lon Lowen, a West Bloomfield fireman who has been curling four years. The trophy his team won during a Canadian bonspiel for firefighters last winter is proudly displayed in the dining hall of the West Bloomfield arena.

Also in the hall are tables set for eight, room enough for two teams of four players each.

Following each game, "The winners always treat the losers. You always come back and sit with opponents. That's real important," Lowen said.

It takes style, grace and plenty of finesse to place a stone right where you want it in the game of curling.

Curling, a game whose rules were set by the Grand Caledonian Curling Club in 1838 to "unite curlers throughout the world into one Brotherhood of the Rink," is characterized by hospitality and sportsmanship.

Detroit curlers extended such traditions last year when the club hosted national championship competition. Twelve teams competed in the men's 33rd annual competition and nine teams competed in the women's 13th annual competition.

LOWEN AND wife Kay, a bus driver for West Bloomfield schools, curl together in mixed bonspiels Tuesday and Friday evenings. Bonspiels for men are played Monday and Thursday evenings. Women play Wednesday evenings and Tuesday mornings.

Curling is characterized by hospitality and sportsmanship.

Sunday afternoons are set aside for youth ages 6 to 16 years who play with special "hot rocks" that are substantially smaller than the 42-pound granite stones used by adults. The Detroit Club's stones, valued today at $55,000, were bought immediately after World War II and are made of microgranite from the island of Ailsa Craig off the Scottish coast.

Special introductory memberships are now available. Cost is $280 for a family, $245 for individual men, $225 for men under 28 years of age, $150 for individual women and $50 for juniors. Membership includes as much club play as desired at no additional cost.

The club is also open to public groups interested in dining and learning to curl. For cost or more information, call 661-2890.

Gift shops offer 'portable' gifts good for giving

If you have any girls on your list, buy each a charm bracelet and one charm. That will solve your Christmas gift problem for years to come. Don't buy gold unless you plan to buy very expensive gifts as the girl grows to a woman. Actually, charms work for grown women, too, as do good quality souvenir spoons and collector plates.

Every city you visit has an art museum. Some of my best Christmas gifts were bought in art museums — jewelry pieces copied from an art antique, large silver and pewter spoons copied from some 18th-century design, hand-painted scarves, an art poster that can be mailed home.

I never take time to go shopping deliberately, unless it is to a craft store or a specialty shop that makes something exclusive to the area. Handcrafted Christmas decorations are irresistible.

I KEEP MY eyes open as I travel around for certain kinds of shops. For example, a music shop in another area often has a tape of some local music group that will interest friends at home.

For those of you who don't travel much, these ideas can be applied by following my footsteps across the border to Windsor. Hit the post office, coin shop, book store, specialty food aisle, Ontario liquor store, even the grocery store has teas and jams and cheeses you won't find in Detroit.

Explore china and crystal shops, if you plan to spend a lot on a gift. Or try department stores like Simpsons for wool sweaters, better and cheaper than at home.

If you stay more than 48 hours you can bring back top-brand Scotch from the duty-free store and up to $400 worth of goods every 30 days.

On a day trip, you can bring back $25 worth of goods per person. Keep your bills.

Let's say you have tried all these things and you still don't complete your Christmas list on time. There is another sneaky thing you can do. If it's a big gift, buy an airline ticket and stuff it in a stocking. Or give a friend a gift certificate to a local hotel, one that serves business travelers and therefore gives great rates on the weekend.

Or do something unexpected. Buy a bunch of art posters and send them instead of Christmas cards. You can sign them in your hotel room and mail them in a tube before you leave town.

If all else fails, adopt a whale in somebody's name from the Whale Adoption Project, 634 N. Falmouth Highway, North Falmouth, Mass. 12556. All the whales have names and you can pick the one you like.

YOU MAY not think that is much of a gift, but it will thrill an environmentalist. One of the best gifts I ever sent home from a trip was a certificate saying that I had planted a tree in a friend's name in Israel.

