Circuit City closing: Another loss for Westland

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland's core shopping district was dealt another economic blow Friday as beleaguered electronics retailer Circuit City Inc. announced it has asked for court approval to close its remaining 567 U.S. stores, which employ about 34,000 workers.

"It's very unfortunate, and it's totally out of our control," Westland Economic Development Director Lori Fodale said. "Obviously, we're saddened by a corporation failing, but we're going to work very hard to find a new tenant for that location."

Westland's store, on Warren east of Central City Parkway, had weathered earlier Circuit City problems and had become an area corporate headquarters. Amid an economic meltdown facing many retailers, however, acting company CEO James Marcum said in a statement Friday that "we were unable to reach an agreement with our creditors" to avoid closing down, though "we are extremely disappointed by this outcome."

An employee of the Westland store said Friday that an expected closing date wasn't yet known. Barring a sudden shift, the nation's second-largest consumer electronics chain is expected to start selling off its merchandise after failing to find a buyer or secure a refinancing plan.

"It's not insignificant (for the Westland retail district)," City Council President James Godbout said. "We, like many other communities, are going to be facing these severe economic realities. With the economy in the state it's in, we're just going to have to work through it."

"It's unfortunate that Circuit City is a casualty of these economic times. But we can't go around like the sky is falling," Godbout added. "It's an unfortunate part in the economic swing. It has happened before, although it hasn't been this severe in a long time. We've always come out of it in the past, and we'll come out of it again."

Circuit City's closing would only add to a growing list of vacancies in the heart of Westland's retail district, including its one-time next-door neighbor Cost Plus World Market, as well as Value City Department Store, Sam's Club, the old Best Buy building, Service Merchandise and, more recently, Fan Zone in Westland Shopping Center.

Westland also has lost both of its movie theaters, although officials remain optimistic that a state-of-the-art fitness facility will be built on the site of the shuttered Quo Vadis near Wayne and Warren.

Moreover, consumers still will have a major electronics store in Westland with the newer Best Buy, located at Wayne and Central City Parkway.

It may have been 9:20 in the morning, but a group of Jefferson-Barns kindergartners were ready for bed. They wore their pajamas and carried sleeping bags and kits filled with toothpaste, a toothbrush and a stuffed animal.

It was a pajama party meant to make a lasting impression.

"This is a fabulous age," said Josephine Long, program director for Sweet Dreamzzz Detroit. "We plant the seed early about getting enough sleep and having their pajamas on cements it in their brains."

The Farmington-based nonprofit was at the Westland school last week to educate its 180 students on the importance of getting enough sleep and good sleep habits as well as provide them with a sleeping bag and the bedtime essentials needed to get a good night's rest.

Westland police on Friday afternoon were asking for the public's help identifying and finding a suspect accused of robbing a local bank in broad daylight.

The incident happened at 2:58 p.m. Friday inside the branch of the Fifth Third Bank on Ford Road between Newburgh and Central City Parkway, in a brazen robbery that happened not far from the Westland police station and Westland City Hall.

The suspect was captured by surveillance camera. He is described as a black male, approximately 25 years old, about 5 feet, 7 inches tall, with a thin build and a thin mustache.

According to police, the suspect was wearing a black jacket with tan lettering on the side, possibly spelling out the word "Philadelphia," and it had white bands at the end of the sleeves. He also was wearing what police described in a prepared statement as black jeans,

3 seats to be filled in WW school election

The clock is ticking for people who are interested in serving on the Wayne-Westland school board. They have until 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10, to file nominating petitions to run for three seats that will be filled in the May 5 school election.

Two four-year terms, held by incumbents Ed Turner of Westland and Steve Becher of Wayne, will be filled in the annual election. Voters also will select a trustee to serve the remaining one year of the term of former board member Frederick Weaver, who resigned last August after it became known he had moved from the school district. Shawna Walker, a Westland resident, has been filing the position since being appointed to the board in mid-September.

As of last Tuesday, she was the only person to pull nominating petitions in advance of the Feb. 10 deadline.

A retiree, Turner is completing his fourth four-year term on the school board. He has served as board secretary and president. Becher was elected to the board in 2004 to fill the remaining one year of a term that had been held by the late Mathew McCusker and elected to his first four-year term in 2005. The current board treasurer, he is a retired Wayne-Westland teacher.

Candidates must be at least 18 years old, a qualified voter in the school district and a resident of the state for at least 30 days. They must file an Affidavit of Identity and a nominating petition. Petitions must contain a minimum of 40 up to a maximum of 100 signatures of registered voters in the school district. A $100 nonrefundable fee can be filed in lieu of a petition.

Petitions are available from the Westland City Clerk's Office in Westland City Hall, 36001 Ford, west of Wayne Road, and the Wayne City Clerk's Office in Wayne City Hall at 3355 S. Wayne Road, south of Glenwood.

Recall supporters press case with state over WW district policy

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Two recall supporters who claim local officials improperly blocked their effort to circulate petitions on Election Day have ratcheted up their pleas for state intervention.

The latest developments come after a signature-gathering attempt has stalled and as recall supporters indicate they may try to renew their efforts, even if they have to start the process over.

While some earlier recall organizers have pulled away from the public spotlight, Donna DeWitt and Judy McKinney have continued their fight against what they perceive as an injustice waged by local officials.

DeWitt, McKinney and others had hoped to recall Mayor William Wild and Westland City Council members James Godbout, Bill Johnson, Michael Kehrer and Dewey Reeves for supporting a controversial senior citizen village, including a three-story apartment building, that a developer hopes to build in a neighborhood of single family homes on Joy east of Newburgh.

However, recall supporters said their effort was thwarted by a Wayne-Westland school district policy that prohibited them from going onto school property on Election Day to collect signatures on their petitions.

Charlotte Sherman, district deputy superintendent, said Wayne-Westland has long had a policy to block political activity on school property, except for people who want to campaign on Election Day for issues actually on the ballot. By state law, any literature has to be distributed beyond 100 feet of any polling place.

Sherman said a district lawyer contacted the state Attorney General's Office in 2000, amid an earlier city recall effort, and was told that Lansing officials "did not have a problem with the policy at that time."

On Thursday, she said, "As of now, we have received nothing in writing contrary to the direction we received in 2000."

Still, Sherman confirmed that the district has sent documents to the state to get the issue clarified once again, but no word had come late in the week.

DeWitt and McKinney have criticized city officials, such as Clerk Eileen DeHart, for advising them prior to last Election Day not to circulate petitions on school property because of the Wayne-Westland policy. DeHart has said she simply was reiterating the policy and that she didn't set it.

DeWitt wrote a post-election letter to the Secretary of State Office inquiring about the district policy. In response, Bradley Wittman, director of the election liaison division, wrote in part that on Election Day, "there is nothing to prevent an individual from collecting signatures on a recall petition outside of the polls as long as the individual remains at least 100 feet from the doorway being used by voters to enter the building in which the polling place is located."

However, Sherman said it has been the district's understanding that local officials can establish more restrictive policies requiring that petitions be circulated only on public sidewalks near school property. She said the state has been given district documents so the issue can be reviewed.

Meanwhile, McKinney has suggested that if the district's policy is ruled improper, the city should move its polling places away from the schools unless the policy is changed.

City officials have indicated that moving the polling places would be a monumental task that would confuse many voters and potentially disrupt the election process.

A familiar face

Wayne mayor Haidous has spot in new 2nd-grade textbook

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A familiar face will grace the pages of a new social studies book that will be used by second-graders in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

Wayne Mayor Abdul "Al" Haidous is highlighted in the Macmillan/McGraw Hill book, All Together Series, because he is the first Arab American to be elected mayor in the United States.

Haidous

"I'm honored, I'm humbled and honored to be a part of the educational process," said Haidous, who with his wife, Mary, sat and watched Monday night as the Wayne-Westland school board approved the purchase of the textbooks. "I thank you for creating an environment for our children."

The textbook purchase were one of several approved by the board as the district continues to align curriculum to meet the standards set by the state. In addition to All Together, the district is purchasing a second social studies book, Meet Michigan by Hillsdale Educational publishers, for use by third-graders which will complete the realignment of the third-fourth-grade social studies curriculum, according to Aggie Kubrak, senior executive director of the curriculum department.

The board also approved buying World History: Patterns of Interaction by McDougal Littell Publishers for the 10th-grade social studies curriculum.

Committees made up of teachers and administrators spent more than a year looking at textbooks and making sure the ones selected aligned with the state requirements. The fact that a local celebrity is in one of them was a fringe benefit and drew praise from two board members who live in Wayne.

"I just love it that you're in this textbook, that's wonderful," said board President Martha Pitsenbarger. "He absolutely loves being mayor. He does a great job."

"I've known him for many years and I think of him as nothing else than a great American and a great friend," added board Vice President Skip Monit.

