Fraud scheme prompts warnings

A 35-year-old woman, who apparently had real estate credentials, is accused of personally taking money intended as a deposit on an Inkster house. She is also suspected in several similar incidents in Livonia.

A shady Westland real estate agent is accused of cheating a would-be home buyer out of $2,500, but a happy ending may await the victim.

The female suspect is accused of personally taking money intended as a deposit on an Inkster house, Westland police Sgt. Tom Harris said.

The incident was reported last week by Real Estate One on Ford Road, where the suspect worked just 1 1/2 days earlier this year.

The company not only reimbursed the victim but also is legitimately trying to help her move into another house, a Real Estate One official said Tuesday.

"I'm hoping she will wind up actually in a house, happy," Ellen M. Tickner, Real Estate One senior vice president and special counsel, said Tuesday.

The suspect, described by police as a 35-year-old woman who apparently had real estate credentials, is also suspected in several similar incidents in Livonia, Harris said.

An investigation is continuing, and Harris said criminal warrants may be issued against the suspect, who is believed to be in another state.

It wasn't known just how much money the suspect may have accumulated by defrauding potential home buyers, but Harris said the woman apparently took money from four different people for the same house in Inkster.

The suspect apparently worked as a Real Estate One agent during only one incident, police said.

The suspect, who may have used her real name while working at the Westland office, is believed to be as far away as California, Harris said.

She is accused of defrauding would-be home buyers by telling them to make personal checks payable to her, rather than the broker company, Harris said.

The case prompted Harris and Tickner to offer warnings and advice to people seeking to buy a house, particularly first-time buyers like the woman involved in the Westland fraud case.

Newburgh completion expected in November

An $8.8 million project to widen Newburgh Road from Enterprise Drive to Palmer is expected to be mostly completed by mid-November, a Westland official said.

Workers are widening the one-mile stretch to five lanes and moving Newburgh under a new CSX railroad overpass.

The measures are expected to ease traffic problems and provide better access to expanding businesses along Newburgh.

The bulk of the project is slated for completion by mid-November even though construction crews are now about five weeks behind schedule, public services Director Richard Dittmar said.

"All of the concrete should be done by then," he said, adding that site restoration and other finishing touches may be delayed until spring.

Construction crews this week are expected to start working on new railroad tracks that will pass over Newburgh near Avondale, Dittmar said.

The entire Newburgh project will cost about $8.8 million - a tab that will be paid with local, state and federal dollars, Dittmar said. He estimated the city's share between $3 million and $4 million.

Early on, city officials had expected the widening project would include only a stretch of Newburgh from Enterprise to Avondale.

But state legislators in February announced that a new grant was approved to extend the widening pro-

Clerk vote could be in August

A new Westland city clerk could be hired as early as mid-August, as council members try to fill the job from a slate of three finalists.

Council members are separately mulling their possible choices following interviews last week with three candidates.

Basic training

Navy Fireman Mark F. Dziuban, son of Francis and Linda Dziuban of Canton, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight week program, Dziuban completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Dziuban is a 1995 graduate of John Glenn High School, Westland.

Event shoots for youth

Saturday's second annual "Shoot for our Youth" 3-D Archery Shoot raked in $14,000 and brought in participants from all around including Westland.

The event, held at Capitol

Park in Redford, was a fund-raiser for sportsman Ted Nugent's Kamp for Kids, Southeast Michigan Indians Inc., and Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE).

About $9,000 of the money raised will go to benefit those groups.

The event was hosted by the United Sportsmen of America, The Sports Authority and Timber Wolf Tavern, 25641 Plymouth Road.

ject south from Avondale to Palmer.

State Rep. Eileen DeHart, hailing the new grant, said "better roads mean better economic times" for Newburgh businesses that will be more accessible due to road improvements.

Now, most area businesses just want to see the project finished.

"Obviously everybody would like to see it finished," Red Spot Inc. general manager Harvey Kightlinger said Tuesday. "We haven't seen a lot of actual work lately, but I keep hearing they will finish on time."

"All in all, we haven't been terribly bothered by the work done there," he said. "All in all, they're doing a pretty good job."

When the project began last year, some site work caused flooding on wooded land owned by businesses such as Red Spot Inc., which manufactures plastics used by auto companies, Kightlinger said.

"I would say initially we had some issues," he said, but added that problems were resolved.

When the project is done, Newburgh will have five lanes through most of Westland, except for a half-mile stretch from Palmer to Glenwood.

City officials still don't have any word of possible funding to widen that portion of Newburgh.

deputy clerk since 1992.

■ Christine Hnatiw, Grand Ledge clerk. She has held her current job since May 1993, and has 10 years of local government experience.

■ Linda Langmesser, Plymouth clerk. She has worked in her current post since 1989 and used to be a lower-level office clerk in Westland in 1978-81.

Westland City Council members, charged with hiring a successor to City Clerk Diane Fritz, met with all three finalists last week.

"I think we all have our favorites who impressed us the most," Councilwoman Sharon Scott said. "I think from these three people we can get one good candidate."

"Each one had something to offer," she said. "Hopefully we can come to a consensus and not turn this into anything political."

Council members will resume discussions about a new clerk during an Aug. 10 study session, and they say two scenarios are possible as the search continues:

■ The council may reach a consensus on a new city clerk.

■ Outside city clerks may be called in to interview the three finalists on technical issues, as council members watch.

"We have three on-paper qualified candidates," Councilman Richard LeBlanc said, adding that all three finalists have "diverse" backgrounds and experiences.

"I just hope we don't go out for another search," LeBlanc said, adding later, "I'm in favor of getting someone in that position permanently."

Deputy Clerk Gibbons is serving as acting clerk, and Fritz has agreed to work as a city consultant to help her former office get through November elections.

Fritz served as clerk for 20 years before she retired June 30. She has worked with five mayors and numerous council members.

Some of her supporters, such as Scott and Councilwoman Justine Barns, have said Fritz will be difficult to replace.

A three-member council subcommittee narrowed a larger field of candidates to three finalists for last week's interviews.

"In my opinion I do not see a front-runner at this point," Scott said Tuesday.

However, she did say the council may discuss candidates Aug. 10 and then be prepared to name a new clerk as early as Aug. 17.

Regardless of the council's choice, LeBlanc said he will suggest some changes for the clerk's post. He said he believes the clerk should be subject to performance evaluations from all council members — a process that Fritz didn't face.

Meanwhile, none of the three finalists have indicated a strong knowledge of the city's Unilect voting system — a computerized system that lets voters use touch-sensitive screens to cast their ballots.

"That is a real concern," LeBlanc said.

Council members hope the new clerk will learn quickly as Fritz helps the city through the 1998 election — the last she will oversee.

Scott said she isn't worried about the new clerk learning the voting system. "I wouldn't think it would be a problem," she said.

"The most important thing is to deal with a reputable real estate broker and a licensed real estate agent," Tickner said. But that's not enough. She advised following these tips:

■ Ask to see a "pocket card" showing which real estate firm an agent is licensed with.

■ Do not pay in cash.

■ Make checks payable to broker firms, not individual agents.

■ Watch for home buyer seminars or do research at a library when buying a house. Real Estate One and other firms sponsor seminars periodically.

■ Learn about the paperwork that should be forthcoming, such as an agency disclosure form.

Visitors take walk on wild animal side

They're wild about animals. More than 3,500 from around the Metro area visited the Animal Planet Rescue mobile at Westland Shopping Center Saturday.

The 80-foot rescue vehicle travels across the United States to aid animals during disaster situations. While not in use for disasters, the vehicle tours the country, promoting disaster preparedness and demonstrating rescue techniques.

People who toured the vehicle Saturday watched live animal rescue demonstrations. There was also face painting, snow cones and giveaways. Animal Planet Rescue also collected more than 300 pounds of canned pet food Saturday.

Sponsored by MediaOne, Animal Planet, American Humane Association and Westland Shopping Center, the vehicle includes a mobile veterinary clinic, rescue rafts, water tanks, and a portable corral for temporary care of livestock and horses.

Man robs Hungry Howie's

A lone suspect robbed Hungry Howie's Pizza in the 33700 area of Ford Road early Monday, escaping with money he demanded from an employee, police said. No arrest has been made.

The incident happened at 12:03 a.m. when a man entered the business and implied he had a gun in his pants, a police report said.

The suspect was described as a slim, 5-foot-10 white male who was about 20 years old. He had sandy blond hair and a mustache and was wearing a Marilyn Manson rock T-shirt.

The suspect fled on foot. The incident happened as a delivery driver was away on what turned out to be a bogus order for pizza, but police didn't immediately know if the two incidents were related.

CHECK FRAUD

A Detroit man was arrested last Thursday amid allegations he tried to cash a fraudulent check at a Westland bank. The 27-year-old man was arrested at an NBD branch in the 31300 block of Cherry Hill after employees called police to investigate what turned out to be a fraudulent check drawn on the Detroit Newspaper Agency.

NICOTINE AND BEER

An owner of Z-mart convenience store in the 32900 block of Warren told police that someone took 35 to 40 cartons of cigarettes during a break-in that occurred between 12:05 a.m. and 9:45 p.m. July 22. Also taken were 15 to 25 six packs of beer. The owner said someone pried open a door and entered the store.

'FANNY PACK' STOLEN

A 36-year-old Livonia woman told Westland police someone stole her "fanny pack" while she was parked in front of Aco hardware store on Ann Arbor Trail about 7:30 p.m. July 18. The victim had left the fanny pack on the front seat of her truck. She reported it contained $9, various credit cards and other personal items such as a checkbook.

APARTMENT BREAK-IN

A woman reported that someone broke into her Heather Ridge apartment on Heather Court between 9 p.m. July 18 and 1 a.m. July 19 by forcing open a door. She told police that food from her refrigerator and cabinets had been placed in the sink with spices and condiments poured on it.

SCHOOL ASSAULT

A 13-year-old boy was assaulted and knocked unconscious during an incident that occurred at 10:46 a.m. July 21 at the alternative education Tinkham Center at 450 S. Venoy in Westland, a police report said. The boy had regained consciousness by the time police arrived, but he was taken to a local hospital for treatment. The incident was blamed on differences between two boys attending summer school classes at the Wayne-Westland-district facility. Police arrested the boy's attacker and turned him over to juvenile authorities.

CAR THEFTS

Three vehicles were broken into late July 17 and early July 18 outside of Daisy Dukes bar, 450 S. Merriman, police reports said.

■ A male employee reported his 1993 Dodge Dakota was broken into between 8:50 p.m. and 2:20 a.m. Taken were a $320 CD changer, a $220 cassette player, a $350 amplifier, a $120 cellular phone and $40 in power cords. A window was smashed in, causing an estimated $200 in damages.

■ A female employee told police someone broke into her 1993 Chevy Cavalier between 9 p.m. and 2:20 a.m. and took a $250 cassette player, causing $200 damage to a passenger window that was smashed.

■ A third victim visiting the bar told police someone broke into her 1998 Ford Ranger between 11:45 p.m. and 2:20 a.m. and took a $25 cellular phone cord, compact discs totaling about $150, a $35 bottle of perfume and other items. She reported no damage.

Teen gets probation in assault

Wayne County Circuit Judge Timothy Kenny has sentenced Kyle Anders Tingstad, 18, of Garden City to two years probation and restitution for his role in the Oct. 4 severe assault on two Westland men in Hines Park.

Four other Garden City teenagers already have been sentenced to one-year jail terms and five years probation.

Tingstad had pleaded "no contest" in early June to aggravated assault, reduced from an attempted murder charge. Four other teens pleaded "no contest" to reduced charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

HINES PARK

Kenny has ordered the five teens to split the cost of the victims' medical care. The two men, 20-year-old Robert Sumey and his 19-year-old friend Kevin Baker, were beaten with bonfire logs and beer bottles as they walked along a dark, wooded path leading from the park to a dead-end residential street near Warren and Inkster at 3:30 a.m. Oct. 4.

One of the men still suffers from occasional seizures due to head injuries, according to earlier police statements.

Teens sentenced to one-year jail terms include David Ryan Kozakowski and Brian Alan Wiatr, both 18, and James Thomas Domagalski Jr. and Christopher Totten, both 17.

Authorities have said Kyle Tingstad and his younger brother, Kent, 16, were allowed to plead "no contest" to lesser charges than the other defendants after they agreed to give testimony about the assault.

The status of Kent Tingstad's case couldn't be confirmed through juvenile court.

Police said the attack followed an earlier dispute that began as the two sides were attending a bonfire party in Hines Park.

Bob's of Canton opens Westland location

Bob's of Canton has opened a new 15,000-square-foot store in Westland at Warren and Merriman.

And that is good news for many Westland residents who traveled to the Canton store to do their shopping, according to owner Bob Coleman.

Coleman, a Livonia resident, has been in business at Bob's of Canton for about 10 years. This weekend, Aug. 1 and 2, a grand opening is planned at both the Westland and Canton stores to celebrate Westland's opening. Included will be product demonstrations such as how to mix Zatarain's jambalaya mix with sausage. Shoppers will also be invited to sample stuffed chicken breast and Dearborn Sausage as well as enter for a chance to win televisions, mountain bikes, two Pillsbury Beanie Babies, golf clubs and Tiger tickets.

Occupying the site of the former Bob's Farm Market, the new Westland store has been totally renovated and is not associated with Bob's Farm Market, Coleman said.

An 80-foot-long counter is one of the highlights at the new Westland store. It reflects an area Coleman has specialized in since the beginning of his career

New store: Bob Coleman, owner of Bob's of Canton, stands near the fresh meat counter of his new store on Warren near Merriman in Westland.

— fresh meat.

The concept of fresh meat at a service counter is one area Coleman feels strongly about. "The fact that you see every piece that you're buying," he said.

Areas that are emphasized are "freshness, cleanliness and top quality in meat," Coleman said.

In addition to fresh meat, chicken and fish are offered. The fresh fish counter features fish and other seafood such as lobster, shrimp and king crab legs flown in from places such as Boston and Canada.

The chicken is inspected daily to ensure freshness, Coleman said. Fresh Amish chickens are also available.

Many items which can be used in salads and special dishes such as rice pudding, green bean salad and potato salad are available on a rotating basis. Also featured is a selection of marinated items including steaks, chicken, fish and lamb. On a recent day shoppers could find marinated swordfish kabobs and swordfish marinated with Thai ginger. Bob's will also take special orders, and employees know how to cook anything the store sells, he said.

Ground meats — ground chuck, ground round and ground sirloin — are prepared fresh daily, he said.

Bob's also makes homemade fresh sausage and beer bratwurst and carries the Dearborn Sausage products including hot dogs and sausage.

For fresh fruits and vegetables, the produce department has been set up to make it easier for consumers to walk through, Coleman said. Produce is also mostly U.S. grown. "We are very particular about the products we import," he said.

"Top quality freshness that is what our store's all about," Coleman said.

The store also offers most other grocery food items a shopper would expect and also carries unusual items such as those in the gourmet section. "A lot of imported food that make for really different kinds of meals," he said.

The store is introducing a lot of specialty food, according to store director Michael Berry. "I'm always looking for other things," he said. Some items shoppers will find include a variety of barbecue sauces, mustards, specialty teas and dressings.

Customer service and quality of products are among the store's strong points, Berry said.

Service is another area Coleman stresses.

