Poor economy delays proposed fitness center

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A delay in plans to demolish the old Quo Vadis theater and build a $5 million fitness center has prompted two local teens to renew their efforts to save the once-plush movie house.

Developers had hoped to tear down the Quo Vadis as early as last summer to make way for a 45,000-square-foot L.A. Fitness Center on Wayne Road, across from Westland Shopping Center.

But the project has stalled amid a persistent economic downturn, and developers on Tuesday received a one-year extension on their site plan from a supportive Westland City Council.

The way Livonia Churchill

High School students Don Gurka and Zachery Gizicki see it, that gives them another chance to try to save the dilapidated Quo Vadis and its unique exterior, designed by the same architect whose projects included the former World Trade Center.

"It does bring color to a busy part of Westland," Gurka told city leaders during a meeting Tuesday, referring to the building's gold frame accented by blue tile.

Gurka, 17, of Livonia and Gizicki, 16, of Westland last year formed the Quo Vadis Preservation Foundation and collected more than 200 signatures from people who want to save the six-screen movie house, open from 1966 to 2002. The teens have suggested that any new development could incorporate the building's design.

Despite their persistence, Gurka and Gizicki were told Tuesday by city leaders that the theater is too rundown to save. Councilman Michael Kehrer also warned that Westland could be slapped with a lawsuit for any attempts to block developers from an appropriate use of the site.

Even so, it appears the L.A. Fitness project has stalled for now, and Councilman Charles Pickering voiced doubt that the project will get started anytime soon.

"I don't expect it to be breaking ground in the next year," he said Tuesday, although he added, "I might be surprised."

Honoring Martin Luther King

City's 11th annual program honors dream and looks to the future

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Lori Wilson remembers a lot about the 1960s. She remembers desegregation and being bused from her black elementary school south of Michigan Avenue to an all-white school north of the thoroughfare.

She remembers her mother taking her to several civil rights marches, including one in 1963 where the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. delivered his "I Have a Dream" speech. It wasn't in Washington, D.C., it was in Detroit where the slain civil rights leader rehearsed his now famous speech.

Sitting in Annapolis Park Church of Christ Monday morning with her two granddaughters and mother, she listened as civic leaders and school children spoke about King's dream and its coming to fruition with tomorrow's swearing-in of Barack Obama as the 44th president of the United States.

But for the Westland resident the celebration Monday was distinctly different than what happened Tuesday.

"Today is for Martin Luther King, he started it all for me," she said. "He was the pioneer, he had foresight. He saw what was coming. He had faith."

Wilson was among a crowd of residents and state, county, local and international officials

Phony photographer faces sentencing for threatening victim

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Westland man who was placed on probation for posing as a photographer, luring a teenage girl to Hines Park and sexually assaulting her has found himself facing new legal troubles.

Milam

Steven Wayne Milam, 29, is facing a new sentencing on Feb. 3 after he pleaded no contest Tuesday in Wayne County Circuit Court to charges he tried to intimidate, bribe or interfere with the 18-year-old victim while the assault case was pending, police Sgt. Michael Harhold said.

Milam has remained jailed even though he was sentenced in October to three years probation for fourth-degree criminal sexual assault. He was accused in June of approaching the girl on a Norwayne subdivision street, offering to pay her to pose as a model and taking her a few days later to Hines Park, where she said he tried to undress her until her screams scared him off.

Milam is facing his new sentencing following allegations he tried to send a letter from jail in September to an ex-girlfriend in Garden City who, according to police, is the mother of one of his children. Milam was charged with asking the woman to write an anonymous letter to the 18-year-old victim, warning that she was being watched and threatening that "bad things" could happen to her and her family unless she dropped the charges, Harhold said.

Milam also wanted the ex-girlfriend to warn the teenager that her picture and personal information could be posted on the Internet unless she heeded the warning, Harhold said.

"The letter never made it to the ex-girlfriend because a (Wayne County) sheriff deputy intercepted it," Harhold said, a development that sparked the latest charges of trying to intimidate the witness.

Milam even cautioned in the letter that the ex-girlfriend should not get her fingerprints on it and that she shouldn't lick the envelope, Harhold said.

Milam could face penalties ranging from probation up to four years in prison when he is sentenced anew on Feb. 3 in front of Wayne County Circuit Judge Diane Hathaway.

Under his earlier sentence in October, Milam was supposed to receive three years probation and be forced to wear a tether for six months after pleading to fourth-degree criminal sexual conduct. He also was warned not to contact the victim.

Milam could have received up to 15 years in prison, if had he been convicted as originally charged with unlawful imprisonment, criminal sexual conduct with intent to penetrate, second-degree criminal sexual conduct, and impersonating a police officer.

The impersonation charge surfaced amid allegations he had told the teenager at one point while she was with him that he was a police officer and that she was in trouble for a crime he merely made up, authorities have said.

Moreover, Milam still is wanted for a warrant out of Florida involving accusations he briefly kidnapped a young woman there, Harhold said. That case from early last year is pending while Milam's troubles continue in Michigan.

Students' essays, posters reflect on MLK's dream

As part of Westland's 11th annual Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration, students who attend the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and/or live in Westland were invited to submit a poster or essay reflecting on Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s vision of unity.

Three posters received honors in the contest. Placing first was Stephanie Rainey, an eighth-grader at Franklin Middle School. Second was Rylee Huffman, also an eighth-grader at Franklin Middle School, while third was Ni'ja Amanda Maye, a fourth-grader at Elliott Elementary School.

The winner of the essay contest was Hannah Pummil, a fifth-grader at St. Damian School in Westland, who titled her winning essay A Letter To Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. She wrote:

Dear Dr. King,
I am writing this letter to you in heaven to thank you for all you did to make your dreams of what America could and should be come true.

First, I would like to tell you that I have been reading about everything you did. You were an amazing speaker who encouraged all people to peacefully fight for what is right. You let people see that is was wrong to treat people differently based on the color of their skin.

You traveled over 6 million miles and spoke over 25 hundred times and appeared wherever there was injustice. You directed the march on Washington, D.C., where you gave your I Have a Dream speech to over 250,000 people. I listened to your I Have a Dream speech in school and it was amazing. I can't imagine living in a time where I couldn't be friends with someone because of their skin color.

The peaceful way you used to get your point across is something people should try to do today. I thought you would want to know that our country has elected our first African-American president. Barack Obama will be sworn in tomorrow as our 44th President. Our country chose the president based not on the color of his skin but by his character. I know this will make you as happy as our whole country seems to be.

We still have to fight for equality and justice when it does not happen, but I think most of your DREAMS have become a reality in America. Dr. King, we will never forget you.

Sincerely,
Hannah Pummil

Three police officers receive promotions

Three members of the Westland Police Department have received promotions following the retirement of Deputy Police Chief Gary Sikorski.

The longest-serving member on the force, Sikorski retired in late December after serving 25 years with the department.

Lt. Mark Engstrom has been sworn in as Deputy Chief, and Sgt. Robert Swope and Officer Patrick Corby have been promoted to lieutenant and sergeant, respectively.

"Gary Sikorski was a fine representation of the Westland Police Department and served the residents of Westland with dignity and respect," said Westland Police Chief James Ridener. "Similarly, I hold tremendous confidence in the aptitude of these newly appointed gentlemen, and their ability to excel in their respective positions."

Swope

Engstrom, a graduate of Livonia Churchill High School, received his bachelor's degree in criminal justice administration from Concordia University in 1999 and a master's degree in theological studies from Heritage Theological Seminary in 2006 before becoming a graduate of Eastern Michigan University's School of Police Staff and Command in 2002.

He joined the Westland Police Department in 1989 and has served on the executive board of the Westland Police Officers Association, including one year as the union president, and several years on the executive board of the Westland Lieutenants and Sergeants Association. Also a former D.A.R.E. (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) officer, he has received four Department Citations, six Certificates of Merit and 11 Departmental Unit Commendations. Married, Engstrom and his wife, Sharlene, have four daughters - Kirsten, 17, Reagan, 14, Caity, 14, and Marin, 9.

A veteran of the U.S. Navy who served aboard the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea for four years, Swope joined the department in 1993 after graduating from Schoolcraft College and the Wayne County Regional Police Academy.

Prior to becoming a lieutenant, he was assigned to the patrol division and the Special Investigations Unit before being promoted to the rank of sergeant in charge of the Metro Street Enforcement Team (MSET) where he led a crew of officers from Westland, Garden City, Wayne, Inkster and the Wayne County Sheriff Department. While in MSET, he led officers in various types of investigations, including narcotics trafficking, fugitive apprehension of violent felons, Internet crimes involving child victims as well as assisting other departments in investigations. In October 2007, Swope was assigned to the patrol division.

Swope has received numerous awards, including two Department Citations, one individual commendation, six unit commendations and five certificates of merit. He has also served nine years on the executive board of both the Westland Police Officers Association and the Westland Lieutenants and Sergeants Association. Married, he and his wife, Brookellen, have three children - Lindsey, 14, Mikala, 10, and Jacob, 6.

Corby's career with the Westland Police Department began in 1992 after graduating from Redford Catholic Central High School and the Wayne County Regional Police Training Center.

Corby worked on patrol for five years where he was trained as part of the motorcycle unit when it was reinstated in Westland in 1996. He is currently active in the motorcycle unit and in 2005 became an instructor for Police Motorcycle Operation through Northwestern University and Harley Davidson. He moved to the Traffic Bureau in early 1998 where he stayed until October 2008. He was also trained in accident investigation and accident reconstruction as a part of that unit.

Corby has received three unit commendations, a certificate of merit and an individual commendation.

He is the father of two boys - Cody, 13, and Liam, 9.

Conference of Western Wayne taps Wild to serve as chairman

Members of the Conference of Western Wayne have elected Westland Mayor William Wild to serve to chair the executive committee for 2009 and 2010.

The CWW represents 18 Wayne County communities that have collaborated for nearly 30 years to improve public service and create efficiencies by working in a bi-partisan manner.

"Due to our region's declining tax revenues, it will be even more challenging to maintain the level of quality services for our residents," said Wild. "Therefore, the biggest charge of the CWW this year is to work collaboratively to share and consolidate municipal resources so that we can not only protect vital city services, but also stimulate economic development to spur job growth within our region."

The CWW Board of Directors is made up of the mayors and supervisors of all member municipalities. Also elected to the Executive Committee were Wayne Mayor Al Haidous, vice-chair, Plymouth Township Supervisor Richard Reaume as secretary and Northville Township Supervisor Mark Abbo as treasurer. The chair emeritus is Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey.

Wayne High seeks nominations for its Distinguished Alumni Medal

The call has been put out for nominations for the Wayne Memorial High School Distinguished Alumni Medal. The award is presented annual as part of commencement ceremonies at the Wayne high school.

"We have had many outstanding people graduate from Wayne Memorial," said Wayne Memorial Principal Valerie Orr. "Many have contributed significantly to the betterment of society on a local, state, national or international level. The Distinguished Alumni Award is our way of honoring an outstanding graduate on an annual basis."

