Mayor Thomas: 'I love my job'

As the dust settles following one of the bitterest elections in memory, re-elected Mayor Robert Thomas and his defeated opponent, City Council president Charles Pickering, both say they are ready to mend the fences.

Mayor Robert Thomas, riding a tidal wave of public support, made history Tuesday night by becoming the first Westland mayor ever to win a second four-year term.

"That feels extremely good," a jubilant Thomas said, celebrating with some 300 supporters at the city's Friendship Center, 1119 N. Newburgh. "I love my job, and I just want to get back to work."

Thomas crushed a challenge from city council president Charles Pickering, defeating him by a nearly 2-to-1 margin in one of the most bitterly fought mayoral races in the city's 27-year history.

Pickering, a real estate broker who served a mayoral term plagued by controversy in 1982-85, fought hard to overcome a 38-point lead that Thomas commanded in the Sept. 14 primary.

In Tuesday's showdown, however, Thomas's popularity became indisputable as he captured 66.3 percent of the vote, compared to Pickering's 33.7 percent. The mayor captured 40 of the city's 41 precincts.

"I think what you see there is a report card," he said, pointing to unofficial vote totals posted on a Friend

Council incumbents win easy re-election

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland voters re-elected two city councilwomen Tuesday night and chose a former mayor and his running mate to replace two departing council members.

Incumbents Sandra Cicirelli and Sharon Scott easily won four-year terms, becoming the top two vote-getters, respectively. Charles Griffin, mayor in 1986-89, placed third and also earned a four-year seat.

Griffin's running mate, David Cox, came in fourth and won a two-year term. He finished close behind Griffin.

Griffin and Cox will replace council members Kenneth Mehl and Terri Reighard-Johnson. A 12-year council veteran, Mehl, who launched an unsuccessful mayoral campaign last summer, will step down when his term expires Dec. 31. Reighard-Johnson didn't seek re-election.

Perennial council candidate Dorothy Smith lost her election bid after placing fifth in Tuesday's voting, followed by political newcomer Joseph Eadeh and last-place finisher Bhagwan Dashairya, who suffered his second council defeat.

Teens robbed of candy

BY DARRELL CLEM

Two teens reported handguns being drawn when they were robbed of their Halloween candy Sunday evening on a residential street near Merriman and Palmer in Westland, police said.

In other weekend crime:

■ A Westland man told police he was beaten with fists and a baseball bat when a dispute with two other men spilled outside a Westland bar.

■ A store detective at a Westland strip mall reported being assaulted with chemical Mace when she tried to stop a shoplifter.

■ A Westland apartment tenant — angered by a loud party — may face criminal charges for threatening an upstairs neighbor with a handgun, Sgt. Tom Kubitsky said.

In the Halloween robbery, the two 15-year-old trick-or-treaters told police they were robbed of their candy when they were approached by seven to nine teenagers while walking on Glen, west of Merriman.

The victims reported that some in the group "pulled out handguns," Detective Sgt. Donald Haigh said, but the number of guns was not immediately known.

The incident happened at 7:45 p.m. Sunday. No injuries were reported as the trick-or-treaters gave up their candy, Haigh said.

Early Saturday, a Westland man, 21, reported being beaten with fists and a baseball bat when he got into an argument with two other men — all of whom were ordered to leave the Ford Road Bar, just west of Wayne Road.

The 1:20 a.m. beating occurred outside of the bar, and the victim was treated at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for a dislocated shoulder and various scrapes and bruises, police reports said.

All three men were drunk during the dispute, Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said. No charges have been filed.

On Friday, a store detective in the Westland Crossing strip mall on the northeast corner of Warren and Wayne Roads was sprayed in the eyes with chemical Mace when she tried to stop a shoplifter shortly before 4 p.m., police reports said.

Would-be rapist sent to prison

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland man accused of threatening to kill a Westland woman during a brutal rape attempt in a south-end field has been ordered to spend four to 10 years in prison.

Aric Channing Trotter, 30, is serving his term in Jackson State Prison after being sentenced for trying to rape the 27-year-old woman in a field near Palmer and Venoy.

The woman had testified in a pre-trial hearing that she was "beaten to a pulp" by Trotter and that he not only tried to rape her, but warned her not to worry about AIDS because she "was going to die anyway."

The badly bruised woman said she fought off Trotter by kicking him, biting his hand, scratching his face and screaming. The 1:30 a.m. attack on Aug. 8 came after they left a party, on the pretense that Trotter would give her a ride to a nearby store.

The woman testified during a pre-trial hearing that she mentioned the fatal disease AIDS when Trotter attacked her, but said he told her, "It doesn't matter. You're going to die anyway."

Trotter had been ordered by 18th District Judge Gail McKnight to stand trial on a charge of assault with Campaign chairman

There is another campaign going on in Westland, but it has nothing to do with the just-completed mayoral and city council elections. The campaign is headed by Norman Stockmeyer to raise $400,000 for the Salvation Army's new community service center, under construction on Venoy near Dorsey. The $400,000 represents one-third of the building's projected costs. Businesses, organizations and individuals are being contacted by Stockmeyer's committee members for donations. Stockmeyer is no stranger to public service and community activities.

Council to discuss plans for cost-saving water repairs

By DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Water-system repairs that could save Westland taxpayers $3 million a year are being considered by the Westland City Council.

On Monday, the Mayor Robert Thomas' administration recommended spending up to $90,000 to have the city's leaky water system studied by SLC Hydro-Meter Testing & Repair.

But the council delayed a vote on the proposal and scheduled a study session for Monday to discuss it.

The company would test 360 miles of Westland water mains for leaks and also study the heaviest users of water — both industrial and residential — to try to find solutions to the city's water-loss problem, said Carl Clark, public services director.

Councilman Kenneth Mehl has estimated that water leaks cost city taxpayers $3 million a year.

'If $3 million in water loss is a correct figure, we will lose $60,000 per week. Postponement of one week for a study session costs $60,000.'

Robert Thomas

He had made the issue a focal point of his mayoral campaign, which failed in the Sept. 14 primary.

On Monday, Mehl questioned why the administration-recommended company for the water study has bid on the job, only to indicate that it plans to hire a subcontractor to perform some of the work.

Clark indicated that the subcontractor, M.E. Simpson Co., will perform only a small portion of the work, but Mehl called for a study session in a move that delayed the hiring of contractors.

Mehl indicated that he wants more information about the companies and the water-loss study before voting on it.

Thomas, however, later questioned why Mehl would want to postpone a project that he considered so important during his campaign.

"If $3 million in water loss is a correct figure, we will lose $60,000 per week. Postponement of one week for a study session costs $60,000," Thomas said in a statement Monday night. "During this (mayoral) campaign, water loss was an issue, but obviously some people don't see it as an important issue tonight."

The council is expected to study the issue Monday, and a vote to launch a water-loss study could come as early as the council's next regular meeting, on Nov. 15.

The employee, 34, was assaulted while trying to halt a woman who was seen hiding three pairs of women's shoes under her clothing, police reports said. The employee became temporarily blinded by the Mace, and the shoplifter escaped with a male who was waiting outside in a getaway car, the reports said.

The pair escaped in what was believed to be a brown two-tone Thunderbird. The Marshall's employee was assisted on the scene by rescue personnel, who helped to flush the victim's eyes with water.

The three pairs of shoes were valued at $129.97, police reports said.

In yet another weekend incident, a male apartment tenant at Westland Estates on Wayne Road, south of Warren, allegedly threatened an upstairs neighbor with a handgun after becoming upset about a loud party, Sgt. Ku-bitskey said.

The angry tenant, 42, who lived on the second floor, has been accused of pointing the handgun at a third-floor tenant shortly after 4 a.m. Sunday. Charges are pending against the gun-toting tenant, Kubitskey said.

intent to commit criminal sexual conduct, punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

But he decided to plead guilty on Sept. 21 — a decision that averted his trial in Detroit Recorder's Court, according to the court clerk's office.

Trotter was subsequently ordered to spend four to 10 years in prison when he appeared before Judge Michael Sapala for sentencing, a clerk's office spokeswoman said.

Trotter was not a stranger to the woman he attacked. The woman testified during a pretrial hearing in 18th District Court that she had known Trotter for about three years because he used to date one of her former neighbors.

Ranchers to host kids with cancer

BY GREG KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

By the nature of their illness, children with cancer cannot lead normal lives.

They suffer pain, undergo debilitating chemotherapy, lose their hair and sometime, even limbs.

But Harry and Sylvia Granader have a plan to make the lives of some little cancer victims more enjoyable.

They are in the process of building Camp Mak-a-Dream, a summer camp for children with cancer. Construction has already begun on the Granaders' ranch, the 6C Cattle Co., in Montana and the camp is expected to be open by July.

It takes up only 62 acres of the 10,000-acre ranch (which is modest by Montana standards), but it will have four cabins each with space for 16 youngsters. A lodge, pool and recreation facilities are also under construction.

"I'm fortunate my family is healthy," said Harry Granader, who lives in Oakland County. "I thought it would be appropriate to help other children."

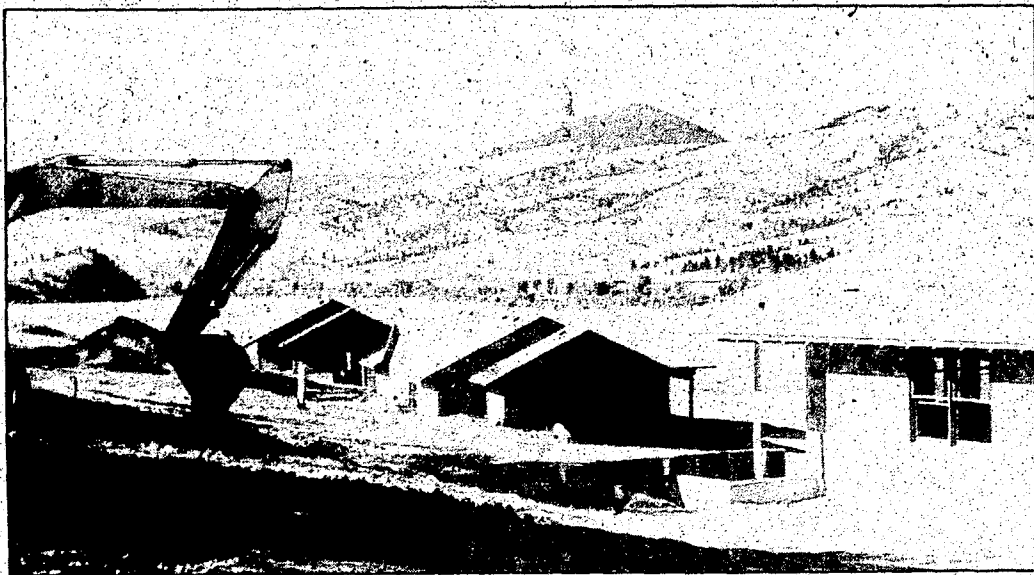

A successful businessman, Granader owns two McDonald's restaurant franchises. He first became involved with kids suffering from cancer several years ago when he helped found the Ronald McDonald House in Detroit next to Children's Hospital.

Parents who often have to come from far reaches of the state can stay at the Ronald McDonald House while their children are being treated at the hospital.

Granader also helped found a second Ronald McDonald House in Ann Arbor and is on the board of the Ronald McDonald Children Charities in Michigan.

"I want to make other people happy," said Granader.

Along with donating the land,

Cabins in the sky: Children staying in the camp cabins will have a sweeping view of the Montana countryside.

the Granaders put up an initial $300,000 for the project and guaranteed a $1 million loan for the project.

Children from around the country and even from overseas will be invited to stay at the camp for free for a week at a time, said Sylvia Granader.

Some doctors are already making inquiries to donate their services working at the camp.

Camp Mak-a-Dream will be only the third of its type in the country and is patterned after a camp built by actor Paul Newman in Connecticut.

The camp will feature a 10,000-square-foot lodge, full recreational facilities, have a medical staff on hand and even a helicopter pad in case a child needs to be transferred for medical treatment.

There will be bathroom facilities to accommodate wheelchairs, arts and crafts room, lounge, laundry and a shower area for the Olympic-size pool.

Construction began last year and is being completed in two phases. The buildings are up and will be finished inside over the winter.

As an extra attraction, the kids will get to mingle with some of the ranch animals, including Betty the Bison, assorted horses, real cowboys and 15 tame elk that roam the rolling prairie that stretches to the distant mountains.

The Granaders are building the camp "out of a love for children," said Sylvia Granader. She said her husband "used to come home with tears in his eye," after visiting kids at Children's Hospital.

"Helping others runs in the family," said Gary Granader, the youngest of the five Granader sons.

"The camp will directly benefit kids," said Gary Granader. "He (Harry Granader) always wants to do something that directly benefits the kids."

"It's one of my father's dreams. He always believed in giving back," said Gary Granader. "It's a great endeavor and we're very proud of him."

At age 77, Harry Granader remains as tough as the Montana countryside. He still hikes up the mountains, oversees the operations of the 6C Cattle Co. and the construction of Camp Mak-a-Dream.

But he's taking a low profile. "I'm more in the less in the background," he said. "I just want it to be successful."

It will take more than wishing. Granader is seeking to raise nearly $7 million in donations to complete the camp and establish an endowment to keep it going.

Donations can be sent to the Children's Oncology Camp Foundation, P.O. Box 3598, Missoula, Mont. 59806. Or for more information, call 352-5946.

Tuesday's vote ended a council race that many political observers criticized as among the ugliest in memory.

Campaign literature distributed over the weekend was strongly criticized from fire and police union officials, who said the fliers wrongly indicated that they supported Cox. Cox has denied any involvement in the literature.

Cicirelli, 41, proved her popularity among voters by easily placing first in the seven-way race. The winner, who was the top vote-getter in 1989, received 10,844 votes — more than the victorious Mayor Robert Thomas had.

A Westland attorney, she was the biggest draw in 39 of the city's 41 precincts. Scott and Smith each picked up a precinct.

Cicirelli attributed her win to her campaign workers, her independence on the council and her efforts to bring about "positive changes" for the city.

Scott, 54, ranked a strong second in Tuesday's race and received 9,368 votes, winning her first four-year term. She earned only a two-year term in 1991 because — like Cox this year — she had the lowest vote totals among the winners.

"I am surprised and very, very happy that I did get a four-year term," Scott said Tuesday, celebrating with Cicirelli at the Woodcrest Villa Apartments club house.

Griffin, 53, ranked a distant third with 7,333 votes. A Michigan Education Association staffer, he also served on council in 1976-85, before being elected to a four-year mayoral term.

Both Griffin and Scott also are former Wayne-Westland school board members.

"I think I had a reservoir of goodwill and support out there, and I think people still feel that I have something to offer," Griffin said, celebrating with Cox at the Wayne-Ford Civic League.

"I think I had a reservoir of goodwill and support out there, and I think people still feel that I have something to offer."

Charles Griffin

Cox, 35, garnered 7,268 votes — only 65 fewer than Griffin — and won a two-year term in his second bid for a council seat. A commercial insurance counselor, he lost two years ago.

Cox summed up his victory by saying, "I think the voters are interested in having somebody that will have a little more fiscal responsibility with their money."

Griffin and Cox have been critical of Mayor Thomas, but they went to his victory celebration Tuesday and pledged to work with him to achieve common goals.

Police and fire union officials this week criticized the weekend fliers that indicated Cox was supported by the Westland Police Officers Association, the Westland Firefighters Association and the Westland Lieutenants and Sergeants Association. He was not.

Cox denied involvement in the literature, which also noted various endorsements for Griffin, Cicirelli and Scott. The female incumbents told the Observer they had nothing to do with the fliers, even though they were supported by the police and fire unions.

On Tuesday, Cox said, "I think they (police and fire employees) will find me an ally in providing the services they want for the citizens."

A disclaimer on the literature said it was paid for by the Citizens' Choice Committee, which has the same address as Councilman Mehl. Mehl said Tuesday that critics misread the literature.

ship Center wall. Thomas garnered 9,909 votes to Pickering's 5,038.

Voter turnout was 28.6 percent, with 15,130 of the city's 52,833 registered voters going to the polls. That was slightly below the 32-percent turnout that had been expected.

Thomas, a former hourly worker in the city's public services department, attributed his easy reelection to a 1989 campaign promise that he said he has kept — providing the city services that taxpayers want.

But Pickering, who received condolences from supporters who gathered at the Wayne-Ford Civic League, 1661 N. Wayne Road, said Thomas won in part because he manipulated the city's cable channel for political gain and raised a war chest of about $250,000 since 1989.

"He used the power of his office to raise the money," Pickering said.

"The majority of the council will not give the mayor 3½ years to campaign for his next election," Pickering said, stressing that Thomas will be under pressure to address issues.

Pickering also noted that some of Thomas's political foes won election Tuesday to the city council — namely former Mayor Charles Griffin, who Thomas defeated in 1989, and council newcomer David Cox.

"The people were looking for a balance of leadership and power in the community," Pickering said. "The mayor cannot do it alone."

Pickering attributed his loss, in part, to an electorate that he said is pleased with his leadership as council president.

"That's a positive thing," he said. Pickering still has two years remaining on his second consecutive four-year term.

Many political observers and some council members have said they consider this year's mayoral race to be among the most bitterly fought in memory.

When asked Tuesday if he believes the two sides can begin to mend their political differences, Pickering responded, "It's up to him to mend the fence. I think myself and other council members are willing."

Mayor Robert Thomas

"I am willing to forgive and forget and get past all the fighting. I want to do what we're supposed to do — work for the citizens."

Mayor Robert Thomas

Later Tuesday night, Pickering, Griffin and Cox went to the Friendship Center to congratulate Thomas. Pickering, 50, and Thomas, 43, have not always been political enemies. Thomas supported Pickering in his last council race.

The mayor indicated to the Observer that he is willing to do his part to heal the political wounds.

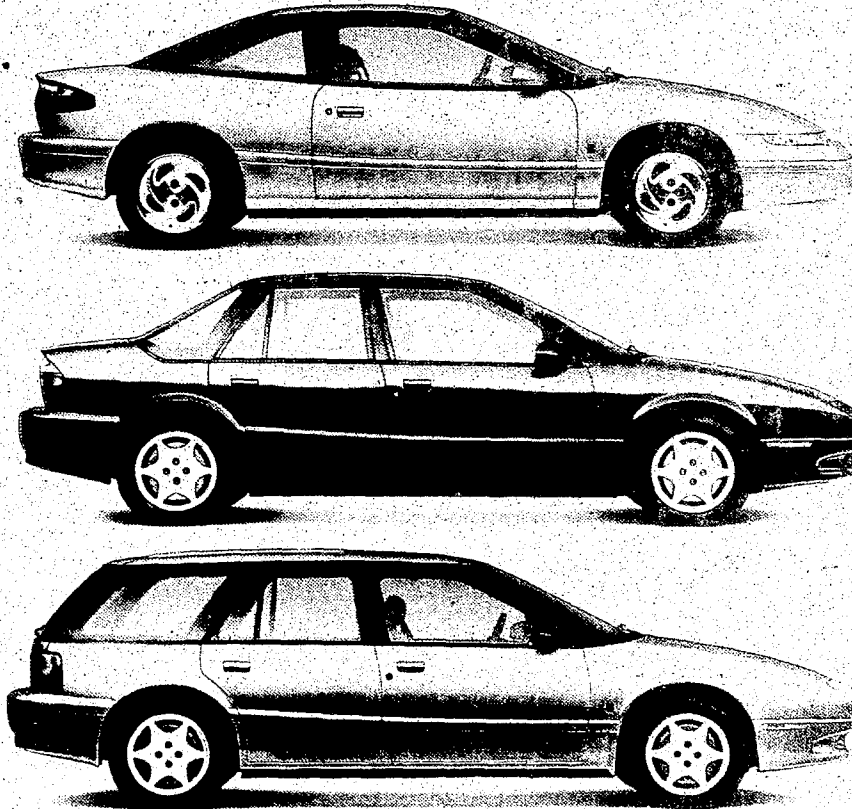

"I am willing to forgive and forget and get past all the fighting," he said. "I want to do what we're supposed to do — work for the citizens."

Thomas cited several issues he wants to address in his second term, such as starting a curbside leaf pick-up program, building a city library and making repairs to the city's leaky water system.

Thomas said "it's kind of neat" that he became the first Westland mayor to win a second four-year term.

Only one other mayor, Tom Taylor, has served two terms. But Taylor's first term was only for two years when he was elected in 1975. Following state law changes on mayoral terms, Taylor was elected in 1977 to the only four-year term he served.

Rep. Ford predicts passage of Clinton's health plan

BY LEONARD POGER
Editor

U.S. Rep. William Ford, in Congress for nearly 29 years, made a big hit with local high school government students Saturday morning.

As a class assignment, students from Garden City and Churchill high schools were among 150 people who attended the first local "Breakfast with Bill" program, being held throughout Ford's congressional district. A Ford staffer said the sessions are held in each of the communities in Ford's district.

Jennifer Pastula, a Garden City High School student in Richard Popp's political-science class, said she got a lot out of the 90-minute program, held at Garden City's Maplewood Community Center.

"I agreed with most of what he said," but there were some issues that were unclear.

Pastula added that she enjoyed the program "even though I had to get up early" to attend.

Accompanying her were Popp and fellow seniors Laura George, Christine Novak, Mike Fisher and Dana Walker, as well as juniors Rhonda Pietrekya and Kelly Harrison.

Echoing Pastula's comments in general were Churchill students of government teacher Richard Zyzinsky. They were seniors Jeanine Niemiec, Jennifer Jenkins, Melissa Sochacki, Carol Karoub and Mary Beeton, and junior Jennifer Paczas.

The program was hosted by the Garden City Democratic Club.

Of the current debate on national health-care legislation, Ford said the issue is equivalent to the "World Series of a political career."

Ford predicted that President Bill Clinton's proposals will be adopted by Congress "because they are so complicated."

He pointed out that in the early 1970s, then-President Richard Nixon proposed a simple health-insurance plan, which would have had employers pay 75 percent of the cost, but "not even Nixon could sell it to business."

■ 'I agreed with most of what he said.'

high school student

Ford added that he is chairman of the one of the three House committees (labor-education) which will review the president's health-care proposals.

Clinton insists that any health-care legislation have universal coverage or he won't sign it.

Ford, a Democrat, talked about other issues facing Congress.

He reiterated past positions as being opposed to the North American Free Trade Agreement, being in favor of universal health coverage, and being opposed to the government getting into the abortion controversy.

He also took issue with a question about Congress mandating that local governments and school districts take certain actions but not providing the money to pay for the mandates.

Ford defended the mandates, citing the health problems of asbestos in public schools and lead in drinking water, and legislation covering civil rights and minimum wages.

The congressman added that the state constitution requires that all students be allowed a public school education. But handicapped pupils were not included until federal legislation was enacted in the 1970s, he said.

On NAFTA, Ford said the "supreme insult" is that the president of Mexico threatened to flood the U.S. with illegal immigrants.

He predicted that if the agreement now before Congress is approved, General Motors may move production work to Mexico, but he doesn't expect Ford Motor Co. to follow suit.

He also questioned if there would be any major benefit for the U.S. under the agreement since American workers generally earn 10 times as much as their Mexican counterparts.

Ford noted the changing demographics of his congressional district, saying that there were no colleges or universities within its boundaries when he joined the House in early 1965. Now, his district includes eight institutions of higher education, including the University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan University and several community colleges.

Students meet Ford: Churchill High School students attended a "Breakfast with Bill" program Saturday to hear U.S. Rep. William Ford discuss national issues.

School speaker: William McClay (right), former National Football League player, chats with Adams Junior High School after a recent assembly held to encourage higher school attendance. It was part of a Detroit Pistons/National Basketball Association program to reward high attendance. With McClay are students Joie Clish, Jason White and David Smith. Students who have a 95 percent or higher attendance record for the Oct. 12 through Dec. 17 period will be invited to a "Stay in School" celebration at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Historic Botsford Inn sold

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Whatever happened to former Mayflower Hotel general manager Creon Smith?

