THE WAYNE Memorial High School band alumni association is seeking a "few vintage tooters, tweeters and bangers" to take part in the school's Friday, Oct. 4, homecoming parade. Volunteers may call 722-2859 to take part in the annual parade.

KEISHA DUKES, a John Glenn High School student, won a six-day trip to Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Va., after winning a Cultural Excellence Contest sponsored by the Detroit Pistons and Panasonic Corp. The trip, taken in mid-July, was awarded for Keisha's first-place entry.

She wrote about Dr. George Washington Carver under the theme of "contributions of an ethnic American to the greatness of the United States."

The student is the daughter of Sandra and Norman Venson of Inkster.

The essay was encouraged by Louise Karmann, Keisha's communications skills teacher, who asked her to enter the Black History Month essay contest earlier this year. It was the first essay Keisha had written. It was a semifinalist in that competition.

When the Pistons/Panasonic essay contest was announced, Karmann encouraged Keisha to revise the earlier effort to fit the theme of the competition.

ANOTHER JOHN Glenn student, Pamela Kolongowski, is a contestant in the Miss T.E.E.N. pageant. She is 16, daughter of Mary McGhie and is sponsored by Mickey's Dairy Twist and J & D Auto Dismantler.

At Glenn, she is co-captain of the JV volleyball team, JV softball player, junior class president, served as sophomore class publicity manager and has been nominated for the Who's Who among American High School Students.

Pamela has a 3.8 grade point average.

Contestants will be judged on the basis of scholastic achievement, volunteer service, a personal interview, a speech and formal presentation in a formal gown.

THREE WESTLAND seniors received degrees from Grand Valley State University this summer. Awarded bachelor of science degrees were Eileen May, Jason Smith and Paul Tavara.

THE WAYNE GARDEN Club, which includes Westland members, attended the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan's 60th anniversary at a state convention.

Representing the Wayne club at the event were president Doris Carpenter and vice president Ellen Johnson.

Carpenter also led the parade of presidents and was presented an award from Shell Oil Co. for the group's environmental awareness campaign.

The Wayne club is also in the middle of a busy year which includes a day at the lake, a fundraiser Oct. 8 in the form of a fashion show and luncheon at the Plymouth Manor in Plymouth. "Sowing the Seed of Fashion" is the theme of the show. Tickets are available from club members.

THE CITY Council will hold a business session at 7:30 Monday night in City Hall, 36401 Ford, east of Newburgh. Agendas are available in advance from the city clerk's office.

School chief, recall leader meet

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill initiated talks last week with one of his harshest critics, Steven Lind, who wants to see three school board members forced from office and the superintendent fired.

Both sides described the talks as cordial, but they remained in firm opposition following the 1½-hour session at Taft-Galloway Elementary School, where Lind has been an active parent.

"We didn't go into the meeting expecting to change each other's

Adversaries agree to disagree

mind," Lind said. "We basically agreed to disagree."

Lind is chairman of a recall committee seeking to oust school board members Kathleen Chorbajian, Leonard Posey and Andrew Spisak — O'Neill's strongest supporters on the board. Lind has said the recall campaign is aimed, in part, at firing O'Neill.

O'Neill had asked Taft-Galloway principal Jose Muller several months ago to try and arrange the meeting with Lind, but Wednesday's session marked the first time the two sides had sat down to discuss their differences. Muller and Lind's wife, Barbara, also attended.

"I think we had a good dialogue," O'Neill said, adding later, "Nothing ventured, nothing gained."

THE TALKS preceded by just five days a crucial meeting today in which county officials will decide whether to approve the revised recall petitions that Lind filed against Chorbajian, Posey and Spisak.

If the Wayne County elections commission approves the petition language, recall organizers must collect signatures from 4,420 school district voters before a special recall election can be held.

"We did have a very friendly meeting," Lind said. "Dr. O'Neill wanted to know more or less where we were coming from and why we were disgruntled. But it's not a matter of Mr. and Mrs. Lind being disgruntled. It's a matter of the public being disgruntled."

In the recall petitions, Lind accuses Chorbajian, Posey and Spisak of planning massive school program cuts at a time when they also approved a contract giving teachers an 11.9-percent raise over two years. Subsequently, the budget cuts were averted after voters approved a tax increase.

Lind contends that the three board members failed to represent the vot-

Troubled kids get support

Westland youngsters who break the law won't necessarily find themselves in court — and with a criminal record — under a new program that the city plans to start in October.

The Westland Youth Assistance Program will use counseling, community service, tutoring and behavior-improvement classes to steer youngsters away from truancy, vandalism, drug abuse, arson, theft and other law-breaking behavior.

The new program will mark a dramatic departure from solving youth problems in court. Instead, role models will volunteer their time to work with the youngsters and their families to help them overcome behavioral problems.

"It's a real positive type of approach," said program director George Riley, a battalion chief with the fire department's juvenile affairs division.

Troubled youngsters will be referred to the voluntary program by schools, police, family members and juvenile court. They also may seek help on their own.

The youths will be assigned to a volunteer counselor and may —

Belly-bumping No charges leveled in dispute over removal of campaign signs

Andrew Spisak, 18th District Court officer and Wayne-Westland school board member, will not be charged in a dispute in which he was accused of bumping a city official with his stomach.

The Wayne County prosecutor's office, calling the incident minor, has refused to issue a warrant against Spisak, said Robert Sage, Wayne County deputy chief assistant prosecutor.

"It's not sufficient to bother a criminal court with," Sage said. "Because of the fact that there was not a serious injury, no warrant has been recommended."

Carl Clark, a public services department official, claimed Spisak bumped him with his stomach several times during an argument Aug. 30 about the removal of campaign signs from Spisak's front yard.

Driver placed on 3-year probation

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A teenage driver accused of striking and killing a motorcyclist after running a red light in Westland has been placed on probation for three years, police officials said.

Robert Splan, 17, of South Lyon had been faced with a negligent homicide charge and could have faced up to two years in prison in the death of Timothy Jay Donlon, 37, of Plymouth.

Instead, Splan's case fell under the state's Holmes Youthful Offender Act, and he did not have to enter a plea on the negligent homicide charge, said Sgt. Peter Brokas, who heads the Westland Police Department's traffic bureau.

"If he does nothing wrong and goes along with the probation terms, then his slate will be wiped clean in three years," Brokas said Thursday.

Splan and three friends were on their way to a high school senior prom at 6:11 p.m. April 28 when he ran a red light at Warren Road and Merriman, slamming into Donlon's motorcycle, witnesses told police. Splan's 1989 Pontiac was eastbound on Warren. Donlon, westbound on Warren, was struck broadside as he turned left to go south on Merriman, police reported.

Donlon suffered multiple injuries, including a nearly severed right leg. He died at the University of Michigan Hospital five days after the accident.

Initially, it had appeared Donlon would recover from the accident, but he suffered complications that included two heart attacks in the hospital, police officers have said.

Immediately after the crash, he had appeared alert and asked police to tell the teenagers to go to their prom and enjoy it, Westland police officer Steven Frazer said. Police described Donlon as "a really nice guy."

None of the teenagers was injured in the accident.

Arcade manager bound over for trial

A Westland business manager accused of embezzling money from a Westland Center video arcade will stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court.

Ted Daniel Gainer, 29, of Garden City was ordered to stand trial Thursday after he waived a preliminary examination during an appearance before Judge Gail McKnight in Westland's 18th District Court.

Gainer was arrested Sept. 3 and charged with one felony count of embezzling money from the Pocket Change arcade. One day later, he pleaded not guilty during an arraignment in district court.

Farrar promoted to Marshall post

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

A longtime Wayne Memorial High School teacher has been appointed the new assistant principal at Marshall Junior High, replacing Thomas Drummond, who left the Wayne-Westland district for a better-paying job.

Anita Farrar, described by Superintendent Dennis O'Neill as "a thoroughly competent and experienced teaching professional," was chosen from among seven applicants. The school board approved her for the post last week.

Board member Kathleen Chorbajian commended the choice of a woman — and Farrar, particularly — for the post. She said junior high girls may feel more comfortable talking about their problems with a female administrator.

Farrar, who has headed Wayne Memorial's English department for seven years, replaces Drummond, who left the district after 19 years to accept an assistant principal's post in the Walled Lake district.

DRUMMOND'S SALARY increased from $58,231 to $85,942. Some board members fear a trend could emerge in which other top-notch employees will leave the district for better-paying jobs.

In recommending Farrar last week, O'Neill called her an "outstanding professional" whose "contributions at both the building and district levels have been exemplary."

In her role chairing Wayne Memorial's English department, Farrar "has exhibited strong leadership skills," O'Neill said.

Farrar's resume reveals that she has served on numerous district committees, initiated many grants and worked her way up the career ladder. She has served as guidance counselor, MEAP test coordinator and English teacher, among other roles, at Wayne Memorial.

She has a master's degree in guidance and counseling, and a bachelor's degree in English and history. She plans to complete the requirements for administrative certification by December, and expects to receive her educational specialist degree in school administration in June.

Manager faces trial for embezzlement found $5,200 that Gainer had stashed in his brother's apartment in Garden City, police Sgt. Stephen Ryskamp has said.

Initially, Gainer had told authorities that he had been abducted by two males near Westland Center, taken to Washtenaw County and robbed at knifepoint, before being set free.

His story emerged after Gainer — his hands rope-tied behind his back and his left shoulder cut — walked to a house on Dixboro Road near Ypsilanti and asked for help. Police later accused him of paying a younger male $300 to tie him up.

UNDER QUESTIONING from State Police Detective Sgt. Scott Kelley, Gainer admitted he made up the story to cover up his embezzling activities, Ryskamp has said.

Gainer has been held in the county jail on a $10,000 personal bond. On Thursday, however, Judge McKnight granted a request from Gainer's attorney to slash the bond to $5,000, meaning Gainer would have to pay only $500 to be freed.

"I don't think this man is a danger to the community," attorney James Albulov said. "I think part of the reason for this (embezzling) is that it was very easy for him to do."

Several members of Gainer's family came to court Thursday in a show of support to help convince McKnight to lower the bond.

If convicted, Gainer could face up to 10 years in prison. He also faces a felony count of embezzlement in Oscoda County — a charge that Westland police learned about after Gainer was arrested in the latest incident. A warrant had already been issued for his arrest on the earlier charge.

Spisak went to the DPS office on Marquette and confronted Clark, the water and sewer division superintendent, after DPS workers removed political yard signs from his front yard on Harvey Street.

THE WORKERS had been told by Mayor Robert Thomas to crack down on signs illegally erected in road rights-of-way throughout the city.

On Friday, Spisak still contended that there is no clear indication of the right-of-way in front of his house, since there is no sidewalk and his yard stretches to the shoulder of the road.

Still, Spisak — also a formal mayor oral assistant and police officer — appeared relieved that he won't face a criminal charge.

"I'm glad it's over, and I hope everybody forgets about it," he said.

Clark could not be reached for comment Friday.

"If it had been anybody else, I don't think anything would have been said about it," Spisak said. "A lot of people come in and let off steam and you say, 'Well, that's just another guy who's upset.' I've been in law enforcement all my life, and I don't relish people saying I did anything illegal."

He indicated that the dispute mushroomed because some officials "wanted to embarrass me."

"I get a lot of kidding about my belly," he added.

ers. He also blames O'Neill for the district's problems.

"I TOLD him that I don't believe what he is doing is morally correct," Lind said. Recall organizers have accused school officials of threatening deep program cuts to win support for the 7.75-mill tax increase.

Lind said he still wants to see O'Neill fired.

"I do respect Dr. O'Neill. I have the highest respect for him," Lind said. "This is not a personal vendetta against Dr. O'Neill. But I don't believe he's doing a good job."

In the meeting, O'Neill voiced concerns that Lind and his supporters are trying to disrupt the district at a time when it needs to be healed.

"He told me he didn't want to see the district torn apart," Lind said. But, he added, "I don't think the public will be happy until the (three) school board members are recalled."

The recall campaign has not targeted board president Sylvia Kozoroski-Wiacek.

Ford Center student wins state honor

Chadd Gwizdak, a 1991 John Glenn High School graduate, won an award as the county's and state's Outstanding Handicapped Student in Vocational Technical Education.

Chadd has been a student in the building trades program at the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center for the past two years. His occupational goal is to become a licensed electrician.

The award was presented at the Michigan Vocational/Technical Education Super-conference sponsored by the Michigan Council on Vocational Education (MCOVE) and the Michigan Occupational Education Association. The conference was held in Grand Rapids at the Amway Grand Plaza.

