Council gives go-ahead for senior village

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A proposed senior citizen community has gotten the green light for development despite protests by residents who claim their quite neighborhood will be damaged and their property values diminished.

A divided Westland City Council approved Monday evening the rezoning of a 24.21-acre parcel on Joy east of Newburgh from single-family residential to a planned unit development and a preliminary site plan which allows developer Glenn Shaw Jr. to build what he describes as a senior village.

"I believe this is a step above what you normally get in Westland," Shaw said about his Nankin Mills Village development. "That's been my dream."

Shaw has proposed constructing 54 single-family detached condominiums, 20 duplex condominiums and a 147-unit senior independent and contracted living facility on a site to the east and south of Sts. Helen and Constantine Church. He also envisions offering such amenities as a barbershop, hair salon, theater and restaurant to create a village atmosphere.

But residents maintained that the development isn't suitable for their neighborhood. They held up picket signs outside Westland City Hall before the meeting. Sixteen others pressed their case for keeping Kathleen Waldo, executive director of Marquette House, presents Thelma Lemmons with a bouquet of roses during her 100th birthday celebration.

Centenarian shares day with 'beautiful people'

Thelma Lemmons, 100, smiled sweetly as she brought up a sour subject. "I love pickles — sour pickles," she said.

Lemmons couldn't offer a surefire reason why she lived to celebrate such a milestone birthday.

"I just eat," she said, during a party last Thursday at Marquette House, an assisted living center in Westland.

Her daughter, Loretta Lemmons-Johnson of Livonia, offered another theory to her longevity. "She's had good treatment," Lemmons-Johnson said.

So, there it is: pickles and proper care.

Whatever the reason for Lemmons' long life, she became the center of attention during a birthday party that actually came one week after she marked her 100th year. She smiled amid applauding friends and family, and she sang along as a band, Family Affair, played When The Saints Go Marching In, one of numerous songs in a nearly hour-long set.

Lemmons wore a corsage on her right arm and a tiara on her head. She held a dozen roses and a teddy bear in her arms, but she put them aside to enjoy a piece of birthday cake.

Mayor William Wild brought Lemmons a proclamation and told her, "Happy birthday from the 86,000 people who live here in the city of Westland."

Lemmons was born in Memphis, Tenn., but moved to Michigan with her late husband, Franklin, in 1941. They had one daughter, two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Lemmons formerly worked sorting mail for the U.S. Post Office.

Lemmons-Johnson welcomed the attention paid to her mother in honor of her 100th birthday.

"I think it's wonderful," she said.

Lemmons didn't have any sour pickles during her party, but she still enjoyed herself. When asked what she most liked about the celebration, she said, "the beautiful people."

GC man arraigned in exposure case

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Garden City man with a history of indecent exposure and inappropriate contact with children is facing a charge of being a sexual delinquent.

Steven Brian Smith, 46, was arrested Sunday by Westland Police in the Venoy-Cherry Hill area. Smith was "found standing totally naked and posing for traffic," Westland Police Sgt. Debra Mathews said.

Smith was arraigned before Westland 18th District Court Judge C. Charles Bokos on indecent exposure, a one-year misdemeanor, with an enhanced charge of being a sexually delinquent person.

Indecent exposure is a one-year misdemeanor. However, if found guilty, Smith could face up to life in prison under enhancement.

Smith faces the additional charge based on indecent exposure conviction dating back to 1984 and a prior criminal sexual conduct conviction.

Smith entered a guilty plea to a charge of second-degree criminal sexual conduct for a 1994 assault on a boy and was sentenced to prison. He served 12 years in prison and was released without supervision in 2006.

Last December, Smith was charged with indecent exposure after police officers reportedly saw him masturbating by the roadway in the Venoy-Cherry Hill area. While out on bond in that case, police detained Smith after he was spotted hanging around two Garden City elementary schools, which led Westland 18th District Court Judge Sandra Ferrence Cicirelli to revoke his bond and sentence him to 89 days in jail.

"He'd just got out of jail in April," Mathews said.

Smith, who is being held in lieu of a $1 million cash bond, faces a Thursday, June 26, preliminary hearing. A not guilty plea has been entered in his file.

Police vs. fire in annual blood 'feud'

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It's a blood feud with history.

For the past two years, the Westland firefighters have out-pumped their police counterparts, laying claim to the American Red Cross's Golden Blood Bag Award.

This year, they're trying a new tactic to give the police a running chance at capturing the Battle of the Badges award. They're encouraging the people to tell workers at the annual blood drive they're there to support the police.

"Don't tell them you're for the fire department, tell them you're for the police department, please," said Fire Capt. John Adams, who showed off the award at a Westland City Council meeting Monday.

The fourth annual Battle of the Badges will be 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, June 23, at the Bailey Recreation Center, located in the civic center complex on Ford Road at Carlson. Police officers and firefighters are lining up donors who will roll up their sleeves and give blood on their behalf.

Donors will have the opportunity to submit a blue or red chip for police or fire, respectively. The department with the most chips collected will be the recipient of the Gold Blood Bag Award.

"We really have a good-natured rivalry," said Deputy Police Chief Gary Sikorski. "Our main goal is to get everyone to donate so we can set the standard for Wayne County."

Summer is historically a time when the chapter's blood supply comes very close to running dry, so the Red Cross uses promotions like the Battle of the Badges to encourage donors to make an appointments and to attract new ones.

"If you give a single unit of blood, you help two-three people," Adams said.

In Westland, there's a lot at stake. In addition to bragging rights, which has gone to the fire department for two consecutive years, organizers are hoping to post the best donation numbers for all of the Battle of the Badges competitions in not only Wayne County but also five southeast Michigan counties.

People can sign up for a blood donation appointment online to at www.givelife.org. Walk-ins also are welcome. Donors must be at least 17 years old, weigh a minimum of 110 pounds and be in general good health to donate.

"Let the battle begin, support your local police department," Adams said.

the area zoned for single-family homes, saying the development will affect their property values, increase traffic flow on Joy Road and pose a threat to children who must walk along the shoulders to get to and from school.

"This is one of the best single-family home sites left in the city," Patrick Kobalarz said. "The Nankin Mills theme doesn't fit in with the surrounding homes, it cheapens the area. It ruins the character of one of the city's finest residential areas."

"This will hurt our property values, it will take away everything we've worked for," said Maria Grantham, whose Gray Street home abuts the development on two sides. "You're going to take away our dream. I'm disappointed you didn't hear us. It's sad you couldn't stand up and see this should stay R-1."

"This is all about money, not about the city," her husband Charles added. "This is going to ruin our neighborhood." Shaw said he is willing to listen to residents and based on their comments made at last month's Planning Commission meeting has made the apartment building smaller and moved it to the west to create a 25-foot strip along the edge to serve as a buffer between the neighborhood and the village.

"I'd like to meet with the residents," he said. "I understand their concerns and I'm willing to work with them. I'm open to all suggestions and if I can accomplish them, I will."

But Councilman Charles Pickering said that after walking the property and visualizing what would happen, he was convinced it "should not and cannot be rezoned."

"I believe that area should be preserved for R-1 (single family) and it should stay that way," he said.

Joining him in criticizing the proposal was Council President Pro Tem Cheryl Graunstadt, who questioned if such a development is needed, considering there's a similar facility "down the road."

"You're not old enough to understand what senior citizens want," Shaw said.

"I'm old enough to know what residents want," Graunstadt said. "I'm glad you have a plan and care about this city, but this isn't the right plan and this isn't the right site."

Council President James Godbout pointed out that most residential development coming before council is requesting a planned unit development that allows of mixed use because of the "changing dynamics in the marketplace."

"This was a tough decision, but you have to weigh a lot of factors," Godbout said. "Yes, there's going to be an impact on residents, six or eight homes on Gray Street, but this is a significant development in an area that could use additional development."

The council voted 4-3 to approve the rezoning and preliminary site plan with Pickering, Graunstadt and Councilman Robert Stottlemeyer dissenting. The approvals came with urging that Shaw move the high-rise away from the existing residential area.

"I want you to move it as far away from the residences as possible, I want it to be residence to residence," Councilman Michael Kehrer said.

"I think it's doable with a little creativity," Godbout added.

Helpful Hannah

It appears that young Hannah Bourdeau may be following in the footsteps of her father, Westland Library Board President Daniel Bourdeau, in her efforts to support the city's library. Hannah will be giving the library about a dozen children's books given to her by friends and family instead of birthday gifts this year. She turned 7 on May 23.

"I'm proud of Hannah as a father because she loves books and reading so much that giving the books up is hard for her," Daniel Bourdeau said. "I expect she'll be one of the first to check a few of them out so she can read them herself."

Obama: We must put Michigan back to work

BY KURT KUBAN

Barack Obama's message to a raucous crowd of supporters at Joe Louis Arena was loud and clear. Michigan is mightily important if he is to win the White House in November. In return, Obama promised to put the state back to work and make it a critical player in his vision of a greener, more energy-efficient America.

Obama, who was making the second of two Michigan campaign stops on Monday (he visited Flint in the morning), said his presidency would concentrate on developing alternative fuels and power generation, and that Detroit's manufacturing experience would play a major role in the effort. For example, he said "old steel mills in Michigan would start making windmills" and the Big 3 would be enticed to start cranking out a new generation of cars that could help America break its dependence on foreign oil.

He recognized that Michigan residents have been particularly hard hit by the changing economy.

"In Detroit and in Michigan, there's a quiet desperation across the land. I've seen it time and again," the presumptive Democratic presidential nominee told the crowd of more than 20,000.

Obama shared the stage with former Vice President Al Gore, who showed up to offer his endorsement of the Illinois senator. Gore, who has spent his time since his failed 2000 bid for the presidency sounding the alarm about a warming planet, said America needs "to find the moral courage" to change course and help elect Obama.

"With our votes this November, we need change," Gore said.

President George W. Bush was a constant target of Gore and Obama, as well as Michigan Gov. Jennifer Granholm, who received a cool reception when she took the stage to introduce two of the biggest heavyweights of the Democratic Party.

Obama praised Granholm's efforts for heading state government through some rocky waters that were beyond her control. He also recognized the efforts of nearly every prominent state Democrat, from U.S. Sen. Carl Levin to Wayne County Executive Bob Ficano. There was one notable exception, however. He failed to mention embattled Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick, who was nowhere to be seen at the event.

Obama also had kind words for Hillary Clinton, who he defeated in a somewhat bitter campaign for the Democratic nomination. The large Joe Louis Arena crowd booed several times when her name was mentioned, but Obama chastised the crowd, saying Clinton was a fighter who is deserving of the admiration of every Democrat and is an inspiration to woman across the land, including Obama's two daughters.

"She has shattered the glass ceiling into 18 million pieces," Obama said. "She is going to be at the forefront in our battle for change."

Although Obama praised John McCain, his Republican opponent, for his military service and time in the U.S. Senate, he said there was a clear distinction between his candidacy and McCain's, which Obama said would continue the policies of President Bush.