Now that he has a Westland location, Coleman said he has plans to become active in Westland as time permits. He is already active in the state Make-A-Wish Foundation and is one of the main sponsors of its annual bikeathon. "It's one of my pride and joys," he said. Make-A-Wish is a program anybody with a heart would get involved with, Coleman said.

At holiday time he also works with Holy Trinity Parish to feed the hungry, helping feed 742 families last year.

Coleman said he's been blessed. "This is my way to give back to the community and to people in need."

Coleman's career began in high school when he took a co-op class in meat cutting.

By age 19, he was a manager for a food store chain in Milan. After meeting his wife, Cynthia, who now helps him run his stores, he decided to go into business and accomplished that in 1976. He opened his Canton store 10 years ago. He now has a large say in the design of his stores and supervises the construction, including the new Westland site.

Coleman said the Westland site "presented a tremendous opportunity to us."

Bob's of Canton is open 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. The Canton store is located at 8611 Lilley Road and the Westland store is at 31210 W. Warren.

Officer pleads no contest

A Farmington Hills police officer has been suspended with pay pending an internal investigation as a result of a domestic assault case involving his former fiancée.

The officer, Gary Brandemihl, 45, has been accused of domestic assault in Westland's 18th District Court. On July 22, he entered a no contest plea under advisement to the misdemeanor charge before District Court Judge Gail McKnight, a court officer said.

With a no contest plea under advisement, a person does not admit guilt.

A pre-sentencing hearing is set for 8:30 a.m. Thursday, July 30, with sentencing 8:30 a.m. Sept. 4.

If Brandemihl completes the recommended probation, the case could be dismissed, a court officer said.

Farmington Hills police will investigate the matter internally to decide whether conduct unbecoming an officer will result, Chief Bill Dwyer said.

The officer has been suspended with pay during the internal investigation, Dwyer said. If any charges result, a trial board would be set up.

Hills police want to talk with the victim as part of the internal investigation, Dwyer said.

"Under the nolo contendere under advisement plea, that does not mean he cannot be a police officer," Dwyer said. "He is not pleading guilty. So there is no criminal record to attach to it."

He's been ordered not to have contact with the victim, who is seeking help from domestic violence support agency First Step.

TRAFFIC TIP OFFS

Freeway motorists soon will see the signs

The Michigan Department of Transportation expects to activate an expanded computerized traffic management system by the end of August to inform commuters about accidents and traffic tie-ups throughout Wayne, Macomb and southern Oakland counties.

On Wednesday, MDOT officials and representatives from Rockwell International unveiled the expanded Michigan Intelligent Transportation Systems Center in Detroit.

Once integration tests are done on the system in late August, MITSC will be activated. The system expands its current 32 miles to 148 miles and costs $33 million with 90 percent of the expansion funded through a federal air quality grant.

New system

The system is expected to do the following:

■ Advise motorists of road conditions, traffic accidents and incidents through 54 freeway signs on overpasses, including portions of I-94, I-96, I-275 and I-75 in Wayne County, and I-696 and I-75 in Oakland County.

■ From their homes, commuters will be able to check on road congestion and lane closures on the Internet or by calling a highway advisory telephone number.

■ More than 140 closed-circuit television cameras will monitor the freeways, giving state police officers and television monitors and operators pictures of traffic.

Western Wayne County commuters can expect I-94, I-96 and I-275 to be activated by the end of August. Portions of the Southfield and Lodge freeways already have been activated in Oakland County.

MDOT is negotiating with the city of Troy to use a tower in that community for I-75 commuters, while signs on I-696 should be activated early this week, MDOT officials said.

The Michigan State Police now houses its regional 911 dispatch center in the same room as the MITSC's control room. Once the system is activated, dispatchers soon will be able to verify 911 calls immediately, check on the severity of accidents and dispatch appropriate emergency personnel, such as fire trucks for car fires or rescue units for injuries in accidents.

Benefits

That is expected to save crucial minutes on emergency runs, officials said.

"Many, many times, it is a life-and-death issue," said Kunwar Rajendra, engineer of transportation systems for MDOT's traffic and safety division.

SmartRoute Systems of Cambridge, Mass., will take over the system from MDOT once the system integration is tested by Rockwell International, the project manager of MITSC.

SmartRoute expects to expand the service to 24 hours a day, seven days a week, once the system is fully operational.

"Study after study show that almost 70 percent of congestion is due to an incident," Rajendra said.

Motorists will be informed of the freeway conditions through the use of 54 message signs on freeway overpasses. Such signs are located on I-96 at the Beech Daly overpass, eastbound I-96 near Wayne Road and I-275 at Seven Mile Road.

Out in the street

The new 148-mile system features 136 closed-circuit television cameras that relay images back to the center and its 33-monitor video wall, where MITSC operators and state police dispatchers can view traffic.

"We can see different situations that may develop that the officer may or may not be aware of," said Lt. Beth Moranty, commander of regional dispatch for the state police's Second District. "That's another safety factor for our officers."

Moranty said state police receive about 600,000 calls on 911 a year.

More than 2,400 diamond-shaped sensors detect vehicles passing over them, and notify the computer system, which counts traffic volume and speed.

MDOT also combined 64 miles of coaxial cable, 38 miles of fiberoptic connections and nine 200-foot tall communication towers for the system.

Sign of the times

Motorists will be informed of the freeway conditions through the use of 54 message signs on freeway overpasses. Such signs are located on I-96 at the Beech Daly overpass, eastbound I-96 near Wayne Road and I-275 at Seven Mile Road.

These signs will notify commuters of traffic tie-ups, but they will not inform them of congestion that may move to surface streets and main arteries from the freeways.

"The (computer) industry now tends to throw out the information and let them decide," said John Sickler, project manager for transportation systems for Odetics, a subcontractor on the project.

Motorists will be able to learn about congestion on connecting freeways from the signs and the Internet, Sickler said. Information on the Internet will be updated every minute. People will be able to click on construction and traffic incident icons to access traffic information.

Thousands of messages will be stored within the system. The system will work like a "tree" network, but Rockwell and MDOT need to decide what messages will be shown at different locations.

McCotter top money raiser in Senate campaign

Republican candidates in the Ninth District's state Senate race have spent $204,598 to win a seat that pays about one-fourth of that amount.

The candidates are scrambling to win nomination Aug. 4 to the six-year seat to represent the Ninth District. The district, largely Republican, includes the Livonia, Northville and Plymouth, Redford and part of Canton.

Campaign finance reports were due last Friday.

Thaddeus McCotter, currently a Wayne County commissioner, collected $117,620, the largest campaign war chest. Former state representative Jim Ryan gathered $86,026, while Deborah Whyman, state representative from Canton, raised $32,800.

McCotter also leads in the final days before the primary with the most money available. McCotter reported $27,836 for a final balance. The others reported the following: Ryan, $2,686; Whyman, $1,325, and Poenisch, $394.

McCotter spent the most at $89,783. Ryan was close behind at $83,340, and Whyman was a distant third at $31,475.

Democrat candidate Carol Poenisch collected $450, and spent $56. Her primary opponent, Marc Susselman, reported that he raised and spent no money.

McCotter received 13 contributions of $1,000 or more from individuals and political action committees representing everything from Ladbroke racing to manufactured housing. McCotter received $2,000 from the Michigan Assisted Living Association PAC and the Michigan Association of Realtors, and among the $1,000 contributors were Ladbroke Racing PAC, Michigan Association of Insurance Agents, Lawyers PAC, Michigan Nurses Association PAC, and Michigan Manufactured Housing, RV and Campground Association PAC.

McCotter spent nearly $11,000 on a poll and consultant work with MRG in Lansing, more than $4,500 on lawn and other political signs, and more than $10,000 on postage and mass mailings and printing of literature.

Ryan collected $1,000 contributions from six individuals, including Roger Penske, the owner of Detroit Diesel and Gerald Imley of Troy, the owner of J&J Auto Supply and four others.

Contributions received by Ryan included groups representing the following PACs: Michigan Auto Dealers, Teamsters Local 243 Committee, $1,000; Michigan Racing Association, $500; Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Auto Club, Michigan Credit Union League, Michigan Bankers Association, Michigan State Firefighters, Michigan Assisted Living, $150; and Ameritech Plus, Michigan Osteopathic, and Detroit Firefighters Association, $100.

Ryan spent $20,000 on political consulting with Allen Feuer of Southfield and nearly $3,000 on lawn signs. Postage cost Ryan nearly $14,000.

Most of Whyman's contributions were $25, but she also received two $1,000 contributions, one from her mother and another from a Plymouth dentist.

PAC money received by Whyman included: DentPAC of Michigan, $1,000; Michigan Truck, $200; GTE, $150; Michigan Radiology and Michigan Optometric Association, $100.

Whyman spent more than $10,000 on printing and at least $7,900 on postage.

YWCA wins state grant for child, family programs

More than $373,000 in new grants will be awarded to direct service agencies to provide services aimed at the prevention of child abuse and neglect, according to Gov. John Engler.

In Wayne County, the YWCA will receive $32,263. The YWCA Child and Family Neighborhood Program serves families who reside in or near public housing and immigrant communities in the listed targeted cities. The program provides parenting skills training and support programs in the areas of child development, child care skills, life coping skills, stress management and general advocacy and support.

The program also involves the collaborative community effort of at least 10 agencies. With the grant, the YWCA Child and Family Neighborhood Program will expand to serve an additional 65 families annually, bringing the number of families served to 379.

"Community collaboration continues to be one of the cornerstones of my administration," Engler said. "I believe that some of the best answers to some of the state's problems rest in our communities. I am encouraged that the number of agencies interested in applying for these grants to help prevent child abuse and neglect increases each year."

The grants, selected and funded by the Children's Trust Fund, are part of $900,000 in grant funding to be awarded in 1999. "The funding was awarded to community-based prevention programs and services that were designed to promote strong, nurturing families and to prevent child abuse and neglect before it occurs," said Ena Weathers, CTF board member and chair of the board's Prevention Programs Committee.

Fourteen new organizations will receive funding. "The diversity of the grants funded this year clearly reinforces the Children's Trust Fund's commitment to providing support to a broad population with a host of prevention needs," said Deborah Strong, CTF executive director. "We hope that as more funding through donations and other support comes to CTF, we will be able to provide even more services."

Part of the funding is raised through the Michigan State Tax Form Check-off campaign. Funds donated to the Children's Trust Fund provide services to local communities through 69 CTF local councils around the state.

Salvation Army Time to welcome new leaders

It's a time of transition at the Westland office of the Salvation Army. This summer has been a time to say goodbye to an active community member and his wife and hello and welcome to the new leaders of the local office.

Capt. Mark Welsh and his wife, Sue, who had run the local office for the past four years, were transferred to a post in Minnesota.

Mark Welsh had been highly visible in the community and was often in attendance at local events and meetings. Congratulations are in order for the Welshes' many accomplishments in the community, including developing partnerships with local businesses. We bid the Welshes farewell. They will be missed.

Meanwhile, though, a new couple has taken the reins at the local Salvation Army office. Lts. Charles and Betty Yockey took charge July 1. They are natives of Kansas and come to Westland as their first assignment. They are excited about their new post and have already begun to make acquaintances in the community. Just last Thursday the Yockeys were on hand to accept a grant at the Christmas in July event held by the Westland Community Foundation. They also could be found out front of the Hellenic Cultural Center before the ceremony ringing a bell next to a red kettle.

While many people most often think of the Salvation Army in association with the red kettles and bell ringers outside of area businesses during the holiday season, the organization offers many programs year-round.

In fact, the Yockeys take over programs that have helped many people in the Westland and Wayne communities:

- Emergency food and shelter to needy families and help in charting a plan for becoming self-sufficient;

- Food baskets, toys and clothing to needy families during the Christmas holidays;

- Summer camps for youngsters;

- An after-school tutoring program that helps children raise their grades;

- A recreational/gym program offering kids a safe place to play;

- Visits and gifts for senior citizens during the holidays.

The Salvation Army also offers church services and spiritual guidance.

The local Salvation Army operates out of a 12,000-square-foot building on Venoy south of Palmer in Westland. The organization's programs reach out a helping hand to an estimated 20,000 to 25,000 people a year.

As an example of how many people's lives are touched in programs other than holiday help for the needy: between January and May of this year 300 youths were registered in the after-school recreation program; 35 students were registered in the tutorial program and 45 young people were enrolled in the Youth Character Building program.

We're sure that local residents will stretch out their hands in welcome to the new leaders of the local Salvation Army and offer their support. It's an organization that helps in many ways, with the support of local residents, to make Westland a better place to be.

Vote no on supermajority

Voters in Westland will decide Proposition A — known as supermajority — on Tuesday's ballot.

If approved by voters the proposal will amend the county charter to require a two-thirds vote of the Wayne County Commission to place any new tax increase on the ballot. It will also require a 60 percent (or supermajority) vote of the electorate to approve any new tax increase.

The idea is certainly inviting because Wayne County residents — compared to their counterparts in Oakland and Macomb — pay high taxes.

But the proposal represents bad public policy and according to information from the Citizens Research Council violates the state Constitution and the Headlee Amendment.

The proposal goes against the very basic democratic principle of majority rule.

On Tuesday, Aug. 4, don't forget to vote the nonpartisan portion of the ballot and vote no on Proposition A.

Many false gods

Wall Street worships many false gods. But the god of technology is the most dangerous god of all.

Presently, computers and the Internet are viewed by Wall Street as our ticket into a new golden age of prosperity. Internet stocks like Amazon.com and Yahoo! are soaring obscenely. But, historically, similar technology-based speculative episodes have occurred in the past. Consider:

The Panic of 1907 was caused by the overbuilding of and speculation in railroads. Back in the 1850s, canal building was the "hot new thing." Until it too collapsed into financial panic.

But the 1920s was the most incredible technology boom of them all. Cars, refrigerators, telephones, talking pictures and radios changed people's lives profoundly and forever. While new skyscrapers, airplanes and dirigibles dazzled us with image of an amazing future yet to come. It was truly a golden age. The age of Lindbergh and RCA. Until it too collapsed in the panic of 1929.

By comparison, the 1990s technology boom doesn't really come close to the 1920s. This is the age of Bill Gates and Microsoft and the other barefoot boy billionaires of Silicon Valley.

We've been down this road before. Wall Street worships many false gods. Yahoo!

gram mentioned the change of rules. If this was a "gentleman's agreement," it did work.

Cross-school district busing destroyed Detroit more than the riots, and continues today. School enrollment represented neighborhoods. Detroit was a melting pot of ethnic enclaves — Polish, Chinese, Catholic, Baptist, Jewish, black, rich and poor. All had purchased homes in communities they chose to raise their families. Yellow buses began taking their children to schools far from home. This was too much for any loving parents. Those that could afford to move did so — only the poor remained.

Coleman Young adequately represented what was left of Detroit. The residents would not have elected a strong, wise, and almost ruthless mayor (he would have needed to be black) capable of turning the city around. Financial investors and the ablest and brightest residents had fled. Hiring, job promotion, and purchasing based on skin color would not bring them back. City income taxes, residential requirements and meter maid terrorists added barriers to any renaissance. The EPA is about to close remaining industries because they exist in poor neighborhoods.

To be a great city again Detroit will need other "gentlemen's agreements." Stop harassing the police, stop preferential treatment, school busing and all programs that discriminate. Only "equal opportunity" will encourage opportunists to invest their talents in this city. It can happen!