Chadd has a learning disability with deficits in the areas of reading and math. In the 10th grade he became very frustrated with school and considered dropping out, said a center spokesman. However, hands-on training in the building trades program allowed Chadd to assume a leadership role within the class.

BY CONTACTING the Building Trades Advisory Committee himself, Chadd, under the guidance of an advisory member, developed the layout and design for the wiring of the building trades house and ordered materials. He then directed the electrical crew to job completion.

In addition to his electrical skills, he has also installed and taped drywall, hung doors and kitchen cabinets, installed trim and poured cement.

According to his nominators, instructor Leon Hanson and special education consultant Diane McLean, "Chadd is an inspiration to those who work with him."

Last October, the center recognized Chadd's talents and named him the student of the month.

Chadd Gwizdak (center) was presented his state award by Jan Danford (left), Michigan Council on Vocational Education chairwoman, and Dorothy Beardmore, Michigan Board of Education president.

along with their parents — be referred for professional services. The youngsters also will participate in community service programs and an eight-week behavior-modification class.

"WE'RE OUT there banging on doors looking for good, qualified role models to work in the program," Riley said.

The volunteer role models, or "mentors," will receive 18 hours of instruction in working with youngsters and helping them to improve their behavior. Though the program won't begin until October, several role models and troubled youths are already being prepared for it.

"Any program that provides an alternative to help assist young people with their problems is positive," Westland police Chief Michael Frayer said. "It will certainly help our effort. Anything that truly tries to put (troubled youngsters) on the right path, we're going to support it."

Many current programs require participants to pay for services, Frayer said. The youth assistance program, however, will be free.

"We're primarily talking about helping first-time offenders," Riley said, though repeat offenders won't necessarily be shut out. However, participants who continue their law-breaking behavior once they enter the program would be tossed out.

The program won't be offered as an alternative to court for youngsters who commit such crimes as sexual assaults.

INITIALLY, PROGRAM coordinators will talk with the youngsters and their families to decide whether it appears they will benefit from the service. If accepted, the youngsters will be placed with a role model in a situation much like the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program, Riley said.

The youths also will attend behavioral modification classes, and they may receive tutoring if they are having problems in school, he said. Parent-education classes also will be offered as needed.

The youngsters also will participate in community service activities, such as working at the city's recycling center, Riley said.

The program has drawn support from the Westland City Council, though three-quarters of the funding will initially be provided by the Michigan Resource Training Center, Riley said. The support money will be gradually phased out over three years, in hopes the program will be completely operated on the local level by the fourth year.

WESTLAND MAYOR Robert Thomas appointed Riley as program director. Anyone interested in volunteering in the program may call Riley at 467-3182.

The mayor also has named a nine-member volunteer Youth Advisory Council that includes George Borgelt, an attorney; Sandra Cicirelli and Charles Pickering, council members; police chief Frayer; Margaret Harlow, John Holman and Glenn Shaw, business representatives; Sylvia Kozoroski-Wiacek, Wayne-Westland school board member; and Gail McKnight, 18th District Court Judge.

Music of the '50s and '60s was played in a gazebo in Central City Park during the city's second-annual car show, which featured 99 cars in various competitions.

Classic car show draws 500 strong

JIM ROMINE of Frazesburg, Ohio probably liked Westland's second annual car show more than most of the 500 people who attended. He won the drawing for a shiny red 1966 Mustang.

But for classic car owners and fans, a wide variety of cars was available during the eight-hour, feast-for-the-eyes show Sept. 8 in Central City Park.

Ninety-nine cars were brought to the event, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce this year as part of the city's 25th anniversary celebration.

The evening also featured a corn roast and a concert in the park that included music from the '50s and '60s.

During the car show, awards were given in 14 classes, ranging from '50s street machine to '60s restored cars to '91 originals. Antiques and trucks also were entered in the contests.

Participants selected the winning cars. Some pre-registered and paid $7 to enter the show, while others made last-minute decisions to enter the contest and paid $10 at the gate.

Chamber of Commerce officials called the car show a success and said another will be planned next year.

Above, classic car fans peruse the cars brought to Westland's car show, which also featured a corn roast and music from days gone by. At left, Sandy Wager roasts corn to provide food for the classic car fans who attended the city's car show Sept. 8.

Exploring new options, students mean 'business'

By Ryan Tutak
staff writer

Bruce Tress said his lay off from General Motors last year pulled him out of a rut.

"I was stuck in a factory for 16 years, and it was only supposed to be temporary," Tress, 36, said. "Now that I'm without a job, I want to pick something I like."

Tress, who has six dogs and cats with his girlfriend, wants to turn his love for animals into a career. He's taking a course on how to start a business at the Garden City school district's Marquette Center so he can open a pet store.

The program is open to all adults regardless of residency.

"My sister dresses her miniature Doberman pinscher in knit sweaters and a Levi's jean jacket," he said, adding that he envisions selling bandanas, rhinestones, houses and food for pets.

"If my sister's looking for that stuff, then other people are, too. There's a market for it."

The six-month course, offered by Private Ventures Inc. of Flint provides information about financing, marketing and operating a business from scratch. It counts toward a high school diploma and is free to non-graduates and general education degree recipients.

Mary McClelland, Private Ventures director, said the course allows people who are unemployed or unsatisfied with their job to explore more creative options.

"TYPICALLY, (OUR students) are tired of working for someone else. In Michigan, individuals became dependent on the auto industry for what they thought was job security."

"They've decided it's not such a secure future, and they're motivated to have more control of their own destiny. To start your own business, you don't need a college degree."

In the second day of the class, instructor Dennis Michon last week discussed some keys to starting a business on the right foot: being organized, mindful of expenses and aware of personal assets that could be collateral for loans.

As the class progresses, students will develop a business plan with goals. And Michon will address related legal and economic issues, such as ways to evaluate potential business locations, market products efficiently, select insurance, develop clients and collect service fees.

"You have to see what's out there and see what you can bring to bear on it," Michon said. "And you have to be creative in selling your idea."

Michon also will advise students who already have begun a venture.

ANTHONY SHINE, 37, of Detroit signed up for the class, even though he has finances and manufactures to mass-produce his patented product.

Shine, a former amateur boxer, recently developed a cotton and polyester vest weighted with 12 pounds of lead for athletes to wear in training to develop their muscles, endurance and reflexes.

He's been making them in his attic with his wife and has already sold vests to some department stores, Detroit police officers and martial artist Dexter Thomas, who will perform in the 1992 Olympics. But Shine is taking the class to learn about licensing and contracts to maximize his profits and minimize potential mistakes.

"We've got the basics, but we have cracks we have to fill in for marketing and distributing," he said.

Jim Alexander, 29, of Taylor wants to learn skills in money management to finance a limousine service with a family inheritance. He is buying two limos and looking for a business location.

Arthur Williams, 35, of Detroit hopes to learn how to turn current financial misfortune to advantage as a consultant for commercial loans.

"Because I'm in a financial bind, I'll be able to see how other people can solve their problems once I get myself out," Williams said.

"If you haven't had a financial problem, it's hard to relate to someone who does."

The students even teach each other by discussing past difficulties and solutions.

DAWN CRAWFORD, 22, of Walled Lake explained how she collected more than $100,000 in withheld payments as a manager of her father's heating and cooling business.

Crawford found a financial consultant, who helped her develop a billing system with added fees for delinquent accounts. All the customers soon paid up.

Private Venture started the class in 1988 and has offered sessions in Flint, Southfield and Pontiac. McClelland said 76 percent of all students still had maintained their own businesses one year after finishing the class. The class is being offered in Garden City for the first time.

Private Ventures also is offering a training class in retail business at Marquette Center.

Leaders in retail business will train students to be employees by explaining pricing and marketing strategies for retail products and teaching how to work a cash register and sell products and services.

Students will learn tips on filling out job applications and preparing for job interviews.

McClelland said the course will be an advantage to job seekers in the recession.

"It will give them more credibility than some one off the street because they can say they've had some training," she said, adding that each graduate will receive a certificate.

GRADUATES OF the course, which may go toward a high school diploma, are guaranteed a job interview with a major retail chain in the Garden City area.

Private Ventures is offering the retail training class for the first time, at the request of the Michigan Education Commission (MEC).

"In talking to several retail outlets, they felt there was a definite need (for better trained retail employees)," John Graves, executive director of MEC, a public, non-profit group affiliated with 14 school districts, colleges and universities. "Qualifications were not as high as they would like to be."

Students may also be better prepared to advance into management positions, Graves said.

Both classes are still open for enrollment. Interested persons may contact the company's toll-free number, 800-448-7614.

The average dog can expect to live 12 years.
Unfortunately, Sammy might have to lower his expectations.

Imagine being only 8 weeks old and already having the best days of your life behind you. That just might be the case with Sammy.

Sammy wasn't picked up on the streets. He wasn't beaten or abused. But he is a victim. A victim of the biggest problem facing the Michigan Humane Society today—animal over-population. As a result, there are more animals without homes than there are homes to give. It's a problem that only threatens to grow larger.

And it will continue to grow without your help. If you have a pet, have him spayed or neutered. If you don't have a pet, please find room in your heart and your home for Sammy or any one of the hundreds of animals at the Michigan Humane Society.

Or you can do the next best thing. You can make a donation, big or small, to the MHS. Your donations enable us to operate low cost spay and neuter clinics. Clinics that last year alone sterilized over 8,000 animals. They help us educate the public and bring us closer to finding a solution to the over-population problem. And most importantly, your contribution helps shelter and care for these animals until that solution can be found.

Just one look at Sammy and you can tell that within this one small puppy is enough love to last a lifetime. With your help, he might one day have a chance to prove it.

Voters could choose among three property tax proposals

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State government is so deeply split politically that voters will see at least three property tax proposals on the 1992 ballot, two Republican lawmakers said Monday.

"The philosophical problems are so deep it's the only thing we can do," Sen. Dan DeGrow of Port Huron told a Milford High audience.

"This is a very diverse state," added hometown Rep. Willis Bullard of Highland. "If everyone were hit the same way, we'd have property tax relief. There is a stalemate. The Legislature cannot agree on a way to cut property taxes."

CHIEF DIFFERENCES between the two parties' proposals are:

- Democrats want to target relief to lower-income homeowners (exempting the first $15,000 of state equalized valuation) with no relief for other classes of property, with business paying $750 million more. There is no lid on assessment increases.

- Republicans back a 30-percent cut in school operating property taxes for all, over four years, with half the growth in state revenue being used to reimburse school districts for lost revenue. Assessment increases would be constitutionally limited to 3 percent a year.

Either plan would cut more than $1 billion from Michiganans' $7 billion school tax bills.

"The real question is what happens to the rest of state government," said DeGrow. Lawmakers would have to cut state spending in other areas to pay schools for the property tax cuts.

"You're going to get a preview of spending cuts this year," added Bullard. "I'm a pessimist. On Sept. 30 we will not have a state budget (passed). For the first time in history, we will shut down." The 1992 fiscal year begins Oct. 1, and so far no budget bills have been agreed to in Lansing.

ALL THAT lawmakers could agree on this year was a bill to freeze assessments in Dec. 1 tax bills and a ballot proposal to cap assessment increases at 5 percent.

"That was the minimal step we could agree on," said DeGrow. "Most people agree that was not enough (relief)."

The plan was put on the 1992 ballot by bipartisan agreement. But the GOP-run Senate wouldn't agree to the Democratic plan, and the Democrat-run House wouldn't consider the Republican plan. DeGrow predicted both plans would be placed on the ballot in party-backed petition drives.

The two men spent 90 minutes fielding questions, mostly on state questions but some on a local school tax proposal. The audience packed the steaming gym in a session sponsored by the Huron Valley Board of Education and Citizens for a Quality Education.

Not discussed were three other petition drives: Headlee II, which is in the Court of Appeals; a Washtenaw County plan to raise the sales tax 2.5 percent to pay for homeowners' tax cuts; and a plan to limit federal and state officials' terms.

DeGrow TOOK some heat and won some applause for championing a bill on business tax base sharing. If passed, as expected soon, and signed by Gov. John Engler, it would put half the growth in commercial and industrial taxes into a shared pot.

"It's an absolute disgrace," said DeGrow, "for one district to have $2,300 and another $9,000 per pupil. It's fair to say to a wealthy district,

For more on state tax plans, see 7A.

"Your growth will be slower."

"I voted no," replied Bullard. "In a few more years, we'll be rich" and forced to share business tax growth.

One audience member challenged DeGrow, saying tax base sharing would punish communities that put up with traffic and the problems of industry but don't get the full tax benefit.

DeGrow SHOT back at audience critics who argued education's problems won't be solved by more money.