He's buying the historic Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills.

Smith is buying the Inn once owned by Henry Ford on a land contract for $1.5 million.

Smith said the closing on the sale should happen in the next two weeks.

A longtime fixture at the Mayflower Hotel, Smith resigned his position as general manager in December as the hotel was about to go into receivership.

Smith and Mayflower founder Ralph Lorenz' sons Randy and Scott were partners in the hotel, with Randy and Scott holding 40 percent shares each and Smith 20 percent.

"They still had interests across the street which I didn't have," Smith said.

While the partnership didn't work out, Smith is quick to point out that Scott and Randy Lorenz were his best friends before they formed the partnership. "I hope we can remain good friends."

"You know, Ralph Lorenz said there are three ships always to be leary of, courtships, battleships and partnerships."

Smith began working at the hotel in 1972. "I started by doing a little bit of everything. I started doing a food wagon in the Crow's Nest, and went on to open up the steak house with Ralph Lorenz."

How is the Botsford Inn different from the Mayflower Hotel? "The thing that was unique about the Mayflower was Ralph Lorenz," Smith said.

"We worked very closely together, he was eager to share with me the tricks of the trade so to speak, his expertise and way of handling the customer and taking the customer's position and insuring quality and consistency," Smith said.

"He had a unique package, good food, good atmosphere, there was no substitute for his recipe for handling his customer."

After resigning, Smith went to see Botsford Inn owner John An-hut and became general manager of the Botsford Inn. "He was a good friend of Ralph's for many years and a friend of mine."

"We talked at great length. He sat down with me and worked out a deal for me that I could live with, he recognized the fact I appreciate the Inn and the history."

"It's a wonderful place that's filled with a lot of great history, it's a national historic landmark. Every inch of the place is covered in history, and I love the idea of preserving something so unique for others to enjoy. I really feel it is my mission."

Built in 1836, the inn was once owned by Henry Ford, who bought it to keep it from being torn down when Grand River was widened.

"I want to be the person to preserve it for the next 50 years," Smith said.

Asked if he plans changes at the Botsford Inn, Smith said his main intention is to preserve the inn's historic image.

Lansing hip deep in education plans

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

"Chaos reigns." In two words, a school lobbyist summed up four months of work on 30 school reform bills by 148 legislators, scores of staff, the governor and the top brass of the Treasury Department.

The lobbyist asked to remain anonymous so he wouldn't irritate lawmakers. But few of them would disagree. After repealing $6.7 billion in school property taxes in two days in July, the Legislature has neither put together a package of replacement taxes nor agreed on how to improve public education.

Take the Senate special committee on school finance, which last week almost broke down as its eight members split in three directions.

Three Republicans — chair Joanne Emmons of Big Rapids, Harry Gast of St. Joseph and Robert Geake of Northville — were ready to vote on one of Gov. John Engler's proposals, a 16-mill statewide business property tax.

Two Republicans — David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Doug Carl of Utica — offered different plans on state spending cuts and replacement taxes.

Three Democrats — John Kelly of Grosse Pointe, Joe Conroy of Flint and Virgil Smith of Detroit — wouldn't vote for any tax increases until Republicans backed off some of the school reform proposals such as charter schools.

Honigman pushed his own plan: $1 billion in state general government cuts, half going to help "at-risk" pupils, the other half going back to taxpayers; a five-year freeze on government spending at 1993-94 levels, except for education; and half of all growth in state tax revenues going into education.

"I think this committee has come to the end of its productivity," said Emmons, who has Engler's old mid-state Senate seat.

Middle ground

The House Education Committee, on the other hand, was moving toward compromise. The two Bills who co-chair the panel — Democrat Keith of Garden City and Republican Bryant of Grosse Pointe — dumped Engler's "charter schools" idea in favor of a less radical "academy" system.

Result: Conservative Republicans and labor-oriented Democrats jumped off the wagon as it headed down the middle of the road.

A House plan to give more school districts local tax opportunities pleased suburban districts. Engler wants to give only 35 top-spending districts local-option taxes, insisting he wants to get administrators and school boards out of the millage campaign business.

Suburban school people also are concerned about cuts in state aid for adult education. Currently state aid for adult ed is $285 million a year, but there is a move to cut it entirely. A Senate bill puts adult-ed aid at $150 million — "better than nothing," said the anonymous lobbyist.

MEA fights back

At Schoolcraft College in Livonia last week, teachers union and PTA leaders rallied in support of public schools and against Engler's charter and voucher plans.

Julius Maddox, Michigan Education Association president, said Engler's "overwhelming concern is how cheaply we can educate children, not how well." Maddox said the best thing Engler and lawmakers can do is "mandate a high-quality core curriculum for every child," fully funded by the state and implemented by "site-based decision-making involving teachers and parents."

If a charter-schools law were passed, the state or a school district could charter a group of teachers or a non-profit company — but not a church-affiliated group — to set up a specialized school in a union-free environment with many state regulations removed.

The teachers' unions denounced Engler's proposal to "privatize" non-teaching functions such as transportation. Engler sees "competition" from business as leading to lower costs.

Olympics coming

The Western Wayne County Special Olympics coaches are planning practice sessions for its 1993-94 track and field and softball throw seasons. Practices are held 5-6 p.m. on specific dates at the Western Wayne Association for Retarded Citizens building parking lot, 35000 Van Born, just east of Wayne Road in Wayne. Practice dates for the rest of this year are Nov. 10 and 17 and Dec. 1 and 15. Others will be held two days a month through April and three days in May. The coaches are also looking for a gym or other large room to hold track practices as well as volunteers to help at practices. Interested persons may contact the ARC office, 941-5956.

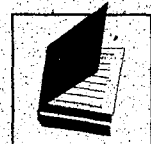

Hospice benefit

Hospice Services of Western Wayne County, Inc., will present "Friday Night Live — a Gala Benefit" at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 12, in the Holiday Inn, on Ten Mile near Grand River, Farmington Hills. Scheduled to appear in the benefit are the Churchill High School Show Choir and the Schoolcraft College Vocal Jazz Ensemble as well as local performers. The organization is based in Garden City and serves western Wayne County suburbs. Tickets are $35 each and available by calling the hospice office at 522-4244 or its satellite office in Plymouth, 459-0548. There will be a dinner, cash bar and door prizes.

Parenting education

The Wayne-Westland Family YMCA, which serves Garden City, will open its next six-week parenting education session tonight (Thursday) at the Y, 827 S. Wayne Road. The program will continue from 7-9 p.m. the next five Thursdays, through Dec. 16. There is a fee, but scholarships are available, said a Y spokeswoman. The video/discussion program will cover elimination of power struggles between children and parents, development of a child's pride and inner strength, effective communications, building of strong relationships, and teaching responsibility through logical consequences. Interested persons may call the Y, 721-7044.

Council delays plans for library

The Westland City Council wasn't quite ready Monday to approve plans to build a public library. Council members said they feared that plans to use specially designated TIFA tax dollars would prevent them from controlling crucial aspects of the project.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A city library proposal stalled Monday amid fears that the Westland City Council might lose the authority to make crucial decisions about the long-awaited project.

The council moved ahead with a public hearing on the issue, but delayed for two weeks a decision on the proposal.

Council members raised concerns that they could be shut out of final decisions about contractual issues such as where the library will be built. They fear crucial decisions could be made unilaterally by an appointed city board, the Tax Increment Finance Authority.

Council members appear to agree that they want to use taxes collected in a special TIFA district to build a Westland library. But they have asked city attorney Angelo Plakas for an opinion on whether the TIFA board could decide library issues without council approval.

Since 1986, certain taxes collected in the TIFA district have been set aside for improvements in the district, which is generally north of Ford Road and west of Wayne Road. The council is considering an $8.9 million TIFA amendment that would allow construction of a library and several smaller projects, such as the resurfacing of Wayne Road between Warren and Joy.

The city currently has no library, but owns part of one that it shares in Wayne with the city of Wayne. Many Westland residents also use libraries in Garden City, Canton Township and Livonia.

In delaying a decision, the council wants to be assured that it will have the final authority for such decisions about where the library will be built.

During the public hearing portion of Monday's meeting, council observer Dorothy Smith raised concerns that the library won't be centrally located. She also questioned how the city would pay for operating it.

"A lot of people still believe there is a Santa Claus somewhere and that somebody else is going to pay for that library," Smith said.

The city can levy a 1-mill operating tax without seeking voter approval, but council members have said they still want to place any library tax on the ballot. Councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli stressed that she doesn't want to see a library built and then no money to operate it.

Cicirelli noted that Canton Township built two schools and couldn't open them this year after voters rejected a school tax proposal.

No decisions have been made about seeking Westland voter approval of a library tax. Voters have twice rejected a library tax, but the last vote was eight years ago.

Library board member Sharon Clark lashed out at Smith on Monday, saying, "I am sick of hearing her, at every (council) session, get up and put down this library."

Smith later responded that she is not against a library, but still has questions about the project.

Also Monday, Councilman Thomas Brown requested an audit of all TIFA monies in the next two weeks, to ensure that the TIFA fund actually has $8.9 million that could be allocated for the library and other projects.

The library project would replace an earlier plan to use $8 million in TIFA monies for a multi-level parking garage at Westland Center. A proposed expansion of the city's largest retail mall has been discussed for two years, but has never materialized.

Homeowners can breathe easy now that pythons are goneBY CHRIS MCCOSKY
STAFF WRITER

The folks in the Devonshire subdivision in south Livonia, especially those on MacIntyre Street, can relax. The snake scare is over.

When Daniel Wyatt's son returned home from California a few months ago, he brought with him a pair of 15-foot Burmese Pythons. Needless to say, some of the neighbors were alarmed.

"You couldn't be at ease," said neighbor Dan Winegarden, more amused than bemused. "Every time I went out of the house I'd look around for them. I must have cut my hose in half three times with a shovel thinking it was a snake."

The snakes, and Wyatt's son, have moved on again. And the snakes won't be back. At least not legally.

At the urging of city council member Laura Toy, city attorney Harry C. Tatigian dug deep into the city's library of ordinances and pulled out Section 8.24.050, which basically says that wild animals, birds, snakes and bees that are deemed a hazard, danger or nuisance to the public health, safety or comfort cannot be kept in the city.

Tinted windows don't shield driver from cops

Having tinted windows in his car may turn out to be more expensive than one motorist thought.

An Inkster man was stopped Sunday night on Hanover near Middlebelt, in Westland's far southeast end, when a police officer noticed that the man's car had illegal tinted windows.

When police learned the driver had a suspended license, they patted him down and also learned that he had a loaded .22-caliber revolver and bullets, Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

The suspect, identified as James Thomas Wright, 49, was arraigned Monday in Westland 18th District Court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in a motor vehicle, which Stobbe said is punishable by up to five years in prison upon conviction.

Wright was placed in custody in lieu of a $2,500 bond. He has been ordered to return to court next Thursday for a preliminary examination to determine if he should stand trial on the charge.

Hawaiian dancers

Performance set: The Dancing Cousins, made up of four Hawaiian dancers, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at the State Wayne Theater, on Michigan Avenue west of Wayne Road, as part of the city of Wayne's series of live shows for families. The cousins — theatrically and literally — are Nicole and Erica Hermatz, Amanda Carroll and Krista Kordie. They are students at the American Dance Academy in Garden City. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3.50 for children and retirees. The series will continue on Saturday, Nov. 13, Nov. 20 and Dec. 18 and a four-performance show Dec. 9-12.

429 run to benefit Annapolis Hospital

Annapolis Hospital's third annual Red October Run attracted more than 400 running enthusiasts, including elite runners and families with children.

The recent run raised $5,500 for the Wayne hospital's neonatal intensive care unit. All entry fees and pledges collected by some runners made up the total amount.

The 8-kilometer male and female winners both are three-time champions for the Red October Run.

Detroit's Ella Willis has been a national record holder and had a time of 28:54. Thomas Preiss, who has joined the run every year from North Canton, Ohio, had a time of 26:48.

Dearborn's William VanVelzor, 72, was the oldest runner in the benefit. Martha Krisciunas, 68, of Canton was the oldest female runner.

The event also featured a 2-mile fun, fitness and competitive walk that anyone could participate in. Winners were Sally Malak of Trenton and Marty Cadwell of Detroit.

For the first time, the event featured a Junior October Run for kids age 12 and younger. All received ribbons and prizes.

Some local sponsors who have supported the event for the past three years are Jack Demmer Ford, Kroger and Leo's Jewelry & Gifts.

Annapolis Hospital is a 276-bed, full-service community hospital serving western Wayne County. Annapolis also operates the Annapolis Hospital-Westland Center, on Merriman south of Palmer, which provides behavioral medicine services. Both Annapolis facilities are members of the Oakwood health care system.

Fix the problem Keep politics out of meetings

Now that Tuesday's mayoral and city council elections are over, it's time for the council members to correct a problem.

The problem, the Observer feels, is that during election periods far too much time is wasted during the "citizens' requests" portion of the twice-a-month city council sessions on issues not related to city business.

The problem surfaced several times in the past few months as supporters of Mayor Robert Thomas and challenger/council president Charles Pickering abused the "citizens' requests" segment of the council meetings to critique political fliers and take potshots at mayoral candidates.

Clearly, that has no part of council meetings and it limits residents' right to comment on city business matters.

That segment of the council agenda is meant for residents or business persons who have a specific problem with a city policy, regulation or action (or inaction) of a specific department.

But why should that time be wasted by residents who don't like the tone or content of a political flier? If the campaign material is that upsetting, residents should contact the candidate instead of wasting time at the council business meetings.

During the past few months, the problem was difficult to resolve because the council president who chairs the meetings was himself a mayoral candidate.

The council, which will have two new members following Tuesday's election, and its leadership, should set guidelines so that residents are raising concerns about legitimate city business and not just reviewing candidates' campaign fliers.

The change should be in place before the next election in 1995.

Schools will miss Posey

The Wayne-Westland board of education and the community will miss Leonard Posey when he leaves the school board within the next seven months.

Posey, who was named to a board vacancy nearly four years ago, is already the highest-seniority member of the board.

The disclosure that he may resign in the new few months, or at best, serve out his term which expires next June 30, was prompted by Posey getting a job promotion which requires him to spend more time out of state.

Since he was named to the board in December 1989, he has demonstrated that he has the best interests of students at heart.

While the Observer occasionally disagreed with Posey on strategies during millage increase elections campaigns, it has never questioned his motives, integrity or intelligence.

He lent a touch of civility and credibility to the board at a time when it was sorely needed.

Posey also made history as the first African-American board member. He represents a growing segment of the school community and has done it well.

The district, particularly students and parents, will miss him when he leaves the board.

Congratulations, Mr. Archer.

Now the ball is in our court.

Throughout his campaign, Dennis Archer promised a new era of city/suburban cooperation.

On Tuesday, a majority of Detroiters responded to his message by making Dennis Archer their new mayor.

In doing so, Detroit residents began dismantling the barriers that for so long have divided our region.

Those barriers must now come down in our suburbs, too.

That means you Robert Bennett, Donald Fracassi and James Kelly. As mayors of Livonia and Southfield, and supervisor of Redford Township, you must pledge — as Archer has — to a renewed spirit of cooperation.

That also means you Billie Ireland, Jeddy Hood and Fred Korzon.

No longer can you assume that just because Rochester Hills, West Bloomfield and Bloomfield Township are physically — and economically — removed from Detroit that their fate isn't tied to that city's survival.

And that means you, too, Ed McNamara and L. Brooks Patterson.

As leaders of Wayne and Oakland counties — the other two members of metro Detroit's Big Three — you must also pledge yourself to a new regional vision.

A combined city/suburban bus system is but a start. Mass transit, bringing suburbanites downtown and city residents to suburban jobs, is a key to our region's revitalization.

McNamara favors this approach. Mr. Patterson, you must now do so as well.

There's more — and it won't be easy.

The ongoing battle for greater suburban control over the city's water system rages on. And the new mayor has more than enough other issues to keep him occupied with safe streets and new business and job opportunities at the top of the list.

Yet the hardest issues will be decided not across the conference table but in our homes, our schools, our shops.

Archer's election, coupled with and the already blooming renaissance of Detroit's entertainment district, should bring more suburbanites downtown.

But are we ready to really welcome Detroiters into our communities, our shopping malls, our parks and our downtowns?

Yes, the issue comes down to race.

We have reached a precious, fragile moment in our region's troubled history.

That's exactly what it is — a moment.

If we let it pass, our isolation — and our region's ultimate demise — will be irreversible.

And we'll all know why. We can no longer blame Detroit or its leadership. It's now up to us.

Let's honor veterans

For many Americans, Veterans Day is a special day to honor those who gave their lives in battle so the rest of us could enjoy the many freedoms we hold so dear.

But in my mind, Veterans Day is special because it gives us the opportunity to honor the living, to say thank you to the millions of decent men and women who have so proudly worn the American uniforms of freedom and democracy.

Time and time again, America's veterans have put their lives at risk to defend our nation's interests around the globe.

While serving their country, generations of Americans have been guided by a simple credo exemplified by the words duty, honor and country. To these men and women, those words have a real meaning.

To me, and millions of veterans like me, serving our nation was a duty that we never questioned, and it was a duty that we'd gladly perform again if our nation needed us.

During our service years, regardless of when we may have served, our actions were always guided by a strict code of honor, a code of honor that remains a fundamental element of our lives to this very day.

And as veterans, we love this country dearly and stand behind all the good that our nation represents. We also take pride in knowing that no other group of Americans has done more for this country than Veterans.

So, on this Veterans Day, let's vow to do our duty to honor America's living Veterans for all they've done for our country, and let's make sure our actions speak louder than our words.

On this Veterans Day, our mission is challenging, but we must not waiver. We must join as one to remind each other, our neighbors, and our government that no one is more deserving of our gratitude, our support and our commitment, than our nation's veterans.

We have an obligation that goes beyond simple rhetoric, we stand here — as citizens and as soldiers united — on the 11th day of the 11th month.

There are many who need us, and they must be able to count on us. Whether it's service in the community, or advocacy on veterans' behalf in the halls of Congress, we have our duties to perform.

America has an enormous debt of honor to her veterans, as Americans, whether we're Veterans or not, we are part of that national debt, part of that national obligation.

Just as veterans lived by that simple credo of duty, honor and country — we as citizens of this nation must now adopt the same credo as we strive to repay our awesome debt to veterans.

So, this is our call to arms, on this special Veterans Day — and every day — we must accept our duty and honor our veterans.

the Gores and Congress not the first volunteers for the grand experiment? Why is the American public swallowing this socialized medicine plan which has already failed in so many other countries? Why are providers hysterically racing to join alliances which they know full well will provide lesser quality care?

Have we all gone mad? Do we not see? Do we not hear? Do we not care? Are we so impotent?

Homeowner upset

Recently I walked past Woodrow Wilson School on Wildwood (near Palmer) and saw five teenage thugs vandalizing the school roof. I called the police I told them that if any of those kids fell and were killed that I didn't want my tax money to pay for the bills.

It's not our fault that those delinquent parents let those truculent kids up on those roofs. The police said that I had a bad attitude. I guess I should feel happy that these bums are willing to have us foot the bills for their recklessness.

At about 6:45 the police did apprehend the kids. These kids are violating our pocketbooks. This kind of vandalism happens all over the state. We have had enough of this bovine liberal mentality.

Law insults child

Recently a young couple in Boston was convicted of manslaughter for denying medical treatment for their son, relying rather on faith healing. The boy died of a bowel obstruction.

Could anything like that happen in Michigan? Not only could it happen here but denying a child medical treatment on religious grounds is the "law of the land." I quote from Michigan Act 238 of 1975. "A parent legitimately practicing his religious beliefs who thereby does not provide specified medical treatment for a child, shall not be considered a negligent parent." That law legalizes child abuse and should be repealed. To add insult to the child the law is titled "Child Protection Law."

POINTS OF VIEW

Motorist is frustrated by absence of car horn

I consider myself terribly disadvantaged when I'm behind the wheel. You see, due to a mechanical glitch, I have no horn to honk.

My car is 10 years old and well-used. It had no horn when I got it. My husband, a mechanic by trade, says he can't fix it until he finds another car of the same year and model at the junkyard so he can get the parts he needs. This is mechanic's jargon for "Don't hold your breath, baby."

Any mechanic's wife will tell you that she is usually the last person in her husband's life to get car repairs done. So instead of hoping for a horn in the near future, I've channeled my energies into the activity of trying to see the humor in my situation.

My inability to honk has become a major point of frustration for me. I am a vocal person, and when I'm behind the wheel, a horn is just a natural extension of this tendency. More than just a safety device used to warn another driver about to make a fatal mistake, a horn is a tool of self-expression with which I signal my distaste and distrust of certain fellow drivers.

When another motorist makes a bonehead move in front of me, I am compelled to lay on the horn to let the driver know how truly offended I am. But alas, I cannot honk. So I yell. Big deal. The other driver can't hear me no matter how loudly I curse, which is good. I am normally mild-mannered, but in the privacy of my own cockpit I can make Coleman Young sound like a clergyman. I don't encourage the use of bad language, but without a horn to make my feelings known, I must vent my anger somehow.

I've given up on the use of obscene gestures. This is more because of their lack of effectiveness than my own embarrassment at sacrificing my dignity. Disdainful hand signals depend on one's ability to make eye contact, a trick often difficult in traffic.

The last thing I want to be guilty of is causing an accident during a dare-devil attempt to gain the attention of an offending driver. Such actions would only place me on the level of the drivers I scorn. So I drive on, delivering my blistering monologues for no one but myself to hear.

According to my husband, I have no horn because someone disconnected it in favor of a newer model turn signal. The kind of person who could choose to be hornless is an alien personality to me. I guess a horn is just not necessary to some people's driving habits. But when some imbecile cuts me off on the road, I know I'd sooner signal manually forever than forego my horn for one more day. My own mother could not give a hoot about whether her car has a horn or not.

"I have driven my car for years without ever having heard my own horn," she says, in astonishment at my obsession. It's hard to believe that I am of the same flesh and blood as this woman.

My husband's truck has two horns, which might explain why he is so slow about repairing mine. He has reached horn saturation and cannot bring himself to care about my situation. My spouse's vehicle has a standard factory issue horn on the steering column, yet he has added a semi-truck sized air horn, with compressor, to his average Ford pickup.

He uses the air horn for the same purposes I would, but he delights in his horn's big ostentatious blast. He frightens the shorts off his victims, evident by the way they swerve and struggle to regain control of their cars. I know there is something Freudian about my mate's need to possess this really large horn.

But I suppose Freud would also say that I suffer from a kind of horn envy, though I really only lust for a factory issue horn of my very own. The air horn is too powerful to be placed in my hands.

Feminist readers will not be happy to hear me admit that there are certain days when I should not have my finger on the button of a compressed air arsenal. A simple, straightforward horn is all I seek. Someday I'll get one. In the meantime I'll wait impatiently, but I won't hold my breath.

Engler shifts taxes, responsibility

What," asked the TV interviewer, "does Gov. John Engler really want to accomplish with his school reform program?"

It was unusual for a newsman like me to be answering questions for a half-hour. But the property tax cut, replacement taxes and school reform have been occupying my daytime working hours, my evening reading hours and my dreams (nightmares) for four months. I was prepared.

First, Engler wants to cut the cost of government.

In his campaign, he argued in effect that Michigan has Chivas Regal tastes and beer income. He sees high governmental costs as a burden on business. Like dear ol' daddy's whiskers, government is always in the way. His view is similar to classical economist Adam Smith ("Wealth of Nations").

He is diametrically opposed to Alexander Hamilton and former Gov. Jim Blanchard, who saw government as a tool for economic growth, not an impediment.

On paper, Engler's method of school finance would cost $300 million less than the current system. "Promises made, promises kept."

Second, Engler wants to shift the cost of paying for schools from local districts to the state.