The prestigious award has become a part of the annual commencement ceremony of Wayne Memorial High School. Each winner is awarded a medal inscribed with the official school seal.

"This is an opportunity for our current graduating class, to hear first hand from a former alumnus who has made his or her mark on society," Orr said.

The most difficult task is to locate the many alumnus who have distinguished themselves since their graduation. For that reason, Wayne Memorial is asking the community to help in its search. Members of the community can nominate a Wayne Memorial graduate by contacting ... Rawson, secretary to the principal, at Wayne Memorial High School, 3001 Fourth St., Wayne, MI 48184 or by calling (734) 419-2206. Nominations are due by Feb. 27.

A "Distinguished Alumni" committee has been established at Wayne Memorial to decide on the recipient for 2009. An announcement of the winner will be made in mid-May. The recipient will be honored at commencement on June 6.

who gathered at the church for the city's 11th annual Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration.

"There is no white America, no black America, no Hispanic America, but there is an United States of America," said the Rev. Terrance McClain, a former minister at the church. "We have to take seriously our responsibility to the life and spirit of Martin Luther King Jr. to make this world a better place than when we came."

The message throughout the midmorning program was that of a dream fulfilled, harkening to Obama's inauguration at the country's first African American president, and the work still needed to be done to form the perfect union the founding fathers talked about.

"It's been a long time coming, but change is coming to America," said Dewey Reeves, the keynote speaker. "We need to pitch in and work harder. We not only need to look after ourselves, but each other. We are our brothers' keepers."

Reeves spoke about content of character, how "anyone who is first must have a high content of character" and that whenever someone is first at anything it is their content of character that is "challenged." Obama, he said, has charisma, is highly educated and has relentless hope, and with his wife and two daughters, the next four years are "going to be better than the Cosbys" television show.

He also spoke to Dr. King's dream, saying that he had lived long enough to see the eradication of discrimination.

"We have no place on this earth for that, and racism is a thing of the past," Reeves said. Joining him in praising king was Westland City Council President James Godbout who told the audience they must continue to remember King.

"Tomorrow will be the unutterable fulfillment of his dream," he said. "Today we celebrate a man who without him, tomorrow would not happen."

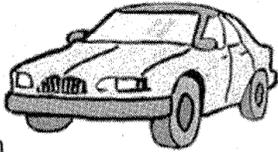

That's how Connie Hierta saw the morning's festivities.

"It's a celebration, it's all about the dream and it coming to fruition," she said. "We're here to celebrate the man and honor the dream."

GARDEN CITY HOSPITAL

Westland Specialty Center offers sophisticated care

BY ALISON BERGSIEKER
ADVERTORIAL COORDINATOR

When it comes to making New Year's resolutions, health-related pledges are the most common choices, with many vowing to shed unwanted pounds, eat healthier, stop smoking or learn to manage stress at work.

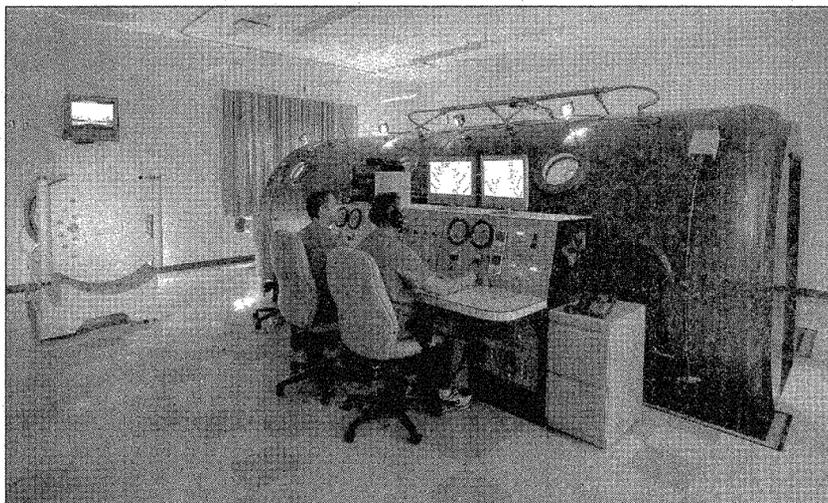

But maintaining good health is important year-round, making the need for reliable treatment facilities, physicians and services a necessity within Metro Detroit's communities.

Garden City Hospital's newly renovated 30,000-square-foot Westland Specialty Center has a fresh look this year with customized programs for various needs — all conveniently located in a modernized facility.

"We've added capacity, capabilities and new programs," said Art Greenlee, Vice President of Operations. "Here, in one location, is some of the most sophisticated care of its type available anywhere."

The Westland facility celebrated its grand opening March 15, 2008, and provides a number of services, including the hospital's Wound Healing & Hyperbaric Center, which houses an eight-person hyperbaric chamber that delivers oxygen therapy to patients with hard-to-heal wounds.

The chamber space is similar to what you would experience in a first class cabin of an airplane with room to stand and walk around. As the second largest chamber in the state, it measures 8 feet in diameter by 24 feet in length and includes a bathroom. Patients may enjoy a personal TV monitor, nap or read during their treatment.

The multi-person chamber — one of the largest in Michigan — commonly treats diabetic foot wounds, chronic bone infections, compromised skin grafts and flaps, radiation damage, surgical wounds and crush injuries. In addition, Westland Specialty Center offers a monoplace, single person chamber, which extends the treatment options available to patients.

A range of offerings

Located at 35600 Central City Parkway just north of Westland Mall, the center also offers the community:

- Garden City's Sleep Disorders Center — sleep studies are performed within six hotel-like bedrooms with state-of-the-art sleep monitoring equipment.
- Garden City Home Medical Equipment — for home care needs including walkers; respiratory and oxygen therapy supplies; breast pumps; and bathroom safety aids.
- Laboratory Services Draw Station — a private setting for patients to have blood drawn quickly and comfortably.
- Sports Rehabilitation Center — houses an aquatic therapy pool, team of physical therapists, a workout area and Nautilus machines. Garden City Hospital's Sports Medicine program is sure to help patients return back to their game.

"We are extremely proud of how this center has grown and changed," Greenlee said. "We have excellent people and great technology to meet our patients' complex needs."

The latest in fitness and weight training accessories

BY JOHN R. HALL
SPECIAL WRITER

Some of the most popular fitness and weight training accessories are also some of the most traditional ones too.

Some are steeped in tradition, only to be enhanced and improved for fitness and weight training routines and workouts.

For example, the hula hoop, made popular in the '50s and '60s, has made a comeback as a fitness accessory, albeit more weighted to enhance workouts.

The items in the list below represent some of the more popular products used by people who choose to set up their own "in-home gymnasium" in order to achieve the goals they set forth to become fit and healthy in 2009. If you need more information on any of these products and name brand manufacturers, do a word search in your Internet browser. For example, keying in "hula hoop" brings back over five million results!

• Weighted fitness ball — Sometimes known as an exercise ball, it is constructed of elastic soft PVC with a diameter of approximately 14-34 inches. It is most often used in physical therapy and exercise.

• Medicine ball — Weighted ball usually sold in 2-25 lb. sizes and used in plyometric weight training to increase explosive power in athletes in all sports. Helps develop core strength and improve coordination, balance and endurance.

• Kettlebell — A traditional Russian cast iron weight resembling a cannonball with a handle. The kettlebell has become a popular exercise tool in the United States. Some modern kettlebells feature adjustable weights. Kettlebell workouts are intended to increase strength, endurance, agility and balance.

• Indian clubs — Juggling equipment that was popular in the late 19th- and early-20th century in Europe, the British Commonwealth and the United States. These are bowling-pin shaped wooden clubs of varying sizes and weights that are swung in certain patterns as part of an exercise program.

• Dumbbells — Possibly the most recognizable of any weight training accessory. Two types make up this category: Adjustable dumbbells, which are weight disks slid onto the outer portions of the dumbbell and secured with clips or collars; and fixedweight dumbbells, available in a variety of weights and created in a dumbbell shape.

• Lifting straps — Designed to alleviate pain associated with heavy lifts but a key ingredient in weight training, i.e. lateral pulldowns, shrugs, deadlifts and low rows; any movement, set or exercise requiring a sure grip.

• Resistance band — A portable alternative to weights for strength training. A variety of exercises have been devised to target specific muscle groups.

• Aerobic step — A common piece of equipment for use in many exercise/fitness programs. It can come with adjustable sizing or stacking platforms and is part of low-impact, high-intensity aerobic exercise.

• Jump rope — Its use can avoid knee damage that may occur during running, since the impact of each jump or step is absorbed by both legs. Jumping rope also helps strengthen the arms and shoulders. This combination of an aerobic workout and coordination-building footwork has made jumping rope a popular form of exercise for athletes, especially boxers and wrestlers.

• Exercise mat — Portable mat that comes in various sizes and materials, designed to give a person the option of working out in a variety of indoor locations.

• Weightlifting gloves — Used for all-purpose training and weightlifting. Many of these gloves are made of stretch material, including mesh, to let fingers and hands bend naturally.

• Slimmer belt — Can be worn for long periods of time and adjust to any waist size. It "slims and trims" physical appearance immediately and helps support lower back and abdomen.

• Pedometer — Used originally by sports and physical fitness enthusiasts and are now popular as an everyday exercise measurer and motivator. Often worn on the belt and kept on all day, it can record how many steps the wearer has walked that day.

• Stopwatch — A handy product to time and record various exercise routines.

NEW PATIENTS

Have documents you need for the IRS, but shred old documents

Over the next few weeks, individuals will receive a variety of information for tax purposes including W-2s, 1099s, 1098s, K1s and other documents. When it comes to preparing your tax return, these documents are essential.

If you fail to properly report certain items to the IRS, be assured the IRS will eventually contact you.

How long does someone need to save tax documentation? At a minimum, at least three years after you file your tax return. The reason is the IRS can audit you up to three years after you

Money Matters

Rick Bloom

As to your tax return, I recommend always saving a copy. It is good business to keep a copy of your return.

Always shred old documents. I cannot stress enough how important it is to shred any sensitive financial information, whether it is bank statements, charge card receipts or old W-2s.

I am frequently asked about an IRS audit and whether it makes a difference if someone files early or requests an extension. My experience is that being audited has nothing to do with when you file your return. It has everything to do with the return itself. You increase your risk of being audited if your return contains mathematical errors, is sloppy or is missing information.

There's nothing wrong with filing an extension. Tax returns are due April 15, however, you can get an automatic extension to Oct. 15. An extension is simply more time to file your tax return; taxes due must be paid April 15. Therefore, many people find that when they do file an extension, they must make an estimated payment for their tax liability.

In addition to tax statements that will begin arriving, many are also receiving year-end investment information. These are year-end cumulative statements which give a history of your investments throughout the year. It makes sense to save these statements. If you receive these via e-mail, you may not have to save the statements as they are being saved by the custodian.