In addition to a cleaner environment, Obama said he would concentrate on making college affordable, help people struggling with home foreclosure, fix public education, and solve America's health care crisis. He said he has a plan for universal health care that would make sure the 47 million Americans currently without health insurance would be able to get affordable health care. He said the plan would also benefit those who already have health insurance.

"If you have health insurance, I will lower your premiums. If you don't have health insurance, you will have the same insurance I have as a U.S. senator ... by the end of my first term as president," he told the diverse crowd.

"We can't afford to wait to fix our schools. We can't afford to wait to fix our health care system. We can't afford to wait to bring back good jobs and wages to Michigan. And that's why I'm running for president of the United States of America," he said.

Salvation Army leaders leave with warm memories

BY JULIE BROWN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Four years ago, Capt. Matt and Mindie (Malinda) O'Neil arrived at the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army for their first assignment as corps officers. They're headed to Midland next week to serve as corps officers there.

"I give God all of the honor for all we do," said Matt O'Neil, 33. He credits God for what the church has accomplished. "We've sent out leaders."

Church members Chris and April Clarke were just commissioned as officers, and will serve in Hillsdale County. Former Wayne-Westland staffer Margaret Gaster and her husband, Terry, are corps administrators in Detroit, pursuing officership.

"At first, we thought it was a little big for a first appointment," Matt O'Neil recalled of their arrival in Wayne-Westland after Salvation Army training. "It's measured up to exactly where God wanted us to be."

Mindie O'Neil, 30, concurred.

"We had a great time," she said. "I think we were successful in the goals we set."

They have no regrets as they head north.

"The community's been very supportive," she added. "We appreciate what we've had. People are very friendly and helpful."

As a first appointment, she's learned a lot about community relations, working with others in the community to common goals to improve life for all.

"Even personally, I think I've grown," she said. She's learned to slow down, "not take things so seriously but take life as it comes and make the world a better place.

The O'Neils, Wayne residents who have children ages 2, 8 and 10, agree their faith has been a vital part of their work at the church that also functions as a social service center.

"What I'm doing would be pointless without that," Mindie O'Neil said of her belief in God and Jesus Christ.

They're proud of the Friday evening coffeehouse at the corps center, offered the second and fourth Fridays, but tip their hat to the Clarks and other church members in getting that going.

"It is a very inviting and friendly community," he said. "I feel well supported in this community. We've definitely been taken care of here in whatever we do."

It could be reluctance to be set apart for beliefs that makes people hesitant to worship, he noted.

In Midland, they'll be involved in large programs for children. Their successors are Capt. Derek and Joanna Rose, who come from Livingston County.

"I feel very comfortable with the officers coming in," said Matt O'Neil, who expects a smooth transition. "It's exciting," he added of their Midland work, which starts June 25.

"Really, it'll only be as successful as the local people make it," Mindie O'Neil added of their successors' need for support.

A reception to honor the O'Neils will be noon Sunday, June 22, at the Wayne-Westland corps, on Venoy south of Palmer in Westland. It will follow Sunday morning worship. For information, call (734) 722-3660.

Children's book brings Bible teachings to life

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

David Kraai knew he had to find a better way to teach children about God than having them memorize Bible stories. The fifth grade boys in his Sunday School class could already spout tales like Jonah and the Whale by heart. After praying about this dilemma, Kraai realized he had to change his perspective to make the subject more interesting not only for his students but the masses.

I Have to Save My MiniBot! is episode one of the Solomon's Quest series he plans to write and self-publish. The brightly colored cartoon illustrations by Tom Roy immediately attract children of all ages. Roy is a Lathrup Village artist who wrote a comic strip, The Pitts, for the Detroit Free Press.

The pair set publishing history by printing their first non-denominational Christian children's book in English, Spanish and Braille all at the same time. The graphics and text are both in Braille so many blind children are seeing an angel for the first time.

"You don't change the story," said Kraai, former children's pastor at Ekklesia Detroit in Westland. "Each story, character and event were carefully placed there by God so you could understand your creator, savior, your enemy, and yourself. The story of David and Goliath is really about you. The lead character is patterned after me. Like me he's adopted and has a hard time seeing himself as lovable. The adoption process makes us feel unlovable. He still has issues and is on a journey to discover God."

Kraai uses a giant computer brain to entice Danny Abel just as he did with his Sunday School students at Brightmoor Christian Church in Novi. Every week he built a time machine, space shuttle or plane to keep the children's attention. Qubirt was an 8-foot-tall computer which had faces to talk to the kids. In the book Goliath is smarter than its creator and installs the Bible in its memory.

"I felt it was necessary to reach out to kids and give them the message," said Kraai who's been in children's ministries for more than 30 years. "I wanted to come at it from the perspective of how I approach things, if it's not fun why would I want to be there?"

Rev. David Boyd, formerly in charge of children's ministries for Assembly of God, suggested Kraai write a devotions book to go along with I Have to Save My MiniBot! so children would spend more time interpreting what they read. A coloring book is also in production for the youngest set.

"We're losing the children," said Kraai. "The coloring book helps me reach the smaller churches who probably don't have children's ministries."

Kraai said he'd like to schedule book signings at area churches no matter what the denomination. In the meantime he's busy at work on episode two due out this fall. In the back of the first book is a poster announcing "I've Waited My Whole Life For This."

A new Christian storybook teaches children about the Bible by making it all about them.

The books cost $19.95, $12.95 for the devotions now under the imprint of Earnest Publications which is named after Kraai's father. A portion of the proceeds go to Center for the Blind of the Assemblies of God (www.blind.org) based in Missouri. Paul Weingartner, director of the center, encouraged Kraai to publish in Braille. Sarah Sykes spent 120 hours transcribing the text for the first book. For more information, visit www.solomonsquest.com or call (810) 569-5396.

"There's strife. It's reality based but it's not boring," said Kraai. "I've done a lot of focus groups and had kids coming back and saying 'we couldn't stop laughing in Chapter 2. It's just the way we talk.' You won't ever find a swear word or questionable things in the book. My whole goal is for kids to love the story line. We need to reach the kids when they're still reachable."

Small investment pays off big for HVL graduate

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

For Amy Helwig, the $50 used to open an annuity account with the Foresters Financial Partners paid off in a big way with a scholarship for her daughter, Emily.

The Huron Valley Lutheran High School graduate has been awarded an $8,000 scholarship, one of 350 awarded this year by the organization.

"It's an honor for me to be recognized for my community service," said Emily Helwig. "I didn't think that they would, but I'm glad they did. It means I don't have to pay as much."

The Livonia resident plans to attend Wisconsin Lutheran College and major in chemistry with a minor in criminalistics. She plans to go into forensic science.

She had considered Madonna University and Wayne State University, but was seriously leaning toward the University of Wisconsin, Platteville, when the WLC recruiter visited the Helwig home a third time.

"I told him she was 99 percent sure she was going to Platteville, but he urged her to apply. She did it online that night and was accepted a week later," said her mother. "They even put her on the volleyball team. That was the icing on the cake."

The Foresters Scholarship Program provides recipients with $2,000 for up to a maximum of four years or until their first degree is obtained. It can help pay for tuition, books, supplies, residence, clothes, food and other expenses.

The scholarship was based on academics and community service, something Helwig has plenty of. She has taught Sunday school at Peace Lutheran Church in Livonia for two years and has been a member of the Westland Police Explorers, learning about what police do and helping with events like the D.A.R.E. golf outing, the Westland Summer Festival and its parade and fireworks.

She also been busy at school playing soccer, basketball and volleyball. She was in the band and Hawk Choir, performed in the school plays and served on the Student Council.

"I love it all, it's so much fun," she said. "I was busy, but I figured it out to get my work done."

Winning the scholarship is good news for the family which weathered financial difficulties last year. Her father, who left his job in late 2006, now works in Wisconsin and the family is preparing to move there. They will be about 25 minutes from the college, her mother said.

"This scholarship is pretty important," said Amy Helwig. "We'd gone through a tough year, we struggled financially in 2007. Unfortunately, we had to put the burden on her, but she has some scholarships and grants."

"We have a lot of family there that we don't get to see a lot," added Emily Helwig.

Happy to have the scholarship, Emily Helwig admits she had forgotten she applied for it until she got the letter in March. It will help offset some of the $27,000 yearly cost, including room and board.

"It's going to be fun for her," her mother said. "She's excited. It's a smaller school and it doesn't have the content for her minor, but they're going to help her work toward her achieving her goal."

"I'm enrolling in the fall and I plan to be in band and choir," Emily Helwig said. "I'll try those and see how it goes."

Founded in 1874. Foresters shares its financial strength with its members, who are customers, through complimentary life, health and education benefits that help its eligible members and their families in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. Macy's 'Bag Hunger' benefits Starfish Starfish Family Services is getting a helping hand the Macy's store at Westland Shopping Center through the retailer's employee "Bag Hunger" campaign.

Now through June 30, Macy's "Partners In Time" volunteers will collect food and gift cards for Starfish families and members of the community in need.

This is the second year that Macy's Westland has participated in the program and has set a goal to collect 3,900 pounds of food. The store is encouraging employees to collect 15 pounds of food each. To assist with store associates' collections, Macy's Westland has coordinated internal special events, such as special employee clothing days, a silent auction and an on-line auction. In addition, restaurant customers who donate $1 will receive a special red Macy's star with their name on it.

Nationally, Macy's Inc. associates provided more than 10.4 million pounds of food for hunger relief agencies across the country. Since Bag Hunger started 11 years ago, food and equivalent donations have been given to provide nearly 47 million meals nationwide.

"We are very pleased with Macy's generosity in helping collect food for needy families in the community," said Ann Kalass, CEO of Starfish Family Services. "This is a time when many families struggle to put food on the table and it's comforting to know we can alleviate some of that stress."

"We chose Starfish because it is an organization that has an excellent reputation as a family service provider for our local community," said Chris Schechter, Macy's East Westland Furniture Selling Manager. "Helping families in our communities is vitally important to who we are at Macy's nationwide and right here in our community"

The food and gift cards collected will be donated to the Gleaners Food Bank at Starfish Family Services, which is located in its Counterpoint Shelter and Crisis Center in Inkster. It will be distributed to hundreds of vulnerable families in the surrounding community.

Starfish Family Services is the largest private, nonprofit human service agency in western Wayne County. The agency offers 12 specialized programs to help educate and empower vulnerable families and children in Southeastern Michigan. The agency has served more than 8,000 children and their families at its 18 services sites last year. For more information, visit the Starfish Web site at www.starfishonline.org.

OUR VIEWS

Neighbors need to get involved

It wasn't what north end residents wanted to hear when Mayor William Wild said opposition to Nankin Mills Village as an example of what happens when a community is almost fully developed. They wanted to hear him say he would veto the rezoning that clears the way for an over 55 senior community in one of the city's more unique residential areas.