He is 100 percent correct in pursuing this goal. Michigan's Constitution, a document too few of us read, makes a free public education a constitutional right. It also says establishing and paying for public schools are duties of the Legislature. There is no such thing as "local control" over schools — local districts are mere creatures of the state. There is no such thing as "parental control" — that's an invention by ideological right-wingers.

Along the way, Engler set up another goal that was entirely within Michigan's constitutional tradition. He sought to wean counties, cities, townships and villages from the $1 billion nipple of revenue sharing. He proposed to give them new taxing tools that they would wield themselves.

Politics being politics, Engler, alas, had to modify the idea drastically.

Third, Engler wants to trim the power of the Michigan Education Association and other unions.

In my interview with him last winter, he accused our suburban school board of being entirely too lavish with double-digit pay increases. He wants a union-free environment for charter schools. He wants teachers' union membership to be voluntary. He wants school boards to be free to buy health-care benefits from someone other than MEA.

TIM RICHARD

The state Constitution provides a free and public education under the responsibility of the state Legislature. There is no mention of "local control" or "parent control." Gov. Engler is correct in urging the state to take over more of school financing.

Personally, I think the MEA has been getting a dirty rap from Forbes magazine, Mackinac Center (which reprinted the Forbes attack and circulated it to every paper in the state) and many critics. The man who coined the term "National Extortion Association," in Forbes' headline, advocates teaching Latin (which none of our trading partners speak) and McGuffey's Readers (no thanks — I've read McGuffey).

But MEA leaders are an integral part of the Democratic Party. MEA is no friend of John Engler's, even though a hefty minority of MEA members vote Republican. So MEA must be prepared to take its knocks.

Fourth, Engler wants to placate the religious right within the Michigan GOP.

That's where his public school bashing comes in. The religious right's candidates got 45 percent of the vote against Engler's picks at the 1992 state GOP convention. It now controls many county and district organizations. Engler would rather deal than fight 'em.

An attention-getter

What is L. Brooks Patterson up to now? It seems that everyone understands what's going on except your editor (Judith Doner) Berne. Her lack of understanding of the "McPhail endorsement" is as much an embarrassment as her unfounded name-calling was in bad taste.

Anyone who genuinely cares about the survival of Detroit would applaud any effort to neutralize the desperate act of one candidate playing the "race card." Brooks Patterson did not ask to be dragged into the Detroit mayoral race. Although he said as much, the candidate and the media wouldn't listen because it suited their purposes. So Brooks got their attention and, say what you like, the Rev. Charles Adams has retracted his racist comments and the whining over the supposed suburban influence has stopped. More importantly, the candidate and the media are focused on the important issues that face the city.

Obviously, Mr. Patterson's timing and sense of place were superb.

Legislators opt for chaos over revising school plan

When the state Legislature passed and Gov. John Engler signed the famous Senate Bill 1 eliminating property taxes as the 1994 funding base for Michigan schools, most folks reacted with a mixture of hope and alarm.

They hoped the political establishment, facing financial meltdown at the certain loss of nearly $7 billion in revenue, would be forced at long last to do something far-reaching about both finance (unequitable) and quality (poor).

They were alarmed that a combination of special interests, ideological bickering and partisan positioning would make it impossible to get anything sensible and coherent adopted before chaos sets in.

Chaos in this case is scheduled to descend near year end. In order to put a sales tax proposal on the ballot in February 1994, legislative agreement must be reached some time this December. Otherwise, school districts will begin running out of money next March because they can't borrow against the July 1994 property tax revenue that SB 1 eliminated.

With fewer than 60 days to go before the Dec. 31 deadline, alarm is gaining ground on hope.

Best evidence: Last week the special Senate committee working on school finances threw up its hands and adjourned, unable to agree on anything.

Conservative Republicans, infuriated that Engler's plan doesn't include a big tax cut — their reflexive cure for whatever ails the body politic, are sitting on their hands.

Legislative Democrats, under pressure from the teachers unions, are pretending — against overwhelming evidence that spending on schools has increased enormously with little corresponding gain in achievement — that nothing's basically wrong with the system.

The two people most responsible for bringing things to this situation — Gov. Engler and Debbie Stabenow, a Democratic senator and candidate for governor — have produced nearly identical funding proposals.

PHILIP POWER

Both would provide all school districts with an identical per-pupil base grant, to be funded by a mix of property, sales, income and nuisance taxes. Perversely, the governor's proposal would most increase funding for rural school districts whose students are doing relatively well in the MEAP test and shortchange urban districts where children are performing poorly.

To top it off, there are signs that Engler's reelection team has polling data showing voters in wealthy districts in Oakland County — Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Troy — don't much like what the governor proposes to do to their locally supported schools.

Readers with long memories will recollect that Proposal A, the 2 percent sales tax rate hike, was defeated last June by precisely such suburban voters. They also will remember that it was by running well in precisely such suburban districts that Engler won his upset victory for governor three years ago.

These voters are the folks who for years have been willing to pay the taxes required to sustain the quality of their schools. They don't understand why their schools and their children now should be put at risk by the political system.

And I don't blame them one bit.

Engler's charter school plan in peril

 STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler and state Senate Republicans are in deep trouble with their "charter" and "choice" school reform plans.

Trouble spots: Two Republican senators Tuesday refused to support the bills, and a third, tugged at the party reins for hours.

Democrats won't give the GOP any votes toward the two-thirds majority (26) needed to put any tax reform plan on the ballot unless the GOP tones down the "charter" and "choice" plans.

"There will come a time when you'll need us, but the wheels will be off the buggy," Democrat Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills warned Republicans, who hold a 22 to 16 paper majority.

"We're not going to vote to fund something we don't agree with," said Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Lansing, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate. "You want to dismantle public education."

"I asked a bipartisan working group that would sit down quietly and not observe the Open Meetings Act to discuss what direction we'd go," said Democrat Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor. She praised David Honigman of West Bloomfield as the only Republican willing to negotiate.

Union tactics
 Republicans barely got the 20 votes they needed to pass the charter schools, schools of choice, teacher tenure and teacher bargaining bills Engler wants.

Two Republicans jumped ship — maverick Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville, who said the charter school plan should be tried first on a pilot basis, and arch conservative Doug Carl of Utica, who didn't want charter schools to be covered by "outcomes-based education." Both voted no.

In addition, freshman Sen. Phil Hoffman, R-Jackson, voted against the "choice" plan, sending it to defeat on the first try. Embarrassed GOP leaders called a caucus late in the afternoon and worked on him for two hours before Hoffman, known to be friendly to unions, switched to a yes vote.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats are using a union collective bargaining tactic — nothing, not even minor bills, will be agreed to until the entire package of school bills is agreed to.

Republicans can pass the quality bills Engler wants in the Senate by using party muscle. But placing on the ballot a constitutional amendment raising the state tax limit and sales tax rate will require 26 votes. So at least four Democrats — and maybe six or seven — must support that measure (Senate Joint Resolution S).

"If you want to do the quality votes by yourself, you're going to have to do the tax votes by yourself," warned Senate Democratic floor leader John Cherry of Clio.

The Democrats' message: No 26 votes for the finance package unless the "charter" and "choice" bills are negotiated.

"Ultimately," Cherry continued, "we're going to turn over the process to the House by (Republicans) jamming this package through because they (House leaders) are going to reach a compromise."

He referred to last week's deal between the co-chairmen of the House Education Committee — Democrat William Keith of Garden City and Republican William Bryant of Grosse Pointe — to junk the charter school idea in favor of less radical public school "academies."

Tie bar rejected

On a straight party line vote, Democrats lost an effort to "tie bar" the quality bills to SJR S, the constitutional amendment.

The most controversial measure (Senate Bill 896) would allow charter schools — special schools chartered by public agencies, receiving state money but not subject to the teacher tenure and collective bargaining laws.

All local senators voted with their parties.

Republican Dillingham, who has repeatedly broken party lines this year, said he favors the charter idea, "but it should be tried on a limited pilot project basis. We run the risk of increasing the cost of public education dramatically" if many of the 200,000 pupils in private schools shift to public charter schools.

Gubernatorial hopeful Stabenow called charter schools "a backdoor way to fund private schools. It allows any state agency or person to set up something called a charter school. It treats students as customers."

A second bill (SB 872) would exempt charter schools from teacher tenure laws. Faxon called it "clothing for the corpse," predicting charter schools never will become law. Dillingham objected that the bill "sets up a two-tiered system" for teachers.

SB 878 prescribes separate collective bargaining units for charter school teachers.

Faxon fired a long list of objections at the choice bill, a lengthy amendment to the 1976 school code.

"I'm appalled at the suddenness and immediacy of the changes."

His suburban districts will be saddled with new administrative costs but get just 1 percent more revenue.

Teacher certification rules are eased. "For the first time since we started certifying teachers at the normal schools in the 19th Century, we're permitting decertification — unprofessionalizing. It's a cynical approach to education."

The role of school building committees is unclear — "a profusion of confusion. Who represents the people? The elected school board? The committee? Who knows?"

The five Senate bills will be referred to the House Education Committee, which is working on its own versions.

Can Lady Ocelots repeat?

Tom Teeters is a well-established paranoid, so hearing him speak disparagingly of his Schoolcraft College volleyball team's chances to capture a sixth-consecutive NJCAA Region 12 title is expected.

Unfortunately for the Lady Ocelots, it may also be accurate.

SC hosts the 17-team regional tournament, which starts at 5 today and continues through Saturday. That, and their history of success, may be the Ocelots' only advantages.

They enter the tournament as the No. 8 seed. Top billing goes to Southwestern College; Henry Ford CC is No. 2, followed by Muskegon, Mott, Vincennes (Ind.), Lakeland (Ohio), Kellogg and SC. Other participants: Sinclair (Ohio), Cuyahoga (Ohio), Lake Michigan, Macomb, Kalamazoo Valley, Lansing, Oakland CC, Clark State (Ohio) and Delta.

The Ocelots open their defense at 6 p.m. today against Lake Michigan. Should they win, their second-round match (11 a.m. Friday) would probably be against top-seeded Southwestern.

The opening match of the double-elimination tournament is at 5 p.m. today, between Cuyahoga and Sinclair. The winner advances to play Southwestern at 7:30 p.m.

There are three other 6 p.m. matches today: Mott vs. Macomb, Lansing vs. Lakeland and Delta vs. Henry Ford. The other three 7:30 p.m. matches today: Clark State vs. Kellogg, OCC vs. Muskegon and Vincennes vs. Kalamazoo Valley.

Winners of the 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. matches advance to 11 a.m. matches Friday morning. The next round for the winners after that is at 5 p.m. Friday. Saturday's championship rounds begin with two matches at 10 a.m., followed by one at noon, one at 2 p.m. and, if necessary, one at 4 p.m.

For SC to succeed, Teeters said "our defense has to be much more consistent. That word — consistent — keeps coming up. That's the key. For us to win, we have to be consistent."

WMU's Hixon honored

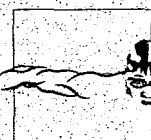

Pierre Hixon, a senior cornerback for Western Michigan University's football team, from Wayne Memorial, was co-recipient of the Mid-American Conference's defensive player of the week award.

Hixon made seven tackles, forced a fumble and intercepted a pass in WMU's 20-7 win over Army.

Stevenson eyes ultimate prize

■ Livonia Stevenson is ranked No. 2 in the latest Class A girls statewide coaches poll. The Spartans are aiming for their first-ever state girls swim crown.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It's that time of year again for the Livonia Stevenson High girls swim team to stand up and be counted.

"I guess when you're ranked second or first in the state it would be enough recognition," Stevenson senior captain Jill Knapp said, "but nobody in the school seems to know what's going on."

While the boys soccer, girls basketball and even the resurgent Stevenson football team have grabbed most of the headlines this fall, the Spartan girls have quietly run the table this season, winning nine straight meets.

They've been ranked No. 1 by the Michigan High School Swim Coaches Association in Class A, while currently standing No. 2 in the latest statewide poll behind Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central.

There's talk this could be the year that Stevenson wins its first-ever state girls swim championship. The Spartans will get their chance Nov. 19-20 at Eastern Michigan University.

Traditionally rated among the state's top 10, Stevenson has come close, but never won the coveted title. Coach Greg Phill guided the Spartans to a third-place finish in 1986, his first season as head coach. Stevenson also finished second twice under legendary coach Lois McDonald.

"We could win it, but so could six others and maybe more," said Phill. "No team really stands above the rest."

"Last year nobody could touch Ann Arbor Pioneer and they knew it. But you can't make that statement this year. It's going to be very interesting, a real good battle."

Phill lists Pioneer, Forest Hills Central, Troy, Rochester, Rochester Adams, Birmingham Seaholm, Birmingham Groves and even Dearborn as legitimate championship contenders.

So far five Spartans have met state qualifying cuts, including senior Mandi Falk, who won the 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke at last month's MISCA meet. The others include Knapp, sophomores Tina Caranicolas and Kelly Carlisle; and freshman Ann Aristeo, who placed second in two MISCA races and leads Observerland in five different events.

All three relay squads have also qualified.

"We're hoping to get eight additional qualifiers," Phill said. "The only thing this team is lacking is a real (freestyle) sprinter, but we may even have a 100 (freestyle) qualifier."

Stevenson, boasting a squad of 61 members, entered 21 swimmers in Wednesday's preliminary races at Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

The Spartans are expected to run away with another WLAA team title on Friday in the finals at Plymouth Salem.

Offensive line key to Glenn playoff run

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It's time the guys in the trenches stand up and take a bow at Westland John Glenn.

Where would the Rockets be without their front seven?

Probably not in the Class AA-Region II playoffs, which begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Glenn. The Rockets (8-1 overall), making their sixth post-season appearance under coach Chuck Gordon, take on Adrian (7-2) in a pre-regional matchup.

"It all starts there," said Gordon of his seven blockers. "It's a special group that doesn't get much recognition."

"We're going to have to run the ball at times and give protection for our quarterback (Brian Morrison). If this group has a great game, I think we have a chance to beat them."

The Rockets average 215 pounds per man on the line.

Seniors Bryan Besco (6-1, 195) and Mike Bint (6-3, 210) give

Glenn a tough combination at tight end. Both also start at line-backer on defense.

"Mike's always been a big guy, and we look for big things from him," Gordon said. "He's starting to be a dominant blocker and is really coming only like a three-year varsity player ought to be. He's also excelled at line-backer. He just makes things happen."

"Bryan can play wherever you put him. He can run the counters and reverses and is an excellent receiver. He can do just about everything. He's a guy with excellent feet and a good blocker."

Matt Schwartz (6-0, 240), a second-year starter, and Tom North (5-11, 240), have given Glenn solid play at the tackle slots. Both are seniors.

"Matt has been outstanding this year," Gordon said. "You can count on him every week. He's a good practice player."

"Tom has been a pleasant surprise. He's a competitor. He's a guy who plays hard and has a bit of a mean streak to go with it."

Glenn features a Mutt-and-Jeff combination at guard.

The team's biggest offensive lineman is senior Geoff Midowski (6-5, 250), while the smallest is junior Jim Lock (5-7, 175).

"Geoff has been a solid player," Gordon said. "He's always been a big kid with tools, and now he's begun to get confidence."

"Lock is very steady. We saw in the spring that he was a tough kid with good feet and balance."

The key, however, is center Tony Tabone, a 5-11, 200-pound senior.

"He's the biggest surprise of the group," said the Glenn coach. "At one time he wasn't in the plans, but he's developed good work habits and made himself a player. He's the key. He's the one who gets the group going."

Adrian scouting report

The Maples, who qualified as the fourth-place team in Region II, lost twice during the regular season (to Ann Arbor Huron and Pioneer).

Coach Al Romano features a wide-open offensive attack, led by quarterback Dave Ritz, a 6-1, 185-pound senior.

"I'm impressed with him," Gordon said. "He's a veteran and an excellent passer. He can also run the option, but he's had an ankle problem and I think it slowed him. When he's healthy, he's quite a talent."

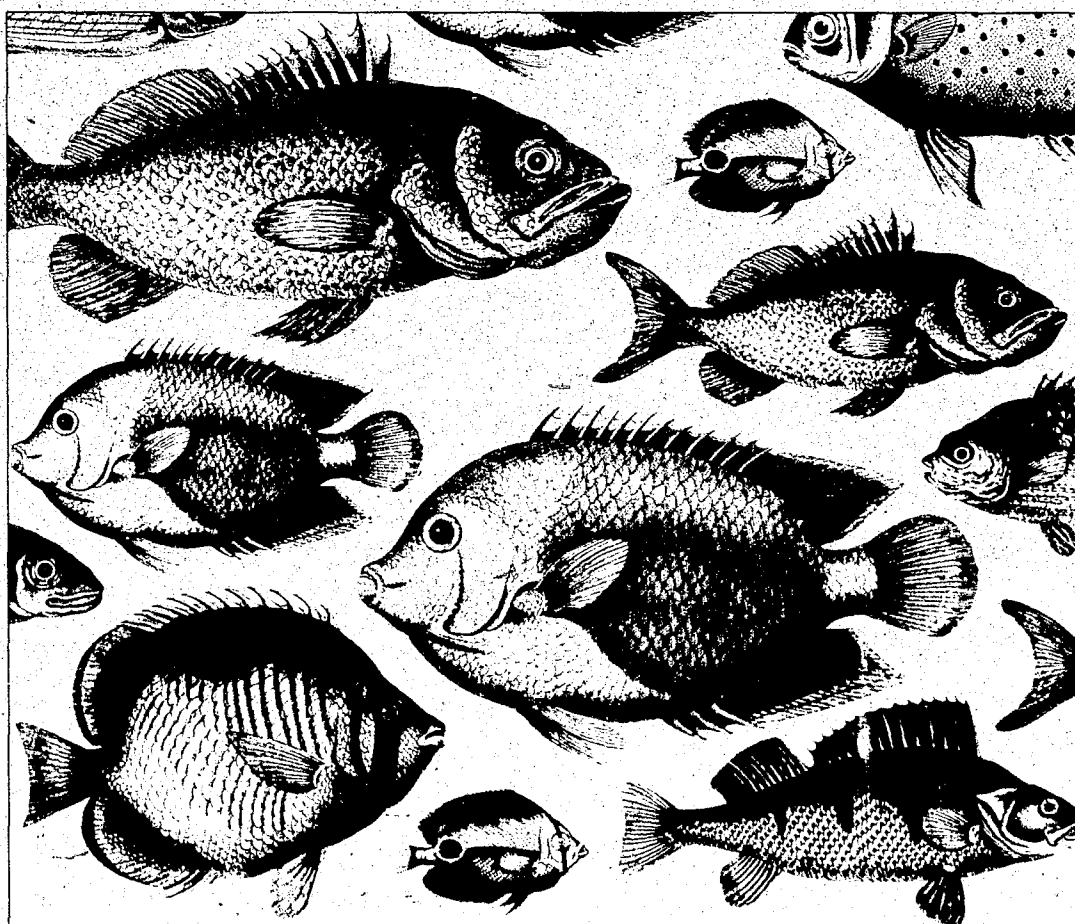

Slot-backs Chad Bilkey (5-8, 160) and Jared Timko (5-9, 160) give Adrian a speedy combination. Fullback William Henagan, a 6-foot, 215-pound junior, provides hard-nosed running and blocking.

"They spread you all over the field and that creates a problem," Gordon said.

Favorable draw awaits Ocelots

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

If there was ever a time to be optimistic regarding Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team, this is it.

The Ocelots boast their best team ever, at least since Van Dimitriou was named head coach in 1989. They take an unbeaten record (13-0-1) and a No. 5 ranking in the NJCAA with them to this weekend's Inter-regional Tournament, hosted by McHenry County College in Crystal Lake, Ill.

SC also has the easiest draw in the four-team tourney. College of DuPage (Chicago), ranked eighth in the NJCAA, takes on 10th-ranked Lewis and Clark (St. Louis) at 11 a.m. (CST) Saturday. The Ocelots play unranked Bethany Lutheran College (Minneapolis), a team that has never beaten them in three tries, at 1 p.m. (CST) Saturday.

The championship match will be at noon (CST) Sunday.

Everything points favorably to a trip to the NJCAA Tournament Nov. 18-21 in Trenton, N.J. But not so fast — the Ocelots have been in this position (although not so strongly) before and disappointed.

Reasons for prior failures vary, from poor offensive performances to poor officiating. Such excuses cannot psychologically affect the Ocelots if they are to succeed, but they should not be ignored, either.

"I told the boys, 'In big games, how many goals did we score?'" warned Dimitriou. "There's no question we score a lot of goals, but we miss a lot of opportunities, too. In games like this, you won't get as many good opportunities, so we have to take advantage of them."

SC will be aided by its offensive diversity, however; Dimitriou could not recall any of his previous players scoring 20 goals in a season. This year he had two — Fadi Bazzi (27) and Matt Lividini (25), and another, Vince Troiani, netted 17.

But as any playoff-bound team will attest, defense makes the difference, and in the past that is where SC has been lacking. Dimitriou's attacking, pressure-style of play can leave defensive holes that opponents can exploit. SC's top marking defenders, Bill Lanspeary and Tim McCarley, as well as stopper Matt Lee and sweeper Billy Joker, will be tested.

Dimitriou is confident in his defense. "I know for a fact that our defense will keep us in the game," he said, noting his team's 102-6 scoring advantage this season. "How well we finish our opportunities will be the key factor."

SC hosted DuPage earlier this season and posted a 2-1 victory. What interested Dimitriou as much as his own team's win was DuPage's tie against Macomb the next day; DuPage's performance was much worse. If the Ocelots face DuPage in Sunday's final, Dimitriou is convinced his team's superior depth will be a factor.

Experience could help SC, too. Several starters — Lanspeary, Lividini, keeper Matt Stabile, midfielders Tim Lampi and Andy Cosenza — played in the Inter-regional last year. More importantly, Joker was part of the '90 team that won and made the only trip a Dimitriou-coached SC team ever made to the NJCAA Tournament.

Lampi has an ankle injury which could keep him out. Joe Perron has proved to be a suitable replacement, however.

"The guys are absolutely focused," said Dimitriou. "No ifs, ands or buts about it. Our opponent better be at full strength or we'll find their weakness and exploit it."

■ SC 4, FERRIS STATE 0: The Ocelots got the scoring they needed from well-established sources in completing their undefeated season Saturday at SC.

Two Matt Lividini goals and a third from Fadi Bazzi gave them a 3-0 half-time lead. Lividini completed the scoring with the only goal of the second half.

Matt Stabile was in goal for the shut-out.

Although they scored four times, Dimitriou wasn't completely satisfied. "We hit the crossbar three times," he said. Lividini hit it twice, Bazzi once.

SC women's team hosts Central College in 1st round

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

There's just one goal. Schoolcraft College women's soccer coach Nick O'Shea would like for his team to accomplish this season: Finish with a record better than 500.

Do that, and all the other problems would melt away. Of course, should the Lady Ocelots manage it, they would be NJCAA champions.

It may sound far-fetched, considering SC's 4-6-3 final regular-season record. But O'Shea doesn't believe a four-game winning streak — which would have to start at 11 a.m. Saturday, when the Ocelots host Central College of Kansas in an inter-regional match — is unthinkable.

"The junior college competition is not that awesome; this year," said O'Shea, whose 1987 team captured the NJCAA title. "It's less than average, strengthwise."

"I don't know if we're that far away. We played the best teams evenly."

The teams expected to contend for the title are Monroe (N.Y.) CC, which SC tied in the first weekend of the season, and Florissant Valley (St. Louis) CC, which defeated the Ocelots 2-0 at midseason.

Of course, the road must start against Central College Saturday. SC has played Central twice and won both: 3-0 in an inter-regional playoff two years ago and 4-1 in a regular-season match last season. O'Shea is confident of success once again.

But his own team concerns him as much as the opponent. The Ocelots' inability to play with the confidence of a winner has been a major flaw.