A Lebanese native, Haidous immigrated to the U.S. in 1969 and with Mary ran Al's Friendly Market in Wayne. In 1993, he was elected to the Wayne City Council where he served two terms. In 2001, he made history by being the first elected mayor in the city of Wayne as well as the first Arab American elected mayor of a city in America.

Haidous, who had five children go through Wayne-Westland schools, told the board "our schools have never looked better."

"You've worked hard and it shows," he said. "I know what the schools looked like before. I like what you've done. You're doing a fantastic job."

Board Treasurer Steve Becher, who also lives in Wayne, told Haidous that with the purchase of the book he will have to consider his political future.

"You're going to have to run for mayor a few more times because we can't afford to buy another book," he said.

Detroit man faces trial in Rite Aid holdup

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Detroit man will face trial on charges he brandished a pistol and robbed a Westland pharmacy of more than 7,000 doses of prescription drugs.

Michael Henry Guerin, 53, could face penalties ranging up to life in prison if he's convicted in Wayne County Circuit Court on charges of robbing the Rite Aid pharmacy at Ford and Wayne roads shortly after 10:30 p.m. Oct. 16.

Guerin was ordered to stand trial on charges of armed robbery, felony firearms, three felony drug counts, and being a habitual offender after he was identified by a Rite Aid employee in court Thursday during a preliminary hearing in front of Westland 18th District Judge Mark McConnell.

Authorities have said more than 7,000 doses of drugs like OxyContin, Ritalin and morphine were taken. Westland police Sgt. Steve Borisch said some of the prescription medications were sold and some were recovered.

Guerin was arrested and charged in January after police released a suspect photo to the media and received a tip. Authorities from the special Metro Street Enforcement Team executed a search warrant at his home and found drugs like those taken during the robbery, Borisch said.

McConnell continued a $5 million cash bond that had been set earlier by now-retired Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos, who considered the defendant a threat to the community because of the drugs he is accused of taking.

A suspect had been captured by a surveillance camera as he was leaving Rite Aid. No shots were fired and no one was injured during the incident.

A not-guilty plea has been entered for Guerin as his case now heads to Wayne County Circuit Court.

Library program looks at civil rights

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

On the heels of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. holiday and President-elect Barack Obama's inauguration, Westland's public library will roll out a program about the civil rights movement of the 1960s.

"It should be really interesting," library Director Cheryl Napsha said. "We set this up before the (presidential) election. We were hoping it would especially relevant."

The program, scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, will feature Matt Ides, a doctoral candidate in history from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He will address such topics as the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and how it impacted the country, Napsha said.

Ides' talk will be followed by a discussion, and Napsha said the entire program should last no more than 90 minutes. The program is free, and people who want to attend don't need to register in advance.

"They can just show up and bring a friend," Napsha said.

The library is located on Central City Parkway between Ford and Warren.

The program will come two days after an earlier-announced event, the city's observance of Dr. King's birthday. That ceremony, also free and open to the public, is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Monday at Annapolis Park Church of Christ, on the southeast corner of Annapolis and Henry Ruff in the historic Annapolis Park neighborhood.

Westland City Councilman Dewey Reeves will be the keynote speaker.

Wenzel used a poster board to show youngsters what are healthy snacks, asking them to give thumbs up or down to determine their nutritional value.

Thumbs pointed up for the banana and down when she pulled a picture of a can of Coke from her envelope. The youngsters volunteered that the beverage contained caffeine and sugar. One youngster even noted that the drink would "make you bounce off the wall."

"I challenge you that if you have a bedtime snack to think of a healthy choice," Wenzel said.

With her help, they also figured if they needed 10-12 hours of sleep and got up for school at 8 a.m., they had to be in bed by 8-8:30 and that washing and brushing their teeth was also a part of getting ready for bed.

"You need to wash to get rid of the germs and to get the dirt off," said Wenzel. "You want to be clean when you get in bed."

Sweet Dreamzzz does the presentation once a month at a school in the Detroit metropolitan area. Principal Laura Beckman found out about the organization through the school's connection with Oakwood Hospital. Oakwood has a health clinic at the school. Planning started in November. "Sweet Dreamzzz has been wonderful to work with, they're very organized," Beckman said. "They came in and put on a wonderful program."

With 11 years experience, her comments don't come as a surprise to Sweet Dreamzzz Executive Director Nancy Maxwell. Working with the help of sponsorships and donations and the help of groups like the Girl Scouts, Sweet Dreamzzz has delivered its R.E.M. message to more than 19,000 children.

"It's not the size of the school, it's the need of the school," Maxwell said. "The school has to have 75 percent or more students at the poverty level based on the school lunch program."

In addition to the educational program, students receive a sleeping bag, a tote bag filled with a Sweet Dreamzzz T-shirt, toothbrush, toothpaste and a sleep activity book and stuffed animal. Youngsters also get to select a book as part of the program.

Jefferson-Barns is one of the smaller schools Sweet Dreamzzz has visited. In February, the group will help a school with 380 students and for National Sleep Week in March, they will be at a Detroit school with more than 700 students.

"There's two components - education and warmth and comfort," Maxwell said. "You need warmth and comfort, the education can happen anywhere."

The smiles on the children's faces were as big as the sleeping bags they carried back to their classrooms.

"It's a special day for them, they're so excited," Beckman said.

THE GREAT COVERUP!

To some extent, the porcelain veneers that dentists often use to cover chipped, broken, misshapen, stained, or discolored front teeth are similar to the artificial nails that manicurists use to cover problem fingernails. The primary difference is, of course, that the veneers used on teeth consist of thin shells of porcelain that are carefully placed over damaged or misshapen teeth. The procedure involves removal of a thin layer of the affected tooth's outer surface, after which impressions are taken that are used to create veneers that will fit precisely. During the next appointment, the veneers are fitted, permanently bonded in place, and shaped. The result is a newly surfaced tooth with an extremely durable material that closely mimics enamel.

If you're not happy with your smile, we hope you won't be shy about examining the many options available today in cosmetic dentistry like porcelain veneers, bonding, whitening, and reshaping. Our interest in you extends beyond just fixing your teeth - we want you to feel totally self-conscious about your mouth so that you will have every reason to break into a smile. Call us for an appointment to discuss your particular dental needs at 734-453-9413. New Patients are always welcome at 496 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Ste. 201, Plymouth.

P.S. Porcelain veneers provide a quality restoration that can also be used to close small gaps between teeth, as well as lengthen teeth.

Watch inauguration on big screen

BY KURT KUBAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Tickets to President-elect Barack Obama's swearing-in ceremony Tuesday in the nation's capital are hard or next to impossible to come by. If you are among the disappointed people who would like to go but are unable to, Imagine Theater in Canton may be offering the next best thing.

As part of a promotion by MSNBC and Screenvision, Imagine Canton will be showing MSNBC coverage of the inauguration live.

Ruth Daniels, vice president of sales and marketing, said the

ON THE BIG SCREEN

Address: 39535 Ford Road, Canton.

For tickets and info: Log onto <http://msnbcvents.com> or call theater at (734) 721-3456.

coverage will be shown in its largest theater, which seats 450 people.

"It will be a lot of fun. We're really excited," she said.

Coverage of the event begins at 11 a.m. and runs through 3 p.m.

To obtain a ticket, you must log onto <http://msnbcvents.com> and enter your e-mail information, as well as the theater location. If you are awarded a ticket, you will receive an e-mail. Admission is free but is first come, first serve and tickets are no guarantee of admission.

Daniels has no idea how many people will attend the event, though she does expect some people to show up without tickets. She said the theater will try to accommodate everyone.

Daniels said doors will open about 9:30 a.m.

For more information, visit the MSNBC Web site or call the theater at (734) 721-3456.

Try your talent at open mic night at library

Need an outlet for your pent-up talent? Then swing by the William P. Faust Public Library on Thursday, Jan. 22, to ham it at open mic night.

The event is for teens and adults and is from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Poets, writers, musicians, and performers encouraged to show what they've got. Singer-songwriter Dave Boutette is the emcee. And you don't have to want a shot at the mic to come. All audience members welcome.

This is the first of three open mic nights. The program also is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 19, and Thursday, March 19.

According to Library Director Cheryl Napsha, open mic night is the result of a strategic planning process the library recently completed.

"One of the requests that we heard clearly was for the library to serve as a cultural/social hub for the community," Napsha said. "In response to that we're beginning a series of 'after-hours' programs for adults and teens."

She added that the library had its first after-hours program last March when Motown star Martha Reeves visited.

In addition to being free of charge, refreshments will be served.

And since it's an "after hours" event, the library will be closed, so patrons won't be able to access the collection on computers. Open mic night will be in the meeting rooms at the front of the building.