Equal opportunity

"Integration dream's downfall," by Philip Power is an excellent review of Detroit history. I want to add my personal observations.

When the 1967 Detroit riot began, police were ordered to leave shotguns in their squad cars and take no action that might enrage the citizens as they robbed stores. Looters realized film crews were looking for "police brutality" scenarios and acted for the cameras. National Guardsmen were expected to intimidate rioters merely by their presence, but citizens understood the game, "don't dare touch us."

The city was burning when the rules were secretly changed. Police badges were removed. License plates and military vehicle identification were covered with masking tape. Enforcement got tough. No officer or soldier was sued for cracking the head of a thief. No news pro-

POINTS OF VIEW

Airport welcome doesn't put area's best foot forward

Traveling abroad makes one newly sensitive to how people from other countries view our own.

So as I walked off our trans-Atlantic flight and into Metro Airport, my first thought was "Oh, no."

It's bad enough that our domestic terminals are unattractive, overcrowded and beset by the horrible warning sounds coming from the lorries that transport people who can't make the distance to the gates.

But the seedy-looking cinder-block hallway where they have the nerve to put up a sign welcoming people to Wayne County's Metropolitan Airport's international terminal is the first look for many people from other lands at our United States.

I was embarrassed.

I wondered if the sign itself confused anyone. After all, the Northwest flight was announced as Amsterdam to Detroit, not Wayne County. I say no international flight, much less domestic, has Wayne County as its given destination.

But on to baggage where I was anxious to see if the extreme patience required for domestic luggage retrieval would be necessary for international travel as well. Oops, but first, get in line for that pay-for-me-or-go-without luggage cart.

I was embarrassed.

It is totally inappropriate to ask just off the plane newcomers to throw off that jet lag and immediately "Show us the money." Throughout Europe and Asia, those carts are free, and in many U.S. airports as well. And woe to the non-U.S. citizen who doesn't have American currency in his or her wallet.

The first round of baggage actually began making its circular route in reasonable time. Oops, but those same bags kept going round and round with no new ones being added. It turned out that the baggage chute had jammed and it took some time for a Northwest Airlines official to both determine that and then unjam it. It happened another couple of times before we collected our luggage.

I was embarrassed.

Going through customs, however, was a breeze and we were on our way.

New airport director Dave Katz suggests that I not breeze over our speedy passage through customs. That is because a year ago that was the No. 1 complaint of international passengers, he tells me. We just spent a ton of money to improve the (efficiency) of the federal inspection service.

In fact, my complaint about making travelers pay for carts is next on his list. That will happen, he promises, although only in the international terminal. It hasn't worked. I'll take a loss in the international terminal to make it more pleasant.

He also said he would consider redoing the sign to reflect the fact that Detroit, not Wayne County, is what is familiar to most travelers.

As far as the state of the entrance tunnel, Katz's dilemma is how much do you spend on an international terminal you've outgrown and are planning to abandon in favor of the new mid-field terminal scheduled to open in 2001?

Still, of the 12 new airport restaurants just announced by Marriott, several are scheduled to open this year in the current international terminal.

It is certainly our bonus to be able to fly from Detroit. At the same time, it is three years and lots of passengers before our new international terminal will be ready.

Engler's actions indicate a wish to control public schools

As my brethren and sisteren in the media missed the significant part of Gov. John Engler's July 21 announcement.

It wasn't that he was asking Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus to be his running mate for lieutenant governor. Shucks, we've all known that for years. They've been peas in a pod since their high school days in the 1960s as Future Farmers. Anyone who watched them in the Senate from 1983-90 just knew Posthumus would be Engler's successor.

What was news was that Engler announced everyone he wanted on the ticket, from attorney general to State Board of Education and all the university boards.

Now, folks who vote in the Republican primary not only nominate candidates for governor, U.S. Congress, state Legislature and county offices, but also pick their local precinct delegates.

The delegates go to county or district conventions, where candidates for the rest of the ticket woo them. The local conventions pick delegates to a state convention to be held Aug. 28-29 in (where else?) Grand Rapids.

But now that Engler is dictating the rest of the party's ticket, he has in effect canceled the Republican State Convention. Delegates who aren't bothered by an exercise in futility will attend and dutifully cheer.

That may be a mistake on Engler's part. Convention delegates like to fight over something. It's built into their psyches.

Engler, as a young buckaroo in the early 1970s, honed his own skills when he pushed fellow Rep. Bob Edwards for state party chairman against the Milliken Establishment.

And Engler had it done to him in 1996. He was supporting Judy Frey, a candidate of impeccable civic credentials, for nomination to the University of Michigan Board of Regents. But out of nowhere came Mike Bishop, a young attorney from Rochester whose chief claim to fame was that he was president of his college fraternity. Oh, and Bishop was "pro-life" while Frey was "pro-choice."

So even though University of Michigan regents don't perform abortions as a public body, the convention worked its pro-life will and nominated Bishop over Engler's protestations.

(The young guy turned out to be an excellent candidate, despite the thinness of his resume.)

So why is Engler seeking to make the convention meaningless? Is it another power grab, like his gutting of the Department of Natural Resources and repeated blows against the constitutional State Board of Education?

I am neither psychologist nor clairvoyant and am unable to see into his soul. We can look at what past conventions have done and whom Engler is backing.

Past conventions have nominated good people with experience in public schools for the State Board of Education - Barbara DuMouchelle of Grosse Ile, Cherry Jacobus of Grand Rapids, Dorothy Beardmore of Rochester, Harry Greenleaf of Livonia and Schoolcraft College.

Engler is backing Gary Wolfram

(his appointee who now must run). Wolfram is a professor at Hillsdale College, an ideologically rigid fellow who hasn't seen anything good in public education since 1805.

Engler also is backing Eileen Lapin Weiser, a woman with two degrees in piano performance, a brilliant record in real estate sales and a job as executive director of the McKinley Foundation (whatever that is) in Ann Arbor - but absolutely no listed credentials in public school trusteeship, or even administration, or even in teaching.

My neighbors keep telling me, without my asking: "John Engler hates public schools." Well, the evidence is mounting.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events. His voice mail number is (734) 953-2047, Ext. 1881.

Summertime means primaries:
Make your voice heard this year

"Sec. 534. A general primary of all political parties ... shall be held in every election precinct in this state on the Tuesday after the first Monday in August before every general November election. ..."

So speaks the electoral law of the State of Michigan. And, to quote Charles Dickens in Oliver Twist, "If the law supposes that, ... the law is an ass. ..."

Certainly, anybody contemplating the primary election next Tuesday must wonder just why we in Michigan have chosen to place this significant voting day in early August. Kids are out of school, often in camp or making things tough at home for parents. Parents, in turn, are either on vacation or wishing they were. The weather is hot, often humid. The sweet corn is coming in, or else the season would have nothing whatsoever to recommend it.

But as a season to prick up the public conscience and spark voter interest? Well ... forget it. That's why voter turnout is so low.

It turns out we have held our primary elections in early August at least since 1954, when the major state laws on elections were codified. It's no secret that August is a lousy time to hold primary elections. So how come we continue to do it?

Because it's in the interests of determined, organized interest groups, which have learned that the dog days of August are wonderful times to turn out the motivated faithful minority at times of general public political boredom and so achieve disproportionate influence on the public political life of our state.

In the old days, it used to be the solid business constituency represented by the Michigan Chamber of Commerce. Then organized labor, especially the UAW, discovered that the rank and file could be turned out in early August, especially as plants were often shut down for model changeover. School folks, both administrators and teachers unions, discovered the same thing, only to be joined in recent years by the Christian right wing, ever vigilant.

Put all these together, and there is no way this particular law is going to get changed, no matter how sensible it would be to hold primary elections in May or September.

This recital is of particular concern to the three Democratic candidates for governor who face the judgment of the voters next Tuesday. The subtle, complex dynamics of voter turnout in August primary election time will likely determine the result.

PHILIP POWER

Geoffrey Fieger, who earned early notoriety by being Jack Kevorkian's lawyer, has been the surprise of the campaign. His bombastic rhetoric ("sniveling weasel," "barnyard miscegenation") has succeeded in cutting through the general boredom, to the point that he has partially succeeded in making his opponents look like Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee.

The problem for Fieger, who hopes to get substantial support in Detroit, is that the electorate in that city is preoccupied with the contest over gambling casino licenses between Mayor Dennis Archer and businessman Don Barden. That struggle has to do with serious things - turf, power - which have nothing to do with the trivial matter of who will face Gov. John Engler in November.

Larry Owen, the designated front runner by virtue of locking up the most endorsements of party and organized labor grandees, has only one problem. The UAW leadership - understandably - is much, much more interested in the strike against General Motors than it is in turning out the faithful for Owen's electoral success.

Only Doug Ross, who has been struggling to propose new ideas in earnest attempt to break through the prevailing media presumption that there is nothing going on in this campaign, has developed a constituency that is not heavily cross-cut by turf wars.

We shall see.

In any case, please do vote. Especially in August primaries, one vote can make a big, big difference.

Felicians mark millennium with concert, tours

In concert: Lifting their voices in song at the special Millennium Concert were (left to right) Sister Mary Maristella, Sister Mary Leonette, Sister Mary Euphrasia and Sister Mary Anthony. The choir performed (right) in the Motherhouse Chapel. (Above right) Sister Elaine Machlik gives a tour of the Heritage Room to Nancy Davidson (center) and Marie Hill.

The Felician Sisters have been busy the last 50 years building a high school, university, hospital, hospice and other facilities that mark their Christian mission.

Members of the order took time last Sunday afternoon to show off the fruits of their labor when they hosted nearly 600 people from throughout the Archdiocese of Detroit and Michigan at a special Millennium Tour and Concert at the northwest Livonia complex.

Guests were treated to tours of the Felician Provincialate (Motherhouse), St. Joseph/Angela Hall, the Senior Clergy Village, Montessori Center of Our Lady, Angela Hospice, Ladywood High School, Marywood Nursing Care Center and Marybrook Manor, St. Mary Hospital Child Care Center, St. Mary Hospital, Marian Professional Building, the Emergency Center and Madonna University.

The facilities are located in the square-mile bounded by Newburgh and Levan and Five Mile and the Schoolcraft Service drive of I-96.

A special part of the program was a concert — "Let In the Spirit" — performed by the Felician Sisters Choir led by Sister Mary Paulette Krakowski.

The music program included an introduction by Sister Mary Dennis Glonek, provincial minister, along with musical numbers "Great Is the Lord," "Ave Maria," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and others.

The Felician Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary Province based in Livonia include members from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

Performance helps boost SandCastles

It took her sister Lucia to organize it and her mother's volunteer work to provide the recipient of Rose Abdoo's appearance at the Royal Oak Music Theater Thursday, Aug. 6.

The Southfield native is donating the net proceeds of her "Evening with Rose Abdoo" to SandCastles, a grief support group for children and their families.

"Lucia put it together as a class project for a study program she's enrolled in," said Jean Butrico Cooper, child life specialist with SandCastles. "Mary has been a volunteer since SandCastles started in January 1997."

The evening will include hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar at 6:30 p.m., followed by Abdoo's performance at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $40 each and are available through Ticketmaster or at the theater box office, 318 W. Fourth St., Royal Oak.

For more information about the benefit, call SandCastles at (313) 874-6881.

Since graduating from Michigan State University, Abdoo has honed her comedic skills in Chicago, winning the Joseph Jefferson Award, the Windy City's equivalent to Broadway's Tony Award, for her work with Second City and appearing in roles in Neil Simon's "Lost in Yonkers" and "Laughter on the 23rd Floor."

On the big screen, she also played the seamstress making the wedding dress in "My Best Friend's Wedding" and had a role in "U.S. Marshals," and had the leading role in the short-lived TV series "Johnny Bago."

One of many ways

Her performance is one of the many ways money is being raised for SandCastles, which depends on grants, donations and fund-raisers to provide a place where children can grieve in a manner that is uniquely their own.

The agency will hold its first annual garage sale being held 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 1-2, at the home of Tim Holmer, 20852 Vernier, off I-94 and Eight Mile Road, Harper Woods. In case of rain, it will be Aug. 8-9.

Everything from clothes, athletic equipment and household utensils, to televisions, microwaves, rugs and sofas will be sold, thanks to donations from volunteers, participating families and staffers.

SandCastles, a division of Hospices of Henry Ford Health Systems, offers a year-round program for children ages 3-18 and their parents or guardians at three locations - SandCastles Southfield in cooperation with Parenting University/Southfield Public Schools, SandCastles Clinton Township in cooperation with the Chippewa Valley Schools and SandCastles St. Clair Shores in cooperation with St. Margaret of Scotland Church.

"It's the first open-ended children's program in southeast Michigan," said Cooper. "It runs 12 months a year with meetings twice a month or almost every other week. Families can join and close when they want to."

Volunteer effort

Run by trained volunteers, the program is free of charge to anyone in the community and Cooper estimates that 80 percent of the participants come from the community at large, the rest from the hospice program.

The meetings include a shared dinner with volunteers and the families at 6:15 p.m. before parents and guardians meet with volunteers and the children break up into age specific groups - 3-6 years, 7-9 years, 10-13 years and 14-18 years. Activities include creating memory boxes, doing journals, working on appropriate ways to express feelings and the "volcano room."

Filled with punching bags, cloth-covered bats, bubble wrap for popping and telephone books waiting to be torn apart, the volcano room serves as a safe room for expressing the physical side of grief, Cooper said.

"For some kids, to be in the volcano room and be able to express themselves has been a wonderful release," Cooper said. "We've had some parents set up volcano rooms for the kids in their own homes."

Within the groups, anniversaries of deaths are recognized and candles are lit in remembrance. When the groups join together at 8 p.m., there's a closing song and a hand squeeze to close out the evening.

The millennium bug

Like a meteor, the millennium bug is on a steadfast course, due to hit home at the stroke of midnight Jan. 1, 2000.

Will homeowners feel a sudden chill during the night, curse the darkness before lighting a candle, then pick up the phone and hear...nothing?

Will sprinkler systems go haywire, sump pumps fail and security alarms wail like a banshee? Maybe. Maybe not.

There are bound to be glitches. However, industries that impact our lives assure us they have Y2K task forces in place to eradicate the millennium bug before it bites too hard. Only time will tell.

Y2K problem

Many industry computer systems were implemented in the '60s, '70s and '80s when computer memory cost $600,000 vs. 10 cents today. Programmers used only two digits to represent dates rather than four; for example, 70 instead of 1970.

Credit and debit cards, ATM cards, and merchant cards with a 2000 expiration date face rejection if their payment organizations are not millennium-compliant. The year 2000 will be identified as 00, which could be identified as 1900 or 2000.

Computers purchased within the last year or two are probably Year-2000 compliant. Older machines may present a problem.

"Hardware is the real issue. Older machines will not support 2000," said David Borman, president of U & B Computers in Canton Township.

To find out if your computer is Year-2000 compliant, Borman suggests setting the date to Jan. 1, 2000 and then turning the computer off. Wait five minutes, then turn it back on.

"If the date is retained, you're fine. If the date isn't retained, the computer will come up with 1980 or 1900. If it does that, it's not compliant. Some hardware needs to be replaced."

Software is not so much an issue, said Borman, unless it's used for date-comparison reasons, like checking accounts and spread sheets.