Saving too much documentation is just as bad as not saving enough. Too many people save too much stuff and if they need something important, they cannot locate it. I know people that save cancelled checks for electric bills from 10 years ago. There is no reason to save back-up documentation for reoccurring bills for any length of time. Get organized. Spend some time with the shredder and prune files by getting rid of documents you don't need

OUR VIEWS

MLK program is start of new day

American history was made Tuesday with the swearing-in of Barack Obama as the 44th president of the United States. It has been a long time since a nation was so excited about a new president, and that excitement spilled over into the observance of the Martin Luther King Day.

For years, communities like Westland have organized events to focus on the message the slain civil rights leader fostered in the 1960s. He had a dream and we spent each holiday remembering he wanted people of all colors to live together in peace. His dream still played an important role in Monday's observance, however, instead of looking to the past, participants were looking to the future.

Tuesday provided the excitement that has been missing from this country for years. The declining economy and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have combined to drag us down. Loss of jobs, loss of homes ... there hasn't been much to celebrate of late. That was true until Monday.

We're sure Martin Luther King was pleased that communities pause each year to rekindle his dream. And we're sure he was smiling Monday when the Rev. Terrance McClain observed that "there is no white America, no black America, no Hispanic America, but a United States of America."

We're sure he smiled when guest speaker Dewey Reeves told participants that Americans "need to pitch in and work harder. We not only need to look after ourselves, but each other. We are our brothers' keepers."

We're sure the excitement generated Monday and Tuesday will continue for awhile. But when the high we're experiencing with the start of the Obama administrations wears off, we must recommit to what we believe is best for our country.

We all have high expectations of our new president, and if he is to meet them, we as residents of Westland, of the State of Michigan and of the United States of America must pitch in and do our fair share. Our problems are many, but if we work together, they can be resolved.

We encourage Westland residents to get involved in their community. By working together, we can ensure Martin Luther King's dream will continue to evolve. The election of an African American president is just the start. Where we go from there is in all of our hands today.

State must fight the urge to raid trust fund

Since the advent of the conservation movement, the state of Michigan has had few successes like the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. The fund, which derives its revenue from royalties earned on oil, gas and mineral extraction from state lands, was initiated in 1976. Since then, it has provided more than $600 million for the acquisition of important recreational lands and to develop state and local recreation assets.

During a time of strained budgets, especially in Lansing, the trust fund has been a constant and dependable source of revenue for the Department of Natural Resources to fund important projects and conserve vital natural lands from the onslaught of commercial development. This year alone, it will dole out more than $48 million to fund 81 projects across the state.

Some of those projects include $450,000 for Redford Township to build a non-motorized trail along Bell Creek; $500,000 to develop and renovate the Bald Mountain Shooting Range in Oakland County; $1,452,500 to acquire 2.5 miles of railway corridor in West Bloomfield for a recreational trail; and $1,405,000 to acquire 67 acres for a nature preserve along an important tributary of the Huron River in Scio Township. This year, Canton Township will also receive a $350,000 grant to construct six pedestrian bridges along the Lower Rouge Recreation Trail.

Unfortunately, its dependability is now endangering the trust fund. A transportation funding task force created by the state Legislature in 2007 to find ways to fix the state's aging road infrastructure recently released a report recommending the state "redirect all or a portion" of the trust fund to address transportation needs.

While we recognize the state needs to address its crumbling roadways, raiding the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund is not the way to do it. That's not what the voters of this state intended when they overwhelmingly supported the trust fund several times, most recently in 2002. Besides, to divert funding from the trust fund would require a change in the state's constitution, which makes it unlikely.

Still, environmental groups have raised the red flag, because they know how important the trust fund has been in conserving some of the state's most important natural landscapes for current and future generations. State lawmakers should resist the temptation to raid the trust fund. It is one of the true environmental success stories in this state — one that has benefited all Michigan residents. Hopefully, it will continue to do so for many years to come.

Leading America back

Even as the epic failure of the Bush administration recedes into the past, there is a concerted and widespread attempt by Republicans and conservative political operatives to rewrite the disastrous history of the past eight years in America. Conservative attempts to rewrite history are nothing new; in fact, the practice of first framing and then incessantly repeating myths and outright falsehoods is central to the modern practice of their failed ideology.

Examples of this abound, such as the often-repeated myth that America was founded as a "Christian" nation. Unfortunately, the corporate media has often willingly enabled and continues to enable such nonsense; journalistic fact-checking of right-wing disinformation is often lost or drowned out by the Republican noise machine.

Defenders of the Bush disaster frequently try to paint the administration in a more favorable light with the specious claim that "he kept us safe for the past seven years," while conveniently ignoring the multiple failures of the Bush administration that led to the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks to begin with. Moreover, the "kept us safe" claim is factually erroneous — remember the anthrax attacks a few months later — and is easily debunked by the application of the most rudimentary logic. It is akin to carelessly leaving a young child unattended by a swimming pool and then after the inevitable tragedy occurs, keeping all the other children locked in the house for seven years, and then bragging you kept them safe.

In fact, the Bush administration has left America much less safe than when he took office, thanks to a belligerent foreign policy highlighted by the foolish invasion of Iraq under false pretenses, ultimately the worst foreign policy debacle in United States history. Bush policies have alienated allies, destroyed the goodwill of the world community and served as a recruiting tool for even more foreign terrorists.

In spite of the desperate historical revisionism being undertaken by defenders of America's worst president ever, the destruction that the Bush administration leaves behind is deep and wide. We have a shredded Constitution, a wrecked economy, a worsened environment, a shattered multilateralism, a strengthened plutocracy, a partisan legal system, an undermined scientific community, crippled national security, trashed diplomacy, battered checks and balances. These cannot be fixed in a few months or even a few years.

Godspeed to Barack Obama and his administration, as he leads America back from the train wreck of Republican political malfeasance.

We need to regain confidence

This economic crisis that we are in needs to be put to an end! If we don't straighten all of this out soon, we may just enter another depression. All of this is happening because our stock market is down. Until our confidence rises in the stock market, we could stay this way for quite a while.

Consumer confidence is what everyone needs right now. As soon as everyone is confident in the stock market, they will invest in it once again. This would help people keep their jobs and stop from going bankrupt. Right now, everyone is scared, they fear that if they invest their money, that they will lose it.

In a recent study, students were asked the question of whether they would have $3,000 in their pocket today, or have an 80 percent chance of getting $4,000. Most of the students took the $3,000. This is because the fear of losing money is bigger than gaining money. This is true about what is going on now.

Remember, if we don't put money in the stock market now, it will only take longer for it to improve!

Keep tax credit

As a film student at Michigan State University, when I heard about the Michigan Filming Incentive, I was intrigued. Let me first start by saying that I've lived in Michigan for 19 years, my whole life. However, throughout the years I've watched Michigan's industrial age economy decline rapidly as my neighbors and friends' parents lost their jobs. When I think of what the future holds for the state of Michigan, the first thing that comes to my mind is students. This is because we're the ones that will be taking over the business world as the baby boomers retire.

I'm sure I'm not the first to tell you that no one is going to want to live in a state where there aren't any jobs for them. Why do you think so many students go to out-of-state universities, or after attending a Michigan university, they find ample jobs in states like California, Chicago, or New York? There wasn't a reason for us to stay in Michigan.

The Michigan Filming Incentive would give students like me, and any other film, telecommunications, media, marketing, advertising, or theater student a reason to stay in Michigan, buy one of the many foreclosed houses, and start a career here.

Not only does this incentive open up a world of opportunity to students, but think of all the small businesses that benefit from it as well. When a producer is putting together a film, not only does a percentage of the crew come from Michigan, but another percentage is brought in from other film cities. These people need places to stay, restaurants to eat at, and many other necessities and amenities that small Michigan businesses can provide.

In my mind and the mind of many others, including the top Hollywood producers, directors, filmmakers, and agencies, the Michigan Filming Incentive is just a start to a great industry. It's the foundation for something bigger, the opportunity to show the country what Michigan has to offer the most creative minds in the business.

Progress is difficult

2009 began a new era. The younger generation is elated by political success. Retiring critics believe inexperienced children will now manage education, budgets, research and world affairs from a feel-good viewpoint.

Peace and prosperity rarely last long before decadence is overwhelming. Guarantees of income, food and shelter destroy incentives for traditional initiative. Insecurity enhances the struggle to survive.

Science and progress always expand during periods of stress like World War II. Leaders emerge from necessity, not from the promise of beautiful environments.

A new struggle has already begun. Our economy and employment are disastrous. FDR said of the Depression, "I will either be a great president or the last president."

Obama faces the same challenge, and politics will not always feel good. According to history, progress will be difficult.

Countdown: Pageant week keeps Miss Michigan busy

The countdown is on to Saturday evening when the 2009 Miss America will be crowned, and the days leading up to the pageant have been a busy one for the 52 contestants, including Miss Michigan Ashlee Baracy.

The pageant is being held at Planet Hollywood in Las Vegas, Nevada, and Mayor Oscar Goodman was on hand to welcome them.

Baracy and the other Miss America contestants have been busy. They've flipped flapjacks at the International House of Pancakes, treated to dinner at Buca di Beppo after walking down the runway at the Las Vegas Fashion Mall.

Baracy along with Miss Florida Sierra Minott, Miss New Mexico Christina Olmi and Miss Indiana Katie R. Stam showed their cooking skills at the restaurant, coming up with a new sauce that they promptly named "Miss America Sauce."

Baracy also is among the eight finalists for this year's Quality of Life project. Her platform is breast cancer awareness and education. Her mother, Janet, was diagnosed with breast cancer more than five years ago and is a survivor.

In preliminary competition leading up to the Miss America Pageant finale, Stam won the swimsuit competition, while Miss Delaware Galen Giaccone, a pianist, won the talent competition.

The pageant finale will air at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 24, on TLC.

W-W offers schools of choice for 2009-10

Parents or guardians interested in moving their elementary middle schoolers to a different Wayne-Westland school will be able to sign up for Schools of Choice beginning Friday, Jan. 30. The district will again offer district residents the program kindergarten through eighth-grade students for the 2009-2010 school year.

The program provides parents the opportunity to move their child from one school to another within the boundaries of the school district provided there is room available in the school. Transportation to and from the school of choices must be provided by the parents or legal guardian.

School district residents who would like their child to attend an elementary or middle school other than their school of residency must submit a 2009-2010 Schools of Choice application which will be available in every Wayne-Westland school by Friday, Jan. 30.

Schools of Choice applications for elementary school students will be accepted in the Pupil Accounting Office at the Board of Education, 36745 Marquette, Westland, between Jan. 30 and March 2. Schools of Choice applications for middle school students will be accepted in the Pupil Accounting Office between March 9 and April 20.