"I still don't have any leaders," said O'Shea. "There's still no take-charge person on the field. When I tell them what the problem is, it creates doubt in them."

And that shows in their performance. It also makes it easy to define what the Ocelots need to succeed.

"We need two things to do well," said O'Shea. "Get one and we could still do well."

"We need a leader, a take-charge person or group of people. If we get that, it could make a difference. Then if things start to go wrong on the field, there would be someone to help maintain (our poise)."

Deren's last-minute goal advances Stevenson, 3-2

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Nick Deren is a big-play forward for the Livonia Stevenson soccer team, but his game-winning goal Wednesday will be hard for even him to top.

With the score tied 2-2, Deren's header with a minute remaining gave the Spartans a 3-2 win over Plymouth Salem in a Class A regional game at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Stevenson (16-1-3) will play Pioneer (16-1-2) for the championship at 7 p.m. Saturday. Salem finishes with a 12-7-2 record.

The Spartans moved the ball up the left side on the counterattack, and Craig Wimmer crossed it to Deren from the corner. Deren touched the ball lightly and tapped it over the head of Salem keeper Paul Dood.

"I've been slumping; I needed that," said Deren, who was scoreless in the last two games. "I've never played so bad and been so lucky. I knew I couldn't be stopped three games in a row."

"I've been setting guys up instead of finishing. I got a chance to finish tonight, and I banged it home. I tried to finesse it because (Dood) saw the cross and was out of position."

Stevenson took a 2-1 lead at 14:01 in the second half when Scott Sersen converted a penalty kick after Steve Williford was taken down in the far left side of the box.

"I thought they got all the breaks," Salem coach Ken Johnson said, adding he thinks Stevenson will get to the state final. "I thought the penalty was a bad call. The boys said he was outside, and he wasn't going to shoot."

"If they don't have the penalty, we would have been leading 2-1 in the last minute. It's a shame one like that is going to cost you the game."

Salem tied 2-2 when Doug Herriman scored his second goal with another assist from Scot Buczek. Herriman drilled the rebound after Stevenson keeper Mo Lan speary failed to hold Buczek's shot at 7:10.

"Salem played a very tough game," Deren said. "We expected that because we beat them the last time and knew they wanted revenge. We pulled it out in the nick of time. This was our toughest game all year."

Deren assisted on the first Stevenson goal, centering the ball for Artie Knack nine minutes into the game. Herriman's header off a corner kick tied it at 17:05 in the first half.

"In the first half, we were over-anxious, kicked the ball and didn't play under control," Stevenson coach Walt Barrett said. "By not being under control, that gave Salem the edge."

"In the second half, we loaded the field with skilled players and, amazingly despite a strong wind at our back, carried most of the play."

"We used nearly our entire bench, and it really helped the morale of the team and sparked us emotionally. This was a classic Stevenson victory, because it took everyone we had, it was done with a lot of heart and we never quit."

HILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Spartan hero: Stevenson's Nick Deren, shown in a recent game, has scored a last-second goal three times this season for the win or tie. Deren's header beat Plymouth Salem in Wednesday's regional semifinal, 3-2.

Kyles sparks Warriors

Lutheran High Westland finished its 1993 football season on a winning note Saturday, clobbering visiting Grosse Pointe University-Liggett, 39-7.

The Warriors (3-6) rolled up 349 total yards, all on the ground.

Jelani Kyles, a 5-foot-10, 149-pound junior tailback, averaged almost seven yards per carry, rushing for 153 yards. He scored three touchdowns on runs of 16, 1 and 18 yards.

Kjel Skov, a 5-11, 155-pound senior, added 70 yards in six attempts, including TD runs of 39 and 8 yards. Mark Mashburn, a 5-8, 149-pound sophomore, picked up 76 yards on five carries.

Matt Baltz added a 1-yard TD run in the third period to give the Warriors a 26-6 lead.

Offensively, Liggett (0-9) was limited to 141 yards rushing and 39 passing.

Linebacker Troy Smith, a 5-10, 181-pound senior, was in on 17 tackles to lead Lutheran High.

Junior linebacker Jason Bayush, who kicked three extra points, added nine tackles.

THURSTON 41, CLARENCEVILLE 0: Redford Thurston forced six turnovers and limited Livonia Clarenceville to three first downs, all in the first quarter, to win the season finale on Saturday at home.

The Eagles, members of the Mega Conference Blue Division, finished with a 6-2 overall record but failed to qualify for the Class BB playoffs. Clarenceville finished 4-5 overall.

Linemen Bryan Washington, Elie Heise and Joe McFarland led the defensive pursuit and the Trojans failed to complete a pass in seven attempts.

"Our defense was all over them and played with a lot of intensity," Thurston coach Bob Snell said. "We were a little bit down because of the playoff situation but happy our defense was able to control the play."

Thurston led 28-0 at halftime. The Eagles scored on their second possession, capping a four-play, 63-yard drive with Steve Davanzo's 3-yard touchdown run. Pete Quinn ran 21 yards and Davanzo 18 to set up the score. A two-point conversion pass from Brian Siriani to Dave Head gave the Eagles an 8-0 lead.

After a short Clarenceville punt, Thurston went ahead 14-0 with Tom Dunny's 40-yard run near the end of the first quarter.

Thurston recovered a fumble at the Clarenceville 18 and Dunny scored on the next play. Quinn intercepted a Clarenceville pass at the Trojans' 33 and two plays later, Quinn scored from the 4. Thurston held a 28-0 lead at halftime.

In the second half, Kevin Parsell threw a 24-yard TD pass to Jeff Lance and Quinn capped a nine-play, 39-yard drive with a 5-yard run to finish the scoring. Dan Ochoa's interception set up the last score.

Quinn finished with 100 yards on 10 carries and Dunny gained 84 yards on five attempts.

Luck of the Irish?

Maybe next year, oh Danny Boy O'Meara.

It's time to celebrate St. David's Day in November as yours truly, the accurate Welshman, is the newly crowned king of high school football prognosticators.

Emons finished the year with an overall record to 103-27 (79.2 percentage) after going 9-4 during the final weekend of action.

O'Meara, who didn't have enough four-leaf clovers in his pocket, relinquishes his title after four years. O'Meara finished 94-36 (72.3 percent) after a go-for-broke 8-5 weekend.

And you know what they say for 1994? Better luck next season.

DC upsets Ladywood

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Ladywood took one on the nose Wednesday night in the Catholic League girls basketball semifinals.

A scrappy and inspired Dearborn Divine Child squad pulled off a 49-44 upset of the Blazers in the second game of a double-header at Schoolcraft College.

The Falcons (12-6 overall) will take on Birmingham Marian (15-2) for the A-B Division crown, 4 p.m. Sunday at the UD-Mercy's Calihan Hall.

Ladywood (13-3) had beaten DC in two previous Central Division meetings this season, 68-56 and 58-44. In those games, Ladywood junior forward Tara Overaitis scored 25 and 24 points.

On this night, Overaitis was held to only 14 points (three of 11 shooting).

To make matters worse, the Ladywood star suffered a broken nose during the waning seconds of the game.

"We did a great job against Overaitis because she's the key," DC first-year coach Mary Lou Jansen said. "We knew we had to keep her below 20 points."

"It's kind of a gimmicky defense that seems to work for us."

BASKETBALL

DC led the entire first half, but Ladywood rallied to take a 36-34 advantage after three quarters.

The momentum, however, shifted again as the Falcons went on a 10-2 run to start the fourth.

But a rebound by basket by 6-foot-4 Anne Poglits cut the deficit to two, 46-44, with just 48 seconds left.

DC's Carrie Carpenter made three straight free throws in the final 37 seconds to seal the verdict.

Michelle Glud and Mary Murray scored 13 and 10, respectively, to lead the Falcons.

"This is a huge win," Jansen said. "We haven't beaten Ladywood since we joined the Central Division."

The Blazers shot only 31 percent from the floor (14 for 45).

"They doubled- and triple-teamed Tara (Overaitis)," Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh said. "Offensively, we just can't rely on her. We have to have others step up and score."

"We got good shots, ones they we should have put down easily. Confidence-wise we're just not there."

CROSS COUNTRY

Lutheran Westland, CC headed for state finals

Lutheran High Westland took first place at Saturday's Class C boys cross-country regional at Marshbank Park.

The Warriors, who had the fastest harrier and three of the top 15, scored 72 points to finish ahead of second-place Goodrich (73).

The Warriors were hoping to finish in the top three to earn a trip to the state meet. They missed out by one place a year ago.

"Looking at last year's regional results and what we've done this year, you say, 'We have a shot,'" Lutheran Westland coach John Gerlach said. "But it's an unknown school like Goodrich you have to look out for. We knew nothing about Goodrich."

Sophomore Brad Polkinghorne won the individual race, finishing the 5,000-meter course in 17 minutes, 20 seconds.

"At the mile mark he was in about a five-man pack, then at the two-mile mark, it was a two-man race and Brad wanted it more," Gerlach said. "He just ran on all desire. His heart is something else and he's willing to go through pain."

Sophomore Phil Kimmel took 12th (18:22) and junior Chris Tiernan was 15th (18:25). Junior Jon Schmoll placed 21st (18:44), sophomore Sam Patterson was 24th (18:50) and sophomore Jason Collins took 20th (19:02).

The Warriors aren't predicting their finish this Saturday at the Class C finals at Candlestone Golf Club (hosted by Lowell).

"They're all just names from all over Michigan," Gerlach said.

In the girls regional, Lutheran Westland's Angel Azzopardi qualified for state with a 22nd-place time of 23:41.

Shamrocks qualify

Sophomore Joe Leo finished third in the individual race Saturday as Redford Catholic Central qualified for the Class A state meet with a third-place finish at the Marshbank Park regional.

Ann Arbor Pioneer and Huron took one-two with 27 and 87, respectively. CC had 95.

Leo finished the course in 16:30 and his brother Mark Leo was 11th (17:04). Phil Camilleri was 24th (17:27), Matt Sroczynski took 26th (17:27), Jeremy Short, 31st (17:39), Brian Smith, 49th (18:08) and Mike Danic, 51st (18:12).

The Class A state meet is Saturday at Saskatoon Golf Course in Ada. (Grand Rapids Christian High is the host school.)

ROUNDUP

"We qualified and that's the main thing," CC coach Tony Magni said. "You've got to get there first. It's nicer to be second but our first goal was to qualify. Now we've got to focus on what to do Saturday."

Smith was usually CC's third through fifth runner during the dual-meet season but he hasn't been able to shake a lingering cold and run at 100 percent the past few weeks, according to Magni.

"He should be running with Phil and Matt and hopefully by this Saturday he'll be 100 percent," Magni said. "He's one of our co-captains, and he's working hard to get better."

Monroe and Ann Arbor Pioneer are the favorites to win the state meet.

"Everyone says it'll be a two-team race but you can't count out Milford Lakeland, Traverse City or Brighton," Magni said. "For us to be in that class we'd have to run our best meet, all five kids. But if someone would have told me Mike Mittman would win last year's state meet, I would have doubted him. I saw a team in 1985, Utica Eisenhower, come in unranked and win it."

MacKinnon regional champ

Livonia Stevenson's Bridget MacKinnon captured the Class A regional individual race Saturday at Marshbank Park with a first-place clocking of 19:13.

West Bloomfield's Jackie Rothberg was second in 19:20.

Plymouth Canton's Lana Boroditsch, who beat out MacKinnon for the Western Lakes individual title, was eighth in 19:58.

Plymouth Canton won the girls team crown with 80 points. Farmington Hills Mercy (117) and West Bloomfield (119) also qualified for the state meet.

Blazers finish 3rd

Livonia Ladywood, led by Chrissy Johnson's third-place in 20:40, took third in the team standings Tuesday at the Center Line Freshman-Sophomore Classic.

Other Blazer finishers included Shannon Swish, eighth (20:53); Jackie Urbanczyk, 27th (21:37); Julie Browne, 28th (21:41).

Belleville captured the team title.

Stevenson has posted the top time in Class A in the 400 freestyle relay (3:41.55). Three of the four legs have been settled, but Phill says "there's a real battle for the fourth spot."

"It's nice having a deep team," Phill said. "There's a lot of competition. That's why we've been able to swim fast all year."

How far and fast can the Spartans go?

"Winning the state? It's a possibility," said senior captain Karin Carlisle. "Our main goal is to place in the top three, and that's a little more realistic. But we would love to be the first team to win a state (swim) title at Stevenson."

Diver Jennifer Sabina, who ranks second in Observerland, and is favored to make it out of the Brighton regional, says the team is fully aware of its expectations.

"We don't want it to become a Kim Zmeskal thing," she said. "We don't want it to be so much pressure that it's all or nothing."

"We're not going in with the attitude that we're going to win. We're just going to try and do our best."

Falk, meanwhile, also takes the humble Barry Sanders approach when talking about state aspirations.

"We want confidence without arrogance, that's our coach's motto," she said. "This has been our hardest year practice-wise. He (coach Phill) doesn't want us to move back."

But even with a business-like approach, the Stevenson girls just want to have fun.

Last Friday, Phill ordered out pizzas and let the team taper off in preparation for Friday's league meet.

"With 61 on the team it's hard to know everyone on a personal basis," Karin Carlisle said, "but we do a lot of fun things together."

"It brings team unity. Everybody here supports each other. It's just as important to have the whole team there at state (meet) because then everybody wins."

Ladywood records shattered in duals

Livonia Ladywood's 70-23 dual-meet swim defeat Tuesday to host Farmington Hills Mercy wasn't a total loss.

The Blazers' Kara Fagnani set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly with a second-place time of 1:06.07.

Ladywood, which slipped to 9-2-2 overall and 2-2 in the Catholic League, also got firsts from Andrea Delle-Monache in the 200 individual medley (2:26.5) and Erin Worden in the 100 freestyle (1:00.1).

On Oct. 28, Ladywood dunked host Bloomfield Hills Kingswood in a dual meet, 54-32, as Delle-Monache set a school mark in the 30 backstroke (10:09.8).

SWIMMING

Delle-Monache also teamed up with Jennifer Gallant, Worden and Fagnani to win the 400 freestyle relay (4:11.1).

Gallant was an individual double winner, sweeping the 200- and 500 freestyles in 2:21.1 and 6:20.0, respectively.

Other Ladywood firsts were recorded by Worden, 50 freestyle (26.99); Fagnani, 100 butterfly (1:07.2); and Amy Root, 100 breast stroke (1:26.1).

The foursome of Lyndi Paling, Jessica Ghazal, Fagnani and Worden also captured the 200 medley relay (2:06.1).

Spartan subs stand out

Livonia Stevenson received help off the bench in the first half and used a strong fourth quarter Tuesday night to beat visiting Birmingham Country Day, 54-45, in a nonleague girls basketball game.

The Spartans, previously ranked in the top 10 in Class A, improved to 16-1 overall. Country Day, ranked eighth in Class C, fell to 12-3 overall.

Senior guard Mo Drabicki, who scored 53 points in her last two outings, was held to eight points, but managed seven rebounds, five steals and seven assists. She sat out most of the second quarter after picking up her second foul and coach Wayne Henry used reserves Katie Groulx, Katie Downarowicz, Lori Amey, Jenny Smith and Jenny Dulz to maintain a slim lead.

The Spartans led 26-23 at halftime.

"The reserves played a lot in the first half, they didn't score a lot but they did what was needed defensively to let us stay in the flow," Henry said. "The way Country Day defended Mo, she did what she had to do and we worked the ball around more."

Sophomore center Stacey Nichols scored 14 points with eight rebounds, junior forward Ann Marie Aquino scored 11 points with six rebounds and Kim Olszewski added 10 points, six rebounds and five assists. Aquino scored eight points in the fourth quarter when the Spartans outscored the Yellow Jackets 17-11 to build on a 37-34 lead after three periods.

Junior guard Jill Van Tiem added seven points and 10 rebounds.

Katie Kerr, a sophomore forward, led Country Day with 14 points.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 49, C'VILLE 39: Lutheran High Westland forged ahead in the second quarter with a 14-7 advantage and held on to win the Metro Conference game at home against Livonia Clarenceville.

The Warriors are 12-5 overall, 8-4 in the Metro.

Wendy Roy scored a game-high 26 points with 13 rebounds for Livonia Clarenceville, which fell to 3-13 overall, 3-9 in the Metro.

Lutheran Westland led 20-18 at halftime after trailing 11-6 after one quarter. The Warriors outscored the Trojans 15-9 in the third quarter to go ahead 35-27.

Lauren Horton scored 12 points with 12 rebounds for Lutheran Westland. Amy Gentz added eight points and Jenny Twietmeyer contributed seven.

NOVI 56, CHURCHILL 43: On Tuesday, the visiting Wildcats outscored Livonia Churchill 21-2 in the first half and it's a good thing since the Chargers erupted the rest of the way to make the score respectable.

The Chargers, who trailed by only five with two minutes remaining, fell to 3-14 overall. Novi, which made 18-of-24 free throws, improved to 12-5 overall.

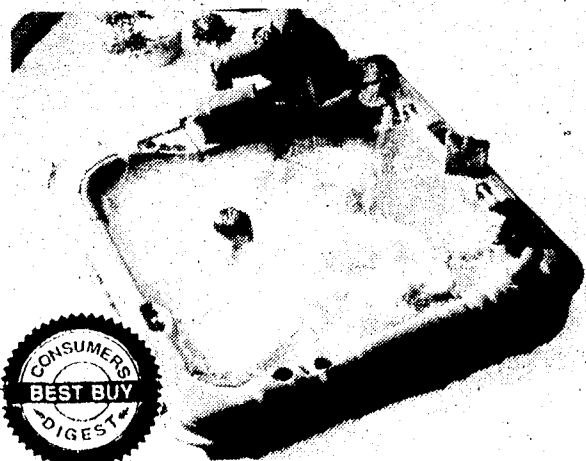

Churchill outscored Novi 13-6 in the second quarter to trail 27-15 at halftime. Churchill was outscored 12-5 in the third quarter before holding a 23-17 advantage in the fourth quarter.

Senior Kristin Kenny led Novi with 12 points. Junior guard Anne Roulo scored 11 points and sophomore guard Alicia December contributed nine.

REDFORD UNION 53, WAYNE 32: Redford Union won for the 13th time in the last 14 games and gained at least a share of first place in the Mega Conference Red Division standings with Tuesday's win over visiting Wayne Memorial.

Trustees say WRC serves men too

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW

Should Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center be more properly named the Student Resource Center?

College trustees Harry Greenleaf and Steve Ragan think that perhaps the center should be renamed to reflect the fact that its mission includes men, too.

"We should not discriminate," Greenleaf said at a board meeting last week. "There are a lot of people out there who find themselves displaced."

Greenleaf said he still supports the center but believes it should eventually grow beyond tailoring services to women only.

Center director Nancy Swanborg, who made a presentation to the board of trustees at its last meeting, said that changing the center's name would drive women away.

"There would be many women who would feel this isn't a place for them," she said. "Many women would eliminate themselves from this kind of resource."

Ragan, who chairs the Schoolcraft board of trustees, said the name Women's Resource Center gives the impression that "this is kind of a place where men aren't welcome."

The center provides emotional and financial support to women who unexpectedly find themselves on their own again in middle age and must earn a living.

The center has a paid staff of seven, 45 active volunteers and an annual budget of $256,000. Since 1987, 158 women who used the center's "Displaced Homemaker Program" have gotten jobs.

Greenleaf and Ragan argue that, even though the need to provide women with help in college remains, there are now a lot of men who could use help, too.

"There are so many displaced workers now," Ragan said, "people who never expected to find themselves out of work. Maybe the college needs to have a more expansive vision."

Trustees Mary Breen and Patricia Watson agreed that Greenleaf has a good point, but they're not ready to change the center's name, either.

"I don't know what the answer is," Breen said. "For many years women had the problem of being displaced and having no place to go. Maybe we need an outlet for men as well."

Watson said Greenleaf has "a good point, (but) I would be concerned if we lose some of the women we service now. You wouldn't want to alienate the women."

It might be a good idea, Watson said, for the center to add some programs that would appeal almost exclusively to men.

Trustee Richard DeVries said everybody should have a resource center of his own. "I guess I'd like to have a men's resource center, retirees resource center and students resource center (in addition to the Women's Resource Center)," he said.

But DeVries concedes there's probably not enough money to have that many centers.

Parks plan light show

Wayne County Park System will present a Festival of Lights on Hines Drive, the longest drive-through light show in Michigan, Monday, Nov. 22 to Sunday, Jan. 9.

The four-mile drive will feature gigantic displays of animated toys, a North Pole village, snowmen, larger-than-life skiers and ice skaters, a Loch Ness monster and many other winter and holiday items.

The event is a fund-raiser for the parks system. A donation of $5 per car is requested.

The light show will be on display 7-10 p.m. seven nights a week (closed on Dec. 25).

At 6:30 p.m. Hines Drive will be closed to through traffic. Festival of Lights traffic will enter Hines Drive at Merriman Road and proceed one-way past displays to exit at Outer Drive or Warren Avenue.

"This premier holiday light show will be the biggest and most brilliant in the Detroit metro area," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "It also marks the beginning of several exciting events that will celebrate the 75th anniversary of our unique and historic Wayne County Park System."

Local community groups will share in the fund-raising by helping with traffic control, staffing a refreshment stand, a small Christmas store and a Christmas tree lot.

For general information or bus tour information, call the parks department at 261-1990.

Candidates sought for SC board

Schoolcraft College is looking for a new trustee to replace Michael Burley of Canton Township who resigned effective Jan. 26.

Eligible applicants must live in the Schoolcraft district which encompasses the school districts of Plymouth/Canton, Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville, Northville and a portion of the Novi Community Schools.

The appointee will serve from February 1994 until June 30, 1995. A regular election will be held in June 1995.

Applications are available in the college president's office or by calling 462-4420. The campus is on Haggerty Road just south of Seven Mile. The deadline for returning applications is 4 p.m. Jan. 5, 1994.

Madonna recital set

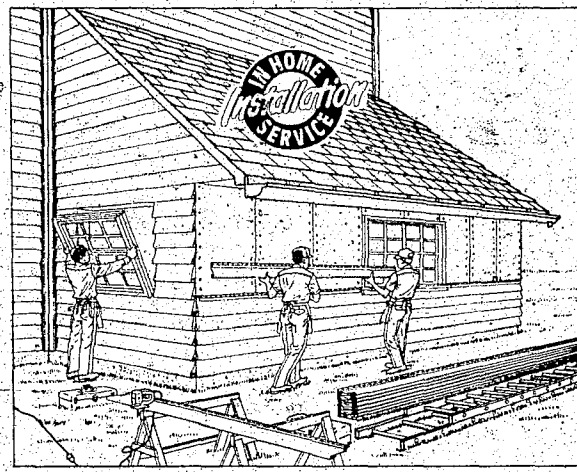

The Madonna University Music Student Recital will begin at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21, in Kresge Hall.

It's free. Call 591-5183.

The event will feature flute players Deborah Malinowski and Kattie Keller, both students of Donna Kallie.

Madonna is located on the northwest corner of Schoolcraft and Levan in Livonia.

Venus, Jupiter 'dance' entertains skywatchers

SKY WATCH

RAYMOND E. BULLOCK

This will be an incredibly active month for skywatchers; a variety of events will delight the eye. Unfortunately, there will be a few other rare events which will not be visible from our area.

One of the highlights of November will be a month-long dance between two of the brightest objects in the sky: Venus and Jupiter. During November, a bright star, the moon and the planet Mercury will get into the act.

On Nov. 5 the moon will be located midway between Castor, the head of one of the twins (above and to the right of the moon), and Procyon (below and to the left of the moon). Procyon (PRO see on) is the brightest star in the constellation of Canis Minor, the Little Dog, and the eighth brightest star in the entire sky.

Notice also the distance between Venus and Jupiter on the morning of the 5th. A mere five mornings ago they were eight degrees apart, and Jupiter was very close to the horizon. Now the two objects will be just three degrees apart, and, on the morning of the sixth, will be two degrees apart.