The William P. Faust Public Library is at 6123 Central City Parkway, north of Ford, Westland. For more information, call (734) 326-6123.

Understanding gay marriage

President-elect Barack Obama's invitation of evangelical pastor Rick Warren for the opening prayer at the inauguration has caused somewhat of an uproar. While some people see Obama's decision as a way of reaching out to those with opposing views, many others feel it is a sign of disrespect given Warren's support for the passage of Proposition 8 in California. Not long after the passage of the ban on gay marriage, this issue has once again become a hot topic of debate in this country.

The meaning of marriage means different things to different people. Some think of it as an institution while others view it as a practice. Some use the Bible as an argument against gay marriage while others use a line of reasoning based on civil rights to make a case for it. There is a lot of gray area when it comes to this discussion and it is important to have an understanding of both sides of the issue. The Public Library of Westland has many resources that shed light on the pros and cons of gay marriage.

For an overview of the history of marriage and all the various forms it has taken, check out E.J. Graff's "What Is Marriage For?: The Strange Social History of Our Most Intimate Institution." This book shows how marriage has changed throughout time to suit the social structure of each period. "Same-Sex Marriage: Moral Wrong or Civil Right?" by Tricia Andryszewski is a good, brief source for a balanced analysis on this issue. For a more in depth examination, "Same-Sex Marriage: Pro and Con" offers an even collection of opinions from Plato to Ann Landers.

To find out more about gay marriage, the Public Library of Westland is a great place to start. Stop by at the reference desk, call us at (734) 326-6123, or remotely search our catalog 24 hours a day at www.westland.lib.mi.us.

Whether to buy or lease a car depends on your situation

Q: Dear Rick: With the auto show in town and the car companies needing all the help they can get, I decided to buy a new car. What factors should I consider in deciding whether to buy or to lease a car?

A: I think what you are doing is great, and I hope more people around the country decide to buy cars from the "Big Three."

The decision whether to buy or lease a car is based upon two major factors how long you plan to own your car and how many miles you drive on an annual basis.

My general rule is if you plan to buy a new car every three years or less, leasing is the way to go. If you plan keep the car for more than four years, buying it makes more sense.

If you drive more than 15,000-18,000 miles a year, leasing generally becomes too expensive for most people.

If you decide to buy a car, the next issue is whether to pay cash or to finance the purchase. Considering interest rates and tax consequences (unless you can get inexpensive financing, generally under 3 percent) I recommend paying cash for the car. However, if you don't have cash available then you would have to obtain financing.

Whether you buy or lease it, it is important to shop around and get the best deal possible not only on price but financing options. One of the mistakes people make when they lease is they assume they can't receive competitive bids. This is not the case. Not only can you shop the car at different dealerships, but there also are other institutions such as credit unions that do leasing.

In shopping for leased cars, it is important to consider monthly payments as well as other terms of the agreement such as security deposits, early termination fees and excess mile charges.

Many people do not understand that leasing a car is simply renting that automobile for a period of time. The lease payment is the depreciation on the vehicle. Because you are leasing the car for a set period of time, you are able to drive a more expensive car for a lower price. In fact, that is one of the main advantages of leasing. However, leasing does offer other advantages such as driving newer automobiles and not having to worry about reselling a used car.

Purchasing a car also has its advantages such as the car belongs to you and, thus, when you decide to sell the car, you will get some of your money back. In addition, you can lower your cost of driving by extending the length of time you own your car.

I am often asked which is better, buying or leasing. There is no correct answer. The key is what is best for an individual situation. My advice is that prior to obtaining a car you should know how it will be purchased before you visit the dealerships. Knowing how you will finance the purchase prior to even looking at the automobile itself will help you focus on making the right decision.

All branch offices of the Secretary of State's office will be closed Monday in observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

The Department of State mails notices to motorists 45 days before their driver's license or license plates expire to give them ample time to renew. Licenses and plates that expire on a day when state offices are closed, such as holidays or weekend, can be renewed the following day without penalty.

Motorists renewing license plates can avoid the trip to branch offices and do business by mail or if eligible by Internet of touch-tone telephone. Easy to follow instructions can be found with the renewal notice. License plate tabs will arrive by mail within seven business days.

With the exception of holidays, branch offices are open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On Wednesdays, most offices are open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. with those in city centers open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mentoring can have impact on at-risk youth

January is National Mentoring Month. While programs such as Big Brothers Big Sisters engage youth in positive and fun activities, in urban centers all over the country, mentoring also has a tremendous impact on education and graduation rates. The evidence shows that students who participate in such programs experience improved grades, higher attendance, and a more positive attitude toward their studies. Further, they experience measurable decreases in alcohol and drug use, violence, skipping school, and dropping out of school.

Dara Munson

The D.C.-based America's Promise Alliance found that Detroit has a deplorable 24.9 percent graduation rate. This was the lowest graduation rate in the entire nation. Factors such as the rise in drugs, violence, teenage pregnancy, and incarceration drive the graduation rate lower every year. If at-risk youth have a friend and mentor - someone to help them through difficult times, and especially in their formative younger years, then finishing high school becomes a possibility they believe they can achieve.

A poor graduation rate isn't just a negative outcome for young adults. It's bad for the community as well - not just for the well-known social ills, but very detrimental to society's pocketbook. A 2005 Princeton University study found that the average high school dropout costs $260,000. One of the reasons is because dropouts face increased incarceration rates, and every inmate costs the State of Michigan $29,000 per year. Further, dropouts pay significantly less taxes than graduates, less than 50 percent of what those with some college contribute, and about 25 percent of what a taxpayer with a college degree contributes. This is due to weakened earning capacity and, consequently, low average incomes.

A low graduation rate costs society more than money. Dropouts are statistically more likely to become teen parents and single parents, commit crimes, have physical and emotional health problems, become disabled, be unmarried, and rely on government social services such as food stamps, Medicaid, and unemployment. They are also more likely to have chronic employment issues for their entire lives. This means that not only are dropouts twice as likely to experience poverty, but they reduce the economic growth capacity of the community.

Beyond the tangible burdens on the community, each individual dropout goes through his or her own myriad of emotional consequences as a result of failing to graduate. They may feel shame and guilt for being unable to secure employment, sometimes for extended periods of time. They may feel like they want to go back and finish, perhaps get their G.E.D., but living in a culture where dropping out of school is so pervasive is not particularly encouraging. Finally, dropouts often experience feelings of depression and helplessness that are less common among those who do earn a high school diploma. The high dropout rate is causing unhappiness and suffering for both dropouts and their fellow community members, in both measurable and immeasurable ways.

Nationally, at 100 years old, Big Brothers Big Sisters of America is the oldest of such mentoring programs, and sets the standard in youth mentoring. The Big Brothers Big Sisters model is effective because we have developed our programs using evidence-based prevention strategies, and are continually monitoring social trends and statistics to update these as necessary.

Mentoring is not a cure-all for society's challenges, but it is an absolutely essential component of a comprehensive effort to improve the educational success rates of local youth. Big Brothers Big Sisters of Metropolitan Detroit, the local affiliate serving southeastern Michigan, has already started to directly confront the social problems that are borne of the educational maelstrom in Detroit and southeast Michigan. Mentoring can help create a stronger, healthier and more economically viable community.

Many people believe that Big Brothers Big Sisters is purely a provider of mentoring services that does a great job with kids. But we are much more than that. Any investments in our schools and in improving the safety of our neighborhoods that don't also include evidence-based prevention strategies focused on our children miss a tremendous opportunity to effect real long-term transformation in our communities. The profit or return on investment in a mentoring program such as Big Brothers Big Sisters garners better schools, safer streets, and healthier productive young people ready to be contributors to society.

Dara T. Munson is president and CEO of Big Brothers Big Sisters of Metropolitan Detroit. Call (313) 309-0500 if you would like to volunteer or donate in support of National Mentoring Month.

OUR VIEWS

Head to the 'D' to support auto industry

Area residents have plenty of reasons to head to the Cobo Center next week to check out the annual North American International Auto Show.

First and foremost, metro Detroiters need to show Congress, the country and the world that the domestic auto industry should not be discarded like analog televisions whose time has come and gone.

Skeptics and naysayers will be watching attendance figures closely to find new ammunition in trying to kill off an industry that has done so much for so many for so long. If this region does not show up in droves to support the Big Three, the argument will go, then why should the federal government care if one or more of the companies goes out of business?

Our nation's political leaders already have taken much of the fun out of the annual two-week party. It's almost as if anyone even remotely attached to the industry has been ordered not to smile to enforce the somber state of the industry.

Even the annual charity fund-raiser that benefits thousands of local kids is having a difficult time getting auto folks to purchase tickets. Nobody wants our nation's political hacks to get the wrong impression that industry leaders are partying like it's 1999 while asking for a federal bailout.