What software is safe? Borman said core operating systems like Windows 95, Windows 98, and Windows NT should be fine, as should all software manufactured by Microsoft, Borland and Intuit.

However, beware of small programs downloaded off the Internet. "Those will be the most skeptical to supporting Year 2000," said Burman.

Also, new software may require a more robust operating system.

Appliances

Edward and Jennifer Yourdon, authors of "Time Bomb 2000," broadly define an embedded system as any device that has built-in computer logic. Embedded systems in consumer appliances range from "microwave ovens to VCRs to digital wristwatch to automobiles."

Yourdon and Yourdon estimate 25 billion-plus of these systems will exist by the end of 1999. Granted, only a small percentage are likely to be "year-sensitive." But even if only one percent are Year 2000 defective that's 25 million repair jobs, the authors claim.

The Consumer Electronics Manufacturers Association (CEMA) filed comments with Federal Trade Commission (FTC) in June stating that the vast majority of consumer electronics products will not experience Year 2000 problems.

In a recent press release, CEMA stated that only a few products, including a limited number of older models of video and personal computer products, are likely to be affected by the date change.

"We believe the number of products likely to be affected by the turn of the century is negligible. For older model products, Y2K problems probably won't affect the function of the product, and will often be remedied by simply resetting the date," said Gary Shapiro, president of CEMA.

"For personal computers, software fixes should be readily available and, in many cases, free of charge."

How to tell if you have year-sensitive appliance? If you can set "current year" information, or change that information, then most likely the embedded system is not Year-2000 vulnerable.

VCR vaccine

You certainly don't want to program your VCR to record the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, 2000 and end up with a rerun of

Customers want to know that lights won't go out

Mary Tocco asked the question on everybody's mind.

"What if we have a major power outage all over the place?"

Tocco and about 40 other Oakland County residents appeared at a hearing in White Lake Township on July 9 to ask the utility companies what officials there intended to do about potential problems that may occur in the year 2000 with computers, software and applications for everything from operations to billing for these companies and their customers.

The hearing was sponsored by Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, who chairs the state Senate Energy and Technology Committee.

Dave Peterson, corporate manager for Detroit Edison, told Tocco the company will take the "necessary steps to isolate ourselves in generating power."

"We are a summer peak company, not a winter peak company. We've got more reserve capacity in the winter."

Peterson said Edison compiled a task force in 1995, and has proposed contingency plans. The utility is completing compliance testing. "We intend to be ready. We intend to deliver electricity to you folks on Jan. 1."

Lockie MacGregor, a Michigan Public Service commissioner, said of Michigan's 164 gas, phone and electrical utility companies, 50 percent expect to be in compliance by the end of 1998 and 50 percent by the end of 1999.

Concert benefits Pat Patton Fund

Rick Dines considers friend Charles "Pat" Patton one of the unsung heroes of the blues guitar.

Tragically, he said, Patton was diagnosed with cancer in May and was forever silenced after surgery to remove a brain tumor.

In the ultimate form of tribute, Patton's friends will release his self-made tape and have created the Pat Patton Fund to help lift the financial burden of his family.

They are planning a series of fund-raisers, including a concert with Bridge and Blue Cat from 3 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 1, at the Harris-Kehrer VFW Post 3323, 1055 S. Wayne Road at Avondale, Westland. For more information, call (734) 722-5511.

Tickets are $5 for admission only, or $10-which includes admission and a raffle ticket with the chance to win a $25 gift certificate to Nautilus Pizza and Subs, a $50 gift certificate to Rick Alan Music, a first series McFarlane Kiss Dolls, or an Eddie Van Halen Wolfgang Special guitar by Peavey Electronics worth $1,000.

Tickets are available at the door or in advance at Rick Alan Music, 224 N. Wayne Road, one block north of Cherry Hill, Westland.

"He had no health insurance so we're trying to raise a little bit of money for the family. It's not going to be anything phenomenal that's going to set them up for life by any means but just something to help out," said Rick Dines of Rick Alan Music in Westland.

"The big prize is the guitar," Dines said. "We'll also have some tapes of Pat's music. I had 200 of these tapes made up and we're selling those for $5. They're really good."

According to Rick Zerndt, who taught guitar at Rick Alan Music with Patton, Patton thought he had a sore arm from his dog pulling on it. But his condition worsened. His speech was slurred and his vision was problematic. In May, Patton was diagnosed with the brain tumor.

"It happened really fast. He's a real talented super intelligent guy. The strange thing is they said that he was pretty upbeat about it. He had a spiritual experience and that he was ready to go and he wasn't that upset about it," Zerndt said.

Still, his friends are devastated, Dines added. "It's obviously pretty devastating," Dines said. "He has two young kids. It's a sad situation. I'm not the world's greatest promoter but I wanted to do a little something."

"The Brady Bunch." Don't boot your old VCR out the door and buy a new one.

This tip was offered on the Money Magazine Web site. You can trick the old VCR into functioning properly by resetting its internal clock back 28 years to 1972, when the calendar dates and days of the week fell in the same sequence they will in 2000.

"As far as faxes and copiers are concerned, don't sweat it," said Michael Day, sales manager for National Business Machines in Westland, which services Sharp Electronic products.

Day said all information they've received from Sharp Electronics indicates there won't be a problem, especially with base-station faxes. Just reset the date to 2000 or 00 according to directions in the fax manual.

Borman said there shouldn't be a problem with computer fax modems as long as the computer is Year-2000 compliant.

Banking

NBD, like other major banks, operates several decades-old, date-base computer systems:

checking accounts, ATM and debit cards, mortgages and credit cards, to name a few.

"We have built on those systems and just forwarded information," said Kelly, a vice president with NBD.

Kelly said NBD is spending $100 million to ensure all systems are Year-2000 compliant by the end of 1998. The bank will spend 1999 testing systems with their vendors. "You can be darn sure we're serious."

NBD has 3 million customers in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana, of which 50,000 use on-line computer banking. On-line banking customers could catch the millennium bug unless they have updated versions of Quick- en and Microsoft Money.

Dan Weicheck, a computer risk-management consultant for Arthur Andersen, said the question for people who bank by computer is "What date is being used to update the files, the personal computer or the bank's?" His advice: Keep hard copies of financial documents.

Experts assure us that the foreboding 2000 expiration date is not likely to bring cash registers crashing down everywhere.

Linda Locke, vice president of technical communications for MasterCard, said the company processes 1.6 million transactions daily with a 2000 expiration date and beyond. "They're handled with no problem."

Major credit card companies like MasterCard and Visa have designed compliance programs to make sure their vendors are ready for the year 2000. However, there's no way to predict 100 percent compliance.

"We can't test all 15 million terminals. We are continuing to tell businesses to have contingency plans."

People will stand outside their banks' doors if their credit card bill is $10,000 instead of $10, but what if they are billed too little, or not at all?

Yourdon and Yourdon raise this question in their book "Time Bomb 2000". If the credit card companies and associated banks fail to send us our monthly credit card statement, will we rush to our bank to pay off the bill?

Utilities

In July 1996, a power outage occurred across the West, shutting down electricity to eight states from California to Colorado and parts of Canada. Although it lasted less than two hours, it revealed the vulnerability of the nation's interconnected grid system.

The country's entire electrical system consists of a grid of 6,000 electrical generating units, 500,000 miles of bulk transmission lines, 12,000 major substations and thousands of lower-voltage transformers.

Will there be - could there be - massive power outages within the first few weeks or months of year 2000?

Detroit Edison is spending $55-$70 million to remedy Y2K problems and keep the electricity flowing for its 2 million customers. Dave Peterson, Y2K project manager, said Edison is addressing four major areas: preventing potentially dangerous power surges; generation and delivery of electricity; collecting and crediting revenues; and managing financial and maintenance operations.

"Detroit Edison is taking this Y2K issue extremely seriously. It is one of the top priority jobs going on with our company for many years."

Consumers Energy is the state's largest gas and electric facility, serving six million of the state's nine and a half million residents. It delivers natural gas, which costs one-third the price of electricity, to 1.2 million customers. The company has budgeted $5-$6 million for new, millenium-proof computer systems.

"The gas will keep flowing," said Paul Ganz, corporate relations manager for Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw.

Home security

Alarm systems detect fires, break-ins and medical emergencies.

In the Detroit metropolitan area, Brinks Home Security has branches in Livonia and Westland. The company is undergoing a testing program at its Texas headquarters and other branches.

The company issued a "year 2000 Compliance Statement" in which it said it cannot guarantee that its internal systems or the systems of its vendors are free of problems. However, it added: "There should be no Year 2000 issues with respect to the alarm equipment installed in our customers' premises because the alarm equipment the company has utilized does not track date or time."

AVIO Inc. is a Troy-based company that deals with the entire low-voltage electronic infrastructure of a home. It installs integrated electronic systems: alarms, cable, satellite, telephone, intercom and faxes, as well as music, theater and lighting systems controlled by touch-screens.

Its alarm systems offer round-the-clock coverage and varying degrees of integration. For example, a malfunctioning sump pump would trigger an alarm, as well as a child falling into a backyard pool.

Owner and company president Dave Barnett said homeowners can sleep safely through the night on Dec. 31, 1999. Their alarm systems will work.

"There are no product families that we touch that will have problems," he said.

So sleep well. A few dark clouds may roll in come Jan. 1, 2000, but the sky won't fall.

MacGregor said the commission did not have the authority to phase the utilities into the Year 2000 or "Y2K" program.

James Wilson, director of business systems services for Consumers Power, tried to reassure that computers and the entire Consumers Power network will not crash once the year 2000 arrives.

"If you prepare for the worst, the worst won't happen."

Wilson said later that if a complete shutdown or total blackout occurred, Consumers Power can execute a startup manually. "We can take some of our older plants and revert them back to the manual mode, so these plants don't have any '2K' mode," Wilson said.

Bob Mangus of Springfield Township wondered whether the utilities could test the system for the year 2000 and the entire electrical grid.

"You could test the grid from end to end, but you'd have to have a second grid," Peterson said. "That's not economically feasible."

Residents want more reassurances that the utility companies can back up promises that the systems will be "year 2000 friendly" and that entire systems won't shut down. They want to go beyond the public trust placed in the utility companies. "What we need to know is exactly what's going on with the utilities," another resident said.

Dunaskiss expects a legislative package will be introduced once the hearings are completed, which he believes will include some government regulation of the utilities. But he did not know when that package may be introduced.

SandCastles is modeled after the Dougy Center in Portland, Ore. Started by a nurse, Beverly Chapel, it is named for a young terminally ill boy who went around the hospital floor talking to other children.

After seeing what he did for other children, Chapel started support groups that at first met in her home and now meet in the Dougy Center.

The program has three tasks for children - to understand what death is, feel feelings associated with the person who died and incorporate the loss into their life and go on living and loving a normal life with that change.

It's Mary Abdoo who is credited with creating the small hand-painted bags given to children when they leave SandCastles. The bags contain three shells - a light one symbolizing the good times, a dark one symbolizing the hard times and a conch shell that holds all of the memories.

"It's a wonderful program because it provides them with an opportunity to be with their peers and a chance to normalize their grief and experiences, so their not alone in their journey," Cooper said. "They're never going to forget that person and their lives are going to change for that reason, so we give them the tools to deal with the grief."

Enrollment in SandCastles is available year-round. Families interested in joining can call (313) 874-6881. A short intake process is required prior to placement in a SandCastles group.

PROPOSAL J JAIL MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSAL

To RENEW the millage authorized in 1988, shall Wayne County be authorized to continue to levy this millage at the 1997 rollback rate of .9532 mills (about 95 cents per thousand dollars of taxable valuation) for four more years (1998 through 2001), to continue these exclusive uses:

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Tuite-Goemer

Robert and Diane Tuite of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Heather Rochelle, to David Michael Goemer, the son of Michael and Darlene Goemer of Canton.

Livonia's Trinity Church celebrates its history and vision

Just one year short of 75 years in Detroit and exactly 40 years in Livonia, the people of Trinity Church are celebrating the church's unique history and vision.

On Sunday, Aug. 2, three previous pastors of Trinity Church will join with the current pastor and congregation for a day of worship and celebration. The worship service will begin at 10:45 a.m. and will include communion, followed by a picnic-style lunch and evening hymn singing at 6 p.m.

Trinity's pastor, the Rev. Michael Van Horn, is hopeful the celebration will be a joyful homecoming and reunion for former Trinity pastors and members.

The day will include testimonials and reflections by the former pastors, with the worship and celebration, special music and congregational singing, accompanied by a worship team which combines favorite traditional hymns and contemporary praise music.

Pastor Emeritus Lyle Adams will preach at the morning service, with former pastors Rev. Norman Mathais and Rev. Paul Patton sharing the evening service hymn singing.

The Trinity Baptist Church was founded in 1924 at Indiana and Fenkell avenues in Detroit. The Detroit church planted the Livonia chapel in 1958, with another branch planted at the historic Union Meeting House on Six Mile Road in 1964. For 19 years, the church maintained three worship sites under the same pastoral leadership.

Adams was pastor of Trinity Baptist Church from 1956 to 1982 and has been honored as pastor emeritus since that time. It was under his leadership that the Livonia church was established.

Adams had a vision of a church community that was racially mixed, existing with Christian unity and cultural diversity. He also had a vision for care of the elderly and was instrumental in leading the church to found the Trinity Park Retirement Apartments, Trinity Park West Assisted Living Home and Middlebelt Nursing Home in Livonia.

Evans became pastor of the Detroit congregation when Adams retired in 1982, with Mathais taking over the pastoral leadership of the Livonia church. Under Mathais' leadership, the church purchased the then 125-year-old Luther Briggs home to serve as a church parsonage.

The stately 12-room home became Mathais' home as well as the meeting place for the Cornerstone ministry to Schoolcraft College students, providing a sense of family for those who gathered there for Bible study and prayer.

In 1986, Mathais retired and the Rev. Paul Patton became pastor of the Livonia congregation. Evans continues to serve as pastor of Trinity Baptist Church in Detroit.

Patton had a passion for Christian theater and arts and directed a church drama group. When the two Livonia congregations merged, the Six Mile Road chapel was converted into a playhouse and Trinity House Theatre was born.

The theater is committed to the idea of quality theater and arts done by Christians for the glory of God and the enrichment of human culture. Patton has since continued with graduate studies in theater arts.

Kirk, Park lead Roadrunner pack

It was a night for Star Trek at the 15th annual Roadrunner Classic, and 8-kilometer race which attracted over 700 runners on the streets of Northville.

Brad Kirk of Portage was the captain of it all, winning in 24 minutes, 10 seconds.

All things added up, the 30-year-old certified public accountant ran an impressive 4:52 per mile to unseat defending champion Paul Aufderberg of Redford, who clocked a respectable 23:55.

The women's champion, 35-year-old Laurel Park of Ann Arbor, five-peated, winning comfortably in 28:44, a 5:47 per mile pace. Toledo's Cheri McLean was a distant second in 30:33.

It was Kirk's first Roadrunner Classic as a participant. Last year he was injured and watched the race.

"It was a good course, challenging for three to four miles," said Kirk of the 4.91-mile event. "It's a course that keeps you honest."

"I felt pretty good coming in. I had some good workouts leading up to this."

