Judge withdraws from murder case

A new prosecutor will take over the case against a Westland man charged with killing a 25-year-old father of six. The judge originally assigned to the case has also been replaced and the trial date has been moved up. The victim's family asked for the changes.

The parents of slain Garden City resident Robert John have succeeded in getting a new judge, a new prosecutor and a new trial date for the Westland man charged in their 25-year-old son's death.

John's father, Tommy John, sought the changes because he and his wife, Polly, believed the criminal justice system was siding with defendant Robert Miguel, 42, who faces trial for second-degree murder.

"I feel very happy," Polly John said Friday after Detroit Recorder's Judge Gerschwin Drain announced he won't be hearing the case.

"I feel now that I'm getting justice done," the mother said.

The John family became upset when Miguel's trial date was moved from Jan. 24 to June 6 after the defendant hired a new attorney, who asked for a delay to prepare for the case.

Drain announced Friday that the trial has been moved again and is now scheduled for March 29. However, his court docket is full at that time, and Circuit Judge Paul Teranes has been assigned to the case.

"It was not because the judge was prejudiced, in favor of the defendant, or any of that nonsense," said the case's former prosecutor, Gary LaBret, who has turned the case over to Wayne County assistant prosecutor Lisa Lindsey.

Gerald Borycz, a Westland private investigator working for the Miguel family, said Friday the Miguels aren't worried about the changes.

"It doesn't matter which judge, it doesn't matter which prosecutor. The truth will come out in the end," Bo-

Molester on trial again

A convicted child molester from Garden City has been ordered to stand trial on new charges stemming from a sexual assault at Wildwood Elementary School in Westland.

Steven Brian Smith, 31, could face up to 15 years in prison if convicted of two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct that stem from a Jan. 11 attack at the school on Wildwood Road, north of Cherry Hill.

He is accused of spanking four boys, wrestling one to the ground, pulling the boy's pants down and fondling him as children were leaving school for the day, Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore said.

Smith appeared before Westland 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on Thursday for a preliminary examination to determine whether he should stand trial on the latest charges.

As his parents watched, he voluntarily waived his right to the hearing, in a move that automatically sent his case to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial.

'No raises' key to school budget

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

"Not a bonanza and not a disaster" is how Livonia Public Schools administrator Robert Laundroche described the district's financial picture in 1994-95 under the new state aid rules.

Laundroche, assistant superintendent for business, has put together the first of what he expects will be many financial projections for next year and sees, after balancing expected new costs with expected extra income, that the district, which includes the northern section of Westland, could just about break even.

"We think it will be about a wash," Laundroche told his board of education last week after walking trustees through a projected budget. The projection pegs income at $111.7 million for the fiscal year, which begins July 1.

The projection, however, makes one big — and perhaps false — assumption. It assumes that the teachers' union will accept a new contract without a pay raise.

"No raises, just step increases only," Laundroche said. Then he quickly added, "But that could change."

Laundroche estimated step increases alone will cost the district $680,000 next year. Step increases are pay hikes workers automatically get for seniority and/or additional college credits.

Laundroche's projection assumes the district will get $6,607 per student next year. If the district enrolls 16,909 students, as expected, this means an extra $2.7 million coming into the board's coffers.

However, that extra money quickly gets eaten away by a host of new expenses. The list includes:

Police report three robberies within 31-hour period

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A 34-year-old Northville man was robbed at gunpoint Tuesday night when he got into his car to leave the Beaver Creek bar at 1609 N. Wayne Road, south of Ford, police said.

The robbery was one of three during a 31-hour period that ended at 12:40 a.m. Wednesday, police said. Others included:

- A female worker held up by a masked gunman at Dandy Oil, 31425 Ann Arbor Trail.
- A woman robbed outside of the Danny's store on Middlebelt, north of Warren. This robbery marked the only one of three in which an arrest has been made.

The Beaver Creek incident occurred at 11:15 p.m. Tuesday when a Northville man was sitting in his vehicle, waiting for it to warm up before he pulled away, police reports said.

A suspect suddenly appeared outside of the man's car, holding a gun in his right hand as he opened the driver's door with his left, police reports said. The suspect held a blue steel snub-nose revolver to the victim's head and demanded his wallet, the reports said.

The suspect also took the driver's keys and tossed them into the snow before escaping with the wallet that contained $85 and credit cards, police said.

Westland Detective Sgt. Donald Haigh said the holdup is under investigation. The victim described the suspect as a clean-shaven white male, 18 to 20 years old, with short blond hair. He wore a dark blue cap and a blue cloth jacket.

The robbery at Dandy Oil occurred at 12:40 a.m. Wednesday when an intruder came into the business and put his hands up as though he was holding a rifle, though he wasn't, police reports said.

When the man demanded money, the 20-year-old female clerk from Garden City initially believed he was joking, police reports said. The subject then put his hand under his coat, as if to draw a real gun, the worker reported.

Fearing the suspect had a gun, the employee handed over money from the business, reports said. The perpetrator then fled westbound on Ann Arbor Trail on foot.

The holdup remains under investigation. The suspect is described as a 5-foot-9, 160-pound white male in his early 30s. He had a brown mustache and wore a dark blue ski mask, a waist-length dark blue jacket and light blue jeans, the woman reported.

The robbery outside of Danny's occurred at 6:35 p.m. Jan. 24 as a woman, 38, was walking toward the store, police reports said. A white male suspect suddenly lunged toward her, shoved her, grabbed her purse and fled on foot, the woman reported. No weapon was seen.

Police followed a trail of footprints, police reports said. A suspect was later arrested.

Charged with unarmed robbery is Donald Duggan, 34, of Redford, Haigh said. Duggan was on parole for an earlier armed robbery when the latest incident occurred, Haigh said.

The defendant was arraigned Wednesday before 18th District Judge Gail McKnight, who set a $10,000 cash bond. A not guilty plea was entered for Duggan, who has been ordered to return to court Feb. 3 for a preliminary examination. The hearing will determine whether he should stand trial on the charge.

another child assault, which didn't involve sexual allegations.

Smith has been convicted in several spanking incidents at schools and parks in Westland and Garden City, including Elliott and Kettering elementaries in Westland.

In fact, Smith was still on probation for one Westland offense when he appeared in court Thursday, McKnight said. His probation for another incident had just expired, she said.

The earlier charges all stemmed from spanking assaults that were punishable by only 90 days in jail. The latest charges, with a 15-year possible prison term, mark the first time Smith has been accused of actually fondling a child.

The probation violation could be considered in sentencing if Smith is convicted in Recorder's Court.

Two boys who said they were spanked during the Jan. 11 incident identified Smith in a police lineup, Moore said. Students ran inside the school to seek help when the assaults occurred, she said.

The suspect fled the scene when the children ran inside. Smith was later arrested at a Wayne restaurant where he works, Moore said.

He remains in the county jail in lieu of a $100,000 bond. His next court appearance will be Feb. 10, when he is scheduled for an arraignment in Recorder's Court.

As a result of the incidents at elementary schools, Garden City schools notified Smith that he is not to be on any school grounds or near children who are under school jurisdiction, according to pupil services director Mark Gutman.

Smith was notified to stay off school property through the central administration although that step initially can be taken at the building level.

"The principals are authorized to send registered letters to someone telling them to stay off school property," Gutman said. "Non-students are not allowed on school grounds without administrative permission. All visitors must check in with the office."

Non-students who have received a notice but still turn up at a school have been prosecuted by the district in the past.

Man charged with felonious assault

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Westland man faces felony charges amid accusations he held a knife to his ex-girlfriend's throat and threatened to kill her.

Nathan Anderson Atkinson, 22, is scheduled for a hearing Thursday in Westland 18th District Court to determine whether he should stand trial for felonious assault, police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

The charge stems from an 11:18 p.m. Jan. 22 incident in which Atkinson is accused of making death threats against his 24-year-old former girlfriend at her residence in the 36600 block of Palmer Road. The two used to live together, police reports said.

The woman told police that she and Atkinson argued over a new boyfriend and that the suspect became angry, followed her to a bathroom, grabbed a curling iron and threw it on the floor.

He then pulled a knife from his pocket, placed it to the woman's throat, forced her into the living room and told her to get on the couch, police reports said. He began pacing around the house, and the woman seized an opportunity to phone 911 for help, the reports said.

The woman reported to police that her attacker said, "I should kill you and then kill myself."

Instead, the suspect left the house and sat outside in his car, where he was sitting in the driveway when police arrived on the scene, the reports said.

The man told police when they arrived on the scene that, "I think you're looking for me," according to the reports.

Atkinson remained in jail last week in lieu of a $5,000 cash bond, Terry said. A not guilty plea has been entered for him in 18th District Court.

Thursday's hearing in Westland will determine whether Atkinson should face trial in Detroit Recorder's Court. He could face up to four years in prison if convicted.

Atkinson could decide to proceed with the hearing or waive it, which means he would automatically be bound over to Recorder's Court for trial.

If he proceeds with the hearing, the woman will be called to testify.

"She appears very adamant on prosecuting this," Terry said.

rycz said. "I feel that the judge we have is excellent. We're set to go."

Robert John, father of six minor children, was shot to death with a rifle shortly before 11 p.m. Aug. 21 in front of the Miguel residence on Wayne Road, just north of Ford. Police said the two families had argued earlier.

Miguel's wife has told the Observer that her family was under attack from the John family when the shooting occurred. Tommy John's version is that his family members had gone to the Miguel house to make peace.

Miguel is free on a $60,000 bond pending trial.

Tommy John outlined his concerns about Drain and LaBret in a Jan. 10 letter to Wayne County Prosecutor John D. O'Hair, Attorney General Frank Kelley and Recorder's Judge Dalton Roberson.

He contended that Drain hadn't kept his family notified of Miguel's pretrial court dates and that LaBret had often refused to talk with the Johns. John wrote in his letter that his wife believed the justice system was siding with Miguel.

Local cleric helps Kevorkian's right to die drive

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

As a clergyman, Rev. Thomas Eggebeen has walked through both the valley of the living and the near-dead.

"The suffering person grabs you by the collar and says, 'Please help me die'," Eggebeen said.

Call it fate or coincidence then, that the petition drive to attach the "Mercy Amendment" to the Michigan ban on physician-assisted suicide was launched Sunday at Eggebeen's St. Paul Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

The church regularly holds a forum session Sunday mornings between scheduled church services to give congregation members an opportunity to explore and discuss current issues and the church's interactive role.

The stage for Dr. Jack Kevorkian's first scheduled public speech in three years was set there when Farmington Hills resident Janet Good, president of Hemlock of Michigan, who was originally scheduled as Sunday's speaker, relinquished her spot after learning Kevorkian was available.

"You're trying to raise me up to the level of hero," Kevorkian began. "There's no hero in this anymore. We are all in this together."

Kevorkian was recently freed from an electronic tether imposed by Oakland Circuit Court.

Applause followed his repeated assertions that all people have a right to not suffer. He referred to Lansing legislators as "tyrants" and the "mentally infirm."

A person's right not to suffer when he is dying is as important as the right of freedom of speech and assembly when a person is healthy, Kevorkian said. He referenced President Franklin Roosevelt's "four freedoms" speech equating freedom from fear as being directly related to freedom from fear of suffering.

"The legislature has said, 'You must suffer'," Kevorkian said.

Geoffrey Feiger, Kevorkian's attorney, preceded Kevokian's speech. "This transcends religion," Feiger said. "It's a metter of choice, a constitutional right to be left alone. I know damn well that the government does not own my life."

Feiger stressed that the amendment is aimed at mentally competent adults, not minors.

Life and death decisions are made every day, Feiger added. "Who gets a heart transpant? And, who doesn't? Who gets kidney dialysis? And who doesn't."

Joycelyn Koenig, of Redford, said that her grandfather committed suicide when he learned that he, like his two sisters before him, had cancer of the stomach. Because her mother-in-law had no living relatives, Koenig felt frustrated when she didn't have a legal say in her fate. Her mother-in-law died in a nursing home. "I could have saved the taxpayers a lot of money," Koenig said.

Added Koenig's son, Fabian Lanzy of Redford: "I'd like to see the voters decide."

Phil Farhat, 13, of Livonia, joined his family in their support of Kevorkian. "People should have the right to die if they are suffering and have nothing to live for."

Good first contacted Eggebeen when she read his rebuttal of Archbishishop Adam Maida's February 1993 letter to a daily newspaper in which Maida called every moment of life precious. "Even terminal suffering has value and meaning," Maida wrote. "In a strange sort of way, as the saying goes, suffering is good for the soul."

Eggebeen's letter responded, in part: "The power of medicine to interrupt the process of dying is a gift from the hand of God, but even Jesus brought Lazarus back from the grave only once."

Hemlock members wearing "I Back Jack" buttons, energetically passed out petition forms in the church basement during the reception hour following Kevorkian's speech. Eggebeen is a Hemlock member, supporting the option of voluntary euthanasia for the terminally ill.

Several family members of the 20 persons Kevorkian assisted were also present, including members of the Donald O'Keefe family of Redford.

Carol Poenisch, daughter of Merian Frederick, who took her life in Kevorkian's Royal Oak apartment last October, said her mother was single-mindedly focused on suicide as soon as she learned she had ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease. But, Frederick also grappled with who would assume care of a mentally retarded daughter who lived at home. Poenisch now does.

"Even my sister asked Dr. Kevorkian, 'How come animals have the right to die, but people don't?, "

New recreation programs introduced this winter

Programs for all ages and interests are being offered this winter by the Westland Parks and Recreation Department.

Margaret Martin, hired in October as a new recreation supervisor, emphasized that several new programs are being offered for youngsters. For adults, the department is planning skiing lessons at Riverview Highland. The remaining lessons begin this week and the week of Feb. 14. For more information, call the department, 722-7620.

Ski class vouchers and schedules are available at the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, for each two-week session. The lessons are $39 with a voucher and without ski rentals, $10 more for ski rentals.

For children, a new program is preschool story time, to be held in conjunction with the Wayne-Westland Public Library. Children's librarian Lisa Rieman will read the best of children's literature in the program scheduled for four consecutive Wednesdays, starting this week. The stories will be read 10-10:30 a.m. in Bailey Center.