How sad that such a proud part of America's history is being treated so shabbily. It's time to push back, attend the auto show, have some fun and celebrate a great American institution.

Don't let the government Grinch steal our fun.

VFW Haircut Day slated this Sunday

BY PAM FLEMING
STAFF WRITER

If it's time for a trim, come to the "VFW Haircut Day for Cancer and AIDS Research" in downtown Northville today. The fund-raiser will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012, 438 S. Main St., just north of Seven Mile Road. This is the fourth year for the event.

The barbers that are involved are from Jack's Barber Shop, 111 E. Dunlap St., in downtown Northville and Northville Barbers, 545 Seven Mile Road. The barbers will donate their time for this worthy cause.

Haircuts will be $12 for men, women and children.

"Everyone has been touched by cancer in one way or the other," said Betty Burkacki of the VFW Post 4012 Ladies Auxiliary, event chairperson.

Raffle tickets will also be sold during the event for gift certificates from local merchants, including a sports basket, dinner basket and ladies basket.

Two local restaurants are also participating in the fund-raiser. Chili's Restaurant at Haggerty and Eight Mile roads will donate 10 percent of diners' total bills back to the event on Monday, Jan. 19. Applebee's Restaurant at Six Mile and Haggerty roads will donate 20 percent of diners' bills on Monday, Jan. 26.

The restaurants will require coupons from the VFW for the money to go to the fund-raiser. For more information about the event or the coupons, call Burkacki a (734) 891-3921 or pick some up at the Northville VFW Post after noon on Sunday.

In the first three years, the event has raised a total of $7,268 for cancer and AIDS research.

"With the support of the community, we are hoping to meet our goal," Burkacki said.

The event began when the VFW post asked local barber Dave Rouse if he would donate his hair-cutting services for the cause, and he said it would be a pleasure. The first year, Rouse shaved one VFW member's head, two beards, some mustaches men had had for several years, and cut 55 heads of hair. This year, the two local barbers have agreed to have their heads shaved for the cause.

"We have placed jars for donations in both of the local barber shops," Burkacki said. Wally Hill, a VFW member and barber, as well as another veteran have agreed to lose their hair, beard and mustache if $1,000 is collected by Sunday.

"We are we well on our way," Burkacki said. Barbers ask that those coming in for a haircut arrive at the fund-raiser with clean hair.

No. 2-ranked Northville slides by Spartans, 4-3

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson put together spirited back-to-back Friday night efforts against the state's top two ranked boys hockey teams in Division 1 - but have nothing to show for it. After falling a week earlier (Jan. 5) to No. 1 Novi-Detroit Catholic Central, 3-2, the Spartans suffered a similar one-goal fate seven days later against No. 2-rated Northville, 4-3, at the Novi Ice Rink. Northville is now 11-1 overall and leads the KLAAs Central

Division at 7-0

The Mustangs, outshooting Stevenson 12-2, led 2-1 after one period on goals by Derek Raymond and Jake Atkinson.

Stevenson's John Vella countered with his 11th of the season on a tap-in off a cross-ice pass from Trevor Baruzzini with Evan Malick also drawing an assist.

"Northville played well, they came out strong and had us on their heels - give them credit," Stevenson coach David Mitchell said. "It was a matter of us relaxing, relying on what we had practiced, stay within our systems, play within ourselves and not try to get too much at once. Once we got relaxed, we played pretty good hockey."

Northville carried a 4-2 lead into the final period on a pair of goals by Wes Gates, while Stevenson senior defenseman Tyler Vines notched his first of the season on a slap shot from just inside the blue line with Jake Wilson and Matt Fox assisting.

Things then got interesting with 10:56 to go in the game as Cole Rochowiak scored on a power-play goal with assists going again to Wilson and Fox.

"I thought we played well to start, the puck was deep in their end and we were able to create turnovers and get some good scoring chances," Northville coach Clint Robert said. "But with a two-goal lead we got too defensive and I thought we got away from what we did earlier. Give credit to Stevenson."

Despite being outshot 9-3 in the final stanza, Northville was able to stave off the 10th-ranked Spartans, who slipped to 6-5-1 overall and 3-3-1 in the Central.

"They have a long history of having a good hockey programs," Robert said of Stevenson. "I think they're one of the top five teams (in Division 1) and I knew they wouldn't lay down. The next goal was anybody's game and they came out on all cylinders in the third period. We were lucky to hang on."

Northville goaltender Ted Keranen had 17 saves, while Stevenson's Danny Sager made 20 stops.

Sidelines

Ladywood falls

Jessi Franz, a 6-foot-1 sophomore forward, scored 22 points Friday night as two-time defending state Class C girls basketball champion Saginaw Nouvel downed visiting Livonia Ladywood, 49-30. The Blazers held All-Stater Jenny Ryan to 11 points, but Franz dominated inside as the Panthers, who bolted out to a 14-4 first-quarter lead improved to 8-2 overall.

"She lit us up, we couldn't not defend her in the post," Ladywood coach Pat Cannon said of Franz. "They ran a 2-2-1 press to perfection. They play on a smaller court and it's tough to move around. Our bad shooting (25 percent from the field) and their press were not a good mix."

Mary Fitzgerald paced Ladywood (4-6) with nine points.

Collins gets award

Schoolcraft College sophomore point-guard Brittany Collins was named NJCAA Division II Women's Player of the Week after breaking the school record for assists last week.

In a 110-64 win over Flint Mott Community College (Jan. 4), the 5-foot Collins recorded 13 assists to tie her own school record, followed by 14 assists in a 96-33 win over Kirtland (Jan. 6) to break the record.

Collins averaged 10.7 points, 6.3 rebounds and 10.7 assists per game for the week and has helped the Lady Ocelots to a No. 5-ranking in Division II.

Murphy saluted

Livonia Clarenceville's Kevin Murphy was recently named Regional Athletic Director of the Year by the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association.

Murphy, who has worked in the Clarenceville Schools for 10 years, will be among 14 administrators honored March 23 during the MIAAA's annual Mid-Winter Conference in Traverse City.

Murphy, native of Bradford, Ohio and graduate of Wright State University, served as a physical education and health teacher at Clarenceville for five years (2000-2005). He also was an assistant football coach on the Trojans' Division 5 state runner-up team in 2001 and coached varsity basketball for six years winning a Class B district crown and Metro Conference title.

He also received in Masters in Athletic Administration from Wayne State in 2004 and also currently serves as an assistant principal at the middle school.

"Kevin has been an outstanding member of the high school staff and is dedicated to serving the students of this community," Clarenceville Superintendent of Schools Pamela Sweet said. "He sets high expectations for all students and works cooperatively with staff members."

Churchill plugged into Novi, 1-1

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The benefits of a tie certainly outweighed any loss Friday night for both the Livonia Churchill and Novi boys hockey teams.

Senior Ken Masiarczyk picked up a puck just inside the blue line and ripped a slap shot into the upper right-hand corner with 8:38 remaining in the final period to give Churchill a 1-1 draw with the Wildcats.

After a scoreless opening period where Novi had a 11-6 shot advantage, the Wildcats continued to apply even more pressure in the second period and cashed in.

Evan Dixon scored unassisted when he won the draw off right face-off circle, controlled the puck, and slid wrist shot while falling to ice past a stunned Churchill netminder Adrian Motta at the 7:02 mark.

Novi certainly carried the play through the first two periods, outshooting the Chargers, 23-12.

"We out-chanced them most of the game and we were in their zone more - we had our chances, but just didn't capitalize," Novi coach Todd Krygier said. "We had one-on-zeros and two-on-ones four or five times and their goalie came up big."

With the deadlock, Novi is now 9-3-2 overall and 4-2-1 in the KLAAs Central Division.

"I won't lie, we're not satisfied," Krygier said. "We had plenty of opportunities. Their goalie won it for them. The kid (Motta) did a great job, but our goalie (Michael Pesendorfer) made some key saves for us as well."

"It was a good high school hockey game. Both teams deserve credit for how hard they worked and played."

Churchill, however, owned the third period outshooting the Wildcats by a 10-1 margin. And the Chargers nearly won it with nine seconds remaining when Pesendorfer stopped a short back-hand attempt by Steve Klisz.

"The third period we talked about keeping things simple," Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said. "We had a lot of unforced errors the first two periods. The third period we did a good job of going north and south with the puck."

"What kids want to do now is the pretty stuff, made the extra pass. But sometimes good-old fashioned work is the best remedy."

Once again Motta came up big for Chargers.

"A.D. (Adrian Motta) played phenomenal," Mazzoni said. "The puck was in our end more than theirs, but the bottom line is that scoreboard said 1-1."

Krygier's team reacted afterwards as if they had lost, but the Novi coach put the tie in perspective.

"The objective was to win the game, but we also wanted to compete," he said. "Last year we lost to them 7-1. Pete's (Mazzoni) always got a great program. We're playing a lot better, and because of our personnel, we're competing more."