No new Schools of Choice applications will be accepted for high school students. Applications received according to these timelines will permit, if space is available, selected students to begin the 2009-2010 school year in their school of choice. If more students apply for a grade and/or building than there are openings, a random selection process will be used to select students. The names of students not selected will be placed on a waiting list for the 2009-2010 school year. Current Schools of Choice students must reapply to remain eligible for the program.

After the deadlines, Schools of Choice applications will be accepted until Sept. 7, at the elementary or middle school the parent and/or guardian would like the child to attend. These names will be added to the 2009-2010 school year waiting lists on a first-come, first-served basis. Building principals will use the waiting lists to notify qualified students of an opening. Building principals will be allowed to place Schools of Choice students only through Sept. 18.

A Schools of Choice student will be moved back to his or her home school, if an overcrowding situation occurs within the first 10 weeks of the school year. After 10 weeks, the student will be permitted to remain in the school of choice for the remainder of the school year, provided all other conditions continue to be satisfied.

Free seminar helps consumers make financial decisions

Today's consumers need access to accurate and reliable financial information to make informed investment decisions for themselves and their families.

And they'll find it at free non-commercial seminar on investment education being offered 6-9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 29, at the William D. Faust Public Library in Westland. The seminar will include optional one-on-one counseling sessions with seminar participants.

The seminar is sponsored by the Michigan Office of Financial and Insurance Regulation and will be led by Mark Robinson and the securities staff from OFIR and the Insurance Regulation. Materials will be provided by the Securities Section of the Office of Financial and Insurance Regulation and the Investor Protection Trust. Participants also will each receive a copy of "5 Keys to Investing Success" from IPT and Kiplinger.

The seminar is part of the national Investor Education in Your Community program sponsored by the Investor Protection Trust and the Investor Protection Institute.

According to the Investor Protection Trust/Securities

Investor Protection Corporation Investor Survival Skills Survey (December 2005), the vast majority of American investors do not possess important "investor survival skills" needed to build their savings into a retirement nest egg. Only 17 percent of respondents correctly answered a sufficient number of questions on knowledge and behavior to pass the test.

The William P. Faust Public Library is at 6123 Central City Parkway, Westland. For more information, call the library of Westland at (734) 326-6123 or visit the library's Web site at westland.lib.mi.us.

Alley up: Senior center hosts Wii tourney

You won't find an alley, a 7-pound ball with finger holes, or those signature white pins. But at 9 a.m. Friday, the game of bowling will be alive and rolling when the Westland senior citizen Friendship Center hosts a seniors-only Wii tournament.

"From morning till evening, the pins will be flying," said Barbara Schimmel Marcum, senior director. "When people enter the building, they would be mistaken, if they didn't feel they were in a bowling alley."

The competition will include matches that last approximately 20 minutes, and teams will be chosen randomly. The tournament is open to all senior citizens who either reside in Westland or who are members of the Friendship Center.

Participants must register in advance, and the cost is $3.

In the future, the Friendship Center will designate "Wii time" for bowling and golf practice on Fridays whenever travel meetings and afternoon movies are not already scheduled.

The center is located at 1119 N. Newburgh Road, between Ford and Marquette. The Wii system was donated to the center last fall.

Body blows

Patriot girls outlast Canton

BY ED WRIGHT
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The unofficial theme song for Tuesday night's girls basketball clash between Canton and Livonia Franklin was Let's Get Physical.

From the opening tip to the final buzzer, bodies collided like demolition derby cars in an ongoing struggle for rebounds, loose balls and all-important positioning.

At game's end, no one would have blamed the Patriots if they were humming I Will Survive after they held off a furious Chiefs rally to pull out a 37-34 road victory.

Franklin, which improved to 8-1 overall and 1-0 in the KLAA South Division, won despite scoring just two fourth-quarter points.

Canton's second straight setback dropped it to 7-2 overall and 0-1 in the division.

"Considering Canton is one of the best teams in the division and we were playing at their place without one of our starters (Senneca Scott), this was a big win," Franklin coach Dave McCall said. "With Senneca out and another girl sick, we had to play with some different combinations tonight, but the girls pulled it out."

The Chiefs trailed 35-24 with eight minutes to play before mounting a defense-led rally that all but suffocated the Patriots' offense following Amanda Borieo's fast-break layup two minutes into the quarter.

Trailing 37-26 with just under six minutes to play, Alyssa Cottrell ignited the Canton rally with a 15-foot jumper.

With 3:15 left, freshman guard Robyn Mack drained a 17-footer to close the gap to 37-30.

The play that epitomized the rough-and-tumble action unfolded with 49 seconds to play when three players — Canton's Kari Schmitt and Franklin's Brittany Taylor and Chelsea Williams — all hit the deck simultaneously for a loose ball.

All three players got up slowly, but it was Schmitt who was awarded two free throws, which she calmly sank to bring Canton to within 37-32.

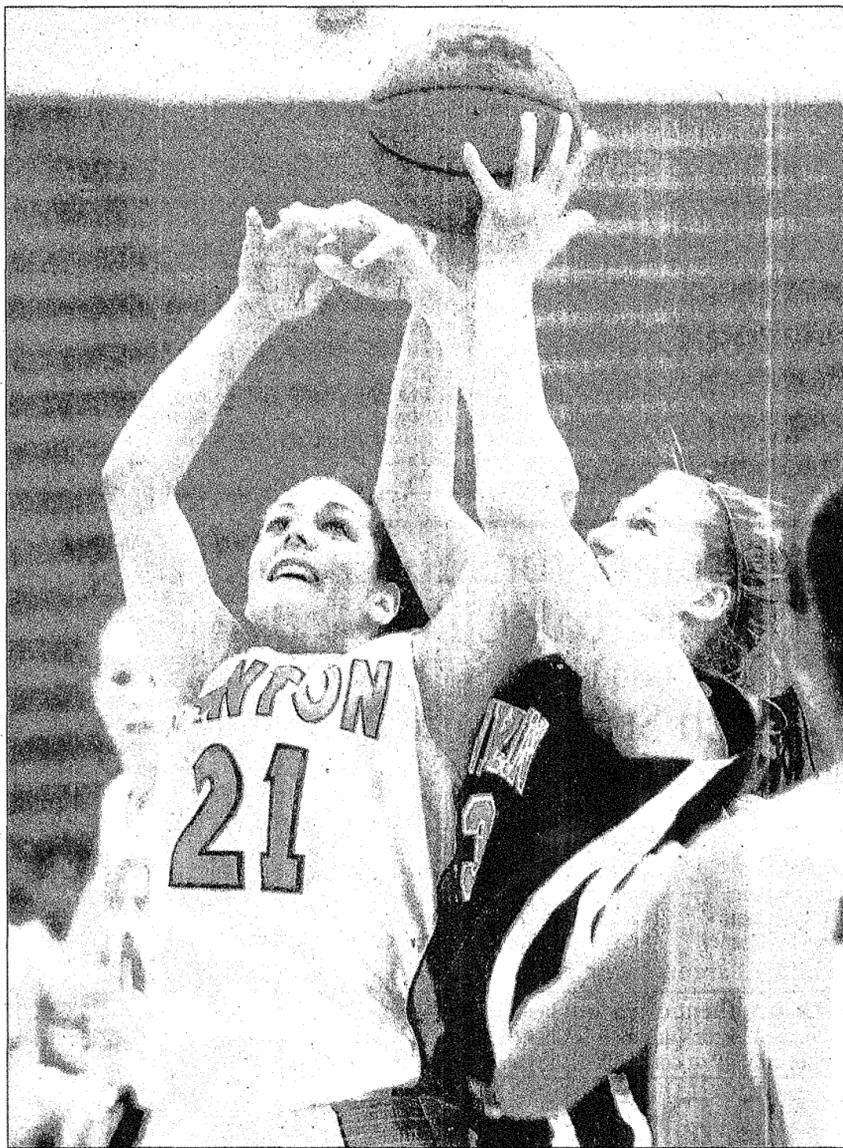

Ten seconds later, following a Canton steal, Schmitt was fouled and swished two more freebies to make it 37-34.

Three turnovers (two by Franklin, one by Canton) and 30 seconds later, Schmitt ended up at the line again.

After missing the first free throw, she purposely tossed the second one off the rim; however, Franklin controlled the rebound to seal the victory.

"It boils down to handling the ball under pressure, taking care of the ball, making our shots and defending at the other end," Canton coach Brian Samulski said. "I thought we attacked their defense well, but

NFHS hails Phill

Greg Phill, who just completed his 24th year as the Livonia Stevenson girls swim coach, was recently named 2008 National Federation of State High School Associations Coach of the Year.

In a letter to Phill from Robert Kanaby, Executive Director of the NFHS, it said:

"Thank you so much for your dedicated to our fine athletes. Recently, there was a tremendous article and team photo in the Livonia Observer featuring the financial contribute you and your team made to the Goodfellows organization via your swimathon. This is a wonder gesture on the part of your swimmers, parents and coaching staff to help children in need. You should be very proud of this generous donation.

"Not only are you recognized for your superior ability to coach athletes, but also in teaching them the importance of helping those that are less fortunate and giving back to the community. Thank you and congratulations."

Olech nets honor

Madonna University forward Kim Olech (Plymouth) was named Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Player of the Week in women's basketball after recording a pair double-doubles as the Crusaders went 1-1.

Olech cored a career-high 20 points and grabbed a career best 21 rebounds in MU's win over Siena Heights on Wednesday and then came back to drop 13 points and grab a like number of rebounds against No. 24 Aquinas on Saturday.

Olech extended her double-double streak to four straight and her total for the season to eight. For the week she scored 33 points, grabbed 34 rebounds, had seven blocks and two steals while shooting 11-for-12 from the free throw line.

One for the road: Wayne triumphs

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Getting wins on the road and protecting home court are two essential ingredients of seizing control of what appears to be a wide-open South Division boys basketball race in the KLAA's Kensington Conference.

Wayne Memorial ventured Tuesday night into Livonia Churchill's gym and came away with a hard-fought 59-54 triumph as the trio of Robert Woodson, Delorean Holland and Daniel Hill each scored 16 points.

Wayne is now 3-3 overall, while the Chargers drop to 2-3.

The Zebras, despite going only 3-for-12 in the final period and not scoring for the first 3 minutes, 47 seconds of the quarter, pulled out the victory.

It was 47-all after three quarters, with Churchill's 6-foot-6 junior forward Adam Bedell scoring the first basket of the period to give his team a two-point cushion.

But the Chargers went scoreless for the next 5:18 as Wayne got a pair of key back-to-back triples from Jimmel Bennett and Jamiel Strickland to go ahead 53-49.

Strickland then scored on a drive to the basket with 1:04 remaining after Bedell's bucket, while Woodson connected on 4-of-5 free throws in the final 30 seconds to seal the victory.

"It was our first division game. I don't know if was beautiful basketball, but when you win on the road, it's big," Wayne coach Wayne Woodard said. "Even though we've probably won more than we've lost with Churchill, we've always struggled and had a tough time with Churchill, especially here."