While the program is free, parents are urged to register in advance. Preschoolers' siblings may also attend.

Another new class for preschoolers is a music program to be taught by Sheila Ritter, a recording artist, musician and music teacher. She will explore the world of rhythm by using different percussion instruments. Fee is $30 for the six-week session which begins Tuesday morning and continues through March 8. The next session will be March 15 through April 19. Class times are 10-10:45 a.m. or 11-11:45 a.m.

Art classes

Preschool art classes are offered under Janice Tucci, an artist and instructor with D & M Studios, Plymouth. Children will be introduced to basic shapes and color mixing. The first session begins Monday and runs through March 7, followed by a second session set for March 14 to April 18 in Bailey Center. Fee is $32 per session. Classes are 10-11 a.m. or 1-2 p.m.

For early elementary school pupils, Lisa Rieman will direct a

Therapeutic programs also offered

Westland disabled children and adults have a variety of recreation programs offered by the city's new recreation/therapeutic supervisor.

Margaret Martin, who was hired last fall, announced there are many new programs as well as others which will be continued from past years.

One is cross country skiing at Kensington Metropolitan Park on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 19, with persons to congregate at Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

Martin said volunteer instructors from the School of Outdoor Leadership, Adventure and Recreation will be on hand. Refreshments will be served.

Another new program will be the "Jumpin' Juniors," aimed at youngsters between 5 and 12. There will be high-energy activities planned, such as scooter boards, singing, games and outdoor events. The five-week program will be held Wednesday evenings from Feb. 23 through March 23.

For severely impaired adults, the department has started a six-week program which will be held Saturday mornings through Feb. 19. There will be physical education, games, crafts, music and other activities. Aides or family members may assist in the program without having to pay any fee, Martin said.

Trainer Ronald Anderson will direct weight training for disabled persons Saturday mornings starting Feb. 5 and continuing through March 12.

On the social calendar, there will be a Valentine's Day dinner and dance Friday night Feb. 11 at Bailey Center. A disc jockey will be on hand for the music. Persons planning to attend must pre-register.

Information on all therapeutic programs and activities are listed in a brochure available at Bailey Center. Interested persons may also contact Martin at 722-7620.

Snow sculpting fest to begin Wednesday

Canton resident Philip Jarski and his three-man Snow Busters team will compete in the 1994 United States Snow Sculpting Championships Feb. 2-5 during Zehnder's Snow Fest '94 in Frankenmuth, Mich.

As one of the top 15 snow sculpting teams in the country, Jarski and his teammates will compete for the chance to represent the United States in the 1995 World Games in Quebec.

The teams will work 12-hour days to create displays judged on creativity, technique and message. Sculptors will begin transforming their six-ton blocks of snow into works of art Feb. 2 using instruments ranging from machetes to carving knives.

For more information on the Snow Fest, call (517) 652-9925.

As part of Zehnder's Snow Fest '94, the U.S. Snow Sculpting Championships are sponsored by the Frankenmuth Convention and Visitors Bureau. Snow Fest will also host the 1994 State of Michigan Snow Sculpting and Ice Carving Championships and an International Exhibition featuring top snow sculptors from around the world. In addition, there will be a 10-ton ice sculpture carved from glacier water ice. Frankenmuth will be one of only four cities in the world — the others are Paris, Lillehammer and Sapporo, Japan — to obtain the aqua-blue glacier ice in 1994.

Schools fear losing major tenants

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

■ 'There's financial pressure on the board to close the school and there's pressure from parents not to.'

Art Howell
operations director

The Livonia school district could lose close to $525,000 next year if leases are not renewed on three of its buildings, as tenants are threatening to do.

Two of the buildings, Lowell and Perrinville, are in the Westland portion of the district. The other is Dickinson, in the northwest section of the district.

The Plymouth-Canton Community School District pays $100,000 a year plus maintenance costs to lease Lowell for a middle school. Due to a budget crunch, Plymouth-Canton wants to stop leasing the building on Hix south of Joy at the end of this school year. Lowell students would be spread around that district's four other middle schools.

However, the plan is opposed by Plymouth-Canton parents.

"There's financial pressure on the board to close the school and there's pressure from parents not to," said Art Howell, Livonia district operations director.

"If they don't do it this year, then they might do it next year."

If Plymouth-Canton ends its lease, Howell said his district must then decide the building's future. Options include putting the school up for sale or tearing it down and rezoning the land for residential use.

Rumbles also are coming from the California-based National Education Council to terminate its lease at Dickinson Center, on Newburgh between Six Mile and Seven Mile.

The NEC pays $338,012 yearly to lease 65 percent of Dickinson for classes taken mostly by adults. Other building tenants are the district's ALPHA and English as a Second Language programs.

The district has not yet received official notice that the lease will be terminated, but local representatives say it won't be because NEC is building its own school in the area, Howell said.

The lease now being negotiated has only a 45-day notification period to terminate versus the typical 180-day notification period, Howell said.

Smoking apparently has caused the members of Alanon, an alcoholic recovery group, to have second thoughts about paying Livonia $86,400 yearly to rent space at Perrinville, a former elementary school on Farmington at Ann Arbor Trail.

State law now bans smoking inside public buildings, and that includes leased public buildings, Howell said.

"There are heavy smokers in the program and now they can't smoke in there," Howell said. "They're looking at another location."

The district's curriculum department also is housed at Perrinville. If NEC leaves Dickinson, the curriculum staff could be moved there, and Perrinville sold to Alanon, Howell said. "We're getting the building appraised now."

story and crafts hour Monday nights starting Feb. 7 in Bailey Center. The program is geared for children ages 4-8. The class is free but parents are urged to register in advance.

Art and cartooning classes will be held by Sharon Dillenbeck, D & M Studios, Monday afternoons today through March 7 and again March 14 to April 18 in Bailey Center. Fee is $42 for residents, $45 for non-residents. Classes are intended for elementary school pupils.

For the more active preteens, teens and adults, Bobby Dickerson will teach a new street dancing class, starting Thursday and continuing through March 10 in Bailey Center. Dickerson will teach freestyle and hip-hop moves. The second session will be March 17 through April 24. Fee is $30 for residents, $33 for non-residents.

Another new program will be a drama workshop, to be held Saturday through March 12 in Bailey Center under the instruction of Patrick Brewis. The second session will be March 19 to April 23. Fee is $52 for residents and $55 for non-residents.

Adult art classes will be held by Sharon Dillenbeck Monday mornings in Bailey Center for a fee of $3.50 per session. The first session starts Monday and continues through March 7. The next session will be March 14 to April 18. Fee is $55 for six weeks for residents, $3 more for non-residents.

Dance lessons

A contradance series will be held Friday nights Feb. 11, March 11 and April 8. Fee is $5 per night. Instructor for the dance, similar to the Virginia Reel, will be Karen Missavage.

Another new dance program will have D.J. Lopez teach country partner steps the next six Thursday nights, starting this week and continuing through March 10. The next session will be March 17 to April 21. Fee for residents is $30 for one person and $50 per couple.

There will also be country line dancing and intermediate line dancing, both taught by Lopez on Thursday nights. Fee for the six-week course is $20 for residents.

The recreation department with Superior Arts Corporation is planning its first spring arts and craft show March 25-27 in Bailey Center. Admission is free. Crafters interested in displaying at the show may call Donna at 453-5719, Doris at 326-0146 or the Bailey Center, 722-7620.

The department's therapeutic program participants also need cookies donated for sale at the show, said Martin.

Complete information on all winter recreation programs and activities is listed in a brochure available at Bailey Center.

Cooper cleanup adds uncertainty

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

A major budgeting unknown Livonia Public Schools face is whether it will one day foot part of the bill to clean up the toxic site at the vacant Cooper School in Westland.

Cleanup costs have been estimated at anywhere from $10 million to $20 million, depending on the type of cleanup undertaken at the site on Ann Arbor Trail east of Middlebelt, in the Westland portion of the district.

And, of course, legal costs keep climbing as the district fights to keep from having to pay the bill.

So far, behind-the-scenes legal maneuverings by all parties involved have kept the question on the back burner.

But, according to Robert Laundroche, assistant supervisor of business, it's now been put on the front burner by the city of Detroit.

New costs, as yet unknown, may have to be figured into the district's 1994-94 budget.

Detroit recently agreed to Department of Natural Resources demands for the cleanup as long as the Livonia school district helped pay part of the bill.

The district rejects that view, saying it should be held "harmless" because it bought the land long after contamination of the site took place, said Art Howell, director of operations.

The district closed Cooper in June 1991 after soil tests showed high levels of lead, cadmium, mercury and PCB left from a former landfill at the site.

The DNR says that some of the waste dumped at the site came from Detroit 40-50 years ago when Detroit operated a dump on the site.

But Detroit claims the district should also be liable because it knew the landfill was there when it built Cooper in the mid-1960s.

Detroit has asked the DNR to review its decision that Livonia is not liable, Howell said. "If we lose, we may become liable again, but we'll most likely file another appeal. This could go on for another couple of years."

Westland's Catherine Pare, member of a group which has dogged cleanup efforts since news of the contaminated site first surfaced, said that Detroit, by asking the district to pay part of the bill, is "punishing Livonia's children."

"We'll just keep paying lawyers and the costs will keep mounting," Pare said. "I feel very strongly that before we use educational funds, the state should pay for this."

- New costs due to increased enrollment — $179,331.
- Increased Social Security and Medicare costs — $225,000.
- Increased retirement costs — $930,000.
- Step increases for employees — $680,000.
- Increased hospitalization costs — $805,000.
- Reimbursement for a fund equity shortfall — $892,109.
- Increased utility costs — $165,000.
- Loss of income from three leased buildings — $525,000.
- Loss of income from adult education — $60,000.

The multimillion-dollar cost of cleaning up Cooper Elementary, a toxic site owned by Livonia Public Schools in Westland, also looms.

"Cooper's back on the front burner," Laundroche said.

Laundroche estimated the above list of potential losses could be partially offset by a projected $1.4 million reimbursement for special education expenses.

"That's the good news," Laundroche said.

Proposal A

Vacation homes get taxed more

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Q. I have a northern Michigan summer home as well as one in town. Will the cut in property taxes affect both homes?

A. No, only "your principal legal residence," according to the state treasury department.

Your principal residence will be taxed at six mills if Proposal A passses March 15, and at 12 mills if it doesn't. All non-homestead property will be taxed at 24 mills.

Q. How will the local treasurer know the difference?

A. The state treasury department will mail you a form in which you get to choose. Forms are due out in a couple of weeks. You have until March 1 to return it to the city or township in which the property is located.

"Vacation homes and income property which you do not occupy as your principal residence may not be claimed," says the treasury notice.

Q. Suppose I claim both homes to get the six mill rate. How can they catch me?

A. We have calls into Lansing to determine that. Meanwhile, if you do get caught in a false claim, you can be ordered to pay (1) the extra 12 or 18 mills, (2) interest at one percent above the current prime rate, and (3) a penalty at 5 percent per month of the due tax to a maximum of 50 percent.

Q. We're empty nesters. We have just a small home in town where I work but a much larger lakefront home up north. Can I declare the lakefront home as my principal legal residence?

A. treasury says to use the one that is your "domicile" — that is, "your principal residence, the place you intend to return to whenever you go away. You can have only one domicile at a time."

Q. How much paperwork is there to fill out to get my property tax cut?

A. Very little. Your name(s) and address, social security number(s) and the tax identification number of the property.

Q. I live in a condo. Can I get the lower rate, too?

A. Yes. The treasury form says: "If you own and live in a unit in a multiple-unit dwelling or in a multipurpose building, give the percentage of the entire building that your unit (your principal residence) occupies."

Another section of the form covers cooperative housing corporations.

Q. How do farmers fare in all of this?

A. Farmers always fare well. Not only the house but the entire farm gets the lower homestead tax rate. The city dweller who lives above his store gets a break only on the residential portion.

There are farmers, however, who have lakefront homes and commute to their farms the way a city person drives to work. We have no word on whether such agricultural property will be taxed as homestead.

Shots fired into apartment, teens charged

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

An attempted killing in which a Wayne apartment was sprayed with bullets has resulted in criminal charges against two Westland teens and a Garden City teen, police said.

No injuries occurred when several rounds from a .22-caliber rifle and a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun were fired into a lower-level apartment where five people were sleeping at 35550 W. Michigan Ave., said Wayne police Sgt. Christopher Johnson.

Charged in the 4:19 a.m. Dec. 6 incident are Jason Krasson, 18, of Garden City and Michael Raymond Elkins, 17, and Christopher Alan Boyd, 18, both of Westland.

All three defendants could face maximum sentences of life in prison if convicted on charges of assault with intent to murder.

■ 'There is a motive, but I can't get into that right now.'

Sgt. Christopher Johnson
Wayne police

They also will face mandatory two-year terms if found guilty of felony firearms charges.

"There is a motive, but I can't get into that right now," Johnson said Friday, the same day Elkins was arraigned on the charges in Wayne 29th District Court. Krasson and Boyd were arraigned in mid-January.

Johnson did confirm that the defendants and the victims "knew each other."

The Wayne shooting incident came just eight days after a Westland holdup resulted in armed robbery charges against Krasson and Elkins. They were accused of robbing a 14-year-old Westland boy at gunpoint near Wayne Road and Fairchild, taking his $150 Miami Hurricanes coat.

With Wayne police declining to discuss a motive in the shooting incident, there was no word on whether it was connected to the Westland robbery.

Krasson and Elkins were free on bond in the robbery case when the attempted killing in Wayne occurred, Johnson said. Both have pleaded guilty in the robbery case in Detroit Recorder's Court, with Krasson facing sentencing on Feb. 10 and Elkins to be sentenced on March 24, a court clerk said.

In the attempted murder case, Krasson and Boyd waived a preliminary examination Jan. 19 in Wayne District Court, and they were ordered to stand trial in Recorder's Court.