Mazzoni, meanwhile, also sees an elevation in Novi's play this season.

"They're much improved," he said. "They play the way Todd played as a player - gritty, stick-on-stick in the gaps and they're aggressive."

Stevenson rules dual, sinks Rocks

It's still relatively early in the boys swim season, but Livonia Stevenson coach Jeff Shoemaker and Salem coach Chuck Olson are starting to get better read on their teams.

As expected, state-ranked Stevenson rolled to a 117-69 dual-meet victory Thursday night over the host Rocks as senior Chris Behler figured in four first-place finishes.

Stevenson is now 3-2 overall after starting out the season with dual meet wins last month over Monroe and Beverly Hills Detroit Country Day before BOYS SWIMMING losing last week to the state's top-two ranked teams in Division I, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Saline.

"I think we're on track - but we have good days and bad days," Shoemaker said. "We're ranked sixth in the state right now (in Division I). I feel we can be top four, but we've got to prove it. Northville is our biggest adversary. We have a meet with them in three weeks (Thursday, Feb. 5 at home)."

Behler took firsts in the 50-yard freestyle (23.44) and 100 butterfly (57.52).

He also anchored the first-place 200 medley relay team (1:43.1), which also included Kellen Schoff, Joey Wingett and Michael Cruce.

The quartet of Behler, Aaren Marecki, Ryan Scott and Cruce also captured the 200 freestyle relay in 1:32.3.

Other Stevenson individual firsts came from Jeff Kinsvater, 1-meter diving (221.40 points); Kellen Schoff, 100 freestyle (50.18); and Wingett, 100 breaststroke (1:03.95).

Stevenson's 400 freestyle relay team is Cruce, Marecki, Charles Turlo and Kellen Schoff also emerged victorious.

"We need a couple more state cuts," Shoemaker said. "We've got all our relay cuts. We have a big senior group. To be in the top five at state the key is that all three relays have to score."

Salem, despite slipping to 0-2 on the year, had some noteworthy performers led by returning state placer Adam Seroka, who captured the 200 individual medley (2:00.84) and 100 backstroke (56.57).

Max Mills took the 200 freestyle

Area hoop games left out in the cold

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It was only appropriate that hockey was the main course Friday night on the area high school sports plate.

School cancellations on Friday due to dangerously cold temperatures in the Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland and Livonia public school districts caused postponements for several boys and girls basketball games, but the indoor ponds remained frozen and prep hockey played on (see related stories).

Boys basketball games called off Jan. 16 and to be made up at a later date includes: South Lyon East at Livonia Churchill (rescheduled for Thursday, Feb. 12); Livonia Franklin at South Lyon (to be determined); Westland John Glenn at Livonia Stevenson (TBD); and Wayne at Northville (TBD).

The only are boys team to play Friday was Lutheran High Westland.

Among the girls basketball games called off included: Lutheran Westland at Livonia Clarenceville (rescheduled for Thursday, Jan. 29); Churchill at South Lyon East (rescheduled for Thursday, Feb. 12); South Lyon at Franklin (TBD); Stevenson at John Glenn (TBD); and Northville at Wayne (TBD).

Livonia Ladywood did play its scheduled game Friday at Saginaw Nouvel.

Monster game Olech's 20 points, 21 boards lift MU

Stevenson tames Lions on Rochowiak's 4 goals

Cole Rochowiak pumped in four goals, including a natural hat trick, to go along with an assist to lead Livonia Stevenson to a 6-0 KLAACentral Division boys hockey win Wednesday night over visiting South Lyon at Edgar Arena.

Stevenson improved to 6-4-1 overall and 3-2-1 in the KLAACentral, the Lions fall to 6-3-1 and 2-2-1.

Rochowiak's linemates R.J. Kierdorf, who had four assists, and Justin Shureb, who added a goal and two assists, also enjoyed productive nights for the Spartans, who outshot the Lions 25-17.

Kyle Gabrielson also notched his first high school goal for Stevenson, which led 2-0 after one period and 3-0 after two periods.

Richie Dunphy went all the way in goal to notch his second shutout of the season for the Spartans.

(1:57.54) and Noah Santer placed first in the 500 freestyle (5:03.57), each edging Stevenson's Daniel Schoff.

"They (Stevenson) were pretty nice to us tonight," Salem coach Chuck Olson said. "We're just looking forward and we'll keep getting better. We just have to figure out who can do what and where."

Salem was coming off its annual Rock-Kilgore Invitational on Saturday where the top-ranked teams in Division 1 (Pioneer) and Division 2 (Zeeland) finished one-two followed by Stevenson, Northville, Salem and Canton.

"We've got a lot of ninth- and 10th-graders - only three seniors," Olson said. "(Adam) Seroka, who is a sophomore, is doing well. And (Noah) Santer, who won the 500 freestyle, is only a ninth grader."

"(Matthew) Collingwood has qualified (for state) in the 500 free. We made him swim the 50 and 100 freestyles tonight - He hasn't qualified yet for the 200 freestyle and sprints aren't really his events, but we're working on his starts and coming off the walls."

Stevenson, meanwhile, is the favorite to win the KLAACentral Conference title this year, but the Spartans will face some stiff competition in their own (Central) division (the Central).

Before joining the KLAACentral for the 2008-09 season, Stevenson won last year's final Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

"Stevenson is still the clear-cut favorite," Olson said. "Then Northville is the next best. And South Lyon (Unified) just defeated Novi, and had a good meet."

C'ville athletic teams feed off each other on court, gridiron

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Very few things in life feel as good as being recognized for accomplishments.

For Livonia Clarenceville two-sport athletes Jeremy Gainer, Darryl Whitaker and Levonte Brooks, that kind of attention followed their football success in 2008. Now, they want nothing more to get another taste with the Trojans' varsity boys basketball team.

"The football players playing basketball, we just want to continue our legacy," said Gainer, a powerful presence with both teams. "Basically just leaving our name and our mark on the school."

"We want to show that we didn't only do it in football, we're going to continue doing it in basketball. And just continue where we left off last year and hopefully go further than that."

According to Whitaker, the quarterback for the Metro Conference runners-up, and then capturing the playoff opener brings adulation in the Clarenceville community.

"I'm very proud, everywhere I go people ask about the football team," Whitaker said. "... We get noticed from football."

Brooks said the buzz also is being felt at the high school itself, as students anticipate something special come basketball playoff time.

"Everyone expects a lot from our team, they expect us to be good," explained Brooks. "Especially coming off football and having a great season for basketball last year, they expect us to repeat what we did."

The beginning of the current cage campaign, unfortunately, isn't following the script. Clarenceville is saddled with a disappointing 1-5 record, albeit against some of the area's powerhouses.

That kind of schedule, emphasized head coach Corey McKendry, is to toughen up the team ahead of the state tournament. In 2007-08, the Trojans romped to the Metro title and finished 18-3 only to be bounced in the first postseason contest.

BUILD THE MOMENTUM

Having early struggles will soon be forgotten if the Trojans start building toward March Madness.

"Last year, we lost to (Detroit) Renaissance in the first-round of the districts," Gainer said. "We're going to look at it like that's where we left off, that's our starting point for this year."

"These games right now, they count, but it doesn't really count 'til we get as far as we were before."

Whitaker said the Trojans "may not go 18-3, but we're going to be ready as a team" because of the tough schedule.

"Last year, we played all the Metro teams first and we were just walking through it," he noted. "And, next thing we know we're in the playoffs and it's a different (tougher) game."

For the trio, along with a fourth football-basketball player in Benjamin Watts, going through the pressure-packed grinder of state football playoffs as Clarenceville did in November will help them deal with the bright lights they hope will follow them in a couple months.

"Playing in the games and playing at the faster level in the playoffs, led me to know sports wise and athletic wise how to play in big games," Whitaker continued. "So now in basketball, when it comes down to a big game, I'm going to be ready for it."

MIND GAMES

Brooks added that mental toughness "will help you in everything — sports, school. If you can do it in your mind you have the right mindset, then you can accomplish anything."

The transformation of Clarenceville athletics to an elite status, under the steady guidance of athletic director Kevin Murphy, remains a work in progress.

But McKendry and head varsity football coach Ryan Irish have prided themselves on instilling a winning philosophy with players of both high-profile sports in recent seasons.

"We're in a real fortunate situation to have hard-working kids willing to do whatever it takes to win," McKendry said.

Put Gainer at the top of that list. Gainer's been a workhorse on the gridiron (linebacker, running back) and basketball court since ninth grade and is going to be rewarded with a chance to play college football.

In mid-December, he made a verbal commitment to become a Michigan State Spartan.

Gainer said the stability in the coaching ranks since he started at the high school cannot be discounted.