A word of warning. Never bring big, bulky things home except for yourself. I have a piece of driftwood that traveled 3,000 miles on the front of a trailer and a large Mexican lamp that was hauled aboard several airplanes between Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, and Detroit, but I don't recommend this unless you are really wild about something.

Never buy such troublesome gifts for others. You are the only one who is worth it.

Surviving heckle hell

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Mention bombing to Kirk Noland, and Pearl Harbor and Nagasaki don't immediately come to mind. His first year as a stand-up comedian does.

"I went through a period of about a year where I ate it every night," said Noland, 28, a five-year veteran of the laugh wars. "I hear comedians today saying, 'I can't believe you stuck it out because you were so bad.'"

Noland can chuckle at such memories. His stage act has developed considerably since then, thrusting him out of the trenches of heckle hell.

THE DIFFICULT part is not writing funny jokes, Noland said. Anyone can develop material.

The task of a comedian is to involve himself into the act, espousing his views in a non-offending way to audiences. Noland likens it to a "dictatorship" instead of a democracy.

"People pay $10 to hear what I have to say," Noland said. "Not to have their views bounced back off of them."

The line is fine, though, and Noland walks it like the finest circus high-wire act. Otherwise, he wouldn't be able to talk about religion in Southern clubs and draw laughs.

"I talk about Moses in my act," Noland said. "Moses is one of my favorite Biblical stories. Think about it, the guy had to have charisma. He dragged people around the desert for 40 years. Did you ever think how long 40 years is? That's something like 390,000 hours or 2 million minutes."

"You ever follow someone around for five minutes and realized they are lost and you have to say something?"

LOST IN a series of day jobs, Noland found comedy to his immediate liking after one trip to the Comedy Castle. He also worked in community theater for a while, including with proud of his job as I am mine. He could come from a long line of bathroom attendants. He could talk about all the famous people who have used his restroom. It's turned into a nice bit, actually.

THOSE TYPES of bits have garnered Noland television exposure on such shows as "Comedy Night in America" on BET and "Night Shift," a talk show in Fort Wayne, Ind. He was an extra in "Beverly Hills Cop" and had a cameo role in "Striker's War," a film made in Detroit and entered at Cannes Film Festival.

one group at Henry Ford Community College.

Noland credits the theater for providing discipline. But it also has helped in other areas, including the development of characters in his act.

One such character is "Spike Jones," a vigilante who tells people how to defend themselves. Another is "Tony Seat," a lifelong bathroom attendant.

The latter evolved from a meeting with such a person in a New York hotel.

"Could you imagine doing that your whole life?" Noland said. "But then I thought, he's probably as

Baby chic: Looking your best

By Rebecca Haynes
staff writer

Being pregnant no longer means you have to look frumpy.

And if you've got money to spend, the selection of high-fashion maternity wear is large enough to keep you looking like you just stepped off of the fashion pages the whole nine months.

"The fabric market kind of dictates what will be shown, but generally whatever the regular lines are showing appears in maternity as well," said Lisa Joseph of Birmingham's Lady Madonna maternity boutique. "There's nothing really unique with maternity anymore, except for the fact that the clothes are made to accommodate a growing tummy."

"We have short skirts, long skirts and we use belts and sashes to accessorize."

Joseph recalled one couple who came into the store.

"I remember that the husband was looking around and he said to his wife the only thing she had to show off was her legs, so she might as well," she said. "Then they bought a couple of mini skirts."

Most of the smaller boutiques, such as Lady Madonna, 325 S. Woodward, and West Bloomfield's Expecting the Best, 6907 Orchard Lake Road, operate on a philosophy of personal service.

"WE TRY TO build a good rapport with our customers, and our company really believes that you should dress them from the inside out," said Linda Tucker of Expecting the Best. "We're all trained to be knowledgeable about our products and to know what's out there."

"We have to be teachers, not just sales people."

Joseph said the Lady Madonna philosophy is to always let the customer know they're there and ready and willing to help, if needed.