"I'm not sure less (money) is the answer," said DeGrow, a lawyer and GOP chief on such bills as state school aid.

"We'd settle for textbooks that talked about the Vietnam war in the past tense. We'd settle for some computers in the classroom. We'd settle for class sizes of less than one (teacher) to 25 (pupils) in the elementary grades. You don't need to worry about us squandering that money. We'll settle for just some of the frills that the wealthy districts have."

"Get rid of the idea that foreign languages and computers are frills. This is not the 1930s."

"Defeating this (Huron Valley) renewal won't make education any better."

Chamber opposes Dems' plan

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce said it strongly opposes the Michigan Homeowner Tax Roll-back Plan supported by state House Democrats.

"We see this as a $750 million tax increase on the business community," said chamber president Frank E. Smith.

"Repeal of the capital acquisition deduction (of the single business tax), as well as existing and future tax abatements totaling $750 million, will severely undermine local and state economic development efforts," Smith said in a letter to Do-dak.

"Identifying the CAD as a 'tax loophole' that solely benefits big business is a false premise, because the CAD is applied to the total cost of capital improvements made by a firm, and it thereby benefits both large and small companies proportionately."

A recent business climate survey by the chamber showed 63 percent of its members cited property taxes as having a negative impact on Michigan's business climate, and 71 percent said property taxes had gotten worse since a similar survey in 1989.

Not a pretty sight

Searching for answers to why men beat women

I SAW IT HAPPEN again. A woman getting beaten by her husband or boyfriend. It's not a pretty sight. Everybody turns away when it happens. There's embarrassment, there's horror. But what do you do?

I've felt like that the half dozen or so times I've seen it. You want to help, but you worry about making matters worse.

Mostly I've seen women getting beaten in places where you'd expect it. Bars, hallways of court houses, places where emotions run high. It never excuses it, but at least you can understand a little bit.

But this time it was different. It was in a public park in one of Detroit's suburbs. And there were kids around. The slap was so loud that even the kids turned to look.

My son didn't understand. He asked me about it. I had no real answers.

They call it domestic violence. I don't like that term, it cleans it up too much. It's wife beating. It's a big guy knocking around a woman who is usually half his size.

AND WE IN the media are responsible for softening that term, we've accepted domestic violence. We should go back to calling it what it is.

The last time I saw such a sight was in a bar in central Michigan. Two women were sitting at the bar. A huge man entered, walked over and talked to them. A common sight. Then there was the slap. Time stood still. The bar was quiet.

The woman said: "Is that as hard as you can hit?"

The huge man looked stunned. He said nothing and quickly left.

I'll always remember that woman. To me she's a symbol of how to deal with a brute and retain your dignity. She could take it, and she wanted him to know that. She wasn't going to stand for it, and she wanted him to know that, too.

I thought about that woman as I stood stunned in the suburban Detroit park. I didn't get to see the way the woman handled the park beating. The couple quickly got into a van. I hoped she retained some dignity, and I hoped she made plans to leave. But that's not easy.

MOST WOMEN would probably be out the door the first time that happened. But then most women don't get beaten. From what the experts tell us, it's just that some women get trapped in relationships that they think they can't leave.

It's hard to understand. I don't think I ever really will. My only real glimmer of understanding came from my days as a reporter covering the courts. The wives and girlfriends of guys charged with rape, robbery and murder would remain loyal to their man no matter what witnesses said about their men.

Some times I wished Tammy Wynette hadn't sung "Stand by Your Man."

When I saw those women I had the urge to give them $20 and suggest they get on a bus and leave town. I never did it. I guessed then that it wouldn't do any good.

Safe houses, places where women can take their children to get away from the brutes, can help, but they're not a solution.

But what is? I don't know. I feel like my 13-year-old son who saw the man whack his wife or girlfriend and asked me for an answer.

Real minorities are lacking in political clout

THIS MAY BE a minority opinion, but I'm not sure. It's hard to tell today.

The more I read about minorities — and I'm reading a lot about them lately — the more confused I get. I mean, those proposed academies in Detroit — the ones originally planned for all-black males — stirred up a storm like you wouldn't believe.

But the people raising the ruckus, namely the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Organization for Women, aren't exactly flag-waving, right-wing, let's-preserve-the-status-quo, good ole boys. They're liberal groups who traditionally have fought for fairness and equality.

And I thought that's what the whole civil rights, human rights, minority rights issue was all about: fairness and equality. I'm not so sure now.

As so-called "minority" groups gain more and more political clout, they're starting to sound more and more like good ole boy politicians. Those who can exert the most pressure and the most political influence, who can make the most noise in behalf of their particular cause, reap the best spoils.

It's sort of like "Pork Barrel, the New Generation." If you belong to a minority group with enough members and enough public sympathy, there are goodies to be had. But if you don't have a strong political lobby, then you're not much more than well, a minority.

CASE IN point: Down in Miami recently, the Dade County School Board approved a plan to encourage the district to do business with minority-owned firms. The plan calls for the school system to set goals for hiring minority firms based on the number of companies in the marketplace and the degree to which they are underused.

Specifically the district is to seek out firms owned by blacks, Hispanics or women. Now the board didn't suddenly have its social consciousness raised. It was operating under the constraints of a 1989 U.S. Supreme Court decision that requires preferential minority hiring to be based on proof of past discrimination.

Sounds fair enough, but some Asian-American business owners have cried foul. They say they're not included in the plan and, as a result, their businesses will suffer.

Why weren't they included? Simple. There aren't enough of them.

According to the 1990 census, Asians and Pacific Islanders living in Dade County comprise only about 1.4 percent of the population.

SINCE THE Supreme Court ruling required proof of past discrimination, an attorney for the school board said the Asians couldn't legally be included in its plan.

"There were so few firms," board attorney Frank Howard said, "you couldn't have valid statistical results. There was no evidence of past discrimination on our part or in the marketplace."

The president of the Asian American Federation of Florida called the whole situation "ridiculous." But there you have it.

If you're a member of a minority group, there are ways to get preferential treatment — if your particular group has enough members to provide valid statistical data and political clout. If not, well, sorry, but you're just a minority. A genuine minority.

Revise car insurance

To the editor:

In response to the senior citizens who have written to me with regard to the "wage loss coverage" on their automobile insurance, I submit the following information:

I have sponsored legislation to help relieve the burden of the cost of auto insurance on senior citizens who must buy Michigan no-fault insurance. My legislation, House Bill 4041, will eliminate the requirement that senior citizens buy "wage loss coverage" as part of their no-fault insurance policy.

Currently, Michigan law requires that everyone buy a basic no-fault insurance policy in order to register their vehicle. This basic policy includes wage loss protection. Wage loss coverage replaces a person's salary if he/she is unable to work because of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. Since most senior citizens live on pensions and social security, their income would not be affected by a disability. House Bill 4041 will allow seniors to waive the wage loss coverage and receive a reduced premium on their automobile insurance. Eliminating this unnecessary coverage will save money for those who most need the savings: those on fixed incomes.

Although this legislation was passed unanimously by the House on March 27, it is still awaiting action in the state Senate. I urge you to join me in asking the Senate to take up this important piece of legislation. There is no reason that seniors should still be buying this unnecessary coverage. Write to Senator Paul Wartner, chairman of the Senate Committee on Commerce, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing 48909.

Here is how Engler, House property tax plans differ:

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Some questions and answers on Gov. John Engler's Republican property-tax "cut and cap" plan versus the House Democrats' plan:

Q. What's the difference between Engler's new plan and the one he announced Jan. 15?

A. The earlier one would have cut school operating property taxes 20 percent over three years. The governor said his "Main Street" chats in 60 counties convinced him "that's not enough."

His new plan would cut school operating property taxes 30 percent over five years.

Typically, school taxes are two-thirds of the local property tax burden. So Engler's plan, after five years, translates into a 20 percent total cut for all property — homes, farms and business.

Q. How does the House Democratic plan differ?

A. The Dodak-Jondahl plan would exempt a home's first $15,000 of state equalized valuation from school operating property taxes. The effect would be to make that tax "progressive" — taking a larger percentage of the large homeowner's income than the small homeowner's.

It would not apply to farm, commercial, office, industrial or mining property.

In an average school district levying 34 mills, the cut would amount to $510 in local school taxes.

The plan is named for the speaker of the House and the chair of its Taxation Committee.

Q. What happens to the "circuit breaker" — the state income tax rebate we get for paying more than 3.5 percent of income in property taxes?

A. No change in the law. But with lower taxes, fewer families would get them, and rebates would be smaller. So both tax plans give back less than appears.

Q. What happened to Engler's idea about exempting senior citizens from all school property taxes?

A. It appears to have been quietly dropped. Not all old folks are needy.

Q. What does the "cap" in Engler's plan mean?

A. Assessment growth would be constitutionally capped at 3 percent annually.

A bipartisan legislative plan already on the 1992 ballot would cap growth at 5 percent. No official word yet on how they'd mesh if voters OK both.

Q. It looks as if school districts, under either party's plan, will lose

$1 billion or more a year. How will they be reimbursed?

A. Engler's plan earmarks half the growth in future state revenues to reimburse schools. It calls for no tax hike.

The Democratic plan recovers most lost revenue from business — eliminating tax abatements for those firms that have them, and eliminating the CAD (capital acquisition deduction) in the single business tax.

Q. Do we smell partisan politics?

A. Good sniffing! Democratic state chair Gary Corbin says there isn't enough revenue growth to pay for Engler's plan without cutting more from the rest of the budget, particularly "vital human services" (welfare).

Democrats say their plan is "fully funded."

Engler calls the Dems' plan a "tax shaft" — an increase of $750 million to business and a loss of jobs as Michigan becomes less competitive. The GOP is likely to accuse Democrats of reviving their class warfare of the 1930s.

Already Democratic news releases are soft-peddling the business tax hike feature.

Q. Three different tax plans — and goodness knows what else — on the '92 ballot. It gets confusing.

A. Very. Voting patterns of the last 20 years show that when the ballot gets crowded, voters reject everything. Only one proposal has passed in 20 years — the 1978 Headlee I constitutional amendment, aimed only at limiting taxes, not increasing or cutting them.

Q. What are the signature requirements?

A. Democrats are seeking a statutory change that will require 205,000 signatures.

Republicans are seeking a constitutional amendment that will require 258,000 signatures.

Q. Suppose I want to help Engler and the Republicans by circulating petitions.

A. Call Oakland County Republican headquarters at (313) 681-1990 or "Cut & Cap Petition Drive" in Lansing at (517)-487-2090.

Q. And if I decide to help Dodak and the Democrats?

A. Call Macomb County Democratic headquarters at (313) 463-6525.

New Madonna dean keeps active

The piece of paper taped to the wall above her desk reads: "Just Do It!"

Appointed by Madonna University for a three-year term as the new dean of social sciences, Karen Ross, is clearly a woman who takes her own advice.

The "It" on the wall sign actually refers to many things, Ross said. "It" means meeting responsibilities of her new post and also those of her position as chair of Madonna's gerontology department. And, "It" means fostering relationships with faculty members in the division she now heads while maintaining that which she believes is critical — contact with students.

"My new position as dean is the best of both worlds," said Ross.

"I'd like to capture the excitement from teaching and shift it to other areas. I think it's important for us as administrators to know the students — through informal conversations and classroom contact, so that we can see, first-hand, the impact of the decision we make."

ROSS BELIEVES this "hands-on" philosophy is what makes Madonna University a logical choice for so many students.

Earning her doctorate at Wayne State University in 1990, Ross received her master's degree in adult education and certification as a specialist in aging at the University of Michigan. She completed her undergraduate degree in physical education and recreation at Western Michigan University.

Ross believes her experience in the non-traditional discipline of gerontology will lend itself to new insights within her division.

"I would like to create a forum that encourages a healthy exchange of ideas between departments," said Ross. "That collaboration will make us more knowledgeable about all of the programs, and would benefit both the students and the individual departments."

ONE OF HER first major projects as dean of social sciences, will be to work closely with the education department to prepare for review by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. She also will plan divisional meetings and represent the division on a number of committees, as well as overseeing course enrollments.

Ross lives in Farmington Hills with her restaurateur husband, Richard. She has two teenage stepsons, Eric and Wes. She is head of the Farmington/Farmington Hills Commission on Aging and also is involved with Project Compassion and attends a camping trip each summer with Alzheimer's patients. Ross also serves in the city's Year 2000 Committee and co-chairs a human services task force.

"I suppose it's true about busy people always having time to do something else," said Ross. "I don't do anything because I have to, I do it because I love to be involved. I don't even like to close the door on my office because I don't want to miss anything."