Just prior to the race, Kirk was surprised to hear from his chief challenger Aufderberg, who had won the race three of the past four years, that the prize money totalling nearly $5,000 had been dropped after the chief sponsor, First Finance, pulled out.

"I was kind of surprised when Paul told me at the starting line," Kirk said. "But regardless, I came because it was a competitive race. It's unfortunate, but I'm happy with the results."

"I came here because I knew it attracted the best runners in the state."

Even without it (the money), I would have shown up."

Kirk, a native of Otsego, ran competitive track at Western Michigan University specializing in the 1,500- and 5,000-meter races.

"I'm more of a 10K, 5K kind of guy, but I think I'll move up and try a marathon pretty soon," he said. "I'd like to make the 2000 Olympic Trials."

Kirk's best highlight as a runner came in 1996 when he was chosen to represent the U.S. in the World Cross Country Championships in Capetown, South Africa where he finished as the fifth American.

Meanwhile, for Park, she experienced a slightly different ride than Kirk.

With the men's and women's starts on separate streets, the women's race started four minutes prematurely following Karen Newman's Red Wing rendition of the National Anthem.

"I heard the gun and everybody just took off," said Park, who was afraid she was going to get lost. "I was running toward Seven Mile and then I see the lead vehicle and lead biker peel off."

"I was by myself for four miles. I had run the first two miles of the course. It was fascinating, to say the least. But once I got over the terror, I said to myself, 'I might as well keep going.' The course marshals and volunteers did a good job."

With the four-minute jump, Park led most of the male finishers, but her husband Rich, the third-place finisher overall in 25:10, eventually caught up and passed his wife.

"He kind of gave me an evil smile"

Race competitor: Brian Konz of Livonia, next to his Pontiac Grand Prix, is third among rookie in points in the Bondo Mar-Hyde Supercar Series

Konz comes home for Flat Rock race

Call it the hectic life of Brian. During the week he drives bulky semi-truck rigs around Detroit on the midnight shift.

On the weekends, he's Brian Konz of Livonia, a 32-year-old rookie trying to make his way on the American Racing Car Association Bondo/Mar-Hyde Supercar Series.

This weekend it's a homecoming of sorts.

On Friday, he'll take his Chevrolet Lumina to the .375-mile short track at Kil Kare Speedway in Xenia, Ohio.

Then on Saturday night, he'll return to his racing roots — Flat Rock Speedway for a .25-mile event.

Third in points among rookies on the Bondo Mar-Hyde Series, Konz has a dream to race against the big boys — the Gordons, Martins and Jarretts of the Winston Cup circuit — at the rescheduled Firecracker 400, set for October in Daytona, Fla.

"If everything goes right I hope to be there," said Konz, a Bentley High School graduate who is married with two children. "It takes the same restrictor-plate motor we have on the Mar-Hyde."

Depending on the size of the track, Konz races three different 1998 models — a Chevy Lumina, Pontiac Grand Prix or Chevy Monte Carlo.

The weight of the vehicles are 3,400 pounds with a 358-cubic inch displacement on the engine (with a 12:1 compression ratio). The horsepower is 740 (plus).

AUTO RACING

The cars get up to Winston Cup speeds of 190 MPH.

Konz's No. 6 car is owned by Gerald Smith of Boaz, Ala. and Wayne Peterson of Pulaski, Tenn.

"We got together when they didn't have a driver at Talladega, and I jumped in," said Konz, who won his first race in 1988 in the Street Stock Division at Flat Rock.

His pit crew includes Westland's Ron Cowie, a catch can man, and Mike Knie of Farmington Hills, a crew chief who handles the front tires.

He is currently 11th in the Supercar Series point standings with 1,700. Frank Kimmel leads with 2,930. Andy Belmont, the rookie Konz is chasing, is sixth with 2,230.

Konz was the Flat Rock Late Model series Rookie of the Year in 1992. He won the Michigan Cup race in '95 and began driving on the ARCA Bondo/Mar-Hyde Supercar circuit in '96 with his first race at Michigan International Speedway.

All told, Konz has five ARCA wins, five runner-ups and 92 top 10s.

His grandfather, Clyde Parker, is a former ARCA driver who finished in the top 10 six consecutive seasons.

"My grandfather raced in the same series back in the '60s," Konz said. "I got my start at Flat Rock. It was the"

Lakers skin Wildcats, 7-1

There's no doubt, the Metro Summer Hockey League caters to scorers — except, maybe, when the playoffs roll around.

That's when the defenses take over. The Lakers and the Wildcats battled through the first two periods of their first-round playoff game Tuesday, scoring just three goals between them. Indeed, it stayed rather close, and low scoring, until the final 4½ minutes, when the Lakers scored four times to pull away to a 7-1 victory at Plymouth Ice Arena.

The Lakers advanced to play the Huskies for the Bakes Conference title, and a berth in Sunday's MSHL championship game, last night.

Eric Dolesh (from Farmington Hills) scored three goals and added an assist to lead the Laker offense. Jeramie Murray (Redford) and Nick Jardine each added a goal and three assists, with Matt Krupa and Brad Feiler (Canton) each getting a goal.

Brian Calka (Livonia) accounted for the 'Cats only goal.

Lanny Jardine was in goal for the Lakers. Chuck Schervisch played in the net for the 'Cats.

BULLDOGS 10, SPARTANS 3: Corey Swider (Livonia) and Ian Crockford each scored twice for the Bulldogs before the Spartans could get on the board in Tuesday's playoff game at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Crockford finished with four goals and four assists to lead the 'Dogs. Corey Swider had three goals and two assists, while Kevin Swider (Livonia) — the MSHL's leading scorer through the regular season — totaled a goal and six assists.

Other goal-scorers for the Bulldogs were Brad Yonemura (Garden City) and Eric Bratcher (Livonia) contributed two assists.

The Spartans got two goals from Joe Kustra and another from Andrew Klein. Klein also had two assists.

Bob Harrison was in the net for the Bulldogs.

HUSKIES 10, WOLVERINES 6: In the opening game of the MSHL playoffs Monday, the Huskies scored four unanswered goals in the first period and were never in danger after that at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Sean Kass scored two of those first-period goals — he had three goals and an assist in the game — and J.P. Hunt (Livonia) added three assists in the opening period (he had four for the game).

Other multiple goal-scorers for the Huskies were Jesse Hubenschmidt (Redford), Tony Guzzo and Jeremy Stodovick, each with two. David Scott (Canton) added a goal and an assist, while Hubenschmidt and Guzzo each had three assists.

The Wolverines were led by Dennis Elenich (Livonia) with two goals, Dale Rominski with a goal and two assists, Jay Varicik with a goal and Daryl Schimmelpenneg (Canton) with a goal. Dave Street contributed two assists.

Ed Souilliere (Livonia) was in goal for the Huskies.

WOLVERINES 7, LAKERS 6: Until the final week of the regular season, the Lakers had the only unbeaten record in the MSHL. That came to a resounding end in that final week — Sunday's loss to the Wolverines was the Lakers' third-straight defeat.

They had a good chance to end their slide prior to the playoffs, scoring twice in the third period — Brian Jardine on a penalty shot that tied the score at 6-6, followed by an Eric Dolesh (Farmington Hills) goal that gave the Lakers the lead — but they couldn't hang on. The Wolves netted two goals in the final 2:42, the first by Shaun Harrington (Livonia) and the game-winner by Dave Street with 1:03 left.

Harrington led the Wolves with three goals and an assist. Other goal-scorers for the Wolverines (4-7) were Erik Hawkins (Redford), Jason Lawmaster (Westland) and Dan Trainor (Plymouth). Keith Rowe (Redford) had three assists.

The Lakers got two goals from Brian Jardine and other single scores from Nick Jardine, Jeramie Murray (Redford) and Brad Feiler (Canton). Matt Krupa and Mike Vigilante each had two assists.

Joe Sorentino and John Trainor (Canton) were each in goal for the Wolverines. Shaun Miller and Lanny Jardine played in the net for the Lakers.

BULLDOGS 14, SPARTANS 10: Matt Grant (Livonia) poured in five goals, Kevin Swider (Livonia) netted four and Ben Blackwood added three more — two of Blackwood's coming in the pivotal third period — to push past the Spartans Sunday at Plymouth and wrap up the Eagle Conference regular-season championship with a 9-2 mark.

The 'Dogs were clinging to a 10-9 advantage through three periods, then outscored the Spartans (1-10) 4-1 in the final period, thanks to Blackwood's two goals and single tallies by Grant and Swider. Blackwood also had two assists in the game.

Ice shavings: Livonian Brian Calka (left) of the Wildcats battles Matt Krupa of the Lakers in Metro Summer Hockey League playoff action.

The Bulldogs other goal-scorer was Eric Bratcher, with two; he also had three assists. Darin Fawkes (Livonia) and Andrew Domzalski (Livonia) added three assists apiece, and Chad Theuer had two.

The Spartans got three goals from Mike Hendrie and two more from Andrew Klein, Jay Sole, Joe Kustra, Chris Regner, Paul Khawani and Craig Peiser added single scores, with Sole adding two assists.

BRONCOS 12, FALCONS 4: Dwight Helminen knocked in four goals and picked up two assists to pace the Broncos to the win over the Falcons Sunday at Plymouth.

Frank Bourbonais added three goals and both Nick Smyth and Mark Pietila had two goals, with Pietila getting four assists and Smyth two. The Broncos (5-5-1) also got a goal and two assists from Keith Pietila, Darin Sylvester and Eric Heltunen contributed three assists apiece.

For the Falcons, Paul Goleniak and Scott Goleniak each scored two goals, with Scott Kala getting two assists.

John Trainor (Canton) was in goal for the Falcons; Art Baker played in the net for the Broncos.

SEASON-ENDING NOTES: The MSHL playoffs got underway Monday, with the Huskies (Bakes Conference champions) going up against the Wolverines (four in the Bakes). There were two more opening-round playoff games Tuesday — the Lakers vs. the Wildcats, and the Spartans against the Bulldogs — with the final first-round game played Wednesday, with the Broncos going against the Falcons.

The Bakes Conference final was also Wednesday, with the Huskies/Wolverines winner playing the Lakers/Wildcats victor.

The winner of the Bulldog/Spartan match will meet the winner of the Bronco/Falcon game in the Eagle Conference final at 8 p.m. tonight.

The championship game is set for 8 p.m. Sunday. All games will be played at Plymouth Ice Arena. . . . The final results in the MSHL scoring race and goals-against competition were worth something. The top five scorers in the league, and the best three goalies, each received jackets commemorating the occasion.

Kevin Swider, of Livonia, won the league scoring title with an impressive 25 goals and 43 assists (68 points). He was one of four Bulldogs to win a jacket in the scoring race; the others were Ben Blackwood, with 25 goals and 25 assists (50 points); Corey Swider, also of Livonia, with 17 goals and 21 assists for 38 points; and Eric Bratcher, with 11 goals and 27 assists, also totaling 38 points.

The only non-Bulldog among the league's top five scorers was Tony Guzzo of the Huskies; he was third overall with 19 goals and 25 assists for 44 points.

The three top goalies, each earning a jacket, were Lanny Jardine of the Lakers (4.20 goals-against average); Art Baker of the Broncos (5.61 goals-against average); and Ryan Davis of the Huskies (5.71 goals-against average).

Livonia Travel

tourney ready

Livonia Travel begins play today at Hopkinsville, Ky. in the National Amateur Baseball Federation's High School Division (17-and-under) World Series.

Coach Bill Rabe's squad, coming off a four-game weekend sweep of the host Fort Wayne Braves, opens tournament play against Long Island, N.Y.

Friday's games feature Livonia Travel against Worth of Tennessee and the Braves.

Sixteen teams are vying for the coveted title.

"We scheduled this trip back six months ago and to beat a team four times who we'll see in the World Series is a great confidence booster," said Rabe, whose squad is 33-9 overall. "We hit the ball very well."

Livonia Travel out-homered Fort Wayne during the four-game set, 10-1.

As a team this summer, LT clubbed 57 homers with the top three hitters combining for a slugging percentage over .900.

That's part of the reason why the power-slugging Livonia squad captured the Little Caesars League and tournament titles.

"This is a unique group," Rabe said. "It's fun to spend an afternoon in the winter thinking about each one of these guys."

Leadoff hitter Bob Malek (Redford Catholic Central) is hitting .511 with 13 homers, five triples and 17 doubles.

"Having to watch him over the last five years has been something special," Rabe said. "Bob has been invited to six to eight Major League workouts in August and it's no wonder why."

Malek, recognized as the league's top hitter, clubbed three homers against the Braves.

Casey Rogowski (CC) is hitting .474 in the No. 3 spots with 14 homers and 56 RBI, while Mike Fisher (Farmington Hills Harrison) has a .479 average with 14 homers and 13 doubles.

"Casey's athletic accolades speak for itself," Rabe said. "And Mike has great bat control for the big man."

Catcher Chris Woodruff (CC),

NABF 17-AND-UNDER a mainstay behind the plate, is batting .326 with six homers, five doubles and 29 RBI.

"Woody puts his body on the line every game," Rabe said. "He gives you a full seven innings."

His counterpart behind the plate, Brandon Gajda (Livonia Stevenson), is hitting .300.

Roy Rabe (Stevenson) is hitting .325 with 14 extra base hits and 29 RBI. He is 7-1 as a pitcher with a team-low 1.4 earned run average.

"He has been real methodical on the mound all year," the LT manager said.

Right fielder Brett Wells (Livonia Churchill) is batting .293 with an on-base percentage of .440. Brent Zak (CC) has shared the duties in right, hitting .340 with an on-base average of .455.

"Brett has really improved his command of the strike zone and he certainly helps to lead this team," Rabe said.

Derek Fox (Farmington) is 6-1 as a pitcher with a .286 batting average (in the No. 2 spot).

"This guy can do a lot of things for you — hit, pitch and plays great shortstop," Rabe said. "He has been in our program for six years."

Newcomer Dave Lusky (CC) platoons with Fox at short and in the pitching rotation.

Second baseman Mario D'Herin (CC) is hitting near the .300 mark, but is known more for his defensive prowess.

"Mario has the best fielding percentage on the team," Rabe said. "His glove has kept us in many games."

Right-hander Dale Hayes (Westland John Glenn) is the team's ace with a 6-1 record. The control pitcher, who keeps the ball down, has averaged less than three walks per game.

Stevenson's Jon Ritzler (5-3) rounds out the starting rotation along with newcomer Mark Cole (CC).

"Mark's our only lefty and has really filled a void on this team," Rabe said.

D.C.I., Rams eye post-season

Livonia D.C.I. and the Michigan Lake Area Rams can start making post-season playoff plans.

D.C.I. clinched first place in the Collegiate Division of the Adray Metro Baseball Association with a 2-0 win on Saturday over Hines Park to earn the automatic berth to the All-America Amateur Baseball Association national tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

D.C.I. had a 15-10-1 record and 31 points heading into Wednesday's season finale against the Warren Reds, the second place team in the Adray Division.

The Rams locked up second place in the Collegiate Division with a 9-6 win over D.C.I. Sunday at Livonia Ford Field and are headed to the National Amateur Baseball Federation regional in Louisville, Ky.

The Rams were 13-11-2 for 28

points heading into their season finale on Wednesday against Downriver Adray.

In the win against D.C.I., Josh Axelsson earned the pitching victory in relief of starter Tom Willeher.