"We love to work with our customers and find out what types of things they do so we can help them pick the clothes they'll need," Joseph said. "Our customers really run the gamut — from people who have very conservative tastes to people who like things that are far out."

"After a while you get to know the customer and you can lead them right to the things you know they're going to like."

Tucker said she likes to look at her store as one-stop shopping. "All of our salespeople take classes on how to fit bras, which is really sort of a lost art, and we stock a large selection of undergarments and lingerie," she said. "We also have a community dressing room that the women seem to like. I think it helps them expand their ideas of what they might wear because they see more things on other pregnant women."

Large, oversize tops and skinny skirts are the most flattering for a ballooning tummy, both Joseph and Tucker agreed.

"Shoulder pads are an absolute must," Joseph said. "They help to put everything in proportion."

The amount of money you need to spend depends on your lifestyle.

"DRESSES CAN be more economical because you can dress them up or down and get more wear out of them," Joseph said. "If you need to get evening clothes it can get expensive, and the same with a lot of career wear."

"We do have some hard-line suits but we always try to soften them up because the corporate women seem to be wearing more feminine things."

Both Expecting the Best and Lady Madonna also operate outlet stores in the area. Each carries some of the same items the smaller boutique features, as well as a large variety of maternity wear at moderate and lower prices. Maternity Ltd., associated with Expecting the Best, is in Westland's West Ridge Shopping Center on Warren. The Lady Madonna outlet is at 30919 Orchard Lake Road in the Orchard Place Plaza, Farmington Hills.

Although some maternity styles still feature panels, more and more the clothes are being made the same way as regular fashions.

"We have jeans with zippers and buttons," Joseph said. "We usually recommend that a woman buys two pairs of jeans, one pair smaller and one pair a little larger. It's virtually impossible to buy one thing that's going to fit you the whole pregnancy."

Knit pants are still popular and Joseph said Lady Madonna has ordered a lot of corduroy since it's been coming back for regular wear. Slip dresses are also popular because women don't always like to wear a lot of material around the waist.

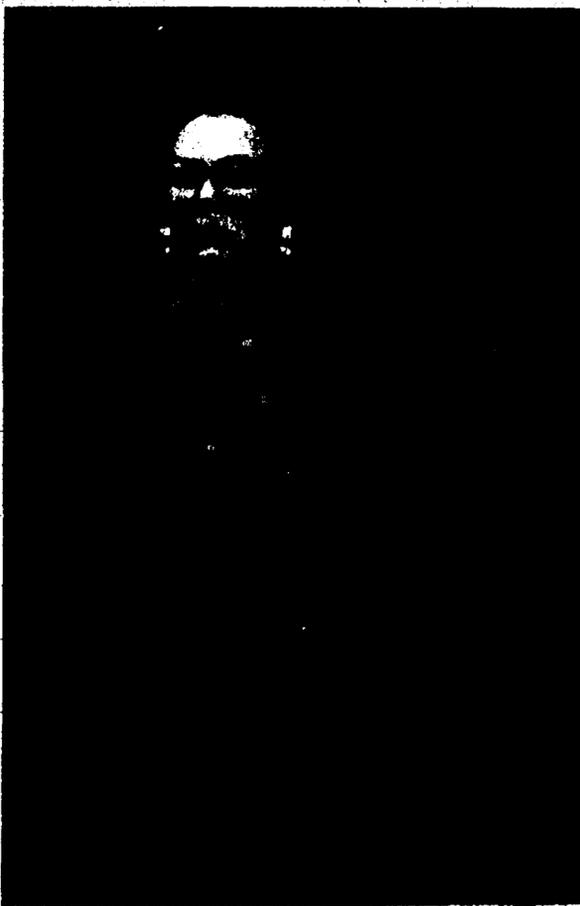

THE JAPANESE Weekend line takes off on this philosophy. Designed by a dancer, all of the waistbands go underneath the tummy, lending support.