Karen Ross is assuming new duties at Madonna University.

RIDING THE ARTHRITIS ROLLER COASTER

Arthritis is known for its unpredictable behavior. One day you feel good all over, the next morning you hurt in every joint. Or, you awake with a knee and shoulder ache, yet by the end of the day your shoulder and knee are fine, but you can't walk because of a painful hip.

What is the basis for this quirky move of pain from joint to joint? Physicians do not know. Investigations to date have not verified that overweight, the nature of your work, or being depressed and anxious, have any influence on the presence of joint pain. No accepted evidence exists to incriminate lack of sleep or poor quality rest as the source of continuing and ever moving joint pain.

Therefore, you are not justified to blame yourself for a flare of your arthritis or to approach your doctor with the question: "What did I do wrong?"

The answer is you did no wrong. Concurrently, physicians know of no right that would prevent a return of your pain.

When your joints feel good, accept that day as opportunity to live well. When your joints ache, respond as you would to any disaster over which you have no control: act to minimize the damage and misery.

Remember that a roller coaster not only has ups and downs, but the ride eventually reaches a satisfactory end.

Coens create vivid 'Fink'

Barton Fink has writers' block. The fledgling scriptwriter stares blankly at the paper in his typewriter. He peeks out vague establishing details about cramped tenement apartments and the call of fish-mongers, but can get no further.

Joel and Ethan Coen, the writer-director brother team, could relate. The basic premise for "Barton Fink" came about during the difficult writing of another film, "Miller's Crossing."

Their new film, which has an exclusive run at the Maple Theatre, sparkles with the quirky blend of lively writing, genre hopping, and wacky visuals the brothers have become famous for.

Barton (John Turturro), a naive young writer in the early 1940s, talks passionately about the common man. When his first big play becomes a critical success on Broadway, he allows himself to be wooed by a Hollywood contract. Studio heads want "that Barton Fink feeling" on the screen and add him to their stable of writers.

Barton checks into the decaying Hotel Earle far away from the glitter of Hollywood and prepares to

tickets please

John Monaghan

write his first script — a wrestling picture for Wallace Beery. He knows little about making movies and even less about wrestling.

AT FIRST glance, it might seem that the Coens are merely mucking about in David Lynch land. The flowered wallpaper in the hotel peels off the walls, revealing milky white paste behind it. An ancient elevator operator pauses for what seems like hours before announcing the next floor.

Barton's cone of curly black hair has more than a passing resemblance to the main character's in "Eraserhead."

It took a complete second viewing to see just how unique "Barton Fink" really is. In interviews, the filmmakers have been typically evasive in providing clearcut answers about the film's content. They do admit that the relationship between Barton and Charlie Meadows, the insurance salesman who lives next door, was their main reason for making the film.

As Charlie, John Goodman brings a dark edge to the chubby good old boys he usually plays. Charlie has learned plenty about life and has even wrestled. Barton, so engrossed in rambling on about the common man, doesn't listen to the stories that could save his script.

As visual stylists, the Coens drop in plenty of memorable shots. Rough-edged typewritten words blaze across the screen with the rat-a-tat speed of a tommy gun. You think Barton has finally broken through until you realize that this is a form letter typed by a studio secretary.

THE FILMMAKERS take a biting and funny look at Hollywood during the height of the studio system, when well-known novelists and playwrights were put on contract to bring respect to the company. Their work was often too thoughtful, "too fruity," to ever see the screen.

So it's not surprising how the writer Barton turns to for advice. W.P. Mayhew, looks a lot like William Faulkner. You might not recognize character actor John Mahoney behind the Southern drawl and alcoholic tantrums.

Judy Davis, so impressive as George Sand in "Impromptu," plays Mayhew's much-too devoted personal secretary.

Turturro, meanwhile, brings a Kafka-esque quality to the lead role. You understand his frustration in a foreign land and realize that as soon as he secures an oozing patch of wallpaper with thumb tacks another piece will peel down. You also want to strangle him for being so naive and self-centered.

Turturro took the best actor award at the Cannes Festival this spring. In fact, "Barton Fink" enjoys the distinction of being the only film in the 44-year history of Cannes to ever sweep the best actor, director and picture awards.

John Turturro (right) is Barton Fink, a screenwriter with a bad case of writer's block, and John Goodman is his talkative next-door neighbor Charlie Meadows, in "Barton Fink."

'Cannery Row:' It grows on you

The movies people have the most attachment to seem to be films that offer characters they can identify with in some way or show them a world they would enjoy visiting. "Cannery Row," a 1982 film directed and adapted from two John Steinbeck books by David Ward, is a thoroughly enjoyable film of that sort.

Marine biologist Doc, played by Nick Nolte, is the leading citizen of Cannery Row sort of by default. In his inimitable voice, narrator John Huston describes Doc's nearest neighbors, the bums who live in makeshift abodes on the waterfront as men with "nothing in common, no families, no money, no ambition."

The bulk of the other local residents in the northern California town where the smell are gone and the canneries closed are women employed at what is euphemistically called a restaurant. The town is pretty much deserted, the abandoned canneries overshadowing the streets.

Doc, who "makes as good a living as he needs," starts to voice some dissatisfaction over his lack of professional achievement in light of an upcoming professional conference. After he spots newly arrived Susie DeSoto sauntering down a deserted street, you can see what else he's missing even if the light bulb hasn't come on for Doc yet.

DEBRA WINGER'S Susie has survived some tough times. Her insecurities and shaky self-confidence lead to a rather sparring and prickly relationship with Doc, who has his own personal baggage. In one funny scene, the two square off in an impromptu jitterbug contest.

Winger and Nolte, both of whom are frequently better than the films they are in, are both terrific. With her husky voice and his gravelly tones, they are well matched. Their relationship is probably more like real life than most movie romances. It moves forward in fits and starts. They bicker and banter, but it clearly comes from their own fears and insecurities about their strong mutual attraction.

Lead by Mac, played by veteran character actor M. Emmet Walsh, the resident ner-do-wells eventually create havoc after they get motivated to raise money through a frog gigning expedition.

Frank McRae is absolutely wonderful as the slow-witted Hazel, whose heart is even bigger than his physical size. Poor Hazel is sorely tested by an astrological reading that makes what he sees as a dire projection for his future.

All of the acting in the film is terrific, and I laughed a lot at humor that is often unexpected but flows out of the characters. In some ways, the film isn't terribly realistic.

The bums all look pretty well fed and act more like they're on a camping trip rather than homeless. The prostitutes all seem pretty carefree and wholesome, too. Some scenes are clearly shot on a sound stage recreation while others are in natural settings.

In a way that step back from reality is probably one of the reasons its such an endearing film. "Cannery Row" creates a rather gentle world of interesting characters whom one can like, find amusing or empathize.

"Cannery Row" creates its own world where everyone knows each other and takes an interest, yet by tacit agreement doesn't poke too closely into anyone's past. The small community is like a large sometimes bickering family.

There is a warm and funny tone to the film, which treats its characters with respect, that you don't really notice some of the flaws. A very enjoyable film, even on video cassette.

Blake Babies just rock away

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

All John Poole Strohm asks is that you don't judge his band by its cover.

On the Blake Babies' latest EP, "Rosy Jack World," is a backhanded rendition of the Grass Roots' chestnut "Temptation Eyes." The song is slick, non-threatening and by all means radio friendly.

"I guess I'm a little embarrassed," said Strohm, who is the guitarist in the three-member band. "It's so pop, it's so..."

Unlike the Blake Babies? Undoubtedly. The Boston-based trio is indeed a pop band, but not one to express carefree sentiments and teary-eyed laments in a banal fashion.

Using strident guitar-driven melodies backed by irregular bass beats, the Blake Babies are mostly about contradiction.

A voice so sweet, so ethereal as Juliana Hatfield shouldn't be allowed to sing about such sad themes as unfulfilling relationships and uncompromising personal politics. She possesses all the vocal innocence of The Sunday's Harriet Wheeler with the flippancy attitude of Sonic Youth's Kim Gordon.

Guitarist Strohm can seem totally at ease within the confines of a simple pop melody only to turn to a dissonant snarl at the slightest provocation. Drummer Freda Love's loud percussion only punctuates the unharmonious moments.

BY AND large, the Blake Babies and bands of their ilk offer pop's only salvation. In a time when the genre is sadly synonymous with the falseness of Milli Vanilli, the flamboyance of Madonna and the repetitiveness of R.E.M. clones, the Babies' disruptive pop musings are rather rapturous.

Strohm said it's all about striking the delicate balance between the serenely pop music offers and the disturbing images of real life.

"It comes really natural," said Strohm who shares songwriting duties with Hatfield. "We're all really into pop music, not the pop you hear on the radio but by the concept of making pop songs."

"Earwig" was the band's first release.

on the North Carolina-based independent Mammoth Records in 1989 and abounds with cutting edge pop. The band put out two EPs previous to "Earwig," including "Slow Learner" released on Billy Bragg's Utility label in England.

From the group's inception when Strohm and Love met up with Hatfield at Berklee School six years ago, the mission has been to write songs chronicling some of life's bitter experiences. The band's been on a tear since.

"Earwig" was followed 10 months later with "Sunburn," which was produced by Gary Smith (Pixies, Chills and Connells). In that time, the band toured virtually non-stop.

INITIALLY, THE Blake Babies had difficulties performing live on a consistent basis. Strohm attributed the problem of transforming the anger that fuels songs such as "I'm Not Your Mother" on stage.

Smith has been able to capture that intensity in the studio, especially during the "Sunburn" sessions at Fort Apache in Cambridge, Mass. The bulk of "Rosy Jack World" was culled during that time. Smith has played a large role in helping mold the ideas of a band that was languishing on the club circuit.

"In a sense he (Smith) discovered us," Strohm said. "... He sort of took us in and funded it. He gave us free time in his studio at Fort Apache. He basically saved our..."

Then again, it was Smith's insistence the Blake Babies record "Temptation Eyes." Strohm said none of the band members knew of the number until Smith brought a copy in and played the single for them. The group also covers Dinosaurs Jr.'s "Severed Lips" on "Rosy Jack World."

"I wouldn't like to be known for one-hit songs," Strohm said. "I would like for people who bought our records to get into them and listen to them."

For those familiar with the Blake Babies' work, the ruse of "Temptation Eyes" will be easily seen. To that Strohm said, "I hope

STREET SENSE

What's luck got to do with abuse?

Dear Readers:

On a recent cable show, I interviewed the public relations director of HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now). HAVEN is an Oakland County facility which provides protection and guidance to women and children from abusive home environments.

One of the questions I asked the director was what personality characteristics are shared by women who feel trapped in abusive relationships. She was emphatic in her denial that any exist. She said that any woman could find herself in an abusive relationship and that these are social problems, not individual ones and so must be cured through our social institutions, for example, the courts, police.

Coming as I do from a position of self-problem solving, I found the one-sidedness of her statements difficult to accept. When I asked her if it was "just luck" that trapped these women, she didn't answer. I assume she saw, but could not respond to, the confusion in her thinking.

Now I want to tell you about another woman. After dating a man for a month, he became very possessive when she broke up with him. He then became enraged, beat her up and would not stop calling her.

At first she was very frightened; she did not take his calls and avoided any of the places where they might meet. Her parents and I warned her that he was dangerous and that she must avoid him at all costs.

HE WROTE her letters of apology, professing love and devotion.

It has been about two months since the blow-up. Last week, she saw him, by chance, at a place they both frequent. He wanted her to "just talk" to him. He seemed nervous and concerned about her.

She mustered a lot of will power and managed to stay away from him, but her sentiments had changed. She told me she doesn't want to hate him; it feels bad to hate him. She wants to forgive him. After all, he didn't really have malicious intent when he hit her; he momentarily lost control.

She is not perfect either. She worries that if he asks her to spend a little time with him, only as friends, she will not be able to make an excuse without hurting his feelings.

If the woman I am describing starts seeing this man again and possibly turns up at HAVEN, will it be called luck? Perhaps, one could call their initial meeting luck. Even their first few dates might be attributed to fate. But after that, the signs of his possessiveness were already present and shouldn't any reasonable person be aware that he is dangerous after he became violent?

This is a woman who holds a job and supports herself. By outward appearances, she is a reasonable person. Why then can she not completely break off the relationship? It is irrational to say it is because of luck.

SHE HAS not been able to separate, unambiguously, because emotionally she needs him. She is a woman of low self-esteem who can't get along on her own. It may look to the casual observer that she can, but that is not her reality. Her reality is fear of separateness or aloneness.