Following Elkins' arraignment Friday, his preliminary exam on the attempted murder charge was set for 9 a.m. Feb. 9 in Wayne District Court.

Krasson remains jailed in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond, Johnson said. Boyd is in jail in lieu of a $50,000/10 percent bond and would have to post $5,000 to be released.

Elkins was in jail in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond on Friday, Johnson said.

SMART seeks input on routes

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

If transportation is a problem for your employees, there's a meeting and a possible solution for you.

The business community is invited to a special meeting organized by the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation, the Canton Chamber of Commerce and the Canton Community Foundation.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 9, at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland.

For information, business leaders, chamber members, employees or residents may contact SMART planning director Dan Dirks at 223-2100.

"It's been 10 years since anyone has looked at the SMART routes," said Mike Duggan, SMART interim manager. "We want to restructure our routes to meet their needs. We need input from the business community. These routes were drawn up when there was virtually no development along the I-275 corridor."

SMART has received a $9 million federal grant designed to move people to jobs.

Former drug addict undergoes a renaissance

JOHN TELFORD

Remember the name David Michael Holifield. No, not the heavyweight boxing champion, although he's the same height and weight, and his body is built like a weapon. David Michael Holifield is an ex-drug addict newly paroled from an Ohio prison. Presently he's living in a shelter for the homeless near Detroit's Trombly Adult Day High School on Harper and Van Dyke, where I'm developing a counseling program.

He won't be living there long. Impeccably groomed and dressed in a clean suit and tie, David walked into my counseling center one hot day last September and asked for my help. Technically, I wasn't supposed to give him any, because he already had a high school diploma. But after speaking with him at length and carefully sizing him up, I took him across the street to a clothing store called Off-the-Rack and asked the owner, Richard Jarrett, to give him a job. I had met Richard through his lifelong friend, Cliff Hatcher, the swift leadoff man on Wayne State University's Ohio and Penn Relays champion quartets I anchored in the 1950s.

Richard has a canny cautiousness born of six decades' worth of street experience. "Doc," he told me, "I'll hire this kid, but I confess I'm reluctant. He's a grenade that could explode any second."

Far from exploding, David became one of Richard's most dependable employees, getting paid $20 a day for guarding the racks of merchandise displayed on the street. In the meantime, I contacted MESC and other agencies, and friends such as Reggie Bradford of Detroit's Club West, Greg Blaney of Vic Tanny's, and Spencer Haywood of the Haywood Anti-Drug Foundation to see if I could find David a better-paying job so he could move out of the shelter. Reggie, a University of Michigan All-American, was one of my all-state quarter-milers at Pershing High. And you'll recall that Spencer is the ex-NBA all-star whom I had coached in track.

When recently I brought Spencer to my school to speak, I introduced him to David. Spencer immediately offered him a foundation job that will include an apartment in the Brewster projects and a leased automobile. David's Detroit renaissance was under way.

Earlier, I had suggested that David write to seek employment in the Archer administration. When I read David's handwritten letter, I was pleased to note that he is as eloquent on paper as he is orally. After having a Trombly co-op student type it for him, I wrote a cover letter assuring Archer's people that David, with his reformed reformer's controlled zeal, will make a perfect spokesman for the city's downtrodden legions of ex-cons. David hasn't heard from the mayor's staff yet, but he will.

I also introduced him to Delta Saulsberry of Wayne State, who helped him get financial aid to attend Wayne. In the first session of his sociology class there, he scared his professor and fascinated some coed classmates with a self-introduction detailing his prison experiences. In many ways, he reminds me of a young Malcom X.

I have absolutely no doubt you'll frequently be hearing David Michael Holifield talk on television someday. Remember the name, and mark my words.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, most recently was an administrative assistant in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth-Canton district.

Superintendents must balance finance, public relations

DOC DOYLE

QUESTION: I've been a high school teacher for over 27 years. During that time I have seen five superintendents in our district come and go. Now our district is looking for a new superintendent. What qualities do boards of education look for in a new candidate? Why didn't you ever become a superintendent?

ANSWER: To set the stage, it is my belief a school superintendent has the toughest job of any job in any given community.

The superintendent is responsible from the time he/she wakes up for the safety of every child who gets on a school bus (the largest transportation system in any city); responsible for the largest lunch room in any city (let's hope no child gets ptomaine poisoning); responsible for gifted, special, college and non college bound students' education; the major caretaker of homeowners tax money, while constantly under the local newspaper's microscope; and always a possible target of the teacher's union, while working up to 70 hours a week.

It is a tough job and the most singular reason why I never sought to go beyond the assistant superintendent for instruction level. Indeed, the one time I was approached by a superintendent head hunter organization (and had my ego inflated), I put on my running shoes and ran six miles (I was a runner at that time) just to clear my head of such insanity.

It is a tough job. I worked with seven superintendents. Three were canned (contracts not renewed); one took a job in Washington (his time was up); one was reassigned to an embarrassing non-entity position (school farm director); another moved on to other challenges; one — a warm, kind man — died right after teacher negotiations went into effect in 1965 (and I know grievances, arbitrations and contracts did him in); one, a survivor, is still a superintendent in the metropolitan Detroit suburban area.

You ask what qualities does a community look for in a new superintendent. The canned answer is they are looking for an educational and instructional leader. But there is more to the story. Let's look primarily at superintendents hired from outside the district. Most internally hired superintendents are well known commodities.

Often, a new superintendent, hired from outside the district, is a contrast to the departing superintendent. Say the departing superintendent was outstanding at public relations and did an excellent PR job with the teachers and community for years.

His/her only weakness was in school finance, budgeting and money in general. The money issue was a low interest area; he/she wanted peace at any price (and the union knew this). He/she pleased many teachers and principals with purchases beyond the budget, while driving the business manager up the wall.

Money gets tight, the board begins to ask tough questions. The business manager takes some heat (most have documentation of every penny requested and by whom). But put your money on the superintendent getting nailed. No different than the head coach of a professional football team. When things get bad, who goes? The head coach goes.

Typically the above district, suffering from financial problems, will now go looking for a candidate with a strong business/financial record.

An opposite example can be made. Say the superintendent is great at school finance but is perceived (right or wrong) as an uncaring, cold person, who is poor at community and teacher/administrator relations. Over the years, the superintendent starts becoming a bit paranoid of the teacher's union and some of the independent thinking administrators.

Anger leads to vindictive language, normal relationships begin to break down. The union leadership starts complaining about a negative environment (and leaks word to the board). The union is not necessarily the problem; that's their job! It is when the superintendent loses support of too many building administrators, the die may then be cast.

Many building administrators are highly respected by their parents, and many of these parents know board members personally. Indeed, there are administrators in some districts so powerful that they could get a superintendent fired. I've seen it happen.

My 30-plus years of experience tell me that the superintendents I've known are a unique breed. Most are extremely bright, have tremendous energy, are able to "juggle 10 problems at one time," a most resilient species, one who took the job for a challenge and not just the money.

Indeed, some superintendents I know, if they had entered the business or the industrial world rather than education, would now be in major corporate positions making five times what education pays.

There are many superintendents who are winners and a few who should have "chickened out" like I did. But my daddy didn't raise any dummies. I knew I had too sensitive a nature for the position.

James "Doc" Doyle, a former teacher/school administrator/university instructor, is president of Doyle and Associates, an educational consulting firm.

Gifts straight from the heart

As Valentine's Day approaches, kindle your imagination with some passionate gift ideas straight from the heart. There are countless ways to say "I love you." These are but a few of the special valentines I discovered on a heart-hunting journey through our malls and down our main streets.

Wear Your Heart On Your Sleeve, or give it to someone you love. On Feb. 12, Kroger stores in Bloomfield Hills (Long Lake & Telegraph), Bloomfield Township (Maple & Lahser) and Birmingham (Maple & Hunter) will sell gold heart pins ($2) to benefit Variety-The Children's Charity. Proceeds from the Gold Heart campaign support the Variety Club Cardiology Center at Children's Hospital of Michigan and the Variety Myoelectric Center at the Rehabilitation Institute.

Heart to Heart is the 10th anniversary Cuisine Extraordinaire presented by the Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary on Feb. 13 at The Dearborn Inn. The dinner/dance benefits the neonatal unit of Children's Hospital and the endowment for the Center for Pediatric Nursing Excellence. For advance reservations and information, call the auxiliary office at 745-0962. Every Heart's Desire. Surprise her with an original creation from David Wachler & Sons Jewellers, 100 S. Woodward in Birmingham. The 1994 Valentine's Day collection includes these Cupid's heart pins. Choose platinum and 18k yellow gold with diamond, pearl and rhodolite garnet ($800) or 18k yellow gold and 14k white gold with pink tourmaline, black pearl and white pearl ($675).

Southwestern Hearts. Jewelry designer Don Lucas of Santa Fe crafts Native American-inspired silver heart earrings inlaid with red coral and onyx ($210). See these and other heart motif pins, bracelets and rings at Mesa Arts, 32800 Franklin in Franklin.

Learning to Love is the name given to Grace Forrest's essential beings, a pair of fiber-art doll sculptures who speak to the heart via their expressions and postures ($350). These dolls share space with Susan Maples' glittering interdependent figures, each needing the other to stand ($40-$60) and Tammy Laventy's whimsical heart-shaped velvet and satin pin, splashed with sequins ($48) at The Back Door Gallery, 37220 Eight Mile in Farmington.

Turn-Of-The-Century Romance abounds at Victorian Lace Elegance, 33335 Grand River in Farmington. Shower your valentine with old-fashioned cards, stickers and note paper. A 1901 fan greeting is a framable paper fan embellished with hearts, roses and cherubs. Jewelry cases are lined with 1928 parfilage, replicas of vintage French earrings and pins, delicately crafted in pearls and filigree ($22-$35). A member of the Angel Collectors Club, Sandi Burchart fills her shop with guardian angels, cherubs and other valentine ephemera.

Original Heart Art can be found at Neiman Marcus in the Somerset Collection in Troy. The heart art was created exclusively for Neiman's from the collection of Constance Ray. You can see handmade and signed cards, painted bowls and portfolios, all in valentine motifs ($20-$150).

Hearts & Flowers is the title of a nostalgic lithograph by Dean Young immortalizing the incomparable loving couple, Blondie and Dagwood ($575) at the Circle Gallery. Sweetheart Godiva Chocolatier gives you its hearts in a keepsake velvet pouch ($17), a beautifully illustrated valentine tin ($12.50) or an exclusive peony paper box ($40) — both shops are in the Somerset Collection.

The Way To A Man's Heart. You know where this is going. Williams-Sonoma displays cheery red and white porcelain dinnerware, heart muffin plaques ($22), heart wafflers ($50) and large heart tarts ($10).

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Malls & Mainstreets next week:

- Unique items that tell your Valentine you care.
- Bachrack browses for anything festooned with roses.
- Heart-shaped tokens from the jewelry stores.

When Beach Bound, look good, feel great via custom swimsuit

Frustrated by bathing suits that never fit right? A Birmingham shop lets you design your own and then sews it up. It's a key stop for the smart Beach Bound crowd.

By Susan DeMaggio
Staff Writer

Sometimes, the walk from the lounge chair to the pool can be a nightmare.

Stress and anxiety can grip even the shapliest sunbather as they worry about their swimsuit riding up their backside, the bathing suit straps falling off their shoulder or the suit's french cut revealing too thick a thigh.

Carol Bross of Bloomfield Hills is out to fix all that. She maintains that women can and should feel great, poolside. At her shop, Beach Bound Ltd., you can create your own bathing suit, custom fit from a variety of designs, fabrics and patterns.

Bross, with the help of seamstress Theresia Oppermann of Rochester Hills, has been creating custom swimsuits and cover-ups for nine years. Locations in Farmington Hills and Rochester were recently consolidated to a centralized location at Adams Square in Birmingham, south of Maple.

"There are a lot of reasons why women can't buy swimsuits off the rack," Bross said. "And I've seen them all. Some people have scarring, others have undergone mastectomies or colostomies. Others are one size on the top and two sizes different on the bottom.

"Some women are just too modest for the swimsuit designs that are currently available. At Beach Bound, we can help them create a bathing suit that compliments their figure, fits properly and comes in a color that enhances their skin tones."

Many customers also order matching cover-ups, culottes, short and wrap skirts.

The cost for such personalized service is amazingly affordable. After an hourlong fitting, fabric consultation and follow-up fitting, complete with last-minute alterations, shoppers spend $65 to $140. The process usually takes a week or less, depending on how busy the shop is.

"We prefer that customers call and make an appointment before coming," Bross said. "This way, we can schedule the necessary time and no one is rushed. Spring and summer are the busiest times. Everyone wants their suit by the Fourth of July. However, right now we're seeing a lot of people who want swimwear for a cruise."

Designer Sigrid Olsen inspired by nature

By Susan DeMaggio
Staff Writer

BEHIND THE LABEL

OK. OK. You know it's cruisewear because it's got little nautical flags all over the front and it comes in red, white and blue.

Don't these designers have any imagination?

Sigrid Olsen does.

In 1984, the silk-screen print artist joined forces with a sales representative eager to start a clothing company — and SEGRETS was born. (Their first collection of cotton sportawear was called SEGRETS, a combination of Sigrid and her favorite bird, the egret.)

Sigrid Olsen: Stays close to roots as handweaver.

Today the collections are called Sigrid Olsen and Sigrid Olsen sport, with the motto Vision/Art/Clothing/Life and annual sales in the millions.

Olsen traveled to Livonia recently to raise money for the Angela Hospice at a fashion show of her latest collection at Jacobson's in the Laurel Park Place Mall.

"I stay close to my roots as a handweaver by relying on natural fibers such as textural linens, washed cottons and twills, shaping them in colors that run the gamut from ultranatural to vibrant," she said. "My prints are all one-of-a kind, inspired by my love of nature."

Olsen's primitive-looking prints appear on sweaters, suit lapels, vests, and dresses. She said she is one of few designers who actually design their own prints from scratch.

"All the forms we create as human beings really come from nature in one form or another," she said. "It's always been a big influence on me. I love going to the beach, the sand, the waves . . . The color of sand is really a million different colors. I take them and interpret them into whatever it is I'm doing."