The mayor declined and instead told residents that the "at the end of the day, the plan is pretty much compatible with the area."

Monday evening residents bombarded the council with facts and figures while the land should remain zoned for single family homes and begged council members to consider such things as the increased traffic flow and the effect on their already declining property values in making their decision. Many liked the idea, but said their neighborhood wasn't the right location.

In listening to residents, it's apparent that the bone of contention isn't development of the property. They are amenable to single family homes and pleaded with council to retain that zoning. What they don't like is the three-story building that will abut residential properties on the east side of the development.

In listening to residents, it's apparent that the bone of contention isn't development of the property. They are amenable to single family homes and pleaded with council to retain that zoning. What they don't like is the three-story building that will abut residential properties on the east side of the development.

Developer Glenn Shaw Jr. claims the city deserves to step up something better and his Nankin Mills Village is just that when it comes to senior housing. His plan is to offer seniors everything they need in within the confines of his village - transitional housing, including contracted living, a restaurant to a theater, styling salon and barber shop. He also equates it with Canton Township's Cherry Hill Village, designed to reproduce a small town feeling.

To his credit, Shaw has said he is willing to work with residents. He plans to come up with three different buffers that residents can look at and decide which would be the best to separate his development from their neighborhood. But let's face it, there's not much other than mature trees that can screen a view of three-story building.

It's been stressed that what the council approved Monday evening was a preliminary plan, that the development may look a lot different when it comes up for final approval. We hope so. We believe the residents do have a beef about the high-rise and that Shaw should take up the council's suggestion and move it further west away from the residential area.

Residents also must accept the fact that the land will be developed and take this opportunity to help shape its final outcome. Shaw is savvy enough to understand that it's better to have the neighbors with you than against you.

Michigan in summer, always a special place

Michigan is always a great place to spend the summer. In the warm season, Michigan becomes a magical place of yellow sand beaches, deep green forests, sparkling blue lakes and bustling resort towns.

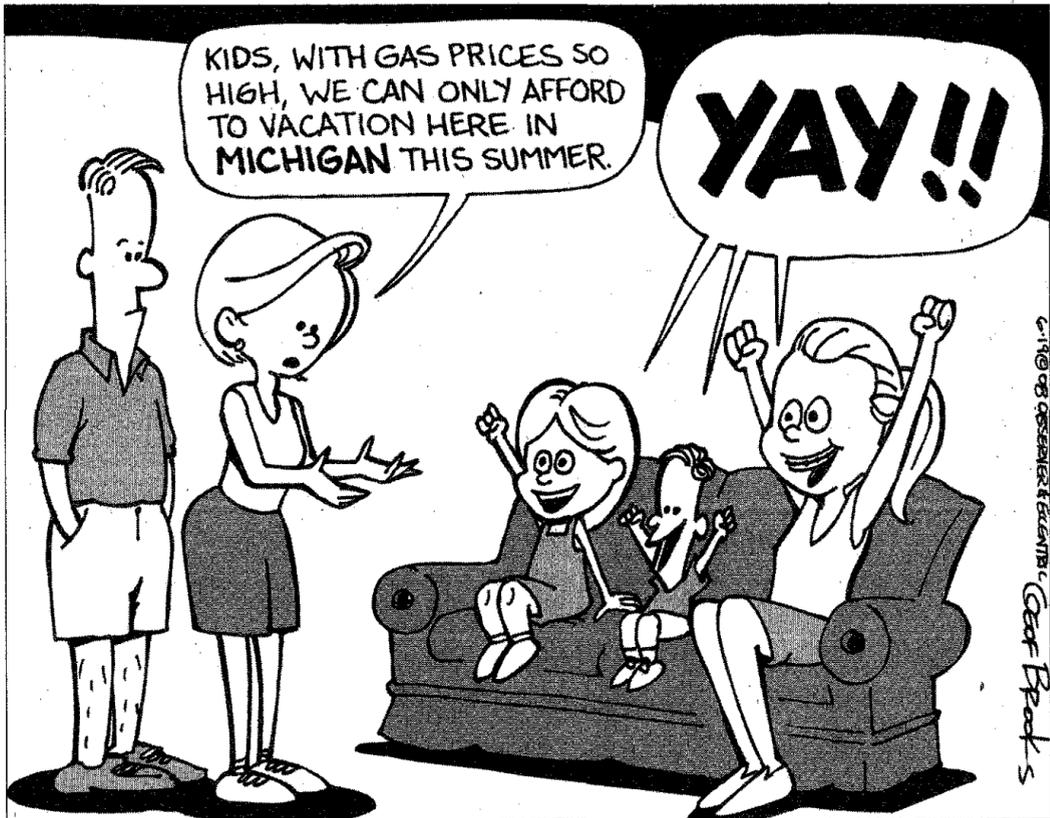

It's a paradise for on-road and off-road bicyclists; canoers, kayakers and speedboaters; trout and bass anglers; antique lovers; sunbathers; golf devotees, no matter what their handicap; fudge fans; bird watchers and woods walkers; and for those who just love to sit by a campfire late at night.

This summer, Michigan should have special appeal for state residents who had been considering trips to ocean shores, mountain parks or other distant destinations. Gasoline prices have gone over the $4 a gallon threshold and threaten to move closer and closer to $5. Airlines are also feeling the fuel pinch and are raising fares and surprising fliers with add-ons when they arrive at the airport.

Staying in state will seem like a bargain, and it will be. Michigan's resorts in the western and northern parts of the state have everything a family needs to enjoy quality time together and to split up and enjoy some quality time alone. There is so much to do and so many options.

But you don't even have to leave town to enjoy a Michigan summer. Our local communities have a variety of recreational activities, musical events and annual festivals. The summer is a great time to get reacquainted with your own hometown and all it has to offer.

Michigan and summer have always been a great combination. This year, it's better than ever.

Good average

A recent study found the average American walks about 900 miles a year. Another study found Americans drink, on average, 22 gallons of alcohol a year. That means, on average, Americans get about 41 miles to the gallon. Damn, we're good! Makes you proud to be an American.

We've feathered this nest

I am writing this letter in response to an editorial article by Mr. Ruehlen, printed in the June 5 issue of the Observer. Your editorial contained the following statement: "I don't know what the executives at the former Big Three were thinking when they decided to roll out one behemoth after the next while gas prices soared." The thinking was the same as with any other business: Give the customers what they want.

Our Asian competitors built smaller, fuel efficient cars and did quite well in that market niche. Then they expanded to the luxury car field and again had excellent results. Now they want a piece of the large truck market. Why? Because a majority of the American public still buys these "behemoths" and in per unit cost terms, they are more profitable. But while they are attempting to break into this field, the American auto companies are making inroads into their sedan market, both here and abroad. Also bear in mind that when there is a drastic shift in the marketplace, design and production of a totally new vehicle is three to five years, unless you're willing to settle for another Pinto or Vega.

When you first bought your vehicle, did you walk into the dealership with gas mileage economy on your mind, or were you looking for something with more "bragging power." GM, Ford and Chrysler all have vehicles that are designed to be dependable, stylish and economical, but if the American public continues to buy trucks and SUVs, then it's foolish to tell the customers they're wrong. That is not a sales tactic normally taught anywhere. I would also like to point out that there are trucks and SUVs that have been developed and sold using hybrid technology along with the fuel saving systems that "turn off" half the cylinders when you attain cruising speed. Economy is still an option.

Face the reality. You bought what you wanted in the size you wanted, despite what you knew was going to happen. Did anybody really believe gas would go down when there is war in the regions of our main suppliers? Do you also complain to Westinghouse when the price of food in your refrigerator goes up? Or rile at Microsoft about the lack of electricity during a blackout? Like it or not, this is the nest we've feathered.

Any leaders out there?

First, the citizens of Michigan were faced with their taxes being raised — both in paying higher payroll taxes and property taxes (even though their property values plummet).

Then, when the businesses learned how much their taxes went up based on the new and "improved" (cough, cough) Michigan business tax — they passed that additional burden onto the consumer in higher prices — so the Michigan citizens pay AGAIN for the legislatures "wisdom."

Then these legislators gave themselves a raise for a job well done (cough, cough again).

Then, they start to pass legislation giving tax breaks to companies who are going to suck food out of the food supply for ethanol which is translating into higher food prices (on top of the drought and disease and fuel costs that are pushing up food prices).

Then, fuel prices soar (this one is no fault of our Legislators but they should have enough foresight to realize that "life" happens and leaving some degree of wiggle room in the taxpayers' budgets).

So now — the family has to decide if they are going to drive to work for what little is left of their paycheck — or feed their families off of a welfare check.

But wait! Our Legislature is not done with us yet!

Their most recent "wisdom" is to transfer electric costs to those who STILL HAVE A PLACE to live from the backs of the business owner — who was already passing on the cost to us through their product price increases anyway. And off the backs of the public schools systems who all have a health insurance plan that needs plenty of gutting before pushing even more costs on to the taxpayer.

If you are on welfare or work for the government in any way — you have health insurance that either is far superior to the ones paying for that insurance (the taxpayer) or at least you have health insurance which most taxpayers do not. Congratulations, Lansing. You are the worst Legislature this state has ever seen.

Not ONE of you deserve to be re-elected! Reason: I have not heard or seen any of you in the news speaking OUT against these incredibly BAD policies except in your little newsletters to your "supporters."

Michigan needs a leader — are there any out there?

Back Obama

Consider the dramatic ideological and policy positions between John McCain and Barack Obama ... and get ready for "shock and awe."

John McCain wants to keep us in Iraq into perpetuity while ignoring his responsibilities to returning soldiers in need of health care (especially mental health), employment and housing opportunities. He is consistent in his votes against S-CHIP, the bill necessary to provide health care to millions of uninsured children. He is vulnerable to the flip-flopper label on tax issues and favors tax cuts for corporations. He has no knowledge of economic issues and has little if any empathy for America's dying middle class and burgeoning population of poverty-ridden families and especially single mothers. He is against pro-choice, global warming initiatives, stem cell research and mental health parity.

Barack Obama will work to get our soldiers out of Iraq and a war we never should have been in and will focus our security efforts in Pakistan, Afghanistan, Syria and Iran where they belong. Like Moshe Dayan, he understands "when you want to make peace, you don't talk to your friends, you talk to your enemies." He will use America's resources in America (instead of Iraq) to fix our crumbling roads, highways and bridges. He has and will increase support for our returning soldiers so they don't flood the ranks of our homeless population, prison systems and hospitals.

He believes our children are our nation's responsibility and opportunity and will work to overhaul, fund and mandate the No Child Left Behind and believes our 6.7 million students with disabilities deserve equal educational opportunities and more federal funding of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

He pledges to fund pre-school and provide $4,000 college scholarships to all students willing to make a commitment to community service. He will invest in you, if you invest in America. What a concept. He supports tax cuts to the middle class and only tax increases to the wealthiest of our citizens. We will finally see stem cell research. Pro-choice will remain choice and our children will have health care.