D.C.I. had taken an early lead, scoring five runs, three unearned, off Willeher in two innings.

Axelsson allowed no runs on four hits with eight strikeouts in the last four innings. The game was called after six innings due to the league's time limit.

The Rams scored four runs in the second inning and five more to take the lead.

Kevin Prader had two hits and scored two runs with an RBI to lead the Rams. Matt Pike was 1-for-4 with two RBI and Todd Miller (Farmington Hills/Madonna) 1-for-4 with an RBI.

Aaron Lawson (Farmington Hills Harrison/Wayne State) was 1-for-4, including a double, with a run scored. Rick Green was 1-for-4 with a run scored and Joe Seestadt 1-2 with two runs scored.

Luke Humphreys (Redford Union/St. Mary's College) was 1-for-3 with an RBI and a run scored. Lance Siegwald was 1-for-3 with three RBI.

Other notes: Brian Berryman, son of Rams' coach Rick Berryman, earned his first pitching victory with a four-hitter through seven innings in a 6-1 win last week for Idaho Falls, a Rookie League team in the San Diego Padres farm system.

Berryman is a 1995 Redford Union graduate and former University of Michigan player taken in the seventh round of June's Major League draft.

Livonia Travel 15 runner-up in AABC

After a first-round defeat Thursday, Livonia Travel 15 nearly came all the way back to win the American Amateur Baseball Congress district tournament for 15-16 year-olds last weekend at Plymouth Salem High School.

The Michigan Bulls ended LT 15's run with a 12-3 triumph in the final on Sunday.

LT 15 finished the summer 30-9 overall.

"Our kids battled hard all year long," LT 15 coach Jim Wilson said. "Most of the time we were playing against 16-year-old teams, and other than our (Brad) Buckler, we were all 15."

LT 15 led 3-1 after 4½ innings, but the Bulls scored twice in the fifth to pull even at 3-all and pulled away with a 10-hit, 6-run outburst in the sixth to advance to this week's AABC regional in Coldwater.

Ryan Krol (Garden City) went 3-for-3 and had two of LT 15's three RBI. Pitcher Joe Ruggiero (Livonia Franklin), who worked the first five innings, added two hits.

"The Bulls are a very talented and experienced team, and they're very well coached, and they don't beat themselves," Wilson said. "Joe did one heck of a job holding them in check for five innings."

In the semifinals, LT 15 avenged a 14-1 regular season defeat to oust Allen Park Junior Legion in five innings (mercy rule), 12-1.

"I don't think I've ever had a team that was more ready to play," Wilson said. "Bob Marten from Allen Park does a great job coaching and we were fortunate to catch them on a day when they had some key injuries and were a little short on pitching."

Krol, a pickup player from GC, gave up just three hits over four innings to earn the victory.

Chris Grabowski (Dearborn Divine Child) went 3-for-3 with three RBI and scored twice. Brent Scheffler (Divine Child) added a 3-run homer and RB double, while Dan Wilson (Livonia Stevenson) had four RBI, including a double and triple and scored twice.

On Saturday, Scott Golem (Dearborn) celebrated his 15th birthday by going 3-for-3 with two runs scored in a 6-3 triumph over the Waterford White Sox.

Golem figured in all six LT 15 runs with a solo homer, double and single.

Scheffler, the winning pitcher, worked 5½ innings, allowing three runs on seven hits. Ruggiero came on to earn the save.

On Friday, LT 15 bounced Jackson, 11-2, as pitcher Ronnie Williams (Stevenson) tossed a three-hitter.

LT 15 scored a pair of runs in the first and five more in the second to take a commanding 7-0 lead.

Williams, Wilson, Ruggiero and Pete Pinto (Stevenson) each collected two hits as the Livonians racked up 14 overall.

Krol, Golem, Wilson and Buckler each had two hits apiece in an 11-inning 5-2 opening-round loss to the Bulls.

It was 2-2 after four innings. Wilson used five different pitchers to try and keep the Bulls off-balance.

"This is the best game we've played all year," the LT 15 manager said. "You have to give the Bulls credit, they made all the plays when they needed to."

The shortstop (Kren) from Lincoln Park played great and (Anthony) Tomey (from Redford Catholic Central) throws harder than anybody we've seen."

For the season, Scheffler (.485), Ruggiero (.422) and Golem (.404) were the team's leading hitters, while Grabowski did not strike out in 82 plate appearances.

Buckler led the pitching staff, going 6-1, while Ruggiero and Golem each went 5-3; and Scheffler, 4-0.

Williams, Wilson, Shawn Casey (Stevenson) and Mike Moore (Divine Child) each had two victories.

The catching duties were split between Joe Meier (Franklin) and Brian Campbell (Stevenson).

Wilson's assistant coach was Don Pinto.

only place you could go around here."

Last weekend at Pocono (Pa.), Conz took 15th out of 35 drivers. His best finish is 13th at a short track in Salem, Ind.

He prefers the big tracks to half-mile dirt tracks.

"I think Brian drives smart," co-owner Smith said. "He knows he's got a car that will lead, and he knows when his car isn't good enough to contend. Then he transfers that knowledge to the track and uses it for the best possible finish."

"Brian has some things to learn about racing, but I believe that he has great potential and ability."

But his biggest obstacle is money — sponsorship to be exact.

Frederick-Thompson, Inc., a trucking firm, adorns his No. 6 car along with Advance Novelty of Livonia, Shooters Sports Theater of Fraser, Mothers, and Rogensues & Associates.

But Conz and his owners realize it takes more cash to be successful and stay on the circuit.

"I believe Brian is a little hard-headed, but the kid can definitely drive a race car," co-owner Peterson said. "Brian drives hard every lap, whether he's in first or 40th. He never gives up."

"I think Brian has great potential and with the right financial backing, will become a well-known car driver and have a long career in racing."

Concealed takes 42-0-1 record into Puerto Rico tourney

When Chris Rigley, a member of the Concealed Security 12-year-old travel baseball team, wasn't throwing strikes from the pitcher's mound, he was doing so from centerfield.

The versatile Redford Township resident won two games as a pitcher and also made a throw from centerfield to home plate to cut down a runner during his team's run of seven-straight wins in taking the American Amateur Baseball Congress regional championship in Rockford, Ill.

Concealed advances to the AABC World Series beginning Aug. 6 in Puerto Rico with a 42-0-1 record.

The team's only blemish was a 4-4 tie against the Downriver Devil Rays during the regular season that was suspended after nine innings and never finished.

"I think we're confident in our abilities, but not overconfident," Concealed coach Vic Monterey said.

Concealed beat the Downriver Devil Rays, 13-11, in the championship game on Saturday.

Rigley hurled the first 6½ innings, allowing 10 hits and two walks with six strikeouts to earn the win.

Concealed scored seven runs in the top of the seventh inning, highlighted by Dennis Marra's grand slam home run, to take a 13-5 lead before the Devil Rays threatened with six in the bottom of the seventh.

Mark McDaniel earned the save, getting the last two outs after surrendering one run on two hits.

Marra finished with two homers, including a solo shot, and five RBI. Rigley, Joe Migliacco and Tim Kalczynski (Farmington Hills) were on base for his bases-clearing shot.

Chuck Pate, who finished 3-for-4 with four RBI, also had a homer.

The fences were only about 180 feet away down the line and 212 to straightaway center and the teams took advantage, hitting a combined 44 homers. Concealed had 10, including three twice.

"That gave us a cushion, a little bit of breathing room," Monterey said of Marra's slam.

If Monterey had to do it over again, he'd have pulled Rigley before the seventh inning.

"I probably should have made a change before the seventh but when you see a kid go that far you like to see him finish it up," Monterey said. "He had been hit before but pretty much was in control of the whole game."

But Rigley's most heroic play came on Friday when Concealed beat the Springfield, Ill., Bombers 7-5 in eight innings to earn a berth in the semifinals.

With the score tied at 5-5, a Springfield runner on third base and one out in the bottom of the sixth, Rigley made a catch and throw in centerfield that will be remembered for some time.

Rigley raced back near the fence to catch a fly ball and threw a strike to Kalczynski at home plate, who placed the tag on the runner who had tagged up for a double play.

"It was right in his mitt on the fly, all the way, about 210 feet," Monterey said. "I sat there and watched the play and after the game looked back and thought how many can make that play at any level? It was a bang-bang play, Timmy blocked the plate, made the catch and the tag at the same time."

Remarkably, Concealed got out of more trouble in the bottom of the seventh after Springfield loaded the bases with no outs.

With Pate pitching, Concealed decided to try a trick play, making a phantom throw to second base from pitcher's mound. The play, which is made to look like a ball is thrown wildly to centerfield, confused the Springfield runner at second base.

While he got caught in a pickle between second and third, the shortstop Mike Monterey threw the ball home to tag out the runner from third.

Kalczynski then threw the ball to third base to tag out the runner from second for a double play. A ground ball to Monterey at shortstop ended the inning without a run being scored.

The gimmick play might have been the only way to get out of the inning.

"I'm not sure we feel it's the only way but it was sure looking grim with the bases loaded and no one out," Monterey said.

Concealed scored two runs in the top of the eighth and Marra kept Springfield scoreless in the bottom of the inning to get the pitching win.

Rigley led off with a single, stole second base and Monterey walked. Following a double steal, Marra slapped a two-run single to put Concealed up 7-5.

Dominic Noonan, a pickup from Garden City, started on the mound and didn't get much defensive support. He walked three, but four errors led to four runs in his 1½ innings of pitching.

Anthony Volpe (Farmington Hills) pitched excellent middle relief, giving up one run on three hits with two strikeouts in 4½ innings. Rigley was 2-for-4 to lead the hitting attack.

• CONCEALED 16, ROCKFORD (Ill.) 5: Concealed beat Local 32 Ill. in a five-inning mercy on Saturday.

Winning pitcher Jason Krug (Redford) went 4½ innings, giving up four runs on five hits and four walks with two strikeouts. Noonan went 4-for-4, including a homer, with three RBI.

Krause went 3-for-4 with two RBI and Marra 3-for-3 with one RBI.

Three others had two hits: Rigley (one RBI), McDaniel (three RBI, including a homer) and Pate (one RBI).

• CONCEALED 9, ROCKFORD (Ill.) 3:

On Friday, Concealed beat Local 32 for the first time, as Pate threw 6½ innings, allowing no runs on five hits and no walks with nine strikeouts.

Monterey was 2-for-3 with three RBI and Marra 1-for-3 with three RBI.

Concealed led 6-3 through six innings and scored three insurance runs in the top of seventh.

• CONCEALED 14, DOWNRIVER 10: On Thursday, Concealed beat the Downriver Devil Rays, 14-10, for the first time on Thursday.

The winning pitcher against the Devil Rays was McDaniel, who persevered through 6½ innings, allowing 10 runs on 12 hits and four walks with seven strikeouts.

Downriver hit three homers against McDaniel, who helped his own cause, going 4-5. Krause, Migliacco and Noonan each had two hits. Migliacco, who homered, had two RBI as did Krause and Noonan one RBI.

• CONCEALED 9, NOVI 7: Also on Thursday Concealed overcame a 7-4 deficit early and won behind the relief pitching of Rigley, who allowed no runs on one hit with three walks and five strikeouts in 3½ innings.

Marra started and left after allowing seven runs, several scoring with the help of six errors. He allowed two hits and walked two.

Monterey worries about Concealed's fielding at times.

"The couple lapses we had could really hurt us against a good team," he said.

McDaniel was 3-for-4 with two RBI and four players had two hits each: Kyle Miller (Farmington Hills), Krause, Pate and Robert Reznick (West Bloomfield).

• CONCEALED 11, SOMERVILLE (Minn.) 2: In Wednesday's tournament opener, Concealed rolled in five-inning mercy.

Pate was the winning pitcher, allowing no hits and three walks with six strikeouts. The two runs were unearned.

Pate and Migliacco had two-run homers in a five-run first inning.

Migliacco was 3-for-3 with three RBI and McDaniel 3-for-3 with two RBI.

Devon-Aire celebrates 40

Incredible Fast-pitch concludes 8th season

The all-star games for the Incredible Girls Fast-pitch League, which just finished its eighth season, attracted nearly 200 fans at Massey Field in Plymouth.

There was a National League all-star game featuring the top players from teams that draw from their varsity high school teams. There was an American League all-star game for the top players from teams that draw from junior varsity high school teams.

The Red team won the National League all-star game against the Blue.

Amanda Sutton of the Plymouth Lightning and Lori Schehr of the Farmington Hills Diamonds were selected co-Most Valuable Players.

Sutton pitched three scoreless innings, striking out two.

She scored the game's first run, had two stolen bases and drove in the winning run when she was hit with a pitch with the bases loaded in the bottom of the sixth.

Schehr had a hit, stole two bases and made a nice defensive play on a pick-off attempt at first base.

After making the tag at first, she threw the ball to the short-stop covering third base to get another runner out and complete a double play.

Heather Sonntag of the Lightning and Paula McKernan of the Motor City Mold also had hits for the winning team.

Adrienne Doyle of the Livonia

Knights struck out five of the seven batters she faced in the first two innings, allowing one unearned run.

Angie Balconi of the Walled Lake Nature Design was the winning pitcher.

Christine Fones of the Knights was 1-for-2, had one RBI, scored a run and stole two bases for the Blue team.

Stephanie Ladd of the Livonia Lancers, Kristin Derwich of the Knights, Lisa Niemiec of the Canton Cobras and Nicole Marianovich of the Dearborn Heights Angels had hits for the Blue.

The Red team also won the American League all-star game, beating the Blue 5-3.

Megan Fediuk of the Farmington Hills Marlins pitched seven innings for the win and was voted MVP for the game.

Jen Warnick, Kristen Wilk of the Marlins, Erin Marquardt of the Knights II and Melissa Malaniak of the Knights II had hits. Malaniak and Katie Bink of the Marlins drove in runs.

Stephanie Salinas of the Livonia Rockets had two hits and Kathy Day of the Rockets had two RBIs for the Blue team.

Lois Mackie, owner of Commercial Carpet in Novi, the league's sponsor the past eight years, presented the varsity league championship trophy to coach Jim Arnold of the Motor City Mold and the junior varsity league championship trophy to Kim Martinez of the Marlins.

Wilk of the Marlins was selected as the MVP of the American League and McKernan of the Mold was named MVP of the National League.

Top archery shooters return to Canton site

It's going to be even bigger. And, as administrators of the National Archery Association of the United States fervently hope, this year's National Target Championships will be even better.

For the second consecutive year, Canton's Heritage Park will be the site of the tournament, the 114th annual. The week of events gets under way Saturday and continues Sunday with the second annual National Traditional Tournament, with archers using the older-type bow of years past.

The National Target Championships will be Monday through Thursday, Aug. 3-6, with the U.S. Open Elimination Round scheduled for Aug. 7.

Several of the world's best archers are scheduled to compete throughout the week, including the first- and second-place finishers last year in the men's division of the National Target Championships, Americans Butch Johnson and Justin Huish.

In the women's division, there are three of the world's top 20 scheduled to compete: Natalia Nasaridze (ranked No. 1), Deniz Gunay (No. 8) and Elif Altinkaynak (of Turkey, No. 16). That's one reason why there are even more archers scheduled to compete this year (more than 550) than last (530).