Mercury will be at inferior conjunction with the sun on Nov. 6. Mercury will be located between the earth and the sun and will not be seen. In fact, Mercury will be nearly exactly between the earth and the sun and a transit of Mercury will occur.

A transit is the passage of a smaller body across the face of a larger one. Of the major planets, only Venus and Mercury can transit the sun. The smaller body is seen as a silhouette on the face of the sun. Transits of Mercury are fairly rare; on average there are 13 transits of that planet per century. (The last was in 1986, and the next will be in 1999.) Unfortunately this transit will occur at 10:06 p.m., at which time the sun will be nowhere to be found in the Michigan sky. To see the transit, you'll have to be in India, Southeast Asia, China, Australia or New Zealand. (When the moon "transits" the sun, a solar eclipse occurs.)

The moon will be at last quarter phase at 1:36 a.m. on Nov. 7. It will be starting the last-quarter of its orbit around the earth and will be visible high in the south-southeast at dawn. The bright star to the left of the moon will be Regulus, the "heart" of Leo the lion. On the following morning the moon will be directly below that star.

Venus and Jupiter will have their close conjunction ("grouping") on the morning of the 8th. The two bright objects will be only one-half of a degree apart (about one full moon diameter). Venus will be passing to the left of Jupiter. The next morning they will be three-quarters of a degree apart, and the distance will increase rapidly during the rest of the month.

Notice Spica, above and to the left of the two planets. At the beginning of the month the three objects formed a triangle. Now they will be in a nearly straight line.

The moon joins the Venus-Jupiter-Spica grouping on the morning of Nov. 11. The moon will be above and to the right of Spica, and that star will be midway between the moon and Jupiter. On the next morning the waning crescent moon will form a triangle with Venus and Jupiter.

Mercury officially will be in the morning sky by this time; a line drawn from Jupiter through Venus will bring you to Mercury, but that illusive planet will be only two degrees above the horizon. It will be better placed for viewing in just a few more days.

New moon will be at 4:34 a.m. on Nov. 13. The moon will be located between the earth and the sun and will not be visible. As in the case of the transit of Mercury, the moon will be located nearly exactly between the earth and the sun and there will be a partial solar eclipse. The bad news is this eclipse, just like the transit of Mercury, will not be visible from our area, but the view from Antarctica could be nice.

Mercury will be one degree to the left of Venus before sunrise on Nov. 14. Venus, which will be much brighter than Mercury, will dazzle the eye. Mercury has been zipping between the earth and the sun during the month, but on the 14th it will appear to be stationary then will begin to draw closer to the sun. Venus is also drawing closer to the sun, but it's ahead of Mercury in that respect. This will result in Mercury remaining very well placed for observing while Venus becomes more difficult as the weeks pass.

The waxing crescent moon will be visible in the evening sky on the 15th. Look toward the southwest horizon around 5:50 p.m. On the 16th the moon will be higher in the sky, within the constellation of Sagittarius the archer.

Coming up next time: Mercury remains extremely well-placed for viewing in the morning sky for 1993, the Leonid meteor shower peaks and there will be a total eclipse of the moon.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar," available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824. A one-year subscription is $7.50.

Actress has 'curious' role in children's play

If you're curious about whatever happened to Roberta Willison, daughter of David and Mildred W. of Bloomfield Hills who moved to New York to pursue an acting career, you'll find out Nov. 6. Willison stars as Marie, the girlfriend of the "man in the yellow hat" in a musical version of the beloved children's tale, "Curious George," 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6 and 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 7 at Youtheatre at the Music Hall Center, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit.

For ticket information, call 963-2366. Tickets go on sale the day of the performance, one hour before curtain time.

Willison has been on tour with the Theaterworks/USA production since Oct. 6, and just rolled into town from Alabama when we talked on the phone. "Curious George" fans won't recognize Marie as she was written into the show. "She's a very talented composer," said Willison. "This is the very first tour of 'Curious George.' It's a very playful show. George is a gymnast, he does a lot of tumbling and walking on his hands. I think everybody is attracted to the curiosity George manifests."

"It's also a very good story about family reconciliation. There's a scene where George runs away from home, and anger is expressed. Then there's forgiveness at the end of the play when the family comes together again, and this reaches the children strongly."

Cranbrook Music Guild continues its season 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9 in the library of Cranbrook House with a recital by pianist Leszek Bartkiewicz. A native of Poland, Bartkiewicz is now based in the metropolitan Detroit area. A gold medalist in the 1980 Lugano International Master Players Competition, Bartkiewicz was a winner, in his mid-teens, of the 1978 Young Polish Pianist Prize and was the youngest faculty member of the Polish National Music Conservatory. He is active as a teacher and presenter of master classes and made his Orchestra Hall debut in 1987.

For his Cranbrook Music Guild recital, he has chosen a program which includes Haydn's "Eb Major Sonata," Chopin's "Barcarole," and Musorgski's "Pictures at an Exhibition," in its original, piano version.

Series features world-class talent

Musica Viva International Concert Series begins its fifth season Nov. 14 with the legendary Juan Serrano, "King of the Flamenco guitar," and guests.

Enjoy the sounds of Spain without leaving home Nov. 14 when Musica Viva International Concert Series presents a concert featuring Juan Serrano, "King of the Flamenco guitar" with guest artists Isabel Ruiz de Villa "La Chamela" dancer, and singer Marija Temo at Orchestra Hall in Detroit.

"Juan Serrano is back by popular demand," said series artistic director Ginka Gerova-Ortega of Bloomfield Hills. "He's made over 20 recordings and plays to sold-out audiences worldwide."

Joining him will be Spain's leading Flamenco Dancer, Isabel Ruiz de Villa and singer, guitarist Marija Temo.

Flamenco is the oldest and most authentic art form of dancing and singing in Spain. It is a mosaic of Greek, Hindu, Hebrew, Arabic, Pagan and Oriental cultures.

Meet the performers after the concert during a dinner reception at the Townsend Hotel, 100 Townsend Street Birmingham. Tickets include prime seating at the concert, and dinner. Prices per person are — $80 supporter; $100 patron; and $150 benefactor. All proceeds will benefit the Musica Viva concert series. Make checks payable to Musica Viva and send to: Musica Viva, 4955 Malibu Drive, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48302.

As the concert series begins its fifth year, Gerova-Ortega said it wouldn't be possible without the support and dedication of many volunteers and friends of Musica Viva.

Local performers shine in comic opera

MARY JANE DOERR

David DiChiera did not have to travel far to find "acres of diamonds" for Michigan Opera Theatre's season opener at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

Locally, the general director found a superb cast who certainly are not "diamonds in the rough," and mounted an hilarious "Barber of Seville."

Southfield's Ara Berberian was home for the first time this fall, after 16 consecutive seasons at the Metropolitan Opera, to take on the role of the slimy, bribe-taking music teacher, Don Basilio and sing a pulsating, explosive "La calunnia." Berberian performs with natural ease and he looks like a scoundrel.

REVIEW

In the pit, Oakland University faculty member Suzanne Acton made her debut as an operatic conductor. She has always shown a keen ability to transfer her musical knowledge to the MOT chorus over the last 13 years. In the pit, her timing suited the singers.

Acton had her arms and hands full with this show. In the two casts, the leads all had different cadenzas and tempos. For the talented soprano Janet Williams to sing Rosina, a mezzo-soprano role, the key had to be transposed. (Also Williams took some unusual cadenzas.)

Another local talent Claritha Buggs sang a solid "Il vecchiotto cerca moglie." Years ago, Community Programs Director Karen VanderKloot DiChiera, of Beverly Hills, recognized Buggs' talent and hired her for many MOT touring productions.

Detroit's Williams first came to DiChiera's attention at the 1986 Metropolitan Opera auditions. Buggs won that competition over Williams who has since gone on to build what looks like a major operatic career.

Fine acting, but 'Black Coffee' lacks atmosphere for Dame Agatha's satiric observations on class-conscious British life.

The Meadow Brook Theatre production of the 1931 "Black Coffee" never quite takes us to the library of a rich, eccentric English scientist. It has some fine acting, a properly cascading final act and a pleasant set, but it lacks that crucial atmosphere.

Christie's famous detective with "the little gray cells," Hercule Poirot, is called to a country estate to investigate the theft of scientific papers on building an atomic bomb.

Before Poirot and his faithful companion Capt. Hastings arrive, the scientist dies. Has he been poisoned? If so, who did the deed? Was it his playboy son, his mysterious daughter-in-law, his irreverent niece, his talkative sister, his meticulous secretary, the butler or the Italian doctor.

As always the number of likely suspects is large enough and credible enough to keep the audience guessing and Dame Agatha follows the example of Conan Doyle by having Hastings stand in for the rest of us while Poirot soars ahead.

The first, necessarily expository act drugged as the actors seemed to struggle to get into character. The second and third acts moved with more authority.

Eric Tavares goes lightly on the Belgian accent and a bit too heavily on the hesitant Poirot mannerisms. He succeeds in making Poirot a trustworthy confidante and does show the process of the mind at work.

James Anthony is excellent as the eager if bumbling Hastings. His futile attempts to out think his famous friend are the liveliest exchanges in the play.

as the verbose and twittering maiden sister. Her effervescent, unthinking prejudices capture the essence of a certain kind of British bigot.

Paul Hopper is properly nasty as the suspicious Italian with a great clipped Italian accent. Joseph Reed brings needed energy and briskness to the final act as the loveably incompetent Inspector Japp.

The play is not one of the better

'As always the number of likely suspects is large enough and credible enough to keep the audience guessing.'

Christie mysteries having neither the atmosphere of "The Mousetrap" or the intellectual twists of "Witness for the Prosecution." It is notable, however, for two things. It makes some interesting observations on British bigotry. It also deals with the atomic bomb many years before the bomb was perfected, when it was only the subject of so-called juvenile science fiction. Dame Agatha also took a strong anti-bomb position years before the Ban-the-Bomb committee became a fixture of British politics.

Show captures 'That Broadway Feeling'

BOB WEIBEL

The talented cast of singers, dancers and actors in "That Broadway Feeling" put on a lively, entertaining evening of musical theater that you won't soon forget. West End Productions presents an appetizer of sorts from 24 musicals, mixes in a little history with artful staging and, viola! they have a full-course epicurean theatrical delight.

Director, Francine Jo Hachem, is the maitre d' for the evening. Actually, she's a charming ageless hobo, representative of the time when Broadway was nothing more than a skid row. Our friendly, inept bum was there in the beginning and has some kind of memory — at least regarding gossip.

REVIEW

She introduces each musical number with a bit of trivia about the show from which it came. Before creating "Chorus Line," for example, Bob Fosse listened to over 40 hours of taped interviews from performers on why they wanted to be a dancer.

"That Broadway Feeling" celebrates mostly shows from the last 25 years — work such as that of Andrew Lloyd Weber rather than of Rogers and Hammerstein. Songs range from the coolly raucous "The Time Warp" (The Rocky Horror Picture Show) to the highly dramatic "All I Ask of You" (Phantom of the Opera) performed superbly by James Morisi and Cheryl Bubar. Morisi and Bubar double on piano for the show along with flutist, Lorelei Darga.

'THAT BROADWAY FEELING'

Theater: West End Repertory of Livonia, Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, Livonia
Curtain time: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 2 p.m. Sundays, through Nov. 7.
Tickets: $10 general, $8 students and seniors, call 544-4079.

The women in the cast (dressed as nuns) have great fun with the rock and roll revival number, "Holler Than Thou" (Nunsense). The whole cast wonderfully captures the essence of "Les Miserables" and "Miss Saigon" in two medleys — no small feat.

Choreography by Sally Dubats and Ernie Nolan is quite good throughout. As a performer, Dubats is delightfully satirical in "The French Song" ("A" My Name is Alice).

Other standout moments include — Eileen Weiss doing the "Waltz for Eva and Che" (Evita) — Sally Dubats and Linda Piccoli belting out "And All That Jazz" (Chicago) — and Dana Piccoli's rendition of "There Are Worse Things I Could Do" (Grease).

And one suspects there are big things on the horizon for 10-year-old Samantha Pelligrino whose clear-as-a-bell voice was spell-binding in "The Girl I Mean To Be" (The Secret Garden).

Duane Petrosky, Cheryl Bubar and Company close the show in a rather predictable fashion with "Let The Sun Shine" (Hair), but then the cast puts a topper on the evening with a clever curtain call.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

'Look Who's Talking Now' in comedy

They're back. The happy family that was first launched into the movie-going public's heart with "Look Who's Talking" returns with the third installment in the series, "Look Who's Talking Now," opening Friday at metropolitan Detroit movie theaters.

Mollie (Kirstie Alley) and James (John Travolta) first found each other when little Mikey (David Gallagher) was born. As an infant, Bruce Willis supplied Mikey's voice and then Roseanne Arnold came along to supply the voice of his little sister, Julie (Tabitha Lupien).

Now the kids are talking for themselves, but the dogs are getting a little restless.

The Tri-Star Pictures release is directed by Tom Ropelewski, who co-wrote the screenplay with his wife, Leslie Dixon.

glamorous president of a cosmetics firm. While he's jetting around the world, however, Mollie is juggling the role of Mommy with her new position as an elf for a department store Santa.

It's not a good situation, especially when James and Samantha simultaneously leave two canines in her home.

Rocks (DeVito) is a street-smart but house-dumb mutt that James rescued from the pound. Daphne (Keaton) is a pampered poodle belonging to Samantha and who is less than thrilled about living with the Ubriaccos.

The pooches share their opinions about each other eagerly snapping barbs and putdowns.

The family bond is tested in this latest installment as Mikey tries to come to grips with the idea that maybe his parents haven't been telling him the truth about Santa, and Mollie is recovering from the blow that left her without a job and doubting her

Dogs speak up for contest

"Dogs say the darnest things." You know it and I know it, dogs have a way of letting us know what they want and how they're feeling. Send us a picture of your dog, with a caption of what your dog is saying to enter our "Dogs say the darnest things contest."

The first 28 entries will receive a large youth size sweat shirt from the movie "Look Who's Talking Now." The grand prize winner will receive a package with two youth size sweat shirts and an assortment of "Look Who's Talking Now" memorabilia.

To enter, send a snapshot of your dog, with a caption to: Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. For more information, call 953-2105.

If you would like your photograph returned, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Deadline for entries is Monday, Nov. 15.

Contest: Get out your family dog pictures to enter in our "Dogs Say the Darnest Things" contest. Rocks, a mutt with a voice like Danny DeVito, and Daphne, a well-bred poodle who sounds just like Diane Keaton, are an unlikely couple in "Look Who's Talking Now," a TriStar Pictures release.

chemistry," he said. "Dogs and kids are supposedly the bane of filmmakers, but I had wonderful luck. John and Kirstie love animals and kids, and that lent to a spontaneous looseness on the set that set everyone at ease."

"I kept silly with the kids," Travolta said. "Because that's the wavelength they're on. They want to have fun, and if you keep it fun then you keep it light. As soon as you start getting serious, forget it."

The two youngsters tapped for the film have been performing since an early age, but this will be their big movie debut.

JOHN MONAGHAN

He trudges calmly, almost placidly, through the maze of a cornfield cradling an infant in his arms. It's not until he reaches a clearing that we realize that he is one of the survivors of a catastrophic plane crash.

The idea doesn't seem to click with the man either, who flags a cab to drive him to the nearest hotel. He checks in without calling his wife, showers, then lays down for a nap before FBI agents come pounding on the door.

One man's painful recovery from severe trauma is the basis of "Fearless," starring the ever-watchable Jeff Bridges. The well-scripted drama is now showing at the Star John R in Madison Heights, and will open at additional theaters Friday.

When it comes to emotional and heartfelt drama, "Fearless" is pretty exciting stuff. The man, Max Klein, believes that because he cheated death on the plane, he can do it again. He walks out into traffic as beeping cars whoosh by him. He dances high above the street atop a tall building ledge.

The immortality complex doesn't wear well with his family. Wife Laura, played by Isabella Rossellini, has infinite patience with his immortality complex and his withdrawal from her both physically and emotionally. She even tries to understand his often brutal honesty, including his expressed love for a fellow plane crash survivor (Rosie Perez).

Some have speculated that the heavily symbolic "Fearless" is actually a metaphor for midlife crisis. Take away the plane crash and replace it with a traumatic birthday or anniversary and a man like Max might act the same way.

The performances here at top-notch, and not just from Bridges, an actor who chooses his roles as deftly as anyone in Hollywood. Rosie Perez, usually identified by an acid tongue and grating voice, has her most mature role to date as Carla, a devoutly religious young woman trying to come to grips with why her son was taken away from her.

Max, feeling it his duty to save her, takes Carla out to a shopping mall and urges her to buy gifts for the dead child. He, meanwhile, buys a fancy tool set, tying up loose ends with the father he lost through a freak accident when Max was only 13.

Scenes like this shouldn't work in "Fearless," but they do, thanks in great part to director Peter Weir, who sets exactly the right tone. After a string of interesting and commercial films like "Witness" and "Green Card," Weir has finally gone back to the character-motivated drama that made his early Australian films ("The Last Wave," "Picnic at Hanging Rock") so exciting.

Events leading up to the crash are deftly handled in Max and Carla's recurring flashbacks. Max's business partner trying to call home one last time only to find an answering machine, Carla struggling with her child's seat belt, and Max walking over to a little boy sitting alone in the hopes of comforting him. The actual crash is shown in an astoundingly vivid montage.

Scripted by Rafael Yglesias from his own book, "Fearless" isn't always the tightest, especially when it comes to minor characters. John Turturro doesn't have a whole lot to do as the airline psychologist assigned to help Max and Carla overcome their trauma. You also get the feeling that more footage existed between Max and that little boy he was instrumental in saving. Perhaps it's just as well. "One of the greatest strengths of "Fearless" is its dead-on depiction of the legal feeding frenzy that results from an accident such as this. "I know, I'm horrible," says Max's sharp shyster lawyer (an almost unrecognizable Tom Hulce) before outlining a strategy that will get them more money.

Hollywood movies always seem hypocritical when dealing with the topic of greed and avarice. "Fearless" works because it doesn't oversell the message. It's the kind of movie whose real meaning seeps in slowly, sometimes years after you've seen it.

Upcoming movies full of action, suspense

Action, drama, romance — there's something for everyone at the movies. Here's a list of what's in the wings:

■ Opening Friday, Nov. 5, "Ghost In The Machine" — A techno-thriller about a woman being stalked by a serial killer who has taken the form of a computer virus and is pursuing her through the various devices and technologies around her.

"Robocop 3" — Robocop quits the Detroit police force and joins forces with a rebel group to help them defend their homes.

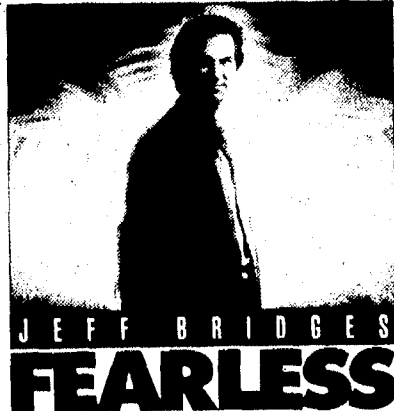

"Flesh and Bone" — A drama about a traveling vendor who falls for a woman, then realizes she is the sole survivor of a family his father murdered when he was a child.

■ Opening Friday, Nov. 12, "Equinox" — The story of identical twins, separated at birth 30 years earlier, and their individual struggles to survive in the city of Empire.

BOOK BREAK

VICTORIA DIAZ

So what do authors feel are good reads?

This week, I thought it might provide a nice change of pace for all of you if I tracked down the opinions of other area writers in regard to the books they have been reading lately. So, I asked a number of western Wayne County authors for their comments on recent literary "adventures."

Here's what they revealed:

■ Barbara Burgess, Livonia children's author ("Oren Bell"). She calls "Missing Joseph," by Elizabeth George, "a great read for mystery fans" and, ultimately, "a novel that transcends genre."

In the story, a sad and lonely Lancashire vicar meets with "misadventure" and a literary sleuthing game is afoot.

Says Burgess: "For those addicted to Agatha Christie, (or those who) have gone through the works of P.D. James, or sampled others who write English mysteries, I recommend Elizabeth George. (Her) characters are more English than all the rest."

George herself is an American writer from California. Fans familiar with her so-veddy-British hero, Inspector Lynley of Scotland Yard, and his plain-spoken, chain-smoking sidekick, Barbara Havers, may agree with Burgess that "the chemistry between these two is delightful."

■ Jim Burnstein, Plymouth screenwriter (his screenplay, "Renaissance Man," is now being filmed by Touchstone Pictures). Burnstein says he's recently re-read ("for about the 10th time") Anthony Burgess' dark, futuristic tale, "A Clockwork Orange." This time around, he read the original British version of the novel, which contains a controversial final chapter not included in the initial American publication brought out in 1963.

"The original last chapter definitely puts a different spin on things," says writer-teacher Burnstein of the story about a nightmarish world in which violent street gangs dominate society. "The book is about moral choice, and I've used it several times through the years in classes that I teach. I always find it amazing. The world Burgess wrote about is what seemed ultra-violent in the '60s and what we actually see in our headlines now — only we've added guns to the mix."

■ Rob Kantner, Westland crime novelist ("The Red, White, and Blues"). The veteran fiction writer claims he rarely reads fiction.

"Frankly, the last few experiences I've had with fiction, have been boring," he says. "Most of it leaves me cold."

Non-fiction is another matter for Kantner, however. Recently, he's found Alecia Swasy's "Soap Opera," a behind-the-scenes, up-close focus on Procter and Gamble, "an interesting expose of corporate skulduggery."

■ Shelly Thacker, Redford romance writer ("Forever His"). Though she emphasizes she's not ordinarily into techno-thrillers, Thacker confesses one of her best reading experiences this year turned out to be Michael Crichton's dinosaur blockbuster, "Jurassic Park."

"I became interested in reading the book after I saw the movie," she says. "I liked it because it was so fast-paced — a real page-turner for me. It contains much scientific information, but never once bogs down."

■ Robert Wilson, Redford horrormeister ("The Second Fire"). "I read Dutch Leonard's 'Get Shorty' this summer and found it to be one of the best of his books that I've read. Leonard is frequently praised for his strong characters and dialogue, and certainly those are here, but this is also a great story. As a reader, that attracts me especially. I personally think Leonard is underrated in terms of his ability as a storyteller."

■ S.K. Wolf, Livonia suspense novelist ("MacKinnon's Machine"). Wolf highly recommends Brian Freemantle's mystery thriller, "The Button Man."

"The story is about serial killings in Moscow," she says, "with a Russian police officer and an FBI agent working together to solve the crimes. Freemantle is a British author who has written many books and I've read one or two others. But I like this book best. I found it to be very, very compelling."

Victoria Diaz of Livonia, a long-time member of Detroit Women Writers, tracks the books and literary industry for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. She says she "has a lifelong interest in reading, everything from great novels to cereal boxes." You can leave a message for her on a touch-tone phone by dialing 953-2047, then her mailbox number, 1854.

Artist ties Surrealism to everyday life

Award-winning artist Carl Angevine paints surreal scenes dealing with issues relating to modern life.

His reflective work leads the viewer to extraordinary new levels of seeing in "Evolving Concepts: A Decade of Surrealism," a one-person exhibition at Nelson's Gallery, 16376 Middlebelt, Livonia.

The surrealism extravaganza of 28 paintings by Angevine, an instructor at the Redford Senior Center, continues through Nov. 15.

Influenced early by Surrealists Paul Delvaux, Salvador Dali, Rene Magritte and Max Ernst, Angevine's work focuses on the turmoil of living in the late 20th century: wars, fear of crime, and man's influence on the landscape with manmade objects, architecture and debris. He conjures up imagery as if from a dream.