Any more questions? Michigan must go blue on Nov. 4. America and especially Michigan can't afford four more years of failed Bush policies. Barack Obama offers not only a hope missing in politics for almost 40 years, he represents intelligence, ethics and a passion for "We the People" of Michigan and our United States.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Don't factor Social Security into retirement equation

A few weeks ago on my radio show I had a discussion regarding retirement planning. A man who was in his early 50s wanted to retire in a couple of years. The issue was did he have enough to enjoy a comfortable retirement? After reviewing his current cost of living and what it would cost to live in retirement, he was convinced he could retire in a couple of years. However, there were two issues I raised that made him think twice. The perks his employer had paid for and the future of Social Security.

When someone looks at what it's going to cost in retirement he/she starts with what it presently costs them to live and uses that as a base. In most situations, people assume there would be fewer expenses in retirement.

COST OF WORK

The general consensus is there is a cost to go to work. I agree. In most cases not going to work does lower some costs, but not always and in this case, it wasn't.

It turns out the individual who wants to retire in a couple of years receives a variety of perks from his employer including cell phone, Internet connection, automobile and insurance.

He didn't factor this into whether he can retire.

The other issue is Social Security. In this case, the plan for retirement is predicated on being able to receive Social Security. My question to him is: What happens if you don't receive Social Security? His answer is without Social Security he can't retire in his early 50s.

This issue is difficult to resolve and one that should be of concern to many individuals. The government has made certain promises to us regarding Social Security, however, the reality is we have no idea what the future will bring. Because of that, I do not factor Social Security into the equation.

ALTER PLANS

My advice in this man's case is to change his plans and not retire in the next couple of years. I have no idea what the future of Social Security is, however, I am confident there will be significant changes that will impact benefits. Because of this great unknown and because I want to be safe, not sorry, my advice for most people is don't depend upon Social Security.

I don't mean to frighten people, but facts are facts. Social Security has been so mismanaged over the decades, that as baby boomers enter retirement, more changes will be necessary. What those changes are is anyone's guess but change is coming.

The individual who is a few years away from collecting Social Security or who is presently collecting Social Security, should have no worries. However, people who are at least a decade away from receiving benefits can expect changes. If I am wrong, all that means is more money to live on during retirement.

The bottom line is you and I are responsible for our own retirement and it is important to plan. For those in your late 40s and early 50s who are beginning to do some retirement planning, my advice is don't factor Social Security into the equation or deeply discount it.

Educational journey needs to begin early and last a lifetime

Recently, my grandson proudly walked across the auditorium stage to accept his diploma. He had fulfilled all the requirements for his diploma and was now officially a graduate — of preschool.

A couple of weeks earlier, his father had graduated summa cum laude from law school.

Both events are significant markers along an educational continuum. As we are constantly being told in this ever-shifting global economy, this brave new world, education is a lifelong process that begins very early and never really ends.

Aidan's graduation from preschool and his advancement to the rigors of kindergarten are in recognition of the need to engage young minds at the earliest possible time. Very young children absorb information and are able to fit that information into the most abstract associations more easily than adults.

That's why so much emphasis is being placed on early childhood education, preschool and kindergarten. While some parents wonder about "pushing" children into education too early and not letting them "just have fun," educators and experts on child development see these trends as vital to a child's future. They also know that while play itself is an important kind of learning, learning is also an important kind of play.

Play and learning go hand in hand and they are most encouraged in homes where parents take the time to engage their children and actively participate in the educational process, at school and at home. This seems so obvious, but we lose generations of children to parental neglect, which is often in turn a product of a broader social neglect.

We know that children from low-income neighborhoods often do not have the opportunities that other children have. Many come from one-parent homes, where the parent is stressed and has little time, or personal resources, to help. Drugs, crime and other problems feed on themselves. Children who emerge from these conditions are often stronger for it, but far too many are lost.

Early childhood education for all children, that is cognizant of the special problems in low-income neighborhoods, is essential.

A report by the Center For Michigan, a public policy organization founded by Phil Power, looks at a broad range of issues important to Michigan's economic survival. Michigan's Defining Moment's Principle No. 1 is "A talented and globally competitive workforce" and its first goal is "dramatically improve learning and completion rates from early childhood to K-12 through higher education."

Gov. Jennifer Granholm and Lt. Gov. John Chersy, who chaired a task force on education, have emphasized Michigan's failure to increase the rate of college graduation compared to other states. Our problem, as they also know, actually begins in those early childhood years. The Center for Michigan report says it clearly, "Emphasize school readiness by expanding high-quality pre-kindergarten education that recognizes the importance of both academic and social development. Build a culture of education by increasing parents' and students' recognition that education is essential for prosperity." Its Web site is www.centerformichigan.org.

On Tuesday, the New York Times ran an ad for a "Broader, Bolder Approach to Education," signed by a distinguished task force of educators, social thinkers, medical doctors, journalists and others. The group advocates for small classes in the early grades; improved teacher training; and making college preparatory classes available to all. But there is also a focus on the roadblocks to better early childhood education, advocating for high-quality early childhood education that promotes "not just academic readiness, but positive lifetime social, economic and behavioral outcomes for low-income children." It advocates for better children's health, better access to pediatricians and dentists. And it advocates for better quality out-of-school time with summer and after school enrichment programs.

More on this group can be found at www.BoldApproach.org.

Aidan has taken his first steps on that long journey his father and mother have taken before him. He's enjoyed his time in preschool and he's ready for whatever kindergarten has to throw at him.

Warriors fall a run short in D-4 title game

Lutheran Westland strands 10 runners

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER SPORTS WRITER

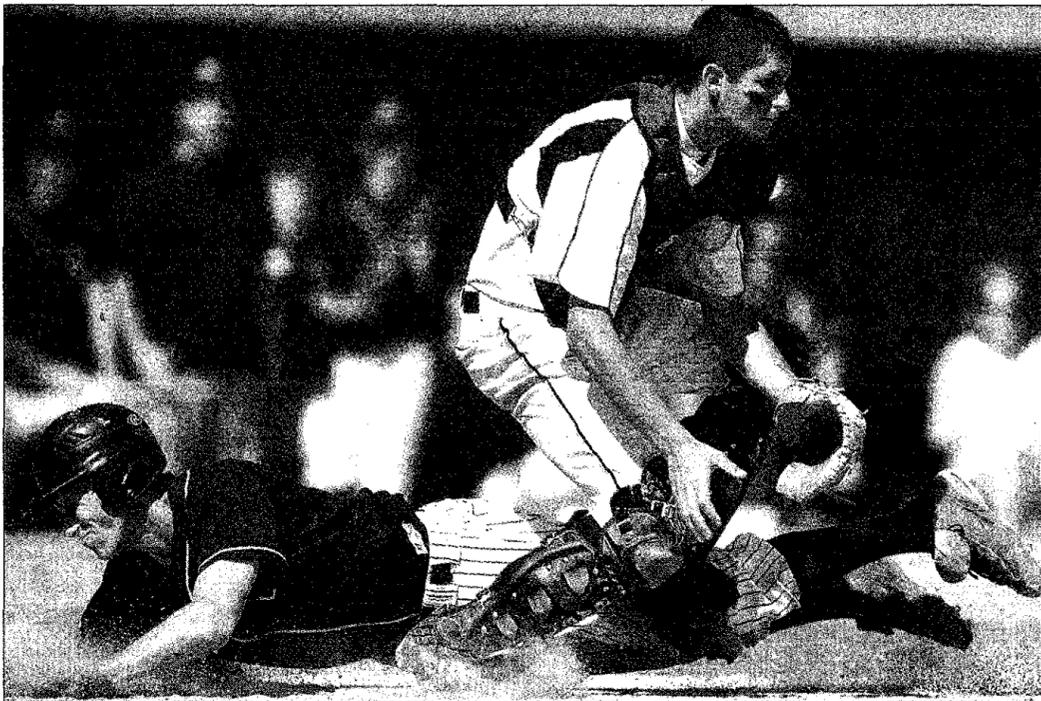

Lutheran High Westland's baseball team experienced what the Tom Hanks character Chuck Noland felt after his plane crashed leaving him deserted all alone on a remote Pacific island.

Cast away.
The Warriors stranded 10 baserunners as Bay City All Saints held on for a 2-1 victory Saturday in the Division 4 state championship game held at Battle Creek's C.O. Brown Stadium.

Lutheran Westland's magical post-season run ends with a 25-8 overall record, while All Saints garnered its second state title in school history and finishes 28-12-1.

All Saints sophomore pitcher Adam Pijaszek, despite a modest 6-9 record, managed to keep the Warriors' bats quiet while working out of sticky situations in the sixth and seventh innings. He scattered seven hits, walked only two and struck out six.

Livonia Stevenson High grad Sheila Taormina, who will make history this August by competing in her fourth Summer Olympic Games in three different sports when she competes in the modern pentathlon, captured the women's 5-kilometer race in 18 minutes, 37 seconds at the Run Drugs Out of Town held Saturday in Hines Park.

South Lyon's Thomas Preiss was the overall 5K winner in 16:58.

In the 10K run, James Cahill of Livonia was the overall and men's winner in 39:55. Cathy Young (Livonia) was the women's winner in 46:35.

Hawks fall, 2-1

The Michigan Hawks fell Sunday to the Cleveland Internationals, 2-1, in a United Soccer Leagues W-League match held at Livonia Stevenson.

The Hawks don't return to W-League action until Friday, June 27 to face the host Fort Wayne (Ind.) Fever at Hefner Stadium.

Demolition romps

Kiana Dennis was a standout on both sides of the ball as the Detroit Demolition wrapped up a wildcard berth in the Independent Women's Football League playoffs with a 37-0 victory Saturday over the Wisconsin Warriors in a game played at Livonia Franklin High School.

The Demolition finished the regular season at 7-1 and will travel Saturday, June 28 to face the first-place Chicago Wolves (8-0), winners of the Midwest Division of the IWFL.