"We sell a lot of that line," Tucker said. "We also have a large selection of very dressy dresses and we have some silk tie-dyes that are all hand done and one-of-a-kind. All of our acid-washed denim sell very well too."

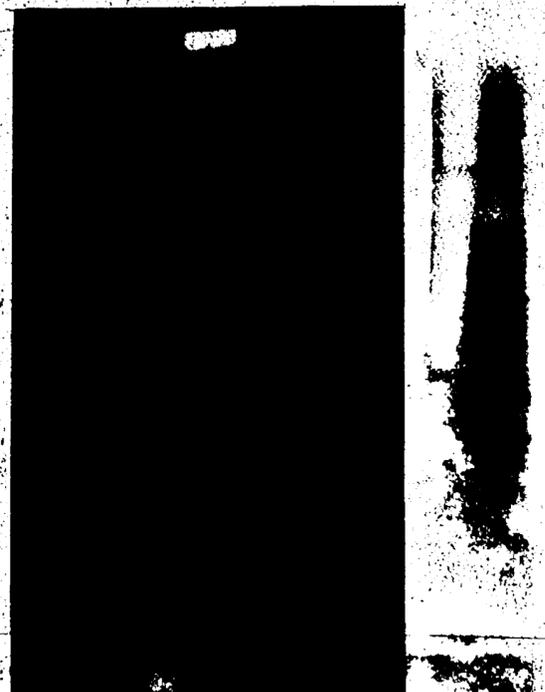

STEVE CANTRELL/staff photographer

Lady Madonna calls it the taxi cab group — 100 percent cotton knits. On the left, it's a polka dot slim skirt ($48) paired up with a reversible sweatshirt ($74) and striped jacket ($90). On the right, it's a gray jumpsuit ($120) with a gold turtleneck ($46).

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Career dressing for the mother-to-be may call for a black and red two-piece Chanel dress ($154), designed for Expecting the Best.

STEVE CANTRELL/staff photographer

For the work day, the mother-to-be can wear Lady Madonna's two-piece outfit with faux vest in antique gold sand-washed silk ($300), topped off with a purple scarf.

Giuseppe Costanzo featured guest

Doina Palade, in guest role

Quinto Milito area favorite

Thomas Cook concert director

Dinner-concert is Caruso tribute

Singers from abroad, a community orchestra, a local opera company, Michigan vocalists, and organizations spanning three countries have collaborated to produce a major concert honoring Enrico Caruso, acclaimed by many to be the greatest tenor ever known.

The joint efforts will culminate in a performance at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Athens High School in Troy.

Taking part in the tribute will be Giuseppe Costanzo of Milan, Italy, winner of the 1980 Caruso Competition; Doina Palade, born in Bucharest, Romania, winner of the 1985 Luciano Pavarotti Competition; and three Michigan professionals: dramatic soprano Julie Rose of Redford, mezzo-soprano Christina Lypecky, and baritone Quinto Milito of Dearborn. They will be accompanied by the Macomb Symphony Orchestra and pianist Bernard Katz, with conductor Thomas Cook at the podium.

The program will feature well-loved arias, duets and ensembles from such operas as "Carmen," "La Bohème," "Rigoletto," and "Il Trovatore" by composers Bizet, Puccini and Verdi as well as Gounod, Massenet, Rossini and Giordana.

The finale of the concert will feature famous Italian, classical and Neapolitan songs: "O Sole Mio," "Granada," "Return to Sorrento," "Funiculi, Funicula." The Macomb Symphony will offer the great overture from "The Barber of Seville," and music from "Carmen."

A catered dinner will be offered after the concert at a nearby hall of Holy Trinity Church, Square Lake Road, west of John R.

FEATURED GUEST artist Costanzo studied voice at the Academy of Isimo and LaScala. He has won many international competitions, including the Luciano Pavarotti in Philadelphia in 1984, the Maria Callas in Rome and the Enrico Caruso in Milan. He has performed under the baton of Claudio Abbado, Zubin Mehta and Eduardo Mata.