One of his latest paintings, "Monetary Nightmare," focuses on Fine arts to command limelight in Canton

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Mix together the energy and enthusiasm of a fledgling arts council, the best of works by area artists, and the generosity of many businesses and individuals, and what will you find?

Success. Canton Project Arts, the township's official arts organization, presents the first Juried Gallery Showing of Fine Arts '93, a definite success story, Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 6-7, in the Canton Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

The exhibition will feature 48 artists working in oil, acrylic, watercolor, pastel, colored pencil, sculpture, photography, clay, collage, paper casting and mixed media.

"We'd like to invite the public to become a part of the first juried gallery showing of fine arts in Canton. It's always exciting to be part of the beginning," said Elaine Kirchgatter, Canton Township treasurer and honorary president of Canton Project Arts.

From a field of 115 entries, Ann Arbor juror Susan Froelich chose 88 pieces that showcase artists from Canton, Plymouth, Westland, Northville, Williamston, Belleville and Livonia. Froelich, a University of Michigan graduate, is executive director of the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair and past director of the Plymouth Community Arts Council. She serves on the board of the Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies and Citizens for Public Art.

An awards ceremony announcing the winners of the Juror's Choice Award ($250), Canton Project Arts Special Award ($175), President's Award ($125) and six Merit Awards ($50 each) will take place Friday at a by-invitation-only opening reception for artists, dignitaries and patrons.

Realism and abstract dominate the show with a dash of Expressionism and Impressionism thrown in for good measure. In a juror's statement, the highly respected Froelich notes that the exhibition "is an event of which Canton should be proud."

"The arts reveal a willingness to take risks, explore or question what is, look for new solutions and even celebrate the good things we share. A community that takes the time to appreciate their artists, and the crea-

■ DEPRESSION GLASS

Michigan Depression Glass Society, which meets the first Monday of each month in Livonia, will present its 21st annual All-Depression Era Glass Show and Sale 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Nov. 6-7, in the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Ave.

Thirty dealers from several states will exhibit American-made glassware dating from the early 1900s through 1950. Glassware repair will be available during show hours.

Admission is $2 and provides admittance both days.

Art Beat

The society, founded in 1972, meets the first Monday of each month in the Livonia Senior Citizens Building, 15206 Farmington Road. Call show chairwoman Wanda Britton: 421-3098.

■ CRAFTY OUTLOOK

Westland SourceClub is looking for crafters for a craft show to be held 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20 at the Warren-Newburgh location.

Participation requires a $10 table reservation and donation of one craft item to be used in future fund-raisers. All proceeds from the table fee and donated craft item will benefit Children's Miracle Network.

Wood items, yarnworks, ceramics — any type of home craft is welcome.

Space is limited. For information, call 467-5730 or 467-5735 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. and ask for Jan Wells or Mary Green.

Table reservation fees and registrations must be in by 4:30 p.m. Nov. 10.

■ VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

Gallery Service volunteers are needed to greet and assist visitors in the museum galleries at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

No special qualifications or background are required.

Training will take place 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 20 in the Holley Room, 5200 Woodward. For more information, call 833-0247.

the difficulty of surviving financially in today's economy. Money swirls through the air as rows of people leaning out their windows vie to capture it. The acrylic on canvas won Best of Show and first place in the 1993 Michigan State Fair Artists' Competition-Professional Division.

"I like to paint things that people will stop and think about," said Angevine in an interview at the gallery. "Money is a big part of our lives. All the money is out there. They're reaching out and not grabbing the money."

"The Artist's World," a self-portrait, shows the world in which the artist lives. "I think an artist should reflect on what's going on at the time."

Angevine thrives on the use of linear and aerial perspective, floating figures and forms as well as juxtaposing unrelated objects that create strong surreal effects like the black crows hovering around the "Bus Stop."

"The crows stun the viewer. It has shocking elements. They stop you in your tracks. A bus stop can be very boring. I'm giving the viewer a little jolt by placing the crows there," Angevine said.

"Some artists don't want to take challenges. I want to. I'm trying to vary the themes, move in newer directions. I think Surrealism can be explored in new ways, reflecting the dreams, fantasies, imagination, symbolism and life experiences. The paintings are an accumulation of life's experiences, something I couldn't have done 20 years ago. I'm trying to be original, reach into my imagination to try and do something that hasn't been done before."

Employing the powers of imagination, Angevine creates the double self-portrait, "Instructor's Dream." One figure, a self-portrait, faces the viewer. Behind him, a mirror image faces a sea of students studying perspective, their sketches in hand.

Except for earlier abstracts, Angevine's paintings are large-scale. "I like big paintings. It opens up my mind. I can think bigger. I like having all that open space in front of me. I'm using brighter colors to create a bigger impact than traditional colors."

"Unusual things are supposed to be together in Surrealism," he added. "There's no ironclad explanation for these sometimes. Sometimes, subconsciously things happen. It's very deep, a lot of fun. I get lost in these."

Angevine's latest paintings overpower viewers from the moment they enter the gallery. As they walk through, the work digresses back in time to Realism and Abstract.

Angevine started painting at 15. He's now 56. He spent 20 years working in the tradition of abstraction. A brief bout with realism precluded his entering the world of surrealism.

Angevine's Surrealist style evolved not only through 41 years of painting, but 5½ decades of living. His works create windows to undiscovered dimensions of our minds.

"I like to think it will open up people's minds, also to serve as an inspiration to young artists and students, and for people to be a little more adventuresome when they buy art," he said.

Angevine studied at Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit from 1954 to 1958 under Sarkisian, Palazzola, Kozlow and Minder.

Angevine has taught painting and drawing through adult education classes for 18 years. His students include Tyree Guyton, nationally known for his Heidelberg Project in Detroit, and Mose McCann, a renowned folk artist.

"My training was very strict in the academics. When I went to school, you had to learn to draw before you paint," he said.

In 1992, Angevine won the Director's Award in Michigan Annual XX held at the Art Center in Mount Clemens. The show was juried by nationally recognized artist Carol Wald.

His "Infinite Likenesses" painting was one of 200 finalists out of 11,500 entries in the Artist's Magazine national art competition.

Nelson's Gallery owner Laura Hardy says of Angevine's exhibition: "Carl really has an impact on people — the intensity of each picture. People drag their friends back, saying, 'You have to see this.' His work is incredible."

Nelson's Gallery is at 16376 Middlebelt, between Five and Six Mile, in Terrence Corners, Livonia. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

tions of those artists, is one that shares the same positive qualities as those creating the art."

A few of the artists in the show chose to work large. A school of swimming dolphins seem ready to overtake the viewer in a work by Ilene Tarkington of Canton. The medium is cast paper; the palette, virgin white.

Belleville resident Ellen Moucoulis' floorstanding tryptich, focusing on three rabbits, could overwhelm based on size alone. However, it's the rabbits animated, almost human quality that makes this piece a standout.

Rabbits seem to be a popular subject this year as Canton artist Janice Sparks chose an upclose view of them in her whimsical painting.

Although the exhibition concentrates primarily on two-dimensional works, Kirchgatter hopes to expand upon the media next time around. "We were disappointed there wasn't any jewelry. We'll encourage jewelry entries another year."

Initially, Kirchgatter, a past president of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, wondered if enough artists would enter to make the show successful.

"My excitement level rose with the quality of work being brought in for the jurying," she said.

Up until a year ago, the fine arts didn't thrive in Canton because a consistently functioning arts organization or council was not in force. For a brief time between 1989 and 1991, the Canton Community Foundation's arts council provided a handful of quality programs.

But it wasn't until earlier this year that Canton Township trustees budgeted $5,000 to institute, develop and encourage the arts in the community through Canton Project Arts.

The goals of this organization are to make the arts "visible and enjoyable for members of the community" and to afford local artists "the opportunity to display their talents in Canton."

When Summit on the Park, a multipurpose recreational and arts center, opens in 1995, Canton Project Arts will provide art and cultural programming in a variety of areas, including dance, theater, music, writing, poetry, storytelling and crafts along with space specifically to be used as a fine arts gallery.

"We want to give Canton artists the opportunity to show their work in a gallery setting. When Summit on the Park is up and running, the arts can move forward with displays and art programs," Kirchgatter said.

"I think in this day and age when life is so hectic, we need to take time out for enjoying art and relaxation. Art is a form of relaxation. Art enriches our lives."

Local businesses and individuals who contributed to Fine Arts '93 include: AlphGraphics, Art Appeal, B.J.'s Bowery, Canton Waste Recycling, Civitans, Frame Works, Tim Haber, Mexican Fiesta, Mountain Jack's, The Olive Garden, Pogo's, Roman Forum, Miesel-Sysco Food Service and Ultimate Photo, all of Canton; D & M Art Studios, 3 Cities Art Club and The Community Crier, all of Plymouth; The Art Gallery and Garden City Fine Arts Association, both of Garden City; J. Giordano Studio of Northville; Women of Artistry, across Observerland; Adrianno Paciocco, Plymouth; Kathy Allan, Novi; Unicorn's Garden, Farmington Hills; and Canton Township employees.

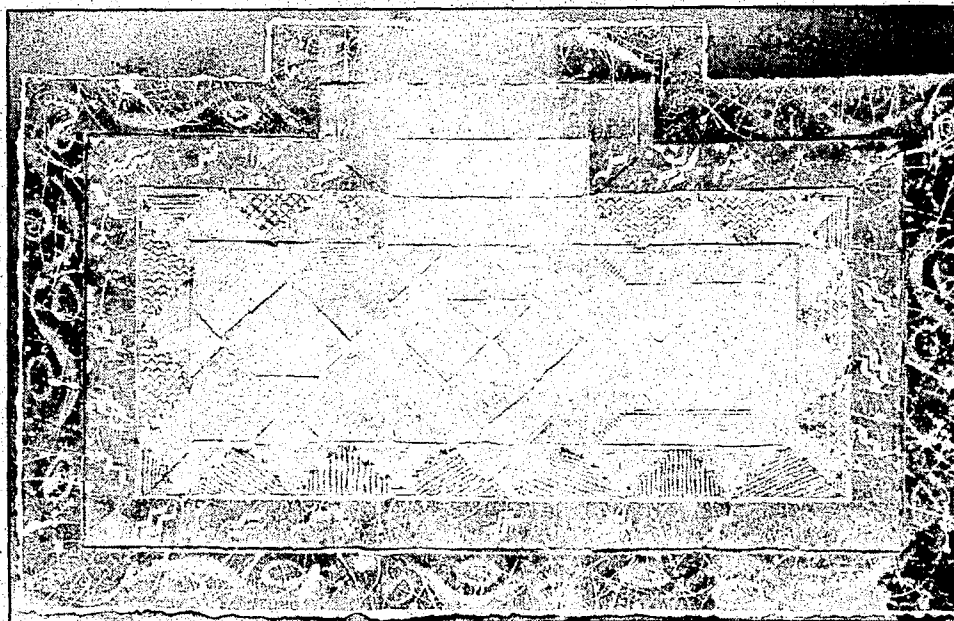

A commemorative print featuring the Canton Historical Museum will be sold. Every print will be numbered and signed by the artist, Canton resident Sharon Dillenbeck.

Show hours are noon to 7 p.m. Saturday and noon to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Livonia artists show at library

Veteran Livonia artists Richard Culling and Ed Farhat will exhibit paintings and sculpture Nov. 13 to Dec. 18 in the Livonia Civic Center Library Art Gallery, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

A public reception for the artists will be held 7-9 p.m. Friday, Nov. 12.

Culling, a 1970 Livonia Stevenson High graduate, received his master of fine arts degree in painting from the University of Michigan. In 1985, he won a $19,000 John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Award for painting. The previous year, he received a $4,000 grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts Creative Artists Program.

A painter, sculptor and illustrator, Farhat received a fine arts degree from Wayne State in 1951. In 1950, he exhibited in the Michigan Artists Show at the Detroit Institute of Arts, receiving an honorable mention award and seeing the DIA purchase a work.

In 1987, a watercolor was selected to tour the state in a Michigan sesquicentennial exhibition, "Vintage Artists of Michigan."

Culling has been showcased by Xochpilli Gallery in Birmingham. In 1998-89, he was the oil/acrylic painting instructor at Paint Creek Center for the Arts, Rochester.

Farhat has exhibited in the Michigan Watercolor Society and Detroit Scenar Club shows. His work is represented in the collections of the Livonia Civic Center Library, the Detroit Afro American Museum and St. Damian's Church, Westland.

NORTHVILLE RECREATION CENTER

Opening Nov. 13 — New Morning School presents "A Celebration of the Arts," a fine art and select crafts show, 65 award-winning artists and crafters. 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., 303 W. Main. Admission $1.50. Sponsored in part by Frame Works, Plymouth, and Wild Wings Galleries, Plymouth. To benefit New Morning School, Plymouth.

PEWABIC POTTERY

To Nov. 13 — "A Gentle Touch" — an exhibit of work by Larry Bush, Victoria Christen, Kim Dickey, Jacquie Rice and Catherine White — continues in the first floor gallery. Works by Todd Johnson are shown in a solo exhibit in the second floor Stratton Gallery. Pieces in "A Gentle Touch" play on the tactile qualities of clay. By texture, by unusual form and with an unself-conscious attitude, the works show the traces of the maker's hand and invite the viewer's touch. The juxtaposition of physical opposites in Johnson's art creates dynamic and intriguing pots. Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 10125 E. Jefferson, east of downtown Detroit across from Waterworks Park, 822-0954.

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS

To Nov. 14 — "A Private View: American Paintings from the Manogian Collection" features 37 paintings from one of the greatest private collections of American art. Included are informal portraits by Edward Lamson Henry and John Singer Sargent; domestic genre scenes by John George Brown, Francis Davis Millet and William Paxton; impressionist visions of country and city by Childe Hassam, Willard Metcalf, Robert Reed and Charles Curran; direct still lifes, trompe l'oeil and Martin Johnson Heade's Brazil hummingbirds. Call 833-7900.

BIRMINGHAM BLOOMFIELD ART ASSOCIATION

To Nov. 20 — A solo exhibition of images by international award-winning fine art photographer Marji Silk continues in the BBAA Showcase Gallery, 1516 S. Cranbrook Road in Birmingham. Call 644-0866. Silk's photography has recently been featured in Detroit Monthly, Detroit Metropolitan Woman, Michigan Travel Publications and Cranbrook Educational Community publications. Her work is on permanent display at Cranbrook and in Detroit, Washington, D.C., and Sweden. She is teaching photography workshops on "How to Develop Your Creative Eye" and "The Magic of Night Photography." Call 544-1202.

MEADOW BROOK ART GALLERY

To Nov. 21 — The gallery at Oakland University in Rochester Hills opens its 1993-94 season with the exhibit "Culver's Nature: Selected Works of Animals, Birds and Plants by Charles Culver." Raffle tickets will be sold in the gallery during exhibition hours through Nov. 21. The drawing will take place 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21, on the Meadow Brook Theatre stage. Three hundred tickets will be sold at $5 each or five for $20. Culver was a leading Detroit artist in the 1950s and 1960s, well known for his poetic images of animals, insects and plants. His works are in the Detroit Institute of Arts and National Museum of American Art (Smithsonian). Hours are 1-5 p.m. Wednesday, 2-8:30 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, and evenings of a Meadow Brook Theatre performance (one hour before the performance and during intermission), 208 Wilson Hall, across the hallway from the theater. Call 370-3005.

THE ARTISTS GALLERY

To Nov. 21 — "Myths, Mazes and Metamorphoses," a rich mix of Michigan artists, including instructors and college-level students in an all-media award invitational show. 30905 Orchard Lake Road, Orchard Place Mall, Farmington Hills. Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

G.R. NAMDJI GALLERY

To Nov. 28 — "Pictorica: Argentine Painters of the '90s." Hours: 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 1-4 p.m. Sunday, 161 Townsend, Birmingham, 642-2700.

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS

To Nov. 28 — "Step Lively: The Art of the Folk Cane," featuring 92 canes from the collection of Bloomfield Hills attorney George Meyer. Meyer and his wife, Kay White Meyer, wrote the award-winning catalog, "American Folk Art Canes — Personal Sculpture." The Meyers will present a free, slide-illustrated lecture, "Handcarved American Canes: Personal Sculptures that Poke into History," 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 28, in the Lecture Hall-A book signing will follow the Meyers' talk. Also, "Once Upon a Matrix: The Variable Nature of Prints," a didactic exhibit illustrating the diverse choices and conditions that influence the final appearance of a print, continues through Jan. 2.

View Native American artistry

SPECIAL WRITER

Native West brings the ancient arts of sand painting and weaving to light with guest appearances by award-winning artists Chester Begay and Alberta Tsosie of New Mexico Friday-Sunday, Nov. 5-7, in the gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

Along with the Navajo husband and wife painting team will be American Indian art collector and trader Vince Ferrari of Farmington, N.M.

As Begay and Tsosie demonstrate techniques used to create the sand designs once restricted to religious, ceremonial and healing purposes, Ferrari will interpret the symbolism, stories and legends revealed in this dying art.

"On Friday, we'll be serving Southwestern hors d'oeuvres, enticing customers to come in and see this traditional art form that's been around thousands of years. Alberta and Chester live on the Navajo reservation and will be able to share their culture with us," said Annette Horn, gallery co-owner with husband Ken.

Sand paintings are a permanent form of ceremonial paintings created with sands of sacred colors. Navajo incorporate sand paintings, chants, herbs, prayers and songs into ceremonies to restore balance in the universe.

They believe that sky, earth, water, animals and man are connected in a certain context, and man is the mediator. When man upsets the balance, it causes illness or disaster. To restore the natural balance, a sand painting using sacred colors and symbols must be cast on the floor of the ailing or offending person's hogan by a Medicine Man or Shaman.

"An entire sand painting takes many, many hours to complete. They travel hundreds of miles to find the stones to grind to make the sand," Horn said.

The Guardians are important personages in Navajo legend and sand paintings. They appear in pairs at the entrance, or east edge, of the design to protect and guard the opening of the painting. Some of the most common symbols to appear as Guardians include the moon, sun, beaver, medicine pouch, hat, buffalo, bow, arrow, big snake and otter.

Another symbol frequently used in sand paintings is the bear, a sign of power.

Until recent years, the symbols were not recorded because paintings were destroyed immediately after the ceremony took place. Its secret powers were cast to the wind before the sun went down.

"The artists are using the sand paintings in art form, not in ceremonial form so it does not upset the spiritual Gods. Sand paintings originally were only used in secretly guarded ceremonies," Horn said.

"Up until 30 years ago, no one outside of the Indian tribe ever saw a sand painting. The first frontiersman who saw one on a rug liked it so well, he summoned the Native Americans to make them for him."

"It's not really commercializing sand paintings," said Native West assistant manager Lisa Mitchell. "Having it permanent saves the stories."

Sand painting prices will range from $16.95 to $800.

Ferrari will bring American Indian weavings from traditional to contemporary designs, including old regional trading post patterns like Two Grey Hills, Wild Ruins, Burntwater, Canado and Teec Nos Pos as well as pictorial weavings.

Before weaving begins, many weeks of work go into raising and shearing sheep and gathering plants for dye as well as washing, spinning and carding the wool.

The dyes are made by the Navajo from liatris, lupine, sunflower, choke and blackberries, prickly pear cactus fruit and alder bark. Plants gathered in summer and early fall yield rich, deep colors while plants harvested in winter and early spring produce lighter shades. Prices for the weavings range from $150 to $6,000.

Framed charts with samples of the plants used as dyes will be available for sale as well.

Show hours are 6-9 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Symbolic Sands: "Corn and Yei," a sand painting by Navajo artists Chester Begay and Alberta Tsosie, features female supernatural beings (Yei) and sacred corn.

Learn how to maximize your skills

The Scarab Club will present a special afternoon devoted to artists ready to take a journey into their own artistic life noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 13.

Management consultant Lynn Salata will present a three-hour lecture and workshop that will help the artists understand their own success story and how to build on those past situations that have made them the artists they are today.

Salata will show how to build on these and how to develop into the artists they're meant to be. This lecture will help the artists free themselves from debilitating feedback and negative critiques.

Reservations, $15 for non-members and $10 for members, will be accepted by checks sent to the Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth, Detroit 48202-4018. Partial proceeds will go to the Scarab Club, a non-profit organization dedicated to furthering the arts.

Salata is a management consultant who now directs her skills toward personal management: guiding individuals to discover their positive traits and to realize their best course of action.

She has an undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor, with a business major and psychology minor. She received a master of business administration degree at Eastern Michigan University. Her career record includes 10 years in marketing and product planning management with the General Motors Corp.

Architecture links fine arts, high tech

■ Lawrence Tech offers an innovative program in architectural illustration. Graduates will be able to merge art skills with computer technology.

BY MARY RODRIQUE
STAFF WRITER

Combining technology with fine arts, Lawrence Technological University is offering architecture students a major in illustration in a first of its kind in the nation degree program.

"This College of Architecture is unique in its ability to attract faculty with strong graphics backgrounds," said Harold Linton, professor and assistant dean of Lawrence Tech's College of Architecture and Design.

"Lawrence Tech has a strong group of registered architects who are practicing illustrators and architects who can draw. This program has grown naturally out of the talents of the faculty."

Linton, who lives in Farmington Hills and has been on the faculty of the Southfield campus for 20 years, conceived the program with input from some of the nation's top architectural illustrators.

Converging on campus in spring 1992 were Sydney Mead, a Los Angeles entertainment industry mogul; Paul Stevenson Oles, co-founder of the American Society of Architecture Perspectivists (ASAP); William Mitchell, dean of the College of Architecture, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Frank Costantino, former ASAP president from Boston; Richard Rochon, a local illustrator with a national reputation; Bob Ferier, professor of architecture and illustration at the University of Texas; Harvey Ferrero, a cutting-edge local designer and illustrator with a national reputation; and Dick Howard, a major illustrator with Howard and Associates of Toledo.

"I presented our plan," said Linton, himself a fine arts graduate from Syracuse University. "It was reviewed and lead to coordination of technical skills and artistry mingling together early in the students' years."

National surveys of large and small architectural firms, public agencies and related industries were conducted to gauge the melding of technology and art.

"The field of illustration in architecture has grown with the leaps made each year in computer printing, ability and speed," Linton said. "I think architecture has a big role in helping the public understand the environment."

"The students having a very strong background in both design and illustration is an advantage too. When industry says, they can be visualization specialists. They can switch gears in the field."

Virtual Services helps suppliers computerize

STAFF WRITER

Virtual Services, headquartered in Rochester Hills, supplies computer add-ons for automotive suppliers.

The company, started in 1984, reported revenues last year of $6 million compared to $3 million in 1991. With that performance, Virtual Services ranked in the top 500 — 378th, to be exact — in Inc. Magazine's annual listing of America's fastest growing private companies.

Alex J. Violassi has been president of Virtual Services since 1987. The company now employs 65 and anticipates doubling revenue again this year to $12 million.

Virtual Services is part of an umbrella group that also includes Virtual Technology, Virtual Leasing, Virtual Soft and Virtual Circuits. Virtual Technology cracked the Inc. 500 in 1988.

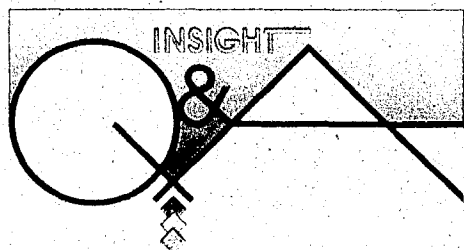

Violassi declined to discuss profit numbers, but did address several other issues during a recent interview. Following are edited excerpts.

What exactly does Virtual Services produce?

We do CAD/CAM integration and support to auto suppliers. We support equipment, software applications. We do the installation and education. We put the package together and sell it as one.

We provide a package of services. There are many spokes in a wheel. Only one is hardware. We supply the glue that puts it all together.

There's a thousand auto suppliers in southeast Michigan. We probably do business with 700 on an ongoing basis.