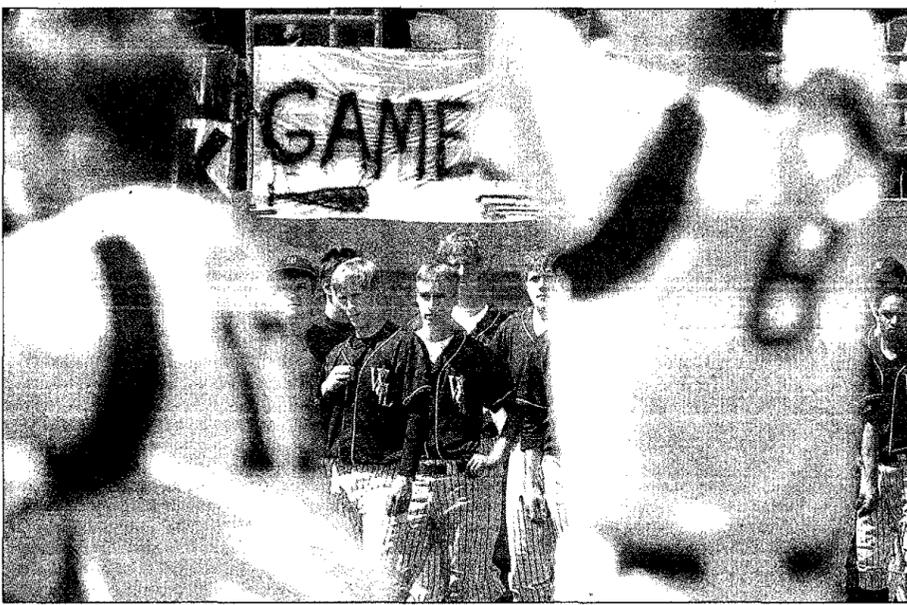

Intro to tennis

The city of Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation will offer its three-week Introduction to Tennis II for ages 6-10 from 10-10:55 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, July 8 through July 24 (Session II); and July 29 through Aug. 2, at the Bicentennial Park Courts, located at Seven Mile and Wayne roads.

Lutheran High Westland baseball players watch as the Bay City All Saints celebrate after the final out in Saturday's 2-1 state final's loss.

This tourney run was certainly fun

I learned recently it's tough to be two places at once. A week ago Saturday, I had that dilemma with two teams — Livonia Franklin and Lutheran High Westland — both still alive in the baseball regionals.

While my alma mater (Franklin) was playing at Saline, the other (Lutheran Westland) was at Allen Park Inter-City Baptist. (The two locations are exactly 31.4 miles apart, according to Mapquest.com.)

I figured I'd see Franklin in the 10 a.m. game against Dearborn and then shoot over to Allen Park to see Lutheran Westland if it made it to the finals later in the afternoon against No. 1-ranked and 29-0 Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett.

Of course, it turns out I made the wrong decision. I saw Franklin whip Dearborn, 12-2, in a six-inning

Gunderson's Father's Day no-hitter special

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER SPORTS WRITER

Ryan Gunderson couldn't have scripted this Father's Day any better.

On Sunday, the 6-foot-3, 185-pound right-hander for the Blue Knights of the Michigan Collegiate Baseball League threw a complete-game no-hitter to beat the Tecumseh (Ontario) Thunder, 1-0, in the first game of a doubleheader at Livonia's Bicentennial Park.

Gunderson, who will be a senior this fall at Albion College, struck out six and did allow a walk.

He presented the game ball afterward to his father Mike, who ironically arrived to the park "a couple of innings late."

"The whole game, he didn't know," said Ryan, who has a 14-7 career record at Albion and was a second team all-MIAA pick his freshman and junior years. "It was kind of cool. It was great and he was extremely happy. He asked for the (game) ball and it's in a safe place for sure."

Concordia University's Tony Pounders (Livonia Stevenson) delivered the game-winning RBI sacrifice fly in the bottom of the seventh to provide the one-run victory.

The Blue Knights also turned a pair of timely double plays to preserve the win.

"This is my first one ever. I never had one, even in Little League," said Gunderson, who played his high school baseball at Grosse Pointe South. "I came close once before during my freshman year against Calvin (College)."

"I probably didn't throw more than 12 balls (out of 65 pitches). Every pitch was right there. I was able to put my fastball where I wanted. And my catcher Tony Fazi (of Oakland University) caught a great game and that's all you can ask. And we have a great group of guys."

After Gunderson retired the Thunder in the top of the seventh, the game was halted 35 minutes by a rain delay.

"Nobody really said anything, but a couple of guys mentioned it while we were batting (in the bottom of the seventh)," he said. "They didn't jinx me, but if I had to go back out there, who knows? Thankfully we scored, so I didn't have to go back out there."

Gunderson pitches on the weekends in the MCBL and spends the summer days during the week coaching 14- and 8-and-under youngsters for the city of Grosse Pointe's summer swim team. He also serves as a lifeguard and gives swim lessons.

Gunderson has earned six letters at Albion, including three in swimming as a sprinter, where he excels in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events. He has helped the Britons to school records in the 200

1st-place Dodgers sweep Rams, Blue Knights triumph in makeup

The Michigan Rams' lost weekend in the Michigan Collegiate Baseball League didn't get a better on Monday night.

The 20-and-under Rams fell to 5-5 in the MCBL following a 4-1 setback in nine innings to the 22-and-under Blue Knights in a makeup game at Livonia Churchill High School.

The Rams were also swept Sunday at Livonia's Ford Field by the unbeaten Michigan Dodgers in a twin-bill, 10-5 and 4-2.

The Blue Knights scored three times in the top of the ninth to break a 1-all deadlock Scott Boyer's sacrifice bunt attempt was thrown away at first bringing home Matt Rodeghier and Tony Fazi with the go-ahead runs. Scott later scored on a sacrifice fly by Brent Opland as the Blue Knights improved to 7-4-1 in the MCBL.

Losing pitcher Brett Shankin pitched well, going eight innings allowing three earned runs on six hits. He walked four and struck out three before giving way to Bret Spencer (Madoina University).

Casey Haggerty went the first eight innings for the Blue Knights, allowing just one on six hits. He walked only one and struck out seven. Jim Shafto, despite three walks, got the win in relief.

Canton's Shawn Little (MU) and Brad Herman combined for four of the Rams' six hits. Herman drove in Little with the Rams' lone run in the second inning.

Rodeghier, Fazi and Dominic Benevidas each collected two hits for the Blue Knights. Keith Kampe also had an RBI double.

The Dodgers improved to 10-0 in the MCBL by sweeping the Rams on Sunday.

Winning pitcher John Ballerin went all seven innings in the opener, scattering 11 hits, three walks and two hit batsmen. He fanned six.

Casey Dishman went 3-for-3 with a pair of doubles, two RBI and three runs scored to lead the Dodgers. Dan Harder went 2-for-3 with four RBI, while Sean Falvo was 2-for-3 with one RBI. Kyle Horvath also knocked in a pair of runs.

Derek Mosher belted a pair of solo homers for the Rams, while Joe Barnes and Brett Mazmanian added two hits apiece. Little and Dan Augustine each knocked in runs.

Losing pitcher Aaron Wick went five innings, allowing six runs on seven hits and three walks. Livonia Stevenson's Matt Tuttle (Adrian College) and James Bertakis finished up.

The Dodgers' Tom Whiting pitched a complete-game four-hitter in the nightcap. He did not allow a walk and did not have a strikeout.

Losing pitcher Colin O'Connell went the first five innings, allowing two earned runs on four hits. He struck out six and walked four. Mosher pitched two scoreless innings in relief.

Horvath had a hit and two RBI in the Dodgers victory.

Mosher and Ryan Abraham each collected RBI for the Rams.

WARRIORS

Westland fourth-year coach Kevin Wade said. "He (Pijaszek) pitched well and he got out of a couple of jams where he came up with big pitches. He got ahead in the count with a good first pitch and we took our hacks. They also made plays when they had to."

The Warriors, despite an uncharacteristic five errors, had their chances, putting at least one runner on in every inning.

Lutheran Westland starter Derek Fleetham, a senior left-hander, gave up both runs in his five innings of work before giving way to reliever Ryan Baglow.

All Saints' first run, coming in the top of the third inning, was unearned and scored without the benefit of a hit.

Justin Gielda drew a one-out walk and went all the way around to third when Fleetham's pickoff throw sailed past first baseman Nate Bachert.

After catcher Marc Kwapiszewski was hit by a pitch on a questionable ruling by the home plate umpire, Matt Mikolajczak came through with a sacrifice fly to right field to make it 1-0.

The Cougars then scored what proved to be the game-deciding run in the fourth.

Drew Bauer singled with one out. Following a fielder's choice, Josh Sutton reached base on an infield single and Kevin Gwizdala singled crisply to left field, bringing home Aaron Janer.

The Warriors, however, responded with their only run to cut the deficit to 2-1 in the bottom half of the inning.

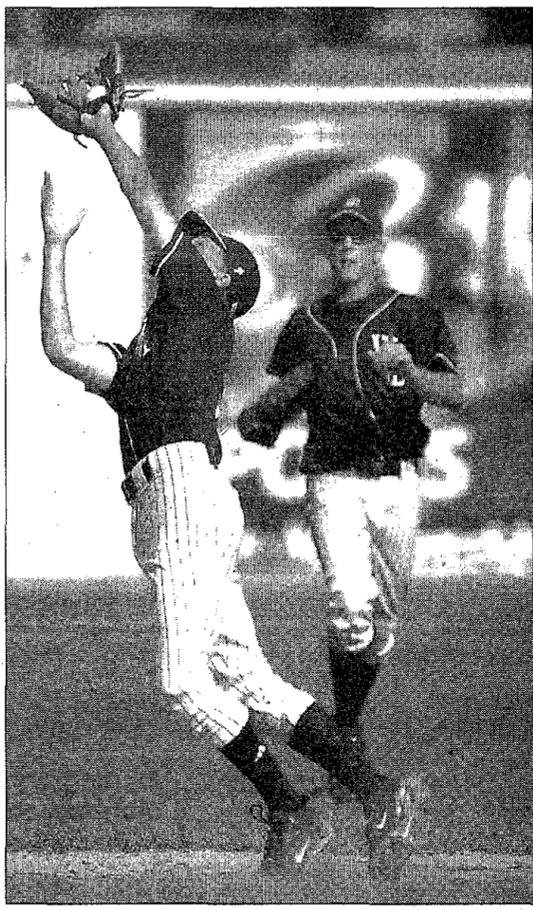

Bachert fanned, but advanced to first when the ball got by the All Saints catcher on the third strike. Baglow followed with an infield single and Aaron Derminer brought home Bachert with a single.

Lutheran Westland leadoff batter Adam Zehel then drew a walk to open the fifth inning, but Pijaszek ended any threat with a pair of strikeouts and a groundout.

In the sixth, Baglow and Tony Cipolla (filling in for the injured Billy Meier) each singled with one out, but were left stranded as Pijaszek got a pair of groundouts to end the threat.

Meanwhile, Baglow, who pitched a complete-game victory the previous day in a 9-3 semifinal win over Frankfort, shut down the Cougars over the final two innings to keep it a one-run game.

And with one last chance, Lutheran Westland kicked up its heels again in the bottom of the seventh.

TOM HOFFMEYER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Lutheran Westland shortstop Austin Baglow stretches out to catch a pop fly during Saturday's Division 4 state final against Bay City All Saints at Battle Creek's C.O. Brown Stadium.

Zehel led off with an infield single and was bunted to second by Micah Hausch, who nearly was safe as Pijaszek made a great throw to cut down the Warriors' runner at first.

The Warriors' top hitter, Sam Ahlersmeyer, drew a walk to put runners at first and second, but Pijaszek again slammed the door, getting Dan Abbott on a fielder's choice and fanning junior pinch hitter Ryan Rakovalis on a called third strike to end the game.