Hill, a 6-3 junior, grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds, while Woodson, a 6-1 senior point guard, made all the right plays down the stretch.

"I thought Daniel (Hill) did a great job on the boards," Woodard said. "He was battling down there."

"Woodson's strong with the ball and we told him, 'They'll come after you four times' because they had four fouls to give. I told the whole group that."

Bedell finished with a team-high 17 points to go along with 10 rebounds, while 6-0 senior guard Scott Senczyszyn added 16, including 4-of-8 from 3-point range before cooling off in the final period.

"We made the first two (shots) against their zone (defense), and then all the sudden we couldn't make a shot," said Churchill coach Jim Solak, whose team made just 2-of-17 field goal tries in the final quarter. "We started to panic a bit. I thought we played hard the second half, the effort was there. But when they switched to the 2-3 (zone), we couldn't make a shot and they got every big rebound down the stretch." Although they hadn't played in 14 days, the Chargers were productive offensively during the first half and trailed by only two, 34-32.

"Hopefully, we'll get in the flow. There's some games where we have a tough stretch, but we'll come back because I like this group," Solak said.

Wayne made 20-of-53 field goal tries on the night, while Churchill hit just 23-of-63.

Narber Day: Saints get past MU women

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Carl Graves and his Madonna women's basketball team knew what to expect Saturday from Aquinas head coach Linda Nash and the visiting Saints.

But there simply was too much Joslyn Narber for the Crusaders' liking, as she nailed four second-half treys to prime the pump for Aquinas' 65-58 Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference victory.

Narber scored 28 points, including 22 after the intermission, to spark Aquinas (10-6 overall, 2-1 in the WHAC). She nailed back-to-back threes early in the second half to give the Saints a 43-35 edge and the lead withstood a tenacious rally by Madonna.

"She (Narber) is the best player in the league and she put up 22 points in the half," said Graves, following a marathon chat with his team following the contest at the Madonna Activities Center.

"You can't give her open looks like that and let her run their offense.

"We give a team 28 in the first half and then give her 22 by herself in the second half. ... That'll beat you."

The tough defense of Aquinas - which stifled the Crusaders down low - also contributed to the loss, which dropped Madonna to 7-13 overall and 2-2 in the WHAC. The Saints' game plan is something Graves and his team saw during last season's conference title game.

"I love Linda's defense, I think they do a great job," Graves said. "But I think that comes back to my staff and myself not equipping our girls with the ability to get to the basket in critical spots.

"... They kind of sink down and aggressively attack the post players. We knew it was coming and sat back and watched them do the same things that hurt us."

One player seemingly not rattled by the Aquinas style of play was junior forward and Canton native Kim Olech (Plymouth), who tallied 13 points and 13 rebounds.

During the second half, which began 28-28, Olech scored nine points as she tried to be the Madonna catalyst. With about 14 minutes to play, she muscled in for back-to-back layups to bring the Crusaders to within 37-34.

It was 37-36 soon thereafter on a bucket by sophomore guard Tabatha Wydryck (9 points), but that was as close as Madonna would get.

"That's typical for her (Olech)," Graves said. "She's a fighter, she's aggressive. She's a big strong kid, but she's carrying a lot.

"(But) we've got to have production from other people."

Aquinas' attack wasn't just Narber. Freshmen guards Logan Marsh and Katie Carbee scored 12 and 10 points, respectively.

"We did a nice job of rebounding," said Graves, whose team outrebounded the Saints, 38-33. "We're one of the best rebounding teams in the league if not the country (but) I think we can't let Kim (Olech) try to do this by herself."

Lady Ocelots rip OCC

The Schoolcraft College women's basketball team, ranked No. 5 in the latest NJCAA Division II national poll, shot a school-record 65 percent from the field en route to a 93-54 triumph Saturday over host Oakland Community College on the Orchard Ridge campus.

Salem High's Taylor Langham scored a game-high 23 points to go along with seven assists as the Lady Ocelots improved to 15-2 overall and 8-0 in the Eastern Conference of the Michigan CC Athletic Association.

Schoolcraft, blistered the nets while shooting 36-of-55 from the floor, has won 17 straight Eastern Conference games and 49 of its last 51 league games.

April Goins chipped in with 20 points and 13 rebounds, while Antania Shepherd and Amber Avery contributed 15 and 13 points, respectively. The Lady Ocelots, who led 54-26 at intermission, also got nine points and eight assists from Brittany Collins.

Megan Charlebois and Tabytha Harvey scored 14 and 10 points, respectively, for the Lady Raiders (11-5, 6-2).

S'craft men routed

On Saturday, host OCC-Orchard Ridge bolted out to a 69-31 halftime lead in a lopsided 115-67 MCCA-Eastern Conference win over the Schoolcraft College men's basketball.

Wayne Memorial's Martez Abney, who was 6-of-9 from three-point range, had 24 points and three assists for the Ocelots.

Bruce Watson and Greg Leavell (Farmington Hills Harrison) each added 16 points as the Ocelots fall to 5-14 overall and 2-6 in the conference.

OCC, coached by former Michigan player Antoine Joubert, improved to 15-5 overall and 7-1 in the conference.

"I didn't like the way we defended in the first half, giving up 25 points, but we did a lot better job in the second when they only scored 12."

On a night solid statistics were hard to come by, Franklin's Brianna Taylor registered a double-double (11 points and 10 rebounds). Brittany Taylor and Amanda Borioe both added eight points for the winners, who won despite 23 turnovers.

Schmitt led the Chiefs with 20 points and 13 rebounds, while Antania Shepherd and Amber Avery contributed 15 and 13 points, respectively. CarolAnn Sexauer added eight Canton struggled from the field, hitting just 12-of-47 shots (27 percent). The Chiefs were particularly frigid in the third quarter, when they connected on just 2-of-18.

Franklin made 17-of-36 field goals.

Despite loss to Lutheran Northwest, help on way for Trojans

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Despite Tuesday night's 61-29 defeat at Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest, there is new hope for Livonia Clarenceville's varsity girls basketball team, said head coach Julie Patterson.

The Trojans started transfer student Paige Davis at center and the 6-foot-1 former Livonia Ladywood player stepped in and played reasonably well, with seven points and eight rebounds.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

"She played pretty well for the first time out," said Clarenceville coach Julie Patterson, whose team dropped to 1-8 overall and 0-2 in the Metro. "We have to work on getting her the ball inside, however. But I thought she did a good job defensively."

Kristen Jolly had 11 points and three steals in the loss, while Marlene Azar grabbed nine rebounds. The Metro Conference matchup saw the Crusaders roll out to a 20-4 lead after the first quarter and that set the tone for the rest of the night.

According to Patterson, getting Davis in the lineup could signal the start of a turnaround that might pay dividends at tournament time.

She said a combination of injuries, illness, academic ineligibilities and Davis' transferee status have limited her from putting her top players out on the floor.

"Absolutely she (Davis) can make an impact," Patterson said. "We haven't played with our full team all year. The week of Feb. 2, we hope to get everybody playing."

LUTH. WESTLAND 46, S'FIELD CHRISTIAN 22: Senior Allyson Yankee poured 25 points and added six steals Tuesday as Lutheran High Westland (2-4) knocked off Southfield Christian in a non-leaguer.

Rachel Storck added eight points and 10 rebounds for the victorious Warriors.

"I'm pleased with the victory," Lutheran Westland coach Bill Strang said. "The girls played a solid game. Our offense is looking better and the defense was really good tonight."

HURON VALLEY 42, YPSI CALVARY 32: In a

Michigan Independent Athletic Conference game Tuesday, sophomore guard Katie Nell scored a game-high 22 points, including 11 in the fourth quarter, to lift visiting Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (1-6, 1-2) to its first win of the season against Ypsilanti Calvary Christian Academy.

Nell played a strong all-around game, contributing seven rebounds and five steals in addition to her 22 points.

The Hawks got off to a 10-5 lead after one quarter and held on despite making just 9-of-21 free-throw attempts.

Verity Thurmond scored 10 points for the Cougars.

These Lions (8-0) clip Spartans, 57-51

Livonia Stevenson's upset bid came up six points short Tuesday as host South Lyon held on for a 57-51 girls basketball win in the KLAAs Central Division opener for both teams.

Danielle Gotham, a 6-foot-3 senior center, led the victorious Lions, now 8-0 overall and 1-0 in the Central, with 18 points. Amanda Thomas and Courtney Harrison added 13 and 11, respectively.

South Lyon bolted out to a 17-5 first-quarter lead before the Spartans evened the count at halftime, 24-all, with a 19-7 second-period run.

"They (South Lyon) pressed us from the get-go," Stevenson first-year coach Paul Tripp said. "We got off to a bad start, but once we figured it out and settled down, we turned the tide."

South Lyon won it with a 19-13 third period surge. The two teams played event (14-14) in the final eight minutes.

"We couldn't create enough opportunities in the fourth quarter, but I'm proud of the way we played," said Tripp, whose Spartans fall to 3-5 and 0-1.

Senior center Kaylee McGrath led Stevenson with 15 points and 17 rebounds.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Sarah Smith collected 14 points, hitting four 3-pointers, to go along with three steals. Tasi Newton contributed nine of her 11 points in the second quarter. She also had three steals.

Stevenson was only 7-of-16 from the foul line, while the Lions made 14-of-20.

CHURCHILL 52, WAYNE 17: Alysa Boldizar scored 14 and Darcy DeRoo added 12 Tuesday to lead Livonia Churchill (5-3, 1-0) to a KLAAs South Division win at Wayne Memorial (2-6, 0-1).

Freshman Holland Boertje led the Zebras, who trailed 35-4 at halftime, with 13 points.

PLYMOUTH 46, JOHN GLENN 30: Kelsi Robinson led the way with 15 points Tuesday as the host Wildcats (3-6, 1-0) downed Westland John Glenn (4-4, 0-1) in the KLAAs South Division opener for both teams.

Shaakira Haywood added 10 points for Plymouth, which led 11-1 after one quarter and 31-9 at halftime.

"The first quarter we missed a lot of easy shots and dug ourselves a big hole," Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "We played hard the second half, but didn't have enough firepower."

Nyah McReynolds tallied 10 and Brittany Holbrook added seven for the Rockets, who made just 9-of-22 free throws.

Plymouth was only 11-of-32 from the foul line.

N'ville grapplers rule Spartan Classic Duals

Northville emerged the winner on Saturday at the 10-team Spartan Dual Invitational wrestling tournament hosted by Livonia Stevenson.

The Mustangs led the way with a 5-0 record in the team format followed by Milford and Ypsilanti Lincoln, 4-1 each; Ann Arbor Pioneer and Stevenson, 3-2 each; Monroe and Flat Rock-Woodhaven, 2-3 each; Novi-Detroit Catholic Central 'B' squad and Garden City, 1-4 each; and Romulus Summit Academy North, 0-5.

Stevenson posted wins over Woodhaven (44-30), Summit Academy (70-12) and Monroe (39-37), while losing to Ypsilanti Lincoln (32-43) and Milford (13-61).