Olsen found she could create decorative motifs for clothing the way primitive man decorated shields, jars or stools. She creates designs in their pure state, reflecting the art in places like Jakarta, the Ivory Coast, Nepal and Morocco.

"The most common-asked question of me is, 'Aren't you afraid of running out of ideas?' But, I'm so happy that I've found something that can keep up with the number of ideas I have!"

Olsen said the first time she knew her fashions would be exciting was the first time she saw yardage of her fabric printed.

"I learned all the aspects of getting prints onto clothing," she said. "The styles and silhouttes I like best are simple, direct, flattering and comfortable so when you put a garment on, it feels like your best friend."

She compares creating prints to composing music, where the colors are like notes of a melody that come together to give a "thrill."

This season's hottest staple will be knits that turn up in one-of-a-kind patterns on chunky sweaters that ward off spring's cool breezes.

"I like wearing Olsen's designs because they're comfortable and unique," said Laura Wolf of Farmington Hills. She was shopping for a "few fun and funky" evening looks to wear in Jamaica next month.

"I may buy this print vest to wear over a long skirt," she said. "It's really neat and I can pair it with shorts or a blouse."

Decorative design: Festive embroidery livens Sigrid Olsen's white cotton shirt, which ties over multicolor floral pants in rayon.

assistant Sharon Feury of Troy, asks questions about the customer's swimsuit needs and preferences. When the salesperson gets an idea of what the customer is all about, the two enter the fitting room in the back of the shop to select appropriate tops, bottoms or one-piece designs — and the first fitting begins.

"A customer will tell us if they want the waistband higher or lower, the neckline with or without straps, the thighline cut longer or higher," Bross said. "We talk about what would look best and why."

Next, the customer selects her swimsuit fabric from various color and print samples that can be mixed and matched for a custom creation. In the privacy of a dressing room, measurements are taken and entered into a computer for a numerical pattern from which to cut.

The order and fabric go into a bag for Oppermann to stitch into a Beach Bound Ltd. special. Her work is so perfected that the inside of the suits look as smooth and professional as the outside, with no open seams.

Bross said she bought the idea for the company nine years ago from a woman who had a similar store in Florida.

"I stopped in her shop while on vacation and thought it was a great business idea. The woman warned me that custom bathing suits would never sell well in Michigan, but she was wrong," Bross said. "Our swimsuit season is actually longer than hers because so many people travel and vacation year-round.

"I really enjoy my work. I know I'm helping people feel together when they are in a situation where other people are looking at them. My swimwear gives confidence that you normally don't have when you go to the pool or the beach."

Donna Herron of Waterford stopped in to order her fourth bathing suit from Beach Bound before a trip to Cancun.

"I can get the fit I want by asking them to drop an inch or two here or there, tighten the suit on top or add a tummy liner or sock-up bra," she said.

"So many of the bathing suits in department stores are too skimpy or there's no bra inside. If there is a bra, then the suit is too old fashioned. I can get just what I want here and they do a great job. I've sent five of my girlfriends to Beach Bound."

The shop no longer makes men's or children's swimsuits. It's for women only.

■ HOLIDAY RETAIL REPORT

The Michigan Retailers Association said holiday sales rose on average 16.5 percent over 1992 sales from Thanksgiving to Christmas.

According to Larry Meyer, MRA vice chairman, the increase was better than the 12 percent predicted by the association in a pre-holiday poll. Sales were highest in Lansing, Battle Creek and Jackson where 68 percent of the retailers reported an average increase of 20 percent over the 1992 holiday figures.

Here in southeast Michigan, 63 percent of the retailers reported increases averaging 14 percent over last year's figures.

The association attributes the sales increases to "greater consumer confidence, larger inventories, more effective advertising, and higher levels of customer service."

The association represents 3,900 retail companies operating more than 5,500 stores across the state.

■ WARNER BROS. DEBUTS

Warner Bros. will open two gift and clothing shops in Michigan in May, at Lakeside in Sterling Heights and Briarwood in Ann Arbor.

The shops are part of an international 40-store expansion into new markets including stores in Glasgow, Scotland; London, England; and Berlin, Germany. The company's flagship studio store is in Manhattan. It opened in 1993.

Warner Bros. Studio stores offer related merchandise and gallery quality Animation Art in an environment that resembles a studio backlot.

■ NEW COSMETIC LINE

Poppy, a new cosmetic line created by 21-year-old Australian entrepreneur Poppy King, is being introduced at Barney's New York in the Somerset Collection in Troy.

Your needs come first

You said you wanted family and friends to visit at your convenience. So visiting hours are determined by you.

You asked if fathers could stay the night. Now they can.

You wanted more comfortable surroundings for labor and birth. Our new labor-delivery-recovery (LDR) rooms are fully equipped with the latest birthing beds and other equipment for birth. And the unit is decorated to help put you at ease and create a homelike atmosphere.

More changes

Your desire for the best possible care has resulted in advanced training for our nurses. And a new physician director and nurse director.

We even have a new name: Miracle of Life Maternity Center.

But one thing hasn't changed. The concern and personal care we've always provided at St. Mary Hospital.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Casino food safe bet, odds favor you in Vegas

Planning any late winter or early spring travel? If you're headed to sunny Las Vegas, you might be interested in hearing about what I encountered recently. It could help steer you clear of any mishaps along the way. Not that yours truly is a travel expert, but experience has taught me many lessons.

I'm writing this column somewhere over Utah heading back to the wintry Midwest after spending four glorious days in Las Vegas. The Janes Gang - momma, dad, twin sister Mary and a host of cousins - descended on Glitter Gulch hoping momma would win the slot tournament at the Westward Ho, and we would return with our pockets bulging.

Momma didn't win, and we were all bulging, not from winning Megabucks or Quartermania, but from experiencing one of Las Vegas' finer qualities, the all-you-can-eat buffet. Before we regress to the buffet, allow me a few insights on "air" fare.

Travel insights

I firmly believe you get what you pay for. When you pay a little over $220 for round trip airfare prime rib and fresh grilled tuna are certainly not expected on the in-flight catering menu.

Having experienced charter air service in the past, my expectations were not those of one flying first class. Suffice it to say that the four hours spent on the charter were as pleasant as the tub of chicken and pasta (made with overcooked noodles and lunch meat-style chicken chunks) complete with a plastic fork (no knife).

There is only one thing to say about charter airline food folks, and that is simply to forget it and bring your own.

Casino cuisine

On a much more positive, and somewhat suprising note, I am pleased to report that there seems to be a changing of the guard in corporate food service offices throughout the casinos. Don't be misled here folks, you can still find "beef ala Dutch" (the ingredients still undefinable to this writer) and leather tough roast beef carved by someone wearing a white jacket and a hair net in any casino buffet. You might even have to bypass the "stuffed sole" sitting under a heat lamp, but on Friday night, Harrah's chefs were char-grilling, much to my suprise, fresh Alaskan salmon fillets, and the tab was only $5.95.

Saturday night at Circus Circus rivaled Harrah's with steamed crab legs, and they weren't snow crab either, while the Mirage breakfast buffet was resplendent with fresh fruit, hot and cold cereal assortment and sausage that actually looked edible.

It wasn't served on a plastic plate or smothered in what Las Vegans think is country gravy. For the uninitiated, let me pass along a little secret - some casinos actually use the rendered grease from cooking your sausage and bacon to make their gravy.

One last word on casino food and that is simply that anyone who dares eat a half pound hot dog deserves exactly what they get. If the slots don't pay out, your gut certainly will. If the thought of dining during normal times and waiting like a pen of cattle in the buffet line concerns you, the best times to buffet are between normal hours, Las Vegas offers some consistently good restaurant dining experiences.

Again, as with air travel, you get what you pay for. Remember that the person serving you at some cheap sandwich shop probably couldn't cut the mustard at a hotel. Service can be spotty if downright nonexistent.

Pietro's offers center strip visitors a particularly enjoyable Italian dining experience, but for good food and a great value, cab it over to Warren Klien's Garlic Cafe. If you love garlic you'll find it in everything from soup to ice cream there. One of my Las Vegas contacts snuck me a privy copy of the new menu for the Planet Hollywood restaurant soon to open in the Forum Shops at Caesar's Palace.

Movie memorabilia lovers will go wild, but so will those who enjoy cutting edge cuisine from La-La land. Look for a March opening. Old downtown Las Vegas sandwich lovers will certainly appreciate the hot pastrami sandwiches at the Four Queens (momma's favorite) and if you go there, go at night when the lights are as wild as the city itself.

Dining experiences abound everywhere in Las Vegas from the 49 cent breakfast to the $50 dinner, but remember, if you fly there via charter, pack your own lunch.

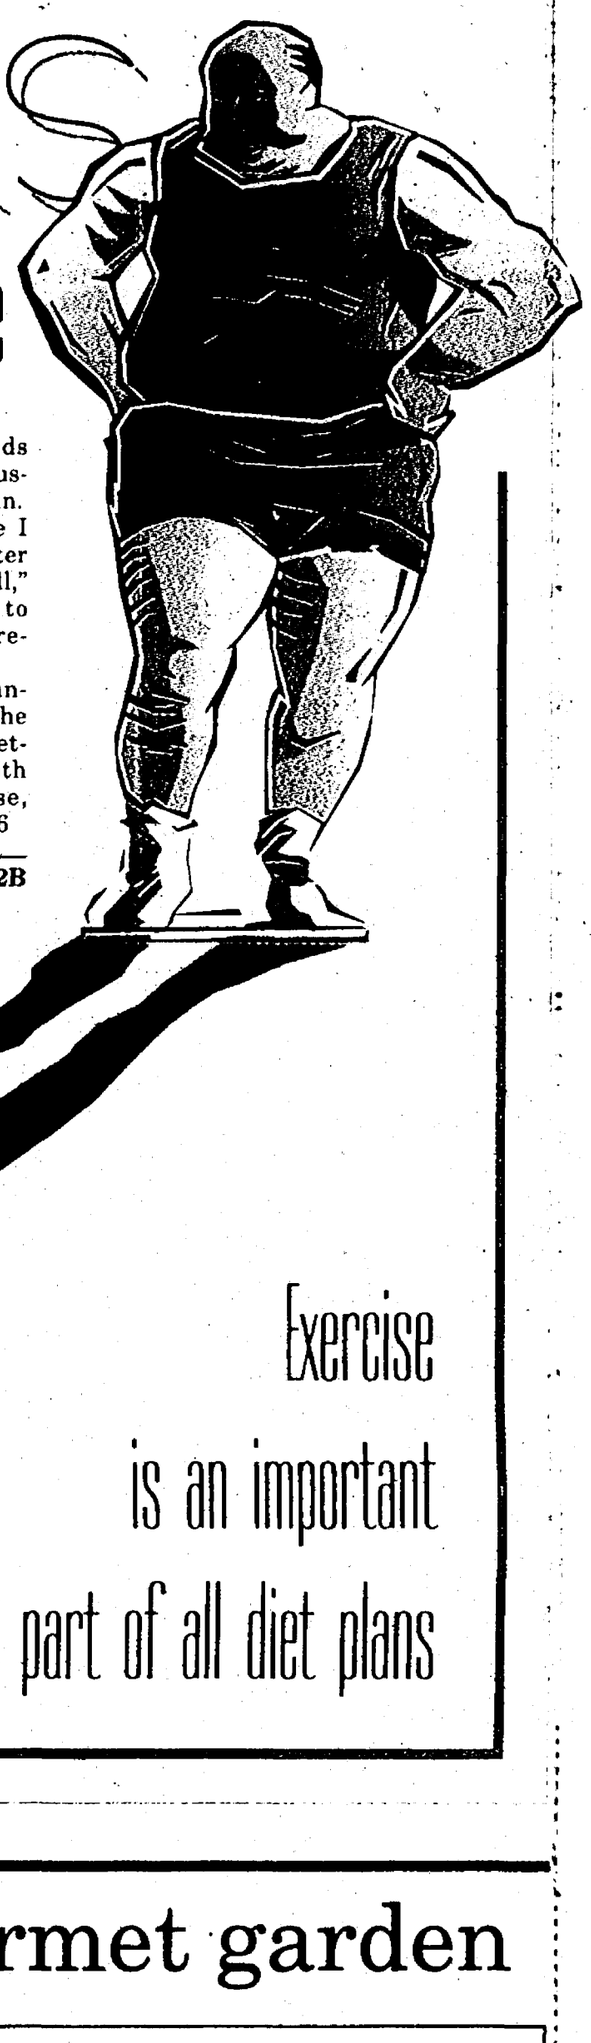
BIG LOSERS

Lose weight gradually to win battle of the bulge



Healthy Resolves

Forget the word diet. Don't set yourself up for failure with unrealistic expectations. Dietitians agree the best weight-loss strategy is exercise and a well-balanced, low-fat food plan that includes healthy snacks.

BY BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

The words successful and loser are seldom applied to the same individuals. In the case of people who have managed to lose weight and maintain that loss, however, the term "successful losers" fits.

There are a score of diet plans on the market, each competing for the money and the attention of those who have battled the bulge most of their lives.

Some of the support offered by these programs is helpful to those who need a little extra hand-holding, but dietitians agree the best plan is a well-balanced diet with an eye to preparation, fat content, snacking and exercise.

"Forget the word diet," said Annapolis Hospital dietitian Cinde Rutkowski. "For long-lasting weight loss, it is best to make reasonable changes to the daily food plan and keep track of the foods you eat."

Strict diets can set people up for failure and then even more weight gain, according to Robin Ferris, director of the Institute for the Study of Eating Disorders in Novi.

"Gradual weight loss is the best," Ferris said. "Understand that a half pound loss a week is just fine and don't put such high expectations on yourself."

Rose Marie Noble of Canton Township and Cheryl Keller of Southfield are determined, this time, to maintain their weight. Noble lost 52 pounds and Keller lost 214 pounds using the Weight Watchers plan.

"I don't really feel like I gave up anything, as a matter of fact I usually feel quite full," Noble said. "I'm learning to watch what I eat and to prepare foods with lower fat."