We hear about automotive suppliers getting squeezed by manufacturers to cut their costs. How expensive are your systems and can suppliers really afford your services?

They have to. It's mandated. To quote a job, you almost have to have a (computer-aided design) system to read a tape to find out what a part looks like.

Auto companies are trying to shorten the time from conceptual design to a car rolling off the line and the way to do that is standardize everybody on a common system.

Four CAD/CAM terminals three years ago was a half-million-dollar investment. Today, you can buy all four for under $100,000. You've had advancement in computer technology which has spurred competitive pricing. Now, people who couldn't afford it can.

So how do you stand out from your competitors?

Our biggest asset, biggest marketing tool — and you hear that all the time but I mean it — is our people. We're in a service business. We have a talented group of engineering people. We have our reputation and that's it.

Home Quarters comes to suburbs

Virginia-based Home Quarters Warehouse opened four new stores in suburban Detroit Oct. 28, including one at 13700 Middlebelt, south of Schoolcraft, in Livonia.

Doczi

The 130,000 square-foot home improvement warehouse in Livonia employs 300 people, including many veteran home improvement specialists and tradespeople. Other suburban locations are at 30550 Stephenson Highway, Madison Heights; 27118 Gratiot, Roseville; and I-75 and Northline Road, Southgate.

"Our investment in Detroit is

'We plan to raise the level of home improvement retailing in this market, with warehouses that are progressive, innovative and customer-driven.'

Frank Doczi, president

major and long term," said Frank Doczi, Home Quarters president. "The opening of these first four warehouses charts the course for our future. We plan to raise the level of home improvement retailing in this market, with warehouses that are progressive, innovative and customer-driven. Without a doubt, we will be a force to be reckoned with here."

"Whether it's fixing a faucet or redoing an entire kitchen, we're partners in the process," he added.

The store includes a greenhouse and gardening center, tool rental, installation services, three home design centers (Kitchen and Bath, Home Decor and More, and Millwork and Lumber) and a contractor's center for professional and commercial customers. The store also has do-it-yourself decorating clinics and a child care area called Kids Quarters.

A highlight of the store is the home decorator center, "Home Decor and More." Staffed by specialists in interior decor and design, the center offers an in-stock wallpaper selection as well as special order wallpaper choices. It also boasts one of the area's largest selections of custom-order window treatments. Customers can work with experts to choose complementing paint, wallpaper and accessories to decorate a single room or an entire home. The store also offers at-home-measuring, free to customers.

NEW FIRM

Armen G. Garbooshian, a co-founder and former principal of Garbooshian/Budday Associates, Birmingham, has opened Garbooshian Architects, Inc., 30500 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills. The phone number is 851-1700.

The firm's first project, a joint effort with Architects Four, Ann Arbor, is a new Borders Books & Music in Utica.

CHARITY BEGINS

The Birmingham office of Chicago-based Kemper Securities, a full-service investment brokerage firm, will celebrate its first

Garbooshian

Kemper Securities Community Charity Day Nov. 4, said Len Elder, vice president and acting branch manager.

The firm's Birmingham will contribute a portion of its total revenues for that day to Eton Academy, which serves children with learning disabilities throughout southeast Michigan.

"It is a pleasure to give to an organization that gives so much to the community," Elder said. "Eton provides the necessary effort for children who are capable of learning."

Each of Kemper's 150 offices will participate in the day through donations to local charities.

EXTENDS MARKETING

Southfield-based AlliedSignal, a supplier of automotive safety restraint systems, has assigned a three-person staff to its Tokyo facility to market the company's air bag.

The technical and marketing group will be increased to five in a few months. Matt Yoshida, who's worked for company's Tokyo facility since 1984, has been named director of air bag marketing and sales in Japan. He'll also represent an AlliedSignal joint venture company, Bendix Atlantic Inflator.

AlliedSignal has exported air bags to Suzuki and will increase its involvement with Suzuki and Isuzu cars and trucks for the 1994 and 1995 model year.

NEW DIVISION

Birmingham-based World Wide Financial Services has introduced a new division called World Wide Home Lending, a non-conforming loan service for clients with credit or income problems. World Wide Home Lending has satellite offices around the state and will expand throughout the Midwest, said Jack Wolfe, World Wide Financial Services president.

The full-service mortgage lender also made a donation to Make-A-Wish Foundation, a national charity that grants wishes to children facing life-threatening illness. The company's Closing in on Community Needs program allocates part of each mortgage closing fee to a different charity each month.

RECYCLE MEIJER BAGS

Meijer stores have started an ambitious loop recycling program that benefits local schools and the environment. Shoppers began donating their plastic Meijer bags to participating schools Oct. 25.

For every pound of bags turned in, schools get $1 for an educational program of their choice. The retailer stopped collecting bags in its stores when the program began. Meijer will turn recycled bags into household trash bags, sold at its stores under the label School Recycling Program. Bags will come in three sizes and contain at least 30 percent recycled material.

Customers who buy this end product get a coupon worth 20, 25 or 30 cents to turn over to participating schools for redemption. For a list of participating schools, or to register a school, call 1-800-866-3954.

CPA CONFERENCE

Frank T. Mamat of Bloomfield Hills recently spoke at the annual construction industry conference of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. His topic was "Personal and Employment Law Issues in the '90s: The Implication of the Clinton Administration on Your Business." Mamat is a partner in the labor and employment department of Honigman Miller Schwartz and Cohn, a Detroit law firm.

NEW ADDRESS

Yolles Investment Management has moved from 24901 Northwestern Highway, Southfield, to 3000 Town Center, Suite 2420, Southfield. The phone number is 356-3232.

AD WINNER

"Stripes," a public service announcement created by CME KHBB Advertising, Southfield, won best of show and best of category for television/public service at the 19th annual Detroit Caddy Awards show. "Stripes" was part of a fund-raising campaign to build a Vietnam war memorial in Lansing.

It's the third consecutive year CME KHBB has won the show's top award.

SERVICE AWARDED

Hydro-Cam Engineering, Troy, received the 1992 supplier excellence award from Lexmark, a former IBM company. Lexmark awarded seven of its 1,100 suppliers for quality, delivery, cost, technology, service, communications, stability and citizenship.

TOP 500

Sim Ware Inc., Livonia, is included in Inc. Magazine's 1993 list of the country's 500 fastest growing, privately held companies.

The manufacturer of local network products opened in 1981 from the owner's basement shop. In 1988, with six full-time employees, it moved to a 3,200-square-foot location. In 1991, Sim Ware and 90 employees moved to its current 14,000-square-foot facility. It's listed as the 16th fastest-growing, privately held company in Michigan.

TRANSPORTATION SPEECH

Richard F. Beaubien, transportation director at Hubbell, Roth & Clark, a Bloomfield Hills consulting engineering firm, was a featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Institute of Transportation Engineers held in The Hague, Netherlands. His topic was "Information and Control Networks for Traffic Management."

Beaubien has been employed in traffic engineering for more than 24 years. He joined HRC in 1989 and previously was head of the transportation department for the city of Troy.

FILMMAKER OPENS OFFICE

The Network Group, a Maryland-based television documentary company, has opened an office at 2245 E. Hammond Lake Drive, Bloomfield Hills. The phone number is 335-5885.

The office will produce the company's newest international series, "Automobiles."

QUALITY ACHIEVER

Farmington Hills-based Jervis B. Webb, a manufacturer of materials handling systems, named Stanley Armstrong quality achiever of the month. The 20-year employee is a faabricator/assembler at the company's Mont Vernon, Ohio plant.

WINNING CAMPAIGN

A direct mail campaign for Troy-based Employment Group, a temporary employment service, received second place in the 16th annual advertising and public relations competition held by the National Association of Temporary Services.

The campaign included postcards with a humorous, old-fashioned theme to deliver the company's message to potential clients.

St. Jerome Church becoming St. Lucille

The name of the new St. Jerome Church to be built in Troy will be St. Lucille Church.

It will be named in memory of St. Lucille, a Catholic martyr, and the mother of the church donor, Lucille Drazick Prepolec, who donated $1 million for its construction.

A Bloomfield Hills resident for 39 years, Prepolec moved to Palm Beach in 1992.

As reported in a story in Building & Business Oct. 21, the Bloomfield Township architectural firm of Brown Associates will design the new 400-seat church. Groundbreaking will be in spring on 14 acres off Wattle, east of Livorno. Four acres have been set aside for a nature preserve.

The American Croatian church will move from Eight Mile, east of Woodward in Detroit, and retain that ethnic identity. The church was founded on Oakwood in Detroit in 1924 and moved to Eight Mile in 1954.

"I wanted to give something of myself because I have been blessed so much," Prepolec told the Observer & Eclectic in a telephone interview from Palm Beach. "I'm thankful to God for my health and for all he has given me. I wanted to do something lasting for humanity."

Deciding exactly what to do took time. "I thought about this for over a year. With attendance falling, I knew there needed to be a new church built if the congregation was going to survive."

"This is something I'm really proud of."

Plans also call for a dining hall, office and rectory, bringing the total cost to $2.5 million. Church fund-raising will cover the additional $1.5 million.

"The biggest problem for companies is people who want to work for them who understand computers but who have no artistic skills," he added. "The flip side is artists who have no experience with computers. We anticipate being able to provide a person who has touched on both worlds."

That's what drew in students like Joe Abbott, a Warren sophomore. "I've always had a love for the building trades. And I like to draw. I like Frank Lloyd Wright. This program is enjoyable. It's tedious, but it will pay off in the end."

Abbott is president of the first-in-the-nation student chapter of the American Society of Architectural Perspectivists (ASAP). The group is planning a trip next spring to Washington, D.C., to take a behind the scenes look at a $2.5-million restoration project involving the American Institute of Architecture's Octagon Museum.

Anne Glissman, a first-year illustration student from Berkley, switched schools and majors to get into Lawrence Tech's program. "This was exactly what I wanted," said the former Wayne State University painting major.

Just 35 students are currently enrolled in the 18-month-old program. Rigorous requirements include an eventual portfolio with 10,000 drawings and maintaining a B (3.0 grade point) average.

The first graduates are expected in 1995. Linton says the program is attracting interest from across the country and Canada. One student hails from Vancouver.

The first two years are going to focus on fine and applied commercial arts, while the final two years are concentrated on architectural studios and computer-aided drafting and design.

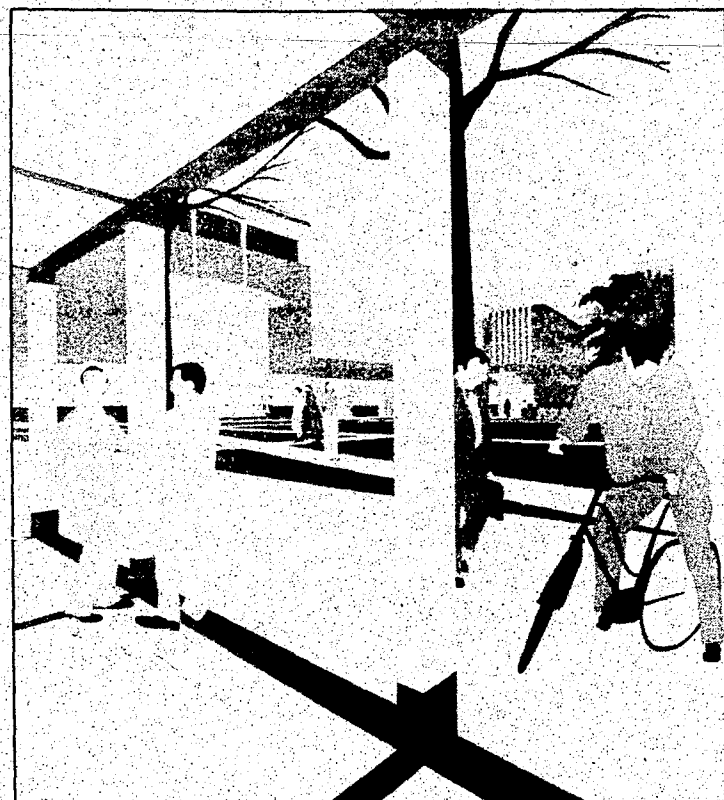

"The Detroit architectural community has had international visibility since the '50s with firms like Minoru Yamasaki and Kevin Roche producing work being built all over the world," Linton said. "There's a slew of illustrators that followed behind the design environment."

Referring to a student design contest to create a brochure cover for One Detroit Center, Linton noted: "The kind of projects students do move beyond a developer-type rendering. I think a common perception of (architects) doing illustrations for home builders is radically different for students in the architectural program. They see a field of problem solving in visual communications."

Island living is unique. The act of crossing a waterway to your home separates you from the hectic pace of mainland life. At Island Harbor the separation is complete since arriving home and arriving at your boat are one in the same.

Island Harbor is a residential/marina slip condominium community on the south end of Grosse Ile. Twenty-four townhouse and ranch units are planned to surround the just completed 32 slip marina, which handles boats up to 30 feet. The marina provides Island Harbor residents unobstructed access to the Detroit River and the ability to literally dock boats at their back doors.

Firms work on film promoting U.S. garden

Seven Observer & Eccentric area businesses are among 12 Michigan companies donating time, expertise and resources to produce a film about the new National Garden at the U.S. Botanic Garden in Washington, D.C.

They are:
 ■ Clervi Production, Farmington Hills, Nancy Clervi, producer.
 ■ Moon Kochis Productions, Farmington Hills, Ben Moon and Mark Kochis, cinematographers.
 ■ Stratton Camera, Farmington Hills, Lon Stratton, camera equipment.
 ■ Lo Duca Music, Bloomfield Hills, Joseph Lo Duca, original music composition and soundtrack.
 ■ Film Craft Video, Farmington Hills, Tom Stefani, film transfer and processing.

■ Detroit Power & Light, Livonia, R. Wil Laneski, lighting equipment.

■ Ron Rose Productions, Southfield, Ron Rose, audio postproduction.

The five-to-seven minute film will be used as a fund-raising tool to raise money to build and open the National Garden, a new outdoor garden that will feature an Environmental Learning Center, a Rose Garden and a Water Garden on a three-acre site next to the Botanic Garden Conservatory on the Mall near the U.S. Capitol.

The National Garden will commemorate 200 years of the U.S. Congress and will be dedicated in conjunction with the 175th anniversary of the U.S. Botanic Garden.

Total value of combined contributions are estimated to be $275,000, said Paula Blanchard, communications vice president for the National Fund for the U.S. Botanic Garden.

"Without their in-kind contributions, this film would not have been possible," Blanchard said. "Virtually all the money we raise is dedicated to building the new garden, and this film will be a tremendous boost to our fund-raising efforts."

"I am very proud to be a part of the National Garden film and even more proud of Michigan's film and video production industry," Clervi said. "Within four days, using top professionals in our state, we secured the necessary elements for a production of this size. And they are still coming on board — all pro bono. That's pretty amazing!"

"I am bursting with pride for my state and the quick call to action from Michigan's film industry," Kochis said. "This was a chance of a lifetime and I know this film will be a great source of pride to all who have donated their time and services."

The National Garden is envisioned as this country's showcase for unusual, useful and ornamental plants that grow well in the mid-Atlantic region as well as the rose, the national flower.

Workshops cater to small-business operators

The Troy-based Business Enterprise Development Center is offering a variety of business workshops in November for small business owners and managers operating in southeast Michigan.

Workshops include:

■ "How to Start a Small Business." A must for anyone thinking about going into business. Participants test their entrepreneurial skills, learn how to achieve their business ideas and receive a list of pitfalls to avoid when starting a business. 9-11:30 a.m. Nov. 9, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 17. No charge. A $10 fee for the "Entrepreneur's Doorway to Success" workbook.

■ "How to Write a Business Plan." Designed to assist small business owners in developing a business plan. Participants are guided through the steps of how to prepare a business plan and receive resources to help them complete the plan. 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Nov. 10. $35 per person, including the "Business Planning" workbook.

■ "How to Write a Marketing & Communications Plan." Designed for small businesses who want to increase market awareness and interest in their products and services. Gives entrepreneurs a practical approach to writing a marketing plan and how to reach your target markets through effective marketing communications. 9:30 a.m. to noon Nov. 23. $35 per person, includes the "Small Business Guide to Effective Marketing Communications" handbook.

BEDC also offers training on personal computer software packages for both the beginner and intermediate PC user: Microsoft Windows 3.1; Microsoft Word 2.0; Excel 4.0; Project 3.0; Access 1.1; Lotus Improv 2.0.

All workshops and PC software training sessions are conducted at the BEDC office at 1301 W. Long Lake, Suite 150, Troy. Call 952-5800.

BEDC is a nonprofit group created to provide small businesses with the resources needed to help them grow and prosper.

Prudential buys apartments

Southfield-based Prudential Real Estate Investors has purchased and will upgrade a 204-unit Southfield apartment complex. The investment is being made for the firm's Strategic Performance Fund-I.

The seller was a local partnership.

The property, "Village Park Apartments," is on 13 Mile, between Southfield and Evergreen roads. It consists of nine buildings built between 1981 and 1986 and currently 98½ percent leased. The purchase price was about $9 million. Another $1 million will be spent to improve the property and add recreational amenities. Upgrades are scheduled to be completed by the end of 1994.

Prudential Real Estate Investors, a unit of The Prudential Asset Management Group, is one of the nation's largest managers of commercial real estate investments for pension funds and other institutions. The firm manages $5 billion in commercial real estate investments for more than 200 clients. It is actively seeking properties for several accounts.

We guarantee as low as one-hour service when people call in. We have two vans circling the city between 8 and 6. We have people on staff that can be in a customer's office 24 hours a day seven days a week. Even Christmas.

"When we give a formal presentation, one thing in there is a complete list of all our clients. They can call any one and if they find someone who's dissatisfied, we want to know, too, so we can contact them and do what needs to be done."

How have you managed to double sales each of the last two years and make Inc.'s list of fastest growing companies?

We've tried not to be all things to all people. Our key is we have picked and focused on a very niche market — CAD/CAM integration to automotive suppliers. We focus on needs of just suppliers.

We've jumped in with both feet and made heavy investment in technology and people to do that.

The bottom line is we've decided to take most of our profits and reinvest them back into the business to grow. We sacrifice short-term gain for long-term results.

What lies ahead for Virtual Services?

I've presented a budget to (have sales) go between $19 and $20 million by December, 1994. Five years out, I want to duplicate the same experience in other businesses. I'm sure you can provide it to aerospace. Other than always creating new, (we can) duplicate in other locations.

With the growth rate we're looking at now we're going to have to find good, competent people.

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Time to check your medicine

"Ouch, I bumped my head." "Ouch, I scraped my knee." "Ouch, Mom, I hurt my finger. See." "Ouch, my stomach hurts. . . Ouch, ouch, ouch."

Minor injuries and illness are part of childhood like peanut butter and jelly. Children bumping, thumping, falling down, scrapes, rashes and sprains are combinations we come to expect.

Since children are expected to incur minor injuries as such, it's become even somewhat fashionable to show off (or better yet cover up) the mighty scars of childhood frolic.

Common childhood boo-boos are no secret or shame when you wear fashionable character bandages. Such camaraderie built between kids sharing stories of little bumps and bruises as well as admiring the well known characters on their bandages.

Just check the shelves at your nearby drug store for Bert and Ernie, Barney, Mickey and Minnie.

While fashionable bandages are "in," parents should make sure other important items are in stock on the shelves of medicine cabinets at home. Dr. Steven P. Shelov, professor of pediatrics at Albert Einstein College of Medicine and editor of "Caring for Your Baby and Young Children," suggests you have the following items on hand. Keep in mind that your pediatrician may recommend additional items if your child has special needs.

Rectal thermometer - For infants and toddlers who are unable to hold an oral thermometer in their mouths.

Oral thermometer - For children four years of age and older.

Petroleum jelly - For inserting a rectal thermometer (and any other tasks requiring lubrication).

Syrup of Ipecac - To induce vomiting when a child has swallowed harmful substances. In some instances, ipecac should not be given, for example, when caustics or corrosives such as cleaning fluid or lye are ingested. To be sure, phone your regional poison control center (the telephone number should be prominently posted) before administering syrup of ipecac.

Cotton swabs - For cleaning the creases and folds in an infant's skin or the outer ear. (Never insert anything into the child's ear canal - you may puncture the eardrum.)

Acetaminophen - Used instead of aspirin for reducing pain and fever. Sold under many brand names, it is available in drops for infants, in liquid form and as chewable tablets. Never give a child aspirin - it's been linked to Reye syndrome, a life-threatening disorder in children and teenagers who have had chicken pox or influenza.

■ The Livonia Chapter of the American Needlepoint Guild has been hanging out with some lovely creatures. The group members used their talents with a needle to stitch up a "flock" of angels for patients at St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

It's hard to tell if it's a case of overcrowding, but a flock of angels has been seen at the Livonia Senior Center lately.

Forget the gossamer wings; these lovely creatures are of more common origins - muslin and perforated paper, to name a couple. And their stay has been short-lived, as they're packing up to head south for a very special reason.

The angels are headed for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis. The creation of members of the Livonia Chapter of the American Needlepoint Guild, they're meant for the young patients who visit the hospital.

Chapter members have been busy creating 70 angels in a variety of media that were sent to the Memphis hospital in late September. The summer-long effort was in response to a story a member saw in a craft magazine about the hospital's angel program. Children who are patients at the hospital get to select an angel to keep with them.

"A member saw the article and thought it would make a good community project," said chapter president Gayle Crowley. "We presented it to the group to see if they would make two angels each, and they thought it was a good idea."

Each member picked the angel pattern they wanted to do and provided the materials. Most were done in different styles of needlepoint and started during the spring and early summer. Some angels were stitched on canvas, others on perforated paper, plastic and regular needlepoint canvas.

muslin that was put together and then stitched. It was, according to Crowley, "so delicate and beautiful."

The group's oldest member, who is 83 and has poor eyesight, chose to crochet her angels.

"I think they were surprised at the response," Crowley said. "The article was addressed to those people who wanted to be a part of the project and we had more than 20 ladies participate. I believe this is the first community stitch project for the group."

In fact, the project was so well-received that even though the angels have been sent to St. Jude's some members are continuing to make more.

"We're hoping to find out more about the project and the response of the kids," Crowley said.

The Livonia Chapter of the American Needlepoint Guild has been in existence for about 11 years. It's one of three chapters in the metropolitan area (the others are in the Troy, Rochester area and Grosse Pointe) and its members come from throughout the area. Crowley is a Novi resident and rattles off members' hometowns, like Brighton, Taylor, Eastpointe and Detroit.

The guild emphasizes needlepoint on any counted or free stitchery, but some members are into other needlecrafts. The age range in the group is "neat," according to Crowley, ranging from 30 to 83, and the skill level is just as varied - from just beginning to many years of experience.

The Livonia chapter meets the third Wednesday of the month at the Livonia Senior Center, Five Mile and Farmington roads. Usually, the group works on a new project taught by a member or guest teacher. The projects generally are something small that can be completed in an evening or a few days, Crowley said.

"The program chairman plans out the meetings, but members are under no pressure to do the new projects," Crowley said. "We also work on a correspondence course from the national organization for six months to a year."

But for now, members are looking around for another community project that involves a local hospital.

"This group is a very giving group of people," Crowley said. "They're very outgoing and want to reach out to others."

Lovely flock: Guild members provided a variety of angels to comfort St. Jude's young patients.

These Christmas cards have an extra message. Besides the message of good cheer they send to the recipients, the cards also convey a message that they are helping a worthy cause. Proceeds from the sale of the cards go to the organizations that assist children and adults in special ways.

The Rainbow Connection, headquartered in Rochester, grants wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. This year, there are eight different cards from which to choose. The cards will be on display at offices of the Rainbow Connection, 527 N. Pine in downtown Rochester, and at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, Livonia.

Cards submitted by this and other organizations also are being displayed at all five offices of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers through the holiday season. Readers may stop in at any O&E office to look through the Christmas card book, select cards and find out how to contact the organization for orders.