Soprano Palade will come from Italy for the special concert. She recently toured China with Luciano Pavarotti. Joining them will be dramatic soprano Rose, who studied with Gean Greenwell and Jan Albright. She has appeared with Michigan Lyric Opera, Piccolo Opera and many orchestras and is currently soloist at Christ Church Cranbrook.

Mezzo-soprano Christina Lypecky of Warren will sing "Stride La Vampa" and other selections. Born in the Ukraine, she has been a finalist in the Metropolitan Opera Theater and the Warren Symphony Orchestra. Milito, well known to the Italian community, studied at the Rossini Conservatory and made his debut at the Spoleto Festival in Italy under the baton of Thomas Schippers. He has appeared with the Detroit, Dearborn, and Mt. Clemens Symphony orchestras, and is currently artistic director of Friends of the Opera of Michigan.

Thomas Cook, conductor, is a familiar figure to Macomb County audiences. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in music from Wayne State University and studied with the late Valter Poole. He is a professor of music theory and history at Macomb Community College and music director of the Macomb Symphony Orchestra.

Major flower-garden show set by Matthaei

The University of Michigan's Matthaei Botanical Gardens will present Michigan's first major flower and garden show April 6-8 at the university's Yost Field House.

The 1990 Ann Arbor Flower and Garden show will focus on four kinds of displays. Landscape designers and nursery firms will feature dramatic garden environments, Michigan garden club members and commercial florists will exhibit original floral arrangements, and community residents will be invited to enter plants in horticultural classes. In addition, the public will have the opportunity to interact with horticultural and environmental experts.