And in the women's division, one of the top competitors won't even be ranked, and could have trouble placing in the top 10. Jennifer O'Donnell, a 24-year-old Livonia resident and graduate of Farmington HS, knows what it takes to get to the summit, however.

"I'm not really competing much right now," she explained, "because I'm still going to school. Hopefully, I'll be able to start shooting more when I graduate. I'll just have to make enough time to train."

O'Donnell has been competing in archery for nearly 12 years, or half her life. She was an alternate member of the U.S. Olympic Team in 1996; it was an experience she hopes to repeat, perhaps at Sydney in 2000.

"I'd really like to go to Australia," she admitted.

Of course, getting there won't be easy. O'Donnell figures it will take between 20 and 30 hours of workouts a week to get into the proper form, including extensive cardio-vascular conditioning. "When you go for six-to-eight hours a day during a tournament, well, it's better to be in better shape," she explained.

Going into her senior year at Lawrence Technological University (she's majoring in interior design), O'Donnell hasn't had the time to devote to all her interests. But that hardly means she's given it up.

Competing in the Northern Regional last month outside Toledo, O'Donnell finished first—even though she's managed to train for only a few hours a week.

"There were only four or five (competitors) in my division," she noted. "But I was happy with how high I scored. I just wanted to see how I was doing."

If O'Donnell has learned anything in the last few years, it's to be patient with herself—and her performance. "I'm at the point now where I don't get upset with myself if I don't shoot well," she said.

Her goals for the National Target Championships are modest, at least for her: "I'd like to finish in the top 12 in the prelims and in the top 16 in (Friday's) shoot-down."

Even though she's not in peak form; O'Donnell's future plans for archery made her decision to compete here a no-brainer. "It's so close by and it's fun," she said. "Really, it'd be silly not to."

"I just want to have a good time. And I'd like to shoot in the 1250s."

Her future plans include taking shots at the Olympic teams in 2000 and 2004. "After I graduate and get a job, and work a while, hopefully I'll be in contention at that time," she said. "But there will be a lot of people who will have come up (since 1996), so it will be a matter of wanting to see how good they are."

HEARTLANDE THEATRE'S

GOES FOR A

A Ring of truth

Terminal romantics might consider a flourishing flower as the appropriate emotional metaphor for marriage. But those who've been around to debate the travails of raised toilet seats, the level of dirty dishes before a washing is needed, and whether in-laws should be actually considered as relatives surely know better.

Undoubtedly, the more accurate metaphor for marriage is a literal context for verbal sparring. For some, a minefield might fit the bill.

For the purposes of dramatic tit-for-tat effect, however, a boxing ring is more apropos, not to mention more practical.

Local composers Mike Vigilant and Gerry Castle, one of the most prolific songwriting duos in the region, have set to meter the excruciating joy of marriage in their new musical, "The Wedding Ring."

The play opens Thursday, Aug. 6, for a two-week run as the featured production at Heartlande Theatre Company's festival of new plays, "Playscape '98."

Hit by love

The entire musical takes place within the confines of a boxing ring with a matchmaker who doubles as a referee. (Every relationship should have one.)

"People can't wait to fall in love, and usually they don't know what hit them," said Vigilant of Troy, who, with partner Castle has published 12 musicals in the last nine years.

The choreography remains a skeleton of what might be seen in a full production, said Vigilant.

But apparently that won't dilute the play's message.

"The ideal is to think that all you need in any relationship is love," said Vigilant, who confesses to being a hopeless romantic.

and Stephen Sondheim as major influences.

Vigilant was inspired to write the play after completing his master's thesis, "Divorce in Oakland County." He found that while Oakland County is one of the wealthiest areas in the country, it has one of the highest divorce rates. One of the songs in "The Wedding Ring" features a young child singing about the confusion caused by his parents' divorce.

"The question is: Can you evolve to make a commitment to a relationship? It's not that marriage is a struggle, but it's more like life is a battle," said Vigilant.

While the broader theme in "The Wedding Ring" might not be adaptable to a traditional pop songwriting format, it can be developed through a series of songs, said Vigilant.

The entire script of "The Wedding Ring" is sung, including transitions. The songs are written in major keys. They are crafted to have the immediate accessibility and familiarity of a pop song.

"Our intent is to write humable melodies with well-crafted lyrics," said Vigilant. "Lyrics make dialog stick in your head."

"Excluding their foray into producing with the local blockbuster "Forever Plaid" in 1991, Vigilant and Castle have written about one

Youth theater building new audiences

Featured production: American Family Theatre brings the story of "Pinocchio" to life.

When she's not breaking down walls, Laurie Wagman and her crew are busy building theater audiences for tomorrow.

"There's a fourth wall in theater - the wall between the audience and the actors," said Wagman, founder/CEO of American Family Theatre, which is bringing two shows to Meadow Brook Theatre in August - "Pinocchio," on Aug. 3 and "Wizard of Oz," on Aug. 18. "We break down the wall to engage our audience in the wonder of theater. It's important that we reach out and grab them. You know the theater audience is getting older. We've got to capture them for audiences tomorrow. This is one of the most effective ways."

There's nothing like live theater argues Wagman, a former teacher who traded her classroom for the stage. "I'm still a teacher that uses theater, another media of outreach. It's a great teaching tool, and it's fun."

When Wagman, whose company is based in Philadelphia,

"speaks of theater, "wonder" and "magic" are words she uses to describe it.

"There's a magic connected with theater," she said. "Anyone who has a love affair with theater remembers the first play they went to as a child. There is an energy that comes out of theater. Since ancient times the theater has been used as a teaching tool and motivator."

There are a lot of lessons to be learned from classic stories like

Musician professes love for rock and roll

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

John Covach has had rock and roll dreams ever since he was a seventh grader at Livonia's Holmes Junior High School in 1971.

"I got together with a bunch of guys in the same grade, we played activity nights, dances for kids. Our parents had to drive us and our equipment," Covach said.

The band played on, through Battles of the Bands at Eddie Edgar Arena, Tuesday and Thursday night gigs at the junior highs during summer and on to Stevenson High School.

"Every summer we did Music Under the Stars and always played the Spree.

That went on until I graduated from high school," Covach said.

But the dream never led to stardom and Covach turned his musical interests to academia. Now, as a professor of music at the University of North Carolina, Covach is combining his scholarship with his love for rock and roll. He teaches general and technical classes in rock music and has recently edited a book of essays "Understanding Rock," with Graeme M. Boone (Oxford University Press).

At Stevenson High, Covach took music classes with Lowell Everson, whom he credits with steering him toward a serious interest in music.

"It was a great music program at Stevenson," Covach said. "The Symphonic Choir was the top group, that was the one you wanted to get into. Because I played guitar and Mr. Everson always wanted to include some pop tunes, that's how I got in." At Stevenson, Covach studied music theory and composition for the first time. He worked with Everson on special projects and took special classes at Schoolcraft.

"I stuck with the band and had no intention of being a university professor or even getting a degree," he said.

Covach dabbled in music classes at Wayne State University while trying to make it in the business. But things never jelled. Many friends went to Los Angeles with big dreams and returned without success. Also, his progressive rock style was giving way to the more stripped down punk and new wave sounds.

"At that point, I thought this life on the road wasn't right for me. I thought, do I really care what these 15-year-olds think and the answer was no," he said.

Covach went on to get a doctorate degree at the University of Michigan, with a dissertation on 12-tone music, which he had studied as a Fulbright scholar in Vienna.

But he never abandoned his rock roots.

"At the end of graduate school there was a lot of interest in popular music, but they didn't know a lot about it. There was a feeling that it could revitalize musicology. I had a history in popular music and could speak the language of academia," he said.

"Understanding Rock" was an outgrowth of those interests, though when the idea for a serious musicological study of rock was first proposed it seemed revolutionary.

"None of us was tenured at the time and we didn't know if this would be good for our careers or would hold us back. But it took five years to get it published and it's not as risky now as it was then," Covach said.

The book consists of seven essays on various aspects of rock music from a technical, musical approach. Subjects include the Grateful Dead's "Dark Star," the music of Paul Simon, the experiments of Brian Wilson and the Beach Boys, the transformation of the blues by Cream and even an analysis of how k.d. lang changed the meaning of Joan's "Johnny Get Angry." Covach contributes an essay on the progressive rock group Yes and how their music relates to the classical art song tradition.

"The distinction I have from the other writers is that I'm probably the one guy who is the most reluctant scholar. If it turned out I could have stayed in the music, I would have," Covach said.

Covach's rock music classes have attracted the attention of the local media and the students. His history of rock class, a broad rock appreciation course, drew 237 students even though the limit was 200. The class includes listening to 10 90-minute tapes and having to identify groups, types of music and year released by listening to a brief excerpt. It covers every influence from blues and country-western to Frank Sinatra.

Covach also teaches classes for music majors. This fall he'll teach a class on the concept album including the Beatles' seminal "Sgt. Pepper" and Pink Floyd's "The Wall."

Covach said that most rock criticism has been more sociological than musical. He said he offers a legitimate and different approach. As a musicologist, he said, he can explain the "how" of music.

He is currently working on a book, "Rock Music Comes of Age," about rock music in the 1970s.

"It's a very hot issue, a lot of folks don't think there's any value in thinking in terms of music, that it makes rock like classical music, an elitist thing. If it's in an academic setting, it is somewhat elitist," he said.

Covach and his wife, Julie, also a Livonia native, have two sons, Ricky, 10, and John, 4. They return to Livonia each year to visit family.

musical per year.

They're currently working on "Greecers," an original book and musical commissioned by Contemporary Drama Service.

At day jobs - for now

Vigilant and Castle's collaboration has evolved since they first set a melodrama to music 11 years ago, and performed the piece at the Golden Lion Theatre in Detroit.

Since then, they've been commissioned by Pioneer Drama Service and Contemporary Drama Service. Their work includes setting music to familiar stories such as "The Little Star," "Twas the Night Before,"

"King Midas and the Palace of Gold," "The Attack of the Killer Grasshoppers," and "Jungle Book."

That prolific output is even more impressive when considering that Vigilant and Castle both have day jobs and families.

And yes, they both are happily married.

"Relationships are very fragile. They can fall apart easily when you become selfish," said Castle of Warren, who works in customer service at Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan.

When focusing on writing, Castle will memorize the lyrics and take walks at work to contemplate a melody. He'll work out the song on guitar. An accomplished musician, Castle also performs locally with The Reel Happy Swing and String Band and The Dennis Cyporyn Band.

Meanwhile, Vigilant's day job doesn't take him far from his love of theater. He's public relations director for Meadow Brook Theatre, where, he confesses, the busy work often leaves little time to write his own plays.

But like Castle, he invariably finds time.

"I get moody when I don't write, so my wife and I work it out so there's time (for my writing)," he said.

And at the sound of the bell, the writing begins.

"Pinocchio," and "Wizard of Oz," and that's why Wagman chooses to present classics. You might know the stories, but you've never seen these shows before. "They're original musicals," she said. "I have an outstanding stable of composers, actors, and directors."

Classics also have vitality, they're timeless, other good reasons to present them. Her audiences range from four to 12, but, probably because the shows are presented during the day, she draws a lot of senior citizens too.

"The audience knows what happens going in," she said. "They have expectations, and we help these kids meet them. We have full appreciation for these timeless classics. People just love the magic, and the stories are ancient."

American Family Theater travels around the country presenting children's shows at places like Meadow Brook, and in schools. Earlier this summer they presented "Beauty and the Beast," at Meadow Brook.

"We travel with full-blown sets," said Wagman. "They tend to move and switch in front of people's eyes. We have all kinds of yummy special effects that we can pull out of our hat."

She makes no distinction between professional "adult" theater and children's theater. "Good theater is good theater and good acting is good acting," she said. "There should be good, solid content, and seriousness of purpose in your presentation. We have the same intent and feel it should get the respect it deserves."

One of the greatest compliments ever paid to Wagman and a staff happened after a show. "The audience was arguing if the people waiting for the bus to pick them up after the show were the same people on stage. They didn't know if they were real - actors on stage - or puppets with music boxes. That's one of the wonders of what we do."

SRO offers spirited spoof of Shakespeare 'Macbeth'

SRO Productions presents "The Farndale Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of Macbeth," 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, 2 p.m. Sunday, through Sunday, Aug. 9 at the city of Southfield's The Burgh on the northeast corner of current show is a mad, mad world of farcical fun and theatrics. The title is clue enough that you're in for the spoof of your life: "The Farndale Avenue Housing Estate Townswomen's Guild Dramatic Society's Production of Macbeth."

The idea of course is that the good ladies are theatrically challenged and anything that can go wrong, will. And does it ever.

During opening remarks, a spotlight doesn't work. The first scene is played backward, instead of toward the audience. When they finally get things turned around, you have three curtains (not unlike the TV show "Let's Make A Deal") and as performers appear from each curtain, they're not unlike some of the audience's outlandish getups for that show.

Under the effervescent direction of Nancy Harrower (who obviously knows her Shakespeare) one hilarious scene after another cascades over the audience.

The ensemble, in various roles, includes Marc Rosati, Emily McSweeney, Barbie Amann, Ralph Rosati, Marge Wetzel, Dennis Hubel, Joan Boufford, Kathy Booker, and Robin DeMaagd.

Barbie Amann is full of energy and a comic delight as Macbeth. The original Lady Macbeth couldn't make it so a stagehand, Ralph Rosati, has to step in at the last moment. His hairy chest, finely trimmed mustache and sumptuous wig are a visual hoot, and his comedy is never better than when he takes a pie in the face, a la Soupy Sales. His real-life son, Mark Rosati, scores as an over-the-top adjudicator who finds the show "daring" and "gripping," and in drag he makes a lovely Gwynneth.

Power outage doesn't stop Players Guild of Dearborn

Players Guild of Dearborn presents "First Dates and Fickle Hearts," a collection of classic comedies and farces, 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, July 31 and Aug. 1; 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 2, 21730 Madison (southeast of Monroe and Outer Dr.) Dearborn. Tickets $10, call (313) 561-TKTS. RYAN MALKIN, SPECIAL WRITER

The show must go on. That is the best way to describe Friday evening's performance of "First Dates and Fickle Hearts" at the Players Guild of Dearborn. As many people know, many areas in Dearborn have been without power since the large storm swept through the metro-Detroit area on July 21.

Despite the lack of electrical power, the Players Guild was full of energy. "First Dates and Fickle Hearts" was a collection of four one-act comedies directed by Kirk Haas.

Despite Mother Nature's inconveniences, the cast acted out their first performance without the benefit of technical rehearsals the prior evenings. In fact, they performed without the comfort of a stage or for that matter a building. The lack of electricity in the building forced the performance to be held outside in the parking lot. The Guild was apologetic for the inconvenience. In fact, they refunded the ticket price or exchanged the tickets purchased for Friday's performance to another day.

After the black stand-up backdrop was in place, and the car windows rolled down to allow the music to be heard, the first act began.

Anton Chekov's "A Marriage Proposal" was first on the agenda for the evening.

Gavin Milner played Ivan who asks Stephan, played by Nick Szczerba, for his daughter's hand in marriage.

At first it seemed as though the actors were a bit nervous, as may be expected, but they seemed like they were acting. The true test of an actor is to make the audience believe that they are that character.