Keller admits she felt hungry when she first started the plan, but said things are getting a little easier now. With another 66 pounds to lose, Keller tipped the scale at 416

Exercise is an important part of all diet plans

Dig into catalogs to plot gourmet garden

BY ELEANORE AND RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

If you'd like to make your summer dinner table a place of delight and discovery, you need to start planning. If you've only planted packaged seeds from a local garden supply center, you may want to expand your horizons by investigating heir loom seeds available through catalogs.

Will Horwath of Southfield is an avid gardener. "It has always been a joy for me to watch things grow," Horwath said. "Weeding was never a chore."

Horwath makes a point of choosing vegetables that are unique. "I grow things you can't get at a produce market in high season like tomatillos. They make incredible salsas. Silver Queen corn doesn't transport well even when Michigan's commerical farmers grow it so that's a good one to choose. There's nothing like the flavor of fresh-picked vegetables. Everyone realizes this about corn, but it's true for all vegetables.

Horwath emphasizes the beauty of a garden. "Eggplants are pretty to grow, especially the small Oriental varieties suitable for stuffing," he said. "Where else, but in your own garden, can you get a zucchini as big as your little finger with the flower still on the end? Grow red cabbage, it's beautiful."

As soon as the ground can be worked, Horwath plants snow peas and spinach, but because Michigan's growing season is short, a part of his garden focuses on vegetables that can be harvested during the fall, and frequently into early winter if plants are covered with straw.

"I refer to these vegetables as the cabbage and tuber varieties including potatoes, onions, celeriac, carrots, leeks and parsnips," he said. "It's nice in the fall and early winter, when everything's dying, to continue picking a vegetable from a garden."

Horwath also grows what are affectionately called winter greens including Bok choy (Chinese cabbage), Swiss chard (both red and green), broccoli, kale and collard greens. "When frost hits cabbage and tuber crops, they don't die, they get sweeter," Horwath said.

Because Oakland University professor Bob Christina savors the taste of homegrown tomatoes, he plants "long keepers" in his Rochester Hills backyard garden. "You need to be conscious of fall weather patterns and monitor the first frost," he said. "But if you cover long keeper tomato plants on a frosty night and pick as late as possible into October, they'll last another month on the kitchen counter and extend homegrown tomato delights long after vine-ripened tomatoes are unavailable in the produce section."

Horwath is interested in ordering from seed companies specializing in heirloom varieties. "This year, I'm ordering Radiator Charley's Mortgage Lifter tomatoes for the first time. I understand they are especially flavorful in addition to having an intriguing name."

Horwath's garden also includes herbs. "I buy basil plants from a garden supply/nursery house," he said. "Once started from plants, the perennials such as thyme, oregano, rosemary, sage and mint come up every year. Mint is an underused and undervalued herb. Mediterranean cooking, which is popular today, has discovered the use of mint."

Much creative gardening is being done by several California wineries. The most innovative is at Fetzer Vineyards Valley Oaks Ranch in Hopland, California. Always on the cutting edge of food trends, the Fetzer garden abounds with an infinite variety of vegetables, especially peppers. Southwest cooking is hot!

Fetzer's gardening coordinator Jeff Dawson starts peppers in a greenhouse with heat underneath the trays. "After the frost-free date in your area, harden seedlings for a week or two by setting them out for a few hours on warm days," Dawson advises. "Don't plant seedlings too early. They will react negatively if the ground or night air is cold and they may never recover. Pepper plants need staking if you live in an area subject to gusty summer thunderstorms."

Dawson's remark about transplanting too early holds for all seedlings. They all need warm soil and warm air. A cold spell can set them back all season. The recommended planting period in Wayne and Oakland counties is May 20 to June 1. Plants can go into the ground earlier than May 20, but then the gardener must monitor weather forecasts and cover tender plants with cut-off milk cartons to protect them. Frost-free dates are statistical and only provide guidelines.

Dawson agrees with Horwath that a garden offers ornamental attraction. "Peppers perform well in containers and enhance the attractiveness of a patio or terrace," he says. "In cooler climates, containers make good sense. You can move them into the sun during the day and keep them sheltered at night."

Herbs grow equally well in containers and in the ground. Using planters in a variety of colors provides instant outdoor beauty. When using a planter, drill drainage holes in the pot bottom and for enhanced drainage, fill the bottom with pebbles.

Most modern seed companies concentrate on hybrid varieties that are bred for uniform size, high yield, disease resistance and shipability with little flavor consideration. If you haven't been able to grow tasty tomatoes like the ones your grandpa used to grow, you need to research heirloom seeds. These are the beloved, old varietals passed from gardener to gardener over the backyard fence for many generations.

Flavor is foremost with heirlooms. Horwath is enchanted by the very name of Radiator Charley's Mortgage Lifter tomatoes. But try the following on for size — Jenny Lind melons, January King cabbage, Purple Giant cauliflower, King Denmark spinach, White Egg turnips, Chioggia beets, Peaches and Cream corn and Dragon Tongue beans.

Horwath paraphrases Robert Frost's poem "Putting in the Seed" — "All this probably isn't going to work unless you're a slave to the Springtime Passion for the Earth."

To leave a message on the Heald's voice mail — dial 953-2047, mailbox 1864.

Big losers from page 1B

pounds on her first trip to Weight Watchers in 1991.

"I learned I had multiple sclerosis and pictured myself someday lying somewhere unable to care for myself," Keller said. "I prayed a long time for the desire to lose the weight, hoping in the back of my mind that it wouldn't be granted. But it was and a friend asked me to go to a meeting with her."

Now, Keller said, it feels great to know that if she falls down she can pick herself up again.

"We find that most people eat for emotional reasons," Ferris said. "They find food has a numbing effect and are used just like drugs and alcohol."

The therapist said it is important to understand why we eat too much and consider what is at the root of the binging before sitting down with a box of Little Debbie's.

"We tell people that when they get an urge to binge, they should put the craving off for 15 minutes and gradually extend that time. Most of the time, they find the craving passes," said Ferris.

Keller said there is little chance of eliminating desserts and snacks from her life, so she has just learned to accommodate the treat into her daily food plan.

"If I'm going to fix a dessert, I plan for it all day and cut back someplace else," she said.

Noble finds herself snacking during the day, so instead of getting out the whole bag of pretzels and munching during the course of the day, she measures out a cup of pretzels and puts that on the counter.

"That's all the pretzels I get for the day," she said. "I eat them more slowly and am more conscious of how many I am eating."

Rutkowski, a Plymouth resident and immediate past president of the Michigan Dietetic Association, said these are good ways to curb the amount of food you eat during the day and to better plan meals.

"It's important to make trades sometimes," she said. "You can't eliminate junk food completely. It's just important to consider what we are eating."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Consumers are baraged with a steady stream of food labeling claims for "light" (or "lite"). Soon, these terms will have to shed their ambiguity as the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) forces retailers to comply with new labeling rules by July, 1994. Under the new regulations, "light" may be used to describe a product that contains at least one-third fewer calories or 50 percent less fat than the reference food. "Light" may also be used to describe the sodium content of a low-calorie, low-fat product if it has been reduced by half. On the other hand, the term "more" may be used to describe any food containing at least ten percent more of the daily value for protein, vitamins, dietary fiber, or potassium than the reference food.

Instead of trusting the labeling of foods designated as "light", learn to read the labels for fat content. Fats are measured in grams, and the more grams of fat in a product, the higher its fat content. At the GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, we offer an amazing variety of vitamins, supplements, and whole food products. We are committed to offering the lowest prices possible for the highest quality food. If you have any questions, please call us at 981-8100. We are located at 42615 Ford Rd. We are open Monday-Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00, and Sundays from 10:00 to 6:00. Remember, food can be good for you and also taste great!

P.S. The term "light" may also be used to describe the color or texture of a food, as long as the label indicates such.

Salt, pepper and paprika to taste
6 individual disposable pot pie containers

Unroll the dough and press over bottom and sides of individual pot pie containers. Spread dough with Mucky Duck mustard. Sprinkle with bacon; layer with tomato slices and cheese slices.

Beat egg yolks with sour cream, flour, herbs and spices. Set aside.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold egg whites into egg yolk mixture gently. Spoon into prepared pot pie containers. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Makes 6.

Chef's secret: Vegetarians can omit the bacon and substitute steamed broccoli, sauted mushrooms, corn and sauted onions for a great taste too!

Even though it didn't finish in the top five, this recipe was a national finalist at the Beef Cook-off in Cheyenne, Wyo., this fall.

ITALIAN BISTRO STEAK SUBS

1½ pound boneless beef top sirloin, cut 1-inch thick
6 hogie or crusty Italian rolls (split lengthwise)
12 romaine lettuce leaves
½ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cups shredded fontinella or mozzarella cheese
Pepper relish:
1 jar (9½ ounces) mixed pepper salad
½ cup prepared chunky mild salsa
¼ cup sliced ripe olives

Drain pepper salad, reserving 2 teaspoons of the oil mixture. Coarsely chop pepper salad. In a small bowl, combine chopped pepper salad, salsa and olives; set aside.

Brush reserved oil mixture over both sides of beef steaks. Place steak on a hot grill (or under a broiler) and cook for 16-20 minutes for rare to medium doneness, turning once.

Trim fat from steak. Carve steak crosswise into thin slices; season with garlic salt and pepper. Line bottom half of each roll with romaine lettuce leaves. Arrange steak slices over the top. Top each sandwich with 2 tablespoons pepper relish; sprinkle with shredded cheese. Close sandwiches. Serves 6.

Snappy soup ready in minutes

AP — Brimming with snappy flavors of America's Southwest, this soup will satisfy any craving for Mexican food in minutes. Convenient canned ingredients reduce chopping and cleanup. And if you want to reduce the sodium, you can use low-sodium beef broth and tomato paste.

HEARTY RICE AND SAUSAGE SOUP

1 pound turkey sausage or bulk pork sausage
1 medium onion, chopped (½ cup)
½ cup coarsely chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
14½-ounce can Mexican-style stewed tomatoes
2 cups water
10½-ounce can condensed beef broth
½ of a 6-ounce can tomato paste (⅓ cup)
½ teaspoon chili powder
⅓ cup quick-cooking rice
1 medium zucchini, halved lengthwise and sliced ¼-inch thick
Dairy sour cream (optional)
Broken tortilla chips (optional)

In a large saucepan or Dutch oven cook sausage, onion, green pepper and garlic until onion is tender and sausage is brown. Drain off fat.

Cut up any large vegetables in stewed tomatoes. Stir undrained tomatoes, water, broth, tomato paste and chili powder into sausage mixture. Bring just to boiling; reduce heat. Add uncooked rice; cover and simmer for 5 minutes.

Add zucchini; cook, covered, about 5 minutes more or until rice and zucchini are tender. To serve, top each serving with sour cream and tortilla chips, if desired. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

FRESH APPLE-CEREAL BARS

1¼ cups packed brown sugar
½ cup shortening
¼ cup milk
1 egg
2 cups Whole Grain Total or Total Raisin Bran cereal, crushed
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon
1½ cups chopped apples (about 2 medium)
½ cup raisins

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease a rectangular pan, 13 by 9 by 2-inches. Mix brown sugar, shortening, milk and egg in large bowl. Stir in cereal, flour, baking soda and cinnamon; mix in apples and raisins.

Spread evenly in pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean; cool completely. Cut into 2 by 1½-inch bars. Makes 36 bars.

PASTA WITH LENTIL SAUCE

½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped carrot
½ cup chopped celery
2 cups stewed tomatoes, including liquid
1 cup tomato sauce
½ cup drained canned sliced mushrooms
3 ounces dried lentils, rinsed and drained (about 6 tablespoons)
½ teaspoon dried oregano
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
4 cups hot cooked pasta

Spray large saucepan with nonstick cooking spray. Add onion, carrot and celery; cook over medium-high heat until onion is translucent, about 3 minutes.

Add 1¼ cups water and remaining ingredients, except pasta. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat, cover partially and simmer until lentils are tender, stirring occasionally, about 1 hour.

Place pasta in large serving bowl. Pour lentil sauce over top and toss to combine. Makes 4 servings.

Include economical rice in your supper plans

LOIS THIELEKE

Rice deserves a place on the dinner table. A half cup of almost any kind of plain rice contains about 110 calories, lots of complex carbohydrates, a little protein, and except for some packaged mixes, scarcely any fat. Rice is a staple for over half of the world's population. The Japanese eat about 158 pounds of rice per person yearly compared to Americans which eat only about 18 pounds per person.

Rice costs just pennies a serving, and is a big budget booster. Since there's no waste in fixing, no loss in cooking, you get exactly what you pay for. There are thousands of rice varieties, but for most cooks, the length of the grain is the most important difference.

Cooking rice

Short grained rice tends to be sticky and glutinous when cooked. These short grained rice varieties are used most frequently in croquettes, rice puddings, casseroles and molded rice rings. Long grained rice cooks fluffy and is a good choice for salads, pilafs and Chinese style dishes.

To cook rice, it is not necessary to wash it before cooking. This old method probably dates back to the time when rice was dusted with talcum powder that needed to be washed off before cooking. It should not be necessary to rinse it after cooking either. When properly cooked, rice shouldn't need to be drained.

The secret in cooking is measuring accurately, and making sure your cooking pot has a snug cover. One cup raw rice will yield three cups when cooked. One cup of brown rice yields three to four cups cooked. One cup of pre-processed rice will yield about one to two cups cooked.

Parboiled rice, also known as "converted" rice, is processed white rice that has been partly cooked before milling. This rice is long-grain with a light golden color and cooks the same as regular rice. The reason they parboil it before milling is to make it more nutritious. Usually converted rice will give you a fluffy product every time.

Precooked rice or "instant" needs only the briefest cooking. This rice has been fully or partially precooked before being dehydrated. It's sole advantage is a short cooking time, as it is more expensive than regular rice.