Under these circumstances, she is compelled to take any man, even if she then becomes a victim. When one is weak and dependent, a bully looks strong. This is an illusion. If bullies were strong, they wouldn't have to oppress others.

I am interested in whether readers have other examples of when self-preservation seems blunted by the need for fusion with another. I would plan to print such examples in hopes of preventing other young women with this passive dependent character from falling victim to a controlling, manipulative non-loving man.

We must all take an active role in our well-being instead of leaving it to the environment to take care of us. We are living in a democracy that preaches this even if it doesn't practice it.

I agree with the woman from HAVEN, our social institutions need to change. But that is only part of the story. The other part is that victims must change, too. None of us should accept a complete lack of control for our own welfare.

Spartans block Franklin at the pass, 21-12

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Only one Patriot Missile was intercepted Saturday, but that proved to be enough for Livonia Stevenson. Safety Jason Dreger prevented a potential Livonia Franklin winning TD drive, picking off a David Little pass with 2:12 to go and returning it 67 yards for a score, lifting the Spartans to a 21-12 victory.

Despite trailing 14-12 late in the game, the host Patriots were on the march. They were on their own 48-yard line when Dreger, a 6-foot-1, 160-pound senior, came up with the game-clinching play.

"THAT WAS great, and we sure needed it," Stevenson coach Jack Reardon. "He was at the right spot at the right time. We rotated Jason in on offense, so he had some pretty fresh legs."

Dreger had a clear path and a wall of blockers in front of him on his run to the end zone.

His score and Rami Khoury's subsequent extra point gave the Spartans an insurmountable nine-point lead and the victory, their second in as many starts.

THE LOSS, meanwhile, leaves the Patriots at 1-1.

"Last week we played virtually error-free and got the breaks," said Franklin coach Armand Vigna, whose team upset Lake Orion in its opener, 14-3. "It was a case today where the guy who makes the most mistakes loses, and that was us today."

Stevenson's Micah Lietzau returned the opening kickoff 58 yards. The Spartans drove down to the Franklin 10 before coming up empty when Khoury's 26-yard field goal try sailed wide.

On their second possession, the Spartans marched again all the way to the Franklin 5, but the Patriots' Richard Koons recovered a fumble on fourth-and-1.

"GIVE A hand to our defense," Vigna said. "They (Stevenson) could have had 14 points right away, but they could not break our defense."

Franklin junior linebacker Jason Facione had a lot to do with Stevenson's inability to score.

"He stopped our veer, then our crosses and then our pitches," Reardon said. "He was blitzing a lot and when we went wide, he caught our kid from behind. He was 'Mr. Defense' for Franklin today."

A FRANKLIN TURNOVER led to Stevenson's first TD.

Lietzau stripped and recovered the ball at the Patriot 39. On the ensuing play he dashed 39 yards with 8:25 left in the half to make it 7-0 (after Khoury's extra point).

The Patriots answered with a 7-yard TD run by Aaron Shakarian with 5:52 left in the third.

shoulder grab for a 25-yard TD with 2:09 left in the first half.

Franklin, however, trailed 7-6 at intermission when Little's extra point attempt was partially blocked after a soft snap from center.

A high snap from center on a Keith Roberts punt attempt gave the Spartans the ball at the Franklin 15 with 9:35 left in the third quarter.

AND STEVENSON QB Ryan Farkas took advantage, throwing to Frank Eupizi on a 15-yard TD play.

Little, 8-of-22 passing on the day for 146 yards, completed passes of 12 and 24 yards to Scott Olson and Mittig, respectively, setting up a 7-yard TD run by Aaron Shakarian with 5:52 left in the third.

Tower of power Glenn overwhelms Churchill, 34-7

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

If it was basketball, Livonia Churchill could have gone into a four-corners stall offense or perhaps intentionally fouled Westland John Glenn in an attempt to slow its offense down.

But the host Chargers (0-2) were playing football, not basketball, and found out there was no chance of slowing down the bigger and stronger Glenn offense Friday. The Rockets scored on five of their first six possessions en route to a 34-7 Western Lakes Activities Association cross-over victory.

Glenn (2-0) dominated the line of scrimmage on both sides, creating easy opportunities to score. Glenn's average starting point in its 10 possessions was Churchill's 44-yard line. Conversely, in the Charger's 10 possessions, their average starting field position was their own 22.

Both coaches agreed that the Rockets wore the Charger offensive and defensive lines down early.

"We played better (than last week's 28-6 victory over Highland Park) and the players worked hard in practice all week," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. "We have made some strides but we still have some work to do. We know our schedule gets tougher next week (at Livonia Stevenson)"

"WHAT I SAW was a very aggressive Glenn team that played much better than they did against Highland Park," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "Their offensive line took control and we were never able to get anything established."

Glenn, with 58 players on its roster compared to Churchill's 28, flexed its muscles early. The Rocket defense forced Churchill quarterback Jason Renkiewicz to no gain or a loss of yardage on three straight plays. The junior incompleted his only two pass attempts in the first half and carried the ball eight times for a minus-17 yards.

football

With Glenn's opening drive seemingly stalled at the Charger 13-yard line, the Rockets were given an automatic first down after a roughing the passer penalty. Two plays later, junior Tad Quattlander scored his first of three touchdowns as he scored from four yards out.

Quattlander, who rushed for 109 yards on 12 attempts, followed 250-pound LaBrone Keith into the end zone. Keith was inserted in the game as a blocking back. Chris Bandy's extra point made it 7-0.

After forcing Churchill to punt again after three plays, Glenn needed only 2:27 to score again. Senior tailback John Ward broke several tackles and scored the Rocket's second touchdown to increase the lead to 14-0. The play was set up after senior quarterback Terry Hewer found Rick Bennett wide open for a 31-yard completion.

WARD RETURNED the next Charger punt 31 yards to set up the Rocket's third score. Bennett broke open on a slant pattern and Hewer threaded a needle between two defenders for an 18-yard gain. Quattlander capped the three-play drive with a one-yard dive. Bandy's point after made it 21-0.

Glenn got the ball back again at its own 33-yard line with 3:15 remaining before halftime. It took only 1:05 for the Rockets to find the end zone. After Quattlander had a 7-yard run, he scampered 21 yards to Churchill's 39. Before Churchill could catch its breath, Quattlander rushed through another huge hole for 30 more yards. Two plays later, he scored his final touchdown on a 14-yard run, giving the Rockets a 27-0 halftime lead.

"The offensive line created the holes," Quattlander said. "The holes were there and it was up to me to just get by the defensive backs. I think we wore them down early and it showed that we were bigger and more experienced."

"Kerry Young (nose guard) and Billy Glass (defensive tackle) gave our offensive line fits and often came in untouched," Osterland said. "It's easy to say the line didn't block but they are a young line."

After Quattlander returned the second half kickoff to the Churchill 49-yard line, Hewer hit senior Lance Shockley for a 37-yard TD pass. A penalty flag was thrown on the play, but the referees decided there was no infraction.

CHURCHILL SCORED its only TD as backup quarterback Mike Johnson led a 10-play drive. Senior Ryan Kukla carried several Rocket defenders with him in the end zone for a three-yard score. The drive marked the only time in the game when Churchill crossed midfield.

"The kids didn't quit," Osterland said. "Johnson came in, and even though he played against a second unit, he made the most of the opportunity."

Churchill gained only 97 yards in the game, 68 yards coming on its scoring drive. Glenn's offense gained a total of 286 yards.

Carl Brooks (right), a linebacker for Westland Glenn, nails Churchill quarterback Jason Renkiewicz in Friday's football encounter.

2-0 start for Wayne

Wayne Memorial built a 20-0 lead Friday and then held off host Trenton to win its Wolverine A League football opener, 20-12.

The Zebras (2-0) tallied a pair of first-quarter touchdowns.

At the 3:48 mark, quarterback Jason Wetmore hurled a 31-yard TD pass to Eric Bates, capping an 11-play, 85-yard drive.

Wayne's Murdank Forrest then recovered the ensuing kickoff. Jermaine Ellis scored four plays later on a 2-yard run later to make it 12-0 (Wayne missed both extra points).

Midway through the second quarter, Michael Martin intercepted a pass and returned it 26 yards to the Trenton 16. Ellis, who had 78 yards in 19 carries, scored his second TD on a 1-yard dive. He also added the two-pointer.

Trenton got on the board at 2:38 of the third when Rob Suterby scored on a 4-yard run, capping a 55-yard, 12-play drive.

The Trojans cut the deficit to 20-12 when Jeff Mans hit Brian Nagy with a 16-yard touchdown toss with 11:15 remaining.

Wayne then had an 80-yard, 14-play drive halted on fourth-and-goal at the Trenton 1.

But there was no more scoring as Trenton fell to 0-2.

Wayne had 256 total yards, 204 on the ground. Lee Williams added 77 yards in 11 carries.

HARPER WDS. 28, CLARENCEVILLE 0: On Friday, the visiting Pioneers (1-1) opened the Metro Conference by blanking Livonia Clarenceville (0-1).

The host Trojans were limited to 60 yards total offense, 50 by Gjoka Ljueaj.

Harper Woods QB Pete Gallagher hit six of 12 passes for 77 yards, including a 16-yard TD pass to Gene Strohs.

Steve Altman and Rob Primo scored on TD runs of 5 and 1 yard, respectively. "They ran right over the top of us," Clarenceville coach Mark Ladd said.

WATCHING THE LEAVES turn colors. How come Al Iafate didn't play for Team USA in the Canada Cup?

Have you noticed that Westland's Mike Modano (Minnesota North Stars) has made a major contribution to Team USA?

For the record, Point Stadium, home of the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament in Johnstown, Pa., sits on the banks of the Conemaugh River, not Allegheny. (I've been there, I should know better.)

Also for the record, Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Salem haven't played football against each other since 1982. That's when the Rocks won the Lakes Division.

Got to get over and see RU's revamped Kraft Field (with new lights) and the new Garden City High gymnasium.

Did you know high school tennis dual matches can end in a tie? We now have four singles and four doubles flights.

Played basketball the other day with two minor league baseball pitchers — Greg Hager (Redford Catholic Central and Michigan) and Doug Martin (CC and Eastern Michigan). Not bad shooters I might add.

Also saw Carlos Briggs (ex-Schoolcraft All-American) and he's playing better than ever.

Look for Tom Domako (Livonia Stevenson and Montana State) to play this year for Yakima, Wash. or Tri-Cities in the Continental Basketball Association.

HEARD JOHN MCINTYRE (CC and Missouri) got an offer to play professionally the next few months in Puerto Rico (not a bad place to be this time of year).

If your a small college football fan, take a trip sometime to see a game at Hillsdale College. It's only a 1 1/2 hours away. The renovated football stadium, with astroturf (named after Muddy Waters), and physical education center (named after president Dr. George Roche III) is one of the finest est in the country. A great press box to boot (and good food). Lots of local players with Observerland ties, too.

And by the way, Hillsdale celebrated its 100th anniversary of football (against Saginaw Valley) by honoring all of its All-Americans. Among those saluted were Livonia Franklin product Mike Broome (1981), and ex-CC standouts Mike Gatt (1984-85) and Jeff Gatt (1985-86).

Went to see Eastern Michigan lose its football opener Aug. 31 at Bowling Green. Do Gary Patton or John Stoltz have any eligibility left?

It looks like that new gymnasium at Ladywood is ahead of schedule.

Two local players are among the tackle leaders for their respective schools — defensive back Pierre Hixon (Wayne High) at Western Michigan and down lineman Mike Nettle (Stevenson) at Central Michigan.

I UNDERSTAND the City of Livonia finally got around to hiring a new greenskeeper for their golf courses. About time.

Will Ford Field look any better next year? Had a great time at the Stevenson Golf Outing. Make your reservations early for next year by calling athletic director Roger Frayer (523-9417).

Wonder what former athletic directors Larry Joiner (Churchill) and Bill Pinnell (Garden City) are doing these days?

Bill is probably running, and Larry is playing golf.

Glenn High slugger Lawrence Scheffer has signed with the University of Detroit.

Outfielder Earl Johnson of Livonia Little Caesars, arguably the fastest player ever to come out of the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, was signed recently by the San Diego Padres.

Two former Observerland girls basketball players are now college assistant coaches — Ronna Greenberg (Livonia Ladywood and Michigan State) was hired at University of Detroit Mercy, while Cheryl Dzier (Glenn High and Aquinas) went to Ohio University.

PARISH WICKMAN is scheduled to be back in federal court on Nov. 11 in Grand Rapids.