"Those two coaches (Irish and McKendry), they've been with me since I was a freshman and that's helped out a lot," Gainer said. "It's helped to know those are the same ones talking in your ear and coaching you up every day."

"... You build that relationship and you start to actually listen to them and trust what they're saying. If key players in both sports do that, other players start to look at that and say they're going to do it too."

SPINOFF

McKendry agrees with the players that success in one sport definitely can carry over to the other.

"In football, in the fourth quarter you've got to really get after it and be physically tough," he stressed. "And it carries over to the basketball court, with things like rebounding and boxing out."

"Things that are more about having the toughness and drive that I think football gives our kids."

No matter how the basketball season plays out, evidence is mounting that the excitement about Clarenceville athletics is moving toward what it was like during the Tim Shaw days.

"It's a fun time to be at Clarenceville," McKendry pointed out. "This group of seniors is just a great group, the kind of class that maybe doesn't around all the time."

"We're just excited to have them."

Program makes therapy play for children with autism

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
O & E STAFF WRITER

Matthew Cripps lifts his arm nearly in sync with the box on the screen. Only a few months ago the 12-year-old Livonia boy had trouble raising his hands to the top of his head, then occupational therapist Teresa Garland introduced Core:Tx into their twice-weekly sessions. The tool made work play for Matthew, who has a high-functioning form of autism.

Core:Tx, a software and hardware system, trains the brain by visually tracking movement through a sensor on the wrist. After two months of using the game-like program the sixth grade student was able to wash his hair independently, a task his mother never thought possible.

"I've seen improvements in dressing himself," said Shawne Cripps. "He has problems with buttons and zippers. He's doing better synchronizing arms and legs in swimming. He's more socially aware, wanting to get involved with kids. He's starting to initiate conversations. He usually hangs around in the background."

Shawne Cripps first knew something was wrong with Matthew's development at 18 months when he didn't speak.

Diagnosed with autism at age 2 1/2, Matthew is no stranger to occupational and speech therapy. He started working with Garland last May to resolve a number of issues including running into objects and people. As with many autistic children he was unaware of his personal space until visiting Garland at Brain

Tune-ups, her Ann Arbor business, and Building Bridges in Plymouth. Since that time he has gained two years of age functionality in his arms.

"Children with autism don't always know where the arms and legs are in space. Core tracks his arms for him," said Garland of Plymouth. "Matthew also has a wide gait. We're now trying to retrain his hip muscles so they do their job correctly."

Garland originally challenged Matthew with exercises provided by Interactive Metronome, another computer-based game. On Tuesday she demonstrated the program at Building Bridges, a therapy center for children with developmental disabilities. The green circles on the screen indicate Matthew's ability to match the beat to the sound he hears through headphones. Metronome uses a hand trigger to improve motor planning and sequencing processes. Motor planning and sequencing are critical to functions ranging from walking to organizing sentences.

"Metronome helps regulate time in the primitive part of the brain that feeds everything from movement to thinking to senses," said Garland. "Timing in the brain is a very critical component in our ability to do everything. Metronome gets the brain in tune and the body working. With 11- and 12-year-old kids with autism Metronome wakes them up enough to get them involved in their studies and other treatments. It's the age when kids start to become social. It helps them developmentally. They're learning to become aware of themselves. Boys in fifth grade are noticing girls, starting to worry about clothes. Kids with autism don't pay attention to that. With Metronome they suddenly care about a lot of stuff."

Matthew finds it difficult to stand or sit still once he steps away from the game-like program. Just like any pre-teen, he likes to be involved whether playing sports or video games, eating fast food or watching an action movie. Before long he's asking to go to the gym where jumping on a trampoline decreases anxiety and builds balance.

"He's doing a lot more things," said Cripps. "He's been in a swim program and has been able to participate and succeed."

Checkups help keep kids well

Keeping a child well is as important as receiving treatment when he or she is sick. Preventive care is quite different than "sick child care". Preventive care allows the health care provider to review the child's growth and development, give shots, provide tests and exams, and answer a parent's questions.

Oakland County Health Division's Child Health Clinics offer free well-care services for children birth through school entry. Children must be enrolled in the program by two years of age. Skilled public health nurses provide a variety of services ranging from immunizations to physical examinations, growth and developmental testing, information on health and safety issues, lab testing, and guidance and referrals on behavioral, learning and health problems.

Oakland County Health Division Clinics are offered at sites in Lake Orion, Pontiac, Southfield, and Walled Lake. Families without well-care coverage through their health insurance provider are eligible for this service.

For information on enrollment, call (248) 858-1311 (North Oakland County), (248) 424-7066 (Southern Oakland County), (248) 926-3341 (Western Oakland County), or (888) 350-0900, ext. 84003. (Holly residents).

Making every moment count

Nearly 1,300 people turned out to hear West Bloomfield writer Jeffrey Zaslow speak at Northwood University. Zaslow co-authored the book, 'The Last Lecture,' with the late Randy Pausch. Published by Hyperion in April 2008, the book became a New York Times No. 1 best-seller.

Dads learn valuable lessons at conference

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
O&E STAFF WRITER

Chris Edwards is excited about Jeffrey Zaslow giving the keynote speech at the Midwest Fathers Conference Saturday, Jan. 24, at North Farmington High School. This year's theme, Making Every Moment Count, focuses on helping dads improve parenting skills in workshops ranging from discipline strategies to setting priorities as a father and husband, grandfathering, love and logic, divorced dads' issues, and the joys of African-American fatherhood.

Zaslow, a West Bloomfield writer, co-authored The Last Lecture with Randy Pausch who wanted to leave a message for his children to live life to the fullest. Pausch was a terminally ill professor at Carnegie Mellon University when his speech was heard by millions around the world after YouTube made it available on the Internet. The first 300 registrants receive an autographed copy of the book released by Hyperion not long before Pausch died of pancreatic cancer in July 2008 at age 47. He left his wife, Jai, and three young children.

"We don't know how many moments we have," said Edwards of Farmington Hills. "Too often as a dad we say I'll do it next year. Kids are going to grow up way too fast."

Edwards, who co-founded the conference, resigned as chief meteorologist for Fox 2 about 18 months ago to spend more time with his son, Chase, 12, and daughter Summer, 9. When he isn't working on the conference he co-founded or with Partnership for Dads which sponsors the event, Edwards fills in occasionally at the television station.

"It's a very energizing day," said Edwards.

Jeffrey Zaslow (right) co-authored 'The Last Lecture' with the late Randy Pausch.

"Every year I make it a point to sit in the workshops focused on giving men practical information they can use from the moment they go home. There's a session each year devoted to dads and daughters, Last year I came away with how I need to be very careful with my words about body image, talking about the beauty of every kind within her. All come away with something different."

LAST LECTURE

Zaslow will share lessons learned while writing the book with Pausch. Even though he gave about 50 lectures last year, Zaslow always finds time for his three teenage daughters with wife Sherry Margolis, a co-

Go to the North American International Auto Show to see the vehicles and talk to the models and then put it all into historical perspective with Margery Krevsky's book, Sirens of Chrome: The Enduring Allure of Auto Show Models.

Krevsky, a Bloomfield Hills resident who owns Productions Plus, a Bingham Farm-based agency that supplies auto show talent, will sign her coffee table-style book during the show, which runs daily through Sunday, Jan. 25, at Cobo Center in downtown Detroit. Packed with rare photos, programs and posters from private collections and corporate files, the book traces the history of the auto show model from the early 1900s — when images of mythological goddesses and sirens first appeared in vehicle marketing materials and as hood ornaments — to present day, when product information specialists of both sexes entice customers with both their knowledge of the vehicle, as well as their appearance.

Stories highlight the auto show displays, event hoopla, vehicle advertising campaigns, celebrity spokespersons and model changes — both human and automotive — over the past century.

Inauguration a time to reflect on race relations

While Ronalee Bowman believes the inauguration of Barack Obama as the first mixed race president on Tuesday is a monumental occasion, we still have a long way to go. Granted, progress has been made since Bowman founded PLAID (People of Livonia Addressing Issues of Diversity) in 1992. Back then she couldn't find a local organization devoted to ensuring the equality of people of different cultures, races and religions after marrying her husband, Hugh, a black man from the Caribbean.

In all fairness, Livonia was much like the rest of the suburbs, yet most denounced in the press because it was the whitest in the country in terms of population. Thanks to the prodding of PLAID members, Livonia is changing. It still isn't a melting pot like Canton, but now has a program to honor legendary civil rights movement leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. this year on Monday, Jan. 19. PLAID continues to do its part in eliminating prejudices. Last February, the proactive group hosted a four-week series of well-attended racism workshops at Stevenson High School. St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Church has held diversity programs as well.