Stevenson's 135-pounder Mitchell Gonzales went 5-0 on the day, followed by Raz Markosian (140), Dan McCarthy (152-160) and Andrew Schramm (189-215), all finishing 4-1. Jake Burns (171) added three wins in four matches.

Stevenson is now 10-11 overall.

Tale of two halves: MU men fall to conference leader Aquinas

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The Madonna University men's basketball team couldn't duplicate a good first-half effort Saturday afternoon at the Activities Center as Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference leader Aquinas College rallied for a 68-61 triumph.

Aquinas stands all alone in first place in the WHAC with a 4-0 record. The Saints are 13-7 overall. MU, meanwhile, falls to 7-13 and 1-3.

The host Crusaders led 35-30 at intermission, but went cold in the second half, shooting just 37 percent (10-of-27) from the field.

Aquinas found itself down at halftime despite making 12-of-19 first-half field goal attempt (62.5 percent). "I thought they outplayed us the first 20 minutes," Aquinas coach Dave Hammer said. "They got offensive rebounds. They out-scraped and out-hustled us. We got the shots we wanted, but we made turnovers. "Chuck's teams played extremely well at home. It's always a struggle here. But to our kids' credit we hung in there and found a way to win. It was good to win on the road for us."

Aquinas regrouped to start the second half and took the lead, 38-37, with 15:10 left on a triple by Jordan Torres. The Saints then went up by six points, 54-48, with 8:47 remaining on a basket by Jason Fox.

MU regained a 55-54 advantage on Bryant Slaughter's acrobatic driving left-handed scoop shot with 5:03 to go. But Torres delivered the dagger with 3:30 remaining with his second triple of the game to make it 62-57.

James Telman led a balanced Aquinas scoring attack with 15 points. The Saint's top scorer, 6-foot-6 senior center Pedja Lazic, added 13 points and 10 rebounds. John Lierman also scored 14, while Jake Shockey added 11.

"They (Aquinas) are a very efficient team," MU coach Chuck Henry said. "They had only 18 turnovers the first three conference games and they had 14 against us.

"He (Lazic) is a real horse for them inside. He presented problems because when you help out and trap him, he finds the open player for the kick-out 'threes.' They hit two big ones down the stretch that hurt us."

Slaughter, who hails from Westland, paced the Crusaders with 12 points, while Josh Gay and Leroy Allen added 11 each. Kevin McLoughlin came off the bench to score nine. Allen and Ryan Waidman (Canton) each grabbed eight rebounds.

To compound MU's second-half problems, Aquinas went to the free throw line 22 times and converted 16 (73.9 percent). On the other end, MU was just 3-of-9 from the free throw line.

Following Wednesday's 68-65 loss at Siena Heights, Henry went with younger lineup, starting two freshman (Gay and Jon Jaciuk), two sophomores (Waidman and Slaughter), along with a junior (Allen).

The Crusaders' leading scorer, senior guard Cedric Sims (Wayne Memorial), played only 16 minutes. He entered the game with 14:10 left in the first half and finished with four points, three assists and two turnovers.

"I can't fault the kids' effort," Henry said. "We'll play the kids who work hard in practice because of the future of our team is our youth."

C'ville's Stewart nets 41 in rout

Jamie Stewart scored a school-record 41 points as Livonia Clarenceville snapped a four-game losing streak with a 94-52 boys basketball win over visiting Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Stewart, a 6-foot-4 senior forward, tied the school record last year and shared it with Idaho State's Donnie Carson, who scored 40 during the 2005-06 season.

Stewart connected on six 3-pointers and grabbed 18 rebounds for the Trojans, who won their Metro Conference opener and improved to 2-5 overall.

Nathan Clark added 25 points for the Trojans, who held a 63-34 halftime lead. Sophomore center Jalen Reynolds contributed 13 points and nine rebounds, while senior forward Jeremy Gainer added nine.

Nick Mijcovich scored 15 for the Crusaders (2-6, 0-1).

HURON VALLEY 52, YPSI CALVARY 41: In a Michigan Independent Athletic Conference-Red Division game Tuesday, Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (5-2, 2-0) broke away from a 24-all halftime deadlock to subdue host Ypsilanti Calvary Christian Academy (0-6, 0-1).

Chad Fielek was the Hawks' leading scorer with 12 points, while senior forward Kyle Tacia recorded his seventh-straight double-double with 10 points and 15 rebounds.

Tyler Wagaman also went 6-of-8 from the foul line as the Hawks made 14-of-22 overall.

Kendall Hunley led the Cougars with 17 points.

Rockets orbit past Plymouth, 65-50

Westland John Glenn received a Double-AA effort Tuesday in a 65-50 boys basketball win over Plymouth.

Senior guard Austin Anderson scored a game-high 26 points as the host Rockets improved to 5-1 overall and 1-0 in the South Division of the KLAAs Kensington Conference.

Also chipping in for Glenn was Jon Swagerty (10 points), Austin Omagbayi (9) and Jeremy Langford (8).

Cliff Buttermore and Justin Moss scored 12 and 11, respectively, for the Wildcats, who fall to 4-3 overall and 0-1 in the KLAAs South.

Plymouth, which trailed 30-23 at halftime, made only 9-of-21 free throws on the night, while Glenn was 7-of-10.

CANTON 58, FRANKLIN 50: Kevin Weisz scored 13 points, including 6-of-6 from the foul stripe on Tuesday to propel the Chiefs (4-3, 1-0) past host Livonia Franklin (2-4, 0-1) in a KLAAs South Division opener.

Canton, which outscored the Patriots 23-12 in the decisive fourth quarter, also got 11 points from Deitrich Lever.

Connor Leidal and Jeff Poole each scored 14 for the Patriots, who led 38-35 after three quarters. Andy McCaffery added 11.

Canton was 19-of-23 from the foul line, while Franklin hit 11-of-17.

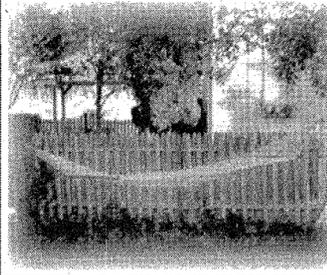

It was Franklin's first game in 23 days. "Our timing was off, we couldn't hang on," Franklin coach Jeremy Rheault said. "We got down three (late), but they (Canton) broke out pressure and we had to foul. We did a good job of handling the ball, but Canton outrebounded us."

SOUTH LYON 67, STEVENSON 61: On Tuesday, A.J. Thweatt popped in 16 points and Adam Gentile added 12 to lead the Lions (3-3) past host Livonia Stevenson (4-2, 0-1) in the KLAAs Central Division opener.

South Lyon led 47-35 after three quarters and hung on after a 26-20 Stevenson fourth-period run. The Lions made 17-of-21 foul shots on the night.

Junior guard Bobby Naubert paced Stevenson and all scorers with 23 points. Mark Grisa added 10 as the Spartans had their four-game winning streak snapped. Stevenson was 17-of-28 from the line.

"Our first event was bars, and we had a rough start, but we did not let that affect the rest of the meet," Livonia Blue coach Lisa Fierk said. "We come out strong on beam, and I knew that we would have a great meet. Laura (Nomura) had a score of 9.4, which lead Meghan (Powers) to put up a great score of 9.75. The girls had a lot of energy and were having a lot of fun."

IT'S YOUR BUSINESS Q&A

Domenic Porco carries baskets filled with breadsticks meant for a Garden City Chamber of Commerce luncheon. His popular Amantea Restaurant on Warren Road east of Venoy in Garden City specializes in Italian and American food.

Italian to American food, Amantea has it

Observer: Tell us about your business, including the types of service and/or products you feature.

It's a family restaurant that specializes in Italian and American food. We offer a complete menu.

Observer: What makes your business unique?

We make 80-90 percent of all of our food fresh. House specialties include Antipasto Amantea, Lasagna Amantea, Fettuccine A La Fredo, New York Strip Steak, Filet Mignon, Amantea's Prime Rib of Beef and barbecued ribs. Friday's Fish Night, so join us for a plateful of English-style fish and chips. We also specialize in providing afternoon parties for groups of 25 to 250 people.

Observer: How did you decide to open your first business?

I have always been in some kind of small business since I was five years old. I would accompany my mother to the market. Before building Amantea in 1975, I worked at several restaurants and opened two Micos Pizzerias in Detroit.

Observer: How did you decide to locate in the Garden City community?

The land was available and the city promised me a liquor license.

Observer: Do you have a funny tidbit or story to share with our readers about your experience so far as a small business?

Don't go into business unless you're willing to work day and night. It's an addiction, not a job.

Sculptures are icing on cake during Plymouth's annual festival

BY WENDSY VON BUSKIRK
O & E STAFF WRITER

The romance of ice sculpture is that it doesn't last. The art is beautiful and ephemeral, precious because it must be viewed before it melts away.

For the 27th year in a row, ice sculptors and enthusiasts will gather to celebrate this transient art form during the Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular, Jan. 23-25. The event is free.

According to organizer Mike Watts, Plymouth was among the first cities to host such a winter celebration.

"We believe we're the oldest and longest continuously running ice sculpture festival in the entire United States. We have an international reputation," Watts said. "More importantly it brings in business to the community during a slow time of year and an extremely slow time in the economy, so the business it generates will be a big help to the retailers, bars and restaurants."

Ice carvers from across the country and around the world have competed in past years, including teams from Russia, Norway and Sweden. This year, the award-win-

Circus-themed family event a 'hoot'

Well, I've finally returned to the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers after taking a 12-week maternity leave.

Being back at work also means practice with the Mydols has resumed. Since we're an all-mom band, it was no problem going on hiatus so that I could bond with my new baby daughter Violet. But now it's time to buckle down, and since we have a new lead singer and drummer, we have quite a bit of work to do.

Our next gig is the Circus Family Hootenanny 2:30-5 p.m. this Sunday at the Magic Stick. Our new lead singer, April

Boyle, has been staging Family Hootenannies since 2001. The events bring local musicians together to play kid-friendly music at hip venues throughout metro Detroit. April told me she was inspired to start the Hootenannies after attending a similar event in Chicago.

She's married to musician Brian Boyle, a founding member of the popular alt-country band Blanche, and has always been deeply involved in the music scene, so she was horrified upon becoming a mom to find that Barney, Disney and Kindermusic were taking over her stereo.

She decided to do something about it. "I wanted my kids to be exposed to real music, something fun and cool that I could enjoy too," she said.

So, twice a year April stages Hootenannies and she has even put out two amazing compilation CDs featuring local bands - the Detroit Family Hootenanny in 2006; and Christmas Hootenanny in 2007.

At the upcoming Circus-themed Hootenanny, the Mydols will be joined by Almond Joy from Candy Band and Mr. Seley. In addition to the music, a major highlight will be Hoopin' for the Hood, a band of local hula hoop enthusiasts who make and distribute hoops to at-risk kids, and promote hooping as a form of fun and physical fitness.