Heard Eric Knuth's football career may be over at Michigan because of a neck injury. The former Redford CC standout missed the spring game and will not likely play this season.

Didn't hear Alex Marshall's (Borgess grad and U-M tackle) name mentioned once last week against Boston College.

Three high school running backs that I've seen in person who really stood out — Aaron Roberts (CC), Keith Gates (Belleville) and Tony Boles (John Glenn).

Two of the most dominating linebackers I've ever seen — Steve Morrison (Brother Rice) and Jeff Nault (Escanaba).

Saturday night girls basketball is great for the spectators, but lousy for Observer reporters with deadlines.

Alan Pitts (Stevenson) is a pretty good tackle for Saginaw Valley.

I hope Hillsdale threw the ball last week to Joe Ransley (Franklin grad).

Mark the Hillsdale-Grand Valley State game on your calendar Nov. 2 (only if your local high school team is not in the playoffs).

How about trading Carson and Gallant for Iafate?

Franklin downs Chargers

Livonia Franklin pulled away in the final period, outscoring visiting Livonia Churchill 20-7 to record a 58-34 girls basketball win.

The Patriots are now 4-0 overall, while Churchill slipped to 0-4.

Churchill and Stevenson are always big games for us, Franklin coach Dan Freeman said. "Both teams know what the other team has. They (Churchill) did a nice job with a triangle-and-two (defense)."

Senior guard Dawn Warner paced the winners with 19 points, eight rebounds and five steals. Senior guard Wendy Rynkiewicz and junior center Karen Potempa each chipped in 10 points. Patty Shea added seven.

Junior guard Chrissy Daly of Churchill tallied a game-high 22 points, including a pair of three-pointers. She scored all seven Charger points in the final quarter.

JOHN GLENN 40, GROSSE PTE. SOUTH 44: Westland John Glenn evened its overall record at 2-2 with the non-league victory Thursday over the visiting Blue Devils (0-2).

The Rockets outscored Grosse Pointe 14-1 in the final quarter, hitting eight free throws.

Carrie Rachwal, a senior guard, tallied 12 points to lead the victorious Rockets. Senior forward Cathy Mruk added nine points and nine rebounds. Senior forward Kristi Zimmer contributed seven points and four rebounds before fouling out.

Angela Drake, a junior center, notched 12 points for South. Senior guard Stephanie Coddens contributed 11.

Mruk, who tallied five fourth-quarter points, made the first of a one-and-one to break a 41-all deadlock. She missed the second, but grabbed her own rebound and converted the shot to give the Rockets the lead for keeps.

"We were being very persistent getting the ball into the low post because we had them out-sized," Glenn coach Pat Bennett said. "Drake was in foul trouble so we started using our bench personnel (6-footers Nichole Johnson and Nikki Wojcik) and getting the ball in to them just to chip away."

LADYWOOD 58, FLINT N'WESTERN 58: Senior guard Janet Davis netted 19 points Thursday, lifting host Livonia Ladywood (4-1) to the non-league win over Flint Northwestern (3-2).

Junior forward Mary Jo Kelly contributed 14 points. Andrea Putti, a junior guard, tallied nine points.

Kelly's reverse layup broke a tie with three minutes to go. She also hit a jumper and had a steal to put the Blazers up by five before the Wildcats tallied in the final seconds, but it was too late.

Tammy Owens had 20 points to lead Northwestern, including 6 three-pointers, but she had only one in the second half.

after being defended by Putti. Trine Peterson also added 19.

LUTH. WESTLAND 41, FLAT ROCK 23: Nine of 10 players scored Thursday as Lutheran Westland (4-1) downed the host Rams (1-3).

Junior center Mindy Hardy's 10 points lifted the Warriors to the non-league triumph. Kristen Strang also played a strong floor game, adding seven points and four assists.

"We played well defensively," Lutheran Westland coach Ron Gentz said. "I think our loss to Lutheran East made us a better club."

HARRISON 47, CLARENCEVILLE 19: Junior center Heather Hopkins played sparingly, but did enough damage Thursday, leading host Farmington Harrison (3-2) to the non-league win over Livonia Clarenceville (1-2).

Hopkins tallied 16 first-quarter points as the Hawks roared out to a 25-3 advantage. She finished with 18, going down in the second quarter with a sprained ankle. Hopkins did not return.

"We fronted her and backed her, but she's tough," Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf said. "She's a big difference. She moves well, posts up well and shoots well."

Freshman Krista Snow chipped in with 11 points for Harrison. Junior forward Lisa Derocher grabbed 11 rebounds.

Leandra Hoffman paced the Trojans with nine points.

NORTHVILLE 57, WAYNE 37: Junior center LaTea Moore's 19 points were not enough Thursday, as Wayne Memorial (2-2) fell to the host Mustangs (4-0).

Senior guard Kara McNeill and Angie Tune tallied 19 and 10, respectively, for the winners.

The Mustangs enjoyed a 28-12 halftime lead and never looked back.

FAIRLANE 43, HURON VALLEY 42 (2 OTs): Lindsey Teno's free throw with only four seconds left gave Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian (2-1) the double-overtime victory over Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (0-2).

Huron Valley squandered a 31-19 lead after three quarters, as the Lions rallied to tie it at the end of regulation, 37-all. The Hawks were outscored 17-6 in the final period. The two teams were also knotted at 39-all after one overtime.

Sandi Dengel scored 17 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and recorded 12 steals in a losing cause. Nancy List contributed 12 points and eight assists.

Upstart Ocelots go into OT to stun Eastern Michigan

A Chris Crawford goal in the final minute of regulation tied it, and a quick goal by Brian Hauman to start the second overtime won it for Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team, 3-2 over Eastern Michigan University Wednesday at EMU.

The victory evened SC's record at 1-1-1.

The Ocelots trailed 1-0 until the final minute of regulation, even though EMU was short a man after Billy Adam had been red-carded late in the first half. Crawford knotted it on a shot lofted from 25 yards out that found the corner of the net.

In the first OT, SC scored on a shot by Jim Meldrum.

Hauman assisted. But the Eagles tied it again at 2-2 on a miscommunication between SC keeper Scott Hauman and sweeper Mike Presley. Scott Hauman came out to field the ball that Presley was clearing back. An EMU player got to it and put it past Scott Hauman.

The Ocelots answered at the start of the second half.

The kickoff went to Crawford, who got the ball to Jeff VanDemergel. VanDemergel passed to Brian Hauman, who fielded it with his back to the basket, turned and drilled it from 18 yards out into the goal for the eventual game-winner.

"The whole team — I thought they played like veterans," said SC coach Van Dimitriou, particularly impressed with freshmen Meldrum and Brian Hauman. "We're looking good."

SC plays at Concordia College Thursday, then hosts Lakeland CC at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Patriots snap 3-game losing streak

Livonia Franklin snapped a three-game losing streak Friday with a 3-1 boys soccer triumph at Farmington.

The Patriots, now 2-3 overall, jumped out to a 2-0 halftime advantage on goals by Richard Burnette and Bill Binkiewicz.

Binkiewicz assisted on the first goal, while Buelow got credit for the second.

Buelow then scored from Binkiewicz in the second half to add an insurance goal.

On Wednesday, the Patriots were beaten by visiting Plymouth Canton, 3-1, as Vic Rodopoulos had the lone Franklin goal (from Buelow).

Chris Hayes, Joe Sisko and Graham Wilk scored for the victorious Chiefs (6-1).

"We definitely played much better this game," Franklin coach Frantz Lamarre said. "All their goals were on our mental mistakes."

Franklin had lost earlier to Clarkston, 3-1 (Rodopoulos scored), and Ann Arbor Huron, 5-0, in the Springfield Christian tourney.

STEVENSON 6, NORTHVILLE 1: Todd Krzisluk scored twice Wednesday, leading unbeaten Livonia Stevenson (4-0) to the Western Lakes Activities Association triumph over the host Mustangs.

Adam Carriere's goal staked the Spartans to a 1-0 halftime lead. Travis Roy also scored on a throw-in. Adam Piebler and Jeff Thomas also converted second-half goals.

Northville tallied its only goal off a penalty kick against Stevenson goalie Matt Stabile.

CHURCHILL 7, FARMINGTON 0: Corky Golden, a senior forward, tallied a pair of goals Wednesday as host Livonia Churchill (5-1) whipped the Falcons.

Vince Trolani, freshman Charlie Roberts and Mike Gentile also scored in the first half for the Chargers. (Trolani and Gentile drew assists.)

Golden scored both his goals during the second half (Dominic Vella assisted on one). Jeremy Banks and Goran Rauker closed out the scoring as Churchill coach Mark Mason emptied his bench. (Gentile finished with a goal and two assists.)

REDFORD CC 4, EDELS FORD 1: Senior Kerry Zavagnin scored two goals and senior midfielder Brendan Sullivan collected three assists Thursday, carrying unbeaten Redford Catholic Central (4-0) past host Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Zavagnin's goal from Brendan Sullivan gave CC a 1-0 half-time advantage.

The Thunderbirds evened things at 1-1 at the 14-minute mark of the second half before the Shamrocks scored three unanswered goals — Rich Walos from Zavagnin and Scott Lerner; Matt Kopmeyer from Sullivan; and Zavagnin from Sullivan and Anthony Verino.

PROBEN WINS MATCH

Redford native and Thurston High product Bob Proben won the Michigan PGA Match Play title on Thursday at Detroit Golf Club.

Proben, a teaching pro at Lake Orion's Indianwood Golf Club, beat Saginaw CC pro Max Anderson to win the first-place prize of $4,000.

A finalist last year, only to lose to Garland's Lee Woodruff, Proben held off Anderson 1-up in 20 holes to capture the championship.

Proben advanced to the final Thursday after beating Southgate's Paul Haase, 7-5.

The victory enables Proben, a former PGA Tour player, to gain a spot in next summer's Michigan Bell Showdown skins tourney at the Grand Traverse Resort.

Top pro Mark Roth makes appearance

PROFESSIONAL BOWLER Mark Roth will be making a personal appearance Sunday, Sept. 29, at West Bloomfield Lanes.

Roth will be on hand to sign autographs, talk some bowling and maybe show some of the skills that have made him one of the most successful competitors on the Pro Tour.

Roth was a dominant player in the late 1970s, winning Player of the Year honors for three consecutive years, (1977-79) and again in 1984. He was inducted into the PBA Hall of Fame in 1987.

Roth is one of the leading career money winners, pocketing a cool $1.3 million.

The occasion for Roth's visit is on behalf of the Brunswick Corp. It has just furnished some new equipment at West Bloomfield Lanes, the establishment of Larry Sisson.

The lanes have just undergone quite a facelift and the new equipment will help create a more enjoyable atmosphere for the bowlers.

West Bloomfield Lanes is located on Orchard Lake just south of Maple. All bowling fans are invited to come, meet Roth and check out the new bowling equipment.

• Congratulations to Julie Wright of Farmington Hills, who won her first MJMA title Sept. 8 in the 6th Annual Cherry Hill North Open.

Wright had to climb the stepladder for her victory, defeating Lisa Bishop in the finals, 202-192.

Wright also beat Penny Mendis of Belleville 228-202 and Michelle Ewald of St. Clair Shores 215-197.

Wright is another example of YABA talent coming up through the SYC Youth Traveling League.

Wright's father, Ed, is a director in the Sunday Youth Classic and a mighty proud dad.

For information about the MJMA (Michigan Junior Masters Association) call Paulette Krajnak at 583-7579 or Dan Ottman at 889-8696.

• Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills is offering an instructional program for improvement at all levels of ability. The starting date is Oct. 6, with three hours for just $15 per person. They are also offering free evaluation for all bowlers. Just come in and ask!

There is another program for the scouts in which anyone in the scouting program can earn their sports patch.

The program, which begins on Oct. 4, is free and open to all parts of the Girl and Boy Scout programs. For further details call Frank Pepp at 478-2230.

Chargers edge rivals

Livonia Churchill's overall balance was just better enough to upend Livonia Stevenson, 208-210 in a boys golf match Friday at Livonia's Fox Creek.

Medalist honors went to Stevenson's Ryan Fawkes; he shot 58. Mark Peterson shot 59 and Mark Magnusson had a 41 for the Spartans.

But Churchill had six golfers shoot 43 or better. Todd Siedlaczek led the Chargers with 39. He was followed by Drew Jurcisin with a 41, Allan MacLennan with a 42 and Matt McPherson, Kevin Haf and Mark Goodmanson, all with 43s.