Flavorful varieties

Brown rice (long-grain), retains the bran but not the hulls. Brown rice has a hearty flavor and chewy texture that many people like. Nutritionally, however, brown rice is similar to enriched white varieties, except that it contains slightly more trace minerals, a bit more fat and up to three times more fiber. But unless you eat several cups of it a day, brown rice is not a significant fiber source. Brown rice has about 89 calories per half cup whereas white rice is about 82 calories. Brown rice is usually packaged in smaller boxes or bags because the oil in the bran can go rancid if stored too long. It is recommended that brown rice be stored in the refrigerator for the best quality.

Wild rice, is not a rice at all, but the seeds of a grass native to North America. Now grown in paddies in California, Minnesota and Wisconsin, it is available in most supermarkets. Nutty and rich in flavor, it has more protein and fewer calories than rice (about 70 calories per half-cup cooked), plus some B vitamins. It yields double the volume of regular rice when cooked, which partly makes up for its high price.

Basmati rice, (white or brown), means "queen of fragrance" in Hindi. This rice, grown in India and Pakistan, has a sweet nutty flavor and smell. It is similar nutritionally to other rice but more expensive than plain white long-grains. Basmati rice is great for western dishes as well as for Indian cooking. Texmati, Wehani and wild pecan rice are all basmati hybrids or crosses. Usually these should be picked over and washed before cooking to remove any small stones.

Pre-seasoned rices, mixes are popular and easy to prepare. These are long-grain rice mixed with various seasonings such as beef, chicken, herb, curry, chili, or cheese. Generally, they're very high in sodium as well as price. They may also contain partially hydrogenated oils and cooking instructions call for large amounts of fat. Sugars such as corn syrup and dextrose, may also be ingredients. Read the label.

Flavor ordinary rice with herbs, defatted stock and vegetables to keep the dish low in fat and sodium.

Apple pie with figs sweet

AP — Dried figs add a new wrinkle to old-fashioned apple pie, along with a sweet, melonlike flavor. To make this full-of-fruit pie, you can use light Calimyrna figs or dark Mission figs. Both types are available all year long.

APPLE-FIG PIE

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon purchased or Homemade Apple Pie Spice (recipe below)
6 ounces dried figs, stems removed and finely chopped (1 cup)
1 cup cold water
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 cups thinly sliced, peeled, cooking apples (about 1½ pounds)
15-ounce package folded, refrigerated, unbaked pie crusts (2 crusts), at room temperature
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
Whipped cream (optional).

For filling, in a large saucepan stir together sugar, cornstarch and spice. Stir in figs, the 1 cup water, honey, lemon peel and lemon juice. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat; gently stir in apples.

Line a 9-inch pie plate with one of the piecrusts. Pour filling into pie plate; spread evenly. Trim pastry to edge of pie plate.

Using an hors d'oeuvre or cookie cutter, cut leaf shapes out of center of top crust; place crust over filling. Arrange leaf cutouts on pastry. Seal and flute pastry edges. In a small bowl beat egg; stir in the 1 tablespoon water. Brush egg mixture onto crust.

To prevent overbrowning, cover edge of pie with foil. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 25 minutes. Remove foil; bake about 25 minutes more or until golden. Cool on a wire rack. Serve with whipped cream. Makes 8 servings.

To Freeze: Prepare pie as directed, except do not make cutouts in top crust, brush with egg mixture, or bake. Cover unbaked pie with an inverted 10-inch paper plate. Wrap tightly in foil; seal, label and freeze for up to 4 months.

To bake, uncover frozen pie. Prick or cut slits in top crust. Rewrap with foil. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 45 minutes. Uncover and brush with egg mixture. Bake about 40 minutes more or until crust is golden brown. Cover edge of piecrust with foil the last 15 minutes of baking to prevent overbrowning, if necessary.

Homemade Apple Pie Spice: In a storage container, combine 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1½ teaspoons ground nutmeg, 1 teaspoon ground allspice and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves. Store, tightly covered, in a cool, dry place.

MUSIC NOTES

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Soundgarden fans can preview the band's new 15-song album "Superunknown" one month before it hits the stores. By dialing (800) 204-ROCK, fans will hear excerpts of four songs — the funk metal of "Spoonman" (the first single and video), the slow groove of "The Day I Tried to Live," the AOR-made "Fell on Black Days" and the hook-laden "My Wave," one of the songs previewed at their Pine Knob show in the fall.

The band, who begins their U.S. tour in May, will release vinyl copies of their album on Feb. 22, two weeks before the CD and cassette street date of March 8. There will also be a limited amount of colored vinyl — blue, orange and clear.

Excerpts of songs by Swervedriver (who plays the Blind Pig Friday, Feb. 4, with Medicine), Doughboys, Therapy? and Paw can also be heard by calling the number.

Here's a warning for current or future girlfriends of Greta singer Paul Plagens: If your clothes start disappearing from your closet, you can count on an impending breakup. "A girl can tell when we're getting close to the end (of a relationship) when I borrow a couple dresses and don't give them back."

Plagens, you see, has a penchant for wearing dresses. At a recent Harpo's show, he donned a dress on stage and while judging the "sexy ladies" contest. Inside the CD booklet, he was photographed wearing a simple, "Little House on the Prairie" number.

Like his dresses, the band's lyrics are innocent and simple — discussing things like their hatred of school ("School on Fire") and ex-girlfriends ("Dirtbag"). That's a far cry from the intense lyrics their former bandmates — Pearl Jam's Eddie Vedder and Rage Against the Machine's drummer Brad Wilk — are now throwing out. "It's so totally irrelevant," said lead guitarist Kyle Baer when his former bandmates are mentioned. "If this band got really famous, it would be an interesting footnote." But until then, it's a forbidden subject.

Gangster Fun: To be ska free

■ Fed up with being exclusively labeled as "ska," Gangster Fun is trying to show people that the horn-laden form of music isn't just a novelty.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

A "new" label: Few people know what "ska" music is, so Gangster Fun wishes that more people would just call them "alternative."

There's no way to misinterpret how Gangster Fun feels about being pigeonholed as a ska band.

"Ska sucks," drummer Brian Bowie and lead vocalist John Bunkley said almost in sync.

"We're tired of being labeled as a ska band. We're pigeonholed as some sort of novelty act . . . As if ska is any different from alternative. We're just as alternative as any other alternative music," Bowie said.

"Really, we're just like every other rock band in Detroit except we have a little different beat," Bunkley added.

Most people don't realize that, according to Bunkley. He's tired of explaining ska music to people who are unfamiliar with it. (For the record, "The Rolling Stone Encyclopedia of Rock & Roll" describes it as "quicker and less brooding than reggae.")

Because of the ambiguity of ska music, many people assume that it's "this weird, weird fringe thing," Bowie said. In response, they're trying to clear up that misconception. Many things have hindered their quest, however, they said.

For example, winning the "Best World Beat Band" prize at the Detroit Music Awards has caused further confusion. Bowie said that being incorrectly lumped into "world beat" is insulting because they're "alternative."

"When somebody gives you an award that says 'Best World Beat Band,' that's a put down to every world beat band in Detroit," said Bowie, a Pontiac resident.

Also, compilations like "American Ska-thic: A Portrait of Midwest ska Past to Present" further pigeonholes ska, he added. Members of Gangster Fun appear on the CD with the Steady Earnest horns playing a cover of AC/DC's "You Shook Me All Night Long." They're unhappy with the track because it was recorded with another member singing lead — not Bunkley..

At any rate Midwestern ska, they said, doesn't offer Gangster Fun any competition because many bands are just studio projects.

"We don't want anything to do with it," Bunkley said of Midwestern ska.

Chuck Wren, a Chicago ska DJ and organizer of "American Ska-thic," said the "ska" or "Midwestern ska" labels aren't all that bad.

" 'Alternative' means nothing today. For them to want to be called that means nothing."

■ STREET BEATS

Bowie and Bunkley stressed that they're not being "pompous" by wanting to nix the musical pigeonhole.

"If you've been listening to it for as long as we have, (you'd be sick of it, too). . . . Our music is different because it's our own. If you can't stand your own music, then you quit the band," Bowie said.

Gangster Fun has been around since the late 1980s when it released "Come See, Come Ska" on England's ska Records in 1989. The album proved successful for the band, which has since gigged with bands such as Fugazi, Bad Brains, Bad Manners and Bim Skala Bim. Bunkley said the key to their success is that musically and lyrically, they use a light-hearted approach to get serious messages across.

"I think we're more light-hearted people than most bands. They take themselves and their music 'way too seriously. They use it as a means to an end . . . just have a good time until you break up," Bunkley said.

Despite general unhappiness with the music business, the duo didn't see Gangster Fun breaking up any time soon. In fact, they're recording an EP at The Disc in Eastpointe for possible release in June. The CD, which will include a cover and a few originals, is their first since 1991's "Time Flies When You're Gangster Fun." It took three years to record their new record, they said, because they were "lazy."

"We just didn't get around to doing it. It's expensive to run a band with 10 people in it," Bowie said. (Gangster Fun also includes keyboardist Andy Birko of Livonia, guitarist/vocalist David Minnick of Center Line, percussionist/vocalist Josh Silverstein of Southfield, saxophonist Chris Minnick of Ann Arbor, trumpeter Tony Albano of Sterling Heights, trombonist John Ferry of Milan and bassist Ron Hill of Detroit.)

"We're a bunch of slackers. We're never on time," Bowie said. (Well, not never: They were on time for their interview.)

The yet-to-be-named EP will carry Gangster Fun's trademark sound. After all, Bowie said, they may be sick of ska, but they're not sick of their music.

Gangster Fun performs Saturday, Feb. 5, along with Gun Rack at the Falcon Club, 3515 Caniff, Hamtramck. Doors open at 9 p.m. Must be 18 to enter. Cover charge is $5. For more information, call (313) 368-6010.

Rising stars: Hot Footin' Puddin' Pie — Kim Marro (left), Dee Boman, Deb Agolli and Lenny Pops — is quickly becoming one of the most talked-about Detroit bands.

Proof is in Puddin' for charming band

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Hot Footin' Puddin' Pie has an undeniable charm about them.

When lead singer Lenny Pops enters a room, he commands attention with his somewhat pompous air, trademark curly reddish-brown hair and 1970s-style black leather coat. In tow are three females who ooze "cool" — suave drummer Deb Agolli, the platinum-blonde cherubic Kim Marro, and the sweet-talking smiling Dee Boman.

This quartet may be an eyeful to look at but don't underestimate their musical talent. They've become one of the most talked about up-and-coming Detroit bands.

Modestly Marro explained how she thinks the buzz about Hot Footin' was created.

"We're not so serious. We have a playful, charming aspect. It's contagious when people see us," she said.

Try to take your eyes away from the stage on which Hot Footin' is playing and you'll find yourself subconsciously returning to them.

The sweet vocal harmonies of Agolli, Marro and Boman in songs like "Willow Tree" will swirl around in

Blink' suffers from chronic eye strain

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
STAFF WRITER

In "Blink," Madeleine Stowe plays Emma, a raven-haired Celtic violinist who has been blind for most of her 28 years. Following a cornea transplant, her vision blurs in and out of murky focus as she becomes accustomed to her second sight.

Emma isn't overjoyed with what she sees. She lives in a dingy section of Chicago, where everything appears ugly and crass. On the first night with the bandages off, she sees the foggy image of a murderer who killed the woman in the apartment upstairs.

For her part, Stowe is quite believable as a strong-willed woman coping with a dramatic change in her life. The script for "Blink," however, degenerates into your standard serial killer scenario with only an occasional twist.

MOVIES

Likable Irish actor Aidan Quinn is the police detective assigned to the murder case. Not surprisingly, he falls in love with his star witness.

There's an appealing Chicago/Celtic background to "Blink," but it's only on the surface. A brief chase through the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade adds up to nothing and only serves to remind you how cleverly the same event was used in last year's "The Fugitive."

Fans of the genre will find a few surprises, a decent red herring and a perverse quality that goes beyond the killer's penchant for necrophillia and blood-letting. The cop himself has a weird view of the victims. As a dead woman lies in her own blood in a bathtub, he pretends to interrogate her.

And as much as we're outraged by the murder, our only images of the victim are of a spoiled, noisy young woman who made faces at Emma as they passed on the stairs.

Among the movie's assets is Michael Apted, perhaps the only director in Hollywood who jumps nimbly between documentary and narrative projects. He's still best known for his ongoing portrait of English classmates from children to adults. (The latest installment was called "35 Up.")

He uses the heroine's blurry vision to effectively keep you on edge, messing with the part of your body which many might consider the most sensitive. Faces transform in a yellow haze, sometimes into the killer or her mother, who blinded Emma at age eight by slamming her face into a mirror.

A tough, smart woman plagued by memories of the past, was one of the keys to "Silence of the Lambs," but that's overshadowed here by typical dumb movie conventions. The love-hate relationship with Quinn's chauvinistic cop leads to a steamy scene in her apartment where they can't hide their passions any longer.

The Oscar for "Silence" proved that you don't need a dopey love relationship to sell a thriller. Movies like "Blink" remain blind to that idea.

your head long after the show is over. In sync with their influences that begin as far back as the 1950s, the three women dress the part. Sometimes it's calf-length poodle-like skirts and scarves tied around their hair, or tight T-shirts and jeans. But in Hot Footin's case, it's not the clothes that make the band, Pops said.

"We work really hard in writing songs that we'd like to listen to and play," said Pops, whose band plays The Falcon Club in Hamtramck on Thursday.

That list includes influences like The Velvet Underground, David Bowie's Ziggy Stardust years, Parliament-Funkadelic and The Stooges.

"P.J., P.J. Harvey," interjected Boman, dressed in shorts, thigh-high leg warmers and a bulky sweater.

"Old disco," energetically added Agolli, who chose that day to wear a tight Peter Frampton T-shirt, faded jeans and a tan cardigan sweater.

Hot Footin', a name that Marro and Boman came up with while driving back from a trip down south, blends these influences into a groovy, sometimes bluesy and hypnotic sound. Pops said it is their way of honoring their main influences, such as "the Detroit sound of the '70s."

"We like to pay homage to it in our own way," said Pops, a Philadelphia, Pa., native.