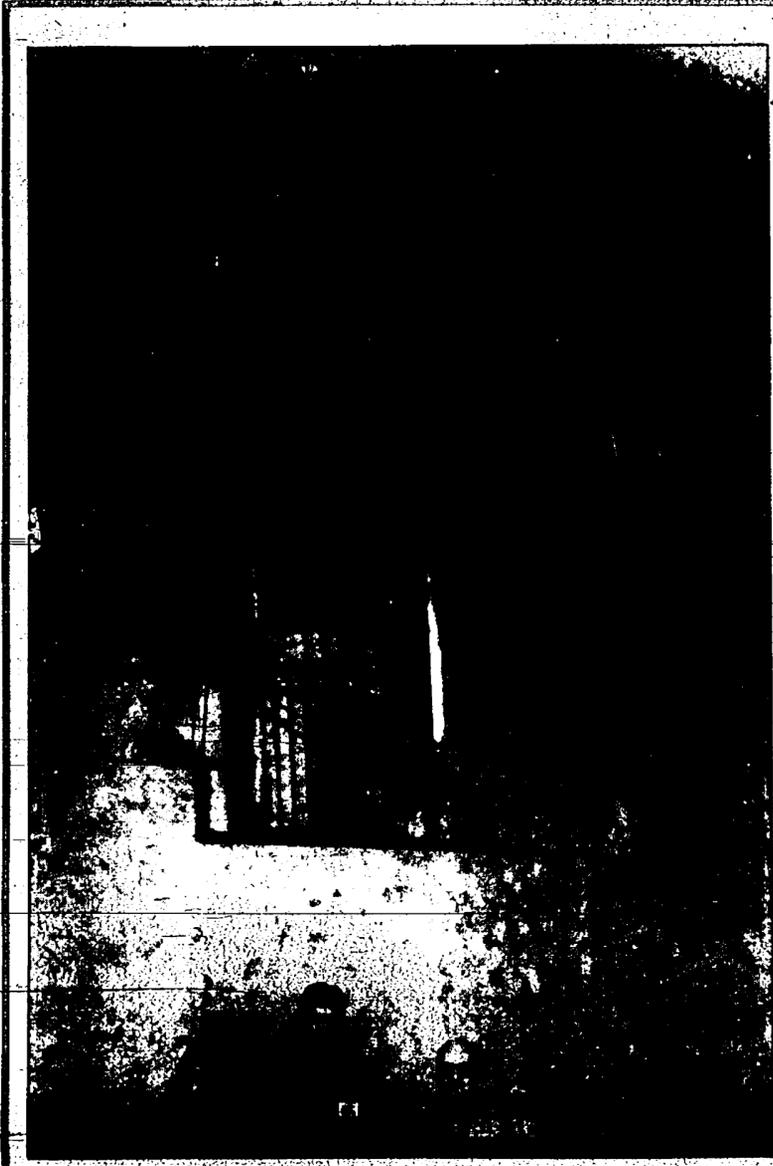

Garden environments created by the landscape firms and nurseries will be among the show's highlight with special exhibits by the Ikebana, rose, bonsai and orchid societies. Selected by a panel of leading landscape and gardening authorities, landscape designs will feature Japanese spruce, paper bark maple, azaleas, snapdragons, daffodils, tea houses, waterfalls, small streams and other traditional and innovative gardening ideas.

THE FLOWER AND Garden Show will adhere to flower show guidelines established by the National Council of State Garden Clubs. The show will serve as a major fund-raising event to continue the development of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens research and education facilities and programs.

The Gardens provide the university community, the surrounding region and the state of Michigan with a naturalistic setting for native plants and exotics.

Besides exhibits, the Flower and Garden Show will include a marketplace for retail sales of garden and plant materials. For more information on the show, call or write Judith Corkran Katch, Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 Dixboro Road, Ann Arbor 48105, or call 998-7849.

Urban profile

Recently installed in the main lobby of the Manufacturers National Bank Operations Center at Six Mile and Haggerty roads in Livonia is a wall relief, "Industrial Landscape," by noted area sculptor Morris Brose (below, left). Brose was selected for the bas-relief commission from three sculptors invited by the architectural firm Louis Redstone and Associates of Livonia to compete for the commission. The sculpture was made by hand-forging metals: bronze, copper and nickel silver. Its dimensions are 12-feet-high-by-11 feet-wide-by-1-foot in depth. "Industrial Landscape" is comprised of forms associated with Detroit's urban profile, Brose said. The rhythms of the linear elements express the vitality, activity of working. Shown with Brose is Thomas Chubb, project coordinator (center) and Louis Redstone Sr. On Nov. 17-18-19, other works of Brose and his wife will be on exhibit/sale in their studio at 1437 Randolph, in the Harmonie Park area.

organizing Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q: I have stacks and stacks of work on my desk and don't have time to get it all done. Help!

A: Nothing causes more pressure than leaving your work laying out to nag you! The more you have to do the more important it is to (yep, you guessed it) get organized.

Set aside a specific time when you will have few interruptions to sort through all the papers on your desk.

If it's a really big job use the basic time management technique: Break it into units. Perhaps you can devote 2½ hours to cleaning up your act by arriving at your office 30 minutes early each day for a week. As you sort, concentrate on these aspects:

1. Priority. What's the payoff? Will it produce dramatic or substantial results? Can it be delayed without penalty? Would nothing happen if you threw it away?

2. Decisions. Force yourself to make decisions as you come to them; don't simply rotate your papers from one stack into another with the excuse you'll decide "later."

3. Homelessness. Don't let your papers "sleep in the street." Establish a vertical home for every paper you keep. Create appropriate files for "hot" action items, lower priority to do's, follow-up, pending, filing, etc.

Avoid numerous interruptions by consolidating repetitive tasks into one-time actions with folders such as "Copies to make," "Dictation," etc. Establish a home in the wastebasket for as much as possible.

DO NOT leave your desk during your organizing periods. Once sorting is complete, delegate or deliver elsewhere everything possible, schedule your reading and filing, and then go back through your "hot" action file.

Be especially aware of any information you lack that may be impeding your progress on a given task. Make a cursory evaluation of what is needed to do each task, estimate how long it will take and schedule everything on your calendar (the most important first, of course). Actually work on your action items only after sorting and scheduling is complete.