At times the actors couldn't be heard, but outside forces were more to blame than the actors. Milner began screaming so much that he began to sweat profusely. As he was getting into his character, he seemed to relax a bit.

The topic of the play, a family arguing about land, was not extremely interesting, and the acting matched. Not to worry, there were three other plays in the evening.

Moving on to the second one-act play, Bernard Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband." Henry, played by Dan Dobrovich, has written several love poems to Aurora, Kim Donovan, and she has lost the letters. The two fight about what would happen if Aurora's husband had found out. Once the husband finds the poems, the rest can be left to the imagination. The acting in this play was much more believable.

After a short intermission, the performance continued with "Red Carnations." Hands down the best performance of the evening. This hilarious one-act about two men meeting the same girl, whom neither have seen before, leaves the audience laughing, especially with the unexpected twist at the end. The audience believed the performances by the cast, which included Dan Dobrovich, Don and Brooke Andres. In fact, as the scene closed with a kiss, the audience burst into laughter mixed with clapping.

Nature called again, as birds began chirping consistently throughout the final one-act, Chekov's "The Brute." The widowed Mrs. Popoff, played by Maria Kovac, owes money to Mr. Smirnov for her husband. Yet in the midst of their quarreling, the two seemed to fall in love despite threats to murder one another.

Kerry Plague as Mr. Smirnov, played his role to perfection, while the butler, Luke, played by Szczerba, was lacking throughout the evening. Several humorous moments saved this play from flopping, yet it flourished like a blossoming flower. At the start it had a lot of potential, and once the potential was reached, the acting and costumes made the performance beautiful.

All in all, the performance of "First Dates and Fickle Hearts," was an experience. The very accommodating crew seemed to be proud of their work as they should be. The actors loosened up after the first act, and their performances improved. Although the theater would have created a better ambience for the show, the car headlights and music from car cassette players truly showed the dedication and love the cast and crew have for their show. The Players Guild did an exquisite job accommodating the public and an even more wonderful job showing the lighter side to love.

Scots gather for Highland Games

They're calling it "The Fling in the Motor City," and if you're Scottish, or interested in all things Scottish, you'll want to be at the 149th Annual Highland Games, Saturday, Aug. 1, at Greenmead Historical Park in Livonia.

Dancing is one of the highlights of this year's games, the second to be held at Greenmead.

In the morning, dancers from the Midwest area and Canada will compete in a dance competition hosted by the St. Andrew's Society. The United States Inter-Regional Highland Dance Championship competition begins in the afternoon. Dancers from all over the U.S. and Canada will be competing for the national title in five different age categories from children to adult. To qualify for this competition, the dancers had to win regional competitions.

Dance events continue on Sunday at the Field House on the University-Michigan Dearborn campus. A pre-championship competition in the morning is open to all dancers who have never won a championship. The North American Highland Championship will follow. Three premiere pipers will accompany the dancers.

The games are a good place to dig for your Scottish roots. Over 30 clans will be represented. There will be vendors selling Scottish goods, Scottish food for sale, and activities for children.

They're bringing in Long-haired Highland Cattle, and there will be sheep herding and duck herding demonstrations by Highland Border Collies and Sheep Dogs throughout the day.

Be sure to visit the 18th Century Scottish military camp. You can watch military drills and hear the firing of muskets.

'Saving Private Ryan' brutally honest look at war

By HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

The landing boats rock and bounce on the rough waters off Normandy. Soldiers vomit from fear and seasickness. The boat gates drop too soon, under the barrage of gunfire, and soldiers jump into water over their heads, brought down by enemy fire or drowned by the weight of their own equipment.

Time condenses and expands. The noise is unbearably loud and then numbingly quiet. And everywhere is the acrid smell of gunpowder, the wails of the dying, blood, gore, body parts and fear, heroics and cowardice.

This is what war looks like, sounds like and feels like.

The opening sequence of Steven Spielberg's "Saving Private Ryan" recreates the landing on Omaha Beach, June 6, 1944, from the perspective of one platoon with a brutal honesty rarely seen in fictional war movies. Unlike Daryl Zanuck's "Longest Day," "Ryan's" D-Day landing has no stirring martial music, no gallant John Wayne and no bloodless, easy deaths.

Spielberg brings his unequaled technical mastery to bear on this visually graphic and emotionally complex look at "the last good war."

Richard Rodat's script is deceptively simple and somewhat contrived. Shortly following the invasion, the War Department learns that an Iowa farm family has lost three sons within days of each other. Gen. George Marshall orders that the last surviving son be retrieved from somewhere in northern France and returned to his mother. The eight-man platoon we have watched suffer the horrors of the landing are assigned the task at great risk to their own lives.

Rodat's platoon has that typical World War II ethnic and personality mix — the Italian, the Jew, the hot-headed Brooklyn Irish kid, the bookworm, the bear-like and stalwart sergeant. But he gives these characters individual personalities and never makes them falsely heroic.

Spielberg takes this material and makes it into perhaps the best movie of his long and distinguished career. As a master of manipulation, he finally brings all that magic into focus to actually put us into the danger and agony of war.

One critic said he couldn't figure out what Spielberg was trying to do. Is this a flag-waving, All-American movie or an anti-war movie? He couldn't understand that it is neither and both. This isn't a sermon; it's a meditation.

This was not a war of professional soldiers. These men were autoworkers and store clerks, teachers and farm boys. They never planned to become soldiers and they weren't prepared for what they experienced, no one could be. Rodat and Spielberg present war as experienced by non-warriors, by ordinary people swept up by history. They meditate on the thin line between courage and cowardice.

Tom Hanks proves again that he is an actor of exquisite subtlety and insight. His performance as platoon leader Capt. John Miller is arguably his best yet. This secretive man with a bad case of the shakes is our surrogate through hell. He is alternately strong and terrified, a man thrust into his position because of his education and steadiness.

A scene in a church that is similar to the pre-battle scene in "Henry V" explores the special burdens of leadership. Hanks projects a humanity that speaks volumes.

Spielberg draws fine performances from everyone — Edward Burns as the cocky Brooklyn kid; Tom Sizemore as the loyal Sgt. Horvath; Giovanni Ribisi as the compassionate medic; and Jeremy Davies as the weak, childlike Upham. But it is Matt Damon who is especially convincing as Ryan. He underplays the emotions with exactly the right Midwestern stoicism.

And a special word should be said for Harrison Young as the old soldier with so many unspeakable memories.

The real star, though, is Spielberg. The opening sequence and the final battle for a bridge are works of stunning film choreography. Using special film stock, varied time sequencing and Dolby sound as you've never experienced it, Spielberg puts the audience into the war as close as any film has ever come. There is a sequence in the opening where Hanks momentarily loses touch with the world, as if deep underwater, his face glazed over, eyes locked, face flushed and blood splattered. This sequence tells us everything about the man we are going to follow and much about the brutality of battle.

Cinematographer Janusz Kaminski and editor Michael Kahn combine to make these sequences play out like visual symphonies. And, speaking of music, Spielberg has mastered the use of silence. The John Williams score is typically impressive, haunting at times, but never used in the battle scenes or to pump up the action.

Those looking for a condemnation of war or those looking for a stirring, flag-waving celebration will be disappointed. Yet, Spielberg curiously, and fairly, accomplishes both.

Candlebox finds happiness with new drummer

It's been a busy time for the rock band Candlebox, so frenetic in fact that lead singer Kevin Martin has been "trying to get married" for two years to his longtime girlfriend, Renee.

"We were supposed to get married two years ago but that fell through, and then we were supposed to get married last year, and we were busy. We were going to get married this summer, but she has to work," Martin said with a laugh.

On top of that, Candlebox has just released its third album "Happy Pills" (Maverick). Martin explained that there's a lot of work ahead for Candlebox.

"We're coming back with a rock 'n' roll record at the tail end of a lot of pop music. Rock 'n' roll is making a comeback and that's the kind of band we are," Martin explained.

Dose of happiness: Candlebox will perform songs off its latest release "Happy Pills" during "WRIF Fest" at Pine Knob Music Theatre on Wednesday, Aug. 5.

"You've got, I think, right now with the resurgence of rock 'n' roll, which is nice to see, it means you have to kind of dig in and get people to kind of realize rock 'n' roll is kind of where it's at and where it's always been."

To enhance the rock 'n' roll experience, Candlebox recruited ex-Pearl Jam drummer Dave Krusen to replace departing drummer Scott Mercado.

"We had experienced a lull for a long time with Scott, and what he wanted to do was a different thing," Martin explained.

"Dave is a musician's musician. He knows where you're going. He's self-taught like we are. That's from playing the French horn to singing to playing bass to playing piano to playing drums. We're four musicians who are finally on the same page. We were inspired by Dave, and Dave was inspired by us."

The trio of Martin, guitarist Peter Klett and bassist Bardi Martin immediately clicked with Krusen. The first day of rehearsal, the group wrote four songs together.

"It's very inspirational when you find everybody's looking at the same page and the same line. That's when the magic starts to happen," Martin explained.

One of the results of the "magic" is the song "Blinders," featuring the slide guitar work of Klett, encouraged by Krusen.

"The funny thing about that song is we were trying to write it with Scott during the 'Lucy' project," Martin said of the band's last album. "We actually just had the opening melody of the song and it never really developed itself. Scott was mentally not in the space we were in to really work on that song," Martin added.

The song resurfaced during pre-production of "Happy Pills."

"We just took that and wrote a whole song out of that. We developed it in one day - lyrics and music and everything. That's the magic of being on the same page."

The first single from "Happy Pills" is the melancholy "It's Alright," a simplistic yet heartfelt song about the individual relationships of the quartet.

"The song's just about communication. It's really about experiencing life together and the necessity of talking to one another whether it be Renee and myself, Dave and his daughter, Pete and his parents, whatever. It's about the necessity of communication and how important it is to allow yourself to get lost in who you feel your communication is with."

Cheap Trick, Candlebox, Brother Cane and The Hunger perform as part of "WRIF Fest" Wednesday, Aug. 5, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, in Independence Township. Tickets are $20 pavilion and $10 lawn. Showtime is 6:30 p.m. For more information, call (248) 377-0100 or visit <http://www.palacetickets.com>. Candlebox's web site is <http://www.candlebox.com>.

Orlando's 'N Sync proud of being musicians first

One could say that the all-male pop group 'N Sync is a real Mickey Mouse operation.

The quintet - James Lance "Lantzen" Bass, Joshua Scott "J.C." Chazez, Joseph "Joey" Anthony Fatone Jr., Christopher "Chris" Alan Kirkpatrick, and Justin Randall Timberlake - was drawn from its hometowns to the electric light shows and intense heat of Orlando, Fla.

Chazez and Timberlake's first major gig was with the Disney Channel show "Mickey Mouse Club" which paved the way for 'N Sync. The organization lent its support to the group which recently scored the dancefloor hit "I Want You Back."

"We met (the group's now executive director) Lou Pearlman and said, 'We've got a group. Would you be willing to back us?' He put the money behind us and introduced us to our manager Johnny Wright," Kirkpatrick explained.

That association has garnered a lot of flak for the Orlando five-some.

"We were working with a lot of Backstreet Boys people," he said of the fellow Orlando livesome.

"We got a lot of flak for that. Everyone said we were trying to be like them. Actually, we were together before we associated with any of the Backstreet Boys people. We had a lot of Mickey Mouse Club backing," he firmly added.

A friendly rivalry has ensued between 'N Sync and the hugely popular Backstreet Boys, who played a sold-out show at The Palace of Auburn Hills Friday night.

"We always keep up with them and see them every time we go home. I know that we watched them on 'Saturday Night Live' and we're so happy for them that they've gotten so big. But we're not gonna lie. There's a little bit of jealous inside and we think, 'Man, we wish we were there.'"

"It's like when you're growing up and you have a brother and your brother gets a medal for doing something. You get a little jealous and wish you could get the medal. It just makes you work harder for yourself."

Fellow Orlandans the Backstreet Boys played instruments during its song "Quit Playing Games with My Heart" at The Palace. Kirkpatrick stressed that 'N Sync's members are musicians first.

"On our last tour I played keyboards. There was a time when we take over on 'Giddy Up,' a song that we wrote, where we went back and took over the instruments. Our band went out and tried to sing it, but let's just say we played the instruments better than they sang," he said with a laugh.

"We're all master musicians. That's the way we write our music. That's what I did to make money before the group. I'd play guitar and sing downtown with a friend of mine."

Kirkpatrick explained that although they play instruments 'N Sync is bringing along a five-piece band.

"One for each of us," he said. Like 'N Sync's self-titled debut on RCA Records, its shows are filled with upbeat dance numbers, which, Kirkpatrick explained, is something that pop music is lacking.

"If you look at all the Boyz II Men songs and other R&B groups they usually do slow songs. (They believe) ballads are for the groups with vocal harmonies, and fast ones are for the rock groups. We're bringing both to the table."

The shows, he added, are all about keeping it real - vocally.

Although there's dancing involved, 'N Sync refuses to sing to taped vocals.

"It makes for a really tough show sometimes. If you come to our show, you'll definitely see 'N Sync live. Maybe every once in awhile somebody will be a little bit winded and go out of breath during a note. That's what keeps it real."

If the Backstreet Boys' show is any indication of what 'N Sync's performance will be like, bring earplugs. The deafening screams of young girls reduced the group's songs to a swirl of noise.

But for Kirkpatrick, that's the most flattering part of his shows.

"I love it. Justin's only 17. He's around their age. He's the one they scream for the most," said Kirkpatrick, 26.

"I get the biggest smile on my face. He's so flattered by it. It's just a lot of fun. The best satisfaction we get, though, is when somebody really and truly comes to us and says, 'I really appreciate you as musicians.' That's what it's all about."

'N Sync performs at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 31, at the Royal Oak Music Theatre, 318 W. Fourth St., Royal Oak. Tickets are $17.50 for the all-ages show. For more information, call (248) 546-7610.

DINING

Leave dinner or lunch to American Family Diner

Before opening American Family Diner in Westland on Aug. 25, 1997, brothers Samuel, Bill, Sam and Mike Farhat worked for a lot of different people.

Originally from Lebanon, they all started as dishwashers and worked their way up to cook, then chef. Combined, the brothers say they have more than 50 years experience.

Customers benefit from their years of experience, and conscientious desire to serve the very best food at reasonable prices.

Westland reminds them of up north, they said, explaining why they hired a friend to paint murals of trees, a wolf in front of a snow covered mountain, deer, waterfalls, an eagle, and sunset. "We told him we wanted animals, trees, like up north," said Bill. "He said, 'leave the rest to me, and we did. The eagle is a symbol of America.'"

They wanted the place to feel like up north - friendly, welcoming, kind of how people in the City of Westland have treated them. "They're very nice people," said Samuel, the oldest brother.

Before opening, the brothers invested a lot in the building - new roof, central air, heat, dropped ceiling, and hoods over the stoves. The atmosphere is clean, comfortable, yet casual. A border of red, white and blue flags helps carry out the "American" theme. Customers can sit in one of the many comfortable booths, or at the counter for a quick bite.

On Saturdays and Sundays the prime rib special is always a sell-out. Boneless pork chops, pork tenderloin, and lasagna are other popular items.

American Family Diner serves breakfast all day, specials,

Freedom to them is living the American dream, owning your own business, and serving people who appreciate what you do.

"We know all these people," said Samuel about his customers. "We sit and talk with them."