They don't mimic any sound, however. It's one that's definitely their own.

"We just play what's true to us; we're not trying to jump on any bandwagon," Pops said.

"I don't think there's any bandwagon we could jump on," interrupted Agolli, who also plays with the band Outrageous Cherry.

"We just want to make eardrums bleed," Pops added with a suspicious smile.

Folks attending this year's Mardi Gras festival in New Orleans will get to feel that pleasantly painful experience. The band will head down there later this month to play on the street for partiers. Boman and Marro, one-time members of an Irish folk band, are veterans of the festival. They made a whopping $6.66 in donations from the crowd.

"We felt so stupid singing to the air," Marro said sweetly. "But it's the whole vibe."

Most of the people down there are too, well, pre-occupied to pay attention to the music. Marro said nevertheless it's fun playing along side of national alternative rock acts like the Chickasaw Mudpuppies.

"It's like it doesn't matter who you are . . . There's a whole diverse musical range (performing)," she said.

Although they don't plan on making tons of money down there, the scene is befitting of the attitude they have about their shows.

"We try to create a party atmosphere. We want it to be laid back. Forget about the big show business vibe," Pops said.

The Detroit Science Center and Franklin Street Brewing Company are co-hosting a Mick Jagger look-alike contest at 6 p.m. Friday, Feb. 11. The contest is in conjunction with the Michigan premiere of the Rolling Stones' concert film "At The Max," which will run Feb. 17 through August at the center's Omnimax Theater, 5020 John R, Detroit. To enter, Mick-alikes just need to show up at Franklin Street Brewing Company (BC's), 1560 Franklin St. near the corner of Franklin and Arlene.

The grand prize winner will receive a private screening of "At The Max" and an invitation to the sneak preview Ruby Tuesday party. The first 10 runners-up will receive dinner for two at BC's. For more information, call 855-6777.

Congratulations to The Verve Pipe, "The Observer & Eccentric Band of the Year," Bat Mike, and Brothers From Another Planet who will travel to Austin, Texas, in March to play for record company executives during the South by Southwest music conference.

Locally speaking, The Verve Pipe will sing the national anthem prior to the Detroit Pistons-Portland game at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 2.

In the studio: The rock band and Club of Faith founders Bent Lucy is working on their debut CD at the White Room Studios in Detroit. It's tentatively titled "Clowns." . . . Walk on Water will release a CD-5 in March . . . King Missle and the Stone Temple Pilots have returned to the studio to record the followup to their successful albums.

The alternative rock band The Pretty Green marked the release of their 7-inch EP "The Emma Peel Sessions" with the debut of their newsletter, simply called "The Pretty Green Newsletter." The newsletter, printed on green paper, reviews their recent shows and shares facts about the band, such as their favorite single, musicians, movies, etc. The EP, which was recorded at Soundcamp Studios in Macomb, kicks off with the British-influenced "Ask Me Why" and ends with "There You Are" by the Goo Goo Dolls.

Their record release party at Lili's 21 in Hamtramck on Jan. 22 was the band's first date on their 1994 "Hats Off to Larry" tour. To order the newsletter and the single (which is available on vinyl and cassette) send $6 to: Mitch Kozera, c/o The Pretty Green, 11515 Hanford, Warren, MI 48093. Allow four weeks for delivery.

Pilut Madonna MVP

Mazie Pilut, a senior setter from Redford Bishop Borgess High, was named Madonna University's Most Valuable Player and Miss Volleyball at the team's awards banquet Friday.

Pilut, also selected second-team All-America, helped Madonna finish 46-8 overall as the Lady Crusaders earned a fifth-place finish in the NAIA Tournament.

Senior Kari Van Deusen, a first-team NAIA All-America, won the team's Offensive Player of the Year.

Other awards went to Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) and Julie Martin (Livonia), Freshman of the Year; and junior Maureen Paulin (Farmington Hills Mercy), Defensive Player of the Year.

CC ices Stevenson

Redford Catholic Central, rated No. 2 in the latest statewide coaches Class A hockey poll, ran its overall record to 11-0-1 with a 7-2 win over Livonia Stevenson in a non-leaguer Wednesday at Eddie Edgar Arena.

The Shamrocks led 3-2 after two periods before breaking it wide open with four unanswered goals in the final period.

Greg Vaquera, Pete Davis, Eric Vaquera and Bob Klemmer scored during the third-period surge. Kevin Pedersen assisted on two of the goals, while Davis, Dan Hunt, Greg Vaquera, Ken Lauer and Chris Gonzalez also drew assists.

The Shamrocks led 3-0 after one period on goals by Jon Heady, Mark Holdridge and Greg Vaquera. Assists went to Jeff Helner, Jason Couture, Heady and Holdridge.

Stevenson came back in the second period on goals by Kevin Berger (unassisted) and Dave Gorton (from Tony Ferrero).

But the Spartans (8-6 overall) couldn't beat CC netminder Mike Brusseau in the final period.

CC outshot the Spartans, 31-12.

■ The line of Dave Proctor (one goal/four assists), Chris Mason (two goals/one assist) and Joe O'Connell (two goals) carried Livonia Franklin to a 6-2 victory over Bloomfield Hills Andover in a game played Wednesday at Eddie Edgar Arena.

The Patriots built a 5-0 lead after one period and never looked back.

Franklin improved to 6-7-1 overall and 3-5-1 in the Suburban High School Hockey League. Andover slips to 8-6 and 7-4.

Ed Kruschka added a goal and two assists for the winners, while Dominic Catanzarite chipped in with a pair of assists. Jason Weier, Kevin Bernard and Todd Sexton also collected assists.

Freshman goalie Brendon Frazier made 22 saves.

Knights win division

The Livonia Knights squirt AA hockey team won its division championship in the recent Sports Weekend Extravaganza Tournament. The Knights defeated the Lakeland Hawks in the final, 3-1.

Head coach Mike McLean is assisted by Dan Lerg, Bill Smith and manager Larry Marshall. The team is sponsored by Chrysan Industries, American Representatives and Major Magic's Pizza.

■ The Livonia Knights Bantam A hockey team took runnerup honors in the Sports Weekend Extravaganza. The Knights lost to the Windsor Club 240 AAA team, 1-0, in the championship after winning 4-3 in overtime in the semifinal against the York Toros.

Team sponsors are Henry Ford Medical Center, American Gear & Engineering, Man-u-tec and Wisti Excavating.

Ice show Sunday

Students enrolled in the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation's figure skating programs will put on an exhibition performance beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6, at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

For more information, call 261-2260.

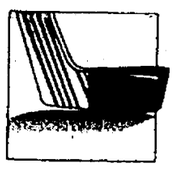
Wayne softball meetings

New and returning teams in the City of Wayne Department of Parks and Recreation softball leagues should report for an organizational meeting Thursday, Feb. 24, at the Community Center.

Co-ed and women's teams should send a representative at 6 p.m.; men's over 40, 6:30 p.m.; and men's division I and II, 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call Larry Quartuccio (522-1505) or the Wayne Community Center (721-7400).

Churchill wins; protest pending



Livonia Churchill stayed in the hunt in the Suburban High School Hockey League race with a 5-4 victory over city rival Franklin, but a protest by losing coach Terry Jobbitt may be pending.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Franklin hockey coach Terry Jobbitt felt better about his team's chances Friday night after he saw Churchill senior forward Dan Higham step on the Eddie Edgar Arena ice.

Higham usually makes the Chargers' offense go, but his presence might result in a forfeit. Churchill beat Franklin, 5-4, but Jobbitt said he plans to protest the game because he said Higham should have been ineligible to play.

Higham was required to sit out two games after getting in a fight Jan. 12 against Wyandotte. Churchill coach Jeff Hatley said Higham sat out one game, Jan. 22 against Birmingham.

The other two games since the fight, against Southfield-Lathrup and Bloomfield Hills Andover, were postponed because of bad weather, and Hatley said he got the go-ahead from athletic director Don Albertson to play Higham against Franklin.

Jobbitt was one of the first to know Higham sat out only one game because he does the Suburban Prep Hockey League statistics.

"He played an illegal player and he knows better and the athletic director knows better," Jobbitt said. "It's not fair play and what we promote in high school sports."

The Chargers improved to 6-6 overall and are in second place in the SPHL at 6-2, pending the protest, of course. Franklin, which upset Bloomfield Hills Andover on Wednesday, is 6-8-1 overall and 3-6-1 in the SPHL.

"If it happens, it happens," Hatley said of the possible forfeit.

"This was a good, exciting hockey game," he added. "Their goalie (Branden Frazier) stood on his head a couple times but our kid (Mark Felker) did, too. When he was called on to make a save, he did.

"We've put all our eggs in one basket this year. We'll play hard in the league, but we're trying to build for the Class A regional."

Higham played a key role for Churchill, scoring one goal with three assists. He deflected a shot by teammate Justin Young past Frazier at 6:15 of the second period to give the Chargers a 4-3 lead.

Franklin junior forward Dominic Catanzarite tied the score at 4-4 with both teams playing short-handed at 1:43 of the third period but Churchill's senior forward Dan McNutt scored the game winner on a rebound shot with less than six minutes remaining.

McNutt's first shot was stopped by Frazier, but he had the Franklin freshman in a vulnerable position on the rebound.

"He was on his knees and there was an open net in the upper right corner," said McNutt, who plays right wing on a line with left wing Jason Lee and center Jason Samelko. "We beat them 5-1 last time but we weren't going to take them lightly. This is exciting, my last game against Franklin as a senior."

Dave Higham, Samelko and Todd Kesler added one goal each for the Chargers, who outshot the Patriots, 36-19. The Chargers scored two power-play goals and one short-handed.

Junior forward Dave Proctor led Franklin with two goals and sophomore defenseman Brad Dicks added one goal. Senior Joe O'Connell had two assists.

The two teams were tied 2-2 after one period before Churchill went ahead 4-3 with a 16-6 shots on goal advantage in the second period.

"We played very well in the first and third periods but the second period we let down quite a bit," Jobbitt said. "That was a hell of a game for Proctor, three consecutive great games. The whole line (including O'Connell and Chris Mason) is developing together."

CC's Hoener hero in 64-60 triumph vs. Bishop Borgess

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

■ BASKETBALL

Justin Hoener's 19-foot jump shot with one second left Friday not only clinched a victory for Redford Catholic Central's basketball team, it also won some additional respect from coach Bernie Holowicki.

Hoener's shot broke a 60-60 tie and the Shamrocks held on for a 64-60 win over visiting Redford Bishop Borgess.

The sophomore guard was eager to have the ball in his hands at the end.

"After we called timeout with 11 seconds left, he came to the huddle and said he wanted the ball," Holowicki said.

"He kind of chuckled at me and said 'don't give me any of that,'" Hoener said. "I knew once I got the ball I was going to take the shot. I knew it was going in when I let go of it."

The inbounds pass from half-court went to Hoener, who released the jumper with his feet on the three-point line.

"I guess he proved he was right," Holowicki said.

Borgess' last chance failed when a desperation full-court pass hit the ceiling. Mike Ridley added two free throws for the final points.

With the win, the Shamrocks improved to 7-3 overall and 5-1 in the Catholic League Central Division. The Spartans, who let a 34-21 halftime lead slip away, dropped to 6-5 overall and 4-2 in the Central Division.

It was the second heartbreaking loss for Borgess to CC this month. On Jan. 4, the Spartans rallied from a 17-point deficit to tie the game before losing 61-53.

On Friday, Borgess led 42-29 midway through the third quarter, before the Shamrocks exploded on a 27-8 run over the next seven minutes for a 56-50 lead with 4:03 left in the fourth quarter.

"I told the team at halftime that we weren't playing with intensity and we weren't finding our men on defense," Holowicki said. "We were leaving (Charles) Smith wide open and you can't do that — he can flat out play."

Smith scored 15 of his game-high 24 points in the first half, but his hot shooting was cooled in the third when the Shamrocks made their run.

CC gained the momentum by stepping up its defense and forcing Borgess into seven third-quarter turnovers. On offense, the Shamrocks were scoring at will with drives through the middle by Hoener and senior guard Anthony Hesano.

"We played with handcuffs on in the first half," Holowicki said. "I told them that if (the lane) was there to take it."

Ridley led the Shamrocks with 21 points and they were vital since senior guard Andy Kummer, who scored 17 in CC's first win over Borgess, was held scoreless in the game.

Hoener finished with 13 and Joe Daly added 11. Perry Robinson tallied 13 points off the bench for Borgess.

"We made some mistakes late," said Borgess coach Glen Donahue. "We took the lead three times in the fourth and let them come right back and score on simple shots. We didn't help out on defense, and we weren't taking the lane away."

Harrison snaps Chargers' victory string

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

With only a few minutes gone in the basketball game, it was clear Livonia Churchill's three-game winning streak was in jeopardy Friday.

Farmington Hills Harrison wasted no time getting its game in high gear and eventually coasted to 74-58 victory over the host Chargers.

The Hawks were incredibly efficient in the first quarter, hitting 11 of 12 field goals for 92-percent shooting.

A bad situation was compounded for Churchill by its 2-of-15 shooting (13 percent) as Harrison raced to a 26-5 lead after one period.

"That's not a bad team we played against," Harrison coach Mike Teachman said. "Churchill has been on a roll. I think they've turned the corner down here after a couple of lackluster years. It just happened for us tonight."

Both teams are 2-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Hawks improved their overall record to 6-5 and the Chargers fell to 4-7.

While most people would be impressed by Harrison's scoring, Teachman was glowing afterward about the team play that enabled the Hawks to get the kind of shots they did.

Senior Rick Smith and freshman Kevin Bambenek did all of their scoring (11 points apiece) in the first half, while senior Calvin Pruitt had 10 of his game-high 18 before halftime. They led the first-quarter charge with seven, seven and eight, respectively.

Senior Charles Bambenek also had 11 points, senior Aaron Weiss eight and junior Jeremy White seven. Pruitt pulled down 13 rebounds.

Churchill outscored the Hawks 53-48 in the last three quarters, but the Chargers went the first 4½ minutes without a point and dug too big a hole too early in the game.