A man in my business seminar recently reported that, after using this technique, he had filled some incomplete forms that had been nagging him in a low-priority action file and scheduled them for later.

He now felt in control without guilt because he realized his other work was more important. On a clear desk, he was clicking off his big jobs and starting to get the little ones done, too.

You, too, can relieve pressure and be in control if you get your papers out of sight and onto a prioritized schedule.

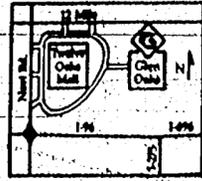

You can order "Organizing — Vol. 1," a collection of Dorothy Lehmkuhl's first 52 columns, by sending a long, self-addressed envelope with 65 cents postage and a $5 check payable to: Organizing Techniques, 6165 Worthington, Birmingham 48010.

Guests of Village Suites can use the Village Green apartment facilities like this clubhouse at the Farmington Hills site.

Suite life aimed at the long-term business traveler

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Since the days of the Fuller brush men, traveling salesmen have been looking for someplace to hide from the rain and lay their heads at night.

Today, the businessman no longer relies on a Ford Edsel and gully-like roads — airplanes and modern freeways have since solved the problem of getting from one place to another — but finding a place to sleep for several weeks can still pose a problem. Jonathan Holtzman, co-chairman of Holtzman and Silverman Companies in Farmington Hills, thinks he has the answer. Holtzman and Silverman Companies, in addition to developing residential houses, builds and manages 18 Village Green apartments in southeast Michigan.

"What we've done with our company is find a niche that hasn't been addressed," he said. "We guess there are 500 people on any given day looking for some place to stay for 30 days or more."

To meet this market, Village Green began offering short-term, furnished apartments in January of 1989.

Offered in two packages, rental rates start at $38 a day, but lower rates are available for visits extending beyond 90 days.

Holtzman said he has approximately 100 furnished apartments available for short-term leasing throughout southeast Michigan with a 90-95 percent occupancy rate.

"I should have 200 by next year," he said.

Automotive companies, foreign businesses, athletes, computer firms and theater people in town for several weeks or months are the most likely candidates for short-term lease, furnished apartments, he said.

"We're here for people that need a place to stay for 30, 60 or 90 days while they're in town for a job or relocating and haven't had a chance to look for a home," Holtzman said.

"We're not going after the less than 30 day market."

"About 20 percent of Americans move every five years — that's astounding when you think about it," Holtzman said. "Until a few years ago, the rental people said, 'sorry,' and the hotel people said, 'sure, we've got a place for $70 or $80 a night that's a 2,500-square-foot box."

"Now we're saying wait a minute," Holtzman said. "We can charge 50 percent less than a hotel, offer furniture, short-term leasing and more space."

Village Green and others like it can provide all the services of a hotel plus the social atmosphere and the amenities associated with upscale apartment living, he said.

Holtzman said the renting price of $38 a day is still costly — more costly than renting an apartment and furnishing it would be — but most companies that transfer or train new employees pick up part or all of the tab.

Individuals typically stay shorter lengths of times, while looking for a more permanent place, he said.

Many companies that frequently transfer employees or trainees, rent a long-term apartment, furnish it themselves, and then rotate transferees, Holtzman said.

"But some companies don't want to take the time," he said. "That's where we come in."

In the future, short-term apartment operators like Village Green will eventually take more of the market — even though there are relatively few in business now.

Paula Butler, spokeswoman for Marriott Residence Inn, which also serves the business traveler and temporarily homeless, said the company has noticed a trend toward short-term apartment leasing, but it has not affected Marriott's business yet.

Most short-term apartment operators, she said, are going after the more than 30-day-stay visitors, so most of the Residence Inn's customers are safe. The average Residence Inn customer's stay is 10 days, Butler said.

Some residents do stay for longer periods, and those numbers have not decreased in recent years, Butler said. In fact, the number of customers served by Residence Inn continues to grow.