We're playing a new song, "Hula Twist," in their honor. I'm looking forward attending the Hootenanny with my 3-year-old Verick, along with Violet in her Baby Bjorn, and I hope lots of other families show up. Popcorn, face painting, balloon animals, circus performers and a DIY craft show will add to the fun.

It will be the first gig for our new drummer Laura Sperr, a Madison Heights mother of six who started playing drums after she got hooked on the Rock Band video game.

Of course, since we're a mom band, we're most concerned with what we're going to wear. So far plans include circus-themed costumes like a trapeze artist, ringmaster, snake charmer and lion tamer.

The Mydols might not be 'the greatest' show on earth, but we sure have a great time.

Snow shoeing, ice sculptures, cross-country skiing and ice skating also will be part of the family event, presented by Oakland County, the Rochester Downtown Development Authority and Oakland County Parks.

Fire & Ice Fest is free to the public.

County Executive L. Brooks Patterson and Rochester Mayor Jeffrey Cuthbertson will kick off the festival at 7:50 p.m. Friday. Fireworks will follow the opening ceremonies on Friday and the closing ceremonies on Saturday near the corner of East Third and Water Streets, at about 8 p.m. each night.

The TasteFest includes offerings from Andiamo Osteria, Bean & Leaf Café, Gus

O'Connor's Public House; Mind, Body & Spirits; Rochester Mills Beer Co., and the Royal Park Hotel. An ice-carving demonstration is set for Friday evening behind the Rochester Mills Beer Co.

"We want everyone to come out and enjoy what Rochester and Oakland County have to offer," Patterson said. "We've put together a program that is a true celebration of winter. You can learn to snow shoe, take a ride down the toboggan run, go on a horse-drawn trolley or just enjoy the ice carvings. We live in a state that embraces winter and I hope everyone takes advantage of it. And if you haven't seen fireworks in winter, you're in for a real treat."

The festival runs 6-9 p.m. Friday; and noon-9 p.m. Saturday. For more information, visit www.oakgov.com or www.DowntownRochesterMI.com.

Brave the cold and celebrate the blues

Ferndale Mayor Craig Covey sounded as if he were writing the lyrics to a blues song as we talked about the upcoming eighth annual Ferndale Blues Festival, set for Jan. 23-31.

"The weather is bad. The economy is worse. It's easy to hole up for the winter," he mused. "You've got to get out and get some fresh air, mingle with people and listen to music. Music soothes the soul."

With more than 60 concerts at two dozen venues, there will be plenty of opportunities during the nine-day festival to celebrate your troubles, have a great time listening to live blues music, and help out two worthy charities — Ferndale Youth Assistance and the Midwest AIDS Prevention Coalition (MAPP) of which Covey is the founder and CEO.

Last year, the festival raised almost $25,000, said Monica Mills of MAPP, who along with Covey and other volunteers founded the citywide blues fest. Most of the concerts are free.

Aside from some sponsorship monies, the majority of funds are raised by volunteers who encourage concert goers to "feed" the blue pig banks found at venues around town.

"We have volunteers who pass the pigs around during breaks in the music," Mills said.

"The bar owners pay for the bands but they don't charge a cover charge, so we expect the patrons to pony up and put something in the pig."

"We have about 50 to 60 volunteers over the nine-day period who are the backbone of this effort," Covey said. "Our volunteers represent everything from millennial, twenty-something kids to grandmas. We have a host of volunteers from the senior group ... They're the best because it's hard to turn down a little old lady who's trying to get you to put a dollar in the little blue pig."

BEST OF THE BLUES

Of course, it's the music that draws crowds to downtown Ferndale, even on the dreariest nights. A major sponsor of the Blues Fest, Dino's hosts entertainment every day of the festival. Owner Dean Bach and wife Denise (of the band Bocco) started booking in March to create an eclectic lineup of entertainment that includes the Black Cat Blues Band, Chris Canas Blues Revolution, the Sax Maniacs, and The Reefermen.

"Traditionally, I do not do blues music for nine days in a row. I couldn't handle it," Bach said with a laugh. "I have some gypsy blues/rock with The Luddites. Denise has more acoustic, classic rock covers, and I have the Calcutta Rugs, a rock and roll band, opening the Blues Festival."

Dino's raised nearly $10,000 for the festival charities last year, due in part to a highly successful Barbecue Rib "Burn off" held in a heated tent. Bach will sponsor the cook-off again this year on the last day of the Blues Fest. For a $10 entrance fee visitors can taste specialty ribs prepared by several competitors and vote for their favorite. The Howling Diablos will be rockin' in the tent early that evening.

"It's a lot of work, I'm not going to kid you," said Bach, who also serves up hot dogs and beer in the tent. "Last year we got four inches of snow the day before and we were scratching our heads as to how this was going to affect it ... It turned out to be a fun party."

Terri Reeder, executive manager of Rosie O'Grady's, also books early to get the best blues acts. Luther "Badman" Keith, Doug Deming & the Jewel Tones, Bobby Murray & Lenny Watkins, and Pete (Big Dog) Fetter are on this year's schedule.

"The bands start at 9 p.m. Usually if people want a seat they need to get here by 8 p.m. because the place fills up fast. If they have groups of six or more I recommend they make reservations," said Reeder, who holds raffles and gives away prizes on the nights when groups perform.

BIRTHDAY BLUES

Rosie O'Grady's will feature Alberta Adams, "Detroit's Queen of the Blues," on the final night of the festival. Covey, who turns 50 at midnight (his birthday is Feb. 1), said he asked Reeder if she would book the "jump blues" artist who is well into her 90s.

"My birthday will be celebrated on Saturday and we're going to do a concert for the mayor at Rosie O'Grady's. I'm really excited about that," Covey said. "Another one, Bobby Murray, one of the world's most accomplished guitar players who plays for Etta James, is also going to play that evening at Woodward Avenue Brewers, so I'll be going back and forth to those two venues."

It's likely that Covey will wrap up his birthday celebration at Tony's Sport's Bar (a small place that can, maybe, pack in 50 people) to see the rock and blues band Albert Young and the Straight 8's play into the wee hours.

"He really doesn't play anywhere else. They just play here," said bar owner Tony Bielski, who hosts the group on the last weekend of the festival every year. "People know him. They come to see him, and his band is really good."

With so many concerts to choose from, Covey said, sometimes it's the little venues on an odd night that can surprise you.

"You'll have people just show up and join in," he said. "There'll be a band playing and a guy will take a break and someone from the audience will get up, and it turns out to be somebody really big."

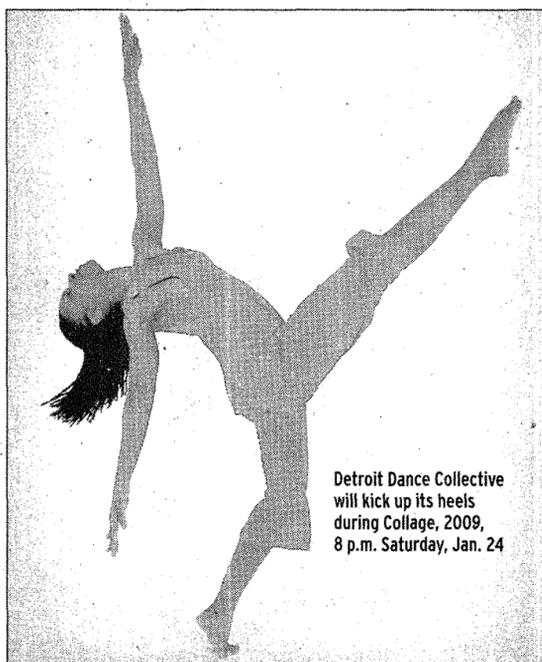

A free shuttle will run between all the venues on Friday and Saturday nights. To see the Blues Fest schedule and venue locations, visit www.ferndalebluesfestival.org.

Southfield company tapped to bring 'Intent' to big screen

New Castle Entertainment has signed on with Parallax Production Studios in Michigan to help bring their suspense thriller Intent to theaters. The agreement includes creative and technical work on editing, creating trailers and film mastering. The announcement was made by Calvin Perry, CEO at Parallax.

"This movie is perfect because it lets us showcase our superb Michigan production talent and versatility," said Perry. "We believe Intent is going to do extremely well and that's good for New Castle and just great for making films in Michigan."

Parallax was given the opportunity to take on the project after state-sponsored production incentives in Florida, where the picture was originally scheduled to be shot, were dramatically cut by the Florida legislature.

Producers then decided to take advantage of Michigan's favorable incentives and moved production to Michigan where filming on Intent finished last month.

"Michigan has incredible incentives working right now — up to 42 percent in production rebates even if the films are not shot here in-state," Perry reported. "Consequently, producers and directors all over the world are learning about Parallax Production Studios, our best-in-industry equipment and our seasoned creative talent. When you put those elements next to literally millions of dollars in savings and rebates, it's clear where the movie industry is going," said Perry. "And we're greeting it with open arms."

Before Parallax opened, there were no facilities in or around Michigan with the kind of high-end film transfer and color correction technologies filmmakers demand.

For more information on Parallax Production Studios, call (248) 357-5500 or visit parallaxproductionstudios.com. For more information about "Intent," visit www.intentmovie.com.

Tune in Time

When Actress Sigourney Weaver spent a few months in Oakland County last summer filming the Lifetime movie "Prayers for Bobby" — an emotional true story about a mother struggling to accept that her son is gay — the production opened doors for aspiring local actors. Five students from Beverly Hills' Groves High School earned parts — including graduate Shannon Eagen who portrays Bobby's sister and Anna Badalamenti who plays Bobby's girlfriend. Also earning smaller roles in the film were Hillary Sussman, Allyson Rupe and Spencer Perrenoud, who can be seen hugging Weaver during the final parade scene in the film's trailer online now at <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IBVCTCpKx3g>. West Bloomfield actor and filmmaker Sam Logan Khaleghi served as a casting assistant and played a small part in the film as well. Now, the wait is over for all involved. The movie is set to air at 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 24 on the Lifetime cable network. Learn more at www.mylifetime.com.

Ice carving is culinary arts specialty

BY WENDY VON BUSKIRK
O&E STAFF WRITER

The majority of ice carvers come to the unusual craft through the culinary arts. About 80 percent of carvers participating in the 2009 Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular are chefs or culinary students, according to event organizer Mike Watts. "Many of the ice carvers are chefs or have been chefs, including our team from Japan, but we also have art students and others," Watt said. "This year the University of Michigan is bringing a team of 12 carvers and they do not have a culinary program. We have been working with the students there, and they just love doing it."

Students who participate, including a team from Romulus High School, get real world experience carving displays throughout the weekend and competing in individual and team carving competitions.

The school to beat this year is Oakland Community College. Their ice carving team has won several competitions, including first place in the U.S. at last year's National Ice Carving Association competition in Frankenmuth.