The win upped Churchill's record to 2-0. Stevenson fell to 3-2. The Chargers host Westland John Glenn today at Fox Creek.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN did something a Patriot golf team had never before done, according to coach David Danes. They won their opener.

golf

"This is the first time we've ever been 1-0," said Danes after his team topped Dearborn Heights Crestwood 187-202 Friday at Warren Valley. "So it's reason to celebrate."

Franklin was led by Jason Lamar's 39. Joe Huber shot 45 and both Michael Mackiewicz and Michael Gehrke carded 51s.

The unbeaten Patriots play North Farmington at Idyl Wyld today.

SC WOMEN: A banged-up Lady Ocelot team could not repel Siena Heights College Thursday, allowing the game-tying goal with nine minutes left to tie 2-2 at SC.

To prevent crime in Tucson, police use sensitive, highly sophisticated surveillance equipment: Tim, Rose, Gert, Anthony, Yvonne, and Ramon.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%.

And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime. To find out more, write:

Cook with wine that tastes good

Having just completed a major kitchen remodeling, I was shocked at all the junk I had accumulated in my kitchen cabinets.

Untold crumbled bags filled with multi-colored herbs and spices, enough baby jelly jars to fill a few baskets, and a box filled with cooking wine, and half corked specimens of wine way past their prime.

There is no doubt that the occasional addition of wine, spirits or cordials can give food a welcome new dimension.

Fortunately, there is but one staid and true rule that should never be broken when cooking with wine:

The wine you choose need not be old, rare or expensive, but at least good enough to drink with relish for its own sake.

THAT CAN mean only one thing: Dump those bottles of "cooking wines" that linger on supermarket shelves somewhere between the vinegar and the soy sauce.

Hovering around the $3 range for a little over 12 ounces, not only are they far too expensive, but taste as salty as a bowl of pretzels at the corner bar.

Irma Rombauer and Marion Becker, co-authors of "The Joy of Cooking" offer these tips for using wine and spirits to cook with:

- Never add so much as to overbalance or drown out the characteristic flavor of the food itself.

- Count the wine as part of any given sum total of liquid ingredients, not as an extra.

- Never raise the heat above a simmer when cooking food in wine. If you aim at mellow penetration, the time to add wine is at the onset of cooking.

Fortified wines like sherry and Madeira should be added shortly before serving.

- To achieve a pronounced wine flavor, swirl reduced wine (1 cup, boiled down to ¼ cup) at the very end of the cooking process.

- If you are stumped about what kind of wine to use, the specific answer depends on the kind of food it is combined with.

START YOUR purchasing with a basic dry white and a full bodied red. For the record, I checked with momma about her preferences.

She replied that the only wine she had in the house was a cheap bottle of champagne given to them six years ago for their 50th wedding anniversary from Uncle Harry.

Personally, I can speak highly for some great tastes garnered from a $4 bottle of Gallo Hearty Red Burgundy, and ditto from a $7 bottle of L. Jadot Macon Villages white burgundy.

The red burgundy has done wonders in just about anything with meat from chili and beef stew to Coq au Vin and Grilled Lamb Chops. The white burgundy has made subtle differences while poaching eggs or fish, and even as a staple in my classic cheese fondue.

IN "THE Complete Book of Sauces," author Sallie Y. Williams suggests that "the shorter the cooking time, and the less the sauce is reduced, the better the wine should be."

She goes on to state that "Most people should have little or no problem with cooked sauces that incorporate wine, since the alcohol is evaporated by heating the mixture, all that will be left is the essence of the wine's flavor. Make sure the sauce is cooked for several minutes to be sure the alcohol has evaporated, otherwise it will leave an unpleasant raw taste."

So if the taste of wine excites you, wait until you see what it can do for your food. Yep, I've enjoyed a '57 Lafite with Chateaubriand, but I can't wait to get that champagne from momma, mix with a little orange juice and enjoy a gorgeous fall Sunday morning on my deck — soon!

Sparkling with flavor

ANNUALLY, THE wines produced in Michigan are reviewed by an experienced panel of professional wine tasters. Wines are awarded medals to be worn as bragging rights for the next 12 months. The annual competition is sponsored by the Michigan State Fair, and organized by the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Grape and Wine Industry Council. This year's competition included 112 wines, seven of which received gold medal awards.

Michigan's grape and wine industry has existed for more than a century. Today, Michigan's 16 wineries and 35 vineyards are located principally along the western edge of the state, benefiting from the climatic influences of Lake Michigan.

IN EARLY spring, cool winds from the lake retard bud-break until the danger of spring frost has passed.

The opposite occurs in late fall when the prevailing winds provide warmth for the vineyards and extend the growing season.

In sub-zero weather, lake effect snowfall provides natural insulation for vine roots and trunks.

Demand for wine grapes is exceeding the supply, and several new vineyards have been planted in the last three years.

A second pocket of wine effort is in southeast Michigan. The Seven Lakes Vineyard is north of Detroit in Fenton.

Gold Medal Winners

Fenn Valley Chancellor '89 - $9.49 ("Best of Show," Red wine)
Warner Brut Champagne - $12 ("Best of Show," White wine)
Leelanau Cellars Tall Ship Chardonnay - $12.95
Leelanau Cellars Johannisberg Riesling Ice Wine - $35
St. Julian Solera Cream Sherry - $12
St. Julian Chambourcin - $9.50
Chateau Grand Traverse Johannisberg Riesling Ice Wine - $30

Sharon Mills Winery, the only producer specializing in methode champenoise is in Manchester, west of the city of Ann Arbor.

HOWEVER, GRAPES for these sparkling chardonnays and rieslings come from the Old Mission Peninsula.

Lake Michigan climatic advantages aside, it still remains a fact that Michigan grape vines, with their late budbreak, have the disadvantage of a short growing season. Some winters are harsh with little snowfall and spring frosts have occurred in mid-May and as late as June 10.

Faced with such adversities, winter-hardy French-American hybrids were deemed the logical choice for grape cultivars in the late 1960s. St. Julian, Michigan's oldest winery, responded to the heightened period of interest in drier wines by encouraging growers to make extensive plantings of French-American hybrids in the 1970s.

Since 1978, St. Julian has become the state's largest single buyer of the hybrid grape varieties chambourcin, che-lols, cayuga white, dechaunac, marechal foch, chancellor noir, seyval blanc, vidal blanc and vignoles.

"VIGNOLES is an interesting wine," St. Julian's president David Braganini contends. "People are unfamiliar with it and are surprised to learn how comparable it is to a straightforward style of chardonnay. Seyval blanc is our most popular wine. We call it Paw Paw Piesporter because we make it off dry."

St. Julian has been the leader in the production of red wine from the chambourcin grape. "A gold medal award for St. Julian's 1989 Chambourcin is a satisfying reward for several years of pioneering effort," Braganini said.

Half of the production at L. Mawby Winery in Suttons Bay is vignoles. "My goal is to make the best barrel-fermented vignoles I can," said owner/winemaker Larry Mawby.

BECAUSE OF limited chardonnay plantings, St. Julian was able to release only 80 cases of 1989 chardonnay. Grapes were purchased at the premium price of $1,500 per ton. To make the slimmest profit, it must be sold at $14 a bottle.

In 1982, with the intent of 100 percent vinifera production, Jim Eshner and his partners Jim Lester and Bernie Lickteig founded Madron Lake Hills Winery in Buchanan with a 20-acre vineyard site. It is principally planted to chardonnay, white riesling and gewurztraminer.

Toast the season with a winery and color tour

By Keely Wygonik
staff writer

Autumn is the perfect time to tour Michigan's four wine regions — the Lake Michigan Shore, Leelanau Peninsula, Old Mission Peninsula and Fennville.

A visit to Michigan wineries can be as short as a day, or as long as a week, it's up to you. Most wineries are open for tours and tastings throughout the year, but it is wise to call ahead of time.

FOR MORE information about Michigan's wineries call (517) 373-1058. For Michigan travel information, call 1-800-5432-YES. Here's a sampling of Michigan wineries.

You don't have to travel way up north to visit a winery. For an early to mid-October color and winery tour, visit Seven Lakes Vineyard in homey Fenton. Located within Oakland County, the winery produces limited quantities of premium, well-crafted white wines.

Seven Lakes is a "bonded" estate winery which means they grow all of their own wine grapes on 96 acres of their own land.

Winery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday to Saturday, noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Open weekends, noon to 5 p.m., Sharon Mills Winery in Manchester, near Ann Arbor, specializes in champagnes and sparkling wines. The fall colors in this area peak in mid to late October.

SHARON MILLS buys most of their grapes from Chateau Grand Traverse vineyards, and use a labor-intensive method for producing their wines.

Methode champenoise involves hand turning each bottle several times to settle the sediment before it is withdrawn from the finished product. Every bottle of Sharon Mills wine is perfectly aged in their own wine cellars.

For a longer drive, about three hours, drive west on I-94 to the largest of Michigan's wine regions which runs from Saugatuk south to the Indiana border. Peak color times are mid to late October.

Lemon Creek Vineyards, Madron Lake Hills, Peterson and Sons Winery, St. Julian Wine Company, Tabor Hill Winery and Warner Vineyards all make their homes within this area.

To the west near Kalamazoo are two of the state's best-known wineries — St. Julian Wine Co. and Warner Vineyards.

Founded in 1938, family-owned and -operated Warner Vineyards was one of the first to plant wine grapes in Michigan. This year's winner of the "Best of Show" white wine at the Michigan State Fair, Warner also produces 10 different flavors of sparkling juices.

JUST OUTSIDE the northernmost boundary of the Lake Michigan Shore wine region is the Fenn Valley Winery.

Established in 1973, this winery's specialties are their de-alcoholized wines. These are wines which have had the alcohol removed, not nonalcoholic wines.

Among their quality traditional wines, Fenn Valley's '89 Chancellor received "Best of Show" for red wine at the Michigan State Fair. Last year, their '88 Chancellor took the same prize.

Further up the coastline, is the Leelanau Peninsula wine area which includes the wineries of Boskydel, Good Harbor and L. Mawby Vineyards and Leelanau Wine Cellars. For peak fall color, visit the area from late September to mid-October.

Chateau Grand Traverse winery is within the Old Mission Peninsula wine region. Award-winning Johannisberg Riesling and Chardonnay are among Chateau Grand Traverse's most popular wines.

Lamb entree is quick, easy

Take some delicately flavored ground lamb, add a dash of Italian taste, and a touch of appetite heightening crisp autumn weather, and you have a winning recipe with which to celebrate National Lamb Month.

The American Lamb Council has designated September for National Lamb Month — an ideal time to buy lamb because of plentiful supply and reasonable prices. One of the most popular lamb selections this season is fresh American ground lamb.

USUALLY, YOU'LL find packages of ground lamb in the meat case of your supermarket. However, if you don't, be sure to ask your meat manager or butcher to grind it for you.

Inexpensive and quick to prepare, ground lamb can help shape a variety of dishes from down-to-earth meatloaf and burgers to the more elegant stuffed pastas and ethnic casseroles.

Ideally broiled or grilled in 8 to 10 minutes, lamb patties can adapt to a variety of flavors by adding seasonings and herbs, vegetables or sauces. Actually, you can use ground lamb in the same way you cook with ground beef or pork.

Lamb patties also may be prepared in advance and refrigerated for 24 hours or frozen for up to three to four months, and later defrosted and reheated for a really quick meal.

When taken from the leg, ground lamb has health appeal with only 176 calories per 3-ounce serving and 17 percent of the adult Recommended

Daily Allowance for iron. Many dietitians recommend the meat for weight-loss programs or plain nutritious eating, when simply prepared and broiled.

TO KEEP pace with the latest trends, the American Lamb Council suggests trying "Stuffed Ground Lamb Italiano," with its reminiscences of Old Italy seasoned to fit contemporary American preferences.

Using only convenience foods such as dry salad dressing mix, frozen spinach and prepared pasta sauce, along with Parmesan and ricotta cheese, basil and garlic salt, the entree takes only 30 minutes preparation and cooking time of less than 10 minutes. If you find yourself with any leftovers (although this may be unlikely), you can freeze the patties and later reheat them in the microwave.

STUFFED GROUND LAMB ITALIANO (6 servings)

- 1 1/2 pounds lean fresh American ground lamb
- 1 package (0.7 ounce) dry Italian salad dressing mix
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen spinach, defrosted and squeezed dry
- 1 cup (8 ounces) ricotta
- 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 1/2 teaspoons dried basil leaves, crushed
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt

Stuffed Ground Lamb Italiano is a quick and easy meal that's perfect for fall.

- 1 teaspoon white pepper
- 2 cups prepared pasta sauce, heated
- 1 1/2 pounds cooked pasta, kept warm

In medium bowl, blend lamb and Italian salad dressing mix. Divide lamb into 12 portions and form into thin patties, 3 inches in diameter, set aside.