In an e-mail to the Observer, Bowman writes "The election of a mixed-race president is a positive step in race relations, but we cannot assume that it is an end to racism as there is still much more to be done on a local level as well as nationally. I think we need to get to know each other as individuals instead of lumping people together by race, culture or religion. When we get to know people who are different than we are, we realize that we have much more in common and can focus on our similarities rather than our differences."

Colleen Mills shares Bowman's beliefs that's why she and husband George joined PLAID 10 years ago. The Livonia woman is president of Citizens for Peace.

"I see us as all united," said Mills. "You can not have peace when you're focusing on differences. This year, Citizens is doing an essay contest on peace to engage young people. PLAID donated $300 for Citizens for Peace activities including the essay contest. It's a wonderful partnership. We've raised a lot of awareness."

Scott Heinzman sadly remembers the 1967 Detroit race riots and that's why he helped Bowman start PLAID. The tense relations between blacks and whites resulted in the clash that burned the city. When I think back to those scary times I can still hear the gunfire downtown from my street in Livonia. It's going to take all of us to continue building bridges between the races.

"Having grown up in Livonia I felt there were definitely strong bigoted attitudes in our city," said Heinzman, who graduated from Franklin High School in 1979. "I still feel there's a lot of work to be done, I'm hopeful. People (age) 20-something are far less racist. I think younger people have a greater sense of justice. When I was born in the '60s there were states where you couldn't marry someone of a different race. Today the anger is more right now for Middle Eastern immigrants. We need leaders that can address these issues."

Heinzman's hope is that one day PLAID becomes unnecessary. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had a dream too but didn't live to see his children living "in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character."

"I hope we get to a point where we're not going to have scorn for anybody except for their behaviors," said Heinzman, co-chairman of PLAID.

anchor at Fox 2 News. "I hope I'm more patient and appreciative," said Zaslow. "Time is all we have and one day it's less than what they think. I admire the fathers who get up on a Saturday morning to attend the conference to learn more about being a better father. I'm thrilled there are fathers out there like that."

Zaslow is glad he took time to drive to Pittsburgh to hear Pausch give his last lecture and write a column for the Wall Street Journal. Zaslow could have done the interview over the phone. The actual experience was so inspiring he decided to write the book which went on to become a No. 1 New York Times best-seller.

"I wanted to tell the story and about Randy as a father. He didn't want to write the book. He was conflicted about it cause he wanted to spend time with his kids. He ended up doing interviews with me while riding his bike so he didn't have to take any time from his children. I hope I can be brave as Randy was at the end and take the lessons and use them as a father. I would always send e-mails from readers and links to Web sites to Randy about the book. He said stop Googling my name and go hug your kids. Randy was never interested in accolades. The book was full of advice he wanted to give his kids."

VARIETY OF SPEAKERS

Edwards looks forward to hearing the dads and daughters talk by Drew Yanke, Tom Haller on the best discipline strategies, and Bob Phillips on transitioning to middle and high school. Yanke is a regular speaker for the father's program at Beaumont Hospital; Haller is a child, adolescent and couples therapist as well as a nationally known author and speaker on parenting issues; and Phillips is dean of students at Flint Powers Catholic High School.

Phillips' words of wisdom for parents are based on studies of children in the transition period between elementary and middle school, and middle and high school. He became interested in the subject while dean of students at Orchard Lake St. Mary. He has a son Mitchell, 14, and daughter Mara, 12, with wife Shari. He's concerned about the trend of teens experimenting with prescription drugs from the medicine cabinet.

"Research shows students are at greatest risk for making risky choices, alcohol and substance abuse experimentation, getting in with the wrong peers during the transitional period," said Phillips, a Waterford resident who grew up in Berkley. "These dads know how to parent and what is right, I empower and reaffirm them. Kids need parents. They don't need friends. If my kids are going to a party at someone's house I make it a point to call and introduce myself. It might be embarrassing for children but I find they're well-received by the other parent. The more parents connect with each other the more we can ensure our kids' safety."

Modeling on auto show circuit demands smarts and stamina

BY SHARON DARGAY
OGE STAFF WRITER

Petrik Kowalski

Bobbie Petrik Kowalski is living her dream.

Cloud 9 comes complete with an occasional sore back, tired feet and overtaxed vocal cords, but the Canton woman says they're a mere inconvenience compared to all of the benefits she receives working in the glamorous and glitzy world of auto show modeling.

"The good outweighs the aches and pains," said Kowalski, a 10-year veteran of the auto show circuit who spends six to eight hours a day on her feet — in heels — pitching Honda nationwide.

"I would miss this job if it were no longer here. I love who I work for. Whoever is your agent can make or break how you feel about the job. Productions Plus treats us so well," she said, adding that Honda also regards its models "like family."

ON THE ROAD

Kowalski, who is married and has two teenagers and two stepchildren, has worked auto shows in San Francisco, Calif., Miami, Fla., and Indianapolis, Ind., this season. After the North American International Auto Show in Detroit, she'll head to Philadelphia, Pa., Chicago, Ill., and New York City, N.Y., among other towns. She'll work events at dealerships and take other work through her agent when the season ends.

During the shows, she'll serve as both a narrator, describing cars from atop a revolving platform, and as a product information specialist, who will answer questions one-on-one in the Honda display area.

"When you work for Honda you have to know the whole line. There are well over a dozen and you have to know each (vehicle model) level."

Kowalski, a Michigan State University graduate, enjoys talking about alternative fuels. The tailors her twice-hourly narrations to the audience around the car turntable.

"I'm not scripted at all, only because I know the car inside and out. I can get up there and start with what's under the hood. I improv it."

Growing up in Redford, Kowalski "always wanted to be that girl" on the platform, standing next to a car and wearing glamorous clothing. As a Honda representative, she wears a business suit or a business casual outfit. "Back in the day, girls used to stand up there and smile in their gowns. Today you have to be intelligent, as well," she noted.

SWITCHING CAREERS

Kowalski worked as an accountant for eight years, all while taking acting classes, modeling and working various promotional gigs — from checking VIP wristbands backstage at Aerosmith concerts to performing a dance routine at the Parade Company's annual fireworks VIP Rooftop Party.

Her supportive family helped the then single mother while she prepared for a job change and later, landed the Honda account, launching a new career in 1999.

The 40-year-old now also credits her husband, Bob, for "pulling the weight" at home while she's on the road with her "extended family," the other Honda product specialists and narrators. While he's at home cooking dinner or tending to their children, she might be lounging on a Miami beach waiting for her work day to start.

When her 17-year-old daughter talks about following in mom's footsteps, Kowalski cringes a little, envisioning her firstborn on the road. But she is helping her with resume and head shot photos, all while insisting that she attend college, as well.

"The whole job is about having personality. You do have to love people and love travel, too."

Stop by the Honda exhibit and see Kowalski in action at the North American International Auto Show, at Cobo Center in Detroit. The show runs 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., through Saturday, Jan. 24. It is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 25. Tickets are $12 for adults; $6 for senior citizens, age 65 and older and children, age 7-12. Children under age 6, accompanied by a parent, are admitted free.

Certificate programs prepare students for health care jobs

Madonna University's Office of Continuing Education and Professional Studies is offering 13-week or less medical certificate programs that will qualify students for immediate employment. Students can earn an EKG technician, pharmacy technician or medical billing and coding certificate. Pharmacy technician jobs, as well as positions in the field of medical billing and coding, are listed among the most in-demand occupations on the state of Michigan's web site www.michigan.gov/healthcareers.

The winter schedule for Madonna's medical certificate programs runs 6-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays from Feb. 17 to April 16, for EKG technician; Mondays and Wednesdays Feb. 16 to April 13 for pharmacy technician, and Feb. 16 to May 20 for medical billing and coding.

Registration deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 6.

All courses prepare students to take national board exams and apply for entry-level positions. According to Joan Stephens, director of Madonna's Office of Continuing Education and Professional Studies, approximately 90 percent of students immediately pass their board exams after completing the programs.

As part of these classes, students are able to attend free workshops at Madonna University for resume writing and job interviewing tips. Upon graduation, Stephens and the course instructors continue to work with students, assisting with their employment search. "After providing our students with a graduation pack filled with job search tools, we follow-up with them and provide job postings," said Stephens. "We do everything we can to ensure that they put their training to good use and are employed as soon as possible."

All classes are offered at Madonna's main campus in Livonia, located at the intersection of Schoolcraft and Levan Roads, off I-96. A detailed course schedule and online registration are available at www.madonna.edu by clicking on Future Students, then Continuing Education & Professional Studies. BOOK said Krevsky, who founded Productions Plus with former auto show model Harriet Fuller, in 1991. "There are so many stories connected with the auto shows. I started thinking, what if I connect them to a picture? I started to think of stories to go with pictures. I thought it might be interesting to do a history."

She jotted down ideas and began searching for photos, first through the National Automotive History Collection at the Detroit Public Library, and then from corporate and private collections.