Doug Gahns, a 15-year chef instructor at OCC-Orchard Ridge, will coach a team of eight students as they use chainsaws, high-speed die grinders and chisels to carve a 35-block display in downtown Plymouth.

"We are doing a springtime theme with butterflies, birds, dragonflies, lots of flowers," said Gahns, of Grosse Pointe. "It's so cold out and everyone's looking forward to spring right now, it just seemed like a good thing to do. Hopefully it will warm some hearts."

STUDENT COMPETITIONS

Friday, Jan. 23 - Official Opening

- 3-7 p.m.: High School Individual Competition in Kellogg Park, 1 block of ice, 4 hours to carve.
- Community College Ice Carving Clubs and Professional Carvers complete their non-competitive displays.

Saturday, Jan. 24:

- Noon-4 p.m.: College Individual Competition in Kellogg Park, 1 block of ice, 4 hours to carve.

Sunday, Jan. 25:

- 11 a.m.-3 p.m.: College Team Competition in Kellogg Park, 3 blocks of ice, 4 hours to carve. Participating Schools: Henry Ford, Macomb, Oakland, Schoolcraft and Washtenaw community colleges; University of Michigan; Eastern Michigan University; Romulus High School and Oakland Tech-Southwest Campus.

According to Gahns, ice carving is an elective at OCC that only a small percentage of culinary students choose to take.

Even fewer continue to pursue the sub-specialty professionally. Those who do go on to create ice sculptures for banquets, weddings and parties that start at around $250 and go into the thousands.

For a corporate party, Gahns once sculpted a life-size knight on a horse, as well as individual castles as centerpieces for each table. Together they cost more than $5,000, and didn't last beyond the night.

Gahns said his team is looking forward to the college competitions this weekend.

"We like to win here. We're very competitive — in a nice way," he said.

Find work in the film biz with new local FIT courses

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
OSE STAFF WRITER

So you want to work in the movie business? Ferndale-based film production company S3 Entertainment Group has established new courses to better prepare interested newcomers to the entertainment business. More than 20 films were shot in Michigan last year, thanks to a new film tax incentive of up to 42 percent for productions costing more than $50,000. The film industry has been booming in and around metro Detroit, and S3EG has been growing right along with it.

The company recently launched Film Industry Training, FIT, an educational branch and the realization of a longtime plan. "The goal here is jobs," said Jeffrey Spilman, a managing partner of S3EG. "There are a lot of programs out there that do training. They don't take it to the next step." Spilman, a Birmingham resident, considers this a three-pronged approach. For every student who enrolls in a FIT course, a guaranteed internship and job placement will then follow.

The program also marks a collaboration between S3EG and Oakland Community College, with classes to be held at the Ferndale S3EG headquarters beginning Feb. 2.

"The dramatic growth of Michigan's film industry has led to an abundance of career opportunities for residents in the state," said Rochelle Kaye, program manager. "At OCC, we constantly strive to align the needs of the workforce with the programs we offer to our students, and the Film Industry Training program presents us with an ideal platform to prepare our students for careers in this growing industry. The experience and facilities that S3 Entertainment Group has to offer will be a tremendous benefit to students in the program."

Two FIT classes are now open to enrollment. The first is a Film Industry Training Overview course, meant to educate interested students about the careers available in film production. The other course is a Grip/Electric/Generator Operator class which will take a hands-on approach to training.

Each course is 40 hours, instructed over two weeks. Classes will be 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday with one 8-hour hands-on production class on Saturday.

Rather than just giving students a certificate of completion once the program is over, Spilman said, S3EG offers a network of support services to ensure experience and exposure in the field. Students will learn from and work with industry professionals in a studio setting.

"When you work with someone you can tell when they have it and when they don't," said Spilman. The FIT program and approach allows a close-knit working environment from training through to the films S3EG works with around the state.

"There will be thousands of jobs when the studios open," he said, adding that the FIT program will make sure those jobs are filled with fully-trained and interested employees.

The Michigan Film Office has approved about 70 productions for filming this year, which is sure to translate to employment opportunities for film support industries, such as equipment rental houses, movie studios and post-production facilities.

For more information or to register, call (248) 232-4182 or visit www.S3eg.com.

Opening Friday, Jan. 23:

Inkheart: Based on the best-selling book by Cornelia Funke, this film is a fantasy adventure that sends a father and daughter on a quest through worlds both real and imagined. Mortimer "Mo" Polchart (Brendan Fraser) and his 12-year-old daughter, Meggie (Eliza Hope Bennett), share a passion for books. What they also share is an extraordinary gift for bringing characters from books to life when they read aloud. But there is a danger. When a character is brought to life from a book, a real person disappears into its pages. Directed by Iain Softley, this film is rated PG.

Last Chance Harvey: Academy Award winners Dustin Hoffman and Emma Thompson reunite in this hopeful romance that celebrates new beginnings at any age. The film is directed and written by Joel Hopkin. New Yorker Harvey Shine is on the verge of losing his dead-end job as a jingle writer. Warned by his boss (Richard Schiff) that he has just one more chance to deliver, Harvey goes to London for a weekend to attend his daughter's (Liane Balaban) wedding but promises to be back on Monday morning to make an important meeting — or else. Rated PG-13.

Outlander: This film stars Jim Caviezel, Sophia Myles, Jack Huston and Ron Perlman. It is not yet rated.

Taken: This film stars Liam Neeson as Bryan Mills, an ex-government operative who has less than four days to find his kidnapped daughter, who has been taken on her first day of vacation in Paris. Also starring Maggie Grace, Leland Orser, Jon Gries, David Warshofsky, Katie Cassidy, Holly Valance and Famke Janssen. Directed by Pierre Morel. Rated PG-13.

Underworld: Rise Of The Lycans: This film delves into the origins of the centuries-old blood feud between the aristocratic vampires, known as Death Dealers, and the barbaric Lycans (werewolves). A young Lycan, Lucian (Michael Sheen), emerges as a powerful leader who rallies the werewolves to rise up against Viktor (Bill Nighy), the cruel vampire king who has persecuted them for hundreds of years. Lucian is joined by his secret lover, the beautiful vampire Sonja (Rhona Mitra), in his battle to free the Lycans from their brutal enslavement. Rated R.

Opening Friday, Jan. 30:
New In Town: Lucy Hill (Renée Zellweger) is an ambitious, up and coming executive living in Miami. She loves her shoes, she loves her cars and she loves climbing the corporate ladder. When she is offered a temporary assignment — in the middle of nowhere — to restructure a manufacturing plant, she jumps at the opportunity, knowing that a big promotion is close at hand. What begins as a straight forward job assignment becomes a life changing experience as Lucy discovers greater meaning in her life and most unexpectedly, the man of her dreams (Harry Connick, Jr.). Rated PG-13.

The Uninvited: In this suspense thriller, based on Kim Jee-woon's 2003 Korean horror film Changhwa, Hongryon, Anna (Emily Browning) returns home after spending time in a psychiatric facility following her mother's tragic death and discovers that her mother's former nurse, Rachel (Elizabeth Banks), has moved into their house and become engaged to her father (David Strathairn). Soon after she learns this shocking news, Anna is visited by her mother's ghost, who warns her that Rachel has evil intentions. Together, Anna and her sister (Arielle Kebbel) must convince their father that his new fiancée is not who she pretends to be, and what should have been a happy family reunion becomes a lethal battle of wits between stepdaughters and stepmothers. Directed by The Guard Brothers. Rated PG-13.

Opening Friday, Feb. 6:
He's Just Not That Into You: Based on the wildly popular bestseller from Sea and the City scribes Greg Behrendt and Liz Tuccillo, this movie tells the stories of a group of interconnected, Baltimore-based twenty- and thirtysomethings as they navigate their various relationships from the shallow end of the dating pool through the deep, murky waters of married life, trying to read the signs of the opposite sex, and hoping to be the exceptions to the "no-exceptions" rule.

The film boasts an all-star cast, including Ben Affleck, Jennifer Aniston, Drew Barrymore, Jennifer Connelly, Kevin Connolly, Bradley Cooper, Ginnifer Goodwin, Scarlett Johansson and Kris Kristofferson. This film is rated PG-13.

Dance Flick: This is a new comedy from the Wayans' brothers who brought you the hilarious Scary Movie franchise. Starring Damon Wayans Jr., Craig Wayans, Shoshana Bush, Essence Atkins, Affion Crockett. Written by Keenen Ivory Wayans, Shawn Wayans, Marlon Wayans, Craig Wayans and Damien Dante Wayans. Directed by Damien Dante Wayans. This film is not yet rated.

Tajana Raukar works on a large sculpture of horses at the northwest corner of Kellogg Park during the 2008 festival. Her company, Ice Dreams, is located in Plymouth.

ning Japanese team will return to create masterpieces on site. They have been known to use up to 90 blocks of ice in their sculptures.

"The Japanese carvers tend to be more of the traditional style. They tend to finish their ice carvings with really sharp chisels that create facets in the ice like a diamond," Watts said. "Americans use more power tools. It's faster, easier and quicker and you know Americans are always in a hurry."

Carving teams from local colleges and high schools also will vie for awards.

Competitions and demonstrations take place each day of the festival, allowing visitors to see the works of art take shape.

But the sculptures — numbering more than 100 — will also be on display throughout the night, cast in the warm glow of lights.

Watts said forecasted temperatures are perfect for the festival — cold enough to ensure that the ice sculptures will endure the weekend, yet not too chilling as to discourage crowds.

Spectators can stay warm by stuffing free Grabber hand and feet warmers into their mittens and socks, as well as taking refuge inside local shops and eateries.

And for the first time this year, a Soup Kitchen will be set up on Sunday to raise money for future festivals, with hot soups provided by Plymouth restaurant E.G. Nick's.

"The Ice Spectacular will be serving it, with proceeds going to the nonprofit to help keep the event alive going into next year," Watts said.

The festival kicks off on Friday, with the placement of carvings in Kellogg Park and around downtown at sponsoring merchants, and the opening of the "Grand Sponsor Displays" on Main Street. Carving competitions commence at 3 p.m. with the High School Individuals competitions. That evening the sculptures will be lighted for the first time.

On Saturday, between 11:30-1:30 Radio Disney will host a Sing-Along and give out prizes, and Plymouth Whalers will sign autographs.

On both Saturday and Sunday, a master woodcarving group will create and sell their wares, and St. Joseph Mercy Health System will offer free health information to visitors.

College and high school team and individual competitions take place all weekend, and include Henry Ford, Macomb, Oakland, Schoolcraft and Washtenaw community colleges; University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan University, Romulus High School and Oakland Tech-Southwest Campus.

And throughout, hundreds of thousands of pounds of ice, delivered in mammoth 330-pound blocks, will take shape under the craftsmanship of professional and amateur carvers:

"We have many people who watch the carving, go shop and get something to eat, then come back and see how it's progressed," Watts said. "It's one of the only art forms where you see something created right in front of you."