Jaime Williston had 14 points to lead Churchill, which shot 36 percent overall (23-63). Bill Morris followed with 10 and Jedd Thorderson eight. Jeff Anderson, Tim Wrublewski and Chad Uhlinger added five each.

"It was a combination of them shooting very well (in the first quarter) and us playing ole' defense," Churchill coach Tom Lang said. "I figure most of the 11 shots were layups, and we missed our first seven.

"We came off a game hitting 24 of 49. When this happens it's hard to know what to do. The kids never quit and played hard. I think we're all disappointed — me and the guys.

"We have no excuse, but we didn't practice Thursday and we weren't in school today. That might have had something to do with it. We weren't ready."

Harrison's shooting didn't fall off much after the first quarter. The Hawks made seven of 11 shots in the second and led 45-21 at halftime. Harrison shot 78 percent (18-23) in the first half.

Charles Bambenek, after playing his role and being the playmaker early in the game, scored nine points and Pruitt eight in the third period. The Hawks saw their shooting drop to 50 percent (7-14) but still led 64-35.

■ GAMES POSTPONED: Inclement weather and school closings affected three Western Lakes Activities Association games. Among those postponed included: Plymouth Salem at Farmington (played Jan. 29), Livonia Franklin at Plymouth Canton (rescheduled for Feb. 2) and Westland John Glenn at Livonia Stevenson (to be announced).

Henry Ford continues winning ways over SC

■ COLLEGES

After losing for the ninth time in 10 Eastern Conference games, it's easy to understand why Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Dave Bogataj would be a bit short on patience.

Particularly when history keeps repeating itself, which it seemingly did in Wednesday's 92-74 loss to Henry Ford CC at SC.

"We talked about it last time," said Bogataj. "We got destroyed in the second half. And we didn't get the rebounding when we needed it."

Against St. Clair CC four days earlier, the Ocelots had pulled to within five with 7½ minutes left to play, then ended up losing by 20.

They never got that close to the Hawks in the second half. The best SC could do was narrow the gap to 10.

Henry Ford, which shared the conference lead at 7-3 with Highland Park going into Saturday's games, opened the game with a 13-2 run and was never headed.

Mickey Brown proved overpowering for the Hawks; he scored 39 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and limited SC's Todd McNeil, the conference's leading scorer and fourth-best rebounder, to 17 points and five boards. Chris Ireland added 18 points. Aaron Bailey scored 15 for Henry Ford.

In addition to McNeil, SC got double-figure scoring from Dan Perttula (17 points) and Tony Maciejewski (16). Maciejewski also had a team-high seven rebounds. Fadi Bazzi played well at point guard, collecting six points and nine assists while committing just two turnovers.

The Ocelots, now 7-13 overall, were without starting forward Steve Whitlow for the third-straight game. Whitlow was suffering from a mild case of pneumonia; he is expected to be able to play Wednesday against Delta.

■ HENRY FORD 69, S'CRAFT (WOMEN) 61: A terrible first half proved more than the Lady Ocelots could overcome Wednesday at SC.

The loss left them at 7-8 overall, 3-6 in the conference. Henry Ford improved to 6-3 in the conference.

SC coach Jack Grenan estimated that his team "missed 10 layups" in the first half, one good reason the Lady Hawks were up 43-23 at the break. But the Lady Ocelots kept hammering away at the deficit, thanks to strong inside play from Jennifer Samson (14 points) and Tricia Kazyaka (12).

SC was within 63-58 with 1:16 left when Samson was whistled for an intentional foul, a call Grenan disputed and one he thought cost his team any hope of victory. Henry Ford not only got the free throws but retained possession.

Dawn Newlin and Cindy Muha added nine points apiece for SC.

Glenn gridders commit to Grand Valley, Ferris

■ RECRUITING

Two Westland John Glenn football players made oral commitments last week.

Glenn tight end Mike Bint committed to Grand Valley and linebacker Jeromey Cosby committed to Ferris State. Wednesday is the first day players can sign national letters of intent.

Bint, 6-foot-3, 225 pounds, visited Central Michigan University on Jan. 22 and two days later settled on Grand Valley.

"Central wanted to wait until this Wednesday (before deciding on offering a scholarship) and Grand Valley wanted to know Monday night," Bint said. "If I had said no to Grand Valley and Central not come through I really would be in trouble. I really look forward to going to Grand Valley."

One of the things that attracted Cosby to Ferris State was the Bulldogs' undefeated regular season last year. Cosby, a 5-10, 200-pounder who impressed scouts with his speed, picked the school in Big Rapids over Grand Valley.

"I like their program and Ferris is inside a big community, whereas Grand Valley is set away from the city," Cosby said.

Glenn all-purpose player Matt Howton, who returned four punts and one kickoff for a touchdown last fall, is visiting Grand Valley this week.

Another Glenn player, 6-foot, 220-pound nose guard Jason Fuller, who carries a 4.0 grade point average, is still drawing interest from Ferris State but might consider walking on at Michigan State University, his mother said.

Sharpe cites progress despite loss to Aquinas

There are signs of improvement.

For example, check out the shooting from the floor. Madonna University was consistent Wednesday against visiting Aquinas College, converting 40 percent of its first-half shots (15-of-37) and 44 percent in the second half (15-of-34). And the Fighting Crusaders hit 6-of-18 three-pointers (33 percent), too.

But they still showed little ability on defense. Aquinas — hardly a powerhouse; the Saints were 3-15 coming into the game — connected on 70.4 percent from the floor in the first half (31-of-44) to pull out to a 72-41 halftime lead. That was more than enough cushion; Aquinas won easily, 125-89.

The loss dropped Madonna to 2-21 overall.

"People have figured out if they go down low on us, they can do anything they want," said Madonna coach Bill Sharpe. "(Aquinas) usually doesn't try to force the ball inside, but knowing how weak we are they're going to take it inside.

"Our freshmen big men are clearly overmatched by upperclassmen."

For the Crusaders to challenge, they needed an emotional effort. They didn't get it, offensively or defensively. They committed 24 turnovers to Aquinas' 11 and were outrebounded 38-27.

"As long as we let a team put us in a 30-point hole in the first half, we're not going to win any ball games," said Sharpe, adding sarcastically, "Our stellar defense was incredible as usual. When you play with a lack of emotion, and lazy, you're going to get blown out of ball games."

It didn't help that two starters were missing. Mike Slone was sidelined with a sore back, and Eric Furlotte was still recovering from an ankle injury suffered Jan. 15. Furlotte could return later this week.

J. Dimes' 22 points and 10 rebounds paced Madonna. Dan Dombrow added 15 points, Kurt Carlos had 11, Christian Emert scored nine and Doug Soper netted eight.

The Saints used balanced scoring in destroying Madonna. Seven players reached double figures in scoring: Bill Lengeman (19), Troy Wilcox (18), Tom Merritt (15, on 7-for-7 floor shooting).

Rockets' Little looms large in victory

■ VOLLEYBALL

Lynn Little recorded 13 kills and seven blocks Wednesday, sparking host Westland John Glenn to a 15-6, 15-6, 12-15, 15-4 volleyball win over Walled Lake Western.

Stacy Strickler contributed six kills and two blocks, while Christi Wyrybkowski served effectively for the Rockets, now 12-4 overall and 2-1 in the Western Lake Activities Association.

Earlier in the week, Little had 18 kills and 19 blocks, but it wasn't enough as Glenn fell at Livonia Churchill, 15-12, 15-11, 8-15, 12-15, 15-8.

Yasemin Ahmed had six ace serves, while Marianne Candela and Jamie Cook teamed up for 48 digs.

The Rockets also finished third in the Salem Invitational (Jan. 2), falling to Livonia Franklin in the semifinals, 15-2, 12-15, 15-11.

Glenn scored wins in pool play over Dearborn Heights Crestwood (15-6, 15-7) and Plymouth Canton (15-5, 15-5), while splitting with Farmington Harrison (12-15, 15-11). The Rockets beat Canton in the quarterfinals, 13-15, 15-3, 15-6.

Churchill clips Falcons

Zira Vassallo hit flawlessly in her best match of the year Wednesday, while Kristin Sanders and Minday Sullivan added 11 and seven kills, respectively, lifting Livonia Churchill to a 15-9, 15-10, 15-13 win at Farmington.

Churchill is 5-4-5 overall and 2-2 in the WLAA.

Aimee Cousino also had her best match of the year setting, according to coach Mike Hughes.

Patriots lose in 5

Livonia Franklin fell to 14-5-1 overall and 1-2 in the WLAA after a losing in five games Wednesday to visiting Canton, 7-15, 15-10, 15-3, 11-15, 16-14.

Setter Shannon Weakley, filling in for starter Lenay Truchan (chicken pox), had five dump-kills and made good on 29 of 30 serves in a losing cause.

Other Franklin contributions came from Sarah Camp (26 of 27 serves), Andrea Greer (28 digs and only one error), Jaclyn Deane (13 kills and three solo blocks) and Sonja Hluschchenko (13 assists and three aces).

Clarenceville prevails

Wendy Roy, a 6-foot junior, stood tall at the net Wednesday, leading host Livonia Clarenceville to a 15-12, 15-3 win over Harper Woods.

Roy collected eight kills, four solo blocks and six aces as the Trojans increased their overall record to 10-4-1. They are 4-0 in the Metro Conference.

Other standouts for Clarenceville included Chris Nunnery (four aces), Kristen Przegendza (11 assists) and Jaime Zemke (three kills).

Spartans top Northville

Setter Angie Piippo had 16 assists and Jen Monaghan contributed 10 kills as Livonia Stevenson pounded out a 15-6, 15-9, 15-7 win Wednesday at Northville.

Stevenson is 7-9-6 overall and 2-2 in the WLAA.

Janene Copi added four kills, while Anne Marie Aquino and Stacey Nichols added three apiece. Michelle Hale was 24 of 25 serving, including four aces.

Lutheran Westland wins

Lutheran Westland improved to 9-7 overall and 2-1 in the Metro with a 16-14, 15-4 win last week over Hamtramck.

In another match Wednesday, Wayne Memorial trimmed Dearborn Edsel Ford in a Mega Conference Red Division encounter, 15-1, 8-15, 15-3.

Zebras romp

The Wayne Memorial boys basketball team broke a three-game losing streak Friday with a 75-45 win over visiting Garden City in a Mega Conference Red Division game.

The win lifts Wayne to 8-4 overall, 4-2 in the Red Division. Garden City falls to 3-8 overall, 1-5 in the Red.

■ ROUNDUP

Freshman guard Lorenzo Guess led the winners with 13 points and Jameel Wooden contributed 11.

Garden City, which trailed 21-10 after one quarter and 38-20 at halftime, was led by Mike Marlow's 16 points and Paul Haag's 13.

■ CLARENCEVILLE 83, LUTHERAN WEST 50: John Kalaj scored a career-high 29 points Friday, leading host Livonia Clarenceville to a Metro Conference win over Detroit Lutheran West.

The Trojans, who led 28-17 after one quarter and 48-30 at halftime, improved to 5-5 overall, 2-3 in the Metro. Lutheran West, which was outscored in each quarter, fell to 1-7 overall, 0-5 in the Metro.

Chris Mills scored 12 and Tim Kennedy 11 for Lutheran West.

■ LUTH. WESTLAND 88, LUTHERAN N'WEST 67: Lutheran High Westland continued its hot streak Friday with its fourth consecutive triumph, a Metro Conference win over host Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Senior guard Jim Hoeft paced the victorious Warriors (5-5, 4-1) with a game-high 21 points.

Junior guard Chris Tiernan chipped in with 18 points, while senior guard Andy Manthei added 15 points, five assists and four steals. Junior forward Jon Smolka contributed 13 points and eight rebounds.

Junior Justin Storm led Lutheran Northwest (4-5, 1-3) with 16 points.

The Warriors led 37-26 at intermission and opened up a 22-point lead in the second half after the Crusaders closed the gap to one in the third period.

The Warriors hit 18 of 26 from the free-throw line (69 percent), while Lutheran Northwest made 14 of 19 (73 percent).

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY POLICY

The intent of this statement is to reaffirm that it is the policy of the City of Westland to provide equal employment opportunities without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex or age, to all applicants for employment and to all present employees. This policy applies to all areas of employment within the jurisdiction of the City of Westland and includes recruitment, employment, job assignments, training, promotion, transfers, rate of pay and all other forms of compensation and benefits.

An "Affirmative Action" program has been designed to meet the following objectives:

1. Reaffirm the City's policy on Equal Opportunity.
2. Increase representation and utilization of minority and female employees.
3. Obtain compliance from contractors doing business with the City.
4. Establish a system of record keeping that will serve as an information and audit center and fulfill all Federal Government requirements.

The Mayor, through his designee, the Department of Personnel, accepts full authority and responsibility for the administration of this program throughout the City. Any willful or deliberate violation by an employee of the City's Equal Employment Opportunity Policy, or of any procedure devised and implemented to give that policy force and effect, will be cause for appropriate disciplinary action. The Department of Personnel will be assigned responsibility for coordinating the City's Affirmative Action activities and is assured of my fullest support in the implementation of this program.

Robert J. Thomas
Mayor

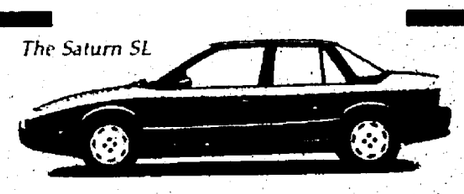
Simple, honest, straightforward. How else would you expect to lease a Saturn?

By now, you've probably heard about the Saturn buying experience. No hassles, no pressure, no fuss, just common courtesy, along with a pretty great car.

Well, the way we see it, your experience shouldn't be any different if you want to lease a Saturn. After all, what could we possibly gain by making things any less straightforward than they have to be?

The Saturn SL



($190/Month $561/Down 36/Months)

SmartLease payments based on 1994 Saturn SL Sedan, 5 speed, AC, MSPR $11,210 excluding taxes, title, license fee and insurance.