"It took a year to conceptualize. There were so many pictures. That was the hard thing to do, to put them in order, to get permission to use them."

In some cases, Krevsky knew exactly what she wanted. "I knew I wanted a picture from the 60s ... there was an incident at a press conference where a model was mauled by a lion at BMW. I had heard the story. It was difficult to find the picture."

The black and white shot on page 112 of the book, shows the 21-year-old woman in short lederhosen, sitting with her arm around a live lion on the floor of the New York Auto Show in 1966. The accompanying copy says the animal locked its teeth on her thigh seconds later. The model survived, her leg intact, but a decade later took her own life.

Krevsky had heard another story, about a concept car called the Cadillac Debutant. It had debuted at a show in the 1950s, showing off an interior of 187 "Somali leopard pelts" and hardware plated in 24-karat gold.

The photo, found on page 68 of Sirens, shows a model seated in the $35,000 vehicle, wearing a suit with matching leopard cuffs and collar.

— which was marketed as a woman's car — on their 10,000-mile trip across the country, advocating for the vote. Along the way the pair changed tires, replaced spark plugs and repaired its engine during an era when women still wore ankle-length dresses and tight corsets.

"They left wearing their vintage Victorian clothing and by the time they had finished the trip, their corsets and bustles had bit the dust."

Krevsky was instrumental in the evolution of auto show models, changing the glamor and cheesecake image to a more sophisticated look that complemented the client's product line. She also gave voice to the models, training them as product information specialists able to entice customers with facts.

"I went up to one of them (a model) and said 'Can you tell me about the car?' She said she wasn't allowed to talk about the car," Krevsky said, recalling a visit to an early 1980s auto show. "I thought to myself, there is some opportunity here. What if everyone could be both attractive and a gearhead?"

She turned her attention from the local fashion show scene to the auto show industry. Her revolutionary ideas — training models to become thoroughly versed in the vehicle and matching wardrobe to the brand — met with "a great deal of resistance" at first.

"Pontiac gave us the first opportunity, Nissan the next. They gave me one year to let me make my point. Historically, the time was right."

An exhibition featuring the "Sirens of Chrome" continues through April 30, at the Detroit Public Library's Rose and Robert Skillman Branch in Detroit. "Sirens of Chrome," a hardcover published by Momentum Books LLC, is available through select Barnes & Noble, and Borders bookstores, as well as online at Amazon.com and MomentumBooks.com. It costs $24.95.

GETTING READY TO CHANGE

WORKWISE
by Mildred L. Culp

The fact that something's wrong with your work has been gnawing at you for several months -- or longer. You've pinpointed the problem in your situation. You've decided to change. How do you get from the photography." However, he found work lacking in meaning. "I stumbled into recognizing that people can find purpose much more easily outside of work than inside of it," he explains. "While working, they can go out and experiment with activities to get the essence of their unique calling." He turned to photography, surfing, even a house exchange with a family in Paris, among other things. For him, the list represents an element of fun he re-infused into his life.

Bacon mentions a speech writer for a banking executive. He decided to attend classes at night at a seminary and found that he enjoyed them on their own terms. Meanwhile, opportunities began to present themselves. He became a minister, an occupation he'd considered in his mid-20s but hadn't pursued. When he originally took the classes, he couldn't have predicted an outcome.

METHOD
Bacon offers a new twist on the idea that doing something completely different often sparks ideas. He endorses process by indicating that this must be done over time. You become yourself. "If you start doing something you like," he says, "you naturally do more of it. Experimenting with small things will move you toward your sense of purpose without your having to make the process difficult or big."

There are two typical mid-career conundrums through which he guides clients. The first involves deciding whether boredom is the problem or whether the work is acceptable. Then, identify five activities "you always wanted to try," he recommends. "The more trivial the better. Find the quickest, cheapest way to experience them. If you like one, do it more so that time slips away. You're looking for flow and joy. Find ways to work in the activity. If you're called to it, you'll learn it faster and enjoy people you meet. They're the ones who'll help you make a bigger change."

If, on the other hand, you're having physical symptoms from your work, Bacon advises that taking some simple steps will help you move on:

- Continue to work in a new/old way so that you have income.
- Return to a previous job. For example, if you were a Katherine Riley, at-home mom, is trying to decide how to move back into work. Allan Bacon of Charlotte, N.C., is interviewing her here for Avocationist.com L.L.C.

— Return to a previous job. For example, if you were a manager, consider becoming an individual contributor to diminish stress.

— Experiment "to give you the room mentally to take this on."
He comments that "it might seem a little silly, but it happens pretty quickly. Opportunities will present themselves and you'll see them this time." You'll also be prepared to act on them.

Saturn Aura Miserly On Gas Mileage

CAReport

By Kevin Koloian
For Avanti NewsFeatures and AllOpinionsAlltheTime.com

Foreseeing a seismic shift to fuel efficient vehicles, the people at Saturn shook up the Aura's model lineup for 2009, making fuel misers happy at the oil companies' expense.

Now, getting 33 miles per gallon on the highway, Aura 4-cylinder models lead competitors in fuel economy. And with the 4-cylinder XR joining the pack, the Aura is sporty and economical.

With the XR, fuel efficiency-minded customers can save at the pump and get standard amenities such as a six-speed automatic transmission, leather seating, alloy wheels and Bluetooth hands-free phone connectivity.

For a true hands-on driving experience, the all-new 4-cylinder XR is equipped with a six-speed automatic transmission with TAPShift, which features steering wheel-mounted paddles that allows drivers to manually change gears.

Saturn is offering a sport sedan that gets the best non-hybrid highway fuel economy numbers in its class, while keeping the ample room, style and comfort that have made the Aura a hot seller.

Both the base Aura XE and top-level XR 4-cylinder models achieve 33 mpg highway and 26 mpg city/highway combined.

Four Aura models will be available, including the 2.4-liter I-4 XE and XR; the 3.6-liter V6 XR and the best fuel saver of them all, the 2.4-liter I-4 Aura, which features the GM Hybrid system.

The hybrid version features a small electric motor that starts the gas engine and adds small amounts of power under high load conditions. The gas engine produces 164 horsepower by itself and a net 169 horsepower when the electric kicks in.

Unlike other hybrid setups, the Green Line offers full electric propulsion only up to about 3 miles per hour -- the Altima and Camry hybrids can get up to almost 30 mph. Therefore, city gas mileage isn't as good as its competitors.

This system is not as advanced as the company's two-mode hybrid system, which is offered in General Motors' full-size SUVs.

The new Saturn Aura gets 33 mpg on the highway for 2009.

Aura XE and XR 4-cylinder models are rated at 169 horsepower and the Aura XR V6 model pushes out 252 horsepower V6. It is the only V6 powerplant available on the Aura, as the 3.5-liter V6 is no longer an option on the XE model.

All 4-cylinder models except for the Hybrid are equipped with the Hydra-Matic 6T40 six-speed automatic transmission. The V6 Aura model gets the Hydra-Matic 6T70 automatic transmission.

Four-cylinder Auras get 22 miles per gallon in the city and 33 mpg on the highway, while V6 Auras produce 17 city and 26 highway. Fuel economy ratings for the hybrid are 26 city and 34 highway.

Standard on the $21,345-priced, 4-cylinder XE are 17-inch steel wheels and tires, while the new 4-cylinder XR gets alloy wheels. V6-equipped XR models come with 18-inch alloy wheels and performance tires. New for 2009, the Aura Hybrid rides on larger 17-inch alloy wheels with low rolling-resistance tires.

There are four new exterior colors for 2009; Quicksilver, Polar White, Urban Moss and Gold Mist Metallic.

Some major upgrades have also been made for 2009. Both 4-cylinder and V6 XR models get standard leather-appointed heated seats. The Ebony/Morocco Brown interior leather is available on both the 4 cylinder and V6 XR.

Bluetooth hands-free phone technology is standard on Aura XR models and available on XE and hybrid when the Preferred Package is ordered.

Lighting of the Aura's interior is upscale thanks to the gauge cluster that uses LED-lit analog instruments, as well as LEDs projecting an amber glow from the overhead lamp and front door pockets.

For a premium feel and added convenience at night, self-dimming theater lighting illuminates the cabin.

One drawback to the Aura is a slightly smaller interior than its competitors. Passenger volume measures 97.7 cubic feet, still a generous amount of space.

All models come with dual-stage frontal air bags with GM passenger sensing system, head curtain side-impact air bags, front seat-mounted thorax protection air bags, front safety belt pretensioners, LATCH child safety seat anchors, four-wheel disc brakes with ABS, StabiliTrak electronic stability control system and traction control.

The Aura has always been practical, but now thanks to the 4-cylinder offering, the Aura XR is an attractive alternative to its popular Japanese competitors.