"I couldn't ask for anything else but a chance in the sixth and seventh innings," Wade said. "We did not play bad today. I thought Derek and Ryan pitched fine, too. They gave us a chance. We had good pitching, but a couple of errors cost us — the botched pickoff in particular. Both teams hit about the same. They had a few lucky hits and we did as well. They (All Saints) were able to manufacture a couple of runs and us only one."

All Saints coach Mike Regulski knows the feeling of losing and winning in a Division 4 championship game.

In 2004, the Cougars lost 6-5 to Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest after winning their first state title in 2000.

Pijaszek, meanwhile, got plenty of help from his battery mate Kwapiszewski, a senior catcher, who dug several breaking balls out of the dirt when Lutheran Westland was threatening and had runners on base.

"I've never seen better blocking skills for a catcher," Regulski said. "He just is a natural and it's also his ability to call an excellent game."

"Adam (Pijaszek) pitched a lot of games early in the season when we were sputtering. Our defense was not strong and we had some holes. But he's pitched excellent all year — he's got around 90 strikeouts — with good control and good pitch selection."

"We also had the defense today. And that was a big difference."

Meanwhile, the most successful baseball season in Lutheran Westland history, which included an upset 3-2 win over No. 1-ranked and 29-0 Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett in the regional final, came to a close.

"It stings, but we have nothing to be ashamed of," Wade said of the 2-1 state final setback. "For us to be here was beyond anybody's dream."

Last summer, he pitched for manager Rick Berryman and the 20-and-under Michigan Rams of the MCBL.

And to make it icing on the cake, the Rams also beat the Thunder, 1-0, in the nightcap as Oakland University's Shane McCatty (Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest) tossed a two-hitter over eight innings and got the game-winning RBI single from teammate Scott Boyer in the eighth to score Fazi.

The 22-and-under Blue Knights improved to 6-4-1 in league play with the win.

mercy and then decided to stay for the regional finals as I watched eventual Division 1 state finalist Saline mercy the Patriots in another six-inning game, 11-1.

Meanwhile, I was getting reports via cellphone from Observer photographer Tom Hawley, who was shooting the epic 3-2 upset win over Liggett by the underdog Warriors in the Division 4 regional final at Inter-City.

Although I probably missed the best game of the spring season, I did get a reprieve.

I'd be putting plenty of miles on my car the following week with a pair of trips to Battle Creek and another to Adrian College watching the upstart Warriors gun for their first-ever baseball state crown.

I had seen the Warriors play earlier in the season against Livonia Clarenceville (also a mercy), but it was hard to get a gauge on how good they really were.

But after watching them play in Tuesday's quarter-final against Ottawa Lake-Whiteford (7-0 win); Friday's semifinal game against Frankfort (9-3 win); and Saturday's state championship game against Bay City All Saints (2-1 loss), I gained a great respect for the Warriors.

Sometimes the caliber of play between Division 1 (big schools) and 4 (the smallest) is wide, but these guys proved they were all of their 25-8 final record, and a little better.

The Warriors didn't have overpowering pitchers, but they knew how to pitch.

They fielded their positions adeptly and, for the most part, were well-schooled in the fundamentals.

They got timely hitting, they played hard and they played smart. They were simply having fun while being oblivious to the pressure.

The Warriors were riding a wave and nearly pulled off a fantastic tournament run.

As heartbreaking as the 2-1 defeat to All Saints was Saturday at Battle Creek's C.O. Brown Stadium, I gained a lot of respect on how the Warriors and coach Kevin Wade handled the whole thing afterward.

They and their loyal fans seemed to keep everything in perspective.

Yes, baseball is important at Lutheran High, but I learned it doesn't overshadow their faith in God.

Watching a surprise team like Lutheran Westland evolve out of nowhere and make a tournament run like it did makes this job all the more fun — despite the fact that reporters often make the wrong decision at the wrong time.

Maybe next time around, the little guys will get a little more respect — even from a reporter who has to be two places at once.

Area performers shine in Midwest Meet of Champs

Observerland track and field athletes figured prominently in Saturday's Midwest Meet of Champions held in Jackson.

The meet drew the top invited seniors from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Livonia Stevenson's Mitchell White, the Division 1 state champion in the high jump, took third with a leap of 6 feet, 8 inches.

Ohio's Ryan Fleck captured the event by clearing 7-2.

Mitchell's twin brother Myles added a fifth in the 110-meter hurdles in 14.41 and added a sixth in the 300 hurdles (38.68).

Westland John Glenn's Larry Dawkins went 10.86 to finish seventh in a tightly contested 100 dash where first seven were all within .21 of each other.

Division 1 boys shot put record holder Mike Martin (Redford) of Novi-Detroit Catholic Central was runner-up to Indiana's Brandon Pounds, who threw 61-7.5. Martin's toss was 60-4.25.

On the girls side, Glenn's Ashley Parker placed fifth in the 100 dash (12.61) and was a member of Michigan's third-place 400 relay team (48.26).

Livonia Churchill's Rachel McFarlane added an eighth in the 1,600 run (5:10.43) won by Indiana's Alex Banfich in 4:52.17.

Michigan won the women's team title with 201 points followed by Ohio and Indiana with 149 and 125, respectively.

Ohio captured the boys team crown with 184 followed by Indiana and Michigan with 145 and 144, respectively.

Michigan took the combined team title with 345 to edge Ohio (333). Indiana was a distant third (270).

Well-rested Bucks to resume PDL action vs. Toronto Lynx

DAN STICKRADT
ECCENTRIC STAFF WRITER

Losing in the first round of the Lamar U.S. Open Cup might be a blessing in disguise for the Michigan Bucks.

The Bucks, who have reached the national title game of the USL-Premier Developmental League each of the past two years, can now focus the rest of their regular season schedule to making the postseason once again, along with winning the Great Lakes Division title in the PDL's Central Conference.

The Bucks, 8-1-0 overall, will resume play Thursday at home at the Ultimate Soccer Arenas in Pontiac against the Toronto Lynx. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Michigan was ousted in the Open Cup June 10 with a 2-1 loss to the Cleveland City Stars, a USL Second Division team. Thursday's game will end a nine-day lay-off, after the Bucks played nine games in less than a month.

Last season the Bucks also lost in the first round of the Cup, but in 2006, they went 2-1 before a 4-1 loss to MSL's Columbus Crew in the third-round.

"Obviously, if we had our way, we'd still be playing (in the US Open Cup)," Bucks coach Dan Fitzgerald said. "It gives you more games against better competition. But on the other hand, we got some much needed rest. We have some players that have been playing hurt that are starting to get healthy now."

While midfielder Nata Jafta and forward Kenny Uzoigwe both seem to be healed from some nagging injuries that has limited their play, starting goalkeeper Steve Clark will miss the game due to personal reasons.

In his place will be Bret Mellon, who recently transferred from Oakland to Temple. Mellon was the back-up keeper two years ago but was not on the roster last season. This will be his first minutes of the year and his first-ever start with the Bucks.

"He's steady shot-blocker, getting stronger and more aggressive," Fitzgerald said of Mellon. "He's maturing a little bit. Bret is becoming a solid goalie."

Defenseman Fabian Lewis might also miss the game due to an injury suffered against Cleveland, although Fitzgerald say he's already rotating five players in the backfield this season, so there's not an issue with depth.

"I think we'll be fine," he said. "We have depth at every position."

Bucks notes

The Bucks recently picked up midfielder Billy Weaver of Indiana, who was the 2003 Michigan Mr. Soccer as a prep senior at Lake Orion High School . . . Midfielder Besmier Bega will be heading to Greece in early July top train, ending his season with Michigan.

Plymouth, other walks extol summer's blooms

Pat Ribar loves phlox because they are "tall, showy and quite fragrant," she says.

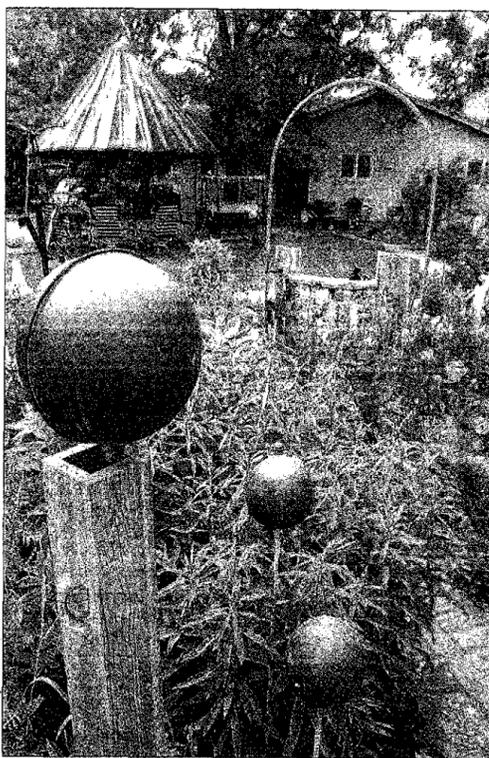

She enjoys zinnias and valerium. Her favorite colors are red and yellow. "I like a bright blast of color," she said. "I like fragrant things that sprout seeds. Everything has to grow by itself."

Pat and Steve Ribar's yard is a slice of Plymouth's "country," one of seven on the Trailwood Garden Club's 13th annual Flowers are Forever garden walk June 24.

Visitors can expect to be surprised by the Ribar's three-story barn, pond and natural gardens, all tucked into a downtown city lot. Winding brick and stone paths lead to patches of ferns, lilies, coneflowers and grasses.

The Ribars use a former corn crib for a gazebo. A windmill stand (without the windmill) will be draped

LOCAL GARDEN WALKS

June marks the end of the school year and the beginning of summer. It's also garden season, a time of year when gardeners reap seeds sown and seedlings planted, inviting the public into their yards at local garden walks.

You probably live near one of the scores of garden walks offered from now through August. Most are scheduled in late June.

Here is a schedule:
Rochester Hills Museum Garden Tour

Seven gardens ranging from small lots surrounding historic homes to sprawling gardens in Oakland Township, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. June 19. Guests can tour the Museum Dairy Barn, enjoy exhibits, children's garden and historic plantings surrounding the 1840 Van Hoozen Farmhouse and refreshments. Tickets are $8 in advance for museum members, $10 for

Replace lost manuals, create a wiki, and explore the new iPhone Question: I lost the instruction manual for my PC/printer/cell phone/blender. How can I replace it?Answer: Head to SafeManuals (safemanuals.com), an online repository of instructions and user guides for a whopping 900,000 products. (Okay, the actual count is 883,542, but still.)

You can browse the guide database or search for a specific brand, product, or model number. All manuals on the site are stored in PDF format, so you should be able to view them on Macs, PCs, and even most smartphones.

If you have some user guides of your own that aren't in the directory, you can upload them and they'll be preserved for future reference (and shared with other users).

A couple weeks ago I mentioned FixYa (fixya.com) as a great destination for getting tech help from fellow users. SafeManuals deserves a bookmark right below it.