One day only, Wednesday, Nov. 10, the Observer & Eccentric, along with The Community House in Birmingham, is co-sponsoring a Holiday Card

Display and Sale Day at the community center, 380 S. Bates. Featured will be Christmas cards, wrapping paper, T-shirts and other gift items offered by more than 50 nonprofit organizations, to raise funds for their causes. The day-long sale runs 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Some organizations' cards are based on drawings from individuals who use their services. The Arc of Northwest Wayne County, with offices in Redford, offers two designs drawn by area residents with disabilities, Heidi VanEe of Plymouth and Donovan Clay of Detroit, who both work at STEP in Livonia. The Foundation for Mentally Ill Children, Inc., in Bloomfield Hills has chosen a card designed by a 13-year-old student at Fairlawn Child/Adolescent Psychiatric Center.

The American Cancer Society's Oakland County Unit in Southfield has 12 different cards, including religious themes of adoration and of flight; contemporary, of a city scene and of birds and trees; and nostalgic, of a Carrier & Ives design.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation in Detroit has a range of eight designs, with everything from a polar bear to a mother and child.

Hello, Hollywood

STAFF PHOTOS BY JIM JAGDFELD

Glittery first: When Carol Cassie decided to stage an extravaganza for Project SMILE, she had plenty of ideas. Ideas that came to fruition in a glittery way at "Hollywood Nights." There were plenty of Hollywood types in the gathering of more than 1,100 party goers at Laurel Manor, plenty of magic provided by Dudman, plenty of fashions by Elle Boutique and Manno Clothing (photos above), and plenty of hair styling (photo below) by Raphael of West Bloomfield. But what there was even more of was money Project SMILE raised for St. Mary Hospital's future women's health care center.

Writer has need to be busy

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green: I would like to have my handwriting analyzed to help me get to know myself better. I am a right-handed female who refuses to tell her age to anyone who doesn't already know my age. It sometimes hurts people's feelings but since I look younger than my years (I think) I prefer that people presume that I am the age I appear to be. For your purposes, suffice it to say I am "thirtysomething."

Thank you in advance for the enlightenment!

D.W., Detroit

There is an old saying that goes something like this: "A woman who will tell her age will tell anything." Ostensibly, today's writer agrees with this. She mentioned she does not tell her age. Neither is she going to reveal anything else she does not want known.

This woman is gregarious and enjoys people of all persuasions. Augmenting this is her need to be busy and active.

She is aware of the impression she makes on other people and especially desires to create the big first impression. In relationships, she has a desire to lead and be admired. Occasionally, she needs to have her own way.

Strong empathy weaves throughout this handwriting. Compassion and caring influence her feelings toward others. She is not one to rock the boat because she prefers harmony to discord.

Her role in the business world would reflect a woman of action. She is an organizer and efficient. Many goals are placed high and she intends to see that they come to fruition. I think her interest in material acquisitions could be a motivating force.

A higher than average intelligence can be seen in this handwriting. Her mind is often working ahead, finding creative and viable solutions to problems.

Often our writer distorts what she sees or hears, possibly without realizing it. This distortion prevents her from basing her judgments on facts. It also suggests a fleeting interest in too many things. It can also interfere with her concentration on a prolonged endeavor.

She is inclined to exaggerate what she is doing or has done. She wants to accomplish things on a grand scale to call attention to herself. Being subjective, she is vulnerable to criticism or ridicule. Anything short of endless praise implies a lack of appreciation or approval in her estimation.

Our writer is articulate and expresses herself rather well. She can be dramatic, fluent, tactful or direct, depending upon how she perceives the need. Sarcasm is her defense when she feels threatened. A little humor is noted. Conversations that reach above the mundane have some appeal. The spiritual or metaphysical may have a special interest.

A chink in her armor appears to be the resentment she holds inside. This usually relates to past hurts and the inability to forgive. Holding a grudge can be self-defeating. I think she would be happier if she could forgive and forget old hurts.

I am a right-handed female who refuses to tell her age to anyone who doesn't already know my age. It sometimes hurts people's feelings but since I look younger than my years (I think) I prefer that people presume that I am the age I appear to be. For your purposes, suffice it to say I am "thirtysomething."

Benefit aids ailing toddler

For Kaitlin Davis, life has been a battle since the moment she was born.

Now friends of the family have pitched in to help with the fight.

The 2-year-old Clarkston girl was born with a non-functioning digestive tract. If she tries to eat, it makes her condition worse. So she is fed intravenously, which has damaged her liver.

As a result, she needs a liver and small intestine transplant. Pittsburgh Children's Hospital is the only medical facility in the country that performs the surgery, which has an 80-83 percent success rate.

Kaitlin's father, Frank, is a Ford engineering supervisor working in Dearborn. Due to the nature of the surgery, his medical insurance will only cover a part of the $500,000 needed.

Without the surgery, doctors give the toddler a year to live.

That's where the friends of the family come in, staging a variety of benefits to raise the money needed for the transplant. To date, they've staged a golf outing and haircut-a-thon.

Now they're hoping for success with the Kaitlin Davis Dinner-Dance and Silent Auction set for Friday, Nov. 12, at the Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft at Inkster Road, Livonia.

Tickets cost $30 each and include live entertainment, dinner and an open bar. Music will be by Chayn Illuzion and the Obnoxtones.

Those interested in donating items for the auction or in buying dinner-dance tickets should call 323-7518.

Those interested in making donations can send them to the Kaitlin Davis Transplant Fund, P.O. Box 103, Clarkston, Mich. 48347.

Gauze bandages — For deep cuts and wounds.
Plastic bandages — For minor cuts. Keep an assortment of sizes on hand. Younger children especially like plastic bandages that are decorated with cartoon characters.
Sterile gauze squares — For larger cuts and scrapes.
Adhesive tape — To keep gauze bandages in place. (Use paper or micropore adhesive tape which is less allergenic.)
Blunt-end scissors — To cut tape and bandages.

Antiseptic solution — To cleanse wounds. (Rubbing alcohol is a good choice, but before applying it, warn your child that it stings.)

Antibiotic cream — Apply to more severe cuts and scrapes to prevent infection.

Elastic bandage — To support sprains and strains.

Hydrocortisone cream — Soothes allergic skin reactions and mild irritation from insect bites and poison ivy, oak or sumac. Available in low concentrations without prescription.

Calamine lotion — Helps relieve symptoms of poison ivy blisters and noninfectious insect bites. Note: Treat only mild cases of poison ivy yourself. If your child has a widespread rash, if the genital or eye areas are affected or if there's a fever or other complications, call your doctor.

Tweezers — To remove splinters and ticks. Most ticks are harmless, but some cause illnesses, for example, the deer tick, which carries Lyme disease. For this reason, report all tick bites to your physician. If you remove a tick, save it. Your doctor may want to see it.

Saline nose drops — To clean an infant's stuffy nose.

Infant dosing spoon — To administer the correct dosage of liquid medications.

Novelists bring out the romance

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Book lovers will have a chance to learn that romance novelists are people too at an all-day party Saturday, Nov. 6, at Paperbacks n' Things in Westland.

Owner Joan Adis and "helper" Louise Watkins say many customers have come to their parties with preconceived notions about the writers.

"They're people with good hearts; it's not just sex and violence," Watkins said.

Even Watkins admits that she doesn't know what to expect when she meets authors.

"I read Ruth Ryan Langan's books; they had such a homey feeling. When I met her she had the same homey feeling," Watkins said.

Langan, of Farmington Hills, is one of 12 authors who will meet customers from 1-4 p.m. Saturday at the store at 8044 Wayne Road north of Westland Center, Westland.

Also appearing will be Shelly Thacker of Novi, Joan Shapiro of Franklin, Marianne Willman of Farmington Hills, Linda Lang Bartell of Troy, Peggy Hancher (Roberts) of Canton, Jill Gregory of West Bloomfield, Karen Katz, Joan Avery of Farmington Hills, Jeanne Savary of Rochester, Patricia Ellis of Inkster and aspiring writer Judy Gauthier of Livonia. Of course, "Bambi," the store kitty, will be there, too.

Gregory and Katz recently wrote a book under the name Jillian Karr called "Something Borrowed, Something Blue," a contemporary love story.

Cabaret benefits Hospice Services

The Western Wayne Hospice Foundation will present "Friday Night Live — A Gala Cabaret" Friday, Nov. 12, for the benefit of Hospice Services of Western Wayne County Inc.

The gala evening will be at the Holiday Inn, 10 Mile and Grand River, Farmington Hills. It will start with a reception at 7:30 p.m., followed by a buffet dinner at 8 p.m. There also will be a cash bar and door prizes.

After dinner, comedian Bruce Gerish will serve as master of ceremonies for a fun-filled variety show featuring talented local performers, directed by Pat Hutchinson. Scheduled to appear in the show are Betsy Bronson, Nancy Delewsky Villeneuve, the Church Hill High School Show Choir and Schoolcraft College Vocal Jazz Ensemble.

Bronson is a member of the Michigan Opera Theatre's touring company. She has performed lead roles in opera, operetta and musical theater. Bronson has also sung radio jingles and appeared in television commercials and industrial films.

Delewsky Villeneuve has appeared as a featured soloist with the Livonia Symphony and in performances with the Theatre Guild of Livonia and Michigan Opera Theatre.

According to Western Wayne Hospice Foundation board president Christopher Ziomek, the event commemorates National Hospice Month, which promotes awareness of the work done by hospice organizations. It also will raise money to help Hospice Services expand programs which are offered free to patients and the community.

Betsy Bronson

Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to people facing incurable illness. Hospice offers supportive care, promotes quality of life and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members.

"We provide services to patients and their families regardless of their ability to pay," said Maureen Butrico, executive director of Hospice Services. "While some costs for medication, nursing and doctor visits are covered by the patient's medical insurance, some costs must be supplemented in other ways. The Western Wayne Hospice Foundation was created to fill the ongoing need to procure funds to meet patient and family needs which are not reimbursable."

With 20 full-time staff members and more than 130 volunteers, Hospice Services provides assistance to patients in western Wayne, southern Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties. It also offers support to the patient's family and maintains contact with family members for 13 months after a patient dies. Services include adult grief relief group meetings, children grief support programs, mailings, telephone calls, visits and memorial services.

Tickets for the cabaret are $35 each and are available at the Hospice Services offices at 6701 Harrison, Garden City, (522-4244), and 127 S. Main, Plymouth (459-0548).

Tickets are also available from the Plymouth Township supervisor's office, Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 E. Ann Arbor Road, (453-3840), and from foundation board members.

Visit promotes understanding

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

came to Garden City Presbyterian Church as an ecumenical associate to promote understanding.

Huweyda Adel of Cairo, Egypt,

Visiting: Huweyda Adel of Cairo, Egypt, spent six weeks with the members of the Garden City Presbyterian Church, including the pastor, the Rev. Gareth Baker.

Stories and books about a country, documentaries and the news provide information, but short of living in that country, the best way to learn about the locale, the people, the customs and the beliefs is to talk with someone who lives there.

That's what the Rev. Gareth D. Baker, pastor of Garden City Presbyterian Church, has discovered through the Ecumenical Parish Program, sponsored by the Synod of the Covenant of the Presbyterian Church (USA) in Michigan and Ohio.

"Our goal is that she share with us about back home and about her church back home," said Baker.

The denomination has done this for a number of years and tries to concentrate on different areas of the world. This year, the Middle East was the target area and 10 associates from there were sent to 11 different churches in the synod.

The last time Garden City Presbyterian hosted a visitor — from Cuba — was five years ago and church members opened their homes to the visitor for six weeks.

The same was true for Adel, who was hosted first by John and Judy Santeiu of Garden City and then Betty Pritula of Livonia.

This was Adel's third trip to the United States, but her first as an ecumenical associate with the Presbyterian church. She found the people friendly and discovered that people, even those of different cultures, share a common ground.

Much in common

"What I really think that I have learned and have enjoyed are the people," said Adel. "I found more similarities between people, in general, than there are differences. Humans have got more in common than they have different; the same hopes, concerns, dreams.

"It's mainly the same thing, only the style of life is different. The way that things are laid out is different. The way children are brought up is different. I think that's the big difference, how the children are brought up."

Adel, 24, recently moved into her own apartment in Cairo just 10 minutes away from her parents' home and her two younger sisters. She frequently goes back to her parents' home and will spend two or three days at a time there.

American children are given considerably more independence at an early age, according to Adel.

"Here they treat children as if they are grown-ups," she said. "Over there (in Egypt) they treat the children as children until they are ready to express themselves."

She was surprised when she witnessed a mother who picked up her first grader "very far away from the school" because he wanted to look independent to his friends.

"Family ties are very strong (in Egypt)," Adel said. "That's why there can be problems when a foreigner marries an Egyptian. They find out that they didn't get married to one person, they got married to the whole family."

She pointed out that is probably more the case in the smaller rural communities. "Cairo is more of a cosmopolitan city like any city in other places in the world."

Adel graduated from Helwan University in Cairo with a major in Egyptology and works as a tour guide, which requires an extensive knowledge of Egypt's lengthy history.

Impressed with her excellent command of the English language, Baker pointed out that Adel began learning English at the age of 4.

Early learning

"My parents wanted to teach me English when I was a little girl, so they sent me to a private Catholic school in Cairo," Adel said. "We have a lot of private schools in Cairo that were first founded by missionaries when they came to Egypt."

All of Adel's classes were taught in English except social studies and religion.

"We had a couple of subjects that were taught in Arabic to emphasize our language and the use of it," she said. "Arabic was taken as a language class." Arabic was always spoken at home, on TV and everywhere else.

Because of the early introduction to English, "it came naturally to me," Adel said. "I can't remember any hardship or being forced to learn English." She can easily switch her thinking to either language.

"Sometimes I dream in English; sometimes I dream in Arabic," she said with a laugh.

Since nearly 93 percent of Egyptians are Sunni Muslims, Adel finds herself in a distinct minority as a Coptic Christian in Cairo. "You have a mosque every few houses," she said. "Cairo is famous for being 'The City of a Thousand Minarets.'" A minaret is the tall steeple on the mosque where prayer is announced.

Adel is a member of a Presbyterian church there, but she has not encountered any discrimination because of her beliefs.

"Personally, I don't feel any problems," she said. "I feel closer to some Muslim Egyptians more than I do to some Christian foreigners. I don't feel related more by the religion. I feel related more by the culture."

According to Adel, those who may suffer discrimination are those who try to draw attention to themselves.

Before leaving the United States on Oct. 25, Adel spoke to her host congregation about peace, in particular peace in the Middle East.

"Concerning peace in the Middle East, every single individual has got a different point of view," she said. "This is the point, why they cannot get together. Every one, every few people, every group, they have their own point of view about how to accomplish peace in the Middle East. That's probably why they haven't accomplished it in so many years."

Curing our moral laryngitis

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. KATE THORESEN

there has been no national board that has debated or even discussed the ethical issues surrounding our technical ability to split human embryos into identical twins or triplets. The article ended with a plea from ethicist Dr. John Fletcher of the University of Virginia to have public forums on embryo research.

Even MTV, the cable channel that airs music videos, ran a news special that searched for a code of ethics for today. The title of the program, surprisingly, was "Seven Deadly Sins." It featured encounters with lust, greed, sloth, pride, envy, anger and gluttony and what people experienced. It targeted the concerns of the 21-to-29 crowd, but the show raised pertinent issues for all ages.

We are in an age that suffers from moral laryngitis. We simply do not have a common vocabulary. Words like "sin" or even "morals" or "high standards" are not often heard in everyday language. No wonder our pluralistic culture searches for a common, understandable "Code of Ethics."

This need to articulate a code of ethics reminded me of an old newspaper clipping that is on the inside of a cabinet in our basement. The yellowed clipping must be more than 15 years old now. I kept these words of wisdom, for they help me look in fresh ways at my own behavior and attitudes.

The article listed the following "seven deadly sins," according to Ghandhi:

1. Wealth without work.
2. Pleasure without conscience.
3. Knowledge without character.
4. Commerce without morality.
5. Science without humanity.
6. Worship without sacrifice.
7. Politics without principle.

Frederich Buechner, a noted theologian and writer, offers some contemporary insights on this age-old issue of right and wrong and the consequences of our actions:

"The power of sin is centrifugal. When at work in a human life, it tends to push everything out toward the periphery. Bits and pieces go flying off until only the core is left. Eventually, bits and pieces of the core itself go flying off until in the end nothing at all is left. . . . Other people, God, the world, society, nature — whatever you call the greater whole of which you're part — sin is whatever you do, or fail to do, that pushes them away, that widens the gap between you and them and also the gaps within yourself. . . ." (from "Wishful Thinking, a Theological ABC").

Maybe it's time we dust off an old word like "sin" and consider what it might say to our deepest and best selves. Codes of ethics have been around for a long time. The Ten Commandments have weathered a few thousand years of testing. In modern lingo, you might say they go like this:

1. Honor God.
2. Have no idols.
3. Watch your talk.
4. Honor your parents.
5. Find a balance between work, recreation and worship.
6. Honor other people's property.
7. Respect all of life.
8. Be true and faithful to your marriage vows and your marriage partner.
9. Speak the truth — avoid cover-ups for yourself or backbiting.
10. Be grateful for what you have — you don't have to "keep up" with everyone else.

When we search for solid codes of ethics, perhaps we can reclaim some of the basic guidelines of our faith heritages. For example, the Golden Rule is the standard of human behavior in all of the world's major religions. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Maybe we don't have to invent our own codes completely, but listen to the ones that have spoken with wisdom to the human heart and condition over the years.

The Rev. Kate Thoresen is director of the Partnership Ministries at the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham. If you have a question or comment, call her at 953-2047; mailbox number 1882, on a Touch-Tone phone.

Your Invitation To Worship

You don't have to see God as straight, white and a man.

"I haven't been going to church for five years, because I couldn't believe in anything. I wanted something I could relate to as a woman. A woman's worship."

"It feels the same for both of us. Walking into a Unitarian Universalist service and feeling immediately at home. We felt welcome. We didn't have to be different people. We could be ourselves."

"We could be together. As a couple. And no one was going to kick us out."

"It goes way, way beyond tolerance. Unitarian Universalists encourage diversity. And acceptance."

"I mean, not everyone is Ozzie and Harriet, you know."

Spiritual health is talk topic

A free lecture on Christian Science "Health Care: A Spiritual Approach" will be given at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Carole E. Shank, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will discuss the necessity of rethinking how the world views health care.

"Our ability to think and reason is our most precious possession and how we think determines our health," she said. "Healing occurs as we rethink our positions with spiritual reasoning."

Carole E. Shank

Child care will be available for children under age 7 at the lecture.

The lecture, sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Plymouth, will be in the auditorium of the library, Five Mile east of Farmington Road, Livonia.

A saint — if there ever was one

BY REV. DAVID BEVINGTON
SPECIAL WRITER

For the past several years, during my pastorate at Grand River Baptist Church in Livonia, I have had the pleasure of knowing one of the most gentle, loving persons God ever created. Her name is Mary Given. Mary was born on Oct. 22, 1893, in Edinburgh, Scotland. That puts her age at 100.

Mary informed me that in the good old days, a fifth grade education in Scotland was "as good as you can get in any U.S.A. high school today." She was educated through the fifth grade, and at age 13 she went to work cleaning homes for royalty. Life wasn't easy in Scotland. She cleaned houses, made ammunition during the war (1914), and kept a good attitude about life.

Mary Leslie Hoog married Gavin Given in 1919. She came to the United States in 1923, settling in West Virginia. In those days, West Virginia was very primitive. She was of the opinion that "West Virginia was the most God-forsaken spot on earth."

Mary's mother was active in The Salvation Army, so Mary had early training in helping the unfortunate. As her pastor, I can vouch for her generosity. As with many in the older generation, Mary tithes what little income she has to her church, supports Billy Graham and other worthy causes, prays for others, ministers where she is able, and puts in a good word for the Lord even when she doesn't feel like it.

The old biblical proverb, "Cast your bread upon the waters and it will return," applies to Mary. She has a Japanese friend who has kept her supplied in clothing for years, and her good friends Fidel and Quinita Cashero continue to be a blessing.

"So, Mary," I said, "how did you live so long?" Her reply was: "I love the Lord and work hard." She informed me that she got up early, straightened out her apartment at Baptist Manor, did some singing of the good old-fashioned hymns, walked the halls several times, and kept in touch with her friends. Not bad for 100.

Humility describes Mary Given. "Why are you going to this fuss, parson?" she said to me as I interviewed her. Then she smiled and reminded me of her prayers on my behalf. "I pray that God will guide you as you prepare for Sunday, and I pray that Grand River Baptist Church will grow and prosper."

Her love and joy are like beams of sunshine as she shares her faith in her Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Some Advice from Sweet Mary
D.Y. Bevington

Sweet Mary never had the chance to learn a lot at school. But she is quite intelligent. And is nobody's fool!

When things go wrong, she seems to know
The way to put them right.
She always knows the words to say —
Her outlook's always bright.

When other folks were grumbling
At life and all its pain,
Sweet Mary has a great big smile
Time after time again.

And listen to her good advice:
"When things are rather slack —
If you love life, you'll understand
How life loves you right back!"

Old Redford serves old-fashioned salute to veterans

It's billed as an old-fashioned patriotic observance, "A Salute to Our Veterans," in an appropriate place, the old Redford Theater on Lahser and Grand River.

"When you think of the Redford, your mind must include Depression glass, sing-alongs to the majestic Barton Theatre organ and long-gone movie stars like Edward G. Robinson, Jean Harlow and Humphrey Bogart," said Betty Hedeon, president of the Redford Community War Memorial Association, sponsor of the event.

On Thursday, Nov. 11, the theater will again play host as veterans from throughout Michigan descend on the famous old location to observe Veterans Day ceremonies.

Not that the Redford isn't in use. Weekly motion pictures and organ concerts have been held for many years by the Motor City Theatre Organ Society, a group dedicated to the preservation of the famous musical instruments.

The Redford Community War Memorial Association Inc. is a non-profit organization incorporated in 1945 and reorganized in 1989. The association is dedicated to the service of veterans through patriotic, civic and community affairs.

Musical director for the evening will be retired Col. Jack Moel mann of the U.S. Air Force on the organ, who will play and lead the audience in a sing-along to martial music. The evening will also include poetry readings by uniformed narrators appropriate to the wars involving the United States from World War I through the Persian Gulf conflict.

"It is not our intention to glorify war," said Gene Yarnell, program director and a Korean War veteran. "It is simply our wish to remind Americans of the many sacrifices our people have made in the name of democracy, to remind everyone that our freedoms were ensured by the loss of thousands of American men and women.

The program will include the presentation of colors by the 82nd Airborne Division Association's Wolverine Chapter of Westland, war poetry interspersed with organ music and the showing of the tragic comedy, "The General," with silent film star Buster Keaton, and a short, "Tribute to America."

The theater seats 1,500 people. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 per person, with proceeds to support the ongoing refurbishment of the Redford Theater. Discounted advance group tickets are available by calling Bill Ford at 535-1925.

Books benefit AAUW

If you're looking for a good deal, the Livonia branch of the American Association of University Women has it.

The organization is selling Entertainment '94 books to raise money for scholarships and aid, benefiting Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center. The books offer discounts for restaurants, hotels, sporting events, vacation destinations and car rentals as well as car washes, dry cleaning and movies.

The books cost $40 each. The group has the west-northwest editions available along with a few for the east side. The books also cover downtown Detroit and Windsor.

For more information, call Vickie Kehias at 932-9257 (late evening or early morning). Delivery is available.

Grief is covered in series

Hospice of Washtenaw will offer a five-week grief recovery series, dedicated to helping survivors adapt to their grief and gain new skills in coping.

The group will meet 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Nov. 9 through Dec. 7, at the Hospice of Washtenaw office, 806 Airport Blvd., Ann Arbor.

Participants are encouraged to attend all sessions. Advance registration is required and can be completed by calling 741-5777.