"There's no question there is business out there," she said, but added that the regular hotels are still getting the lion's share of the market. "It's just that people aren't aware there are (short-term renting) alternatives."

"In a way, the competition (between extended stay hotels and apartments) is good for us," Butler said.

Consumers to pay price for clean sites

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Developers will continue to build despite a growing body of laws holding them responsible for contamination on property they buy, and in the long run, the consumer will pay the price.

Real estate attorney Sheldon Winkelman of Honigman, Miller, Schwartz and Cohn, Detroit, told developers from the Building Owners and Managers Association of Southeastern Michigan (BOMA) that buying property before a thorough investigation is not only foolish, it is also becoming more complicated.

Land buyers regularly add clauses in sales contracts holding the previous owner responsible for contamination found on the site, Winkelman said.

"Ten years ago, no one would have expected something like that and they would laugh if it were included."

Sellers, naturally, resist those requirements, he said.

BANKS, WINKELMAN said, place increasing emphasis on environmental issues and often insert lending agreement clauses holding borrowers responsible for site contamination in the event of foreclosures.

Some agreements hold borrowers responsible for contamination even after a bank transfers the property to someone else.

Environmental attorney Philip A. Grasshoff Jr., also of Honigman, Miller, Schwartz and Cohn, said environmental audits are essential for every project, regardless of whether the property to be bought is vacant land or has been previously developed.

Audits are a developer's best protection should contamination be discovered on the site, Grasshoff said. Audits may be costly, and a court still may find a developer liable for cleanup costs regardless of what the audit finds, but they are the developer's only defense.

"Innocence (from causing the contamination) is no defense," he said.

DESPITE ENVIRONMENTAL impediments to land development, it is unlikely developers will stop building, BOMA president Richard Roeser said.

"People still need houses, still need shops, and they still need offices."

In the past, all builders and land speculators had to worry about was whether the location and price were right, he said.

"Perhaps that's an oversimplification, but it's no longer that easy."

There are ways for developers to protect themselves, Roeser said, but it's obvious building in the next century is going to be very different.

"I don't see it getting any easier, but I also don't think the world will stop."

THE IMPACT of environmental issues on building is a sign of the times, said Steven Fisher, a developer with the Selective Group in Farmington Hills.

Because laws require that landowners clean up contamination on property they own, the developer can avoid buying a parcel of property or make a decision based on the information, Fisher said.

"As a buyer of land, I send out the environmental consultants to survey the land — if it's dirty, I walk away, if it's clean I decide if I want to buy it."

As long as developers practice due diligence by thoroughly investigating sites, they should be protected as an innocent third party to the pollution, Fisher said.

THE LAWS are still new, so it may take time before all the nuances become apparent, Fisher said. For example, should a developer with contaminated property be held liable for contamination missed by the environmental consultant?

"It doesn't paint a rosy picture," said developer Robert Schwartz of United Homes Inc., Farmington Hills.

In the long run, the cost of complying with new laws will be passed on to the consumer.

Purchase contract should include inspection clauses

I am having a problem with my real estate agent, who won't allow me to inspect the unit prior to closing. I retained the right to inspect the unit prior to the deal becoming binding, and I am wondering whether I can insist upon an inspection before closing. Can you help me?

and paid $159,000. In June the price was reduced to $149,000. This price is not for a few remaining units that the developer was anxious to sell but for units that are still under construction. Do we have any redress as to this devaluation in price in just a six-month period?

The practical problem is that the purchase price for any unit is based on what the market will bear. The developer's position will no doubt be that he was asking too much for the units and is reducing the price to market them more readily. On the other hand, to the extent that the developer represented to prospective purchasers, expressly or implicitly, that this was a fair price for the unit and that the price wouldn't be reduced at some subsequent time, you may have a claim against the developer for misrepresentation. You should check the sales brochures and review your notes and recollections concerning what you were told at the time of purchase to ascertain whether you have any recourse.