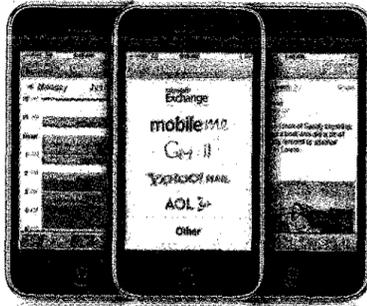

Question: What's a wiki, and why should I care?Answer: A wiki is a batch of Web pages containing custom content that you and/or others can edit at will. By far the most prominent example is Wikipedia, the online encyclopedia written and edited by everyday people.

But you can also use a wiki as a kind of personal online filing cabinet, one that's great for keeping track of notes, ideas, links, and other information.

For example, I've got a wiki page called "house stuff." It contains notes about home repairs we've had done (dates, contractor names and numbers, etc.), quotes we've received, and so on.

Another page, "Patio table," details my attempt to get warranty service on a table. It has the contact info of the manufacturer's customer-service rep, the dates and details of our conversations, and even a scanned image

Please see TECH, D3

The new iPhone may be cheaper, but it'll actually cost you more over the course of your two-year contract. Buy one anyway.

ASH BORER TIPS

Homeowners, commercial property owners and municipalities can catch a video highlighting efforts to control the emerald ash borer on the newly launched Web site www.TreeResearch.org.

The video is hosted by Dave Roberts, specialist and district horticulture agent with Michigan State University Extension, who first identified the emerald ash borer in 2002. The video provides details about the signs and diagnosis of EAB, as well as an overview of chemicals and fertilizers used to successfully treat ash trees.

Southeastern Michigan arborists demonstrate the procedures for the survival and recovery of ash trees. They explain the most effective method is to utilize trunk injections that do not require drilling since the holes permanently damage a tree's ability to move nutrients.

The recommended action, as shown in the video, is for annual applications of the pesticide imidacloprid in areas with heavy infestations and in the curative stages and the use of it every other year in preventive situations.

Pointer, an Imidacloprid product from ArborSystems that is labeled by the EPA for two-year control, is used along with various fertilizers and root stimulants to keep trees as healthy as possible.

UN: Our meats impact the environment more than cars

A Gore is ignoring what the United Nations says is one of the leading contributors to global warming: Meat.

One World

Lana Mini

Gore, like most of us, isn't willing to give up a meat sandwich for the sake of trying to save the entire planet. Cows raised as food generate more global warming gases, in CO2 equivalent, than all forms of transportation, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization reports.

"The environmental costs per unit of livestock production must be cut by one-half, just to avoid the level of damage worsening beyond its present level," the U.N. warns.

The matter is on our hands. No more debate.

We can change a light bulb and claim to be green, but that's like cleaning the ocean with a net the size of a soup can. Babysteps of success aren't good enough and we can no longer say "every little bit helps" because global warming's progression is running at top speed while we're just strolling along. Time is ticking.

We must end juvenile jokes about cows and methane. It's time to put on our grown-up pants and admit we have a major problem.

The UN report "Livestock's Long Shadow—Environmental Issues and Options" reveals a startling revelation: a vegetarian who drives the biggest SUV on the market is more eco-friendly than a meat-eater driving a hybrid. Scary.

YOUR KIDS

I don't have children, but I care about yours and the Earth is their home. Whether global warming is real isn't debatable anymore by the world's top scientists.

Boiled down, the U.N. report indicates a choice: meatballs vs. human/plant/species/planet survival.

Seriously. Are we willing to sacrifice your kids' or grand-kids' planet for a burger?

Going vegetarian to save our land sounds simple. But is it?

We live in a world addicted to animal flesh. We kill for it (animals). We risk disease for it (obesity, some cancers and heart disease). We destroy rain forests for it (forests cleared to raise animals cheaply). World starvation is partially caused by it (most of the planet's grains are fed to animals, not to people). Animals who are killed for meat only feed a fraction of the world's population, Amnesty International and other human rights groups explain.

SAY IT AGAIN

"Livestock are one of the most significant contributors to today's most serious environmental problems," said Henning Steinfeld, senior UN Food and Agriculture Organization official. "Urgent action is required."

The report warns that livestock generates 65 percent of human-related nitrous oxide, which has 296 times the global warming potential (GWP) of CO2.

But chances are we'll still eat meat tonight. Is it because we're selfish? Or do we minimize the true impact each of us has on the Earth's health?

Replacing cows with fish isn't the solution, because of over-fishing problems in our oceans. Farmed fish isn't as energy-efficient as veg diets. Pigs aren't the answer because of the problematic waste lagoons on those big farms. Chickens aren't the solution because sometimes there's mercury in their waste and other issues.

And, according to the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, meat production takes 6-18 times more land, 4-26 times more water, 6-20 times more fossil fuels and more chemicals than vegetarian diets.

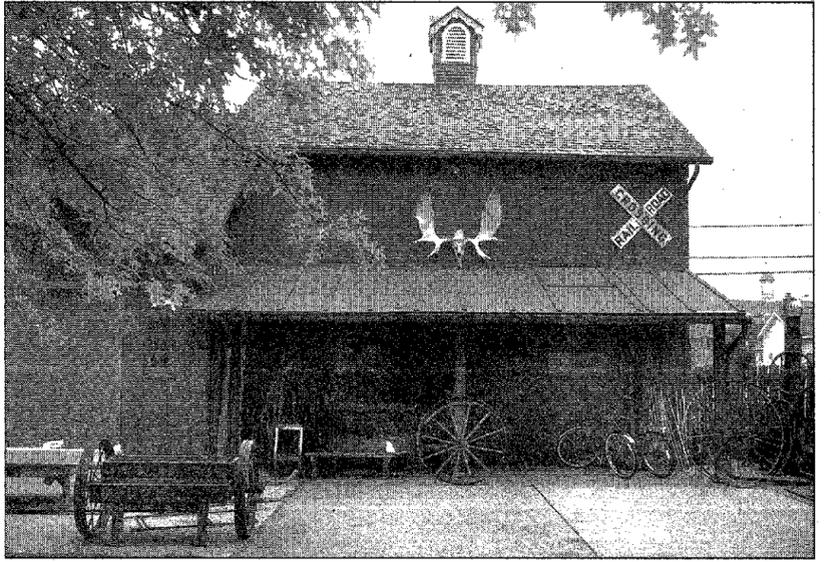

Protein level concerns aren't an excuse to avoid vegetarianism because Americans eat too much protein anyway, according to the American Heart Association. Concern for our iron levels isn't an excuse. Leafy greens contain iron. I'm vegan and never need energy drinks to keep me going. Some of the world's strongest athletes are vegan like Dave Scott, a six-time winner of the Ironman triathlon.

The solution to help seems easy: An avocado instead of animal protein. A portobella instead of a steak.

Black bean tacos rather than a meat taco. The trouble is convincing your neighbor to join you - for the sake of his or her grandkids.

We can do it, if we care. Americans are strong. And if we start, other countries will follow.

Lana Mini is a staff writer with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. She can be reached at (248) 901-2572 or by email at lmini@hometownlife.com.

with vines, and a table set for tea. Figurines stand throughout the yard.

Pat has gardened since she was a little girl. "To me, it's very therapeutic. It's a wonderful way to relax. My mother was a farm girl, and her garden was 85 percent vegetables and 15 percent flowers. Mine is 100 percent flowers. The vegetables just take up way too much space."

A grassless front yard means less watering.

Keeping the garden full of flowers and plants keep out the weeds, too, she says.

"There's just so many plants, there's no room for the weeds," Ribar said.

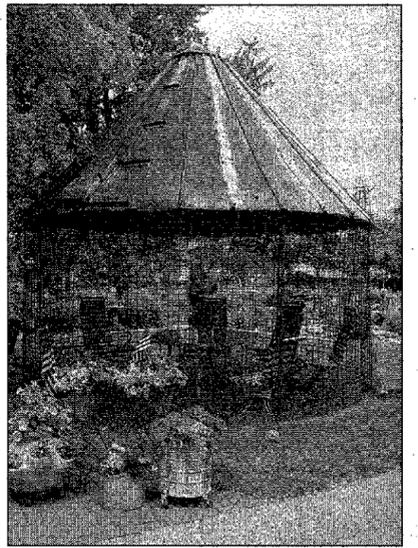

And there's always something in bloom, too.

The gardens were chosen from references and residents who volunteered their gardens for this year's walk, according to Kate Kerr, first vice president of the Trailwood Garden Club. "Sometimes we hear about these yards through volunteers or references and we'll talk to them to see if they're interested," Kerr said. "We do look at it and see if it will work for us."

Another homeowner on the tour lost four trees to the emerald ash borer, changing the light and look of the property. Having a large yard mostly made up of lawn required weed and grub control and hours of mowing, so low-maintenance areas were created.

Next door is another garden that is home to flowering shrubs, fruit trees, perennials and Heavenly Blue Morning Glories. The flower beds in the front yard have expanded to include flowering shrubs, perennials, River Birch trees and hostas.

An old corn crib was converted into a gazebo.

Faeries will greet at another garden on the tour. Small special gardens were created in between, with a Michigan wildflower corner, a tiny Japanese moss garden, and cutting and vegetable areas.

Further along the tour, another garden is comprised of several areas or rooms, each with a different feeling - some more formal, while beds are more natural in style. For interest, the homeowners fill areas with pots of annuals and garden ornaments. The garden attracts many birds and butterflies, several hummingbirds, yellow finches, downy woodpeckers, wrens, chickadees, redwing blackbirds, nuthatches and occasionally a red-tailed hawk or two.

Move onto the next garden and visitors will see added shrubs and perennials. The owners love creating window boxes and container planting.

The gardens at the final home are the reflection of favorite times spent in gardens, cottages, countryside visits from childhood memories and travels in gardens throughout the United Kingdom, Canada and Michigan. The mix of plantings are mostly perennials, trees and shrubs with container plantings of summer annuals.

Lago collection features rich finishes

California Closets, has introduced a new Lago collection – an assortment of premium finishes inspired by the picturesque landscapes and architecture of Italy's Lake Como.

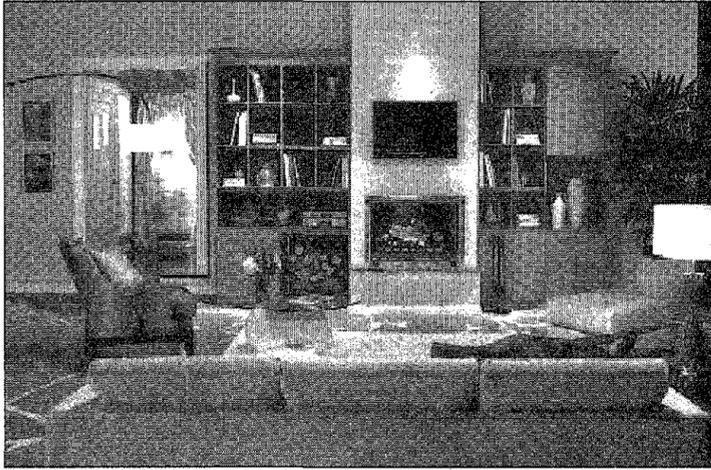

Imported Italian materials with rich finishes and unique wood grains, as well as exceptional craftsmanship define the collection. This combination results in a European-inspired line of five color finishes: Venetian Wenge, Milano Grey, Roman Walnut, Umbrian Oak and Florentine Rosewood.