In medium bowl, blend spinach, ricotta, Parmesan cheese, basil, garlic salt and pepper. Divide into 6 portions and form into thin patties, 2 inches in diameter. Place cheese patty between two lamb patties, press edges to seal. Repeat process, making 6 stuffed lamb patties.

Broil 4 inches from source of heat 5-6 minutes per side or to desired degree of doneness.

To serve: Pour 1/2 cup pasta sauce on plate and place broiled lamb patty on sauce. Serve with pasta.

Sauces made with wine uncork the flavor in food

See Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

BASIC RED WINE SAUCE

- 2 cups dry red wine
- 3 large shallots, minced
- 1 bouquet garni
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 6 tablespoons (3/4 stick) butter
- 1/2 inch cayenne pepper to taste
- Salt to taste

In a medium-sized, heavy duty saucepan over high heat, boil the red wine, shallots and bouquet garni for 10 minutes. Strain the sauce and boil again.

In the meantime, in a small bowl, cream the flour and 2 tablespoons of the butter together to make a paste. Add this paste to the boiling wine, a little at a time, stirring after each addition until smooth.

Then adjust the heat to low and simmer the sauce until thick, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat and whisk in remaining butter a little at a time. The butter will cool the sauce slightly and emulsify easily. Do not overheat or let the butter melt. The sauce should be light and creamy. Season with the red cayenne pepper and salt, if necessary. Serve warm. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

CHEF LARRY'S EASY, NO FAIL CHEESE FONDUE

- 2 cups dry white wine
- 1 pound swiss cheese, grated (the more imported, the better)
- 3 tablespoons flour or cornstarch
- 1 large clove garlic

Bring the wine to a slow simmer in a heavy saucepan. Grate the cheese and dredge with the flour or cornstarch. Toss well to coat. Add whole garlic to simmering wine.

Slowly sprinkle in coated swiss cheese, mixing well until slightly thickened. Save any remaining cheese mix. Remove garlic clove. Season with a dash of hot sauce, if desired. Simmer for 5 minutes before serving, stirring constantly.

Serve with bread cubes and/or vegetables.

- 6 medium potatoes, cubed
- 4 stalks celery, sliced
- 1 large onion, chopped
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup fresh parsley, chopped

Cube beef into 1-inch pieces. Fry beef in butter with garlic and onions until dry. Add, 1 cup at a time, allowing to dry out between additions, the water and L. Mawby Turkey Red wine. Professional tasters pick the best Michigan wines

The chief promoter of vinifera in Michigan is Chateau Grand Traverse owner Ed O'Keefe.

"Michigan will not be recognized as a serious wine producer until we get at least 2,000 acres of vinifera planted," O'Keefe states emphatically.

Chateau Grand Traverse received a silver medal for its 1989 Merlot. The wine represents a promise for the future with this vinifera varietal.

Only three percent of the wine drunk in Michigan is Michigan wine. "With these statistics, our biggest stumbling block is getting Michiganders to drink Michigan wine," Lemon Creek's Jeff Lemon said.

LET'S SEE a showing of grass roots pride, Michiganders! October is Michigan Wine Month and you might as well get started with the winners.

Each year, the wine competition judges select a "Best of Show" white and red wine from among the gold medal winners.

For the second year in a row,

Fenn Valley's Chancellor was awarded "Best of Show" red wine for the 1989 bottling.

IF YOU didn't taste the 1988 version, don't miss out on this one. The wine is rich in flavor, but approachable in the finish which is solid without being tannic.

Warner Vineyard's Michigan Brut Champagne was declared "Best of Show" white wine. This is a high quality sparkler with abundant complexity and one you'll be proud to serve.

Fall back into routines with easy meal

Editor's note:

Because of an error in last week's paper, some of readers didn't get the Winner Dinner recipe so we are repeating the column in its entirety.

By Betsy Brethen
Staff writer

Welcome back to the beginning of the third year of "Winner Dinners." I hope you and your family enjoyed the summer, and are ready to shift gears and return to life in the fast lane. For ready or not, now that Labor Day has come and gone, the checked flag has been waved and summer is officially gone.

This week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Mary Kroneman of Birmingham, offers a delicious transitional menu that was selected with the tempo as well as the temperatures common to the next few weeks in mind.

Quick and easy to make, it is a perfect meal for those still warm September evenings that typify summer's end. Featuring a chicken and rice salad, a luscious-colored raspberry gelatin dish and "wacky" chocolate cake, this is one meal that is sure to bring rave reviews from all who partake of it.

A native Michigander, Kroneman has lived in Birmingham for eight years with her husband, Chip, and their two children. She is looking forward to being vice president of the Cranbrook Kingswood Middle School Mothers' Council this year, and is actively involved at her daughter's elementary school as well.

Her volunteer efforts extend to her church where she just completed two years as vice president of the Women's Society at the Kirk of the Hills Presbyterian Church. One day a week Kroneman works with her husband, a nephrologist (kidney specialist), when he has office visits, greeting his patients, and making sure everyone feels "at home" and comfortable.

In fact, the recipe for Raspberry Dazzle comes from one of her husband's patients, Etta Mermell, who "always brings the Kronemans gelatin molds whenever she comes into the office."

Thank you, Mary Kroneman, for sharing your delicious recipes with us, and congratulations on being selected as our Winner Dinner. An apron will soon be sent to you as a token of appreciation for supporting this column.

From the feedback I have been getting, it seems that there is great interest in "heart-smart" menus. If you have a favorite low-cal, low-fat meal, I encourage you to send the recipes my way. After all, healthy eating habits begin at home.

2 packages frozen sweetened raspberries, 6-ounce size

1 cup boiling water

1 cup cold water

1 pint sour cream

fresh raspberries for garnish

Combine the gelatin and the boiling water in a bowl. Stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add the raspberries and the cold water and mix well.

Pour this mixture into a saucepan and add the sour cream. Cook at a low temperature until the sour cream is dissolved. Pour into a mixing bowl and let the mixture harden partially.

Pour into a crystal or glass bowl and refrigerate until gelled. Garnish with fresh raspberries.

WACKY CAKE

Delicious and easy, even children will enjoy making this cake.

1 1/2 cups flour

1 cup sugar

1/4 cup cocoa

1 teaspoon soda

1 cup sugar

1 stick margarine

Travelers tell tourism tales

Every traveler has a story to prove that truth is stranger than fiction.

My "impossible coincidence" occurred when I learned that a South African living in Michigan has a sister who lives across the street from my grandmother in Stratford-on-Avon, England.

We had never met before and we discovered this during a casual conversation among mutual friends. The chances of that happening are much less than the chances of winning the million-dollar lottery.

JAMES LOPRETE and his wife discovered their impossible coincidence on a recent 33-day tour of Poland, Czechoslovakia and eastern Germany.

They live in Orchard Lake. They knew about St. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, on the western shore of Orchard Lake, but they didn't expect to run into that name in the farmlands outside Warsaw.

Someone broke into their car on a Saturday afternoon, so they were driving with two broken windows when they went 40 miles west to Chopin's birthplace the next day.

"On the way back we saw a young priest hitchhiking. He spoke some English and in the course of our limited conversation we learned that his best friend had spent time at the Orchard Lake seminary."

THAT MILD coincidence was compounded the next day, when LoPrete went to "a small farm outside Warsaw where an individual entrepreneur was making a very good living replacing auto windows. Some Polish people whose car was also being repaired spoke some English."

The two couples were sitting over a farmer's kitchen table drinking coffee when the Polish people pulled out photos taken during a trip to the United States.

"He showed us some pictures of the two of them with a lake in the background. The picture had been taken in front of the Orchard Lake Seminary where they had visited his brother, who had been a priest there for a short time."

"I do not know what the odds would be that we would run into two people without any prearrangement, on a totally non-scheduled basis, both of them with connections to an institution in our small community."

LoPrete added a P.S.: "The whole trip, even without advance reservations and 'English only,' proved to be delightful and we would recommend it to others. Best of all the cost was about 70 percent of what we were used to paying in Western Europe."

THE NAME of Orchard Lake came up again when I spoke to Sarah Kneisel, a General Motors engineer who grew up in West Bloomfield, graduated from Mercy High School and earned a degree in industrial design from the University of Michigan.

Sarah's husband, Mark, teaches at St. Mary's High School in Orchard Lake. Mark graduated from South Lyon High School and the U-M and now coaches basketball and rowing at the school.

Mississippi yearning

Relive the old South in Natchez

By By Armand Gebert
special writer

Hoop-skirted ladies will guide visitors through high-ceilinged rooms and up spiraling stairways during the annual Fall Pilgrimage tours in Natchez, Miss., Oct. 5-25.

Natchez, population 22,400, was spared much of the pillage and burning of the Civil War, so more than 500 pre-war mansions, churches and other buildings remain intact or have been restored. Twenty-six of them are open to the public during the Fall Pilgrimage.

You will find manicured gardens, stately pillared mansions with priceless furnishings and heirlooms, stories and legends, mint juleps and marvelous cuisine — a place where Southern hospitality is alive and well. Half of these houses serve as bed-and-breakfast inns, which compete in the arenas of elegance and graciousness.

Each mansion could be an ideal setting for a romantic novel. Each has its distinctive personality. However, disciplined selection is needed to prevent an overdose of splendor.

Longwood is probably the best property on which to rouse yesterday's ghosts. Never completed because of the war, the five-story octagonal-shaped house has an Oriental mode, including Byzantine arches, and an onion dome which caps and dominates the structure.

The exterior is finished. The interior is a shell. Paint buckets and nail kegs, dusty packing boxes and tool sets are scattered throughout, reminders of the Northern artisans who fled when word arrived of the firing on Fort Sumter. Only the basement is completed, nine rooms where the occupants lived out the war.

Each December is devoted to a Victorian Christmas pageant at Longwood. Candlelight tours, a concert of black spirituals and a first-person account performance about attending an 1862 Christmas party are highlights of the event in the house, which glows with 100,000 lights.

Stanton Hall, the largest of the mansions, features a white classical colonnade and occupies an entire city block. Built in 1857, it features Carrara marble mantels, gold-leaf mirrors, bronze chandeliers, and sterling doorknobs as accents to luxurious furnishings made possible by King Cotton.

Rosalie is another genteel knock-out. It served as the Union army's local headquarters during the war and in 1863 was occupied by Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. The gold-leaf mirrors, now hanging on the walls, were buried in a cave during the occupation. Rosalie overlooks the Mississippi, so it is a good site on which to ponder the past and the strategic role the mighty river played in the war.

One antidote to mansion overdose is to intersperse visits with other Natchez lifestyles. Under-the-Hill on Silver Street is an example. It is a contrast to the stateliness of the uphill aristocratic section of town. This was the lair for gamblers and riverboat roughnecks. It teemed with brothels and bars. Its caves were filled with stolen goods.

The restored neighborhood is now home to shops and restaurants. The Under-the-Hill Saloon with enormous French doors opening onto a gallery is a delightful spot to grab a rocker and watch river traffic.

For lodging information, reservations and tour tickets contact the Natchez Pilgrimage Tours, Canal at State Street, P.O. Box 347, Natchez, Miss. 39121 or telephone toll-free (800) 647-6742. A three-house tour costs $12 and a four-house tour is $14 per person. Twelve of the homes are open year round.

Visitors can learn of military strategies, defenses and offenses at Vicksburg National Military Park.

Civil War vivid in Vicksburg

VICKSBURG, MISS. — The Vicksburg National Military Park is the centerpiece of this historic, proud, battle-scarred city. Memories of a 47-day Union siege, May 19 through July 14, 1863, are still vivid here.

Go first to the park's visitors center to capture the impact and understanding of the hardships endured by a beleaguered city. Study the dioramas of civilians seeking refuge in caves from bombardments. Learn of military strategies, defenses and offenses.

Then rent a tape cassette ($4.50) and drive along a 16-mile trail through 2,000 acres of woods and hills, peppered with commemorative monuments and markers.

There's a transformation. A narrator changes the green hills into bloody entrenchments. A battle rages where majestic monuments were later to be erected, honoring the fallen Blues and Greys.

Opposite the National Cemetery entrance is the museum for the USS Cairo, a sunken Union gunboat that has been salvaged. The ironclad Cairo destroyed on the Yazoo River by Confederates is believed to have been the first vessel sunk by an electrically detonated mine.

For information, contact your travel agent or the Vicksburg Convention and Visitors Bureau, P.O. Box 110, Vicksburg, Miss., 39180 or telephone toll-free (800) 221-3536.