"The introduction of the new Lago collection offers consumers a classic European style and design that works well with any décor," says Ray Markham, owner of California Closets in Walled Lake.

"Lago exemplifies the evolution of the California Closets brand by enhancing the breadth of our product line to extend beyond closets, bringing more furniture-like spatial design solutions to every room in the home."

In addition to being the premium line within California Closets' product assortment, the Lago collection provides environmental benefits.

Lago is made with E1 wood, which has reduced emissions potential and is processed according to a strict European standard for clean and safe wood manufacturing (BS EN 13986).

Pet of the week

Chief was found in Detroit wandering the streets alone, hungry, trying to get someone to take him in. His ears were infected and he was suffering from sores on his legs - the vet says from laying on hard uncomfortable surfaces like concrete or a cage. Chief is a 2-year-old year old yellow Labrador retriever mix who is a sweet boy and loves giving kisses. Today he's healthy as can be! And he is very smart! He already knows some actions (sit, down, stay, shake, etc). He likes other dogs, cats and kids. He is neutered, vaccinated and housebroken. Can you rescue him? Please call Michigan Animal Adoption Association at (248) 545-5055.

Combine patterns for modern effect

Cathy of Westland asks: "I keep noticing in decorator magazines and model homes that the designers use many different patterns in the same room. It looks great, but I would never think to put so many patterns together. Is there any advice you can give about using different patterns in one room?"

Design Solutions

Terri Guastella

There is certainly a skill needed to pull together multiple patterns and colors in the same room; however, there are many tools out there available for the do-it-yourselfer to accomplish this task.

To begin, start with your main pattern.

This pattern will need to use all of the colors in the room.

It can be plaid, stripe, floral or paisley; it really doesn't matter, as long as it uses all of the colors you wish to incorporate into the design of the room.

Notice the scale of this pattern. When mixing patterns you will want to vary the scale of each pattern. If all of the patterns in the room are the same size and scale, the room will look too busy. Varying the pattern size and scale will add interest without being overwhelming.

Next, bring in another pattern with only two of the colors from the main pattern. For example, if your main pattern was a large floral with five or six colors, you could bring in a stripe with only two or three of the colors from the floral pattern.

Now look for a smaller pattern in textural solid. This could be a tone-on-tone fabric using a dot or fleck for interest, but not too busy. As you will start to see, these patterns will all work together, providing you vary the pattern size and try to incorporate different parts of your color palette in different pieces of fabric.

With all of that said, there are many companies out there that cater to this look and have already pulled together varying patterns and textures on their furniture lines or fabric bolts at the store. Take a look at what's out there. These companies have paid top interior designers to incorporate that custom, designer look into their product line.

Don't be afraid to use multiple patterns. You can be a little daring, but if you are terribly unsure of the pattern mix, seek the advice of a professional interior designer.

Michigan-based swimsuit designer makes waves

BY WENSDY VON BUSKIRK
O&E STAFF WRITER

For Trisha Geftos, life's a beach. The 29-year-old Riverview resident has parlayed her love of sand and surf into a career as a swimwear designer.

Geftos became enamored with life on the water at an early age. "Ever since I was little I just loved vacationing and traveling and being at the beach and swimming," she said. "And I love glitzy and embellished things so when I couldn't find bathing suits that were what I thought they should look like, I started making them."

Geftaki's figure-flattering "Two Tone" suit is adorned with adjustable metallic ties and metal O-rings ($67 for the top; $63 for the bottom).

Eventually, her hobby grew into a business.

The 2008 Geftaki Swimwear collection is characterized by sexy cuts, flattering colors and flashy hardware.

Geftos said her passion for blingy bikinis comes from her family's background in jewelry. Her father co-owns Brothers Fine Jewelry in Southgate, a store opened by her grandfather in 1955.

"I get a lot of my ideas from my dad's business. A lot of the suits are jewelry-inspired," she said.

Geftaki Swimwear launched in 2004, and is now sold in five states. Vendors include several Las Vegas resorts, and famed Lisa Kline boutiques in Malibu, Beverly Hills and Los Angeles.

Kim Kardashian, Denise Richards and Jessica Simpson have been spotted in Geftaki Swimwear.

Geftos exhibits each year at the MAGIC fashion trade show in Las Vegas, and makes sales calls in targeted markets across the country.

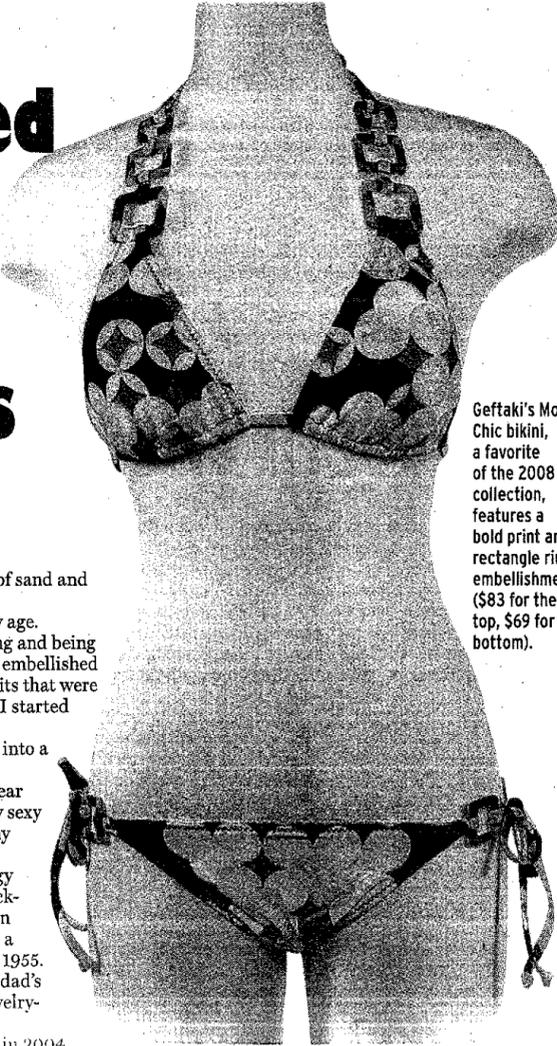

She recently returned to Michigan to sell suits during a "Beach Party" event at Saks Fifth Avenue in Troy, and has high hopes her line will be carried at Saks next year.

The suits and cover-ups are manufactured in Los Angeles, and she sells about 1,100 each year.

Geftos gets help from her sister, Keri, 31, but aside from that runs every aspect of Geftaki Swimwear herself.

If you purchase something from Geftaki.com, it's Geftos who will pack the suit by hand at her headquarters within Brothers Jewelry, and ship it to your home.

It's a lot of work, Geftos said, but the swimwear business has its perks.

Geftaki's Mod Chic bikini, a favorite of the 2008 collection, features a bold print and rectangle ring embellishments ($83 for the top, $69 for the bottom).

She spends plenty of time on the beach — wearing her own suits of course.

"I have to go to the beaches see the trends, what people are wearing what they like and why, that's how I get my feedback," she said.

Jason Hochstein, owner of Chaud Jeans in Royal Oak, began carrying Geftos' suits this spring and said they are selling better than expected.

"We're a jeans store so we didn't know how it would go, but it's going really well," Hochstein said. "Whenever people come in I always tell them she's from Michigan. I'm all about supporting local designers." Geftos said her home state is a great market for her suits.

"We have a ton of customers from Michigan," she said. "They like to change up their suits more than anybody because they're on their boats, they're on the water all summer and they want to look great."

Geftaki Swimwear is available locally at Chaud Jeans, Royal Oak; Flash Accessories, Birmingham; Essence Clothing, West Bloomfield; Posh, Ann Arbor; Brothers Jewelry, Southgate; and online at Geftaki.com.

Are our co-workers' "Sex and the City" personalities reflected in their shoes? You be the judge. From left are "Charlotte," "Samantha," "Carrie" and "Miranda."

Are you Carrie, Samantha, Charlotte or Miranda?

BY LANA MINI
O&E STAFF WRITER

Ever identified with one of the four BFFs on Sex and the City? Now there's an online quiz that lets you see who you represent best. Visit <http://quiz.ivillage.com/astrology/tests/sexandthecity.htm>, and answer the questions honestly. Don't think about how Carrie or Charlotte would respond. Four writers here took the quiz, myself included, with some surprising results.

I wanted to be Carrie — but I'm the Samantha. My Carrie qualities came in second.

Pink Editor Wensdy Von Buskirk is a Miranda. (Shocked. I thought she would be Carrie — she's stylish and has creative ideas. And hip — she's in a rock band.) Writer Stephanie Angelyn Casola is all Charlotte — and she knew it. We all knew it. She's feminine, smart and wears great shoes — today they're pink and brown. (But unlike classical Charlotte, Stephanie knows all about garage music.) Writer Susan Steinnueller teeters between Miranda and Charlotte, but she's a Miranda with her non-nonsense style. We weren't terribly shocked on that one. Today she's dressed in perfectly professional beige and black.

I refused to accept my Samantha-ness and took another quiz on another site but had the same results. Perhaps that's why I'm her —

I don't quit, and I mingle with the creatives in town. But I don't wear power suits — I prefer Betsey Johnson. Shockingly, both Casola and Von Buskirk said yes, I'm the Samantha. The fun part of the quiz is how others see us.

Here's some reaction from my fellow writers:

Casola here: While I love Charlotte's classic style and romantic point of view on life, I was actually a bit disappointed in my clear lack of Samantha qualities. She's completely uncensored, uber-independent and highly successful. Who couldn't use a dash of that?

And Mini has it — don't let her fool you. It just isn't wrapped in a power suit, that's for sure. As for the Mirandas in my newsroom — who wouldn't want to be recognized as driven and forthright? I'd say those are great qualities for an editor and reporter, right?

Steinnueller: Miranda all the way, said: "I thought about this but I have to get back to my work!"

From Von B: Miranda is the least glamorous of all the girls, and I was disappointed at first to find out I was 60 percent her. But, alas, I think it's true. Practicality always wins out for me, even when it comes to fashion. Yes, my dresses might be Max Studio or Diane von Furstenberg, but more importantly I got them on sale, and don't have to waste time mixing and matching when I pull them on. Also, at least I'm a good listener — and a good foil to my fabulous friends!

Staff Writer Stephanie Angelyn Casola and Wensdy Von Buskirk contributed to this report.
